Amid the tension of this European war we shall do well to heed this counsel. Those of us who incline toward a pacifist position should especially keep it in mind. Not only are we likely to be misunderstood and misconstrued but the value of our witness will often depend quite as much upon our attitudes as on our words. Pacifism means non-violence rather than non-resistance. There is nothing abject or supine or cringing about it. But it believes that, in the long run, the only effective resistance to evil is through ideas, persuasion, love, sacrifice, prayer. Therefore, in all the relationships of life, the pacifist will try to avoid violence, even in language, and will use as weapons clarity of thought, patience and invincible good will. He will draw a sharp line between properly organized police force under law and either private or public war.

"If thine enemy hunger, feed him," but also understand him! Be fair to him, talk things out with him objectively, graciously, courageously. Don't write irritating letters or say ill-natured things. Above all do not read others out of the Christian fold. The example and teachings of Jesus may seem to you and me clearly to inculcate, and even require, an attitude of non-violence, but there are many sincere and devout people who do not yet feel that way about it. Talk with them objectively and calmly, maintain your own witness with quiet dignity but avoid denunciatory words and tones. All of us have only a growing understanding of Christ, not a complete or final one. We all need greater sensitivity to the Holy Spirit and deeper responsiveness to the Inner Light.

Developments in China

From an Article by Arthur Burd McCormick

A friend who has recently returned from an extended sojurn in the Far East reports that as soon as the pact was signed between Germany and Russia, Japan began to show a decidedly friendly feeling toward Americans. Evidently she had counted on the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis for help against the one nation she most fears—Russia. With that prop gone, she must needs seek security by cultivating the good will of the United States.

Concerning conditions in that part of China now occupied by Japan, the Japanese seem jittery, as their hold is none to secure. Guerillas continually harrass all communication lines. The enemy controls simply the coast cities and a narrow strip on either side of the roads. The people are hostile toward the puppet government and maintain their staunch spirit of opposition to the Japanese army. The suffering in these occupied areas is very great and all the help we can give to the Church Fund for China Relief will be appreciated by the starving Chinese.

My friend flew far to the West, over into Free China, and saw things there which filled him with wonder and with hope. The 30,000,000 refugees from East China are united, aggressive and active. They are building up a new and greater China, with a spirit and a purpose that are good to see. They are determined to fight on to victory for the cause of freedom and democracy, and they will win in the end. They have built a great highway over the mountains to Burmah and 8,000 trucks are carrying produce to the outside world and bringing in the materials needed for the war.

The bravest tale my friend brought me was one to thrill the heart with hope. Because the Christian missionaries have stuck to their stations and have ministered to the needs of Chinese humanity and have furnished the leadership such crises demand, they have won the confidence of the Chinese, and the Church is growing rapidly. The refugees have scattered the gospel all over western China. New groups are being formed into churches. The youth trained in mission schools, colleges and universities are furnishing Christian leaders for the building of the new China. We have never had so great an opportunity for the evangelization of China as we have today. Let us rise up and build! From "The Presbyterian", May 16.

NO MEN, MONEY OR MATERIAL

The India National Congress has passed the following resolution: "The Congress considers the declaration by the British Government of India as a belligerent country, without any reference to the people of India, and the exploitation of India's resources in this war, as an affront to them, which no self-respecting and freedom-loving people can accept or tolerate. The recent pronouncements made on behalf of the British Government in regard to India demonstrate that Great Britain is carrying on the war fundamentally for imperialistic ends and for the preservation and strengthening of her Empire, which is based on the exploitation of the people of India, as well as of other Asiatic and African countries. Under these circumstances, it is clear that the Congress cannot in any way, directly or indirectly, be party to the war, which means continuance and perpetuation of this exploitation. The Congress therefore strongly disapproves of Indian troops being made to fight for Great Britain and of the drain from India of men and material for the purpose of war. Neither the recruiting nor the money raised in India can be considered to be voluntary contributions from India. Congressmen, and those under the Congress influence, cannot help in the prosecution of the war with men, money or material."

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Friends of Rev. W. S. Gottshall will be glad to hear about him in a letter by his daughter, found elsewhere in this paper, and to remember him on his 75th birthday, June 23rd next.

—Grace Church, Pandora Ohio.—June 2, at 2:30 p. m., a beautiful WEDDING took place in our church, uniting our choir directress, Miss Hilda Amstutz to Mr. George Thomas of the Westminister Choir.—In the evening of the same day, Rev. Harold Ratzlaff spoke at our church on Christian Missions. He and his wife are enroute to Kansas from Hartford, Connecticut. God willing, the couple hope to go to India soon.

—Altoona, Penna.—We wish to thank all the friends who remembered us on our birthdays. It has really brought real joy to our hearts to receive the birthday greetings and to know that we are being remembered in prayer. —Rev. and Mrs. E. Slotterback

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hanston, Kansas writes in part: We are surely glad to have Mabel, our daughter, just home from Bethel, with us again.—Next Sunday afternoon, June 9, we expect to have the Male Chorus from the First Church of Christian at Moundridge with us for a program of sacred music. Bro. P. P. Wedel comes with the group. They sing at Ransom in the forenoon.—We enjoyed the broadcast of the Song Festival Sunday afternoon. It came through very well and clearly.

—Recently the Reverends Emmanuel Troyer of Carlock, Ill. and Allen Yoder of Goshen, Ind. stopped off on the Bethel Campus to call on friends. They were enroute from southern Kansas to Aurora, Nebraska, and also hoped to look in on our Northern District Conference, in session at Henderson, Nebraska.

—Eighth Street Menn. Church, Goshen, Ind.—"Many people (The President included) feel that we should be preparing to defend democracy. We do well to preserve democracy in our own state! In a number of aspects we have no democracy! Liquor control is the most glaring example. Petitions are available asking the Republican and Democratic Parties to put local option into their platforms. You are defending democracy in this State if you sign them."

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—"War such as has never been waged before is on in Europe. The maimed, millions of innocent children, women and aged are enduring extreme suffering. The American Red Cross is now appealing for financial contributions and volunteers to make garments. As Christian citizens let us do our part.—Editor: Surely we should render this organization the help we can. But at the same time we should take note of the fact that our Mennonite Central Committee is also doing relief work in Europe and that our Gen. Conference Relief Board has pledged $200 for this cause. Let us give here, too, and all we can.

—Der Kindesbote, a children's paper which the General Conference Board of Publication published for more than fifty years, with Rev. C. H. van der Smissen as editor during most of that time, has now been revived. When the Junior Messenger took its place for the U. S. two years ago, it was the intention that the German paper should be continued for the churches in Canada. Arrangements were finally made with Rev. John G. Rempel of Rosthern, Sask, to serve as editor of the Kinderbote and the paper now appears again regularly as a bi-weekly as before. Those Sunday schools in the States which still preferred the Kinderbote to the Junior Messenger should take note of this. The former price, 40 cents per year for a single subscription, or 30 cents in clubs of 10 or more, maintains. The paper is interesting and instructive, with a wholesome moral tone, hence deserves wide distribution.

—Rev. J. J. Thiessen, Pastor of the Menn. Church at Saskatoon, Sask. was a welcome visitor on the Bethel Campus during the closing days of the school. Then Dr. H. A. Fast took him along to the Northern District Conference in session at Henderson, Nebr. The main purpose of his trip is to visit and serve the churches of the Northern Dist. in the interest of Home Missions, under the auspices of the Home Mission Board.

—Bethel College Summer School again has a large enrollment, close to 100. Many of the students are teachers in service who need work to meet State requirements or who have to teach subjects for which they need more adequate preparation. The session provides for three terms of three weeks each and closes August 1.

—Rev. Erland Waltner of the Second Church, Phila. has recently had conferred upon him the Master of Theology degree by the Baptist Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. It is a fine thing for a young minister to be striving onward and upward still, and we know Rev. Waltner as an earnest and very apt student.

—First Church, Reedley, Calif.—The Bulletin reports: "Our quota of $125.00 for the hopeless cases of immigrants in Canada has been met." Editor: That is a fine record. Would that all other churches in our Conference might take a similar interest in this needful cause and help lift the burden off the shoulders of the Canadian Board!

—A Christian Woman's Adornment: "When the Christian woman depends upon the Lord Jesus for her adornment, the Holy Spirit will guide her in the selection of the manner of wearing her hair, in the kind and amount of ornaments she wears, and in the apparel she puts on. All will be in keeping with the simplicity and beauty of the character of her Lord.—All will be in keeping with the sanctifying work of the Holy Spirit."

—Rev. Kenneth Wuest, in Moody Monthly

—The Kansas Mennonite Song Festival, with ideal weather to assist, drew about 4,000 people to the Kidron Bowl at Bethel College. The programs, both afternoon and evening, went off as scheduled and the singing by choirs and other groups was of a high order. The afternon program was radioed over KFBI, Wichita, and is reported to have been widely heard. A new feature was a concert by a large band composed of the College group and several neighboring bands, mostly high school, directed by Prof. David Suderman. This was much enjoyed, as was also the large chorus, singing time-honored chorals, with Prof. W. H. Hohmann as leader. It has been suggested that in the future the entire audience be let in on this part of the program.

—Rev. John Bartel, for five years pastor of the Bethel Church, Mt. Lake, Minn. has accepted the pastorate of the Mennonite Church at Delft, Minn. This is one of the two charges known under the name Bergfelder churches. The Bethel Church gave a farewell service in honor and appreciation of the work of the Bartel family. Dr. P. R. Schroeder has accepted the Bethel pastorate.

—REV. BERNHARD REGIER, VETERAN MINISTER OF THE FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, NEWTON, KANSAS, HAS GONE TO HIS HEAVENLY HOME. Brother Regier had been suffering for some time from cancer and his passing came as a relief. He reached the ripe old age of 85 years. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon, June 6, at the home and at the church.

Professor and Mrs. A. E.Kreider left their home at North Newton, Kans. for the East, where Rev. Kreider will serve on the faculty of the Eastern District Retreat, at University Boys' Camp, Green Lane, Pa., June 14-16 and 21-23.

—Emmaus Church, Whitewater, Kansas.—The pastor J. C. Kaufman reports, "We had a WEDDING June 6. John Berg, son of Jacob Berg, with Dorothy Richert of Tampa, Kans. The ceremony was performed in the church by the pastor.—May 12, we had baptismal services, eleven young people were baptized.—May 19, nine infants were consecrated, and May 26, we had communion with a large attendance.—Now we expect to leave for South Dakota, for a two weeks vacation, to see our children, relatives, friends.

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Jesus Christ."

VOLUME LV NORTH NEWTON, KANSAS, JUNE 18, 1940 NUMBER 25

Entered at the post-office at North Newton, Kansas as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing as special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized January 22, 1919

First for God

First days for God,
Before thy life is molded,
And God is given
Second place—or none.

Give Him thy time,
And see His plan unfolded,
Find in thy years
Eternity begun.

First hours for God;
Thy day will not be wasted
If thou dost tarry
In His presence 'til
Strength from His strength
Is found for every burden,
Thou art encircled
By His Holy will.

First thoughts for God,
Who giveth power for thinking;
Humble and contrite
Be thy will to learn.

He thought of thee
In living and in dying,
For thine affection
Does thy Saviour yearn.
So shalt thou seek
Him first, and be rewarded;
So shalt thou find
Himself thy great supply;
No day, nor hour,
Nor thought, without His blessing,
With Christ to live!
And so, with Him to die!

Relief in Emergency

In these tragic times calls for the relief of suffering of those who have "fallen among thieves" or, worse, among murderers, come to us from all directions. There are the calls of the Red Cross, charitable and religious organizations urging instant relief in the embattled areas of Europe and China. Much is being done in response, but not nearly enough by the people in this country whom God has so far graceously spared from war, destruction and want. And it seems as though our own Mennonite people and churches have become rather impassive to relief calls. They responded most nobly, beyond expectation, back in the early twenties, when relief was needed among our brethren in Russia. But should we, as Christians, feel less concerned and less responsive, when others are in distress. Jesus helped all who were in need. He treated them all alike. In China thirty million people have been driven from their homes and left stranded, starving, freezing, naked, aching, sick. In Europe hundreds of thousands are experiencing a similar fate. Our Emergency Relief Board has promised to furnish $200.00 a month as our share toward the relief work that the Mennonite Central Committee is endeavoring to do in Europe. That is a very modest sum. We should treble, yes, quintuple it each month, and we could do it, if we really wanted to. The editor carefully notes our giving in the financial reports of the treasurers of our conference boards. He noticed that in the last report for foreign missions that a brother alone gave $300.00 and six different churches $100.00 or more each. Well done! And God bless them! But is there any good reason why similar gifts might not be made, now and then, in times like these for "emergency" relief support? How they would help succor the stricken in China, in or near our mission field there, or when handed to our Relief treasurer for relief work in Europe! Jesus in censuring the Pharisees on one occasion said, "This you ought to have done, and not to leave the other undone." Does this not give us a valuable hint regarding relief work at this time? Some churches observe a program or budget of proportionate giving to all conference activities, while with a good many others the giving is onesided. Would that God might so move the hearts of all members of our General Conference Brotherhood that all would tithe! Would, also that a proper apportionment of the tithe dollar or the dollar laid on God's altar might be agreed upon by all churches! An adequate division for normal times might be on a basis like this: Foreign missions, 50 cents; home missions, 20 cents; and the rest of activities, publication, education, relief, peace the balance of 30 cents, to be divided in proportion to current needs. That, under conditions just proposed would, we believe, enable all boards to do their duties more adequately. Just now the Relief Board is also greatly in need of funds for doing our duty to help pay the debt of our indigent, sick or deceased immigrant brethren in Canada, to which our Conference pledged $26,000.00. So, let us remember the needs of our Emergency Relief work particularly at this time. All gifts should be sent to the respective treasurer: REV. P. H. UNRUH, GOESSEL, KANSAS. —T.

Is Hitler Apt to Attack the U. S. ?

In his recent message to Congress President Roosevelt created considerable war scare by making it appear that his huge arms program was necessitated because of possible attacks by a nation or nations now at war. His address was so effective that he felt constrained to undo its possible harm in his Fireside Chat of May 26. In connection with this stir "PEACE ACTION" in its May number takes the stand that, while it is hard to get rid of this war hysteria, cold reason should convince us that there is no cause for alarm of such an attack, as Colonel Lindbergh has bravely attempted to show and as General Hugh Johnson and other columnists have explained. Then the article ennumerates reasons why the President's and our fears lack support, thus: "In the first place (if Hitler should win the European war, which is not at all certain at this writing—Editor) we think Hitler will be too busy with his enemies and potential enemies in Europe to undertake a war against another continent. In the second place, if he is looking for enemies to conquer, the chances are that he will take on Russia. Hitler has proceeded methodically so far, and the Ukraine is more inviting to Germany than Brazil or the United States. In the third place, the chances are that he will not look for any more wars for a long while, because his next job will be the gigantic task that he has promised himself of reorganizing Europe. As for the British surrendering their fleet to Hitler for the conquest of the United States, there are two reasons why this does not make sense. The first is that the British are not such cowards and if faced with utter defeat, they are likely to base their navy and their merchant fleet on one of the Dominions rather than surrender it to the Germans. In the second place, they will not have much of a fleet left apparently when the war is over. Surface vessels are not what our Navy Department supposed. —T.

If Christian nations were nations of Christians there would be no wars. —Soame Jenyns

PRIMARY SCHOOL WORK AT BASNA

Basna, India, March 20, 1940

Today I finished giving Primary Bible Examinations. It took me five days to examine all of the 120 little Primary children in our local school. This is the time of our yearly examinations and next week we will have promotions. Still we continue with our work till the latter part of April. Here in India the school year closes in April when all the reports must be made and in the hands of the Government Inspector of schools. Our local teachers give all the examinations except the fourth standard. The Inspector does these. He is due here most any day. We have a fine class of 20 fourth graders here in our local school. Too many duties have kept me from teaching the Bible classes myself as in former years. Our second class teacher, one of our own local girls had charge of all the Bible classes and she has done very well.

The little beginners grew restless after the first hour, but to do a thorough job I kept right on. It was most interesting to note the different attitudes and the response in the various classes and ages. I started with the little tots and today finished with the fourth class. It is very difficult to say who gave the best answers. We have Bible memory work, stories and songs. The majority of the Indian children memorize readily, so they scored highest in that. To do original thinking is not so common. Would our little fourth class children at home have patience to memorize Ephesians 6 verses 10 to 20, Psalm 19, I Corinthians 13, The Apostles Creed, Ten Commandments, Names of the Books of the Old and New Testament, besides other verses and songs? (Many of our fourth graders are 12 to 14 years old.)

Of course they do not understand all these passages. Neither did I when I had to learn them in Catechism class, but how I do value them now! My great fault was that I did not memorize the chapter and verse, that we stress very much here. We as Mennonites do not stress rituals. Here in India the Apostles Creed is repeated at every Sunday Service (Morning). So it is essential the children memorize it. At the little Junior Church Service the Ten Commandments are repeated every Sunday. So they too must be learned. Our little Hindu children sit and learn with the rest. Thus far we have had no objections from any of the parents. Would that through this means they might accept Him too as their Lord and Savior!

Your Coworker with Him, Hilda R. Dester.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

THE CHRISTIAN TEACHER IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOL

John S. Congdon, Freeman College

A few years ago I was interviewing the superintendent of a small public school system concerning a position in the local high school. Besides the usual questions about education, experience, and professional fitness, I was asked, "Do you play cards?", "Do you dance?" and others of a similar nature.

This incident is illustrative of one phase of the problem which a Christian teacher faces in the public schools. The other phase might be called the professional, or "in-school" aspect of the situation.

The "social" problem confronts the prospective teacher, because he realizes that the social personality is usually the more acceptable. After he has obtained a position, there is the question of teachers' bridge clubs, of chaperoning school dances, and of theater invitations.

The situation from the professional standpoint is this: Our colleges and normal schools have long been saturated with evolutionary teaching in every field of study. The majority of all textbooks are written from the evolutionary viewpoint, not excepting even the primers the first grade children read. For many years have cave-man and tree-dweller stories been given to our children to read, with the assurance that back in the dawn of history such folk were found along the pathway of man's upward rise.

A possible remedy for the textbook situation would be to obtain texts written from the Christian viewpoint. Who would write acceptable books that would be adopted in the schools? And if they were adopted, would not non-Christian teachers destroy most of the good done.

A better solution would be to hire teachers, Christian in heart, and capable of giving reason and proof of their faith, of rightly interpreting life, history, and science to their students. Our Christian colleges have as their duty and privilege the educating of young people into a true sense of values, that they may lead our children to the truth.

—The average S. S. attendance for the first five months this year is 241, 13% better than last year. At our Bible Study hour the subject "Should God's People Partake in War?" is being discussed. We need to guard against the war hysteria which is sweeping the world. Christians should have faith for the Lord is our protector. —Church Messenger.

PUBLICATION

On Monday, June 10, a committee composed of the brethren Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, president of the General Conference, Rev. J. N. Smucker, Rev. J. M. Suderman, Professor Walter H. Hohmann and the undersigned met to discuss and decide on a name for the new hymn book which is now in the process of manufacture by the Methodist Book Concern, New York. Four members of the Board of Publication had previously expressed their preference for MENNONITE HYMNAL. The members of the committee expressed the same preference. But since another Mennonite body has a hymn book with that name, and since Hymnal is used so much, the word Hymnary was substituted. So the committee unanimously agreed the name should be MENNONITE HYMNARY. This name will not suit everybody, but what name would? Hymnal and Hymnary mean the same thing, "a collection of hymns," only its derivation from the Latin Hymnarium lends the word Hymary a bit more dignity.

That the making of this hymn book is in good and reliable hands is further evidenced by the following note from the superintendent of the Methodist Book Concern in New York, dated June 7:

Dear Dr. Thierstein:

I thank you for your letter of May 3 and for the information contained therein. We are very happy that you have awarded this job to us. You can rest assured that your interest will be protected just as though it was our own job. I am sure that you will find that your confidence has not been misplaced. We have made arrangements for compositors to come to work on your music the day after your copy is received. I know that you have gone at this work of getting together your new hymn book with a great deal of prayer and sincerity, and you can rest assured the same attitude will be followed out in the manufacture of your book.

Cordially yours, S. D. Brown, Supt.

* * * * *

MAY WE MAKE ONE MORE APPEAL TO THOSE CONGREGATIONS THAT HAVE NOT YET MADE THEIR ANNUAL CONTRIBUTION FOR THE WORK OF PUBLICATION OR FOR THE HMYN BOOK, TO DO THEIR SHARE NOW IN HELPING OUR BOARD FINANCE THIS BOOK?

* * * *

Would our people and churches favor getting the hymn book bound in two colors, say dark blue and maroon, one for church use, the other for the home to keep better control of the books? Let us hear from many. J. R. Thierstein

My Visit in the Eastern District

Already ten years ago I had a longing to get more acquainted with the Eastern District of our General Conference. During the former furlough a visit to that District was not possible, because of the studies I carried on at that time. This March the opportunity came. The West Swamp church through Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander invited me for a weeks special services; and in connection with that Rev. Nyce, member of our Mission Board, worked out a travel program for me so that I could visit every church at least once.

In most churches I showed the lantern slides about our mission work in India. Without exception the audiences were appreciative, which came out time and again in the many questions asked during the presentation of the pictures. During the week day evenings audiences were not so large, but those who were there were in the main those church members who are warmly interested in taking part in church duties even on the foreign field. Of course, there are always some who are prevented from coming to such meetings by sickness, or night duties in factories.

My impression during this one month's visit in the Eastern District is that there is a large number of the church membership in that conference who understand that our General Conference has shouldered responsibility to bring the good news of Christ to over three million souls in India, China, and among our American Indians; and that they want to help along in sympathetically trying to understand mission problems; and in intercession; and in encouraging the workers; and in giving material aid. The Lord God loves the cheerful helper and giver; and I am sure in the Eastern District we have many such cheerful brothers and sisters, and boys and girls (Mission interest among the children is very encouraging indeed).

One more point I must mention, and that is the fraternal atmosphere among the ministers of the Eastern District which is most laudible. Not that they would find no points of disagreement; but they look for points of agreement; and the grace of God is with them so that they find an abundance of such points.

Here is a list of the churches I visited: Altoona, Smith Corner, Roaring Springs, Napier, Mechanics Grove, 1st Philadelphia, 2nd Philadelphia, West Swamp. (One week series of sermons), Souderten, Perkasie, Lansdale, Deep Run, Bally, Springfield, Saucon, Bethany, East Swamp, Flatland, Zionsville, Allentown, Schwenksville, Germantown, Bowmansville, and Richfield.

And now again to one and all the good friends in the Eastern District Conference, farewell, and God bless you all. John Thiessen

Spiritual Unity of God's People

It is true that the present insistence upon organic union of denominations by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America has brought some results in the way of union of some of the larger denominations of similar teaching and organization, but that the process has reduced the number of Protestant denominations is not granted. Sometimes the union of two or more denominations fails to reduce the number, because usually a part of one or two denominations continue their separate course; besides if this does not happen, there are yet constantly new denominations springing into existence, so that there are perhaps more denominations rather than less. There is no likelihood of denominational organic unity ever being achieved; besides, if it were possible, it would not long remain so.

Much is being said about the benefits that would accrue from organizational unity. We are told that the great handicap of Protestantism today is its failure to present a solidarity or unity to the world, and because of the divided state of Protestantism people are offended and stumble in acceptance of salvation. But at best that is only a theory. It is true that when the claims of Christ are presented some unsaved people do present such an excuse. But we use the word excuse with ample consideration and aptness, if they did not happen upon that excuse, they would find another. If there were but one church, people would plead for liberty of thought and insist that the one church is corrupt. The sinner always has his excuses. However there would be a greater likelihood of corruptness with one church than any real hindrance to the progress of the kingdom by a division into many denominations. Furthermore organic unity would be conducive to human leadership rather than the leadership of the Spirit.

The true unity of God's people does not consist in organization, but rather upon a spiritual oneness based upon sonship to God, the spiritual element of a divine nature. For God's people are living temples of the Holy Ghost and God moves in and among them. There is among true Christian people a spiritual fellowship, a sense of oneness in the Holy Spirit. "For," says Paul, "ye are the temples of the living God; as God has said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people." In this divine presence is the true unity of God's people; they are his spiritual kingdom, his spiritual church—the true church. Certainly this does not replace the organized church, established after Pentecost by the Holy Ghost, but the true church or kingdom exists in and among the organized churches. The seal of God is upon it, for God knoweth his own.

Every one in this spiritual church is saved, and this cannot be said of any organized church. There is no way of entrance into the spiritual kingdom or church except through salvation; and just as certainly a failure to abide in salvation is the way out. They that are Christ's have the spirit of Christ. There is a sincere and honest walk in the light of God's truth. For, "If we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his son cleanseth us from all sin." This fellowship is under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, for in this true church or kingdom the Holy Spirit is the guide and leader. Human leadership is subdued by the leadership of the Holy Spirit.

True unity consists in the spiritual kingdom over which Christ reigns. We think there is no teaching in the Scriptures that is plainer than this. When people are not willing to walk in that spirit they must of course insist upon unity of organization or else that some one organized church is the true church and in it only is the way of salvation. Other than this there is no alternative. The first class insist upon the union of all organized churches while the other is exemplified in the Roman Catholic Church. But just a little careful thinking will convince one that neither idea measures up to the statement of the Scriptures. Membership in an organized church does not save one—not even the Roman Catholic, for that denomination has two cemeteries, one on consecrated soil and the other outside, for those who have not been faithful.

We have not, however, the slightest intention of attempting to disparage the organized church, for a church organization has its place and its value. In it the Christian receives nurture, care, protection, help, and guidance. He has the fellowship of those of like faith and the advantage of regular instruction. The organized church is instrumental in leading the unsaved to Christ and establishing them in faith and the Christian life. This is true of all truly Christian organized churches. We have need of the church and should with a wholehearted affection support it and show ourselves loyal to its teaching. Yet, however important the organized church may be, it is never identical with the true spiritual church. The true spiritual church or kingdom is in and among all true Christian organized churches, but the kingdom may also extend beyond all organized churches—this is of course the case in rather exceptional cases. True unity of the people of God lies in the spiritual kingdom.

SOME OF CHRIST'S LAST WARNINGS
THE GOSPEL MUST GO ON

By John T. Neufeld, Menn. Bible Mission, Chicago

Introduction

We send James for an urgent mission. On the way he happens to come across the scene of an accident. He stops to investigate. Soon some other boys are around. After the accident is cleared away some of the boys start to play marbles. James does not join, because he has to go so soon. Soon, however, the game becomes so interesting that he is drawn into it, at least just for a few shots. And so on, and his errand is left waiting. Jesus sensed some such a situation when he left his great mission in the hands of His disciples; and so he gave them certain warnings.

Be Not Led Astray by False Christs

1. Before the destruction of Jerusalem

Matt. 24:4-5. And Jesus answered and said: "Take heed that no man lead you astray. For many shall come in my name, saying, I am the Christ; and shall lead many astray."

Mark 13:5-6, same as in Matthew.Luke 21:8. "Take heed that ye be not led astray: for many shall come in my name, saying, I am he; and the time is at hand: go ye not after them."

2. Before His coming

Matt. 24:23-26. Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there, believe it not. For there shall arise false Christs and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders; so as to lead astray, if possible even the elect.

Behold I have told you beforehand. If therefore they shall say unto you, Behold he is in the wilderness; go not forth: Behold he is in the inner chamber; believe it not. For as the lightning cometh forth from the East, and is seen even unto the West; so shall be the coming of the Son of man.

Mark 13:12-22 similar but a little shorter.

Be Not Led Astray by Wars and Rumors of Wars

Matt. 24:6. And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for these things must needs come to pass; but the end is not yet. For Nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom' and there shall be famines and earthquakes in divers places. Mark 13:7. And when ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars, be not troubled these things must needs come to pass; but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom: there shall be earthquakes in divers places; there shall be famines.

Be Not Anxious Concerning Trials

Mark 13:11. And when they lead you to judgement, and deliver you up, be not anxious beforehand what ye shall speak: but whatsoever shall be given you in that hour, that speak ye: for it is not ye that speak but the Holy Ghost. Luke 21:14-17. Settle it therefore in your hearts not to meditate beforehand how to answer: for I will give you a mouth and wisdom, which all your adversaries shall not be able to withstand or to gainsay. But ye shall be delivered up even by parents, and brethren, and kinsfolk, and friends; and some of you shall they cause to be put to death. And ye shall be hated of all men for my name sake.

Be Not Speculative Concerning Times and Seasons

Acts 1:6-7. They therefore, when they were come together, asked him saying, Lord, dost thou at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?

And he said unto them, It is not for you to know times or seasons, which the Father hath set within his own authority.

Endure

Matt. 24:13. But he that endureth to the end the same shall be saved. Mark 13:13. And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but he that endureth to the end, the same shall be saved.

The Gospel Must Go On

Matt. 24:14. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in the whole world for a testimony unto all the nations; and then shall the end come. Mark 13:10. And the gospel must first be preached unto all the nations.

Watch

Matt. 24:42. Watch therefore for ye know not on what day your Lord cometh. Mark 13:33-37. Take ye heed, watch and pray: for ye know not when the time is. It is as when a man, sojourning in another country, having left his house, and given authority to his servants, to each one his work, and commanded also the porter to watch. Watch therefore for ye know not when the Lord of the house cometh, whether at even or at midnight, or at cock-crowing, or in the morning; lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping.

And what I say unto you I say unto all, Watch. Luke 21:34-36. But take heed of yourselves, lest haply your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and that day come on you suddenly as a snare: for so shall it come upon all of them that dwell on the face of all the earth.

But watch ye at every season, making supplication that ye may prevail to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man.

Be My Witnesses

Luke 24:45-49. Then opened he their mind that they might understand the scriptures: and he said unto them, thus it is written that the Christ should suffer, and rise again from the dead the third day; and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name unto all nations, beginning from Jerusalem. Ye are witnesses of these things. Acts 1:8. But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

Jonah: the Outreach of God's Love

Jonah 3:1-10; 4:10, 11 Read chap. 4

Introduction

Jonah, a prophet of North Israel, prophesied in the days of Jereboam, II, 790 to 750 B. C. He did not rank high as compared with the other prophets. The Book of Jonah is outstanding among the Old Testament books in teaching the wideness of God's grace. Jonah had the political welfare of Israel at heart. He had the narrow spirit of nationalism which was held by the people of Israel.

Jonah, God's Messenger to Nineveh vs 1-4

God had asked Jonah to go to Nineveh (1:2), but he took ship to flee to Tarshish, rather than be God's messenger to this wicked and much-hated city. Nineveh was the capital of Assyria, a nation bitterly hated and greatly feared by both Israel and Judah. Jonah would gladly have seen the city destroyed, hence he went away from Nineveh, disobeying God's call.

Now God calls him a second time and to the same mission. God does not always give us a second chance when we refuse the first. Jonah was to deliver God's message of warning to Nineveh (v2). The God-sent minister, messenger is to bring God's message to the people. The Hebrew word translated "preach" means literally "to cry out" with intense earnestness. Jonah responded to the second call without delay. The secret of a happy and useful life is in doing at once what God bids us to do. Jonah did not spend any time sight-seeing and making arrangements with "key people" for meetings to discuss things. He did not advance arguments to persuade and convince the people of the authority of his message from God. He delivered the message (v4), a message of warning given in mercy and with time for repentance. All God's sternest warnings are so given.

Nineveh Believes, Repents vs 5-10

The people believed God—the first step in repentance. Jonah seemingly had not expected this response. His view was too narrow. They humbled themselves (v5) before God. The king himself, mighty in power, heard the message, believed in great humility (vs6-8). Three elements of repentance are seen in the royal decree: humiliation of self, intensely earnest prayer and turning away from the evil way of sin. With repentance there must be a merciless dealing with sin. The people hoped that God would accept their repentance, forgive them and not visit the threatened punishment upon them. God did see their works (v10) and accept their repentance. He was convinced of their sincerity.

Jonah was exceedingly displeased when the city was not destroyed. His selfish spirit prevented him from understanding God's love and mercy. Jonah grieved over the loss of the gourd which gave to him protecting shade, but he had no concern for the welfare of the people of the large city. He stands for the narrow view which cares naught for the welfare of others. God led Jonah to see that He cares for all people. The chief teaching of the Book of Jonah is that God is interested in people everywhere. The outreach of His love is revealed in sending His Son to be the Saviour of all who believe in Him.

Our regard for the welfare of all peoples and nations should be as wide reaching as God's. All people are His creatures with needs and longings very much the same. Christians can not hold the spirit of ill-will toward others and disregard their welfare and still be children of God.

THE SCRIPTURES

"What is truth?" A question of the ages. When Pilate asked it, the Truth answered and replied: "Every one that is of the truth heareth My voice." Pilate shrugged his shoulders in disbelief. Children of God hearing and believing Christ's voice are positively certain that their faith does not rest upon "cunningly devised fables" but upon the truth. Others may insist upon visions and dreams as being necessary to substantiate the "truth." Not so the Christian. He has the "more sure Word," written by inspiration of God. He has the Scriptures, the Word of God. It is the final criterion of truth, the infallible rule of faith. It is the only light that has no shadow. Here alone man finds a true picture of God in the face of Jesus Christ. Here alone is a true picture of man as sinner and saint. What a glorious treasure!

Amid the uncertainties of life, the changing opinions of men concerning truth, the child of God stands firmly rooted in the Bible. It is his daily companion. He reads and ponders its words and treasures them in a trusting heart. Here he hears his Father's voice and feels the love beats of His heart. The gracious power of that voice, the Gospel, made him a child of God, and it alone keeps him in this blessed estate. Daily he quenches the thirst of his soul with this Water of Life, not drawn from cisterns dug by men. Here in sad days the Father sets a rainbow of hope in the tears of his eyes. It assures him of a Father's forgiveness and the peace which passes all understandnig.

Today and tomorrow, in life and in death, in childhood and old age, it is the Book of Truth, the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth. It never changes. Are we using it daily?

SERMON SKETCH

PROVING THE SPIRITS

1 John 4:1-21

By P. P. Tschetter, Pretty Prairie, Kansas

A counterfeiter makes his counterfeit money as near the true coin as he possibly can. The devil himself comes as an angel of light. False prophets come in sheeps clothing. Our Lord forewarns us to beware of them. They come to destroy, John admonishes us to prove the spirits.

In the above passage we have three earmarks by which we are to prove them. They are confession, hearing, loving.

1. Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is of God. The opinions of Jesus, among those who are not his own, are many. There is a division among them because of him, John 7:43. His own are agreed that He is Christ, the Son of the living God, Matth. 16:16; 1 John 5:1. This knowledge comes by revelation from the Father, Matth. 16:17. It is eternal life, John 17:3. It means spiritual understanding, 1 John 5:20. The Word, which is God, became flesh, John 1:14. Or as the Apostle Paul puts it, God was manifest in the flesh. 1 Tim. 3:16. Isaiah 7:14 told us this fact prophetically. The angel told it to the virgin Mary as an explanation, Luke 1:35. And Matthew reports it to us historically Matthew 18:25.

It means that The Eternal One laid aside His glory that He had with the Father, was born as a human being by supernatural conception; increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man; was tempted in all points as we are, yet without sin; died for us on the accursed tree; took that same body in which He bore our sins on the tree, incorruptibly out of the grave; appeared unto His own; spoke to them about the mystery of the events that had just transpired; gave them the great commission; and again, in that same body, He ascended visibly into heaven. There, with that same body in resurrection power, He sat down at the right hand of the Father. There, as the God-man, He was glorified by the Father with the glory that He had with the Father before the foundation of the world. And there He "ever liveth" to make intercession for us until He will come again. The Apostle John saw Him in his glory in the Patmos vision.

2. Heareth us—the Apostles, 1 John 4:6. What did the Apostles teach? Did they tell us of the social injustice that is in this world? Did they offer plans and suggestions how these conditions could be improved? Or does this program belong to them who are of this world and speak of this world? 1 John 4:5. Is the following a synopsis of their doctrine? The world lieth in the wicked one. It runs its anti-Christian course. It has its prince. It and its prince are doomed. The Christian is one whom the Father has delivered from the power of darkness and translated into the kingdom of His dear Son, Col. 1:13. Therefore he is hated by the world in which he is a stranger and a pilgrim. He lives amidst a crooked and perverse generation where he is to shew forth the praises of the One who hath called him out of darkness into His marvelous light. He is sent, like his Lord and Saviour was sent, to seek and to save that which is lost.

When the fulness of the gentiles will have come in, the Lord will take His church out of this world. Then the man of sin will be revealed, run his course with the false prophet, and both will be cast into the lake of fire. Thereafter the Lord will establish a new order where righteousness and peace will kiss each other. And finally the prince of this world, at his last revolt, will be cast into the lake of fire, and all things will be made new.

3. Love 1 John 4:7-10. This is what we all cherish. We all know what it is to love, but none can define it properly. It may center in self. That reveals the ravenous wolf. It may center in the world. That reveals the one who speaks of the world. It may center in the Lord Jesus. That reveals the one who gives our Lord the preeminence in all things.

The first one will seek honor, social prestige, financial gain, selfexaltation. The second one has a spirit of selfsacrifice. He has an eye to see the evils that undermine society. He will concentrate on social service, world-improvement. His methods will be worldly. The third one sees the lost condition of all who are not in Christ Jesus our Lord. He will resort to prayer. He will seek the lost to bring them to Jesus. With him the Lord Jesus is the only hope. He is determined not to know anything save Jesus Christ and Him crucified. He keeps His commandments and does that which is pleasing in His sight. His is a faith that worketh by love because the constraining love of God is shed abroad in his heart.

In conclusion, whether it be confessing, hearing, or loving it centers in and around Jesus, our Lord and Saviour, by him who is a true spirit. And whether it be cofessing, hearing, or loving it does not center in and around Jesus, our Lord and Saviour, by him who is a false spirit.

"PROPAGANDA

WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO PROPAGANDA FOR WAR"

This is a 40-page pamphlet prepared by Dr. E. L. Harshbarger, Professor of History at Bethel College, and recently published by the Peace Committee of the General Conference. It is one of a series of Peace pamphlets featured by our Peace Committee. The following are the chapter headings:

I. Why do we hear so much about propaganda today?

II. What do we mean by propaganda?

III. Is propaganda bad?

IV. What are the basic urges of man to which the propagandist appeals?

V. What are the purposes of national propaganda in times of crisis and war?

VI. What general principles are followed to achieve the preceding purposes?

VII. What are the specific devices or methods of the propagandist?

VIII. What are the agencies through which the propagandist reaches the people?

IX. How can one detrmine the nature and extent of any particular propaganda?

X. How shall we prevent ourselves from falling victims to wartime propaganda?

APPENDIX: 1. How shall we read newspapers intelligently. — 2. Judging a News Story? — 3. Supplementing News Reports.

This booklet is so valuable, so interesting and full of pertinent facts that in these days when the world is full of war propaganda it should be universally read, both for the information and the timely warning it contains. For us Mennonites it is a duty to read it.

The pamphlet sells for only 10 cents. Send orders to: MENNONITE BOOK CONCERN, BERNE, INDIANA.

—The Brethren P. H. Richert, J. J. Ratzlaff, P. H. Unruh, Gerhard Friesen, John H. Epp and B. H. Janzen, all of near Newton, Kansas, have gone to North Dakota to look over a land complex in the Red River Valley of that state with the possible view of the establishment of a Mennonite settlement there. Much of this land is owned by large corporations whom a state law forces to sell the land to some nine hundred persons or families for private ownership by January 1942.

Western District Y. P. Notes

CORRECTION: At the coming retreat Prof. Bernhard Bargen will have charge of the Boys' Problems class and Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz, McPherson, Kansas, will be instructor of the girls' class.

F. O. R. BANQUET, June 19th. A special F. O. R. banquet will be held in Newton on June 19th in connection with Fellowship Day at the Institute. Don Smucker, formerly executive secretary of the Kansas Institute of International Relations and now Youth Secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, and Muriel Lester, a renowned pacifist writer and lecturer, will be the speakers. All F. O. R. members and all other pacifists who are not members are invited to attend. All C. E. societies have received an invitation. The young people of the Western District should by no means miss this opportunity to be strengthened in their Pacifist stand.

THE C. E. CONVENTION DATE has been changed from July 28th to August 18th. It will be held at Bethel. The committee is trying to secure Rev. Albert Gaeddert as speaker for the evening. "Alternative Service" will very likely be used as the main theme.

ORATION RESULTS: At the Y. P. Oratorical Contest held in connection with the annual Music Festival, John Juhnke, younger brother of William Juhnke took first in the mission section of the contest with the oration, "Oil for Mission." The winning peace oration, "A New Discovery: Men Wanted," was given by Carl Stucky from Moundridge. Both boys are members of the Hopefield C. E. Such work deepens our understanding and strengthens our aspirations. All the Y. P. societies should participate in it. Both of these boys get free tickets to the Retreat. That's something to work for in addition to the main purpose of the contest.

LAST-MINUTE CHANCE: In order to be eligible for the free retreat which goes to the C. E. sending in the largest per member contribution, your society must send in its contribution before June 20th. All contributions should be sent to Florene Krehbiel. Her summer address is, 1018 North Elm, Hutchinson, Kansas. Our district projects are: 1. Return of missionaries to foreign fields, 2. Swift Current Bible Dormitory project (each C. E. to contribute a minimum of $2.00), 3. Student help for Ernest Harder, 4. Three-cent per member contribution for installation of follow-up system, 5. Retreat at Elmdale, July 23-28, 6. Mission and Peace Oratory contest. Ear-marked receipts will count as well as other receipts. When sending in contributions make mention of the C. E. which is to receive credit. REV. P. H. UNRUH, GOESSEL, KANSAS, —T.

Into the Regions Beyond

By Andrew Shelly

Jesus ministered to the neglected. An example is the incident recorded in John 5. In verses six and seven we have the following words: "When Jesus saw him . . . he saith unto him, wilt thou be made whole?" The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming another steppeth down before me." We don't know much about this man. We don't know much about his daily life; nor do we know his racial classification. But we do know that the crowd passed him by: "sir, I have no man," was his answer.

Many people must have seen the condition of this man and as the Levite and Priest "passed by on the other side." But when Jesus saw him He saw an opportunity of service and asked him that startling question, "wilt thou be made whole?" Then we have the pathetic reply of utter despair. That man was hopelessly helpless.

This impotent man is typical of a host in America who answer with him, "Sir, I have no man." Yes, in Christian America we have literally millions who are living totally outside of the influence of the gospel of Jesus Christ and its transforming power. Some of these are so living because of their choice while others must answer with the impotent man "Sir, I have no man."

In America—Christian America—it is estimated that there are 36,000,000 children and young people who are growing up without religious training of any kind. They have never experienced the power of the gospel! Jesus stands out as a mere great leader of history. The revitalizing power of His love is lacking. How the heart of the Master must burn with compassion as He would again turn our attention to the words of the text, "Lift up your eyes . . . look on the fields . . . they are white already to harvest." Although the grain in this portion of the Lord's great harvest field is harder to get, it must be gleaned.

One fact finding group has said that there are 10,000 communities in America with no church. The same group has said that there are 30,000 more communities without a resident minister. In spite of these facts we are closing churches at the rate of 1,000 a year. To be sure, many of these should be closed for they are located in clusters of small struggling churches where one or two can do much more effective work. But, many others are closed for the sheer lack of funds and workers—churches which are located in needy communities where souls which Christ considers precious are groping for the satisfying portion of life.

What kind of men are we going to send to areas of this kind? Are we going to send our weakest workers to these important fields? The attitude of many Christians is typified by the bishop of a certain large denomination. It so happens that he disagreed with the theological views of a young Minister. He therefore threatened him with these words, "If you don't get rid of your foolish notions I will send you out to the sticks where no one will ever hear of you again." Too often we have been thinking of those places where financial returns are small as mere stepping stones "for something better." But the clarion call of the Master rings clear, "Follow me, ...Be my witnesses . . . Go ye into all the world." The corners of the great harvest field are precious in His sight. The words of our hymn come to us—

To the hardest of places he bids me to go;
Not thinking of comfort or ease.
The world may pronounce me a dreamer, a fool
Enough if the Master I please.

Many examples could be given of the remarkable successes of well-trained, spiritually-minded workers who have gone into hard places of this kind. Among the Mennonites we might mention the remarkable work that was—and is—done among the Indians and other posts from coast to coast. Another example is that of the Rev. Hiram Frakes who went to Bell and Harlan counties, Kentucky, in 1925. In this community, according to Judge Gilbert, "people were lawing against each other, crime was rampant, Sundays were not observed and schools and churches hardly existed." Through patient, consecrated efforts this community has been transformed into one where Christ is known and honored. In summarizing this remarkable work and looking to other needy fields Bishop Smith said, "Marvelous possibilities of heart and mind are lost and waste for want of help which we can give." Senior C. E. Topic for July 7

Lessons for Today from the Early Church

Main Topic: Spiritual Power for Today Acts 2:1-14

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "My faith looks up to Thee," "Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah," "Holy Spirit, faithful guide," "Far away in the depths of my spirit tonight."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Special music.
4. Offering for missions, while a missionary hymn is sung.

II. Leader's Introduction

Power from on high came into the lives of the disciples when they were obedient to their Lord and Master and stayed as he asked them in Jerusalem. It came when they waited for what the Father promised, when they prayed, when they were of one mind.

Power from on high today likewise comes into the lives of those who do these things, who are prepared by the exercise of patience, of diligence in prayer, by self-surrender to God's will. To such God grants the power of the Holy Spirit that they may translate their devotion into deeds, as Peter did on Pentecost.

Christians of our own day who by word and deed speak a language that men can understand have the "gift of tongues" and become channels of God's power.

III. Suggested Topics for short Talks

1. Power in the early church. Acts 5:12-16
2. Promise of the Spirit John 16:7-13
3. Presence of Christ Always Matt. 28:18-20
4. Prayer, a medium of power Mk. 11:24; John 14:13, 14
5. Pattern of the Macedonians 2 Cor. 8:1-6

IV. For Discussion

1. What are the fruits of the Spirit, acc. to Paul?
2. What must we do to obtain the gift of the Holy Spirit? Is there a need for it?
3. What evidence is there that the Holy Spirit is at work in the church of today?

V. Facts for Study

What associations have we which we have gathered around the word "spirit?" We speak of some one as having no spirit; we say that some one sang with spirit; we report that our friends entered into the spirit of the thing: What do we mean by such expressions?

Clearly it is something that cannot be measured by our usual measures. It is clearly a power for which there is no substitute; and it is that very power which makes all the difference between the achievements of men. If a thing is "spiritless" it fails.

The Bible speaks of the Spirit of the Lord coming upon one and another of its characters so that they were enabled to carry out God's purpose for them. What they could not do alone, they could do when God gave them His Spirit. The prophet Joel speaks of God as declaring, "It shall come to pass afterward, I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh." "Ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you," Jesus promised, and the promise was fulfilled.

VI. Illustrations.

1. My Favorite Missionary Text.—It is this: "So they, being sent forth by the Holy Spirit, went down to Seleucia; and from thence they sailed to Cyprus." It is my favorite for these, among other, reasons: 1. It is the precise moment at which the foreign missionary enterprise actually began. The fact that we are Christians ourselves dates back to that obedience of those men in that little ship. 2.It shows the young Church—itself in a heathen city sorrounded by foes—sending as its foreign missionaries its absolute best. 3. It is an apparently tiny act which, in simple fact, when looked at down the prespective of the centuries, is seen to have changed the history of the world. 4. It gets back to the ultimate and eternal power of missions—the Holy Spirit of God urgent in man and backed by the Church.—Basil Matthews.

VII. Food for Thought.

"I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter. He shall teach you all things."

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Making Others Happy

July 7, 1940.

(Planned Project for Children, Aged, Invalids, or the poor.)

For Daily Reading:

July 1. Job's kindness. Job 29: 11-17.
July 2. Hezekiah's passover celebration. 2 Chron. 30:21-27.
July 3. The joy of the Lord. Neh. 8:1-1, 9-12.
July 4. Love for the stranger. Lev. 19:34-36.
July 5. Christ's choice for a dinner. Luke 14:12-14.
July 6. Joy in Heaven. Luke 15:3-10.
July 7. Topic. Luke 10:25-37; Jas. 2:14-17.

Opening Challenge by Leader:

"The best of our lives. Jesus said, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." And so, in giving His life upon Calvary, Jesus gave us the very best He had to offer.

In giving Jesus to the world God gave His best, for it was His only Son and He knew the suffering that would come to Christ while on earth.

It isn't fair to Jesus to use the strength of our youth for worldly pleasures and frivolities, and then, when our energies are used up, come to Jesus with nothing but an outworn life to offer Him. It is the young who can do the most work. Older people are so weary with care that they do not feel like doing extra work. Then, too, it is the young who have fresh ideas, which are in keeping with the times. Most people do not read and keep up with the latest methods of church work, and so they know only that which they learned when they were young. If we are to give of our best to the Master, we must work while we are young and strong and unburdened with the cares of life."

Song: "Give of the Best to Your Master"
Scripture Reading: Luke 10:25-37; Jas. 2:14-17
Prayer by Members
Have these references read:

Neh. 8:1-3, 9-12; Lev. 19:34-36; Luke 14:12-14; Luke 15:3-10.

Discussion:

If you had a Red Cross or Social Service Worker speak to you last week, you are most likely aware of specific needs in your community. We would suggest that you have your pastor speak to you this week and bring to you needs that he has observed in your community. Naturally there will be many things you would like to do, but you must decide which is the most needy and which you will be able to serve best of all. We offer some suggestions here and think it advisable that you assign these to members at least a week before the meetings and ask them to investigate whether your society might do any work along these lines.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

Program Plans for July 1940.

Places Christ Visited While on Earth

July 7. Capernaum — His own city.
July 14. Samaria — The city "He must needs go through."
July 21. Bethany — The place of friendship.
July 28. Jerusalem —The city Jesus loved.

Song of the month — "More About Jesus Would I Know."

Verse of the month — Hebrews 13:13-14 "Let us go forth therefore unto Him without the camp, bearing His reproach. For here we have no continuing city, but we seek one to come."

Prayer of the month — 1.Chronicles 29:11-13.

"Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is Thine; Thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and Thou art exalted as head above all. Now threfore, our God, we thank Thee, and praise Thy glorious name."

To the leader — Vacation days have come again. Many of our Juniors will be studying travel routes, they are now "place conscious." May we use this mind set to develop Christian attitudes and ideals through the study of several of the places visited by Jesus while on earth, using the events that occured there as a basis of our study. Make this month's work as concrete as possible by the use of pictures, maps and sand-boxes. You will find it very helpful to read about the places to be studied in some good Bible geography—Dr. Hartzler's "Voices from Bible Lands" will also be helpful.

Program Suggestions for July 7, 1940.

Capernaum.—His own city.

Setting. A large map of Palestine, hung where all can see it and the speaker point to the places to be studied.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude: "Largo" Handel
2. Call to worship: Ps.34:3, 8 "O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt His name together. O taste and see that the Lord is good: Blessed is the man that trusteth in Him."

3. All stand to sing: "I Think when I Read That Sweet Storw of Old."
4. Scripture reading: Psalm 24, by a Junior boy.
5. Prayer by the leader.
6. Song in unison: "Tell Me the Story of Jesus."
7. Verse of the month: Hebrews 13:13, 14, read and interpreted by the leader.
8. Solo: "A Pilgrim and a Stranger." Mennonite Hymn Book No. 338. v. 1-4.

II. Study Period

Aim, To make the events that happened, at and near Capernaum more familiar to our Juniors. To help them to see Jesus as the Son of God, healing, teaching and calling disciples.

1. A study of the place, by an older boy.

"Capernaum, which means city of consolation, has been called His city. It is not only the place where Jesus lived much of the time but the place where he made manifest His power over sin, sickness and demons. At the time of Christ it was an important city, being a Roman military post, havin a customs house, the seat of a tax collector, and a large synagogue. The site of ancient capernaum is on the north shore of the beautiful Sea of Gallilee, not far from the place where the Jordon river, its waters melted snow from the Lebanon, cold and fresh, flows into the lake. The lake is harp-shaped, in fact one of its names, Gennessareth, means harp, "The lake is blue to the eye, sweet to the taste, one of the beauty spots of the world." It is not large, only from 6-8 miles wide and 13 miles long. Yet no other place has so many memories connected with it. Capernaum was a busy place, a vast center of traffic, the great highways from Egypt to Damascus and from Phoenicia to the Euphrates passed here. In Capernaum Jesus began his Galilean work, and from this center he made tours in all directions.

2. Find the scripture passages that tell us that Capernaum was Jesus' home. The first one to find the passages stands quietly, when all have found them, he may read them. Matt. 4:13, Matt 9:1; John 2:12.
3. Three Juniors each read a parable that Jesus told here.
   a. Matthew 13:1-23.
   b. Matthew 13:24-30.
   c. Matthew 13:44-57.
4. Find the passages that tell that Jesus preached here: Mark 1:21,22; Luke 4:31,32,43.
5. Four Juniors each tell a miracle that hppened here.
   a. Matt. 8:5-13; Luke 7:1-10.
   b. Matt 17:24-27; Mark 12:13.
   c. Matt 9:1-8; Luke 5:18-26.
   d. John 6:15-21; Mark 6:45-56.
6. Give the names of the men that lived here whom Jesus chose as His disciples. Give their occupation also.
7. Song, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee."

III. Mission Minutes.

1. Each Junior tell in a sentence, "How I can be a missionary."
2. Silent prayer for our American Indian Missions.

IV. Closing Moments.

1. Memorize the prayer of the month.
2. Sing the song of the month.
3. Give the verse of the month in unison.
4. Pray the prayer of the month.
5. Pionist plays softly as Juniors leave, "More About Jesus Would I know."

IN MEMORIAM

MAGDALENA (MATTIE) BRENNEMAN BLOSSER was born at Elida, Ohio, June 30th, 1857. She passed on to her reward at the home of her son Christian at Goshen, Indiana, June 8th, 1940, having attained to the ripe age of 82 years, 11 months, and 8 days. She was the daughter of John M. and Sophia Brenneman, one of a family of twelve children, and the last of the family group to pass on.

At the age of twenty years she and John Blosser were united in holy matrimony. Immediately following their marriage they came to the New Stark vicinity where they abode together until the death of her husband a number of years ago. It was here that their family grew to manhood and womanhood. Three sons and three daughters remain.

Brother John, her husband, was a devout minister of the gospel, and served in the Mennonite Chapel Church near New Stark for forty-four years. Mother Blosser was converted at the age of fourteen, and assumed the responsibilities of church membership at that time, always serving her God to the extent of her ability. She held her membership in the Chapel Church, (Mennonite), in the community where she wrought with her husband for the promotion of the kingdom of God.

There was a blessed atmosphere in the home over which she presided as Mother and Helper to the one who had been called of God to preach the Word. This was helpful to all who came under the shadow of their hospitable roof. And every one of the children was lead to accept Christ in early youth. She filled her place in the home as the Mother that is described in Proverbs 13:10-31. Today, June 11th, we laid her body beside that of her husband in the Hassan Cemetery, there to await the coming of the Lord and the resurrection of the just. Her children have arisen up, Proverbs 31:28, to call her a blessed Mother.

She passed on as she had lived, a devout mother, confident of the things promised in the Word which make special application to the children of God. She had many favorite scripture passages. One of these passages was Revelation 22:14,—"Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates of the city." It was her request that this text be used on her funeral occasion. The services were conducted in the New Stark Community Church, the message being brought by the writer, who for thirty odd years has known her to have been one of God's faithful handmaidens. He was assisted by Brother Soldner of Bluffton, Ohio. Truly a Godly Mother has passed on, but her works do follow after her. Yes, hundreds have been blessed by her unpretentious, sincere, mild and sweet Christian life. Jesse J. Anglemyer,

Pastor Eagle Creek Church of the Brethren

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, BUTTERFIELD, MINN.

"Thanks be to God for His unspeakable gift. 2 Cor. 9-15." This wonderful gift is Jesus Christ our Saviour.

Our Easter Sunrise service was very well attended. Rev. C. Wall, Bible School instructor of Mt. Lake, gave the message. Many people gathered around the Lord's table to partake of Communion. This is to remind us of the suffering and death of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. Our church sponsored a young peoples' rally in April. It was a day of rejoicing, since we are still living in the day of Grace. Two young men, one from Ireland and one from Rome, Italy, were the guest speakers. These men came from the North Western Bible School at Minneapolis. Two young girls (twins) from the state of Pa. furnished splendid music. Our Uncle Daniel Hubin, one of the oldest members of our church, who has been a shut-in all winter suffering from shingles is now able to be outside again, to enjoy the nice sunshine.

God sent us a wonderful rain just when we needed it. To Him be all praise, honor and glory. Crops look very fine.

Rev. Thiessen of India showed his pictures. It makes us feel sad to see how people there will torture their bodies, hoping to gain salvation by doing so. —Mrs. Ted Lincheid

MENNONITE CHURCH, MEDFORD, OKLA.

On June the 2nd our church had a very important day. In the morning the Lord's Supper was observed with a good attendance. Rev. J. M. Regier conducted the service. In the afternoon our Pastor, Rev. A. G. Schmidt, was ordained as Elder by Elder John Lichti assisted by Elder J. M. Regier, Hillsboro, Elder H. Miller, Deercreek, Okla., Elder H. Harder, Enid, Okla., and Rev. Menno Kliewer, Cordell, Okla. We hope and pray that through this event our congregation and community may be still more richly blest and that we all may have been drawn closer to Him who is the Head of the Church—namely, Jesus Christ our dear Lord and Saviour.

Findings of the Interfaith Conference on Unemployment

Washington, D. C., June 4-6, 1940

Unemployment is a dreadful scourge and a social sin. It is a major cause of war, and poverty and an indictment of our society. Yet most of us have been indifferent and irresponsible in our attitude toward this most critical problem.

The moral effects of the continued unemployment of nine million or more workers are evident. Enforced idleness demoralizes personality, makes it impossible for families to live normal, healthy lives and prevents their participation in community life. These conditions must now become the common concern of the nation. The religious bodies must supply the moral dynamic for changing them.

Unemployment must not be continually relieved—it must be abolished. It is the plain duty of the religious bodies to demand a thousand times more loudly than ever before that the necessary steps be taken to use our great resources and to work out procedures in accord with democratic principles.

Solutions cannot be found without individual and social sacrifice. The employed, the fortunate, must identify themselves with the unemployed, and be willing to make sacrifices in order to bring about the abolition of unemployment. Only high spiritual attitudes will bring justice. The moral will should be expressed effectively in terms of right social relations.

It is imperative that just social relations be attained, because economic desperation will lead many well-meaning citizens of all classes into great temptation. When people are confused and embittered, not knowing where to turn, they seek scapegoats, thus arousing race hatreds. People haunted by insecurity are most likely to become the easy prey of ruthless leaders, including would-be dictators who make large promises but take away liberties. In these times of emotional stress it is doubly necessary to emphasize democratic procedures and rights.

Whatever may be the needs of national defense, stimulation of industrial activity through the production of arms will not provide a permanent method of abolishing unemployment. This has been declared by the many speakers mentioning the subject at this Conference. Indeed, some have warned that long and increasing production of armaments threatens the production of consumers' goods, and thereby lowers the general standard of living. It is clear that we must all search for sound methods that promise more constructive economic results. The religious bodies have a vital interest in what is socially constructive; in reconciliation and healing; in the arts of peace. Elimination of unemployment requires social thinking of a high order, and social collaboration to work out the plans and put them into effect.

To that end, there should be a continuing commission, composed of representatives of consumers, farmers, labor, finance, manufacturing, commerce, government, education, religion. We hereby call upon the national organizations in these various fields to come together to form such a commission. For enforceable and coordinated action by the organized social forces of the country, governmental leadership is necessary. Government, we strongly recommend, should call these organizations together for devising cooperative, democratic measures to solve the unemployment problem.

Religious bodies dare not escape their responsibility to educate, with the aid of informed laymen, in regard to the moral and social aspects of such questions as have been here discussed, including: the kind and degree of taxation; the relative emphasis upon voluntary and upon governmental leadership; the role of cooperatives for purchasing, credit, marketing; the possibility of setting up democratic economic planning; the importance of preserving religious and civil liberties; the need for new social inventions to deal with new conditions.

These questions should be taken up in religious assemblies, should be considered by the religious press and study courses. They all have religious aspects and implications, and require study in an atmosphere which religious bodies are peculiarly prepared to supply.

Exit Bertrand Russell

The whole Christian world owes a debt of gratitude to Bishop William Manning, head of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, for his vigorous and successful protest against the appointment of Bertrand Russell, the learned college professor and philosopher and advocate of promiscuity in the marital relation, with pre-cohabitation of college youth, and other moral laxities, as professor of philosophy of City College, by the Board of Higher Education of New York City.

The appointment, defended in the name of "academic freedom," was a shocking affront to the moral sense of the entire community, if not the entire country. Bishop Manning dragged the appointment out into the light and brought to his support many other Christian agencies, Protestant and Catholic, civic, educational and political, in opposition to the action of the Board of "Higher" Education. It was an example of "the higher they climb the harder they fall."

This 68-year-old eminent philosopher, twice divorced and three times married, an advocate of free love and a derider of the moral code, was finally dispatched by Mayor LaGuardia by striking the item of his salary from the budget appropriation. But the annulment of the appointment, subject to appeal, by Supreme Court Justice, John E. McGeehan, is worthy of acclaim and should establish a precedent for similar appointments in the future.

The Justice lays down a principle which has long been applied by reformers to all social evils, that the more "respectable" they are made by legality, location, environment, adornment and operation, the more dangerous they become to susceptible youth and subversive to society.

Justice McGeehan states, "The personality (eminence, respectability, cultured, high placed), of teachers has more to do with forming a student's opinion than many syllogisms. A person we despise and who is lacking in ability cannot argue us into imitating him. A person whom we like and who is of outstanding ability does not have to try. It is contended that Bertrand Russell is extraordinary. THAT MAKES HIM THE MORE DANGEROUS."

This goes for institutions as well as for men, no matter by what name they are called. A store, tavern, inn, lounge, as a place where intoxicating liquors are sold, is worse than a saloon, and the more "respectable" such an "emporium" is, the more dangerous to youth and subversive to society. You cannot disguise, disinfect or deodorize the devil by sprinkling him with holy water or dressing him in white. "For Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light." So it is of men, measures and institutions which scatter evil—the better the worse, the whiter the blacker, the more decent the more dangerous, the more decorous the more damnable.

Imagine American youth getting the philosophy of life from a foreign professor whose book on "Marriage and Morals" advocates companionate marriage for college youth of both sexes. To quote: "For my part, while I am quite convinced that companionate marriage would be a step in the right direction, I do not think it goes far enough.

"I think that all sex relations which do not involve children should be regarded as a purely private affair . . . Relations involving children should be permanent, if possible, but should not necessarily on that account BE EXCLUSIVE . . . I am sure that university life would be better if MOST university students held TEMPORARY childless marriages."

This "philosophy" would consign our delicate and virtuous daughters to temporary marriages to students while in college, in order that "the sex urge would not interfere with the student's work, "to be disregarded as "damaged goods" after graduation.

No wonder after reading one of Bertrand Russell's books, the Judge that rendered the decision said, "I had to take a bath."

The New York Times editorially suggested that in the interest of harmony and to avoid further controversy Professor Russell should have withdrawn his name. The defender of Academic Freedom writes to the Times to say, "This to me (his resignation) would appear immoral!" —PROGRESS

SWIFT CURRENT, SASK., JUNE 11, 1940

—EDITOR—THE MENNONITE: Churches in the U.S.A. are reporting about Summer Bible Schools being in progress. Our public schools in Canada do not close until the end of June, consequently we cannot have the children before that time. A great amount of preparatory work, however, is under way for a real time of blessing to be scattered among the many children of our community. This is the third year this kind of work is being done here, and results have proven beyond doubt that this is a very valuable phase of the Lord's work in the Swift Current district. We already have 24 prospects for teachers, who will let the Lord use their gifts in 16 different schools, bringing the Word of God into the holidays of some 300 children. Who can say where such blessing may end? We solicit your prayers for this work. —Isaac Epp.

—Second Church, Philadelphia. — PASTORAL MESSAGE: Imagine what Philadelphia would be like without any children. That would certainly be a "black out" for our city. Children are little rays of sunshine who help to make this dark world a little brighter. Jesus, who is the Great Friend of children, wants each child to come to Him to receive the light which the child is to cary out into the world. —Bulletin.

NOTES FROM EASTERN DISTRICT

The 45th Annual Convention of the Young Peoples Union is history. The Officers for 1940-41 are as follows: President, James Gerhard; Vice President, LeRoy Weidner; Rec. Sec., Thelma Spaeth; Treas. John Boser; Mission Secretary, Ruth Boorse; Jr. Supt. Miss Catherine Niswander of Phila.; Int. Supt. Norman Geissinger, and Pastor Counsellor, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander. The Mission Project for the year: $75.00 toward the education of Ernest Harder of Fernheim, Paraguay, a student at Freeman Junior College; $125.00 for the support of a Spanish War Orphan; $100.00 for the Retreat Ground. It was also suggested that each Society buy at least one Bible in a foreign language to be sent to a Missionary. —Bulletin, First Ch., Allentown, Pa.

—Mountain Lake, Minnesota.—A four-day Young Peoples' Retreat was held at the local Bible School, starting Sunday the 9th. About 125 were in attendance. Rev. Walter H. Dyck of Beatrice, Nebr., an outstanding young peoples' leader in his territory; Prof. Gerhard J. Toews of the Freeman J. College music department, Rev. William Schobert of Jeffers, and Mrs. H. M. Fast of Clarissa made up the teaching staff. Rev. A. E. Patterson of Mankato gave a special lecture on "How to Reach the Unevangelized through the Sunday School."—Mt. Lake Observer.

—INSTITUTE OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS, now in session at Bethel College and Newton, Ks. is well attended. The day sessions and round tables are held in the college buildings, the larger evening session at the Newton City Auditorium. The speakers are masters of their subjects and seem to succeed better than ever to present them in a practical intelligent manner. So far Messrs. Gerig, Inman, Mullin, Streit and Anna Seesholtz have spoken. More next week.

—BLUFFTON COLLEGE.—The commencement exercises are over. President in his baccalaureate sermon addressed the former graduates as well as the class of 1940. He emphasized the need of a thoroughly Christian life, pointing out three phases: (1) belief and trust; (2) clean personal living; (3) correct social relationships. Service should be prime aim. His final exhortation was "Have faith."—At the commencement 24 graduates received their A. B. and 4 the B. S. M. (Bachelor of School Music) degrees. Four others will receive their diplomas at the close of the summer school, making the splendid total of 32 graduates.—Miss Carol Cookson had the distinction to reign as queen at the May Day festival, Miss Helen Stonehall as maid of honor, and Mr. William Snyder as the queen's escort.—The rendition of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was another feature of the closing days.

—First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas. —Upon invitation of their genial elder and wife, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Entz, about 175 young people of the church assembled at their quiet rural home Monday evening, June 10, for a social get-together. Games were played on the green lawn, songs with orchestral accompanyment were enjoyed, and a couple of short addresses were given. Remembering that this was the wedding day of the host couple, the group sang the favorite German hymn of praise, "Lobe den Herren, den Maechtigen Koenig der Ehren," and Rev. Entz gave the closing prayer.

—Rev. Ervin Albrecht writes: We have established our temporary address at Cleveland, Kansas.

—In a large part of the eastern two thirds of the State of Kansas prospects for a good small grain harvest are as promising as they have ever been. The comparatively few barley fields are already being harvested. The wheat which in many, many fields stands around four feet or higher is filling up well and will be ready for harvest in a week or ten days. May God grant that other sections of our country with Mennonite settlements and others that have had scanty crops for some time may also be blessed with better ones.

—First Church, Reedly, Calif.—Prof.Luke Horsch was guest speaker Sunday, June 16. His visit was in the interest of Peace and Bethel College.

— Freeman, South Dakota.—The hot wind for a few days last week discouraged the people. Grain began to suffer and a few more hot days would have meant another crop failure but Monday clouds covered the sky and we had a wonderful rain of about 2½ inches or more, it varied in different localities. Had another rain yesterday. Now the people have new courage and a fair crop is the big hope of the farmer. —Freeman Courier, June 6.

— Brother Ted Claassen who is our representative in the relief work in Europe reports that he is still in London where he finds much to do, and that he is well.

— Bethany Church, Freeman, So. Dak.—Missionary and Mrs. P. W. Penner are expected to be in our church Thursday, June 20. On the previous Monday and Tuesday the pastor took them up north into Spink and Beadle counties.—On Thursday and Friday all candidates for baptism are to call at the parsonage for examination.—The work of our Daily Vacation Bible School was most heartening. 81 children were enrolled. Of these 63 had perfect attendance.

— Johannestal Church, near Hillsboro, Kansas.—On June 10 Rev. and Mrs. John A. Ewert entertained a group of relatives and friends at a supper in their home to help them celebrate their silver wedding. Then at eight on the same evening the congregation assembled with them in a service at the church, to give thanks to God for his blessings. Rev. J. M. Regier, the pastor spoke. — On the Sunday preceding the church observed Communion service.

— The Kansas S. S. Convention held at the Eden Church near Moundridge, Kansas, was attended by a large crowd. Rev. D. C. Wedel, president, opened the meeting and presided at the afternoon session. Mr. J. J. Siemens, Newton; Mrs. Gerhard Friesen, North Newton, and Miss Elizabeth Nickel, Hillsboro, each discussed some phase of the theme, "How to Attain Greater Bible Knowledge." At the evening session Walter Flickinger, vice president, had charge. The Lorraine Ave. Church, Wichita, presented a drama, and Rev. C. H. Dirks, Hutchinson, spoke on, "Deeper Bible Knowledge—Jesus, Savior and Lord."

— Second Church, Beatrice, Nebr.—Sunday, June 9, Rev. C. H. A. van der Smissen spoke to the Sunday School. In the afternoon a S. S. picnic was enjoyed in Chautauqua Park. The care taker's wife once said, "We never have to worry after the Mennonite group has been here." Let us again try to be worthy of such praise. —Bulletin.

— Grace Church, Landsdale, Pa.—Pentecost Sunday eight young people and two young married couples gave expression of their faith in the Lord Jesus as their personal savior from sin and were baptized.

Music in the Church and Church School

By Walter H. Hohmann

I assume that the chief function of the congregation is worship. God is the supreme factor, and all acts of worship take character from their relation to Him. The three chief features of worship according to D. R. Breed are the following:

First. God speaks to us through the Scriptures. The Scriptures held first place in the days of the Jewish synagogue and they ought to hold first place in present day worship. Furthermore the Scriptures demand for themselves first place, in repeated passages. For example; 2 Timothy 2:15, St. John 5:39, Deuteronomy 6:49.

Second. We speak to God in prayer and praise. Next to the reading of the Scriptures is praise or sacred song. The Scriptures themselves give praise second place. They indicate very plainly that we are to praise before we pray, that we should always praise, even if prayer be intermittent. The book of Psalms contains much prayer but more praise. The expression "Praise ye the Lord" is oft repeated. The book of Revelation presents the redeemed of God as praising Him in lofty and mighty strains.

Third. One speaks to us in the name of God. The minister speaks to us in God's name. Much more time may be given to the sermon than to either of the other two features. I am not trying to indicate the amount of attention but the kind of attention that shall be given to the sermon. Until we establish a proper order of precedence we cannot hope to achieve the best results in our worship services. Praise and worship by the congregation are one characteristic feature which sets the Christian apart from all other religions.

Let us examine some of the great hymn-tunes of the Church since the time of the Reformation, to understand, if possible, what tunes have been found helpful in worship. The matter of usage will necessarily need to be our chief standard of judgment.

Thomas Tallis's Evening Hymn, All praise to Thee, my God, this night, and Old Hundred, Praise God, from Whom all blessings flow, by Claude Goudimel are, respectively, the oldest representatives of two different styles of hymnody. Notice the flowing freedom and contrapuntal variety of the first tune, as compared to the simple chords and massive dignity of the second tune.

We turn to the Metrical Psalm Tunes and what a wealth of material awaits us. Robert Burns refers to the Psalm Tunes in his Cotter's Saturday Night mentioning Dundee, Martyrs and Elgin. Dundee is found in many of our modern as well as other of the Psalm Tunes. The New Scottish Psalter still contains the three tunes mentioned by Robert Burns. The three oldest Psalm tunes are: St. Michial 1543, Dundee 1553, and Windsor 1553. These tunes are characteristic of their age all being written in common time, in radical chords without melodic embellishment of any kind, one note to each syllable. These syllabic tunes continued for more than 250 years. Some of the better known Psalm Tunes today are; Dunfermline, with these words, God moves in a mysterious way; Martydom, The Lord's my Shepherd, I'll not want; St. Anne, O God, our help in ages past, and others.

The German Chorales present still another most interesting group of material. Philip Schaff estimates their number at one hundred thousand. Of this number about ten thousand became classical and about one thousand are of practical and permanent value. Perhaps the most famous of the chorale tunes is Ein' Feste Burg ist unser Gott. Philipp Nicolai gave us the tune Nicolai, which today is spoken of as the King of Chorales. We sing it to the words, O Holy Spirit enter in. The Queen of Chorales, Herrnhut, with the words, Wake, awake for night is flying, is also his composition. Another very singable tune is Lobe den Herren. Still others are; Nun Danket alle Gott, by Johann (Crueger); Liebster Jesus, by Johann Ahle; Gott ist gegen*waertig,* by Joachim Neander; Passion Chorale, O sacred Head, now wounded, Hans Leo Hassler and harmonized by J. S. Bach; Innsbruck, The duteous day now closes, Heinrich Isaac and harmonized by J. S. Bach; St. Theodulph, All glory, laud, and honor to Thee, by Melchior Teschner. Many other chorales come down to us which are all of a stately and dignified character, possessing vigorous strength and far removed from a weak or sentimental melody. The chorales are well suited to unison singing.

In the eighteenth century we find the beginnings of English hymnody and also a new departure in hymn-tune music away from the psalm tune. The modification of the old syllabic tune commenced soon after the time of Watts. In Charles Wesley's time this style of hymn-tune was used quite extensively. Methodism helped promote these newer tunes by creating a demand for congregational singing as the Luthern Reformation had done in Germany. The new tunes are more flowing and melodious and not so rugged. Practically all tunes introduce the passing note. The passing note is indicative of both advance and decline. The old fashioned fuge tpye of tune which was used prior to the Reformation makes its reappearance. Antioch, Joy to the world! the Lord is come, and Lenox, Blow ye the trumphet, blow! found in many modern hymnals, represent the better fuge type of tune. The change in form from the old syllabic style appears in such tunes as Wareham, 1738 by William Knapp, to the hymn, Great God, we sing that mighty hand; Arlington, 1762 by Thomas Arne, to the hymn, Am I a soldier of the cross?; Rockingham Old, 1790 by Edward Miller, to the hymn, When I survey the wondrous Cross; and Duke Street, 1793 by John Hatton, to the hymn, Jesus shall reign where'er the sun.

The hymn-tune still needed more perfection. An American, Lowell Mason (1792-1872) was very influential in bringing still more perfection into the hymn-tune. The harmony of the hymn-tune is now more varied, and while it is sometimes more difficult than in the old psalm-tunes, it is within reach of the members of any congregation whose leaders are willing to make a little effort in their instruction. The melodies are flowing and singable. Breadth is reinstated and warmth is added. All of this, however, with the most worshipful intent. Some of Mason's best tunes are; Missionary Hymn, 1823, From Greenland's icy mountains; Hamburg, 1824, When I survey the wondrous Cross, and Bethany, 1859, Nearer my God to Thee. More than seventy of his tunes are used today in modern hymnals. Lowell Mason's influence in English Hymnody depends not upon any goal he reached, but rather upon the general direction in which he is moving. Others soon followed his lead. Five composers whose names are perhaps greatest in hymn-tune music in the nineteenth century followed his lead. They are: John Goss (1800-1880); Henry Smart (1813-1879); John B. Dykes (1823-1876(; William Henry Monk (1823-1889); and Joseph Barnaby (1838-1896). Two tunes by Goss found frequently in hymnals are: Arthur's Seat, Rejoice the Lord is King; Armageddon, Who is on the Lord's side?; Crucifer, Mighty God while angels bless Thee, and Regent Square, Look ye saints the sight is glorious, are excellent tunes by Smart. Dykes of course is remembered for his tune Nicea which is associated with words Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty by Reginald Heber and is the greatest adoration hymn in the English language. There are few tunes that are greater favorites than Eventide, by Monk, to the words Abide with me, by Henry Lyte. Barnby is perhaps best remembered by the tunes "Merrial" to the words "Now the day is over" and "Laudes Domini," to the words "When morning gilds the skies."

As was stated at the beginning of this article, in the Christian religion prayer and praise by the congregation are characteristic features which set it apart from other religions. These men were instrumental in establishing a form of the hymn-tune in which all that is best in sacred song is reverently cherished and employed in order that it may aid the congregation in the praise portion of any worship service.

Other hymn-tune composers of the later nineteenth and early twentieth centuries followed the lead of these men in the style of hymn-tune composition.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. NEUENSCHWANDER, Secretary

East Freedom, Pa., April 8, 1940

Members of the Home Mission Board, and Friends:

As I write this report it is very dark and dreary here at Smith Corner, the snow is about all gone but in its place we have mud, and more mud. We are having April showers, and for a while our meadow below the church was a lake, snow melting up in the mountains along with heavy rains made so much water that the creek beds could not hold it.

During this quarter one could see the hand of GOD working, and I think it has been one of the outstanding quarters since our coming to Smith Corner, which will be five years the first of May. Now I would not have you ignorant, brothers, concerning the work here. God works and so does satan, and I guess I ought to be glad because when He is busy, satan is losing, and that means God is winning.

I have had many experiences this past quarter in personnel work contacting many of those who were indifferent and it was worth the effort. Our two deacons and myself visited those that were not connected with any church, as well as our own members that have not been attendant. This was never done here before, and the people seem to like it.

The first month of this quarter the weather was very bad, some of the lanes had as much as eight feet of snow in them, the weather being around zero to eighteen below. This does not serve to better the attendance in the church service. However, in February and March it was a little better and the attendance came up.

For the first time since our coming here death struck, taking one of our young men very suddenly. His home was about one mile from the main highway, and the road conditions were so bad that the undertaker had to have the body taken to the main road the next day in a sled.

This is really a peculiar people in some ways, there are any number of folks who never go to Church at all, but on the day of the funeral for the above mentioned young man, they came from far and near, you see there was no funeral here for years so they came, ninty-three cars, and over four hundred and fifty people.

While death and sorrow strikes one place, happiness is at another, and as most of you know the preacher must laugh and cry to suit the occasion. Two of our young people were united in marriage just about the same time.

It has been the custom here for years to hold services twice a year before communion, for one or two weeks, but last fall we decided to wait till spring after the roads were in good shape and the weather was warm, however, the nearer Easter came the more I felt that we should put forth some extra effort to win souls for the Master, so I took the matter up with our deacons and they felt the same way, as a result we held services during the week before Easter, and now we are all glad we did because we were well paid for our efforts, there were about fifteen confessions, some in tears; we were I believe on the highest spiritual plain since our coming here, we praise GOD for this, and pray that He will keep all of us ever on the right road. Rev. Willard Claassen spoke for us one night during our services. I filled the pulpit myself all the other nights. (Tonight there are a number of us going to Altoona for the service, Brother George Gregor is preaching)

Sunday School attendance average 48, offering $2.43. Morning worship about same. Y. P. Meeting every Sunday evening, interest is good, evening worship attendance also good. Mid-week attendance about thirty-five, studying from Matthew; Brotherhood and ladies aid, monthly interest and attendance good, 45 at last meeting.

Thanking you for all your interest and the support given here I am,

Sincerely Yours,
John S. Raugh

LAST DECADE 1930 - 1939

Last decade for us was memorable. The Basna Church began experiencing God's glory afresh. He laid His hand upon us in a mighty fashion in Prayer, in the Holy Spirit, in Ingathering. The church became rooted in worship, in teaching, in discipline, in organization, in tithes and offerings, in the Word of God, in Ingathering. Church leaders were developed through growth in service. In 1930 the church numbered less than 400 adults. When 1939 came to a close it numbered about 1200. The church was awakened, and the heather of men's souls was on fire. God was working through several missionaries there stationed.

WHAT OF THIS DECADE?

The beginning of this decade finds us in Janjgir. I am convinced that if God's power desends upon us in a similar way, even more marvelous results will be accomplished here. I am also convinced that it was the prayers of friends in the homeland which helped to precipitate the dews of grace and holiness so that the showers of blessings were rained down. WILL YOU PRAY, you who read this?

WHITE HARVEST FIELDS

I was leaving Janjgir on a 150 mile bicycle trip. Three days before I left a worker 12 miles from the North came saying he had a family desiring baptism. On the night preceding my departure came another worker 12 miles from the North West telling of a family wishing baptism. They had questions—could the 18 year old daughter, if baptised, find a suitable husband? Could the children enter Mission Schools?

While absent, there came a young Brahmin from a village to the West, stating his firm determination to receive baptism. My wife sent two workers to his village at his insistence. They were met by a band of Brahmins carrying sticks, demanding, "Why are you stealing away our lad?" The workers replied, "He came to us. He is 22 years old, is married, and begs us to become a Christian." Returning home, a fourth case came to my office. He was from a village 12 miles to the South West. He had wandered into one of our Bible Teaching Camps, had come under conviction, and came to the bungalow insisting that he wanted baptism.

On all points of the compass the fields seem ready for harvest. What holds these back? Among many reasons is this: Christians themselves when confronted with seeking non-Christian relatives and acquaintances say, "I'd advise you not to come." Why?

FEARFUL OF COSTS

When they accepted Christ, they lost their entire inheritance of fields, and houses. They went pennyless. They had to live on starvation diet. They suffered scorn and scoffing. They were despised. Their wives ran off unbaptised with the children. They lost their jobs, and chances to earn. They were denied the privilege of using water from the village tanks, and of bathing in them as previously. So these "our" Christians hesitate to see their relatives with some means of livelihood leave a bankrupt hopeless Hinduism to accept the riches that are in Jesus Christ, passing through the dark valleys of suffering in order to gain these riches.

YOUR FELLOWSHIP IN PRAYER

When the Early Church prayed without ceasing, Peter was released from prison. I plead with the Church in America to pray for Christians here in the prison house of fear, indifference, lack of deep faith, selfishness. Pray for me. Pray for all missionaries in Janjgir. Pray without ceasing through the months and years of this decade,—and watch the great work of our Lord and Saviour, as He answers these prayers in the years ahead.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

CHRISTIAN SERVICE

J. H. Graber, Freeman College

Choosing a vocation is a problem that taxes the minds of youth, and yet is often done in a haphazard manner.

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, Atlanta, Georgia, relates his experience in making his choice, which is typical of the conflict that goes on in the minds of youth, but not so typical in the manner in which it was solved. He says, "When I saw my father picking blades of corn, I would say, 'I must be a farmer.' When I rode to town and saw the bridges we passed over, I would say, 'I have to be an architect or builder.' When I saw how much the congregation liked my uncle who was a Baptist preacher, I said, 'I just got to be a preacher.' When I would ride around with another uncle, who was a country doctor, and saw how he was adored, I would say, 'I must be a doctor.' Then I wanted above everything else to write a book. I had thousands of things I wanted to do. I couldn't decide.

"Before graduating in June, Father wrote me in April, 'You must decide before June. 'He wrote me a long letter, stating arguments for and against certain choices. I took these arguments, added some of my own and placed them in two parallel columns.

"Then being religious, I knelt down, with the shades drawn, and tried to decide what I was going to be. I wanted to be a lawyer; I wanted to be a doctor; I wanted to be a preacher; I wanted to be an architect; I wanted to write my book.

"About that time the shade fluttered and light came in, and there seemed to be a voice that said, 'Would you like to do them all?' I said, 'I would.' 'I can tell you how to do every one of them.' I said, 'How?' 'Just be a teacher. Some boy will write your book. It will be better than any book you ever thought of. Some girl will paint your picture, and another will give it veracity. Somebody else will be a doctor, and somebody else will be the lawyer. Just be a teacher'."

This was a call to Christian service, perhaps as much as the call that came to Joshua,when God called him to lead the Children of Israel into the Promised Land, after Moses had completed his Life's Work. A choice where God's Will is dominant, is the proper choice; whether it be to teach, preach, or follow the plow.

A great many factors enter in to make a choice as above described possible. The most prominent perhaps are the influence of the home, the church, and the school. It is a tragedy however that the home often fails to shoulder its share of responsibility and tries to delegate it to the school; that the influence of the church only reaches a small percentage of the youth, and that the schools are often taught by teachers who only have an intellectual preparation.

Are we as homes, churchs, and especially christian schools meeting our responsibility properly?

A LETTER

Dear Editor:

The Ohio Committee of the F. O. R. is planning a Regional Christian Pacifists Conference to be held at Bluffton College, Bluffton, Ohio, July 15-21.

Muriel Lester, Secretary of the International Fellowship of Reconciliation (the Jane Addams of London), has accepted our invitation to be present for the entire week. We have also invited Harold Fey, formerly Executive Secretary of the National Fellowship of Reconciliation, and Harold Gray, author of Character Bad, and a number of lesser lights. We are very anxious to have as many of our Mennonite people be at that conference as possible. The cost is seven dollars for the week which includes meals, lodging, use of buildings and registration. Delegates will bring their own linen and blanket.

Will you please insert a note in The Menonite, giving publicity to this conference. Any of our young people who are interested can receive further information by writing to Carl J. Landes, Mid-West Secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, 720 West 26th Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Thanking you for your cooperation in this, I am,

Sincerely, Carl J. Landes

The Institute of International Relations

This Institute which was carried on in a ten-day session at Bethel College and Newton, Kans., closed last Friday night. It was generally adjudged to be the best held so far, in attendance, in the interest evinced by those attending, and the worthwhile information that was disseminated. More than 150 were regularly enrolled, teachers, ministers, representatives of organizations, business men and others. Six to eight hundred attended the evening sessions in the Newton auditorium. Fifteen different religious affiliations were represented. The series of night lectures was brought to a fitting close and climax by Miss Muriel Lester in her stirring address entitled "Religion and War." We quote a portion of it as published in the "Evening Kansan":

The audience listened spell bound as she told them that war and living religion are incompatible, that to try to join them is a thing impossible of accomplishment. "Christ has told us," she said, "that one cannot overcome evil with evil. No more can we overcome war with war. If war is cancerous, are we going to cure it by having a cancer ourselves? If Europe is in a fever, are we going to cure her by taking the fever, too? Even though in Hitler we may see our own sins dramatized and shudder at the terrifying sight, we should stop to realize that that same evil, greed, fear, cruelty, is after all within ourselves and the body politic.

"We no longer pray or read our Bibles as we did fifty years ago, we think we no longer need those things in our lives. Are we then, wiser than Jesus, for he needed to pray. Do you suppose that has anything to do with the fact that 1 out of every 22 persons in New York State either has been or will be confined to an asylum for the mentally ill? When we allow ourselves to be enticed into the torture of debt by alluring advertisements, such as the one, "Travel on credit" that I recently saw on a train in your country, we endure the further torture of knowing that we are thus depriving other human beings of the bare necessities. Why did a taxi-driver in New York City decry the men standing in a bread line by saying, 'They're just lazy, they could find work if they'd look for it'!? It was because he was ashamed that he and other men have let such things happen. That was why he lied. We lie when we are ashamed. I have seen young men in East London where I live willing to commit suicide because they couldn't find work and felt they were keeping food from the other members of their families. We must recognize our failings and discipline ourselves to correct them.

Just talking religion, just singing beautiful old hymns is blasphemous until we put our sentiments into practice. It's blasphemous to rush from church services to the making of poisonous gas. I am told there is a gang in New York City, known to the police, which is willing to commit murder, any murder, for $25.00. We are willing to take $25.00 for our scrap iron and oil, to be used in mass murder; while the hate of the world is foccussed on Japan, we gain the profit. You see why I am so deeply disgusted with the war system, and our bondage to big business?

Investigation of Red River Valley Land Project

As reported recently in The Mennonite several Brethren from near Newton and vicinity then made a trip to the Red River Valley of North Dakota. A Mr. W. F. Kreiselmaier, farm management agent in North Dakota, had called the attention of Mr. F. H. Reeves, agricultureal development agent of the Great Northren Railway, to a tract of good land in that section that could be bought at a reasonable price. From here on we quote from a report of the investigation group:

"Mr. Reeves lost no time in bringing this information to our General Conference Colonization committee. Since they were not in a position to act and the matter was urgent due to the fact that North Dakota has a law that corporations can keep land only a limited number of years and this time is about up, and also that these values are rapidly being picked up, the undersigned group went to investigate the proposition. Mr. Reeves and Mr. Kreiselmaier assisted us very generously in this undertaking.

The land lies in the Red River Valley, "the bread-basket of America" as it is rightly called. The land is good, well adapted to diversified farming with a favorable and healthful climate, and not as cold as most people think. Even last year, which we were told was the worst in 50 years, crops were quite good. Besides the common grain crops, corn, flax, alfalfa, sweetclover, potatoes and sugar beets are raised extensively. No one who buys this land at present prices makes a mistake.

The opportunity may not last long, urgency is necessary. If any of our Mennonite folks are interested we refer them to their pastor for more detailed information or to G. Friesen, who acts as the reporter for our group.

J. J. Ratzlaff, Newton, Kansas; P. H. Richert, R. R., Newton, Kansas; P. H. Unruh, Goessel, Kansas; B. H. Epp, Hillsboro, Kansas; G. Friesen, N. Newton, Kansas."

Comment by the Editor: The interest manifested by these brethren in the possibilities of a new Mennonite settlement on good land is commendable and their report is duly appreciated. They did this service voluntarily and were not accompanied by any members of the Colonization Committee appointed by the General Conference.

JOB TEMPTED TO DOUBT GOD'S GOODNESS

Job 2:1-13 Read 1 and 2

Topic: Integrity Put to the Test

Introduction

The Book of Job is a general debate written in the form of dramatic poetry. Many have wondered how it should be interpreted. Its place is far back in human history (cf 8:8; 15:18; 21:29). Job lived about the time of Abraham. There is no reference in the Book to the deliverance from Egypt, or to the passover. Uz, the place where Job lived, was east of Palestine and in the northern part of the Arabian desert. Job had a reputation for great piety, shown by two references to him in Ezekiel (14:14, 20). The writer of Job, inspired by the Spirit of God, discusses some of the deepest problems connected with God's government of the world. God gave him a message that suffering saints need to hear. He clarifies the imperfect notions as to the relation between sin and suffering, as to why the righteous suffer affliction.

God Permits Satan to Test Job vs 1-8

Chapter 1 reveals the real reason for Job's sufferings in these verses. Satan, a very real person, intimated (1:9-11) that Job served God because he was well paid for it. He boldly asserted that if God would remove the "hedge" about Job, he would renounce Him to His face. God permitted the calamities to come upon Job to prove that he would maintain his integrity even amid all his calamities and suffering. Instead of renouncing God, he fell down and worshipped Him (1:21).

God was greatly pleased with Job (v3) and pictures him as a perfect and upright man. Satan, beaten in his attempts on Job's integrity, sneeringly implies that he feared God only to save his life (v4), and that he would give up his religion in order to save his life. Satan declares that Job has not been afflicted deeply enough yet (v5). With God's permission, Satan goes forth to do his worst in testing Job (vs 6, 7) but he stood the test of the integrity of his faith in God, and his submission to His will.

Job's Wife and three Friends Test Him vs 9-13

Job's wife becomes a source of trial and advises just the course that Satan desires (v9). She may have meant well enough, but surely Satan used her as his medium to further test Job. We need to be watchful lest we unwittingly allow ourselves to become his instruments. Job reveals the loftiness of his religious devotion by meekly accepting suffering as well as prosperity from God's hand (v10). The climax of Job's troubles comes in the debate of his three friends who try to convince him that all his afflictions are the punishment for his wrong doing. Poor comforters they were.

God puts a premium upon tested character. Testings, afflictions, if patiently endured, contribute to our spiritual enrichment of character. These are not a direct mark of God's disfavor. Through them we may learn that there are higher values than financial and physical welfare. God's children often suffer severely and will have trouble, but faith in God's goodness and wisdom brings heavenly cheer.

Job kept his religion in prosperity, a rather difficult thing to do. His integrity amid great affliction, reveals its genuineness. We need a philosophy of life which does not lose sight of God's goodness when sorrow and suffering come. Our conception of the meaning of suffering is an important matter and may have a great influence upon our life. A wrong understanding of this may easily leave one hopeless or in despair and even bitter against God. The message of the Book of Job is needed still.

KILL FEAR

Of course fear is at the very bottom of our present worries. And what an old fork-tail he is! But the worst fear of all is the fear of the unknown. To be aware of a fear and yet not know what it is—that is the very worst terror in the world.

When you feel worried, or fearful, or tense, stop and ask yourself: "Let's get to the bottom of this. What am I worried about? Just exactly what am I afraid of?"

Try to find the right answer. If it is "I am afraid I'll lose my job," then say to yourself, "Well, that isn't so bad. I still have my health. There are jobs to be had. I'll get another." The very act of resolving a question to its rock bottom and finding an answer reduces your fears to an astonishing extent.

Here are eight ways by which you can be a little braver during these troublous days:

(1) Analyze your fears. Ask yourself, "Just what am I afraid of?" When you realize the basis of your fear, you will be on the way to conquering it.

(2) Determine what your next step will be. A soldier who knows where his second line of trenches is, is not defeated.

(3) When your friends talk discouragement, talk encouragement. And you will begin to feel it, too.

(4) Determine how much of your thinking is directed toward solving your problem, and how much of it is going over and over the same thing.

(5) Act as if you were not afraid. Basil King, who wrote "The Conquest of Fear," said "Go at it boldly and you will find a myriad of unexpected forces coming to your aid."

(6) Don't think about your troubles at night. The Chinese have a saying which goes "If you take your troubles to bed with you, they will multiply like leaves in the wind."

(7) Keep physically fit. The more discouraged you are the more golf you should play.

(8) Remember the present difficulty will pass. Others always have. Follow these and I guarantee instead of being tortured and wrecked you will meet it boldly and courageously—and triumphantly.

Report of the Annual Mennonite Sunday School Convention, June 9, 1940

Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas

Afternoon Session 2:30 P. M.

The convention theme, "Greater and Deeper Bible Knowledge," was closely adhered to throughout both sessions. Mr. Goering, the local song director, sounded the theme by selecting the opening hymn, "Cling to the Bible." By reading portions of Psalm 119 and prayer, the chairman, Rev. David C. Wedel, completed the introduction and opened the convention.

Mr. J. J. Siemens of North Newton presented the discussion of the first topic, "Greater Bible Knowledge through an Adequate Discussion of the Lesson by the Teacher." Quoting the speaker, "The teacher occupies position No. I in the Sunday school. He is the main pillar. If that pillar is cracked the whole structure must of necessity fall. Since the teacher's position is so important, he must draw richly from the Master Teacher. We cannot teach persuasively unless we have experienced Christ."

Mr. Erwin Goering of Moundridge carried on the discussion of securing "Greater Bible Knowledge through an Adequate Discussion of the Lesson by the Pupil." Introducing the subject he stated that if all the training the European youth had received the last years had been directed toward securing greater Bible knowledge, what a different picture Europe would present today. In this discussion the final emphasis was laid on the parents' duty in encouraging Bible study at home and the teacher's in motivating class discussions.

Following a double number of music by the male quartet from the Pretty Prairie Church, Mrs. Gerhard Friesen of North Newton presented a discussion on "Greater Bible Knowledge through the use of Understandable Material." Quoting her introductory words, "We read that part of the Bible most that we understand best. Let us use nature to bring home the eternal truths, as Jesus used nature." Necessity of knowing the geographic setting, the historical background of the lesson, the lack in our Sunday schools of suitable material for the junior and intermediate groups, and lessons on a chronological story of Jesus and also Old Testament stories for this age were emphasized. This topic was very fittingly summarized by saying, "No one should be a Sunday school teacher who does not care to go deeper than skin deep. Love your pupils, visit with them, and learn to understand them. If Christ lives in us, we will draw all men to Him."

The music by the Eden Church Choir afforded an excellent relaxation period for the audience whereupon Miss Elizabeth Nickel of Hillsboro concluded the topical discussions on "What Contributions Can Adequate Quarters Make toward Greater Bible Knowledge?" With greater Bible knowledge as the aim she pictured ideal quarters for a Sunday school: the necessity of separate rooms, adequate warmth in winter, rubber tipped chairs, circular seating, and the assembly room close by; in other words, a separate Sunday school building. Since, so far, there is only one Mennonite church with such a building in prospect, improvements within our reach in the way of moveable screens, burlap mats on cement floors, and minimum noise in passing and conducting will help.

Opportunity was given for an open discussion after each topic. At the business meeting A. J. Regier of the Western District Conference Education Committee introduced the Memory Work Chart for Sunday schools and Christian Endeavors. Rev. A. E. Funk of the Retreat Committee extended a challenging invitation to the Young People's Retreat at Camp Wood. By motion the following officers were declared elected: Pres. Menno Schrag, Newton; V. Pres., Waldo Flickinger, Pretty Prairie; Retreat Committee Member, Rev. A. E. Funk, Hillsboro; Sec. Treas., Mrs. D. P. Ewert, Hillsboro.

Be it Resolved, That the Convention desires to bring to the attention of the General Conference the need for a complete series of graded lessons for primary, junior, and intermediate classes based on the principle of giving the pupil a comprehensive and chronological study of the Bible itself, thereby presenting God's plan of salvation. Be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the proper General Conference officials.

Evening Session 7:00 P. M.

The evening session, V. Pres. Waldo Flickinger of Pretty Prairie presiding, was purely inspirational. With the reading of I Cor. 3, 11 the way was well prepared for "The Living Christ," a drama presented by the Lorraine Ave. Church of Wichita. The address of the evening was given by Rev. Clyde H.

Dirks of Hutchinson. He spoke on "The Bible Reaching the Depths of Human Experiences." The speaker's own words, "a new heart, a new spirit, a new walk for deeper Bible knowledge" summarized the message very well. With the benediction ended the 56th Annual Mennonite S. S. Convention.

Northern District Conference Report

The 48th session of the Northern District Conference has become history. It was held in the spacious and beautiful Bethesda Church at Henderson, Nebr., June 1st to 5th inclusive. Twenty-four churches from five different states, Nebraska, S. Dakota, N. Dakota, Minnesota and Montana were represented by 88 delegates. The reception committee reported over 200 visitors and delegates registered. The Henderson people were most cordial in their reception and the guests were well taken care of in the different homes.

The Conference opened Saturday evening, with a meeting for ministers and deacons, where the high calling and the tremendous responsibility of the ministry was called to mind, but likewise the serious duties of laymen which demand our loyalty and faithfulness to the Church and Kingdom.

On Sunday morning, after a word of welcome by the local minister, Rev. A. W. Friesen, the services were directed especially to Missions. The Home Mission work was ably presented by Dr. H. A. Fast of North Newton, Kansas. He was followed by a sermon on Foreign Missions by Missionary P. W. Penner. We were also privileged to hear Rev. J. J. Thiessen of Saskatoon, Canada, tell us briefly of the progress and the problems of the immigrant brethren in Canada; also expressing appreciation of the work that the conference churches have done and are still doing for them. On Sunday afternoon Rev. J. A. Thiessen, the Conference chairman, delivered the Conference sermon, based on Heb. 8:5. Then followed a brief message by Missionary P. W. Penner on observations from the mission field. They were saturated with a sense of good, clean humor which was well taken. Sunday evening was given over to the Sunday School. Various problems were presented and discussed, bringing up questions, some of which at the conclusion of the period had to be left unanswered.

The Conference Communion service Monday morning was fraught with spiritual blessings, as we were reminded of the sacrificial death of our Lord and Saviour. After this service the Conference turned to the Conference business. The reports of the different committees were quite encouraging and indicated spiritual as well as numerical growth. The work of the Evangelization Committee, especially, merits our material help and prayerful support. They have endeavored to reach and provide spiritual food for isolated groups as well as those formerly established. The groups which have been thus served give expression to a feeling of thankfulness and appreciation for such service. On Monday evening the Y. P. Christian Endeavor program was rendered, besides some fine musical selections. A topic, "Young Peoples' Work in Our District Conference and how it Compares with the Work in Other Districts", was very ably presented by Miss Elma Fast of Mountain Lake, Minn. Then, after a brief message, Rev. Walter H. Dyck of Beatrice, Nebr. proceded to show Retreat pictures. Both the message and pictures were helpful and interesting.

Tuesday forenoon was devoted to Unfinished business and the afternoon to the Women's Missionary program, with Miss Elizabeth Epp presiding. The women constantly manifest a keen interest in the missionary enterprise. Miss Mary Bargen of Mt. Lake very ably discussed the topic, "Was ist meine Aufgabe als Glied des Naehvereins?" Then Mrs. P. W. Penner spoke of her work and experiences in India and Miss Marie Buller related some of her experiences among the American Indians in Montana. Mrs. H. Albert Classen of Freeman in an appealing manner discussed the topic, "How can we awaken more interest for Mission Societies?" In these messages it was vividly brought to mind, how much God's grace and love can do for those who take it as their own. Tuesday evening we were favored with a half hour musical program by the Freeman College Men's Quartet which was followed by an evangelistic sermon by Rev. J. A. Friesen of Doland, S. D., and an illustrated Bible Study sermon on "The Seven Feasts of the Old Testament" by Rev. P. R. Schroeder.

Wednesday was "Young Peoples' Day." The problems pertaining to the youth of our Conference were considered and discussed, with special reference to the problem of peace and our attitude toward war. After a period of games and recreation following the noon luncheon, a Peace talk was given by Rev. Walter H. Dyck and, in conclusion, the showing of pictures from South America by Dr. H. A. Fast in the evening.

The music furnished by the local musical organization and visiting groups was inspiring and an appreciated feature at each session. The weather was hot and extremely dry during the Conference, with a few days of strong winds and much dust. Crops around Henderson were sorely in need of rain. The attendance was good. At the evening meetings the large church was filled.

May the inspiration and blessings that have come to us during this Conference linger with us in the days to come! —Adolph Preheim, Conf. Sec'y

Northern District Young People Plan to Organize

The Northern District Conference is the only district in the General Conference that has no young people's organization. However, plans are now being made to organize.

Out of a growing desire of the yung people to unite, a "Young People's Day" was added to the session of the Northern District Conference, held at Henderson, Nebraska, this spring. The large number of young people attending, and their unanimous vote to have a similar day at next year's conference proved that is was successful.

As yet no definite plans have been made as to organizing. A committee was elected which is to make further plans and present them at the conference next spring, when it is hoped that a definite union will be organized. The personel of the committee is, Carl Friesen, Henderson, Nebraska, Chairman; Stella Waltner, Freeman, South Dakota, Secretary; and Jacob Friesen, Jr., Mountain Lake, Minnesota.

The possibilities of a district young people's retreat will also be considered. Several communities of this district have local retreats, and it has been suggested that they unite into one district retreat. Some missionary project could probably be started, and suggestions have been made as to starting a youth paper.

The churches of the Northern District are widely scattered, and work will be difficult, but "through Christ all things are possible", and it is hoped and prayed that the efforts of these young Christians will be successful. The prayers and suggestions of all who are interested in Mennonite youth will be appreciated.

Trip for Doctor's Thesis

J. Winfield Fretz, a graduate of Bluffton College, who has earned his Master's degree and the degree of Bachelor of Divinity, is now visiting the Mennonite communities throughout the West, (Nebr., Kans., Okla., Calif., Oregon, Wash., Idaho, and South Dakota.)

Brother Fretz is interested in discovering what mutual aid and cooperative activity has been developed in the Mennonite communities. He is also interested in finding out what the attitude of the people is toward the further development of such enterprises.

This material is being used for a Ph.D. thesis at the University of Chicago. Brother Fretz wrote his Master's thesis on "Mutual Aid Among Mennonites." This was published in the Mennonite Quarterly Review. The present study is somewhat of a continuation.

To date a great interest has been discovered among the young people, especially, and also among some older folks. Young people, and older people as well, will find it very worthwhile to meet Brother Fretz as he makes this tour of Mennonite communities.

This mutual aid work has been built on the instruction of the Bible, "Bear ye one another's burdens."

Into the Regions Beyond

By Andrew R. Shelly

Jesus went to the regions beyond — the neglected. The fields are white unto harvest! People are eager for the refreshing waters! There is a great work to be done! We must send some of our very best men into these areas so that they too might "have life and have it more abundantly."

Jesus was looking to one more region beyond — the uttermost part of the earth. His last great concern was to make it clear to His disciples that His love knew no boundary lines: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

The question is still asked by some: "Why should the church engage in Christian Missions?" Many pious Christians seem to feel that since we have much work to accomplish right in our own communities all our efforts should be used in that direction. Very briefly I would like to suggest four reasons why I believe in the worldwide mission of the church.

The first reason is because of the great commission. Jesus Christ the head of the church, gave the marching orders. Some one has said that this fact should be sufficient to win support for mission work. And so it should! He said, “Ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth.” The “harvest field” in our text does not refer to America, or Europe, or Asia, but rather we are to conceive that as meaning the entire human race.

The second reason for believing in the worldwide mission of the church is because it is this conviction which provides the stimulation of the local church to higher spiritual levels. While this reason may be less important than the others it is nevertheless a fact that the local situation is better where the people have a burning passion for missions. It is this which stimulates prayer, giving, service, etc.

The third reason is because of the great need. According to the best available figures 34% of the world is nominally Christian. If we actually believe that in the message of the redeeming love of Jesus we have the solution for individual and group problems can we deprive others of the spiritual blessings we have received? No, but rather out of a heart overflowing with thanksgiving we should say with the hymn writer—

Were the whole realm of nature mine
That were a present far too small.
Love so amazing; so divine
Demands my life, my soul, my all.

The fourth reason is because of the great success of missionary efforts. Naturally here we could relate tale after tale of transformed lives and communities; of men, women, and children who have seen the Christ, of hospitals which have alleviated the sufferings of thousands, of schools which have fitted many for places of leadership, of better living conditions through better methods of farming and the carrying on of the daily tasks of living, and a host of other ways in which missions have enriched the lives of millions.

One need but read the accounts in the Mennonite of our own mission activities to be completely convinced of the great results of our efforts in the lands where our stations are located. No one can see the slides and hear the talk of Brother John Thiessen without sitting back and in a spirit of amazement and gratitude say, “What hath God Wrought”! And blessing! We must go to the regions beyond — the uttermost part of the earth.

In closing, I wish to express the result all of this should have upon our lives in the words of a Christian leader: by “Praying—praying—Saying.” It should stimulate us to prayer. The request of Missionary Moyer should be made the concern of every Christian. We should “pray the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest.” It should also stimulate us to giving. We must increasingly realize that we are but stewards of what we have and that the Lord does have a right to that which really is His own. Finally it should stimulate us to service. First this must express itself in our local churches: then as the Lord calls, we should willingly respond with the prophet “Here am I, send me!”

Let us go to the regions beyond — the social outcast, the racial outcast, the neglected, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

To the regions beyond
I must go, I must go:
Till the world; all the world
His salvation shall know.

“Lift up your eyes . . . look on the fields . . . they are white already to harvest.”

Main Topic: All One Family Acts 2:41-47

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: “The Churches' one Foundation,” “We've a Story to Tell to the Nations,” “Send the Light”
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Several short readings in line with main topic
4. Offering for missions

II. Leaders Introduction

Jesus prayer “that they all may be one” was realized to a large extent in the early church. The members prayed together, served one another with their spiritual and material gifts.

There is need today for this unity of spirit, for praying and waiting on the Lord, for open eyes to see the needs and willing hands and feet to work at common tasks. We are all one family. Children of our heavenly Father. We need to learn to live as one family where one has the interests of the others at heart, where we mutually love and forgive and serve each other, whether we are black or white, young or old, Mennonites or Methodists, English, American or German. There is no barrier between the members of the family of the Heavenly Father.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. “Joint-heirs with Christ” Rom. 8:14-17
2. Gentiles accepted Acts 10:44-48
3. All one body in Christ 1 Cor. 12:12, 13
4. Rules of conduct Eph. 4:20-32
5. The new intimacy John 15:9-17

IV. For Discussion

1. How can we work for the feeling of unity among I. our own church? II. Our own denomination? III. All Christians? IV. Between Christians of different nations?

V. Facts for Study

The amazing thing and yet the natural thing is that Christians who are Japanese have love for those who are Chinese, though the two countries are at war. Sometimes it seems as if they get ahead of us who have a Christian heritage of many years in proving that we are all brothers. We need to think today most seriously on the question, "Am I my brother's keeper." God's love for his children in other lands, China, France, Japan, Russia, Poland, Germany, Spain, England, Italy should bid us his children to prove to them that we are all brothers, who try to understand and help each other. Jesus says, "Other sheep have I, — them also will I bring."

Can We Keep the U. S. Out of War?

One of the Speakers at the Kansas Institute of International Relations was asked if it would be of any help if each member of the churches of the Friends, the Brethren and the Mennonites would write to the President, their Senators and Congressmen to work to keep the U. S. out of war. He answered, "It would have a tremendous influence."

Let us act as brothers would act, and use our influence to keep our brothers in the U. S. from killing our brothers across the sea.

The names of our Senators are: Hon. Arthur Capper and Clyde M. Reed. Their address, Senate Office Bldg., Washington, D. C. — If you prefer to write a post card that is alright.

Debate "Can Movies be an aid to better living?"

Informal Discussion

Specific questions:

1. Why do hobbies provide better ways of using time than do movies and other shows?
2. Make a list of the factors that determine a happy time for you.
3. Why can one person have a perfectly good time during the same evening while the other seemed to be very miserable?
4. Does a good time depend upon the activity or the person?
5. What makes a Christian good time?
6. Is it proper for a Christian to attend good movies?
7. How can we determine whether a movie is going to be good or bad?
   a. Consult the columns of the movie critic in the local newspaper.
   b. Take notice of the movies endorsed by the Christian Century, the International Journal of Religious Education, and other such journals.
8. Do you think young people could have an affect on the type of movies shown if they would refuse to attend the poor or questionable ones?

IN MEMORIAM

ANOTHER MENNONITE VETERAN GONE HOME

—REVEREND JOHN ROTH, former pastor of the Swiss Mennonite Church near Whitewater, Kansas, for 37 years, died at his recent home at Salem, Oregon, Friday, June 7, aged 77 years. Coming to Kansas from the Jura Mountains of Switzerland with his young wife and two children, he finally settled on a farm near Whitewater and worked day and night to provide for their growing family and to make the farm fully their own. God's blessing was with them until they finally had one of the nicest farmsteads in the neighborhood. The departed is a fine example of what thrift and industry can do, and when in a family "bete und arbeite" go hand in hand. — A memorial service was arranged for by his children and relatives in the church he served so long, where Rev. G. N. Harms and H. J. Dyck spoke appreciatively in memory of their neighbor and fellow pastor.

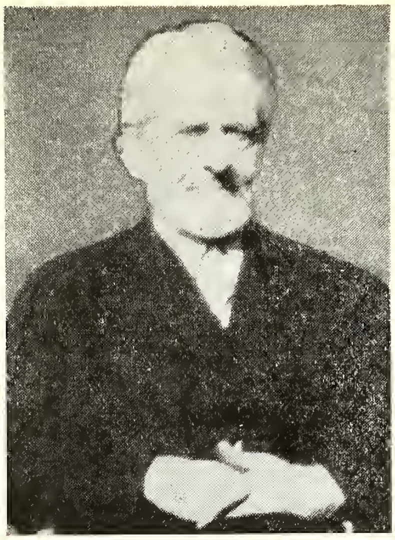
Funeral services and internment on the 16th at Deep Run. Rev. Harper of the Plymouth Brethren assisted the pastor, Rev. A. M. Fretz.



REV. BERNHARD REGIER, THE SON OF BERNHARD REGIER, SR., AND ANNA REGIER, was born at Sandhof, Marienburg, Germany on Jan. 1, 1855 and departed this life Monday, June 3, 1940 at the age of 85 years, 5 months and 2 days. On May 20, 1872 he was baptized upon confession of his faith and received into the Heubuden Mennonite Church. April 27, 1880 he was married to Louise Busenitz. To this union eight children were born, four of whom died in infancy. Several weeks after their marriage they migrated with his parents, his brother C. H. Regier, and a few others to America. He deeply loved his new country and often expressed his gratitude to God that He had led him into this blessed land. Arriving at Peabody, Kansas, they were welcomed at the hospitable home of his cousin, Jacob W. Regier. After a few weeks they moved to Newton living in the house back of the present city library until June, 1881. They then moved to their newly built commodious farm home three miles east on 12th Street, where they resided for forty-eight years. Soon after coming to Newton they joined the then but two years old Newton Mennonite Church, of which he was a devoted and active member. He was elected into the first board of trustees. He also served for almost twenty years as song leader, and several years as S. S. superintendent. In the year 1903 he was elected into the ministry. He faithfully served the church, proclaiming Christ the one sure cornerstone of our faith. Rev. Regier has also served in several committees of the Western District Conference. It was a special joy to him that two of his grandsons were called into the Gospel ministry.

To him had been given a special gift of bringing comfort and strength to the sick and aged. For this he drew upon the rich treasure of spiritual hymns and Bible passages stored in his memory. There was much singing in his home, especially at the time of the morning and evening devotions.

In the year 1929 he retired from his farm and moved to Newton. Here he and his beloved companion were privileged to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on April 27, 1930. Soon after this happy occasion his beloved wife preceded him to the eternal home. His years now became more lonely. Although the devoted loving thoughtfulness of his children did all that was possible to make the fathers' eventide a happy one, he sorely missed the one who had shared life's joys and sorrows with him for so many years. His special comfort was that his oldest son Cornelius lived with him.

About six years ago Rev. Regier found it necessary to submit to an operation, which proved so successful that for a number of years he enjoyed comparatively good health, but some time ago it became apparent that his sojourn here would not be for much longer. Since December of last year he has been bedfast. In all his sufferings he was patient, being fully resigned to the will of his Heavenly Father but deeply desiring to depart this life to be with the Lord. Now he sees Him, on Whom he believed and Whom he served. He has fought a good fight, he has finished his course, he has kept the faith: henceforth is laid up for him a crown of righteousness.

His memory is cherished by his children, Cornelius of the home, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Regier of Whitewater, Mrs. B. E. Regier, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Entz of Newton, a sister-in-law, Mrs. John Regier, Sr., of Newton, thirteen grandchildren, many relatives, a host of friends and the church he has faithfully served.

At the funeral Rev. J. B. Epp served at the home and the ministers J. E. Entz and A. Warkentin at the church.

MRS. ELISABETH KOEHN, daughter of PETER and HELENE KOEHN UNRUH, was born near Moundridge, Kansas, Junly 7, 1878. December 7, 1897 she was married to Gustav D. Koehn, with whom she lived over 42 years. On January 21, 1940, her husband preceded her in death, a little over four months.

In 1898 the family moved to Meno, Oklahoma, and made their home 6 miles from there, where they both spent the remainder of their lives. She transferred her membership from the Garden Township to the New Hopedale Church on coming to Okla. For several years she was threatened with a cancer ailment which she bore in silence until recently when it began to trouble her so that she had to seek relief. A stay at the hospital brought no hopes. After intense suffering, she passed away to be with her Master whom she had trusted in her life. During her illness she would generally ask her visitors to read from God's word and pray with her. She passed away

June 3, 1940, at the age of 61 years, 10 months and 26 days.

She leaves to mourn her departure, her aged mother-in-law and stepmother, who had made her home with them for a number of years, and the following children: Julius and Paul, Meno; Martha (Mrs. Albert Janzen) Billings, Okla.; Hulda (Mrs. Albert Smith) and Wilma (Mrs. Leonard Unruh) both of Meno, Okla., also 10 grandchildren; Rev. Fred. Koehn, Perryton, Texas, is a brother-in-law; D. A. Unruh, Jacob P. Unruh and Rev. John P. Unruh are brothers, and Mrs. David A. Wedel is a sister of hers. Besides there are many other relatives and friends.

MRS. ELIZABETH ENSZ, THE DAUGHTER OF JACOB J. AND ANNA GOOSSEN, was born April 20, 1879 at Marion, S. Dak.

Her father was drowned in a flood in the attempt to save some of the relatives who were in danger, before the daughter was born, so she never got to know her earthly father. Her mother then married Mr. William Harms, who became her father and provider. She had the blessing to have her dear mother, who attained the age of 83 years with her till just nine months before her death.

She was married to Abraham D. Ensz April 17, 1898 and thus shared with him joy and sorrow for over 42 years. January 7, 1904, they moved to Okla., east of Meno, where she spent the rest of her days. June 14, 1914 she was baptized upon her faith in Jesus Christ by Rev. J. B. Epp, joined the New Hopedale Mennonite church and remained a true and faithful member.

Wednesday morning, May the 15th, she took seriously ill from which she did not recover. Before and during her sickness she felt that she would not live long and prepared to go to her heavenly home. She breathed her last Sunday morning June 2, 1940, and attained the age of 61 years 1 month and 12 days.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, and the following children: Hulda (Mrs. Peter Wiens) Lahoma; John, Enid, Anna, Mary, Daniel, Henry, Mathilda and Josephine all at home; Elisabeth (Mrs. Abe Koehn) Meno; Helen (Mrs. Edd Pankratz) Hydro; William, Meno and Louise (Mrs. Alvin Frey) Flagstaff, Arizona.

Besides the husband and children she leaves 5 grandchildren, one brother, Jacob Goosen, Marion, So. Dak., one half brother, Frank Harms, Enid, and one half sister, Dallas, Oregon, and many friends and relatives.

Funeral was held Wesdnesday, June 5, conducted by the pastor Rev. H. U. Schmidt assisted by Rev. Seibel, Enid, and evangelist Albert J. Unruh.

The funeral, held June 6, was conducted by the pastor, H. U. Schmidt, assisted by Rev. J. W. Bargen, Rev. H. T. Neufeld, and evangelist Albert J. Unruh.

CORRESPONDENCE

WEST ZION CHURCH, MOUNDRIDGE, KAN.

Our congregation was permitted to participate in a beautiful worship service this morning, June 16. John L. Huxman presented an Everett Orgatron to the West Zion Church in loving memory of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Huxman, his sister, Miss Louise Huxman and his brother, Daniel E. Huxman. This gift was gratefully accepted by the congregation and dedicated to the worship of God. This electric organ includes a major organ, an echo organ and chimes. Mrs. Weldon Rupp presided at the organ during the dedication services. Special solos rendered were: "O Salutaris Hostia" by Guilmont, "Hymn of Glory" by Pietre Yon, "Largo" from "New World Symphony" and a number of familiar and beloved hymns. Two anthems "Calvary" and "Hark, Hark My Soul" by the mixed choir, under the direction of Waldo Pankratz, added to the inspiration of the morning services. We pray that as this Memorial Organ peals forth its tones from Sabbath to Sabbath that we may be led to surrender our hearts and lives to Christ and that this gift may be a perpetual challenge to our church to go steadily forward in the service of our Master. Our pastor, Rev. P. K. Regier, brought us an inspiring message on "Music as an Aid to Worship."

During the spring months our congregation enjoyed many spiritual treats. We are very grateful to God that we are free to worship as we may choose. One Sunday Bro. and Sister P. W. Penner were with us and brought a beautiful and challenging testimony from our fellow Christians in India. Their visit was indeed a blessing. Brother H. N. Harder of the Enid Church was in our midst one Sunday morning with a Home Mission message. We are grateful to him for this glimpse of our work in Enid, Okla.

On a Sunday evening in April the Men's Chorus of Hesston College, in our neighboring village, gave our congregation a musical treat. This service in song was greatly enjoyed by everyone. We were not merely entertained but drawn closer to God as well. At another time we enjoyed a visit from the Men's Chorus of the Mennonite Church in Hillsboro. This was an exchange program with our Men's Chorus.

On Mother's Day a number of small children were consecrated to the Lord in a solemn service.—Early in May our Junior Endeavor gave a program at the Bruderthal Church near Hillsboro. We trust that this exchange of programs was mutually helpful.—On Memorial Day the Sunday School greatly enjoyed a picnic in the Dester Grove, southeast of Moundridge. —Mrs. August Ewy, Corr.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, NEWTON, KANSAS

Much of both joy and sorrow has happened in our church this year, but throughout both, there can be seen the power of God's moving hand. There have been deaths, births, and marriages, and the other usual happenings, but with that there has been a progressive movement onward. God has certainly been manifest here.

One of the most inspirational features of the year has been messages given us by different ministers and leaders. Dr. M. A. Stone, Bible teacher and evangelist, Dr. Henry S. Gehman, Professor of Princeton Theological Seminary, Dr. W. A. Elliot who led in Bible Week at Bethel College, Rev. P. K. Regier, pastor of the West Zion Mennonite Church at Moundridge, Rev. W. C. Voth, missionary from China, Dr. Herbert Lockyer, of England, and Dr. A. H. Unruh of Manitoba, Canada, both of whom led in the Third Annual Christian Bible Conference week services, some of which were held in our church, from April 14 to 19.

Passion week and Easter were observed in a number of programs which rendered the soul a real service in bringing it to higher realms. On March 17 the Bethel College A Cappella Choir, directed by Prof. W. H. Hohmann, gave Dubois' "Seven Last Words." On March 22 the Senior Choir presented "The Crucifixion" and a special program by the Young People's Choir and orchestra combined was also given during this time.

Ted E. Claassen, who was appointed by the Mennonite Central Committee as relief commissioner to aid the needy in war-torn Europe, left Newton in April. The last that has been heard from him, came from London. He had also been on the Continent. The prayers of all should be directed toward him and his service.

Among the new and very welcome members of the church are Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Lincheid, who for forty years served as missionaries among our American Indians.—The Mission Study Circle has been active in many ways. Mrs. W. C. Voth, missionary from China, and Mrs. P. W. Penner, missionary from India, were interesting speakers for some of their meetings. They also had a food sale the proceeds of which were solely used for missions.

On May 19 a service was held for all the graduates from our church. The group included 15 high school graduates, three from Hesston Academy, and seven from Bethel College. One who was graduated from Wheaton College this spring, was not present.—On Pentecost Sunday, twenty-two young people confessed their Lord as their personal Savior in baptism. Truly this number of young persons who are dedicating their lives to service in the kingdom, is worthy of special consideration and prayer.

On the evening of June 10, a young people's outing was held at Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Entz' home. As usual, the annual outing proved a blessed time for everyone, providing fellowship and spiritual retreat as well as a good time.

As a closing note, we may pay a silent tribute to the senior minister of our church, Rev. B. Regier, whose final repose was granted him on June 3. He was eighty-five years old. He will long be remembered not only for the services he rendered from the pulpit, but for the personal interest in and sympathy with people. His ministrations to the sick and needy will be especially remembered.

BETHANY MENN. CHURCH, KINGMAN, KS.

The weather is at present very nice and cool, with enough moisture for a while. We had a heavy rain last week which did some damage to the crops. Harvest is approaching and we hope for a nice yield.

Last Sunday, June 9, our Church celebrated the Annual Home Day with a number of friends and relatives present. Lunch was served at noon in the church basement. All enjoyed visiting until time for afternoon services.

Sunday School started as usual at 9:30. Rev. Erwin Allbright who was ordained to the Ministry a year ago on the same occasion, and now is serving a congregation in Connecticut, was the first speaker. Missionary Sam J. Goering of Newton gave two very interesting sermons, both morning and afternoon. Rev. Barkman of the Kingman Zion Church was another good speaker in the afternoon. All these sermons were very good. The Choir of the local church gave a special song service in the morning, and the Kingman Zion Men's chorus sang in the afternoon.

The cantata "Zion" was given in the evening by the Bethany church under the direction of Rev. E. J. Neuenschwander, pastor of the church. Rev. Neuenschwander is holding revival meetings in Oregon this week. We wish him the Lord's blessing and expect to have him at home by next Sunday.

THE PEACE COMMITTEE OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE

This Committee is sorely in need of support in order to do the work assigned to it. I am therefore making this appeal to churches and individuals to send contributions to the treasurer of this Committee, ble. Churches that have not taken offerings for this Bro. Luke J. Horsch, Upland, Calif. as soon as possi- important work, are requested and urged to do so now. —C. C. Krehbiel, Conference president.

— Bergfelder Church, Delft, Minn., 6-17-40.—Sunday, June 9, was an important day in the Delft Bergfelder Church. In the morning service Rev. John Bartel, formerly of Mt. Lake Bethel Church, gave his opening sermon. In the evening we had a welcome service for our new pastor and at the same time a farewell service for Lando Hiebert who served our church the past year.

Rev. H. H. Quiring presided at the meeting and also turned over the leadership of the Delft Bergfelder Church to the new pastor. Rev. Bartel gave the farewell address and Lando Hiebert a welcome address. It was an impressive service and we were very grateful to our Heavenly Father that we could welcome a new pastor at the same time that we said good-by to our former pastor. Lando Hiebert left to conduct evangelistic meetings in Canada.

— Bethel College Church, North Newton, Kans.— Summarizing the news from this church for the month of June, we began by joining with many other churches in the Mennonite Song festival. June 9, our children presented the annual Children's day program. The Men's Brotherhood, now actively sponsoring the local Boy Scout group, specially organized recently by the church, had another of its splendid outdoor meetings of all the men of the church with the boys — an evening of fun, frolic, and fellowship. June 16, as our guest speaker in the pulpit, Dr. Arthur E. Holt, of the Chicago Theological Seminary, brought a message of hope, of good will, and of inspiration, urging upon all the necessity of aggressive initiative on the part of all in love, forgiveness, and goodwill as the only type of Christianity which can save the world in this dificult day. —Mrs. B. Bargen.

—Dr. D. J. Unruh, President of Freeman Jr. College, was elected president of the Northern District Conference during its recent session at Henderson, Nebr. Adolph Preheim whose report of the Conference appears in this issue of The Mennonite was re-elected secretary.

—Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa.—A Jotting concerning this church intended for last weeks' Mennonite appeared in two parts and places. We substitute the following for this week: SUMMER BIBLE SCHOOL—Plans are being drawn up to hold a Vacation Bible School from June 17 to July 15. We are always looking for ways to improve the work and so far this year we expect to change materials used. Clarence Benson of the Moody Bible Institute is putting out a new course called "The Superior School Series" which is the best thing we have seen in this field. —Bulletin

— Mennonite Collegiate Institute at Gretna, Manitoba, had its closing exercises Saturday, June 1. As this event signalized the completion of fifty years of valuable service by the school for the Mennonite Churches of Canada, one thousand former students and friends of the school attended the festivities. A former Kansan, Prof. H. H. Ewert, who started the school that finally became Bethel College, served the Gretna institution for over forty years and did more than any other person to build up the school and a school constituency.

— Bethesda Church, Marion, S. Dak.—The forty children who are enrolled in our Daily Bible School have studied hard and are planning to end the course with a program. Misses Amanda Ewert of Dolton, S. D. and Helena Hiebert of Henderson, Nebr. are the teachers. — Rev. Edward Duerksen, Rev. Helmuth Ortman, Rev. J. J. Thiessen, Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Penner, missionaries, have visited our church recently.

— First Mennonite church, Upland, Calif. observes Family Night once a month. The following is a fair sample of programs carried out such nights:

"Please come early and sit in family groups. Each family will be asked to respond with a number for the program — Scripture verse, music, instrumental or vocal, 2-minute talks. Special honors for those couples who have passed their fiftieth wedding anniversaries. Let us all plan to be present and make it a memorable occasion." — On Sunday, June 23, the Parsonage Dedication service was held on a lawn near the church, at 6:30 p.m.

— Second Menn. Church, Beatrice, Nebr.—From Bulletin of June 10: "Monday: Bethel College fellowship Drive. Let us remember the hardships which others have gone through in founding and maintaining this Mennonite Institution. Let us recognize the service which it renders in the upbuilding of the Kingdom of God. It is our school. We need it. It needs us. Pray for it. Be interested in it. Give for it. Bethel means "House of God." Young people should have a "House of God" where they can learn about their Father's business." —Mrs. Abram P. Baerg, Corr.

—St. John Menn. Church, Pandora, Ohio.—Fourteen young people were baptized Sunday, June 9, on confession of their faith in the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Savior. They should be remembered in ourf prayers and remind us of the vows we made when baptized.—On Sunday evening June 23, the choirs of the four Mennonite churches near Pandora and Bluffton, Ohio, presented the oratorio, "The Holy City" by Gaul. —St. John Bulletin

— Friedensberg Church, Avon, So. Dak.—P. W. Penners helped to make June 9 a day of blessing and mission enthusiasm in our church by giving talks throughout the day. — Rev. J. J. Thiessen of Saskatoon, Canada, could not give his message at the appointed time because of rain. —J. E. Unruh, Corr.

Minute Message on the Christian Home

An unbiased scientific study of married couples, made by Burgess and Cottrell in 1939, indicates four things as favorable to family happiness:—

A friendly disposition, common interests and friendships.

Frequent use of words and ways of affection.

Agreement as to the use of money.

ATTANDANCE AT CHURCH AND SUNDAY SCHOOL.

To this should be added the maintenance of a Family Altar—Editor

—Bethel Hospital Association, Mountain Lake, Minn. recently held its Annual Meeting. The superintendent's report showed that the hospital cared for 525 patients during the past year, 192 operations were performed, 84 received medical care, 120 babies were born. Patients were cared for in 4,116 nursing days, an average of a little more than 11 per day. The patients numbered 112 Mennonites, 117 Lutherans, 12 Methodists, 10 were of other denominations, and 16 belonged to no church. Marie Toews is the superintendent and H. T. Nickel, D. D. Schultz, D. H. Fast, D. G. Hiebert, F. F. Loewen, Frank Rempel compose the Board of Directors.

—Freeman Junior College.—Nineteen of the 1940 graduates have already been placed in elementary teaching positions, at salaries ranging from $45 to $65, as Mr. Congdon of the Placement Bureau reports.—Professors Edwin P. Graber and Gerhard Toews are again out to carry on student solicitation work. While this work is very essential, it is becoming more apparent that the most effective campaigners for new students are the students who have attended the school.—Miss Caroline A. Waltner who has given the college many years of faithful service, more recently as instructor in teacher training, retired from her work at the close of the past school year.

—Rev. C. H. van der Smissen of the Bethel Home for Aged and his sister, Sister Hillegonda, both of whom are retired, took a "vacation" from their retirement about two weeks ago by making a trip to Crete, Nebr., to visit his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Balzer and family. Mr. van der Smissen is 89 years of age, and his sister a few years older, yet this seemed to be no hindrance and both thoroughly enjoyed themselves. While on their way home Mrs. Balzer, who was driving the car, struck a ridge of heavy sand, tearing the battery out of its place. In spite of this they continued their trip in a heavy rain for about 15 miles before the damage could be repaired. Wondering how the car could run with the battery dislocated as it was, the repairman said, "I believe in miracles now." —Menn. Weekly Review

SALEM MENN. CHURCH, FREEMAN, SO. DAK.

Our four weeks' Summer Bible School with 65 pupils enrolled and four teachers, closes this week.

It seems to me that the following MARRIAGES have not been reported to the Mennonite:

Max Waltner, member of Salem Church, Freeman, S. Dak., and Tillie Boese, member of Bethel Church, Dolton, S. Dak., married September 7th, 1939 at Salem Church by Rev. Jacob A. Tieszen.

Harold Graber, member of Salem Church, Freeman, S. Dak., and Mary Gering, member of Salem-Zion Church, Marion, S. Dak., married October 12, 1939 at Salem-Zion Church by Rev. H. Albert Claassen.

Elmer Schrag, member of Salem-Zion Church, and Clarice Waltner, member of Salem Church, Freeman, S. Dak., married November 28, 1939 at Salem Church, by Rev. Alfred P. Waltner.

This was during my illness last fall, and so I failed to report them. —P. R. Schroeder

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—This congregation is making preparations to celebrate its Diamond Jubilee Anniversary from October 20 to November 1st next. A Diamond Jubilee Year Book is also in prospect.—Vacation Bible School starts July 1.—Steps are being taken to install a new heating plant for the church.

—Mennonites given B. D. degree.—On May 29th, at the commencement exercises of the Hartford Seminary Foundation, Hartford, Conn. 56 men and women had degrees conferred upon them. Among these were four Mennonites, Erwin Albright, Hiram H. Hilty, Harold C. Ratzlaff and Russell L. Mast, who received the Bachelor of Divinity degree. Mr. Mast was awarded the Hartranft prize of $75.00. This young man goes to Deep Run, Pa. where he will serve as associate of the veteran pastor Rev. Allen M. Fretz.

—The Treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions recently made it out that the total receipts of the first four months of this year were $2133.23 less than in 1939, the contributions then totalling $27,859.54 as against $25,726.31 this year.

New Portland Workers

by A. J. Neuenschwander, Sec. Home Mission Board

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Regier
5215 N. E. 23rd Avenue, Portland, Oregon

The Home Mission Board and all friends will rejoice in the fact that Alberta Community Church, Portland, Oregon has again pastoral leadership.

Rev. and Mrs. Regier began their work in Portland Sunday, June 16th. Rev. Regier was graduated from Bethel College four weeks ago, where he majored in Bible. During their college careers Rev. and Mrs. Regier were active in the Student Volunteer Organization, going out to churches frequently to do deputation work. Both have been active in various musical lines. During the summer time, Rev. Regier has served several small churches under the direction of the Western District Home Mission Committee.

On Sunday, May 19th, Rev. Regier was ordained in Zion Mennonite Church, Elbing, Kansas, where he was an active member ever since his conversion and baptism.

The members of Alberta Community Church have carried on nobly since the leaving of Rev. and Mrs. Miller, in the early part of the year. The average attendance for the first quarter in Sunday School was 75. There are 37 members.

May the Lord richly bless the efforts of the new workers who are now located in the new parsonage at the address above.

Thoughts Gleaned from a Sermon

Theme: Adequate Defense. "Some trust in chariots, and some in horses; but we will remember the name of the Lord." Psalm 20:7.—The first part of this text describes our country. Our government places its trust for defense in bombing planes, war tanks, various fighting craft, and other machines of destruction, with little thought of faith in God. We have lost sight of God, we have gone into a far land, like the prodigal son. We need to repent and come back to the Father. The present war shows that man-made defenses crumble and anti-fighting engines are inadequate in the face of the terrible modern impliments of destruction. The Allies thought they were quite safe with material defenses, the Maginot line, forts, and up-to-date war fleets. But the German "Blitzkrieg" methods have shown that they were not. No, material force and weapons do not give adequate protection, though our Government thinks 200 more battleships, tens of thousands of bombing planes and war tanks will give it. But, they won't. God alone can protect for a surity. The people of God knew that. Yet, they, too, relied on chariots and horses.

The psalmist knew the futility of reliance on human and mechanical force. We will remember the NAME of the Lord. Why the name of the Lord and not just the Lord? Among the Israelites names had significant meanings. They often revealed the characteristics of a person. That was particularly true of the name of God. First, God's name stood for Justice, absolute justice. What a wonderful quality! Do we exercise justice, with other races, the unemployed, the down and out that cannot help themselves. No, justice has largely gone from our land. It is found with God alone. And it is for us to build it and other God-like qualities into the lives and characters of young men and women, that it may thus be disseminated throughout the land. Second, God was known for His Integrity, Honesty and Truth. Are the people of our land known for these qualities? Do we not rather find deception, dishonesty and lying growing rank all about us? Third, God was noted for His Holiness. What an incentive, what a challenge to a people to know a God that is holy, in encouraging them to live pure, upright, clean lives! How we as a people are lacking in these qualities, while crimes of all sorts are abounding, impure living and wrecked lives only too common! But there is God, the pure God, the just God, the truthful God to be immitated as our ideal. Fourth, God is a God of Love. Yes, a God of fathomless love, undying love, all-embracing love who planned our salvation and reconciliation with Him through the sacrifice of His son as our redeemer. A nation of people honestly trying to live lives of such characteristics as we find them in God would be its own and only adequate defense. —T.

WHERE IS GOD NOW?

People who ordinarily pay little attention to God are today anxiously looking around for Him and asking, "Where is He?" If He is the good and just God as He is pictured to us, if He is the director of man's destinies, how can He look unconcerned on what has been and is now going on in Europe? How can he bear the sight of men created in His own image killing each other by the hundreds of thousands, and the aged, women and children made homeless and driven to despair in almost countless numbers? In trying to find an answer to this question and others that puzzle men and women in these perilous times, we might lose ourselves in musing upon the transcendence and immanence of God without getting anywhere. A very simple way to answer the question is to go by God's Word and say that we are approaching the end of the present world, that war, famine, destruction are signs that portend the return of Christ on earth, to establish His kingdom, a new world under his rule. But, as no human being knows how near or how far we are from the consummation of that event, we must try to be content by answering, God has His plans even in the events of today, though they may be slow of fulfillment. He promised a savior in the Garden of Eden. Yet, he postponed his coming for four thousand long years. He allowed the children of Israel to suffer in bondage four hundred weary years. And, after all, is it not man that retards God's dealings with the human race? "The Lord looked down from heaven upon the children of men to see if there were any that did understand and seek God. But they are all gone aside, they are altogether become filthy, there is none that doeth good, no, not one." Ps. 14:2-3. The age old question of a world living in evil though ruled by a good God still remains. Man whose "imagination (striving) is evil from his youth" is given free sway to do as he pleases, even to the destruction of what God and he have created. Though we blame the Germans and the Russians for bringing upon the world the horrid spectacle now before us, must we not penitently smite our breast and confess, we too are guilty of bringing about this situation? And that means us Christians particularly. God is still here, even though the world appears to be bent on commiting suicide. He is ready to help us remedy things, if only we seek and ask. We have this assurance from his own son, our Savior. And in His own time He will bring about a regime of peace. —T.

ANOTHER DAY'S WORK

Basna, India, March, 1940

It was Easter Week. The bell for the sunrise prayer meeting rang at 5:30. By six o'clock the church was filled. After conducting the service I spent some time directing the various workers and then went to the hospital where services for the patients were in progress. (Last year 250 services were held at the hospital with an average attendance of 28 at each service.) Ward rounds and writing the orders for 45 patients took some time as well as energy. Since there were a number of operations the dispensary hour was cut short. After three minor operations a bladder stone was removed from a young man and an ablation operation performed on a young girl with an ugly protruding eye. (Staphyloma). Even in India many operations are performed for the sake of looks, on men as well as women.

In the afternoon there were two cataract operations and two operations to correct eye lashes turned in on the eye ball. "The saddest story of word or pen is this, 'It might have been'." The many hopelessly blind who come to us might, in most cases, have been helped had they had treatment in time. Besides syphilis, the eye diseases, glaucoma, trachoma, and ulcers take a terrible toll of eyes in India.

Another minor operation ended the busy day at sundown.

Yours in a small one doctor hospital, H. E. Dester.

SCHOOL WORK AT MAUHADIH

By Mrs. Anna Isaac

Our school boys have been a great inspiration as well as a challenge to us. When we stop to think of the potentialities for good or evil in these young boys on the very threshold of life, we tremble at the responsibility that is ours.

In the Bible class which I teach, I have met with a gratifying response in a number of the boys. There are thirty-five on the roll. While the subject of our study is "The Life of St. Paul" our prime objective is to build character in these young lives. On one day a week I give opportunity for questions outside our subject, and here are a few that have been asked: "Is it true that we are what we think?" "Will Hindus that lead good lives according to their knowledge who have never heard of Jesus be saved?" "Can one be saved without being baptised?" "What is the difference between us and the Catholics?" and many others.

One boy who was brought to us as a babe is now a true child of God, and is concerned about his own relatives. Occasionally he goes to his native village about twenty-five miles from here, and to the best of his limited ability witnesses for Christ. He is only about sixteen years old. Recently he has come to me several times after school hours with another boy to get suitable Scripture passages for his unsaved relatives. We have emphasized the fact that God's own Word is "living and active and sharper than any twoedged sword" and His special promises rest upon it. Therefore we seek to give His Own Word to the people. When our Christians will become burdened for their unsaved relatives and will testify to them of God's redeeming power, then we will have large ingatherings.

The health of our boys this year has been very good. We believe the fact that they all have to work is a great contributing factor to their health and happiness. Weaving, sewing, carpentering, farming and animal husbandry are among the occupations from which they may choose.

We had a splendid orange and peanut crop this year. Sugar cane is also among our farm products. We have recently finished making bricks of delicious brown sugar called "gur" from the juice. Vegetables for the boys have also been plentiful. They cannot do all the work, but help certain hours of every day for which they receive five pies (approximately one cent) an hour. If they are conscientious and industrious they can earn enough to buy their clothing, some school supplies and an occasional blanket.

For the next school year the school will be transferred to Basna. The fifth and sixth classes are already there. We shall miss the boys.

Happy To Acknowledge

WHAT! Just very recently we have returned from an extended trip. First, it was our outstanding privilege to attend the Oklahoma Convention of churches, held in the spacious High School Auditorium at Clinton, May 26th and 27th. Upon this followed the Northern District Conference at Henderson, Nebr., June 2nd to 5th. From both gatherings columns could be filled, describing the uplifting impressions obtained and carried away. To the credit of both program committees it may be said that the spiritual aspect was duly taken into consideration, most uplifting insertions were thought of, so as to offset the monotonous and machine-like business deliberations. The display of the musical talent manifested what systematic training accomplishes. Singing and music always draws our innermost to the living God. These renditions showed that the persons sharing the rendering entered into them with a devoted and prayerful heart, wishing to glorify the Savior. This attitude will certainly add infinitely to the significance to reach the objective of song. The articulation proved so masterful that one could understand the text clearly in the pews almost throughout the vast auditorium. What a blessing rendered by those selections!

A very commendable and hopeful feature was the presence of the large host of young people who helped along expressively throughout the sessions in various manner. They revealed a vital interest. One can rest assured that the church of to-morrow will be well bolstered up to carry on the program of activities successfully. GOD'S GRACE REST UPON THEM, THE YOUTH SUBMIT TO THE MASTER'S GUIDANCE, ALL SHALL MOVE TOWARD HIGHER ASPIRATIONS IN HIS KINGDOM!

In the early days of Oklahoma, when our father, Rev. Jacob W. Penner with other committee members helped to organize the churches almost throughout the state of Oklahoma, the beginnings, as gathered from his reports, were exceedingly meagre. Oh, how a person wished him to behold with us the posterity of those days fill the vast auditorium with such an ardent host up in arms for the Master's use! The recollections of yore days then filled with depressive feelings, but now the present day display filled the innermost with unspeakable joy, verifying that the work done for the Lord's vineyard must ultimately yield rich fruit. "WHATSOEVER IS WROUGHT IN HIS NAME SHALL NOT RETURN VOID!"

Immediately after the conference at Henderson, the Madrid, Nebraska, church was visited. From there for the first time in our itinerary the churches of S. Dakota were canvassed. The ministers drew up a full plan how to visit the General Conference churches, including also a half dozen churches that have not yet joined. Everywhere we enjoyed the heartiest welcome, while noticing the undivided attention that was given to what was reported from the mission field in India and elsewhere. A very good sign of interest harbored within them for the cause of spreading the Gospel. The busy time among the farmers somewhat curtailed the attendance.

With a feeling of deepest appreciation and gratitude toward our heavenly Father, and to those who helped make the entire itinerary with their hospitality and prayers, etc., a success, we praise God. The Master will certainly reward.

Yours in His blessed service,
P. W. and Mathilde Penner, Hillsboro, Kans.

Special Meeting of Western District Ministers

Recommendation by W. D. Peace Committee

At a special meeting of the ministers of the Western District Conference held at Goessel, Kansas, June 26, the following recommendation from the Western District Peace Committee was presented, carefully considered, and adopted:

"In view of the fact that there is a manifest desire throughout our churches for more definite Peace instruction and education; and inasmuch as the present crisis demands careful and competent guidance on the problems of Peace by some trained Peace Secretary; and since we believe that such a Peace Secretary is at present available:

"Therefore: the Western District Peace Committee recomends to the Ministers' Conference and to the Western District Conference, that they support the Western District Peace Committee in employing Bro. H. A. Fast as a full-time Peace Secretary until the General Conference Peace Committee takes over the work.

Be it further recommended that the funds necessary for this work be raised by the Churches of the Western District Conference, with such assistance as may be given by other churches of the General Conference; the Relief Board; and the Western District Peace Committee."

"Brother Fast is already at work on his new task. Now it is necessary for churches and individuals to give this important work their generous and prompt support that it may function at its best. The work of our Peace Secretary is urgent and vital, and we dare not hinder it by lack of financial support.

Will not the various churches take steps at once to send contributions for the cause of Peace to the treasurer of the Western District Peace Committee, Rev. Walter H. Dyck, 1408 North Ninth Street, Beatrice, Nebraska. Let us remember this work in our prayers and labor and sacrifice together for the great cause of Peace so dear to us all.

Western District Peace Committee,
P. H. Richert, President
J. N. Smucker, Secretary

Gospel Team Work of the O.B.A.

As reported at Oklahoma Convention, Clinton, Okla.

The Oklahoma Bible Academy Gospel Team is a group of about fifty young people, who are serving their Lord and Master. This group was organized under the direction of Rev. Sol Mouttet and Rev. J. B. Frey, on January 19, 1937. The purpose was to bring the Gospel wherever opportunities come. The first program was given by some of the members at the Helena Orphanage, the first Sunday after the group was organized. The group meets every Wednesday night for the study of God's word, the Sunday School lesson, and prayer meeting. And what a great help and inspiration these meetings are, when we as Christians can fellowship together!

The two places that we serve regularly are the Helena Orphanage, 17 miles from Meno, which is served every Sunday evening, and the Oak Dale School, which is served every other Sunday. The attendance at the Orphanage is about forty, at the School about thirty. Besides, there are street meetings which are held at the various nearby towns on every Saturday night, during the summer months. The O. B. A. Girls' quartet and the Gospel quartet also have given a large number of programs at the different churches. A number of gospel tracts and scripture stamps have been handed out by the different members at convenient times. One of the girls at the Orphanage gave this testimony: I was corresponding with a girl who was not a Christian. But, since I began to put scripture stamps on the envelopes, this girl, too, began writing about Heaven.

A number of conversions have taken place during our service in the places visited, for which we praise the Lord, not for what we did, but what He has done. Two members are at present teaching Vacation Bible School, two have already completed four weeks of teaching and are going to another place to serve.

The money from the different churches which amounts to about $42.00, and for which we are very grateful, has helped very much in paying expenses especially for paying the tuition of Bertha Craig, a girl from the Orphanage.

A number of the group have gone to their various homes, since the close of school, and I am sure their testimony will ring out there in the different communities. We covet your prayers, dear Christians, daily. For it is only through prayer that things are accomplished. Prayer changes things and prayer changes me. "We are His workmanship created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which he hath before ordained, that we should walk in them." Eph. 2:10. "Having ordained us unto the adoption of children by Christ Jesus to Himself, according to the good pleasure of His will. To the praise of the glory of His grace, wherein He has made us accepted in the beloved." Eph. 1:5, 6.

SERMON SKETCH

by J. E. Kaufman, Inman, Kansas

GOD CAN BE DEPENDED ON

"God is faithful". 1 Cor. 1:9.

Read the text in Moffat's translation and instead of the familiar words, "God is faithful", you get the fresh rendering, "God can be depended on".

Paul was writing to a little group of Christians in a very wicked city. We sometimes think there is no hope in the situation where we are, but Paul in greater difficulty did not lose hope. Why? He believed God can be depended upon. His whole life was permeated with this thought which accounted for its usefulness.

Science believes in law. Chemistry is the same in America and Australia. Astronomy is the same in England and Japan. Electricity acts the same in North and South America.

Even so for the religious man God can be depended on. Will the sun rise? Can you calculate an eclipse? Then God can be depended on. He is the same from age to age. He is as faithful now as He was in Paul's day.

Let us consider briefly:

I. What the text does not mean.

1. It does not mean we are living in a sin-proof world. God allows people to go right or wrong. He has given us the power of choice.

2. Neither are we in a fool-proof world. People make mistakes, they and the rest of us have to suffer. We are urged to believe "might makes right", to trust in force. "Not by might nor by power but by my Spirit, saith the Lord."

3. Neither is this a lazy man's world. God is not going to do for us what we can do for ourselves. We are not here to drift.

II. What does the text mean?

1. It means that when a person gives his heart to God, when he uses his best thought, when he works hard, when he does his part, then God cooperates to make all things work out for the best, for He is faithful.

2. It means that in spite of human sin and foolishness, God is ever working for humanity and he never fails any one.

III. How can we know God can be depended on?

1. Testimony of Paul. In analizing Paul's experiences of life, he concludes, "God is faithful".

2. Testimony of Jesus. The secret of the strength and power of His life was his complete reliance on God, the Father, who can be depended on.

3. If it is not true that God can be depended on, then we live in an unbalanced world. Even the regularity and faithfulness of nature teaches us that God is dependable.

4. Make the venture and find that faith works. No one can force us to depend on God, but no one can prevent our believing.

IV. Then let us think of the results of trusting God, the Father, who can be depended on.

1. Courage. No real harm can get at us.

2. Peace. When things are disturbing, we need not get disturbed.

3. Hope. The best is yet to be in this world and the next.

4. Joy. He who has courage, peace, and hope will have joy. The joy of the Lord will be his strength.

Have you learned to depend on God in every situation of life? "God is faithful". Trust Him completely and all will be well. In these days of uncertainty, be reminded that God can be depended on.

JOB'S REPENTANCE AND RESTORATION

Job 42:1-13

Introduction

After all the arguments between Job and his three friends had been ended, God himself spoke to him out of a whirlwind (chs. 38-41). Job had wished that he might come before God and state his case to Him. God's words drew Job into His immediate presence. He came face to face with Job and his friends. He drew Job's attention to all the perfections in the universe which reveal Him as God. He asks Job two fundamental questions: Shall mortal man contend with the Almighty? and Shall man charge God with being unrighteous in His rule of the world? He shows Job how insignificant he is when compared with the Creator of all things in nature, both inanimate and animate. Job is truly humbled. God revealed to him that man's true attitude is that of reverential humility (41:34).

Repentance of Job vs. 1-6

His confession is complete. He recognizes God's omnipotence in His creation (v2). He also testifies that God is supremely just and that His motives are always holy. Job had harbored the feeling that God had unjustly permitted him to be afflicted. Our motives are mixed and we may at times question God's dealings with us. Job came to see that no evil could come from Jehovah. He confesses his ignorance and that his arguments had been "without knowledge" (v3). He had made some rash statements concerning God's work in the world. These he much regretted. He had never renounced God. He spoke from lack of full understanding. Job is now willing that God should speak to him (v4). His previous knowledge of God had been hearsay—quite inadequate—but now it is direct, face to face (v5). His spiritual eyes were opened to see Jehovah and he saw himself as he really was. He was penitently sorry for his error which was of the judgment and not of the heart (v6).

God Vindicates Job vs 7-13

God severely rebukes the three friends of Job because their words were essentially false. Their fundamental theory of God's providence was wrong, whereas Job's theory was right (v7). They had grievously wronged Job. They maintained that God had punished Job because of his sins. God made provision for repentance for Job's friends (v8). Their obedience and sacrifice brought them into right relation with God again. God put His stamp of approval upon Job in asking his three friends to come to him that he might pray for them.

God showed His approval of Job also in doubly restoring the material possessions he had lost (v10). He also had the same number of children again as he had before (v13). God blessed him more largely toward the end of his life than in the earlier part of it. Job came out of his trials wiser, more prosperous and richer in character than before. He gained a truer relationship toward God, which meant his eternal salvation. Christ's work on our behalf delivers us from the power of Satan. God prospered Job when he prayed for his friends. God knows us altogether and will judge us aright, whether men do or not.

CORRESPONDENCE

RANSOM MENN. CHURCH, JUNE 23, 1940

Our church has enjoyed great blessings recently. On June 23rd we were privileged to add fourteen new members to our fellowship, eight through baptism upon confession of faith and six through the right hand of fellowship. We hope and pray that the church may prove to be a source of great spiritual blessing to them and we are convinced that they will be a great blessing to the church.

On June 16th we observed Children's Day. The children rendered a short program consisting of several selections of music, poems, readings and other numbers. On that Sunday the children were also in charge of the devotional part of the Sunday school which was done very well by leaders and pupils. On June 11th the annual S. S. picnic was held in a grove several miles north of Ransom. A big dinner and a number of games were enjoyed by all after a short program had been rendered.

On June 30th the church plans to observe Holy Communion. May His Name be glorified!—

Crops look better at this time than has been the case for some years, but rain would be appreciated again. Abraham Albrecht

RELIEF NOTES

Marseille, France, June 14 letter, Ernest Bennett: "This marks receipt of your letter No. 4 with the attached list of shipment of clothing. I am very glad you forwarded this clothing. There is great need of clothing here now, and this need is going to increase steadily. All kinds of clothing can be used at present, although further shipments should center on winter clothing.

"Last week I was in Perpignan and found work there operating in good order, feeding 60 daily in canteen. Just now there are quite a few Belgian refugees moving into this section, and have made arrangements to extend our work to help the new refugees coming into these four towns.

"The children's colony here at Marseille is moving along fine. I am living here now."

Minute from meeting of Ontario Non-Resistant Relief Organization, Kitchener, June 18th:

"The Treasurer was instructed by the organization to forward $1000 to England for July."

The Treasurer reported cash contributions to date $4952.14, clothing, $1965.24.

In connection with the English situation, where Ted Claassen now represents the Committee, we quote as follows from letter written by Captain Gracey, London W.C. 1, Chairman of the "Save the Children Fund":

"Since that cable was sent on the 15th, thousands of Dutch and Belgian refugees, with a large contingent of children, have arrived in this country, and we shall have to meet their needs in some way. We are not complaining. The opportunity for service is given, but it is difficult, as you will readily realize, when one lives from hand to mouth, from day to day, on the meagre funds which we receive, and it almost seems like trying to stop the rapids with a pitchfork. Never had the Christian world been given such an opportunity for service, and I fully and wholeheartedly believe that your Mennonite Central Committee will seize this opportunity and will act up to its responsibility and make that sacrifice which we all must make if the world is to be a better, and a safer, and a saner place to live in. What better way can we help to accomplish this than by following the example of One of old who put a little child in the midst of them? Today, we put the little child of stricken Europe in the midst of you, and we would add a word with much meaning—"Inasmuch".

American Friends' Service Committee, June 20th: "On May 24th our Refugee Section approved a contribution to the Mennonite Relief Committee to be used in connection with their work among Polish prisoners of war in Germany. I take pleasure in enclosing our check for $500."

This sum was regularly re-forwarded through the Committee's usual channels to Brother Lehman in Berlin.

O. B. Ulery, General Conference Secretary, Brethren in Christ Church, June 15th:

"At our Conference in Olkahoma last week it was decided to raise a budget of at least $1 per member this year for relief work among war refugees, which we will distribute through your Committee. You should begin receiving remittances from same in about a month."

Relief Work in France

"A Happy Refugee"

A picture of health and contentment as expressed by Carlos Gamarra Rios is almost proof enough that the refugee colony supported by the Mennonites of America is worthwhile. Carlos is a Spanish Refugee of four years of age. During the month of February 1939, Carlos with his father, mother, and sisters fled from Malaga, Spain, with thousands of other Spanish refugees, to Southern France. They carried nothing with them except a blanket, some food and a few articles of clothing. Upon their arrival in France they were fortunately placed in a small town named Signe, with a French family who were intensely interested in children and in the Spanish people as a group. They were treated as one of the family. A month after their arrival in France the mother became critically ill and within a brief time died. The father found work in a factory. This work, however, did not give sufficient money or time to properly care for the three motherless children.

It was at this time that the colony D'enfants, 'La Rouviere', Marseille, France, was to be opened, and the International Commission suggested that the Rios children be the first to be admitted. On February 24 the Rios children, who spoke only Spanish, were accompanied to the colony by an American Mennonite who spoke only a little French. This was the beginning of a colony that is now supported by the Mennonite Central Committee. After three months the colony of which Carlos was the charter member has increased to forty members and we believe the children are all happily situated. The house proper is surrounded by lovely, tall sycamore and pine trees, and there is an abundance of pure air, good sunlight and plenty of space for play. With the fifteen Francs per person per day, which is equivalent to about thirty cents per person, we are able to give the proper kind of food, buy the most of the necessary equipment and some of the medical supplies. Soon we will have the pleasure of distributing to the children some clothing which you Mennonites of America have sent.

Perhaps you have thought many times as we have too, is the work really worthwhile? Is there something else which would be much more valuable? We believe that the value of the work has been proven many times by the smiles of gratitude when the children receive new or different clothing, the increase in weight of almost everyone, a change of complexion, a favorable change of attitude and a realization that love, kindness and peace has a part to play after all.

We wish that many of our American Mennonite friends could spend some time in this work. An experience such as this gives one a great appreciation of one's own home, church and community, as well as a view of the present world situation. Few can come, but all can help at home by giving of your money, clothing and food. A gift even greater will be your earnest prayers. These children need your help. It is up to you. It is not a question of can you but will you continue to help. —Edna Ramseyer

HEBRON CHURCH, BUHLER, KANSAS

Sunday, June 9, the Hebron congregation observed Communion services. Junior Services for the children were conducted by Mrs. v. d. Smissen.—Sunday afternoon, June 9, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Froese celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary at our church. The children and grandchildren gave a nice program, mostly music. The pastor, Rev. van der Smissen gave an address. The guests enjoyed a delicious lunch in the church basement.—On June 16, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Balzer celebrated their Silver Wedding anniversary at the Hebron Church. Rev. van der Smissen gave a short address after which I. H. Balzer made a few remarks. Pascal Davis played a cornet solo and a ladies' duet gave several selections. Immediately after the program the guests enjoyed a lunch in the church basement.

June 16, Mrs. B. P. Froese departed this life at the age of 58 years. Funeral services were held in the Hebron Church June 19. She was laid to rest in the Hebron cemetery. She left her husband, a daughter, a son-in-law, two grandchildren, and many friends to mourn her departure.

Mrs. J. J. Buhler, our correspondent to the Mennonite, has been seriously ill for several months. But we are glad to report that she is getting stronger now and we hope she will soon be entirely well again.—A number of people from the Buhler community have been attending the Institute of International Relations at Newton which was held June 11 to 21.—Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Brauel left June 12 for an extended vacation trip to the west coast.

1ST. MENN. CH., SUMMERFIELD, ILL. 6-25-40

We have had a rather cool and dry spring. Have been getting occasional showers, but we could use many more as the soil is quite dry. The farmers have been busy harvesting their grain the past week and some have started combining. The harvest seems to be fair.

Many different activities and events have occurred in our congregation since our last report. The young people of Summerfield and Trenton organized themselves into a Youth Council which has been active in promoting various youth activities. They have had charge of the Union services during the summer months, they have sponsored programs in various churches. On May 11 and 12, they held a Youth Conference at Trenton at which the problems of youth were considered. At the early Sunday morning service our pastor gave a helpful and inspiring Meditation on Prayer.

On Friday evening, May 17, a Mothers' and Daughters' Banquet was held, at which the young men of the church did the serving. A program was given in connection with the supper and all had a profitable and enjoyable time. On Wednesday, May22, Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Penner, missionaries from India, paid us a visit. Mrs. Penner spoke to the Ladies' Missionary Society in the afternoon and in the evening both Brother and Sister Penner spoke of the missionary work in India. It is always encouraging to hear of the results of the efforts we are making as a denomination to bring hte glorious Gospel to others.

On Sunday, June 9, our Sunday School observed Children's Day. After the program, an outing and basket dinner was held at Sam Baer's Grove, about 5 miles from Summerfield. All Sunday School pupils were treated with ice cream and soft drinks. The day was ideal and everybody had a fine time. The Sunday following, the Bible Club with their families held a picnic dinner at the home of Stanley Baer.

During the past year, the pastor has been giving religious instruction to a class of 2 girls and 5 boys who were all born in the same year. On Sunday, June 16, a public examination was held for the candidates and last Sunday they were baptized and received into the fellowship of the church. We hope that they remain faithful to the vows of consecration and service which they have taken.

ALBERTA COMMUNITY CH. PORTLAND, ORE.

Sunday, June 16, was a very happy and busy day for the Alberta Community Church. During the morning services three persons—Rev. and Mrs. Arnold Regier and Ralph Penner—were accepted as members of the church by Rev. S. S. Baumgartner. By coincidence Rev. and Mrs. Ed. Miller, our former workers here in Portland, stopped over on their way home from the Pacific District Conference. Rev. Miller took part in the service, introduced and welcomed our new pastor, Rev. Arnold Regier. Rev. Regier then delivered his first sermon.

At 5:30 o'clock a packed house took part in the Vesper Services, at which the Girls' Gospel Chorus and the Adult Choir, both under the leadership of Miss Rose Alice Hanson, rendered several selections. A duet by Miss Hanson and her fiance, Abe Dick, two quartet numbers and two numbers by the orchestra completed the program. Following the Vesper Service there was an informal reception in the basement of the church, at which the ladies served refreshments. There was also an informal program in honor of our new workers, Rev. and Mrs. Regier. We are very happy to again have a regular pastor and we urge friends to pray for this work here in Portland. The parsonage is located at 5215 N. E. 23rd Avenue, and friends who wish to visit the Regiers or write to them should contact them at the above address.

On June 30th there was a wedding in our church, Miss Rose Alice Hanson and Mr. Abe Dick, both fine young people who met each other while attending Cascade College here in Portland. Miss Hanson has worked faithfully in our church during the past year and Mr. Dick has preached for us on two occasions. We wish both of them God's blessing in their married life.

On July 4th the four Oregon churches of our denomination will hold a joint picnic at a beautiful spot near Dallas. We are looking forward to a time of good fellowship. —F. J. Wiens, Corr.

WHAT CAN YOUTH DO?

One answer to this question is support our War Relief work. Here is a chance to give a testimony for Christ and the cause of peace, which the Red Cross or other groups cannot give. Lets give a cup of water, in the name of Jesus.

Another answer is tell your congressman that you as one of draft age are opposed to conscription.

Still another is substitute service, beginning right at home. Why not set aside so much time a day to demonstrate the love of Christ to the people of your community.

Being a Deaconess

(The following article, written by a staff member of the Mennonite Deaconess Hospital, Beatrice, Neb., was solicited and is here printed for the purpose of giving our young people a better understanding and appreciation of the work done in our Mennonite hospitals.—Ed.)

To many young readers the meaning of Deaconess Work is unknown. This is not surprising, when we consider that at this time there is only one School for the training of Mennonite Deaconesses. It is the Bethel Hospital at Newton, Kansas.

Deaconesses are an organization, sponsored by the General Conference of Mennonites, who have as their objective the consecration of their services to the Lord. Nursing is not the only service which is pleasing to God—but our Mennonite Deaconesses have chosen the care of the sick as their field of endeavor.

How does a nurse Deaconess differ from other registered nurses?

A registered nurse is primarily working for financial gain whereas the Deaconess is interested chiefly in spreading the gospel through the medium of her daily work with the sick.

Who may become a Deaconess?

Any young woman between the ages of 18 and 35 who is interested in living a useful life.

An Experiment

On April 1st, 1940, the Mennonite Deaconess Hospital at Beatrice, Nebr. introduced a 2 year community nurse training school to provide bedside nurses for its own Hospital and for the community. The entrance requirements are not as rigid as for the 3 year School of Nursing and yet the training will provide an opportunity for those young women who are eager to become skilled in bedside nursing.

The atmosphere of a Christian Hospital can provide the finest background for this type of work. It is not improbable to believe that the future may find these young women organized on a modified Deaconess plan—not to supplant our old order of Deaconesses but rather to perpetuate the principles of the movement.

A successive article will describe A Day in a Mennonite Hospital.

Christian Pacifist Conference

Mennonite young people should be very interested in this conference which will be held at Bluffton College, July 15-20. We need deepened understanding and appreciation of the Pacifist position in order to be stable and effective in this time of crisis.

The churches of the Western District have become so keenly aware of this need that on June 26 they voted that the Western District Peace Committee engage Dr. H. A. Fast as Peace Secretary for the District. These churches have pledged their financial support for this undertaking.

Thus the Bluffton conference constitutes a very valuable and timely opportunity for the young people of the Middle District Conference and for those living in adjoining conferences.

Resource leaders will be: Muriel Lester, goodwill ambassador of the International Fellowship of Reconciliation; Devere Allen, Director of the No-Frontier News Service, who has just returned from the war front of Europe; Harold Fey, formerly Executive Secretary of the F. O. R., who has just returned from four months in China and Japan; Prof. Douglas Steere of Haverford College; Harold Gray, World War C. O. and author of "Character Bad", and Dr. Chas. F. Boss of the Methodist Peace Commission, besides others.

For more information write to Carl J. Landes, 720 West 26th Street, Chicago, Illinois.

You may assuredly find perfect peace if you do what the Lord has required of thee—to do justice, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with Him.

AN INTERESTING RESOLUTION

Among the resolutions adopted by the Eastern District Young people at their recent convention were these: "That the Y. P. Union begin making plans for the Y. P. Exhibition Room at the General Conference next year and that each society pledge their support in gathering and preparing materials." "That we endorse and participate in the relief work the Mennonite Central Committee is doing for war victims, as a constructive Peace Testimony." "In view of the fact that the Union is decreasing its financial support of Menno-lan (Retreat Grounds), let us seriously pledge ourselves to an ever increasing amount of physical and spiritual support of this work." —Grace Moyer, Y. P. U. Corr.

NOTICE: Rev. Arnold Funk, Chairman of the Western Dist. Y. P. Retreat announces that anyone who wishes to register for the Y. P. Retreat to be held at Camp Wood, July 23 to 28, may still do so. In this time of crisis anyone who finds it at all possible to attend should do so.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Senior C. E. Topic for July 21, 1940

Main Topic: Zeal pays Dividends Acts 5:24-32; 6:7

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "More love to Thee, O Christ," "All hail the power of Jesus name," "A charge to keep I have"
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Pantomime, or suitable dialogue
4. Offering for missions—while lights are out, except several tall candles between which are placed collection plates. Members file by to put in their offering while a quartet sings softly: "Send the light"

II. Leaders Introduction

In this topic, the last of a series of topics incorporating lessons from the early church, we are concerned with the amazing zeal and devotion of the first-century Christians. They lived and taught and preached their Christianity in the face of tremendous obstacles. The whole world was against them. It was often worth a man's life to affirm his faith in Christ. Tens of thousands of them died martyrs' deaths. But their zeal for Christ was such that they carried on in a spirit of victory in spite of all that was done against them. They knew that the future belonged to their cause, and that it was worth living and dying for.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. A zealous king 2 Kings 23:1-3
2. Zeal for the temple Jn. 2:13-17
3. God's Zeal for Israel Ezek. 18:26-32
4. Paul's Zeal for Israel Rom. 10:1-4
5. Zealous in good works Tit. 2:11-14

IV. For Discussion

1. What does it mean to be zealous?
2. What should we today be zealous about?
3. Name some people who are outstandingly zealous today in the work of missions, either home or foreign, in the cause of peace, in the work of your own denomination.

V. Facts for Study

Zeal for a cause means believing in it, devotion to it, working for it, giving for it, suffering for it, if need be dying for it. Such zeal pays dividends. It brings results. It is a force that breaks down obstacles. We need to recover some of the zeal of the early Christians, some of their wholehearted devotion to Christ, some of their gladness of heart in giving of their material resources, some of their joy in suffering, some of their faithfulness in living for Christ.

The work of missions calls for our zealous support; the halt, the maimed, the blind, the suffering of which there are so many today need our help; and above all—the need to work for peace by word and deed and prayer calls for men and women of unfailing, untiring zealousy. Write and speak and pray for it, have your own heart filled with it, and radiate the spirit of good will and love toward all men.

VI. Illustration

All for Christ

How unlike the spirit of the hour is the story of Chinese Gordon. For his services in China the Government sought to reward him, but he declined all honors. Money and titles he scorned, but he accepted a medal inscribed with his name and his thirty-three engagements because it could not well be refused. After his tragic death the medal could nowhere be traced. What a revelation of the great soldier's unselfishness unfolds when we learn that the medal was sent to the poor of Manchester during the famine, with an anonymous letter requesting the ore be melted down and used for the hungry children of the city. Then in his diary he wrote these words: "The last and only thing I have in this world that I value I have given over to the Lord Jesus Christ."

VII. Food for Thought

Benediction—

Lord, take my lips and speak through them,
Take my mind and think through it.
Take my heart and set it on fire. Amen.

Bethany—The place of friendship

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude with violin obligato, “O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee”
2. Call to worship, Psalm 34:3-8. Read in unison.
3. Sing in unison, “Jesus Is All the World To Me” Service Hymnal, No. 261.
4. Leader’s Prayer
5. Scripture reading, John 15:1-14.
6. Silent Prayer, all heads bowed.
7. Poem by a Junior girl

“Give of your best to the Master,
Give Him first place in your heart:
Give Him first place in your service,
Consecrate every part.
Give, and to you shall be given;
God, His beloved Son gave;
Gratefully seeking to serve Him
Give of the best that you have.”

8. Stand and sing in unison “The Best of Friends I Have in Heaven”, Mennonite Hymn Book, No. 364.

II. Study Period

Aim: To help our Juniors become better acquainted with this home-place of Jesus. To create a desire in them to express their love in glad service for Jesus.

1. A Junior may tell about—

“Bethany”

There are several home-places that we think of when we study the life of Christ. Bethlehem, the place of His birth and infancy; Nazareth, the home of His childhood and youth; Capernaum, His own city, a place in which He did many of His miracles; but Bethany stands out in our minds as the place of rest and quiet and kindly friendship. It seems to be the place where Jesus most loved to be. It has sometimes been called the one oasis in His desert. He always found a loving welcome here.

About 2000 years ago, at the time of Christ, Bethany was a pleasant little village about two miles east of Jerusalem on the south slope of the Mount of Olives, on or near the usual road from Jericho to Jerusalem. At that time there were pine trees and palm trees growing in abundance. If we should go to Palestine today, we would not find the same village that Jesus visited so often, but instead we would find a place of mines.

2. “Friends at Bethany, and what we learn from them” discussed by three Juniors:
   a. Mary — Luke 10:38-42; John 12:1-8; Mark 14:3-9.
   b. Lazarus—John 11:1-44.
   c. Martha—Luke 10:38-42; John 11:5, 21.
3. “A precious truth that Jesus taught at Bethany”, by an older person. John 11:25, 26.
4. Memorize these two verses

III. Mission Minutes

As many Juniors as can bring pictures of missionaries and mission schools and churches. Each one who has a picture shows it and reports on it.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat verse of the month
2. Sing the song of the month
3. Pray the prayer of the month
4. As the Juniors leave the pianist plays the melody of “What a Friend We Have in Jesus?”

Report of Youth Conference

held at Munich N. D. June 18-19, 1940

Conference Motto: “Be filled with the Spirit.”
Eph. 8:8-18b

The conference was opened Tuesday morning at 10:00, with a song service, devotionals, and a prayer meeting. Rev. Fahdenrecht gave a message based on Gal. 5:15, 16, 25, 26, and Rev. Abe Loewen another one based on Gen. 26:12-19. A duet led by Minnie Fahdenrecht, a mixed quartet led by Esther Wiens, and a male quartet led by John Ewert were interspersed. Rev. John Guenther closed the session.

Tuesday afternoon, following a song service and devotionals, Rev. Ed Duerkson spoke on the text Rom. 8:14, Ps. 1; Rev. Abe Loewen led in a testimony meeting, and Miss Olga Thiessen gave a reading, “Be different.” A duet by Clifford Rupple, a chorus led by Olga Thiessen, a trio in charge of Lydia Schirmas, a duet by Rev. and Mrs. Larson, a number by the Alsen choir, and close by Rev. Duerkson made up the rest of the program.

Tuesday evening the program consisted of the usual opening, a message by Rev. Abe Loewen, text Phil. 3:1, 13-16; Acts 26:19; another message by Rev. Turnell, text Matt. 11:28-30; music: male chorus in charge of Jake Hoffman, a solo by Florella Dunham, an instrumental duet by Mrs. Larsen and Miss Carpenter, a duet by Rev. and Mrs. Larsen, and close by Rev. Larsen.

Wednesday morning: Song service, devotionals and prayer meeting, messages by Rev. Abe Loewen on Eph. 6:10-19 and Rev. Turnell on Eph. 4:11-16, selections by the Alsen choir, and close by Rev. Duerkson.

Wednesday afternoon: Introductory service as usual, with a testimony meeting led by Rev. Turnell. Following this a message by Rev. Lindsay on the text, Psalm 95, and a talk by Miss Mildred Severson, entitled, "Why don't We as Christians Grow More?" Music—Ladies' chorus—Hilda Ortman; Duet—Hilda Ortman. Business meeting. Close by Rev. Ed Duerkson.

Wednesday evening: A Song Service Program comprising: General singing and choruses led by John Ewert; Male quartet—Isaac Hoffman; Ladies' chorus—Helen Fahdenrecht; Testimony meeting—Rev. Abe Loewen; Duet—Spenst sisters; Ladies' quartet—Mrs. Ed Duerkson; Instrumental number—Clifford Rupple; Trio—Hilda Harder; Message—Text, Eph. 5:14-21 by Rev. Turnell; Male quartet—Edwin Fahdenrecht; Offering; Closing remarks and prayer—Rev. Ed Duerkson.

The churches represented in this conference were: Alsen, Rosehill, Munich, Bethel, Mankato, Minn.; Walhalla and Langdon. —Olga Thiessen, Sec.

CORRESPONDENCE

FRIEDENSTAL CH. NEAR TAMPA, KANSAS

Sunday, June 16, was a day of special note to this church. At the close of the morning service three sisters were accepted for membership by Rev. J. H. Epp. More will be likely to join later, as Rev. Epp is instructing a catechism class of 15 at present.

At 2:30 in the afternoon followed the ordination of Brother Noah Unruh into the gospel ministry. Rev. C. H. Dirks of Hutchinson, Kansas, opened the service with scripture reading, prayer and an encouraging message. The ordination proper was led by Rev. J. H. Epp of Hillsboro who delivered the sermon and performed the ordination, to which Borther Unruh gave a short response, showing his humble devotion to his calling. Then Rev. P. H. Richert closed the service fittingly, whereupon a fellowship lunch was served in the school house adjoining the church. All music for the occasion was furnished by a male octet in a manner that was fitting and pleasing.

Brother and Sister Unruh, who are members of this church, have served our group devotedly, as well as other places, while he is attending college as a ministerial student. Previous to this the couple served a Mennonite church in Montana temporarily. We certainly feel that their willingness to serve the cause of Christ will be used of God in His vineyard.

MENNONITE CHURCH, BURRTON, KANSAS

"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled." It is a wonderful experience to be partakers of His divine promises to us.

We, as a congregation are greatly thankful to those who are serving us now while without a pastor.

Sunday, March 31st closed the faithful, conscientious service of our pastor Rev. W. H. Dyck. Communion was observed and by request three were baptized upon their confession of faith, and six were received into the church by letter. For the afternoon a sister of the church had requested to be married before his leave. And in the evening he had the privilege of giving his farewell word to, not only his people, but the community at a union meeting.

Before the Easter season, Missionaries P. W. Pener were in our midst.Their visit helped us to visualize mission work in a foreign land, their sacrifices and faithfulness. May the Lord ever remember them. Then during the Easter Season, Rev. W. H. Dyck, Rev. Wedel of Halstead and Rev. Dirks of Hutchinson brought messages.

A fine group of Bethel Student Volunteers presented a good, inspirational program. Home and foreign missions were stressed. Rev. John Barkman with the orphan children of the Grace Children's Home of Henderson, Nebr., gave a nice program, May 10th. We are glad for such consecrated workers. The Senior C. E. had the pleasure of having Rev. J. N. Smucker as a guest speaker and the Halstead C. E. in presenting a program. Also appreciated the hearty welcome at the Lorraine Ave. church at Wichita.

Mother's Day and Pentecost were both observed. The Junior C. E. paid tribute to the mothers and Bro. Pankratz gave the Pentecostal message. Our Bible School of three weeks was taught by Miss Martha Froese of Hutchinson. At the S. S. picnic they gave a program of their accomplishments which was very satisfactory.

We are grateful for the many candidates who prove themselves ready and willing to take up the pastorate. May the Lord bless them and us as we look to Him in earnest for guidance. "Faithful is he that calleth you, who will also do it." I Thess. 5:24. Correspondent

Y. P. RETREAT AT MOUNTAIN LAKE, MINN.

"Hear and Do", James 1:22, was chosen as the motto for our Young Peoples Retreat held at Mountain Lake, Minnesota, on June 8, 10, 11 and 12. Seventy-five young people registered for the retreat which was sponsored by the three General Conference churches of this community.

The morning and afternoon sessions were held at the Mountain Lake Bible school; the Sunday evening session at the High School auditorium; Monday at First Mennonite Church, Tuesday at Bethel Church, and the last evening was spent as a fellowship and testimonial meeting at a lake shore with bon-fire and closed with a candle light service which was very impressive.

Our instructors were Rev. Walter Dyck, Beatrice, Nebr. who brought ten young people with him; Rev. William Schobert,Jeffers, Minn.; Prof. G. J. Toews, Freeman, S. Dak.; and Mrs. H. M. Fast, Clarissa, Minn.; who discussed the following topics—"The Principles of Christian Peace", "How to Reach the Unevangelized, or Boundaries of a Church Member", "Music Instructions", and separate discussion groups for boys and girls.

Officers were elected to plan for the coming year. We are grateful to our Heavenly Father for the rich blessings received and pray that we may all follow our motto "Hear and Do."

WOODLAND MENN. CH., WARROAD, MINN.

We were very happy to have Missionary John Thiessen from India with us on June 14th. In the afternoon he spoke at the sewing club meeting at the John T. Fast home. In the evening he spoke in the Mennonite church; showing slides of their work in India. Both meetings were well attended. It gave us a larger insight into the needs and beliefs of India.

Daily Vacation Bible School was held for a term of two weeks. Mr. Henry Friesen of Alsen, No. Dak. was the teacher, with Miss Margaret Harder of Warroad, assisting him. About forty children took part in the closing program which was enjoyed by young and old. "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Prov. 22:6. "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them." Ecc. 12:1. Mr. Friesen also spoke both Sunday forenoons in church.

Monday evening, the 3rd of June, the congregation surprised Rev. Arthur Ortman on the occasion of his birthday, at the Ortman home. An impromptu program, which was opened by a hymn sung by the assembly and devotions by Henry Friesen, was given by various members of the congregation.

May I close this letter with a poem in memory of Rosella Krahn who quietly passed on to her Savior, June 18th, 1938. For a little over seven years, she spread sunshine in this world and then her work on earth was finished.

The Savior looked down from Heaven
And He saw a rosebud fair;
The sweetest fragrance it gave into the air.
It was so lovely and so sweet,
He said, "I'll plant it in my garden here."
So gently He moved the flowerlet so dear.

So gently you left us, Rosella,
So quietly you went away
That bright brief summer day.
Left all woes and earthly cares,
Went to be with Him up there;
While we labor on, below.

Yes, we miss you, Rosella,
Miss you everywhere,
For you scattered sunshine on our cares.
Some day when our work is done
We, too, are coming to be
With Jesus and you up there.

VOLT, MONTANA, JUNE 16, 1940

The S. S. Convention held at Bethel-Wolf Point, Montana, was well attended. In the afternoon the church was filled to capacity; the children had a meeting in the basement. The forenoon topics were well discussed. In the afternoon the orchestra was directed by Albert Fachner, the general singing by Roland Toews, and the invocation offered by the chairman, Bro. P. P. Wiens. After a children's song led by Miss Ruth Johnson and a selection by the Brudertaler choir, Rev. Blyth McLean spoke upon the topic, "Should youny people be encouraged to bring their spiritual problems to class or should the teacher expound the text only?" It was further discussed by H. G. Baerg. After a song by the S. S. Workers and also by Willard Cantelon, a story told by Miss Susie, and a selection by the Brudertaler choir followed the topic, "What system should we use to train the pupil to become a S. S. teacher?" was treated by Willard Cantelon. A closing song and a collection for the American S. S. Union brought the program to a close. Prayer and benediction by Rev. McLean.

THE MOUNTAIN LAKE, MINN. BETHEL, BERGFELDER, AND FIRST MENNONITE CHURCHES were the hosts to a Young People's Retreat held on the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th of June. (Report on Retreat will be found at beginning of this page.– Editor) Classes of present day problems were conducted in the mornings and afternoons. The evenings were spent in sermons and one night retreat pictures were shown. The last afternoon a picnic was held at Marten's Creek. As a climax, we had a closed Galilian service at the lake. We feel that such a Young People's Retreat was richly blessed. May we have more of them.

Members of the Bethel C. E. held a meeting of vital importance. The question discussed was, "How can we, first of all, get our young people to attend our endeavors and then keep them?" We all feel the need of young people's efforts, ideas, and ambitions in the work. Discussion was also held on "Standards for the Young People's Unions and Endeavors." We hope this will draw our young people to work in unity for our one goal—Jesus Christ.

—DEEP RUN MENN. CHURCH, 7-2-40.—Our anticipation of the arrival of Brother and Sister Russell R. Mast of Ohio has materialized. Bro. Mast while a senior of Hartford Seminary Foundation, Hartford, Conn., accepted a call from our congregation to assist Rev. Allen M. Fretz as pastor, provided the Lord be willing. Special services will be held here July 28, 1940, ordaining Bro. Mast to this ministry. Bro. and Sister Mast are residing at the home of Bro. and Sister Theodore Moyer, Line Lexington, Pa. A reception will be given in their honor by the congregation Saturday evening, July 13, 1940.—Deep Run Correspondent.

— GRACE CHURCH, PANDORA, OHIO.—June 23 the pastors of the four Mennonite Congregations exchanged pulpits, Rev. P. E. Whitmer of the Grace Church with Rev. P. A. Kliewer of the Ebenezer Church; Rev. H. T. Unruh of the First Church, Bluffton, with Rev. D. J. Unruh of the St. John Church.—The fourth annual music festival of the four churches filled the Grace Church that Sunday evening. Gaul's Holy City was presented by a representative choir. Miss Elvina Niswander directed the group. Soloists were: Lucile Hilty, sopr.; Mrs. Winfred Steiner, alto; Marvin Hilty, tenor; James Suter, bass. Maurine Bixler accompanied on the organ and Lucile Steiner on the piano. —Grace Church Corr.

— BETHANY CHURCH, FREEMAN, S. D.—Nine young people were baptized and received into the church, Sunday June 23.—The following Sunday Communion service was held.—A new class in catechetical instruction is to be started now. A new course, A Guide to Christian Teaching, recently published by the General Conference will be used in the forepart of the year. There are a number who wish to become better acquainted with the teachings of the Word of God and God's will for their lives. There may be others who passed earlier opportunities for such instruction. All are welcome. —Bulletin.

— MENNONITE CHURCH, ALTOONA, PA.—A two week's Bible School was held at the Mennonite Memorial Church June 10-20, with an enrollment of 59. Five teachers were in charge. The average attendance was 45. We again used the Literature from the Scottdale Press. Much interest was shown both by the teachers and the pupils. A closing program was held on Friday night, June 21.—Corr.

— MENNONITE CHURCH, WAYLAND, IOWA. June 9th, we had children's day service and consecration of infants. Our pastor Rev. Wm. Penner conducted services in Pulaski, Ia. during the week of June 9 to 16. The M. E. Church and our church conducted a two weeks' vacation Bible School closing with a splendid program. June 16 and 17, Miss Marie J. Regier, Whitewater, Kans., spoke to different groups.—The Misses Gertrude and Delight Rinner are assisting with mission work on 26th St., Chicago. June 23rd we had a fine day and a good attendance for the annual get-together of the Donnellson, Pulaski, Noble and Wayland Churches. On the evening of June 30, Supt. Ellis, local H. S. head, gave a splendid talk. July the 7th we expect to observe communion service. —Mrs. S. K. S., Corr.

— BROTHER J. WINFIELD FRETZ writes from Upland, Calif: The suggestion of binding the new Hymnary in two colors, maroon and blue, strikes me as a very good one. It has psychological and practical advantages. Count me in favor of it. I am eagerly looking forward to seeing the first copy. I wish to pay my highest compliments to the Publication Committee for its painstaking effort and its unstinting, sacrificial service in producing this fine piece of work. I hope the Board will not fall dawn in pushing this new book into every possible Mennonite home and church. The Field Secretary could do much to achieve this end.

—DR. J. H. LANGENWALTER OF REEDLEY, CALIF., who had been at the Hertzler Hospital and Clinic, Halstead, Kans., for some weeks, has just returned home, happy that his ailment is practically cured. He writes, "Had a good trip and arrived at Fresno at 3:30 P. M. yesterday (June 28). Found my family well and we are happy to be together again."

— REV. J. E. KAUFMAN, pastor of the Mennonite Church at Inman, Kans. in sending in his sermon sketch writes: "We are enjoying The Mennonite and believe it has done and is doing much for our Mennonite people and the Church of Christ."

— NOTE FROM MISS AGANETHA FAST, CHINA.—Sister Fast complains that since 1934 her mail, in many instances, has gone to Kaichow instead of Taming. This is apparently due to the fact that The Mennonite Year Book has continued to list her address wrong. Will her friends kindly take note of her correct address: MISS AGANETHA FAST, TAMING, HOPEI PROV., CHINA.

— DR. P. R. SCHROEDER has a set-back.—Brother Schroeder who underwent two serious operations within a year unfortunately is not getting along so well recently. The Freeman, So. Dak., Courrier has this report: Rev. P. R. Schroeder was taken to the Yankton hospital last week and after an examination the doctor advised an operation, but Rev. Schroeder did not give his consent. They came home and went to Soo Falls and the doctors in Soo Falls advised him to go to Rochester, Minn., because the case is a serious one. Monday the Schroeder family left for Mt. Lake, Minn., and from there his brother will take him to Rochester."—A later report has it that the patient was operated on Friday, June 28, at the Mayo hospital.

MIDDLE DISTRICT Y. P. CONVENTION

Is to be held at Berne, Indiana, July 20-21. The Christian Endeavor societies of the Mennonite churches in Indiana and Ohio unite in this meeting. The local Mennonite Church will be host to the Endeavorers. James Suter of Pandora will preside and Dr. Lloyd Ramseyer of Bluffton College is to deliver the principal address.

— FIRST CHURCH, BLUFFTON, OHIO.—(From Bulletin, June 9) "Many of our college students are leaving us—the seniors not to be with us next year. It was not only a pleasure but an inspiration to have you in our worship on Sunday mornings. May you continue to be with us in thought and prayer. Wherever you may be in the future may your presence inspire and encourage some church as it has ours. God bless you and keep you."

— EDEN CHURCH, SCHWENKSVILLE, PA.—We are still hammering away at the attendance idea. The results in the Cradle-roll and Beginners Departments are very satisfactory. We find that some of the other classes and departments could improve their attendance a bit. We also would like to see that number of "going-homers-after-Sunday-School" lessened. The attendants at church but not at Sunday School and those going home from school are just about equal. We would like to tip the scale in favor of the church attendance. — The pastor, Rev. Freeman Swartz, and Rev. Robert J. Gottshall are on the program of the Westmoreland S. S. Convention, at Latrobe, Pa., June 21 and 22.—Bulletin.

— ST. JOHN CHURCH, PANDORA, O.—The business world offers inducements of many kinds to trade in their particular district. We want to extend our appreciation to the Pandora Business Men in the wholesome entertainment provided by the weekly Band Concert. Such a program has cultural values and draws a clean-minded citizenry to this thrifty trade center. Best of all it offsets the demoralizing effects of the lottery methods used in so many places; such as 'lucky member", "grand prize", "Bank night" and other "get something for nothing" devices. — Bulletin.

— FIRST CHURCH, PHILADELPHIA. — Joint Conference of Friends, Brethren, Schwenkfelders and Mennonites was held Saturday July 6th in Westtown School, founded by the Friends in 1799.—Mother Plenert and daughter Emma have spent six months in the Rev. and Mrs. Plenert home. Mrs. J. J. Plenert and son James took them to Ohio to visit there for a while. Then they will start back home for Kansas. —Bulletin

— REV. REYNOLD WEINBRENNER, wide-awake pastor of the Second Church, Beatrice, Nebr. in his bulletin calls attention to the article entitled, "Relief in Emergency" in The Mennonite of June 18. Would that many of our ministers might follow the example of this young brother, in calling attention from the pulpit or in the bulletin to worthwhile articles in our church papers, and thus help inducing more families to take and read them.

—BETHEL COLLEGE.—The massive steel frame of Memorial Hall is now all in place, and the skeleton structure is next to be enclosed with the brick walls. It is hoped the building can be sufficiently completed for use of the gymnasium and dining hall in the fall.—The first large truck load of the Kauffman Museum collection has recently arrived from Freeman, S. Dak.

— REEDLEY CHURCH, CALIF. — The June 23 Bulletin contains the splendid closing program of the Vacation Bible School. There were eight grades with as many teachers. We give the parts rendered by each class, omitting the songs in each instance: First grade—The Creation, Creation Song, ABC Verses; second grade—giving verses; third grade—Psalm 100, Bible Salute, story telling; fourth grade—The great Commandment, the Ten Commandments, Books of Old Testament, Psalm 121; fifth grade—Stories in first fourteen books of the Bible, the Beatitudes, the "I Am" verses in Gospel of John; sixth grade—dramatization of the story of the Talents; seventh grade—The Tabernacle, Psalm 122, story of author of hymn, "Stand Up for Jesus," trumpet quartet; eighth grade—Psalm 34, the Menn. mission fields and missionaries.

— GOLDEN WEDDING AT MT. LAKE, MINN. —Mr. and Mrs. Aaron C. Dick, surrounded by a large number of relatives and friends, observed their golden wedding anniversary July 7th, at three in the afternoon in the Bethel Church. A reception in the Church dining hall was held following the program.

HARVEST THOUGHTS

"Thou makest the outgoings of the morning and evening rejoice.

Thou visitest the earth, and waterest it. Thou greatly enrichest it. The river of God is full of water; thou providest them grain; when thou hast so prepared the earth.

Thou waterest its furrows abundantly; thou settlest the ridges thereof; thou makest it soft with showers; thou blessest the springing thereof.

Thou crownest the year with thy goodness; and thy paths drop fatness.

They drop upon the pastures of the wilderness; and the hills are girded with joy.

The pastures are clothed with flocks; the valleys also are covered over with grain; they shout for joy, they also sing." —Bible. Psalm 65:8b-13 T.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOLS

Vacation Bible Schools are greatly needed in a country like ours, where the Bible is not taught as a regular subject in the public schools. They are an attempt to supplement the work of the Sunday School in the study of the Bible and, particularly, the memorization of choice Bible verses and passages. Years ago, when our rural schools had only six-month terms, "Ferien Bibelschulen" or "Gemeindeschulen", as they were called here in the west, often lasted through two full months. Then some real Bible study could be done. Now, some of our churches appear to be so hard up that they cannot afford more than two weeks of Bible School. A series of evangelistic meetings or Bible conferences lasting a week or two, can produce some good results, for they are intended mostly for adults. But what can be accomplished in teaching children ten half days, material that is to be remembered and treasured? Such a school is but a beginning and an end. It lacks the core, the middle part, where the work that is to count in the long run must be done. Of course, by the process of cramming, children may be made to memorize some Bible material well enough that they can repeat it in a closing program. If then such material is reviewed sufficiently in the Sunday School, it may, in due time, be remembered for good. If not, we fear that it will soon be gone with the wind. For, memory is a faculty that cannot be forced or hurried. The material to be really remembered must have time "to soak in" or, as the Germans put it, "bis es sitzt". That requires recall and repetition from time to time. A two-weeks school can be used to make quite a show at its close. But our plea is for the application of the principles of sound psychology and good pedagogy, hence for a term of four weeks or, better yet, six weeks, in which definite and more lasting results may be attained. As to the cost, where there is a will there is a way. We pay gas tax, sales tax, and other taxes foisted upon us by the Government, to gain some material benefit, apparently without murmur. How much more should we be willing, as Christians and Christian churches, to give of our means to enrich the minds and particularly the memories of our children with the everlasting truths of the word of God. —T.

LOOKING UNTO JESUS

"Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith." Heb. 12:2a. The Greek runner had to race in an area that was railed off. He also had to keep his eyes fixed on the goal or mark. As so often the apostle Paul uses these facts for illustration. He would have us know that the life and teaching of Jesus are the bounds within which the Christian is to move and have his being. And that the goal toward which we are to strive is Christ and Christ alone. If we lose sight of Him, we will miss the mark. Friends, fellow-Christians can be of great help to us in our race, but they can never assist us to the point, where we can dispense with Christ. He alone is the Way, the Guide, the Pattern that surpasses all others. Without Him we cannot take one safe step, without Him our strength is insufficient, our protection inadequate, our courage wanting. Therefore, it behooves us "to look unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith." He is the author(beginner) of faith in a two-fold way. He is the first whose faith in its real sense was a race in and through faith. He never had any concern for the tangible, the visible things of Life, but in steadfast faith He looked up to the Father in all things, even in His God-forsaken moments on the cross. He has been the author of our faith, and he will finish it, no matter what may come, provided we remain true and loyal to Him, and run the race strictly within the bounds marked off by Him and never cease looking up to Him. —T.

THE HYMN BOOK

By Lester Hostetler

Next to the Bible itself, our most important book of worship is the hymn book. Here we find a collection of short poems, called hymns, which express the deepest feelings of the heart in relation to God. They are gathered from ancient as well as modern sources. The hymn expresses in clear and beautiful language the sentiments which lie in our own souls but which we could not, unaided, make articulate.

But the hymns are only half of the hymn book. The other half consists of the tunes to which they are set. The tune adds color to the words and gives wings to the thoughts of the hymn. The best hymns represent a combination of words and tunes which are wedded together in perfect harmony. The words must fit the tune and the tune must be adequate to carry the words. Try to sing the Doxology to the tune "Woodworth" (Just as I am). The rythm of the words fits that of the tune, but the mood of the two is wholly different and any child can tell that the two do not belong together.

The hymn book is our most popular book of poetry. At least once each week, most of our church members turn to the hymn book, and sing or read, two or three or more hymns. This much can hardly be said of any other book of poetry.

Coming off the press at this moment are the proof sheets of our new hymn book which has been christened the MENNONITE HYMNARY. It will contain an unsurpassed collection of standard hymns; many of the old gospel song favorites; thirty or more hymns for children; and over seventy of the Chorales. Of the latter one can say that there is nothing finer or more suitable for worship in all of our church music. They are a part of our religious heritage. Most of them are easy to sing and are well adapted for congregational use.

No pains or money are being spared to make the HYMNARY a beautiful book, adequate for the needs of our churches for years to come. If generally adopted, it would serve as a bond of unity among us. People travelling from one community to another would sense a kinship of spirit upon seeing in the pews of the church a familiar hymn book in common use in all our churches. Nearly all the denominations recognize the value of publishing their own collection of hymns suited to their needs and expressing their own life and teachings. Among our own Mennonite churches, on the other hand, one finds an amazing assortment of hymn books. It is one of the unfortunate results of our individualism.

It is the belief of the writer, that the adoption of the MENNONITE HYMNARY in every church, and its use in every home, would raise the standard of our church music and it would give us a bond of unity which would draw us closer together in the fellowship of praise and prayer.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

1443 Chew Street, Allentown, Penna.
June 13, 1940

Dear Brother Richert:

Since the program of yesterday at the Foreign Missions Conference is still fresh in my mind and in order that I might get the most out of my notes, I will write a report of the Conference this afternoon. Mrs. Nyce accompanied me to the Conference which was again held on the beautiful campus of Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa.

We arrived at the opening of the morning program, immediately after the Worship Period. The reports from representative committees were being discussed. A gentleman from the floor said, "The future of civilization lies in America, not North Amerca only, but South America must be included."

Dr. Howard in his remarks on India said, "India knows Peace, not War, except the War against Satan himself." He then spoke briefly on the 'Week of Witness' in India and called on Dr. Dunkelberger to give a more detailed report. Dr. Dunkelberger said, "The Week of Witness was the result of a five year program of Forward Movement in Evangelism. There were two main aims in this Forward Movement program. 1st. To reach a much larger number of unevangelized people. 2nd. To enlist a large number of laymen, not only educated but illiterate as well. Rural people as well as city people. Women as well as men." He continued, "The National Christian Counsel prepared excellent pamphlets to make preparation for the program. There were two main results. 1st. Many, many thousands of people realized that there is a work that can be done by themselves. 2nd. Millions of people have been reached that otherwise would not have been reached. They seemed to be impressed by people not receiving a salary, telling the simple story of Christ.

"Besides the afore mentioned results, this also resulted from the Week of Witness, namely, some places will have another 'Week of Witness' in October. Others had two weeks and still others have one day a week since."

Speaking of East Asia, one of the speakers said, "We need to link our Hospitals and Churches as never before. Medical Mission Work in China has not expanded as opportunities have expanded. We used to pray for open doors, now we have too many doors." He gave the following illustration. "The Government was willing to put up a hospital and asked us if we could furnish a Christian doctor and nurse, but we did not have any to offer. There are very few if any hospitals that do not have field work. This is compulsory. We, in many instances, can not take care of field work because we are limited with workers. We are not the leaders in this respect, but we must follow. There are epidemic areas that should be taken care of but we are busy in the hospitals, so that we can not take care of any extra work."

Dr. Diefendurffer suggested that the Business Committee consider placing the emphasis on Latin America at the next Foreign Missions Conference. No action was taken but suggested that this be left in the hands of the Committee.

Dr. Knapp spoke on the World Sunday School Association work. He said England or the British Sunday School Committee had charge of a great deal of this work, but because of the war at present the American Association had to assume a greater portion of this also.

Before the close of the afternoon session the Business Committee offered the suggestion that the Conference again be held in the winter, because it was felt the attendance was better. So the next meeting is likely to be held during the winter of 1942, however it may be called any time between December and April of 1941 if necessary on account of International Relations.

In passing I might mention that Dr. Ross Sanderson gave a Paper in the afternoon on the subject "Interdenominational local program on Missions." He stressed the importance of the Churches and Boards uniting. "In a united effort more could be accomplished, and it should be done because our Missionaries do not necessarily build up a denominational work. The younger churches think in terms of One Church."

The evening was again the outstanding service as was last year's, when out-going missionaries were on the platform. The Chairman informed us that there were ninety-five present and from reports of our Boards approximately three hundred new missionaries are going out into the field this year. Fifteen Boards were represented by the ninety-five, who are going to many different countries. However, China is receiving the largest number of the group.

Dr. Lee from Nanking extended a hearty welcome to the new missionaries and said, "The doors of China are wider open to-day than ever before, and what is true of China can be said of nearly all countries."

Dr. Bonsack gave the Charge to the out-going Missionaries. He said, "There are several things I want you to take along with you. 1st. Take a good healthy body and take care of it. Do not over work yourself and by all means rest as much as you can.

2nd. Take with you a good sense of humor. Do not become to serious with yourself.

3rd. Take a good supply of common sense because it means reasonable thinking. Some call it horse-sense because it means stable thinking.

4th. Take a good training with you and 5th, Take with you an abiding Faith in Him who goes with you.

"Then besides these five things I would like to suggest three attitudes. 1st. Have a sentimental attitude toward them to whom you go to labor.

2nd. Give them a chance to assume responsibility. Do not become domineering. Your people will soon know your nature. In six months they'll know you better than you know yourself.

3rd. Try to cultivate the abiding consciousness of the presence of God, who said, "GO and Lo I am with you alway." In all things conduct yourself so that "whether you eat or drink, you may do all to the glory of God." Do not become too hasty, remember Joseph who when tempted by that beautiful Hebrew woman said, "This thing is not right in the sight of God."

Dr. Armstrong of the United Church of Canada offered the Consecration prayer.

The address of the evening was delivered by Dr. Herbert Gesork who came from Germany three years ago and is now teaching in Wellesley College. He opened his address by saying, "I came from the Germany that once was and which will live again." He was a leader of the German Baptist movement until it was dissolved by the Hitler regime. His address on "Youth and Tomorrow's World" was very interesting. He said in part:—

"When I attended the theological school in Germany, I with other young men, read books and we prayed earnestly that God might give us His Spirit that we might be used to help build a new world. We pledged never to take up arms, never to kill, never to destroy, for that was not the way the Master taught.

"Then came along that little man in a grey uniform and with pale face. He said, 'That's not the way to build a new world. You must fight, you must be strong, you must be able to trample all nations under your feet. That's the way to build a new world.'

"I heard Hitler speak many times. He said, 'You must follow me. I'll build a new Germany for you. I will lead you through tears, yes, even through blood but we will build a Germany for a thousand years. I looked around at the young people that stood back of me, and aside me, and thought they looked pale, you could also see the determined look on their faces to go ahead with Hitler. He gave them a new idea and a new ideal. What ever else we may say of Hitler, and no one is more bitter toward Hitler than I am, yet we must agree that he is doing for the youth of Germany what he promised.

"I read of the destruction over there. I see the pictures in the papers. I think back to those days when I sat with my class-mates. Today they are fighting. They are on the front line, or in a bombing plane or on a ship or in a submarine. Yes, the young people with whom I sang, and dreamed and prayed, fighting near Paris.

"Of the young American people I have noted that they are dissolusioned and skeptical. They are skeptical about religion, and they are skeptical about morality. They want to get married, but they have no work. They want to have a family but they do not have a chance. They come to a conclusion that they have a life and they are going to live that life regardless.

"The Church in Germany failed its youth. We asked the Church to help us (youth) but no answer came, or if one did eventually come, it was so weak that youth did not want to stand by. The Church in America must not fail its youth. We must give our young people something to hold on to. Something on which they can depend.

"We hear much about the Fifth Column these days. The Church too must have a Fifth Column. Not like the one of which we read, but one which will be as the salt of the earth. We have a Leader, One who will help us build a new world, not through destruction but through love. We must give our young people the absolutes as did the Old Testament prophets, the absolutes of justice, of love, and of mercy. Youth of today needs these absolutes to build the world of tomorrow."

Fraternally yours,
Howard G. Nyce

"Take courage, I have vanquished the world. By the lowliness of My birth, by the obscurity of My life, by the cruelty and ignominy of My death, I have triumphed over all that men admire, esteem, fear. This is the sign by which you should know Me."—Boussuet.

Card and Appeal

London, June 25

Dear Bro. Lichti:

Have been wanting to thank you for your letter to the ship. Have enjoyed my work very much so far. Wish we were able to do more for these poor refugees in France. Am planning to go back there shortly pending word from Bennett at Marseilles. Let us continue to pray for this work for His glory.

Lovingly yours, Ted Claassen

Yes. Let us continue to pray and give for these poor hungry and homeless refugees. Send all gifts to our treasurer, Rev. P. H. Unruh, Goessel, Kans.

In the name of these poor hungry homeless refugees,
John Lichti

MENNONITE BIBLE MISSION QUARTERLY REPORT FOR JANUARY, FEBRUARY AND MARCH

1940

Average Attendance Sunday Morning	114
Average Attendance Sunday Evening	57
Average Attendance Wednesday Evening	20
Average offerings for Sundays	$20.58
Special day offerings (other than Sunday)	$15.58
Total offering for the quarter	$283.58

SOME SPECIAL INCIDENTS

Jan. 7. Gospel Girls give a fine program in the evening.

Jan. 8. Visit Mrs. Dobler and her mother. Both are seriously sick. Both recovered.

Jan. 10. Missionary Yoders of the Congo Inland Mission were here for the evening. Prayer meeting at home of Millers. These cottage prayer meetings were held weekly at different homes during the quarter.

Jan. 26. Centennial Meeting of the Chicago Bible Society. Very good program.

Jan. 27-29. Host to visitors from S. D.

Feb. 2. Buy car for Mission from Money donated by Bethel Church.

Feb. 5-10. Entertained some visitors who were in the city for Conference at Moody Bible Institute.

Feb. 15. Meeting with Mission Board and good news. Praise God.

Feb. 18. Rev. Miller of the Mennonite Home Mission speaks in the evening.

Feb. 21. Get contact with Richard Boehr at the Institute. Find also his father. Rev. Boehr speaks at the Mission in the evening and stays for the night.

Feb. 28-29. Mrs. Wiens visits a very sick mother who has not taken any interest in the Mission but rather has been hostile. Several visits were made to her bedside before she died. She had a very sad sickness and death but later just before she passed away began to want prayer. It is sad when people leave these things for the death bed.

Mar. 3. Bethany Reformed church Male Choir sings here in the evening.

Mar. 17. Palm Sunday. Blessing two babies. Take into church Mr. and Mrs. Sellers. Mr. Sellers is baptized. Brother P. Neufeld from Kansas speaks both morning and evening.

Mar. 19-22. Meetings every night conducted by Brother Peter Neufeld. Good attendance.—Communion Service on Friday night. About 70 take part.

Mar. 24. Easter. Very large group out for the Easter Service.—Gospel Girls give Pageant in the evening.

Mar. 25. Student Communion service at 7:00 P. M. Rev. Gaeddert is the speaker. Rev. Landis and myself serve the Communion. The following schools were represented: Moody Bible Institute, Bethany Seminary, Garret Bib. Ins., Northwestern U., Chicago U., Chicago Medical School, Baptist Seminary. About half of those that were invited were present. Some could not be present.

At 8:15 the Bethel College Quartet gave a program. Fine program and good attendance. The Quartet also sang a number at the Communion service.

Mar. 29. Had service at Loop Gospel Mission in the evening. This Mission is conducted by the Chicago Tract Society.

The regular meetings were as usual: Sunday morning and evening, Wednesday evening prayer and Bible Study. Also boys meetings and Girls Choir. Cottage prayer meetings were held in about twelve homes.

Mr. Peters and Mr. Arthur Friesen helped in the preaching on Sunday evenings.—Sick visitation was carried on as usual.

One of the members has been asked to write a report of the quarter. This is to give the Board other viewpoints of the mission work.

We accept with thanks the help of the Board and feel rather humbled in our efforts.

Our grateful thanks also to the Bethel Mennonite Church who have continued their support of the work here.

John T. Neufeld

NOTICE: Rev. Jacob Jantzen, who for 40 years has served the Herold Mennonite church near Bessie, Okla., has felt obliged to retire and desires to announce that all letters and mail for the church be henceforth addressed to his successor, Rev. J. R. Duerkson, Bessie, Oklahoma.

AN UNWRITTEN MESSAGE

(Song of Solomon 2:1)

Beautiful Rose of Sharon
Lily, majestic fair . . .
Reveal a gracious message
That I would like to share.

Red speaks of blood most precious,
Blood that was shed for me,
Fragrance from your anointing
Helps me Christ's life to see.

White Lily, pure and spotless
Tied with a bow of blue,
Whispers, "though Christ was holy
He became sin for you."

It's Time For Young People To Prepare

What for?—To attend the ALL MENNONITE YOUNG PEOPLE'S RETREAT!

Where?—QUAKER HAVEN—DEWART LAKE—SYRACUSE, INDIANA

When?—Monday afternoon, AUGUST 5 to Sunday noon AUGUST 11

Why?—For a week of study, Christian fellowship, and good clean sport.

What will it cost?—$8 no more—no less. This includes everything.

What shall I bring?—Bible, notebook, pencil, swim suit, sheets, pillow, blankets, clothes for 'roughing it', towel, personal toilet articles, musical instruments, all the friends you can, and a desire to make this the best Retreat yet.

We have an entirely new arrangement for the Retreat this year; a new place, new scenery, different housing arrangements. All retreaters and instructors will eat together in a common hall. All the girls will room in one dormitory. All the fellows will room in the boy's dormitory. There will be more boats—20 of them! There will be a larger variety of sports. There will be an experienced recreation director. You need not bring a sponsor or cook. That is all arranged for you.

We urge a larger number of the older young people to attend. Our course in recreational leadership is especially designed for you. If enough interest is shown, it may lead to the development of a retreat for older young people, separate from the retreat for high school age young people. Miss Emma Detweiler, who has wide experience in recreational leadership, will teach this course and will also direct the Retreat recreation.

COURSES

New Testament—Instructor—Miss Ceclia Sheppard, who has done outstanding work in this field in many parts of the country.

Mennonite History—Dr. C. H. Smith, Prof. of History, Bluffton College.

Missions and India today—Rev. John Thiessen, Gen. Conference Missionary to India.

Music—Hymns, Church music, etc. (Instructor not definite)

Recreational Leadership—Miss Emma Detweiler.

Morning Watch and Sunset—Services will be conducted by the Rev. Ernest Bohn, Pastor Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa., Chairman Eastern District Retreat

There will also be worthwhile evening lectures and programs.

IMPORTANT: Send your reservations to: G. S. Stoneback, 605 S. 7th St. Goshen, Indiana, on or before July 18.

Pastors! C. E. Presidents! Sunday School Superintendents!

Help your young people to attend. One group of Retreaters is giving a play to earn part of the expenses. Several groups of mothers are having ice cream socials to raise money. Many Sunday Schools and Endeavor Societies pay the $2 registration fee. Many older people who cannot attend are happy to pay part or all of the expenses of sending a young person to the Retreat.

Europe sends its youth to army camps. Send your youth to a Christian camp.

Retreat theme: "LOYALTY TO CHRIST"

Weighing Consequences

(A Principle of Temperate Living)

Prov. 1:7-10; Isa. 5:11, 12; 18-23; Gal. 6:7-9

Introduction

It would seem that sane thinking would lead every one to give thought to the conseqencues of his actions. The wise person will consider well the future result of present practices. Unenlightened and savage peoples are concerned only about present enjoyment. We have all too many persons in America who give themselves to intemperate and unclean living and seemingly disregard all future consequences. Such is the degrading effect of sin obtaining a fast hold upon a heart and life.

Beginning Right Prov. 1:7-10

This section of our lesson gives the right starting point in building a Christian character foundation. A profound reverence for God, such as arises in one who loves Him, is the starting point in attaining and following true wisdom and knowledge (v7). He who reverences—fears—God, honors His laws. The foolish in heart despise God's wisdom. Reverence toward God will lead to reverencing the wisdom and guidance of godly parents. Following such instructions will bring honor and distinction (v9). It will mean a right behavior in life, a strong and righteous character.

Woe to the Lovers of Strong Drink Isa. 5:11, 12

Isaiah gives a typical picture of those who become enslaved to the appetite for alcoholic drink (v11). Such early morning drinking was disreputable in Isaiah's day—would to God it were now—but the drunkards drank at all hours. They lived to drink. The description here given fits well into our own day. God pronounces woes upon the sin of drunkenness. These drinkers frequent feasts where there is music and wine and they forget God and His deeds (v12). Drink inflames body and mind, perverts and distorts vision and thoughts. God's warnings of woes to come fell, and still fall, upon deaf ears.

Woe to Lovers of Sin vs 18-23

Isaiah pictures those who have so given themselves to sin that they draw a load of sin after them, as though hitched to a cart (v18). Using strong drink leads to such enslavery to sin. They mock and scoff at Isaiah's prediction of God's judgment upon them (v19). Such mockery is common among drunkards today. Some have gone so far in their evil ways that they have lost all moral judgment (v20), a sign of deep moral corruption and depravity. Those living in sin usually have much self-conceit, consider themselves wise and laugh at all warnings against danger (v21). They who can drink freely are storing up trouble for themselves. They become unjust and unfair in their official dealings with others (v23).

Reaping What We Sow Gal. 6:7-9

God has established a law that man will reap what he sows. This is as eternally true also in the moral and spiritual realms. Many may and do try to mock God, and they think they can sin and escape the operation of His law (v8). They deceive themselves. The harvest is certain. The use of strong drink is one of the most common ways of sowing to the flesh and one of the most terrible in its results. He who sows to the Spirit—whose manner of life is upright—sows honor, truth, love, will reap worthwhile rewards in this life and an eternity of bliss in the "life eternal". Well doing, clean living, has its rewards, both with man and with God. He has so arranged the moral universe that clean living is rewarded. Godliness is profitable unto all things. 1 Tim. 4:8.

China Flood Relief

The 1939 flood was unusually severe. Tamingfu formed the southern apex of the flooded region. Looking at the big flowing sea round about, one wondered from where such a large amount of water could come but, in order to apprehend the situation still more fully, one had to go about four hundred miles north and east of Peking and Tientsin. The whole stretch was under ten to twenty feet of water. There was no chance of saving the crops. Whole villages disappeared in the on-rushing stream. The value of property destroyed was beyond calculation. Besides, thousands of people lost their lives. This, however, was only the beginning of the terrible suffering.

Our problem was to save the living from freezing and starving. All the relief organizations with the aid of the missions took part. It practically meant to feed the population of half a province until another wheat crop could be garnered in. Since, under circumstances we could not expect to have others come and help in Tamingfu, because they were worse hit than we, and since we had about all that we could undertake by ourselves, we did not link up with other organizations, but used our own staff and the funds that our dear people at home contributed in relieving the suffering of the poorer people of the district.

There were three ways in which we tackled our job. The poor Christians in the churches had to be considered, so the church boards investigated the homes of the church-members. About one third of them were found to be unable to procure bread for their families, and so their names were accepted to go on the needy list. In this list, however, three classes were provided for, so that larger and poorer families could get more help. This aid went to the respective churches in monthly installments for five months that is up to wheat harvest.

For relief in the villages at large we had a committee of investigation at work for several months in advance. This committee picked out all villages the grainfields of which had been flooded and ruined. Some people, although they had lost a crop, could still find a way of getting along. The committee was after the real poor ones. But they could not, with such a small staff, begin to investigate all homes. They therefore went to the elders of each village and planned together with them. These elders picked out the most nedy families in their village. However, where this was possible, the number was to stay within one-tenth of the population of the village, though quite often they went beyond this limitation. The elders were to prepare a duplicate list. One went to the committee and the other one was to be posted in a public place in the village. The funds were to go to these elders, who in turn were to pay them out to each needy family. The theory was good and saved us a lot of work and worry, but in some villages the elders listened to the clamor of the masses for a general distribution, and divided the funds to a much larger number. Thereupon we changed the precedure somewhat in that we published the list in the name of the mission, and made the elders promise to stay by our list. However, again some elders disappointed us in that they added names to the official list. So we were compelled to take matters more into our own hands. After that the elders received no money into their hands. We had the villages come directly to us, and we personally paid the money over to each headman of the family according to the list. This plan on the whole worked very well. Ten villages or more would on the same day come to a centrally located village. During the time that the people gathered the evangelists preached to them. Later I would appear with the relief money. Each village elder grouped his people, so that they would come into the receiving room by villages. Each one received his help as his name was called off. The elder and the rest being the judges, so that no deception was permitted. In all, two distributions were made. The money we had to use gave us quite a little trouble. In and near the city the Japanese sponsored money had to be used, and farther away exclusively old Chinese money would pass. There is a line so sharply drawn between the two, that if the Japanese get hold of the Chinese money they confiscate it and arrest or shoot the person; and if the Chinese authorities catch any one having Japanese sponsored money they will deal even worse with him. Some have been buried alive. There is a scarcity in both kinds of money. Especially is there a great shortness in small denominations. We simply could not get enough small money to go around, so we gave a larger bill or banknote to two or three people in unison, and had them go and buy their grain together. In this manner we served 133 villages twice. The total number of families that received this help in two installments were 2,070.

A third phase of our relief work was building and dirt work. This had to be limited to our compound, because for the road projects we failed to obtain the necessary land. The owners of the land asked unreasonable prices. Notwithstanding this limit, I have been busy with from 150 to 200 men for over two months. We had a millet-soup kitchen, so that all dirt workers received two meals a day besides wages. Our applications were numerous, so that we could not take all the workers on at the same time. We arranged to have them work in weekly groups. By using the regular ticket system, our work was much easier too. Each morning before we started work, the evangelist brought them the Word of life.

Nothing is perfect, and our relief work was far from that. Still we praise God for every bit of it. Especially in these days while "foreign powers" are distrusted and looked upon as intruders, usurpers and what not; and when the Chinese communists harass their own country and people. We consider it a privilege to have been able to bring the message of God's love to these people in such a practical way. May God bless it, and grant that it bear eternal fruit.

In the name of these people we want to thank everybody that had a hand in it heartily for such liberal contributions. The Lord be your reward!

Very faithfully yours,
H. J. and Maria Brown

ANNOUNCEMENT AND INVITATION

The Ohio-Indiana Mennonite Young People's Convention is to be held at Berne, Indiana. There will be four sessions, afternoons and evenings of July 20-21. The general theme for the Convention is "CHRIST—MASTER OF LIFE AND SERVICE." Dr. L. L. Ramseyer of Bluffton College will be the main speaker. There will be topic discussions in the afternoon sessions. Good music will be had at all sessions.

A good and interested attendance is anticipated.

IN MEMORIAM

EVA EWERT SCHULTZ, DAUGHTER OF REV. CORNELIUS AND MARIA EWERT, was born Aug. 16, 1875, then of Springfield, S. Dak.

She was baptized May 18, 1891, and joined the Friedensberg Mennonite Church, of which she has been a true and loyal member all her life. She joined in the union of holy wedlock with David A. Schultz, Feb. 9, 1894. This union lasted 46 years, 3 months and 18 days. Her very valuable life came to an end June 27, 1940. Every day she was very mindful concerning her children and grandchildren, bearing them in prayer before the throne of God. Longing to see them once more here on earth, but especially to see them in glory with our loving God and Savior.

She began failing in health Jan. 1, 1940. She reached the age of 64 years, 10 months and 11 days. She leaves to mourn: her husband, Rev. Schultz; Anna, Mrs. P. M. Boese, Saginaw, Mich.; Frank, Lodi, Calif.; Margaret, Mrs. Allen Boese of Saginaw, Mich.; Paul, of Saginaw, Mich.; Marie, Mrs. J. E. Voth of Mt. Lake, Minn.; and 11 grandchildren, also a brother Henry and two nephews. Her father and mother and two brothers have preceeded her in death.

O what a glorious meeting it will be to meet that praying mother again. Her loving kindness will be remembered long after she has gone home to her reward. She leaves to mourn a great host of friends.

* * * *

OUR DEAR MOTHER, SARAH FROESE, NEE FRANZ, daughter of John and Anna Franz was born Sept. 11, 1882, near Buhler, Kansas.

June 4, 1900 she was baptized on the confession of her faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and was accepted as a member of the Hoffnungsau Church.

Oct. 30, 1900 she was married to Bernhard P. Froese. They made their home north-east of Buhler, later moving to Hooker, Okla., then back to Buhler. This union was blessed with a daughter, Emma, now Mrs. John Peters.

Since Mr. Froese was a member of the Hebron Church Mrs. Froese also joined that church.

Because of an affliction, she consulted a doctor, Jan. 15, 1936, who said she was suffering from cancer. She was operated, but was never again entirely well. She consulted various doctors but without receiving any help.

The last ten weeks she had been very sick. In May she was taken to Grace Hospital, Hutchinson, where she remained until her death June 16, 1940. Often she was concerned about her soul's salvation and desired to better understand God's Word. She found much comfort in the Psalms and departed this life with the assurance that she would see her Savior.

The 23 Psalm was very precious to her, especially the thought that Christ was her shepherd.

Her favorite song was "Mercy's Free."

She leaves to mourn her departure: her deeply bereaved husband, a daughter Emma and son-in-law John Peters, 2 grandchildren, Victor and Beatrice Peters.

Four sisters, Mrs. Klaas Dick, Mrs. David Bartel, Mrs. A. R. Schmidt, and Mrs. David Gaeddert, and one brother, John, all of Buhler.

She was a loving, praying mother.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. A. van der Smissen of the Hebron Church. Rev. A. J. Dyck assisted at the cemetery.

JOHN H. PANKRATZ, SON OF MR. AND MRS. HENRY PANKRATZ, was born Aug. 26, 1871, immigrated to America with his parents in 1874. They located in the vicinity of Henderson, Nebr. and lived in the emigrant house until their house was ready for use. The place of the emigrant house was marked with a boulder about three years ago, during the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Henderson. He was the youngest of the survivors of the group of thirty-five families that lived in this emigrant house at that time.

Upon confession of his faith, he was baptized in 1892 and taken into the Bethesda Church at Henderson, of which he remained a true and faithful member until his death. He was united in holy wedlock with Katharina Friesen on Dec. 10, 1895. This union was blessed with five children, John D., the oldest son, who proceded him in death last summer at the age of about forty-two years; Emma, Mrs. J. A. Schierling, who passed on about sixteen years ago; Alvin J. of Henderson and Oliver of York, Nebr., and Elda, Mrs. Harold Friesen, of Omaha, Nebr., who helped to care of her father the last few months.

The deceased was a farmer until 1927, when they moved to Henderson, where during the last twelve years he served as janitor of the Bethesda Church. He was a man of a quiet disposition, never causing anyone any trouble. In all his dealings he was honest, conscientious and sought the welfare of his whole family. He took sick in February and his condition grew weaker from day to day until June 1, when he passed on to the great Beyond, where sorrow and troubles shall be no more for those who die in the Lord. He leaves to mourn his loss, his beloved wife, two sons, one daughter, three daughters-in-law, two sons-in-law, one brother at Alsen, N. D., seven grandchildren and many relatives and friends. He attained the age of 68 years, 9 months, and 5 days.

How short is human life; the very breath which forms my words, accelerates my death.—H. Moore.

On Being Prepared

By J. Winfield Fretz

No matter in what part of the country we live, whenever we open magazines, read the head-lines of newspapers, look at news reels, or tune in on the radio, we are flooded with appeals to show our loyalty and patriotism to our country. This can be done, we are told, by getting our young men to join the regular army, the Navy, or the Marines. We are urged to become members of the National Guard and to train ourselves as reserve army air pilots. We are asked not to criticize our government for its gigantic armament program, we are expected to pay the additional taxes this armament program costs, and do it willingly as an evidence of our loyalty to our country.

The government, state and federal, the press, many business interests, and many of our neighbors have been overcome with a feverish desire to be prepared. Prepared against any and all enemies, prepared to protect themselves against one enemy or any combination of enemies. We are told that our army and our navy in the past were weak and unprepared to defend us. What we need within and from without is a gigantic armament program. More regular fighting men in the army and navy, more new tanks and battleships, hundreds of new cannons and bombing planes, millions of new rounds of ammunition for machine guns and rifles.

In these things, we are told, lie the safety and the security of our land. These are not the clamorous teachings of "Greeks, Barbarians, or Scythians." They are the pleadings of our own fellow American citizens. They are the firm convictions of some of our best friends who are active church men and who consider themselves good Christians.

It is not for us to pass judgment on them. We are too frail and sinful ourselves to do this, but as members of the Mennonite Church our tradition, our principles and personal convictions should make us see the folly of putting all our trust in material instruments of force and might and in the clever use of them by man. This reminds me of the Psalmist's expression when he compared the weapons used by the Israelites and those used by their enemies: Some trust in chariots and some in horses but we will remember the name of the Lord our God.

When it comes to the question of national defense and instruments of violence Mennonites have traditionally repudiated chariots and horses and have put their trust in the love and the justice and the power of Almighty God. When we sing the words to the hymn, "Faith of our Fathers, Living Still," it should remind us above everything else, of the faith our fathers had in love as a way of life. They believed and practiced that one could love his enemies, that when one was reviled he should not revile again, that a Christian should bless those who despitefully use him and persecute him, that he should turn his other cheek, and give him the cloak as well as the coat, that a Christian should always overcome evil with good.

These are the things implied in our religious faith. These are the things which our fathers cherished so dearly that they preferred to suffer hardship, inconvenience and persecution rather than surrender and compromise. When others trusted in chariots and horses for security and peace our fathers remembered the name of the Lord their God.

My plea to all Mennonites during these days of preparedness propaganda and mass hysteria, is that we do not place our confidence in the wrong kind of preparedness. That we do not identify peace and safety with large armies and strong fortifications. Let us prepare and be prepared to serve our country by remembering our God. Let us continue our heritage of living by loving—loving neighbor and stranger, friend or foe, criminal or saint, and hoping thereby to overcome evil with good, thus fulfilling the law of Christ.

To be prepared in this way may require of us willingness to pay a great price. We may be forced to suffer—to surrender property, to undergo torture, to be misunderstood and mistreated and some of us may even have to pay the supreme price of our lives as Jesus did, because we insist on living true to our religious convictions. We want to be prepared against all enemies and any emergencies. We want to serve our country and our fellowmen, but we want to do it by remembering the name of the Lord our God and not trusting in the modern equivalent of ancient chariots and horses.

(In a letter accompanying this article, which was written in bed, Brother Fretz states, "I was involved in an automobile accident last Saturday that completely ruined the car and laid me up for several weeks. Fortunately, God was good to me and did not permit serious injuries. I am staying with Lester Hostetlers at present. Everything is coming along all right, although it will go slowly."—R. W.)

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Senior C. E. Topic for July 28, 1940
Main Topic: Recreation That Enriches
Luke 10:38-42

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "O worship the King", "Glorious things of thee are spoken", "There's sunshine in my soul today".
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Short talk on "The Opportunity offered by Retreats"
4. Offering for mission work, while music is played softly

II. Leader's Introduction

There come days, or at least hours, when we should lay aside our work, and take "time out" for recreation. Just as we need food, or sleep, we also need time to lay aside our work at times. We need to turn to something that will again enrich our lives, give new zest and new power and new enthusiasm to our daily work when we return to it. There are so many fine things available for recreation—it is sometimes hard to choose. A week or two for travel and sightseeing and learning in God's out-of-doors, in art galleries, historical places, industrial centers,—or of rest and reading by the side of some quiet lake or amidst the towering trees of some grove,—or a visit with dear friends—or a few weeks of intensive study with kindred minds,—or the fine fellowship and spiritual uplift of a retreat—what a variety of opportunity. Even working in harvest can be recreation for students and high school boys. If your circumstances do not allow that—there are the possibilities of finding an hour or two a day—morning—afternoon—or evening—for things of a similar nature. With a bit of planning few people need go without the life-saver of recreation.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. A religious recreation 2 Sam. 6:12-15
2. A happy state in Zion Zech. 8:3-8
3. An unholy exercise Matt. 14:1-11
4. Discretion admonished Rom. 14:16-19
5. Do all in His name Col. 3:16, 17

IV. For Discussion

1. What did Jesus do for recreation?
2. Is change of work recreative?
3. What should determine the kind of recreation that we choose?
4. In what ways is a Retreat "recreative"?

V. Facts for Study

It is interesting that we study this topic just at the time when the Retreat is again at our door. So a few words about Retreat may be in place. Is it worth while to consider it as a desirable "recreation"?

1. It offers spiritual uplift—you withdraw from your daily work, your everyday surroundings; you take time to study and to think on things of eternal value—you spend time with God, talking to Him and letting Him talk to you. Jesus did this when He withdrew with His disciples from the multitudes and from His busy work days in Galilee.

2. It offers opportunity for fine fellowship with those of like purpose and aim. The finest friendships are often formed at such places as these. They are based on mutual understanding and high ideals which are shared, and are of abiding value in days when you are at your daily work again.

3. It offers a chance to sing and to play, to rest a bit and to do other than the usual routine things, and is stimulating for better work and better living when you return to your homes and your community.

VI. For Meditation

Leader: Blessed are they that have eyes to see.
Group: They shall find God everywhere—They shall see Him when others see stones.
Leader: Blessed are they that have understanding hearts.
Group: To them shall be multiplied the kingdom of delight.
Leader: Blessed are they that see visions.
Group: They shall rejoice in the hidden ways of God.
Leader: Blessed are they who rejoice in the power of prayer.
Group: They draw near to God.
Leader: Blessed are they who know the power of love.
Group: They shall be called children of God.

Senior C. E. Topic for Aug. 4, 1940
Main Topic: God at the Organ
Ps. 19:16; Rom. 1:18-21

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "O could I speak the matchless worth" "Love divine, all love excelling", "Nearer my God, to Thee"
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Recitation of Ps. 24 and Ps. 19.
4. Offering for Missions.

II. Leader's Introduction

These are the things I hold sublime
A trusting child's hand laid in mine,
Rich brown earth and wind-tossed trees,
The taste of grapes and the drone of bees,
A rhythmic gallop, long June days,
A rose-hedged land and lovers' lays,
The welcome smile on neighbors' faces,
Cool, wide hills and open places,
Breeze-blown fields of silver rye,
The wild, sweet note of the plover's cry,
Fresh spring showers and scent of box,
The soft pale tint of the garden phlox.
A dappled fawn in the forest hush,
Simple words, and song of a thrush,
Rose-red dawns and a mate to share
With comrade soul my gypsy fare,
A waiting fire when the twilight ends,
A gallant heart and the voice of friends.

—Jean Brooks Burt

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. God and the elements 1 Kings 19:8-13
2. The Universe and man Ps. 8
3. Character and the creativeness of God Ps. 139:1-12
4. Provision for birds and flowers Matt. 6:26-30
5. Culminating of God's work Rev. 22:1-5

IV. For Discussion

1. What can we learn about God through nature?
2. Does man cooperate with God if he cooperates with nature?
3. Does nature study enrich our life? How?

V. Facts for Study

The farmer must study nature and learn the ways of God in the way nature works if he wants to raise a crop. The botanist who studies plant life learns to pay attention to the way in which God works in nature. The scientist who finds that many plants are useful for the most varied purposes, medicine, clothing, industrial purposes, sees something of the wonders of our universe. A father, a mother, a child, as they step out into the open on a starlit evening and behold the infinite number of the stars and their exquisite beauty become aware of the greatness of God, and of His majesty and glory. The traveler on sea and land can thrill to the handiwork of God. God's footprints can be seen and felt everywhere by those who have eyes to see and ears to hear. He still speaks through the earthquake, the storm, but equally so, perhaps, most of all through the still same voice as in Elijah's day.

VI. Illustration

When Charles Spurgeon was a lad, he was driven one day by a furious storm to take refuge in a small church where an illiterate layman was conducting the service. During the service, the man repeated: "Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth."

Young Spurgeon left that church a converted boy, determined to tell others of the wonderful Savior. Millions, subsequently heard this famous preacher or read his sermons. It was the individual to whom he preached; and it is the individual of whatever group that Christianity is concerned about today. Christ's teachings override all man-made barriers.

VII. Food for Thought

The God who created so much beauty must be desiring us to appreciate it?

Discussion: How can we hear God's Voice?

1. Through training 1 Sam. 3:1-10
2. Through providential dealings Acts 16:6-10
3. Through conscience Rom. 2:11-16
4. By His message sent through others Jer. 42: 1-7, 19-22
5. Through his word Mark 12:24
6. Through the Spirit 1 Cor. 2:6-13

Daily Readings

Chorus "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen In Me"

God speaks to us through nature: "The Psalmist wrote; "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth his handiwork." Wherever we turn in the realm of nature we see God.

"Have you ever looked up at the stars at night, and, remembering what you have been told about the vast distances of the stars, and that worlds like ours are moving through space as fast as cannon balls, have you never had the feeling of wonder, of how great the universe is, and you but a tiny mite in it all? Briefly let us consider some of the beauties of nature through which we may hear God speak.

1. Sun and rain. "He sendeth rain upon the just and the unjust."
2. The rainbow. Gen. 9:13-17.
3. Birds. Jesus said: "Are not five sparrows sold for a penny? and not one of them is forgoten in the sight of God. But the very hairs of your head are numbered. Fear ye not; ye are of more value than many sparrows."
4. Flowers. Matt. 6:28-31.
5. Sunsets. When we study the beautiful sunsets they give to our hearts a feeling of peace and reverence for God's power.
6. Mountains. "For the mountains may depart and the hills be removed; but my lovingness shall not depart from thee."
7. Deserts. The desert brings us a message of hope. Recently it has been discovered that there is water under the desert, and that if it is brought to the surface the desert becomes extremely fertile and productive.
8. Storms. A storm is the clearest revelation of God's power that we have in nature.
9. Shadows. Shadows bring us rest.
10. Spring. Spring brings us the story of the resurrection.

August 25—1 Cor. 3:16 "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God?"

Verse of the month—Psalm 27:4—One thing have I desired of the Lord that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his temple.

Song of the month—"I Love Thy Kingdom Lord" v1-4. Mennonite Hymn Book No. 291.

Prayer of the month—Psalm 84:8a, 10, 12. "O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer, for a day in Thy courts is better than a thousand. I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness. O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in Thee." Amen.

Program for Aug. 4, 1940

Exodus 25:8 "And let them make me a sanctuary."
(The construction of the tabernacle)

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude Pianist plays very softly the melody of "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord" M. H. B. 291.
2. Call to worship Psalm 122:1. "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."
3. Opening Prayer by the leader.
4. Unison song "The Churches One Foundation."
5. Scripture reading by a Junior boy. Psalm 84.
6. Song The first verse of "Faith of Our Fathers."
7. Unison reading of the verse of the month. Psalm 27:4.
8. Leader's explanation of the meaning of this verse, followed by all Juniors marking it with a red pencil in their Bibles.
9. Pianist again plays the melody of the song of the month. No. 291 M. H. B., very softly, while all Juniors read the four verses in unison.

III. Study Period

Aim. To acquaint our Juniors with the tabernacle. To help them to realize that in a very special way we meet God in God's house.

1. Introduction

After the Children of Israel left Egypt they wandered in the wilderness for forty years, during the first year God gave them the law at Mount Sinai. Here, too, God himself told them to erect a tabernacle. This Tabernacle is the first house of worship ever erected, and it is the only building except Solomon'sTemple which had God for the architect. It was very strong for it lasted about five hundred years. It was very costly and very beautiful.

The entire structure consisted of three parts. An outer court, open to the sky, the sides of which were composed of curtains supported on pillars. The entrance was at the eastern end. Inside, facing the door or gate was the altar of burnt offering and behind that the brazen laver. Within this open court and towards the western end was a covered tabernacle, divided by a hanging curtain into two chambers. The outer of these rooms, called the "Holy Place", contained the Table of Shewbread, the Candlestick and the Altar of Incense. The inner room was the "Holy of Holies." This contained the Ark of the Covenant. Only the high priest ever entered this "Holy of Holies" and that only once a year, on the great day of Atonement.

(A diagram, or a sand-table structure will help our Juniors to visualize the tabernacle. Perhaps they would like to construct one).

2. A Junior may tell "Why the Tabernacle was built". Exodus 25:8, 22; 33:7-11; 40:34.
3. Discussion (Question and answer)—Does God meet with His people today? Where? When? How?
4. A Junior may tell "How the Tabernacle should be erected." Exodus 25:9; 27:9-19; 40:1-8, 18-30. Read for reference all of chapters 26 and 36. What do we learn from this?

5. A Junior girl may tell "What were the materials used?" Exodus 25:1-7; 26:1, 7, 14, 15, 26, 29, What do we learn from this?

6. A Junior boy may tell "Where the materials were obtained." Exodus 25:2; 35:4-9; 35:22-24, 27, 29; 36:4-7.

7. Discussion (Question and answer)—How should the Lord's work be supported today? Who should give? How often? How much? Read together 2 Cor. 9:7b.

8. A Junior boy may tell about "The Workmen." Exodus 31:1-7; 35:10, 21, 25, 26; 36:8.

9. An older person may tell about the furniture and what for or how it was used. Exodus 25:10-21; 23:30; 27:1-8; 30:1-6. Chapters 37 and 38.

10. Leader's heart talk centered around the names used to designate the Tabernacle. "Tent of meeting", "Tent of testimony" and "The Dwelling Place."

11. Sing in unison, standing, "We're Marching to Zion."

III. Mission Minutes

1. Who are our new mission workers among the Indians in Oklahoma?
2. Who has been and still is in this mission field?
3. Name two missionary families who have labored among our American Indians for forty or more years.
4. Silent Prayer season for all missionaries.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Memorize the Verse of the month. Psalm 27:4.
2. Sing the Song of the month. "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord." M. H. B. 291.
3. Pray the Prayer of the month, Psalm 84:8a, 10, 12.

CORRESPONDENCE

HEREFORD MENN. CHURCH, BALLY, PA.

The echoes of Independence Day are still ringing in the ears of everyone. What a glorious service was held in the Hereford Mennonite Church, Bally, Pa., on Independence Day from 10:00 to 11:30. It was a service purely of praise and prayer. The purpose of this meeting was to invoke the blessing of God upon the peoples of the earth, especially in relation to the re-establishment of a reign of peace and goodwill. The prayer period followed a three-fold purpose: (1) a prayer of dedication to individual and corporate acceptance of the will of God in the spirit of utter consecration; (2) a prayer for the leaders of the world, that God may place it upon their hearts to seek peaceful means for the solution of their great problems, and that His blessing may abide upon those suffering in various lands; and (3) a prayer for America, that she may preserve peace within her borders and with those of other nations, and that she may return to a spirit of national righteousness. These prayer periods were interspersed with the singing of appropriate hymns. A very impressive and inspiring service was enjoyed by all present. Rev. Henry M. Kistler, pastor of a Lutheran church, Dr. Elmer E. S. Johnson, our pastor, and Andrew Shelly had charge of this service.

On June 30th at 7:30 P. M. the program for the Second Vacation Bible School was held in our church. Andrew Shelly was the director. A packed house was present to see and hear the work done by these children. The total enrollment was 126; perfect attendance 96; average attendance 116; total number of workers 17; number of churches represented 14; and number of denominations 7; three different denominations were represented on the teaching staff. Seed that has been sown during these two weeks will not go astray, surely some good will come of it.

All services have been running on schedule as other years. We trust that we may continue to worship God in this, our place of worship, as our forefathers have done in years past.—Mae Latshaw, Corr.

IMMANUEL MENN. CH., LOS ANGELES, CAL.

"And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearsed all that God had done with them." The Thirtieth anniversary of the organization of this church was observed Sunday morning, May 19, with a fitting service of thanksgiving to God for His mercies and blessings during these years.

On May 12 twelve persons were baptized and received into the church, together with one other by reaffirmation of the faith. Eleven of the group were young people mostly from the Junior and Intermediate classes of Sunday School. What a joy to see them give their young hearts and lives to the Savior!

Three times the wedding bells were rung in June for members of our church: On June 2, Mr. Jacob Foth and Mrs. Justina Buller, and on June 14, Mr. Jacob J. Regier, Jr. and Miss Betty Kinzie, were united in marriage by our pastor, Rev. W. A. Regier. On June 15, Mr. Lyman W. Sprunger and Miss Adeline Enzs were united in marriage by Rev. Edgar Toews, in the bride's home church at Reedley, Calif. We wish these happy couples God's richest blessing in the new homes they have established to His honor and glory.

The Pacific District Conference, held here June 6 to 9, has become history. The sessions were well attended, some having travelled over 1500 miles (from Idaho and Washington), and many local people came in. The ministerial meeting was held on Thursday, and in the evening Rev. Phil A. Wedel, the president, preached the Conference sermon. The day sessions on Friday and Saturday were filled with reports, discussions, etc. Among the reports, probably the most interesting was that of the Evangelization Committee, showing good progress made in the five or six small churches under its care, and telling of the faithful, self-sacrificing work of both leaders and laymen. Such reports honor and glorify our Lord. The program of the Women's Missionary Societies, Friday evening, was inspiring. Rev. M. M. Horsch, of the General Conference Foreign Mission Board, took the Scripture in Ezekiel, third chapter, "And I sat where they ate", and led us on an imaginary trip to our various mission fields, telling many touching incidents. Miss Eva Doerkson, missionary to Africa, spoke of the cost of missionary work, centering her thoughts and illustrations on King David's words in 2 Kings 24:24, "Neither will I offer burnt offerings unto the Lord my God of that which doth cost me nothing." The Saturday evening address was given by a local minister, Rev. Geo. M. Richardson, of the Second Brethren Church, Glendale, Calif. The S. S. and C. E. workers conference, Sunday afternoon, drew a large crowd. A fine display of felt-o-graph work was exhibited. This is being used in our Sunday School, Junior C. E., and Daily Vacation Bible School. The new president is Rev. Homer Leisy, of Dallas, Ore., and his church has invited the Conference for its next meeting, D. V., a year hence.

Our Daily Vacation Bible School opened July 1, with 137 pupils enrolled, and ten teachers in charge. The next day the enrollment jumped to 159. We thank God for the opportunity to reach these children, many of whom do not attend Sunday School, and ask you, dear friends, to help us by your prayers to lead them to the Savior. The School will close July 21. Anna G. Stauffer, Corr.

—BURRTON CHURCH CALLS A NEW PASTOR.—Mr. Jacob J. Regier, Jr. who recently graduated from the Los Angeles Institute, a brother of Rev. W. A. Regier of the Immanuel Church, Los Angeles, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Regier, Whitewater, Kansas, has accepted a call to serve the Mennonite Church of Burrton, Kansas, as its pastor. He is to be ordained as minister in the First Church, Newton, Kansas, Sunday, July 21, and installed as pastor at Burrton on July 28th. Mr. Regier was recently married to Miss Betty Catherine Kinzie, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Fred Kinzie of Kelsey, Calif. who are home missionaries in that state. May God bless the couple and the church in their new relationship.

—DR. P. R. SCHROEDER'S RECOVERY HOPEFUL.—The "Witness", Berne, Ind., has direct word from Mrs. Schroeder that the "worst is ovre" following the operation. The surgeon feels that the patient has a chance for complete recovery. The family would appreciate the intercessory prayers of friends.

—A WORTHWHILE INSTITUTION.—Before us lies a pamphlet announcing the offerings of The Graduate School of Religion of the University of Southern California, at Los Angeles. The school offers three years of strictly religious studies. Besides, the student is privileged to take other related work in the University proper. The Graduate School of Religion has a teaching staff of eleven members of whom our own David D. Eitzen, M. Th., Ph. D., is one. He is listed as Assistant Professor of Pastoral Service. In a letter to the editor Brother Eitzen says, "My decision to stay here for the present was simply to serve in the field in which I have specialized the last five years and in which I am extremely happy, and in which I feel I can render the most efficient service."

—FRIEDENSBERG CHURCH, AVON, S. DAK.—Our community is mourning the passing of our pastor's wife, Mrs. D. A. Schultz. She was loving, kind and thoughtful of others. She spent her last evening visiting sick folks which she always liked to do, not realizing it to be her last evening. Her absence will be felt very keenly. Her funeral was the largest known here. Among the many there were fifteen ministers. —Corr.

—The "JUNIOR MESSENGER" is our General Conference publication for children. It is a splendid eight-page paper, full of interesting and spiritually uplifting material, just what our children need and want. Mrs. T. A. von der Smissen of Buhler, Kansas, is acting editor and is doing well. It is a pity that this splendid little periodical is taken by comparatively few of our families or Sunday Schools for their younger scholars. Those that do take it appreciate it and only wish that it would come every week instead of biweekly. Would we have more subscribers if it were a weekly? Let us hear opinions on this. Write to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

—EIGHTH STREET CHURCH, GOSHEN, IND. What can we, who are conscientiously opposed to war, do in the present crisis? Relief work and reconstruction should be our contribution. This our Mennonite Central Committee, representing eight branches of the Mennonite Church, is trying to do among groups of war sufferers in Europe. Addresses pertaining to this subject have been given in the church by Dr. Harold Bender, who spoke on "Relief work under the auspices of the M. C. C." and by Prof. N. E. Byers on "The plight of the political and religious refugee in Europe today."

—THE MENNONITE YOUNG PEOPLE OF ABERDEEN, IDAHO, have been enjoying their Retreat at Bannock Peak. They have with them Miss Emma Ruth and Miss Martha Dyck of California to guide and instruct them.

WANTED

In August a young woman who can cook under supervision. Wages according to ability and experience. None less than 21 years old need apply. Applicants write to Sister Frieda, Bethel Deaconess Hospital, Newton, Kansas.

—REV. D. J. UNRUH of the St. John Church, Pandora, Ohio, has been invited to conduct a series of meetings at the churches of Volt and Lustre, Montana, during the last two weeks of July.

—REV A. S. BECHTEL of Hanston, Kansas, says, in some notes, "Some of the weeds which are so plentiful here are giving me a real attack of hay-fever this summer. It has been on for three weeks now and here is but one word that comes near describing it. It is just awful. One surely does feel worse than miserable. The darky would say, "I'se got the misery in my had."

— PASTORAL MESSAGE: What has happened to the Christian Sabbath in America? Once it meant Bible study, worship, rest, and service. Today for many it means "sleeping in", a Sunday paper, a ball game, and an automobile ride. How can GOD BLESS AMERICA if America refuses to honor God's Day?

—Pastor Second Church, Philadelphia

— A PEACE COURSE AT THE WESTERN DISTRICT RETREAT. Dr. H. A. Fast, who is now to function as peace secretary under the auspices of the Western District Peace Committee as well as the Conference, is scheduled for a Peace Course at the Y. P. Retreat, July 23-28. Young people will benefit themselves by taking this course, at Camp Wood, near Elmdale, Kansas.

— KING LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM is living in seclusion in Castle Laeken, guarded by a German general, his only company being his mother, Ex-queen Elizabeth. He is never seen outside, though the residence is surrounded by beautiful gardens. But floral tributes are daily said to be presented to him by subjects who are grateful to him for saving their country from devastation by surrendering it to the enemy.

— PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S THIRD TERM PROBLEM.—By the time this paper reaches its readers, they will probably know the President's mind about a third term. Recently James A. Farley, chairman of the National Democratic Committee was let in on the secret. The possible nominees that may go before the approaching democratic convention seem to be: For president, President Roosevelt, Senator Burrton K. Wheeler, and Secretary of State Hull. Since Hull will be 69 in October, his age appears to be against him; for vice-president, Sam Rayborn of Texas, House leader, vice president John Nance Garner, Senator James F. Byrnes of So. Carolina, and Postmaster General James A. Farley.

Western District C. E. Convention Date Set For August 11

The Western District Christian Endeavor Convention will be held on August 11, 1940, in the Bethel College Chapel, North Newton, Kansas.

All Christian Endeavor Societies in the Mennonite Western District Conference are members of the Western District Convention.

Registration of delegates should begin immediately. Societies are allowed one delegate for each twenty members or fraction thereof.

— A BOUNTIFUL WHEAT HARVEST.—Perhaps never have the counties in Central Kansas, Harvey, Marion, McPherson, Butler, Reno, where there are numerous Mennonite settlements, enjoyed as good a wheat crop as they do this year. Yields of 35 bushels to the acre are quite common, but higher yields and also lower are reported. The grain stood so straight that the combines could clip off just the head, leaving tall stubble in the field and with that somewhat of a problem. As one farmer put it, "we don't like to burn them and they are not easy to plow under." But a good many farmers have been burning them off.

— GOD'S ARITHMETIC. — It is different from man's. This is God's addition: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these other things shall be added to you." God's subtraction: "From him that hath not, shall be subtracted that which he seemeth to have." God's multiplication: "He that supplieth seed for sowing, that you, being enriched in everything may abound unto every good work." God's division: what Jesus said to the disciples on the mountainside when the multitude was there, the loaves and fishes distributed, "Divide this among those of the multitude." That is God's arithmetic, and we need to learn it, as it seems to me.

—Rev. E. Y. Mullins, D. D.

I only know that he is good,
And that whatever may befall,
Or here or there, must be the best that could.
For He is merciful and just;
And so by faith correcting sight,
I bow before his will, and trust
Howe'er they seem he doeth all things right.

Why Billions for Defense?

During the last few weeks we have observed the spectacle at our nation's capital of members of both political parties in Congress vying with each other in voting fabulous sums of money for national defense, in preparation against possible attacks upon this country or other parts of the western hemisphere by some hostile powers. The sums already voted and about to be voted are so staggering that the columnists seem to have difficulty in keeping track of them, but they cannot be far from fourteen billions. One naturally wonders about the logic of this spending spree which brings our national debt up into the proximity of sixty billions. So liberal are the amounts voted that they are far ahead of the armament factories' ability to fill the orders. If the present war should have taught us anything, it surely ought to be the fact that special preparations for war lead to war. The nations of Europe know that now. Consequently the enormous war preparations toward which we are moving are very apt to get us into war with somebody. With a heart burdened by and through all this, can an earnest Christian help imagining what the result would be, if these huge sums of money could be spent in works of charity and love for which there is such dire need in this war swept world. Our nation is now having manufactured vast supplies and stores of means and instruments of destruction. It is training hundreds of thousands of men to use these some day to vanquish some enemy. Let us suppose that our government would by some miraculous turn be induced to spend these same sums of money in a Samaritan fashion among the stricken, wounded, bleeding masses in Europs. Instead of using our men to kill, to destroy, to spread hatred, send them into the ravaged areas as apostles of charity, and women as angels of mercy, to do on a large scale what the Friends and the Red Cross are doing on a small scale. Yes, to do what Christ would have us do, providing homes and shelter for those who have lost them, feed the hungry, clothe the naked, mend the maimed, heal the wounded, succor the needy, and what not! One cannot begin to imagine all the good that could be done with the billions now being provided for slaughter. Would Hitler, would Mussolini, would Stalin want to attack a nation that had no other aim than to do good to its neighbors? —T.

Unbounded Faith in God

We are having great Sunday School Lessons these Sundays from the Book of Job. Although the book as such is not easy to understand, yet there are parts and statements in it, the truths of which stand out as clear as daylight. We quote one of them: "All the days of my appointed time will I wait, until my change comes," Job 14:14. Here we have the secret of Job's wonderful faith in God. Every prop had fallen from under him. All that was left him in his terrible sufferings and misfortunes was his faith in God as an anchor to his soul. His words grip us, for he meant them from the bottom of his heart. He was willing to wait and suffer until his change would come, for he knew that God would eventually hear his prayers and turn out to be his salvation. "As for me, I know that my Redeemer liveth."—Job 19:25. His faith was not mere guesswork. His change might not come until after death, but it would surely come. Anyone can trust when his skies are blue, with no clouds in sight. Sunshiny days, when all goes well, are no challenge to faith. Whatever was Job's lot in this world, whatever disappointments, sufferings and seeming desertion by Him whom he trusted explicitely he may have experienced, he knew that in his flesh he would yet see God; he knew that in the latter days he would stand upon the earth. O that we might develop a faith, such as Job had! He never dispaired, because he looked beyond this vale of tears and sorrows to the hills whence his help would come. The following lines by R. E. Neighbor express Job's situation and faith beautifully:

"I'll trust in Thee!" I said to the Lord one day,
When ev'ry prop was gone, and ev'ry human stay;
  The shadows deep were falling,
  My life was dark, appalling!
It was then I said it, and the glimmering moon
Seemed quietly to whisper, "God will answer soon;
  God has thee in His keeping,
  He'll change thy fears and weeping."
The word proved true, my shadows lifted and were gone,
The Lord reached down to clasp my hand and lead me on;
  He changed my sighs to singing,
  Gave crystal bells a-ringing—all along. —T.

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

Basna, Via Raipur, C. P. India, 3-25-40

Today is a Hindu festival, so I can manage a little time at the desk. When there is no work at the hospital there is usually so much supervision of repair, building, and station work that the days are not long enough. We are limiting the building to a very minimum, but still there is quite a bit that needs to be done in view of the entire middle school coming here. The greatest difficulty will be in housing missionaries. Miss Schmidt will probably have to live with us and the Duerksens and Thiessens occupy the other bungalow until better arrangements can be made. It is tremendous how much time and money has to be spent just to keep the machinery going.

According to the Mennonite received yesterday, Jan. 6th, we need to exercise strict economy. I was hoping very much that we could get an assistant doctor here. That means a house for him as well as salary. The middle school which was at Mauhadi is being fairly well provided for here, but with the present arrangements the future of the work is decidedly limited.

I am sending several paragraphs for the Mennonite. I would prefer that one be published one week and the second the following week.

We thank you for the Christmas letter which we received in due time. These letters mean much to us.

With sincere greetings, H. E. Dester

Palm Sunday at Basna, India

We have had a most blessed, quiet yet impressive Palm Sunday. The little mud wall, white washed church looked very festive decorated with large banana plants, ferns and crotons on either side of the pulpit, and a bouquet of amarylla lillies on the table. Our primary school Head master read the scripture passage and lead in prayer. Rev. Duerkson had charge of the services and in his characteristic way gave a most appropriate, impressive sermon. The church was filled and folks seemed to listen most attentively, something we can not always say of our motled audience. Even the little babies who are the usual disturbers, decided they would take a nap instead and not one mother had to walk out with a crying child (something very unusual for us with our goodly number of babies).

At Sunday School we also had a very good attendance. The secretary reported 167 in the Senior Department, 64 in the Junior Department, and 39 in the Primary, also 30 at the Hospital. After the classes again congregated the 39 Primary children marched over from their class rooms and sang a song waving their palm branches. It made many a mother smile to see her little three, four, five year old youngster standing in front so bravely and sing with the rest. Then we were dismissed and in front of the church were the Juniors all lined up ready to greet us with their song and their palm branches. Here in our jungles we have the native palm, so it was not hard to collect enough for all.

What a crowd of little folk! What a responsibility to guide them aright so not one of them need go astray! May each one truly permit Him a triumphant entry into his heart as He entered triumphantly on Palm Sunday.

Your Coworker with Him, Hilda R. Dester

A Christian College Creed

By John Benjamin Magee

This is my creed for a liberal arts education with the qualitative emphasis; the goal of a Christian college:

We believe in a college where the personal equation is paramount. Where persons are worth more than systems, since education was made for man and not man for education.

We believe in the theory that teachers are guides, and must themselves know the way. Instructors motivated by the teachings and spirit of the Master Teacher, and who are consecrated to the sacrificial task of guiding the smart and simple, the stubborn and the willing, the good and the bad along the pathway that leads to radiant living, are the safest teachers.

We believe in a social theory of life in which personality is of no use unless fitted for social cooperation and concern, and that life shall be improved, problems be solved, and civilizations be saved only through a youth blazing with the social passion and capable of its practical application to youth's environment.

We believe in building for citizenship; that democracy demands such educational help from the colleges if it is to survive the ruthlessness of our modern isms.

We believe that education, to possess this inherent perfection, must have a moral quality that is an answer to the immorality of our age.

We believe in a college curriculum and a college life built upon the most practical aspects of the teachings of the New Testament, as the means by which humanity shall be saved. For we believe that education, after thousands of years of change, is no improvement on the work of the Master Teacher, nor is it a matter of turning brass into gold, but of transmuting mud into Christian personality.

Earnest Endeavor Brings Rewards

Here is a short story of a man who has worked hard for years in his endeavor to serve his fellowmen and who now by God's leading finds opportunity to enter upon a larger and more challenging field or service. This man is Brother Edward D. Schmidt who now for nearly four years has served the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church at Wichita as its pastor. The article is written, not to extol Brother Schmidt, but in explanation of recent developments in his career as led by God.

Rev. Schmidt is an ordained minister in our General Conference and has held at least two charges within it and some outside. His original life plan was to become a medical missionary. But failing health and lack of finances prevented him from completing the necessary training for this work. For the last ten years, while ministering to churches, he studied scientific feeding and for four years mental diseases under Dr. William Sadler, the noted Psychiatrist in Chicago, also under Dr. Boisen at the Hospital for the Insane at Elgin, Illinois.

Continuing his endeavors along this line, he further studied Napropathy and Naturopathy, graduating from the Chicago College of Napropathy in 1936. For the last eight years he has conducted Health Guilds, helping people obtain a better understanding of themselves, physically, mentally and spiritually. And the members of the Health Guild all state that the greatest blessings came to them from the Health Guild meetings.

In the pursuit of this line of work opportunity has presented itself where Rev. Schmidt is sure that he can render greater services to mankind, not in a limited circle, but unlimited, through the clinic, Health Guild, preaching, and with time he also hopes to open a pre-marital clinic. He has prospects that in about three months he can complete all the requirements for graduation in chiropractic.

Brother Schmidt has resigned from his pastorate of the Wichita Church, this to take effect October 31 next. The Church and the Home Mission Committee of the Western District have released him partly from his duties by allowing him three days off the field to prepare for a greater ministry. During his pastorate in the Wichita congregation the membership has increased from 53 to 116, and about a dozen more are planning to join soon.

He has been working in with the Colvin Clinic, where he has been requested to teach courses in Health as related to mental and spiritual influences.

Religion is not a method, it is a life, a higher and supernatural life, mystical in its root and practical in its fruits, a communion with God, a calm and deep enthusiasm, a love which radiates, a force which acts, a happiness which overflows." —Amiel.

PROPOSED RESOLUTIONS OF WESTERN DISTRICT YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION

PEACE

We are grateful to our Heavenly Father for the privilege of living in a Democratic land wihch still enjoys the blessings of Peace. We wish to express our grateful hearts for this blessing by reemphasizing the words of old—"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, Goodwill to men."

We resolve further (1) to uphold, to the best of our ability, the Biblical peace convictions of our forefathers; (2) registering with the Peace Committee, offering our service to the Mennonite Goodwill Reconstruction Program, if such is created or endorsed by the General Conference; (3) by cooperating with Peace Committees; (4) by continuing the Peace Rallies; (5) by supporting the Kansas Institute of International Relations; (6) by distributing Peace Literature and; (7) by holding another oratory contest if at least 10 entrants register by May 1, 1941.

MISSIONS

We resolve to meet the ever increasing mission challenge by (1) reemphasing Christ's command, "Go ye out into all the world, and baptize all nations," (2) by increasing our effort to supplement this commandment by our contributions, the first $50.00 to go to the support of Earnest Harder.

RETREAT

(1) We urge the Young People to attend the Convention sponsored Retreat because it is a great source of inspiration and is an excellent place for Young People to relax from the cares of everyday life and to re-consecrate themselves to the things which are eternal.

(2) An annual Sec. Treasury report of Retreat Committee should be made at the business session of the C. E. Convention.

FOLLOW-UP

Resolved that the executive committee be given power to act to complete installation of the follow-up-system and that local societies offer their full cooperation by (a) supplying the correct names and addresses of members between the ages of 15 and 30; (b) and that local societies make the necessary contributions to support it.

TIDINGS

Resolved that the Western District Young People's publication the "Tidings" be continued under the Executive committee and that (1) the Executive committee appoint an editor; (2) that it be discontinued when a separate conference youth paper comes out; (3) local societies are urged to appoint or elect a reporter who sends news and secures group subscriptions.

LOCAL C. E'S. TIE-UP WITH EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Resolved; (1) the publication of these resolutions; (2) that copies thereof be sent by the secretary to the officers of the General Conference; (3) that wherever possible C. E. representatives report back to their local societies; (4) that local societies strive to keep in touch with their executive officers and to support whenever possible, the Western District Christian Endeavor projects.

Respectfully Submitted,
Resolutions Committee

A Suggestion for Mennonites, Schwenkfelders, Brethren and Friends

At a Conference held July 6, 1940, at Westtown School, Chester County, Penna., representatives of these religious societies from southeastern Pennsylvania and parts of New Jersey directed that a letter be addressed to members of these four groups of Christian people throughout the United States for publication in their religious periodicals and for general consideration among their following. The letter had been prepared by the Continuation Committee appointed at a previous Conference to arrange for a future Conference in this part of the country. The letter was read and approved. Persons who may be interested are asked to further its publication.

THE LETTER

Westtown, Pennsylvania, July 6, 1940

To Mennonites, Schwenkfelders, Brethren and Friends wherever located:—

In the love of Christ we salute you as fellow-believers in Him, the Prince of Peace, in a world of enmity and confusion.

We have from time to time called together leaders and laymen belonging to these groups and residing in this area. Our one desire has been to promote a closer fellowship and understanding among us, and to intensify our spiritual and religious work. Certainly we all want to do this, for we have a common testimony to bear before the world concerning peace and for simplicity in faith and life.

Today we have been holding the seventh Conference we have held during the past four years. The attendance has numbered about one hundred, perhaps more, each time. Those who came have been so encouraged by the manifest will to fellowship and the desire for understanding, also by the experience of unity in worship under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, that we make this suggestion to you in other parts of the country "that ye be likeminded one toward another", so that we may "with one mind and one mouth glorify God."

Our meetings have been quite informal occasions. "With thanksgiving for the universal love of God, we have rejoiced to find ourselves knit together in our personal allegiance to our Lord Jesus Christ as the only Savior of men. So, with a simple faith in the regenerative Power of God rather than humanistic efforts or mechanical means of Grace for the constant expression of an humble, equitable and peaceful life, we have met from place to place in a house of worship of one or another of the four groups mentioned to meditate and exhort as the Spirit gives us utterance."

We commend to you who reside in other districts this simple method of approach to the Source of Light and Guidance. Usually we have worshiped together in this manner for an hour or more. Then some capable person, previously chosen, has endeavored to summarize the spiritual exercise of the meeting. We have then adjourned for basket-supper or a common meal, according to arrangement. Following that, we have mostly listened to a prepared, at least prearranged, address, or an illustrated talk regarding the history or work of one or another, or all, of our groups.

The program of any Conference may differ from that of any one preceding, being made with some regard for the time and place; but the purpose should be never lost sight of, viz: Closer fellowship and better understanding. If in the past, professing Christians had given more expression to their fundamental unity and their common respect for one another, would not their testimony to a warring world have been more helpful? So, "Let the past suffice" and let us consider one another to "provoke unto love and to good works."

Signed at and by direction of the Westtown Conference, July 6, 1940.

William B. Harvey, Westtown, Penna., Chairman for the Day; Olin A. Krehbiel, Lansdale, Penna., and John J. Plenert, 429 Knorr St., Philadelphia, Penna., Mennonites; Robert J. Gottschall, 1021 W. Marshall St., Norristown, Penna., and H. K. Heebner, 5509 N. 30th. St., Philadelphia, Penna., Schwenkfelders; Benjamin F. Waltz, 6611 Germantown Ave., Philadelphia, Penna., and Ross D. Murphy, 22 N. Park Ave., Philadelphia, Penna., Brethren; Benjamin S. DeCou, Norristown, Penna., and Benjamin F. Whitson, Moylan, Penna., Friends.

Attendance at the Westtown Conference:

Afternoon session about 225, or more. Evening session by count 182, as follows,—Mennonites, 42; Schwenkfelders, 26; Brethren, 30; Friends, 72; Others, 12. Total 182.

The relations of Christians to each other are like the flowers in a garden that have upon each the dew of heaven, which, being shaken by the wind, they let fall at each other's roots and become nourishers of one another. —Bunyan

MISSIONARY VISION

In connection with this subject, I want to refer you to a verse of scripture found in Prov. 29:18, "Where there is no vision, the people perish." It is at once apparent that vision is of inestimable importance. Nor need we doubt the importance of vision, for, in our physical functions there is scarcely an organ of our body which is more jealously protected from danger than our eyes.

With a lack of vision is closely associated the terrible thought of—perish. The New Testament gives us a record of a church which was apparently enjoying self-sufficiency but under God's just indictment it lacked vision. Again, in Old Testament times there lived a prophet whose life hardly passes before our minds without leaving the impression that he was spiritually visionless. Nor could it be otherwise, for "The word of the Lord was precious in those days." The Savior tells us, too, of a man who was so loaded with material fatness that he lacked a sense of spiritual values.

Tonight I should like to point you to a three-fold vision which is indispensable to every Christian who would serve God in sincerity. These, of course, presuppose an experience of salvation and are: Upward Vision, Outward Vision, and Inward Vision.

I. Upward Vision—Godward

Any grateful born-again soul soon finds his or her way to the feet of the One Who has saved them. Uppermost in their minds is the question as to God's will concerning themselves and mankind. His purposes can soon be discovered—"As I live, . . . I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked." In the Word the further testimony is, "God is not willing that any should perish." Thus "perishing" is dependent upon the presence of or lack of vision—vision of God's will and provision. A soul thus seeking the face of God will soon be overwhelmed by the constraining love which wrought redemption. Without vision of God, there can be but one consequence—perish!

II. Outward Vision—Worldward

The Master Himself gave us the challenge to seek this vision. He was on a trip from Judea to Galilee when He stopped by the side of a well in Samaria. The disciples went into the town to do some buying of provisions. A wicked woman was led to the living fountain of life, and ere the disciples had returned from their material mission a crowd of Samaritans were surrounding the Master. In view of this multitude, Christ bade His disciples to lift up their eyes and LOOK! He had the outward vision of human need while His disciples' interests were largely self-centered. I wonder what we see as we look outwardly. Do we see a billion souls in Asia, most of whom are without Christ? Do we see and comprehend the fact that today there are six million more heathen than there were a year ago? Do we see the thirty-six million of the Dutch East Indies who are yet unreached with the gospel? Do we see the areas of two, three and five millions in India who are reported as being without a witness of Christ's dying love? Do we see as John saw—"the whole world . . . in wickedness?" "LOOK!" cries the Lord of this tremendous harvest. And as we look, I wonder if we cannot discover that they are looking our way and wondering when we shall have pity on their souls.

III. Inward Vision—Heartward

Important indeed is my heart-response to a vision of God and a vision of men. Many will feel quite satisfied with what has been done in the past ten, twenty, or thirty years, but it seems to me the measure of our success in missionary endeavor is not a mere comparison of today's activities with those of a generation ago, but a comparison of what has been done with the tremendous commission which has been laid upon us by the Lord of the Harvest.

May our response be as was Paul's: "I am debtor . . . I am ready . . . I am not ashamed." We dare not say, "No man hath hired us," else what mean the words of Matt. 28:18-20 and Acts 1:8?

That self-righteous Pharisee lacked a vision of God. The disciples on the holy mount saw Jesus, but failed to look outwardly and see the distressed son and distracted father in the valley below. The rich young ruler saw and met Jesus' claims, and to him were pointed out the needs of men about him, but he lacked the proper heart-response to the claims of God and man upon him.

What is the secret of this three-fold vision? "Power . . . after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you"(Acts 1:8). The disciples, on the day of Pentecost, met God in a new vision and experience. Their eyes were annointed to see men anew, and within there was begotten a new urge to witness to the Christ of God—an urge not to be restrained by fire, sword, prison, persecution, trial—no, nor even depression. May we likewise not be disobedient to the heavenly vision.—Franconia Mission News. —Gospel Herald, June 6, 1940

Well to suffer is divine.
Pass the watchword down the line,
Pass the countersign, Endure!
Not to him who rashly dares,
But to him who nobly bears,
Is the victor's garland sure.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A. S. BECHTEL

August 4, 1940

The Two Ways

Psalm 1; Matt. 7:24-27

Introduction

The first Psalm is the foreword or introduction to the Book of Psalms. The second part of our lesson is the closing statement of the Sermon on the Mount. Our lesson is the first of seven lessons upon some of the finest of the Psalms. These are a collection of 150 religious songs. David wrote so many of them that we naturally associate his name with the Book of Psalms. They were the hymns of the Hebrews and were used much in the temple worship.

The Way of the Righteous Ps. 1:1-3

The picture given here of the righteous man is highly instructive. The very first word describes him as blessed—literally, "Oh, the happiness of the man." Godly people normally are happy because they have within them a source of happiness of which the world knows nothing. The righteous man will not make the ungodly his close companions (v1). Thereby he escapes their influence. He does not put himself in the way of temptation by standing in the way of or with sinners, or by sitting contentedly with scoffers of godly and righteous things. He will not follow the advice of the ungodly. We will inevitably be thrown into contact with ungodly persons, but we need not conform to their habits of speech and life. The righteous person lives on a higher plane.

The happy, the righteous man delights in the law, the Word of the Lord (v2). He reads it with great delight and thinks about it prayerfully and meditates upon its spiritual truths constantly. Our character is profoundly influenced by what we delight to think about. The righteous man is like a tree planted by the fresh, life-giving waters (v3). Its roots go down to the unfailing source of life. Fruit in season is certain. The tree is always green. This is a picture of the godly man. An abundance of spiritual refreshment is available and he will bring forth fruit that is pleasing to God. His life will be spiritually healthy and vigorous. According to God's standards he will prosper in spiritual things.

The Way of the Ungodly vs 4-6

The picture of the ungodly stands in direct contrast. His delight and preference are directly the opposite. In character he is like the chaff, empty and worthless and lifeless (v4). The ungodly are destitute of spiritual vitality. Their fate is in accordance with their character. They do not concern about the outcome of life. In the days of judgment they will be condemned (v5). Even in this life, they are pictured as being cut off from religious fellowship with the faithful and righteous. The Lord approves of the way of the righteous and accepts them. The way of the wicked will come to an inglorious end. We choose the way we take. We decide the way our soul shall go.

Wise and Foolish Builders. Matt. 7:24-27

Jesus closes the Sermon on the Mount with this illustration of two types of hearers. The man who puts into practice His teachings is like the wise man who built upon a rock foundation. His house stood firm and secure in the storm. The man who merely hears, is like the foolish man who built on a sand foundation and the storm destroyed it. A life must have a solid foundation. Christ is the only rock and we build upon Him by obedience to His sayings. A superficial profession of religion—a mere hearing—will fail miserably in the crises of life. Every building that we rear of hope or of character will be tried in the storms of life. The collapse of a character or of a soul that goes out into eternal night, is an infinitely great loss. Jesus was supremely concerned about building lives on a solid foundation. No life is better than its foundation. The path of life which God marks out for us in His Word is the road to real happiness.

LEST WE FORGET

Rev. G. A. Lincheid, treasurer of the W. Dist. Home Mission, in a note enclosed with his financial report, gives expression to a burden upon his own and others' hearts as follows: "It seems hard to get enough in the treasury to send our workers their meager allowance at the end of the month. No doubt, it taxes our people with so many and various requests being made for worthy causes. One does wish that somehow the worthiness of our own causes could be made so impressive as to capture such gifts which are diverted to outside channels, though they are sorely needed in our own enterprises. This is no intimation that there are no worthy causes outside of our denomination, but if we believe—as we do—that our church has a distinct mission, that mission can be effectuated only as the church is virile in all of its activities. So our gifts turned into our own activities serve a double purpose: the object to which the gift is tendered and the church, with its particular mission."

THE CHURCH A TREADMILL.—Today the Church is full of machinery. But there is so much treadmill about it all. We are at the same place at night as in the morning. Not until the era of unselfish, self-denying giving is inaugurated once more can there be much progress in reaching men with the gospel. —Dr. Mackay

CORRESPONDENCE

BETHLEHEM MENN. CH., BLOOMFIELD,

Recently we were blessed with a series of revival meetings, conducted by The Vander Jagt Evangelistic Party of Grand Rapids, Mich. Our hearts were greatly rejoiced over a goodly number that yielded to the call of the Lord. All of those that came with the desire for more light and food for the soul were richly blessed. An instruction class for the new converts and others is being conducted by our pastor, Rev. H. E. Widmer, each Sunday morning during the S. S. hour. We have our regular Christian Endeavor, Mission programs, and children's church Sunday nights. The third Sunday night of every month has been given to the choir to render musical programs. May the gospel be spread by singing songs unto the Lord. Then the Sewing Circles have had their regular meetings and are busy preparing for the annual Mission Sales.

July 7, the congregation met in the grove for the regular Sunday morning services, and in the afternoon the Children's Day program was given. It is encouraging to see the faithful little hearts willing to speak for the Lord. June 30, Opal Penner and Mrs. John Unruh became members of our church.—We are about ready to open our church library with 100 books. The building of the library was donated by Harry Sawatzky.

The Giver of all good and perfect gifts has supplied our fields with ample moisture this spring and summer, so that our crops look promising now. Praises to His Wonderful Name! —Doris Deckert

SARON MENN. CHURCH, ORIENTA, OKLA.

We very much rejoice in again having our regular worship in a church building which we dedicated to the Lord on June 16. The first scripture to be read from the new pulpit was Psalm 100 by Rev. August Schmidt, who emphasized "Christ in all our meetings" in his brief remarks. This was followed by prayer and sermonette by our other local pastor, Rev. P. Kroeker, who stressed the fact that not only the church building was being dedicated but also the fellowship as well. Our guest speaker, Rev. H. J. Dyck, Elbing, Kansas, who read the dedicatory rites, had chosen for the dedicatory text Ps. 26:8, "Lord I have loved the habitation of thy house, and the place where thine honor dwelleth." In the evening Rev. G. A. Lincheid was with us and spoke on Exodus 25:8, 22, stressing our need of the Lord's sanctuary. Rev. Dyck based his meditations, that included a separated, growing church, on Jude 20, 21. And again in the evening his text was Ps. 27:4. "One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after: that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord and to inquire in his temple." Rev. Lincheid selected for his text the "I will go also," found in Zach. 8:21. Both the mixed chorus and male chorus rendered songs. The day was a full one and a warm one, but also a most blesed one.

Among the blessings we shared during the time we worshiped in the school house were a sermon taken from the life of Peter by Rev. Walter Gehring, Kansas, and a sermon on Christian education by Rev. Herbert Miller, Deer Creek, Oklahoma.

On Feb. 20, Dick Lohrenz, the younger son of the late Rev. D. D. Lohrenz and Mrs. Lohrenz, passed away. On Mar. 13 death again came to the same family circle by taking Richard, the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lohrenz.

The condition of our Brother Adam Ratzlaff seems to show no marked change. He is back home again.—Harvesting is completed . The yield varied from very poor to good. Some harvested several weeks later than others. At time being rain is needed.

BLESSED ARE MY ENEMIES

Blessed are my enemies, for they prevent all men speaking well of me.

Blessed are my enemies, for they tell me the truth when my friends flatter me.

Blessed are my enemies, for they provide an object of love outside the small circle of my selfishness.

Blessed are my enemies, for their mirror of biting sarcasm and scathing rebukes reveal me to myself.

Blessed are my enemies, for they tell me what they don't like in me, rather than the things they do like.

Blessed are my enemies, for they rub off the artificial varnish and make me see my natural complexion.

Blessed are my enemies, for they, like the true physician, will dare expose my inward shortcomings long hidden by the deceptive coddling of friends.

Blessed are my enemies, for they ruthlessly drag out to the noonday light my many weaknesses so long covered by my deceptive and deceiving friends.

Blessed are my enemies, for they cut to the heart of my self-deceit and probe to the marrow of my sinful life, and thus lead me, if I am wise, to cleanse the impure corners of my heart and to redeem myself from scorn and inferiority.

Blessed are my enemies when they revile me and persecute me and say all manner of evil against me truly for their own gratification. Let me rejoice and be exceedingly glad, for such will make a strong man out of me, if I am wise of understanding the philosophy of One who said: "Love your enemies."

IN MEMORIAM

MARIE ELIZABETH DYCK, DAUGHTER OF PETER AND JUSTINA (WIEBE) ALLERT, was born in Marienburg, West Prussia, Dec. 14, 1860. There she was baptized upon her confession of faith by Elder Penner. In 1876 she came, with her mother and only brother, to America, locating at Beatrice, Nebr., where she united with the Mennonite Church. On Dec. 15, 1887, she was united in marriage to Henry Dyck. Nine children were born to this union, two of whom preceded their mother in death.—The family came to the state of Washington in 1902, taking up a homestead near Schrag. There they lived until 1939, when the parents took up living quarters with their daughter's Julius Frantz' family. There they lived happily among all of their children, and the entire family united with the Mennonite Church at Menno.—On Dec. 15, 1937, it was her privilege to celebrate their golden wedding with her husband in the midst of children and grandchildren. It was a day of real joy and thanksgiving, for "God had been good to them", a common expression coming from the lips of mother Dyck.

Mother Dyck had a cheerful, helpful disposition. To render service and deeds of kindness was considered a privilege by her. A kind word, a smile, or a jest so common to her, would scatter many a cloud from a burdened soul, so that it could forget pain and hardship and again think of the bright side of life. It was in following the example of Christ that enabled her to do this. She never failed to be at her place in church, unless impassible roads, sickness or the fraility of old age prevented it. On last Mothers' Day she was at church the last time. About a week before her passing she was failing rapidly, and very quietly she passed on to be with her Savior on the morning of June 19th, just as the sun was rising in its glory. She attained an age of 79 years, 5 months, 29 days. She leaves to mourn her passing, her beloved husband with whom she journeyed happily 53 years; seven children, Mrs. William Claassen, Gerhard Dyck, Henry Dyck of Colfax; Mrs. Julius Franz, Mrs. Ed Schrag, and Frank Dyck of the home district; Mrs. Joe C. Schrag of Mae, Wash.; 23 grandchildren, one sister-in-law, and many other relatives.

Let dissolution come when it will, it can do the Christian no harm, for it will be but a passage ont of a prison into a palace: out of a sea of troubles into a heaven of rest; out of a crowd of enemies to an innumerable company of true, loving and faithful friends; out of shame, reproach, and contempt, into exceeding great and eternal glory.

ABRAHAM S. HEIDEBRECHT, SON OF JOHN AND KATHARINE HEIDEBRECHT, was born at Inman, Kansas, March 16, 1877. Departed this life July 1, 1940, at 2:40 A. M. in the General Hospital, Oklahoma City, Okla., at the age of 63 years, 3 months, and 7 days. On May 23rd, 1901, he was married to Lena Hinz. To this union were born seven children.

At the age of 22, he was baptized by Rev. P. Balzer at Shelly, Okla. After the Bethel Mennonite Church of Hydro was organized, he, with his wife joined and were active members. He was also the leader of the church for a number of years. He was among the very first to settle in the neighborhood of Hydro. He loved the town and community and was always willing to serve where he could. The family moved to town 2 years ago because of his failing health.

He has suffered much from arthritis for many years but, up until a year ago, was able to work and be up and around most of the time. Last summer he was very ill but recovered sufficiently to be up again. This spring he began to feel badly and gradually grew weaker. A week before his death he was taken to the hospital and given a number of blood transfusions, but all to no avail. The doctors and nurses did all that human help could do, but our heavenly Father called him home to the One whom he loved and served faithfully until the end. His father, mother and brother preceded him in death.

He leaves to mourn his departure his wife, seven children: Mrs. D. D. Eitzen, Mrs. J. B. Warkentin of Los Angeles, Calif., Walter, Emil and Allen of Hydro, Mrs. Frank Buller, Hutchinson; and Mrs. A. E. Warkentin, Geary, Okla., 7 grandchildren, 7 brothers, 3 sisters, other relatives and a large host of friends.

HE BUT SLEEPETH

How much we'll miss his kindly smile—
His tender kindly way.
In Jesus steps he trod life's miles
And bore his cross each day.

By simple faith his life made pure,
His hopes e'er bright in him—
And live—all these indeed are sure
Mere death cannot bedim.

Earth—time had marred that house of clay
His soul outgrew its walls.
That place prepared know no decay
Nor pain nor death befalls.

Why weep we then, he is not dead—
Just moved to mansions fair
'Tis ours to live as Christ hath said,
And meet him over there.

LET'S READ

What about The Conscientious Objector? is an excellent booklet to study for any one who desires to think more clearly on the pacifist stand. In the beginning of the booklet are a series of short articles relating the personal experiences of various conscientious objectors. In the next section such renowned pacifists as Rufus M. Jones and Douglas V. Steers and others share their philosophy of peace with the reader. The heading of another section is, "Conscription and the Conscientious Objector." Another section deals with "What the Conscientious Objector Can Do." A helpful bibliography and appendix conclude this booklet which is a supplement to the Pacifist Handbook.

This booklet can be procured from the Peace Section, American Friends Service Committee, 20 South 12th St., Philadelphia, Pa., for 15 cents each or eight for one dollar.

How well can you stand an attack on the Pacifist position? Read "Investigation in Pacifism" by C. E. Silcox in the July issue of The Living Age and find out.

THIS AND THAT

Monroe, Wash.—Our C. E. society adopted the following resolutions on July 7th: Resolved, that we as a C. E. society of the General Conference and also of the Pacific District Conference take up the responsibility of supporting the young people's work of these two conferences both spiritually and financially. 2. Resolved, that the first C. E. offering of each month from July 1 to Oct. 1 be sent to the Pacific District Y. P. Treas., Ernest Roth, for the mission work to be carried on in the migratory camps of California. 3. Resolved, that the offering of our second C. E. meetings from July to Oct. be sent to Ernest Roth for the following projects: In July for the working expense of the General Conference Y. P. Committee; in August for Ernest Harder to prepare him as a minister unto his own people in South America; in September for the return of missionaries to the foreign field.

It is our belief that by having a definite plan or program to work by we will be able to accomplish more for our Master. Will you all pray for our Y. P. work and that souls may be won for Christ through their efforts. —Harry Albrecht

EASTERN DIST. NEWS: The Swamp Charge (3 churches under one pastor) C. E. societies are having an interesting series of addresses by various speakers. On July 7th Prof. Russel A. Lantz spoke to the West Swamp society on "Church Music." Rev. John J. Plenert will speak to the Bethany society on Aug. 4th on the subject, "Faith Tested In War." On Aug. 1th Rev. Paul T. Stoudt will speak to the Flatland society on "Young People's Problems."

The Lansdale young people and those of the Evangelical Church nearby will hold joint Lawn Services on August 11th and Sept. 1st. Twelve men of the Lansdale Church recently helped in the erection of the new dining hall at Camp Mennolan, the new Y. P. retreat grounds. Local Boy Scouts made use of the grounds during the spring and early summer. Many of the young people are busy practicing and rehearsing for the Song Festival that will be held at Perkasie Park, Sunday afternoon and evening, July 28th. Other young people have been assisting pastors in Daily Vacation Bible Schools in various Mennonite churches.

RETREAT NEWS: The All-Mennonite Young People's Retreat will be held at Quaker Haven, Dewart Lake, Syracuse, Indiana, August 5th to 11th.

A new and interesting feature that will be tried this year is the use of one dormitory by all the girls and the use of one dormitory by all the boys.

Competent instructors will have charge of the various courses. Miss Cecilia Sheppard, who has done outstanding work in many parts of the United States, will be instructor of New Testament. Mennonite History will be taught by Dr. C. H. Smith Rev. John Thiessen will give a course on "Missions and India Today." It is not definite as to who will teach the Music course. Miss Emma Detweiler will have charge of Recreational Leadership. Rev. Ernest Bohn will condust the Morning Quiet Hour and Sunset services.

NOTICE: Address all articles and news for "Our Youth Says" to Reynold Weinbrenner, 1326 Ella St. Beatrice, Nebr.

—The Union Chorus of the Eastern District, under the direction of Prof. Russel A. Lantz, will render its fourth annual program in Perkasie Park, on Sunday, July 28.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Senior C. E. Topic for August 11

Main Topic: Managing my Time

Eph. 5:15-17; Col. 4:2-5

I. Worship Service

Songs: "O Zion haste, thy mission high fulfilling." "Take time to be holy." "Take my life and let it be."

2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Special music—in line with main topic
4. Offering for missions

II. Leader's Introduction

This is the first of three topics on stewardship. In the first topic we are concerned with the stewardship of time.

A multitude of "things great and small to do" compete for the time and atention of young people today.

A wholesome balance needs to be found between work and rest and time for recreation. Roughly speaking, 8 hours for work, 8 hours for sleep and 8 hours for meals and leisure or activities of one's choice for recreation of body, mind and spirit, would be a good division. But sometimes more time than that all told should be given to one or the other of these. There is no hard and fast rule which will meet even the needs of one person from day to day. It takes a lot of good common sense and a consecrated personality to make the best use of time for work, leisure and rest.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. A time for all things. Eccl. 3:1-8.
2. Slothfulness is detrimental. Prov. 24:30-34
3. The time of repentance. Mark 1:14, 15.
4. Sow wisely, reap profitably. Gal. 6:7-10.
5. No time to waste. Rom. 13:8-14.
6. "Take tife to be holy." 1 Pet. 1:13-19.

IV. For Discussion

1. How much of our time daily should be given to prayer and meditation?

2. How may we make the best use of our leisure time? What would you choose to do if you had two hours a day to spend just as you liked?

3. Is time spent at work to be a drudgery, a duty, a necessity, or a glorious privilege?

V. Facts for Study

There have always been people by whose work the world has been blessed, and they have spent a generous amount of overtime at it. Think of Edison and Burbank and the Mayo brothers, and Madame Curie, and Florence Nightingale.

Then there have been people whose outstanding contribution has been through time spent in prayer and meditation. The world is richer because of Kagawa, George Mueller, Gandhi, Stanley E. Jones.

A dominating life purpose helps much to insure good use of one's time. Just as an athlete will not jeopardize his opportunities by indulging in over-eating or in things harmful for his body, so the Christian will be concerned first and foremost about being the best possible man or woman in the service of his Lord and Master and will use his time well.

VI. Illustration

A Lad's Question

A story had been written by Frederick Hall about the lad who played such an important role in the miracle of the loaves and fishes. It tells how the boy reported that exciting incident to his mother when she returned home that evening at sunset. When, with eyes still big with wonder of it all, he had told how his five barley loaves and two dried fish had increased in the Master's hands until the vast crowd had been fed to sufficiency, he added, "I wonder, Mother, if it would be that way with everything you gave him?"

A Disputed Birth Date

Thorwaldsen, the great sculptor was once told that there was a dispute about the place and time of his birth, some saying he was born in Copenhagen in 1770, others in Brussels, and so on. He was asked to settle the question.

"What matters it?" he asked. "I don't know. But I arrived in Rome on March 8, 1797." His meaning was that not until he came to Rome and began his studies there did he really begin to live. Many a Christian has felt so about his life. It was not real life that he spent before he was born again. His true life began with his conversion.

VII. Food for Thought

A person manages his life well when he manages well the separate, succeeding days of it, filling each day with things both good and true.

HOW CAN WE SEE GOD'S HANDIWORK?

Song "This Is My Father's World"

Poem "Nature's Handiwork"

How very bare must be the life
Of one who knows no thrill
In nature's lovely handiwork—
The sky, the wooded hill!

Flowers and grass and singing birds,
River, sea, and plain,
Mountain, brook, and waterfall,
The rainbow and the rain.

I think of the great creation
Of earth and sea and sky
Surprised its own creator
When first it met his eye.

Poem I Know God Answers Prayer

I know not how it will be done, just how my God will answer prayer,
But I have faith that He will hear, that He will know and care;
As my prayer ascends to heaven, back will come the answer sure;
If I pray for strength and wholeness, He will send His strength and cure.

If my need be food and shelter, He will send His prompt supply;
If I ask for His assistance, I can best on Him rely;
Ready, too, to take my burden when it seems to be a load,
And lead me gladly along the heavenly road.

I know not how He works or answers, know not how or when or why;
He has given His assurance that He's with me, ever nigh,
Giving help and love and substance when my heart lifts up its cry;
He will answer when I call Him, to my side in need will fly.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

The Tabernacle and the Temple

Program Suggestions for August 11, 1940

How the tabernacle speaks of Christ

Hebrews 9:14

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude. Pianist plays very softly the melody of "Love Divine, All Love Excelling." M. H. B. No. 236.

2. Call to worship. Psalm 122:1. "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."

3. All stand and sing in unison. "Love Divine"

4. Scripture reading by a Junior boy. Phil. 2:5-11

5. Leader's Prayer

6. A ten minute sing of "Jesus" songs, chosen at the last meeting by the Juniors.

II. Study Period

Aim. To help our Juniors to a better understanding and a deeper knowledge of what Christ's work of redemption is, by showing how the tabernacle forshadowed it.

1. Leader's introduction

"Our Bibles, God's Word, is divided into the Old and New Testament. The New Testament tells us of Jesus and how He came into this world that all sinners might be saved. But long before Jesus really came into this world, God had planned for the salvation of mankind. God loved us all, He loved the whole world. He wanted us all to be happy, and finally to live in heaven with Him. As long as there was unforgiven sin in our hearts that could not be. It was hard for sinful man to understand God's love and His plan for our redemption. So in the Old Testament there were many pictures or shadows, we call them types, of our blessed Lord Jesus and His precious work. The tabernacle which we studied about last Sunday was such a type or shadow. We will understand this better as we grow older and study God's word more.

The tabernacle is a type in many ways but in this lesson we want to learn how it typifies our Lord Jesus Christ and His work.

2. Solo "I Love To Tell the Story" M. H. B. No. 237.

3. Talk," How the tabernacle typifies our Lord Jesus Christ.."—by a Junior boy.

In Exodus 25 verse 8 God tells His people that He wishes to dwell among them and He told them to build the tabernacle that He might live among them. On the outside the tent or tabernacle looked almost like those tents in which the Israelites lived during their stay in the wilderness. The sun shone on their tents and on the tabernacle alike, but there was one difference,—the tabernacle was the place in which God dwelt while in the other tents were only human beings, men, women and children.

This is a type or shadow of our Lord Jesus, who had a body just like ours,—he ate, and slept, and lived among men for about thirty-three years. He talked and worked. He looked like most people of his day, but there was a difference, for in Christ's human body God himself was dwelling. Jesus came to live among men as man, still He was God."____

4. All read the Bible verses, Phillipians 2:6,7,8,.

5. Talk on "How the furniture of the tabernacle forshadows some part of Christ's work for us," by four Junior girls.

a) "When we study the gospels we learn that Jesus came to bear our punishment for sin. He is our substitute. The first object we see as we enter the tabernacle is the brazen altar. Here the sacrifices were made. The sinner must accept Jesus as his Savior if he wishes to get to God. Jesus shed his blood as a sacrifice for our sin and so paid it all. Acts 16:31; John 1:29.

b) But Jesus Christ does more for us than just save us from the punishment for sin. He cleanses us from the power of sin and gives us a new life. The next article in the tabernacle was the laver or the place of cleansing,—this was a shadow of Chrict's cleansing power.

c) Jesus says "I am the bread of life, I am the light of the world," The table of shew-bread typifies Jesus as the bread of life, The beautiful golden candle stick reminds us that He is the light of the world, He is our guide.

d) Jesus is the one who prays for us to God and through whom our prayers reach God,—the altar of incense forshadows this.

6. Read together John 14:13, 14.

7. Duet.— "Alas and Did My Savior Bleed" M. H. B. no. 101.

8. Talk—"Other types found in the tabernacle." by a junior boy.

Even the materials used spoke of Christ; The wood makes us think of Jesus' humanity. Isa. 53:2. The gold makes us think of His divinity. It tells us that He us God. The costliness of the materials teach us that God must be served with the very best that we can give, but it also tells us that God gave His best, "His only begotten Son" for us. Even the colors used have a meaning. There is no black which would mean sin, and there was no sin in Jesus life.

9. Heart talk by the leader.

10. Unison song. "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name." v. 1,2,3,5.

III Mission Minutes.

Sentence prayers for our missionaries. Let each Junior name a missionary for whom he desires prayer.

IV. Closing Moments.

1. Repeat the verse of the month, Ps. 27:4.

2. Sing the song of the month, "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord"—M. H. B. 291.

3. In unison pray the prayer of the month,—Psalm 84:8a, 10 12.

4. Sing softly,—"Into My Heart."

HYSTERIA.—The net result of Germany's itch for battle in Europe has been death and ruin; the net result in America is near-hysteria. Official proposals are made that all aliens be registered and finger-printed; Mr. Dies of the famous Committee has submitted a bill to deport all alien Nazis, Fascists, Communists; a National Legion of Mothers is learning to shoot at parachutists; Minute Men bands are being formed, with Legionaires leading; swatiskas are being printed on the sidewalks and houses of suspected fifth columnists and German sympathizers, and at least one man has been shot and killed on suspicion that he was one of the Trojan horsemen. It all counts up to near-hysteria.

Never was there a time when America needed to keep her wits as she needs to keep them now. We need a Blitzkrieg against fear, against nerves; what we must have is coordination and not hysteria.

MINUTES OF THE PACIFIC DISTRICT CONFERENCE

Held at the Immanuel Mennonite Church, Los Angeles, Calif., June 6-9, 1940

The Conference opened with a Ministers Retreat, three round table topics were discussed.

1. The Effective Mid-Week Service, Edgar Toews, Reedley, Calif.
2. The Program of Evangelism, Homer Leisy, Dallas, Ore.
3. Pastoral Calling, Jacob Glanzer, Shafter, Calif.

Worker's Retreat, followed in the afternoon, two topics were discussed:

1. Dealing with the Personal Problems, D. D. Eitzen, Los Angeles, Calif.
2. Outstanding Experiences in Religious Work during the past year, led by Lester Hostetler, Upland, Calif.

In the evening, Phil. A. Wedel, Conference President, brought the Conference Sermon on the topic, "Still See Thee Leading." Phil. 3:13-14. The following temporary committees were appointed: Complimentary votes, Nomination, Resolution, Tellers and Memorial. Certification of Delegates was reported.

Friday morning the business session proper convened. The Complimentary Votes Committee recommended that the following be given one vote each: Eva Doerksen, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Heppner, J. J. Esau, Talita Neufeld, and D. B. Hess.

The Secretary's report showed that all 17 churches of the District had representation. 71 delegates were present representing 265 votes. The Pacific District Conference now has 2651 members, a gain of 208 over last year. The minutes as well as the Secretary's report were adopted.

The Treasurer reported $2746.70 received and disbursements of $2700.82, leaving a balance of $45.88 on June 1, 1940. The Auditors found the books correct and motion to accept the Auditors' and Treasurer's report was carried, with thanks to both.

Field Secretary's report read and adopted. Miss Emma Ruth reported the outlook to be very encouraging. The Young People's Committee is functioning, retreats are being held in every State; Workers Exchange has been issued seven times during the year, sent to 475 members. S. S. enrollment 2745, with 216 classes. Five churches had D.V.B. Schools with 382 attending; two have teacher's training; nine worker's conferences. C. E. has 1350 members in 39 societies. S. S. gained 6 the past year. C. E. gained 50 over last year. One new society organized in Dallas. RECOMMENDATIONS: 1. That the Y. P. Commitee be continued another year. 2. That one name be submitted by each state for the Y. P. Committee every three years. Corresponding to the tri-ennium of the General Conference and that the chairman be elected by the Conference from these nominations, the other nominees serving as members of the committee for the three year period. The chairman is also to serve as Pac. Dist. Conf. representative on the Y. P. Committee of the General Conference.—3. That a "follow-up" plan be adopted, whereby a church is notified of the removal of a member from one church to naother.—4. That a definite program of peace instruetion be undertaken by each church with a view of helping Y. P. to have a personal conviction that it is wrong to take up arms. These recommendations were all adopted.

The report of the EVANGELIZATION BOARD was given by Rev. S. S. Baumgartner, advisory member of the Board.

1. He reported the ordination of Bro. A. J. Wiens of Deer Park, Wash to the ministry.

2. The ordination of Bro. Homer Leisy to the ministry and eldership of the Grace Mennonite Church at Dallas, Oregon, as well as the dedication of the church and reception of 45 members on October 15, 1939. This growing church now has 145 members with an average of 134 in S. S. We rejoice with them at the great things the Lord is doing.

3. Portland.—Bro. Arnold Regier who was ordained at Elbing, Kansas, on May 19, 1940, and Mrs. Regier who comes from Saskatchewan, Canada, are expected to arrive June 16 to take up the work where the Millers left off on account of impaired health. The church now has 37 members. The Conference is now incorporated in the State of Oregon and empowered to transact legal business. It is now the owner of the parsonage at 2515 N. E. 23 Ave. There are still obligations against the property.

4. Albany, Ore. has asked for assistance. Bro. J. M. Franz has accepted the call of, and moved to this charge. Provisions are made for this work in the recommendations.

5. Winton, Calif. Plans were made to continue as before. The church is organized with 30 members as The Bethel Mennonite Church.

The following recommendations were presented and adopted: We recommend,

1. The following monthly quotas: (1) Newport, $15.—(2) Deer Park, $15.—(3) Dallas, $25.—(4) Albany, $10.—(5) Winton, $10.

2. That the work at Winton, Calif., which has been carried on by Bro. and Sister D. B. Hess for almost two years and which has resulted in the organization of the new church, with 30 members, shall be continued with the combined support of the Pac. Dist. Conf. and the Home Mission Board of the General Conference and that the Sunday morning service and the S. S. be held together with the community group in the Presbyterian Church building.

At this point it was moved and seconded that Pres. Phil A. Wedel, Homer Leisy, Sec. and Educational Committee Chairman Edmund Miller send a message to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, asking him to do all in hin power to keep America out of war.

The Educational Committee report was given by Edmund Miller. Since this work is new, the Committee has been mostly feeling its way; peace literature was presented for distribution. The report was accepted. Motion that the Conference pay for the pamphlets and that they be distributed to the delegates was carried.

The Bethel College report was given by Luke Horsch. He emphasized the importance of our own school and the need of its support. This report was accepted with thanks.

The results of the election were as follows: Pres., Homer Leisy, Dallas, Ore.—Vice-Pres., M. M. Horsch, Upland, Calif.—Secretary, Dillman B. Hess, Winton, Calif.—Treasurer, John C. Jantz, Odessa, Wash.—Business Comm., Edgar Toews, Reedley, Calif.—Education Comm., Marvin Linscheid,—Trustee, Ernest Roth, Pratum, address Salem, Ore.—Women's Miss. Society: Pres. Mrs. Homer Leisy, Lallas, Ore.—V. Pres., Mrs. Lester Hostetler, Upland, Calif.—Sec., Mrs. Alvie Schrag, Odessa, Wash.—Jr. Int. Sec., Mrs. Edmund Miller, Lind, Wash.

Memorial service was held for: Miss Lavina Burkholder, Rev. Andrew Oesch, Rev. Bernhard Regier. (J. W.?)

Special prayer was made for those who were on the sick list: Rev. W. S. Gottshall, Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, Rev. Lester Hostetler.

The following budget was proposed and adopted for 1940-1941: Newport, $180; Deer Park, $180; Dallas, $300; Albany, $120; Portland, $420; Winton, $120; Taxes, $60; Worker's Exchange $90; Field Secretary, $100; Bethel Representative (old Debt) $50; Miscellaneous, $80.—Total, $1700.

Three invitations for the next conference were received and voted upon, the result was that Dallas, Ore. was chosen, tentative date to begin, May 18, 1941.

The Resolutions Committee report was read and adopted. It follows:

Be it resolved:

1. That by a rising vote of thanks we express our appreciation to the Immanuel Church of Los Angeles: its pastor and members who have so kindly entertained us in their homes; the committees who have made such splendid arrangements for our physical comfort and to the women who gave their time and labor to provide meals.

2. That we express our appreciation and thanks to Attorney Walter M. Huntington, Portland, Ore. for his able work in connection with the Pacific District Conference under the State of Oregon and for the fact that he accepted only a very small renumeration for his services in this connection. Further that the Secretary send a copy of this Resolution to Mr. Huntington.

3. That we encourage our pastors to emphasize the Christian principles of Peace in their respective churches.

4. That we regret the absence of Dr. J. H. Langenwalter at the sessions of this conference, and that we continue to pray for his speedy recovery. (Copy of resolution sent to Dr. Langenwalter.)

Noteworthy also were splendid addresses given during the conference. The fine program of the Women's Missionary Society with Mrs. Edgar Toews as chairman. The Saengerfest led by Miss Emma Ruth, substituting for L. Hostetler who was suddenly taken ill during conference. The Sunday morning and evening services were exceptionally fine.

Homer Leisy, Sec., by D. B. Hess. Sec. elect

Western District C. E. Convention Date Set For August 11

The Western District Christian Endeavor Convention will be held on August 11, 1940, in the Bethel College Chapel, North Newton, Kansas.

All Christian Endeavor Societies in the Mennonite Western District Conference are members of the Western District Convention.

Registration of delegates should begin immediately. Societies are allowed one delegate for each twenty members or fraction thereof.

The Power and the Responsibility of a Local Church

By Harper S. Will

The church is a divine-human organism. Likened to a tree, its roots are the Deity, its trunk is the Christ, its branches are the denominations, its leaves are the local units, and its fruit the gradual fulfillment of the prayer of the Master, "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth." The tree that bears fruit exists for that purpose. The church exists to answer the prayer of its Lord—that the kingdom of God be built on earth.

The responsibility of the local church is nothing less than the bringing of the Christ-spirit into the individual life and into the total corporate life of the community of which it is a part. Changed men and women building homes and operating banks, farms and stores under the compelling guidance of God, following the pattern prescribed in the Golden Rule, is the goal of the church. The alert church is not one whit less interested in what its members do on Monday than it is in what they do on Sunday. How a man keeps his ledgers is in no way secondary to how he says his prayers. The gap between the sacred and the secular must be bridged. All work may become a sacrament.

The local church to be an institution of power in its community and in the world must have an understanding leadership and a consecrated laity. These days of militant dictatorships and riotous greed, and of deeply entrenched evils, demand a leadership that has a clear insight into the mind of Christ, and a comprehensive understanding of the forces that are at work in the world. Many agree that there is the one alarming lack of the church—a leadership that leads. Too often the leader's voice is a confused voice. It is the blind leading the blind, going through the forms, but losing sight of the mind of Christ. Somehow the church must enlist the services of its best minds and give them that training that will qualify them to become true prophets of the Eternal.

But a consecrated laity is as essential in the program of the church as an understanding leadership. If there are times when the pulpit misguides the pew, there are also times when the pew nullifies the pulpit. Ultimately it should be remembered that the success or failure of any movement within the church depends upon the response of the laity. Leadership and laity must move together. And so shall the prayer of the Master be answered, "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth." —From "Gospel Messenger"

« « JOTTINGS » »

— Bluffton, Ohio.—The Literature Committee of the General Conference met at our home this week. Mrs. A. J. Neuenschwander came from Quakertown, Pa. and Mrs. A. E. Kreider from Goshen, Ind. for this meeting. We are again getting out new Guide Books with programs for our societies and hope to have them ready before the programs for the new year are being planned. We are also publishing two excellent leaflets written by Mrs. Sam J. Goering and Mrs. G. A. Linscheid. Sincerely, Mrs. J. S. Schultz

— Menno Mennonite Church, Washington. — "Instead of the usual "singspiration" on Sunday evening, July 14, we are asking that you come prepared to give not more than three minutes on your favorite Bible character (excluding Jesus) . . . why he or she is one of your favorites, etc.—One way of enlarging our interests is to read our church papers. Do you have the MENNONITE in your home? You need its devotional and inspirational helps as well as its denominational news."—The beautiful, artistically designed bulletins from this church, the work of Mrs. Rev. Miller, are steadily appreciated (Editor). —Bulletin.

— WEDDING.—At the First Church, Philadelphia, on Saturday, June 29, Miss Emma F. Spaeth was married to Mr. Paul V. Linckhorst, the pastor officiating.—The Vacation Bible School of this church has an enrollment of 85 with eight teachers.

— Emmaus Menn. Church, Whitewater, Kans.—Mr. Jacob J. Regier was the speaker at our annual C. E. picnic held on Sunday afternoon, June 23. We were all richly blesed by his message. Mr. Regier whose home is in this neighborhood graduated from the Bible Institute in Los Angeles in the class of 1940.—On Sunday evening, July 7, a group of students from the Swiss Menn. Church and our church that had attended the Bible Institute the past year gave a very inspiring program. —Corr.

— Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas.—The Young People's group of our church had an outdoor meeting Sunday evening, July 14. The guest speaker, Dr. Frank Richards, chaplin of the State Reformatory, spoke on "Salvaging Human Lives." He emphasized particularly the duty of Christian societies toward young folks who have gone the wrong way. Refreshments were served to the group.

— First Church, Reedley, Calif.—The worship period on Sunday, July 14, at this church was given over to short talks by representatives of different organizations, viz.: Missionary Society, Miss Mary Haury; Christian Endeavor, Reuben Bergtold; Worthwhile Circle, Mrs. Paul Sellers; Sunday School, Earl Eyman. There were also talks by Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Friesen who are to go to the mission field in Oklahoma.

—Is China Defeated? The opinion has generally been held that, as long as the Burma road and the Indo-China road, over which China has been receiving most of her war material are open, the country cannot be beaten. Now, by an agreement with hard-pressed Great Britain, the Burma road is closed, and the other will likely be, too, before long. It seems as though things are going against China recently, while for Japan golden opportunities have arisen as a result of the European war.

—Mennonite Church, Lehigh, Kans.—After attending a catechetical instruction class last winter, eight young people, Allen Bartel, Loren Weyand, Dale Warkentin, Harold Balzer, Deloris Wiederstein, Erma Duerksen, Beulah Janzen and Louis Warkentin, were baptized and received into the church, June 16th.—The ladies of our church organized a "Ladies' Aid" last month.—Last Sunday night we had our first union services, held in the High School Auditorium. A fine program, with several numbers from each church, was given. —Corr.

—Herald Menn. Church, Corn, Okla.—In recognition of forty years of faithful service of the Reverend Jacob Janzen as pastor of this church, special services were held there on Sunday, July 7. The retiring pastor gave his farewell address and this was followed with an address by the new pastor, J. R. Duerksen, who accepted the charge, during the forenoon service. In the afternoon, Rev. Henry Hege, who is engaged in public school work at Corn, gave a sermon.

—How we spend.—Here is a record of how we Americans spent our money last year: For religious work, $550,000,000; Armaments, $788,000,000; Cosmetics, $1,000,000,000; Movies, $1,053,000,000; Tobacco, $1,500,000,000, Public Education, $2,600,-000,000; Medical care, $3,500,000,000; Touring, $5,-000,000,000; Liquor, $6,000,000,000; Gamblers, $6,500,000,000. —Religious Telescope.

—Grace Mennonite Church, Enid, Okla. is arranging to observe Homecoming Day, Sunday, July 28. All who have ever attended the church or Sunday School there are cordially invited, in fact anyone who is interested in this church. Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Wiens, returned missionaries, will be the guest speakers. This Sunday marks the fifth year of the beginning of this church.

—At the invitation of President W. H. Houghton, Dr. C. H. Suckau, pastor of the Berne, Ind. Menn. Church, recently spent three days at the Moody Institute, Chicago, participating in a prothetic interests conference, with about 25 other ministers. Following this, Dr. and Mrs. Suckau will go to the Eastern seaboard for an extended visit with relatives and friends. During their absence, Pres. L. L. Ramseyer of Bluffton College, Rev. Iglesias, missionary to the San Blas Indians, and Rev. John Esau will fill the pulpit at Berne.

—"The Duty to Serve My Country another four years in these critical times," is the gist of President Roosevelt's explanation for the acceptance of the third term nomination, tendered him by the national Democratic Convention at Chicago. In his address of acceptance he enumerated many things commendable about his administration to which honest citizens can agree, but when he said, "Every individual and every family in the whole land knows that the average of their personal lives has been safer and sounder and happier than it has ever been before," many will "choose" to disagree with him. Significant is also another statement, "If our government passes to other hands next January—untried hands, inexperienced hands—we can merely hope and pray that they will not substitute appeasement and compromise with those who seek to destroy all democracies everywhere."

—Dr. P. R. Schroeder's Recovery from a third operation, which took place at the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., about three weeks ago, is reported to be proceding quite satisfactorily. Bro. Schroeder's friends will be glad to hear this.

—Vacation Church Schools Multiplying.—More than 20,000 children are expected to attend the vacation church schools to be held in 250 neighborhoods throughout Chicago this summer. The church federation sponsors the schools.

A Real Democracy

In these days when democracies are being shattered or put to the severest tests, it may be profitable to consider, briefly, the oldest, though smallest of modern democracies, Switzerland. This little country, located in the very center of Europe, is just now getting ready to celebrate the 650th anniversary of its independence. The main festival will be held in the canton Schwyz which is the cradle of the confederacy and has given it its name. This little country, with an area of scarcely 16,000 square miles, about double the size of New Jersey, and mostly mountains, surrounded by powerful nations who have been at war with each other much of the time, may be almost looked upon as a favorite of God and of the sisterhood of nations. Jotted with high mountains, green hills, pine tree forests, lovely valleys, sparkling rivers, green-blue lakes, it has so many charms and offers so many attractions that it has become the camping ground of Europe. The native as well as the tourist properly label it thus: "Das Schweizerlaendchen ist nur klein, aber schöner könnts nicht sein." (Switzerland is but tiny, but it could not be more shiny—beautiful). Thus, surrounded by God's wonders as well as manifestations of his might, and blessed with much organized evangelistic activity, the Swiss people evince a decidedly godfearing spirit. In their genuine love of country they put forth every effort to guard against vice and crime. Thrift, industry, economy, simple living are noticeable characteristics. They exert their best effort to maintain strict neutrality, as they do during the present war, which can hardly be said of some of the countries overrun by Germany. Though the population is made up of three races, German—69%, France—19%, Italian—5-6%, Foreigners—7%, these live together in harmony and neighborly accord, as behooves honest compatriots. To serve the land in a governmental position is looked upon as high and sacred duty, not as an opportunity to strive for preferment or personal advantage or material gain. The members of parliament, which is composed of two chambers, the Nationalrat or lower house, one representative for each 22,000 population, and the Ständerat (states' council) or upper house, two members from each state, serve for a mere pittance of pay, but with an eye and purpose single to the welfare of their native land. This legislative body is superceded by the federal council of seven members, one of whom serves as president of the republic one year at a time, and is barred from becoming his own successor. The democratic spirit which finds expression in—"all for the people, of the people, by the people" is very strong. In some of the smallest cantons, pure democracy still holds sway, There the voting population meets at stated times, not in costly legislative halls, but in God's out-of-doors to make or improve needed laws. Full discussion of needs and problems, questions and arguments are in perfect order, and each citizen may speak his mind.

Thus the small size of the country, the healthy moral status and simple mode of living of its people, make Switzerland a fit place for maintaining a real democracy. Comparing the United States with it, we find a number of points that make it more difficult for democracy to function here. In the first place, the size of our country and its population make efficient democratic government correspondingly complex and difficult. This in turn makes it easy for dishonesty, fraud and crime to hide and to grow. With us an administration that may stay in power eight years, is apt to become overbearing, to work for the perpetuation of its party, to assume dictatorial power, and to foist upon the people laws and measures that may work harm rather than good. With a one-year term president and party factions less prominent, that could not happen in Switzerland. Many of our politicians and others aligned with them are constantly tempted to work more for their own interests than for those of the country. Our resources and our wealth lead to loose and extravant living, cause demoralization and loss of the fear of God, whereas the comparative poverty of Switzerland and the maintenance of a simple life, foster it. —T.

That is the best government that desires to make the people happy, and knows how to make them happy. Neither the inclination nor the knowledge will suffice alone; and it is difficult to find them together. Pure democracy, and pure democracy alone will satisfy the former condition of this great problem. — Macaulay

LIFE TO BE MORE THAN A SCAFFOLDING.—This earthly life is like a scaffolding about our true life, which is immortal. A scaffolding is very useful but loses its value as soon as the real structure is fairly complete, then it is torn down. And once the ugly skeleton that has so far obstructed the view from what is within has disappeared, the real structure bursts forth in its full form and dimensions. A scaffolding is usually put up hurridly, with the sole purpose of temporarily facilitating the safe erection of the building. Should a builder devote as much planning, thought, time, labor and money to the scaffold as he would on the real structure, he would be looked upon as a fool, one who spends his energy, ingenuity and means on that which is transient or temporary rather than on what is to be permament. Isn't this exactly what a person does who spends himself and his means on a worldly life. As was the case with the man who foolishly built his house on sand, to see it utterly demolished by the storm, so in a dread moment all that is temporal collapses and falls into ruin, however costly and elaborate it may have been. Unless a person builds a life such as is pictured by Christ in His word and conforms with the divine plan of salvation, it will come to ruin sooner or later, and he cannot expect to have an eternal house in heaven, which our Christ has said he was going ahead to build for each of His true followers. —T.

VICTORY---HOW?

No man ever won victory over sin by his own strength. Such victory is never the result of our determination, our will power, our efforts. The sin question can be dealt with by Christ alone—and he has dealt with it in a way that assures our threefold victory, for the past, for the present, for the future. Many a Christian has stepped out into an utterly new life of victory by ceasing to try and beginning to trust. Someone has said, "Victory is sure to the valiant soul,"—but this is a misleading word. Valiant means "intrepid, courageous, brave." It takes no courage, no bravery, to receive a gift! Victory over sin is God's gift, in and through his Son, to those who are utterly weak, powerless, helpless, but who look confidently to Christ to do for them what they never could do themselves. The secret of victory? "Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Cor. 15:57).

MIRACLES ON OUR MISSION FIELDS

By John Thiessen

In 2 Cor. 4:7 we read: "We have this treasure in earthen vessels." The apostle Paul writes these words. We can believe that Paul had reference to such treasures as: God's fellowship with us, Salvation, Forgiveness of sin, God's truths and promises, the Holy Spirit, etc. Then Paul sees that God put such treasures in earthen vessels; in us human beings; in us as unclean, unholy, unbrotherly, breakable, weak earthen vessels. But, did God make a mistake in putting the greatest treasures of the universe in earthen vessels? Let us see how God's wisdom has worked out in actual practical life.

MIRACLE NO. I —GOPAL

Gopal was one of our first Christians in our Basna area in India. He was already a church member when he came into our Mennonite field. Though he was a Christian, yet he was very "earthen." He had two wives when he became a Christian. That of course in itself was cause for a lot of storm in his home. The margin between truth and untruth was indeed very thin in Gopal's conscience. Just before the beginning of the rainy season towards the end of June, he loved to come to some missionary with the woeful story that the tiger had killed his oxen, and unless he had oxen to pull his plough, he could not prepare his fields for the rice sowing. So it was imperative that the missionary should loan him money to buy new oxen. One year I really "bit" and loaned him some money. After the rainy season the missionary went on tour again, and also came to Gopal, some forty miles away. And there he found Gopal's old oxen and also a new pair. The borrowed money he would return "in some future day."

Gopal was also a weaver. He wove good cloth. He then went to various bazars (market places) to sell his cloth. People knew very well that they had to have their eyes open when they bought from Gopal, lest he would "slip" one over on them. Yes, Gopal was very earthen.

But here is the miracle. When in the cold season in 1923-24 brother Isadas and I walked from village to village in the whole Basna area, sometimes walking fifteen miles a day, visiting the scattered Christians, among other questions I asked each Christian from whom he or she had first heard about Christ the Savior. And the greatest majority said: "From Gopal." That God would use such a very earthen vessel to introduce people to Christ, that is miraculous.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. NEUENSCHWANDER, Secretary

Swift Current, Sask., July 22, 1940

We are indeed thankful to God and to those who make Home Mission work possible in this district. Ever so often one reads in the treasurer's report that some organization or other of our Conference has made a special contribution for the Swift Current Project. Let me assure everyone concerned of our deepest appreciation. In return I feel I should let you know something at least of the work that has been done here recently. On Friday, July 19th, the work of our Summer Bible Schools was brought to a close. This spring the Lord made 27 young people willing to devote two weeks of the month of July to this particular kind of work in His service. Sixteen of these were ex-students of our Bible School that is in operation here every winter since it was started by the Home Mission Board four years ago. Fourteen out of these 16 were students last winter. It was very encouraging to see them go out, passing on the blessings they had received out of instruction in God's Word. In their work they covered 13 different districts, teaching in churches, schoolhouses, and homes. We had aimed at contacting 300 children in the work, and to the glory of God we can say that has been accomplished. All the workers report having had a blessed time. May the Lord reward them, and may the seed which has been sown in the hearts of the children bear fruit unto life eternal. We have not kept a record of professed conversions, because a perfect record of truly converted souls is being kept in heaven, but to the praise of God we can say that several children opened their hearts to Jesus and were wonderfully saved. What a joy for the teacher who can lead young souls to Christ!— By the time you read this we will be engaged in a 7-day Bible Camp for children at Gowan's Grove, south of the city. Bro. V. E. Nickel, who is in charge of this work has been busily preparing for it, and we all expect a season of spiritual refreshing and physical recreation. —Isaac Epp

AN OPEN LETTER

Dear Friends:

The fiscal year for Bethel College closes August 1st. For the last eight years we have annually been able to balance the budget. Sometimes with considerable stress and strain, but somehow, with the help of God and friends of the institution everywhere, it was done. However, each year we approach August 1st with considerable fear and trembling. This is also the case this year. In former years friends rallied to our help the last month. Now again we ask ourselves with considerable concern, "Will the friends of Bethel College come through this year also?"

The Business Office tells me that our gifts to date have been around $9,000 short of what is needed to balance the budget of the current fund. A considerable amount of gifts has come in for Memorial Hall, for which we are grateful; but this cannot be used for any other purpose. Sometimes friends forget that the current fund must also be taken care of, or else the school will make progress on one front and slip back into debt on another.

There are about a dozen churches who have not yet completed their fellowship canvass and who are planning to do so before August 1st. They wanted the canvass after harvest, and we look forward with expectation. In congregations where the solicitation was made before harvest many friends intimated that possibly they could do more after harvest, and others said they would wait with their donation altogether until after harvest. It is impossible to appeal to them all again in person or by private letter, and so we are using this means of calling attention to our present need in the current budget and we appeal to all, if possible, to send in your gift for this purpose so that it reaches us before August 1st as our books are closed for the year on that day and our accounts must be settled.

Right here we wish to put in a word of sincere thanks to those who already have sent in their contribution for this year. These are serious times. Many are urging great expenditures for preparations for war. Our appeal is for Christian education and the preparation of young people to live and serve God and man. It may seem impossible to raise the $9,000 required to balance the current budget before August 1st, yet if we all do our part it can be done. You, as friends of Bethel College, have not failed the institution in the past. We have faith that you will not fail this year either.

The Lord has blessed the school and our constituency with a good year otherwise, and, out of gratitude, let us bring unto him a harvest thank offering, large or small according as He hath prospered us. We are still privileged to live in a land of peace, and for that too a material expression of gratitude and thanks to God in the form of a donation to Bethel College is in order. As the war clouds grow darker it becomes increasingly important to have supported our College to the best of our ability during the time of peace: For "the night cometh when no man can work." (John 9:4) Therefore, "Let us not be weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not." (Galatians 6:9)

Committing Bethel College to your continued interest and prayerful support, I am

In His Service, Gratefully Yours,

AN APPEAL TO THE GENERAL CONFERENCE MISSIONARY SOCIETIES TO AID OUR WAR RELIEF WORK

During the summer months "Missionary News and Notes" is not printed. Therefore we send this notice to you through the Mennonite and Bundesbote. The urgent need for funds and clothing to help carry on the work of the Mennonite Central Committee has come to us through our church papers. For a detailed description of the Clothing Relief Program see The Mennonite June 4, 1940, page 13. The Executive Committee of The Women's Missionary Association urges all missionary societies to assist in any way possible in caring for suffering refugees and children in war-torn Europe. This is an opportunity to give a living testimony of our Mennonite principle of non-resistance.

Send all clothing for ordinary U. S. shipments, freight prepaid, to the Secretary, Orie O. Miller, Akron, Pa., and all contributions of money to our Treasurer, Mrs. Frieda Regier Entz, Newton, Kansas. For further information read relief notes in our church papers.

Wonderful Christ

By C. H. Strong

He was rich yet for our sakes He became poor that we through His poverty might be made rich. He had no home; not even a place to lay His head; yet He went to prepare a place, a home for His followers: "I go to prepare a place for you."

He never wrote a book; or attended a college; yet never man so spake.

He had power; legions of angels were at His command; yet He called for no power of defense in life's darkest hour, but He did submit Himself to the will of man without a protest, and was led as a sheep to the slaughter.

He championed the cause of the friendless and the oppressed; yet when He was in need of a friend there was no one to declare His generation.

He never turned a deaf ear to humanity's cry; He fed the hungry, healed the sick and gave drink to the thirsty; yet when He thirsted on the cross He was given vinegar to drink mixed with gall.

He broke up a funeral procession, and resurrected one from the grave; yet they made His grave among the wicked. He mastered death then yielded to death that others might live.

He saved others; yet Himself He did not save. He gave His life.

His message to His followers was, "Lo, I am with you alway, even to the end of the world"—yet, when He needed companionship most, all forsook Him and fled.

His brethren doubted Him, Judas betrayed Him, His enemies crucified Him; yet after nearly two thousand years His influence for good is greater in the world today than all the combined forces of the ages!

His name is called Wonderful!

Confessing Christ Before Men

One of the best generals that Frederick the Great of Prussia ever had was Hans Joachim von Ziethen. He distinguished himself in the Seven Year's War, both at Prague and Torgan. He was never ashamed of his faith. Once he declined an invitation to dine at his royal master's table, because he wished to present himself at the table of His Lord and Master Jesus Christ, as it was the Sacrament Day in the church where he worshipped. The next time that he appeared by invitation at the king's table, Frederick, whose infidel tendencies were well known, made use of some profane expressions about the Holy Communion at the Lord's Supper; and the other guests laughed at the remarks made on the occasion. Ziethen shook his head solemnly, stood up, saluted the king, and said with a firm voice:

"Your majesty knows well that in war I have never feared any danger, and everywhere have boldly risked my life for you and my country. But there is One above who is greater than you or I—greater than all men; he is the Savior and Redeemer, who has died also for your majesty, and has dearly bought us with his own blood. This Holy One I never allow to be mocked or insulted; for on Him repose my faith, my comfort, and my hope in life and death. In the power of this faith your brave army has courageously fought and conquered. If your majesty undermine this faith, you undermine, at the same time, the welfare of the state. I salute your majesty."

This open confession of His Savior by Ziethen made a powerful impression on the king. He felt that he had been wrong in his attack upon the faith of the general, and he was not ashamed to acknowledge it. He gave his right hand to the brave man and, placing his left one on the veteran's shoulder, said with emotion: "O happy Ziethen, how I wish I could believe it! I have the greatest respect for you. This shall never happen again." The king then rose from the table, dismissed his other guests, but said to Ziethen, "Come with me into my cabinet." What passed in that conference with closed doors, between the great king and his greater general, no one has ever learned, but this we believe, that the Lord's own words are now verified to Ziethen: "Whoever shall confess me before men, him will I confess before my Father which is in heaven."

Why Conscription in Peacetime?

by Prof. D. H. Richert, Bethel College

On July 17, the press reported Secretary Stimson to hold the view that the outlook for defense is dark without conscription, but in a letter of recent date Mr. Frederick Libby, who was present at the hearing of the Burke-Wadsworth Bill, states that Stimson on July 2 testified that he did not support conscription for a military value but for propaganda value—to arouse the American people.

This is in line with the testimony of Chief of Staff Martin. In the Christian Century of July 24, H. E. Wornom of Washington, who for three days listened to testimony before military affairs committee of the Senate, writes:

"Both the army and navy admitted, on questioning, that they were getting more men through volunteer enlistments than they could take care of and that without any special effort. This is quite contrary to the reports made by some newspapers that not enough men are volunteering. The fact of a surplus of volunteers slipped out when Marshall, chief of staff, was testifying and he confirmed it. Up to that point the big argument for the bill was that not enough men could be got through volunteer enlistments. After that the emphasis was on need to stiffen the nation's morale and harden the moral fiber of its youth. Furthermore, it was brought out that the cost of conscription would be greater and it would be less efficient, militarily, than a larger regular army obtained by volunteers."

Such revelations explain why all the arguments so far presented in favor of peacetime conscription bear the ear-marks of propaganda.

According to press reports, Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox declared that the country as a whole is urgently demanding some form of compulsory military training. Where does he get that? This, too, has the ear-mark of a mere wish. Who are those whose trumpets blow loudest for conscription? There is President Conant of Harvard. Is he afraid about investments in British securities? Then there is Pershing, too old to be drafted. Next come the international financiers and munition makers. Is it mere coincidence that the greatest pressure for conscription comes from that part of the country where the manufacture of munitions and the international financiers have their centers?

Frank Knox, referred to above, holds that "conscription is the only democratic way for a democracy, the burden falling equally on rich and poor alike."

Knox forgets to mention one important characteristic of democracy, namely personal liberty. If equality alone would constitute democracy, then the totalitarian states would be the most democratic. As a matter of fact, conscription in peacetime embodies the most objectionable feature of the totalitarian regimes—freedom of choice—the very thing we wish to safeguard.

Just recently a "Declaration against Conscription" has been issued by more than two hundred educators, religious leaders, journalists and businessmen, New York. They point out:

"Conscription is undemocratic because it provides equality without liberty.

Peacetime conscription is unnecessary, it is a violation of American tradition.

It has no military justification unless the government intends to invade another country.

There is not sufficient reason why free Americans must now, in the name of freedom, submit to peacetime conscription and thereby become regimented vassals."

If you are opposed to the enactment of any bill, by Congress that calls for conscription of men for military service in peacetime, send in your protest at once to Hon. Morris Sheppard, or Hon. Andrew J. May, chairman of the Senate and House Committee, respectively, favoring the conscription bill, or your own Senators and Representatives.

PREACHER'S PELLETS

I feel we need to streamline some of our services. They drag. They are too long. Services with over-elaborate music, unfamiliar hymns, long prayers and vain repetitions are not refreshing but exhausting to preacher and people.

It is certain that in the growing chorus of new converts to the importance of religion there is a significant absence of any expression of repentance.

Memory of Home

Between broad fields of wheat and corn
Is the lowly home where I was born,
The peach tree leans against the wall,
And the woodbine wanders over all.
There is the barn, and as of yore
I can smell the hay from the open door.
And see the busy swallows throng,
And hear the pewee's mornful song.
Oh! Ye who daily cross the sill,
Step lightly, for I love it still.

SERMON SKETCH

By Rev. Edward S. Schmidt, Wichita, Kansas

MY PEACE I GIVE THEE

Scripture: John 14:1-31, Text: John 14:27

The greatest need today is to find Christlike persons who will speak peace to troubled souls. Because there are troubled souls there are troubled social orders and we face a troubled world. Because nations are troubled, souls permit themselves to be troubled and we have a viscious circle.

Wherever Jesus went he left his peace. He raised Lazerus and left his peace with the two sisters and Lazerus. When the souls were troubled because the waves were beating into the boat and their lives were threatened, Jesus speaks to the waves and a calm prevails not only over the waters, but also upon their souls. The insane man who lived among the tombs had that heavenly peace spoken to him and lived with it.

That peace that Jesus left with Mary, Martha and Lazerus; with the disciples and with the insane man is the same peace that Jesus wants to leave with you.

1. Every person may have that peace.

a) Nobody can rob you of that peace, but you yourself. Daniel had peace within himself, when the king's servant cast him into the lions den, the king was without peace because he would not do the thing he should do. Paul and Silas sang in prison, Peter had peace within. No outer force can rob us of peace, it is our inner self that opens or shuts the door to Christ's peace.

b) We must be willing to pay the price. We must forget self and think of Christ and His cause. "He that seeketh to save his life shall lose it, but he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it."

2. There are certain conditions we create within ourselves, or permit to be created, that rob us of peace. Where there is selfishness, jealousy, fear, hate, doubt, worry, suspicion, or lack of forgiveness there is no peace.

3. The lack of peace has a psychological and physiological effect upon the human body. Often a person becomes hungry and has a feeling just as though there was a thermometer within him which shot up like a sky-rocket. The angry person becomes nervous, an acid is poured into the blood stream, there is a loss of appetite, indigestion and a headache. At times the individual says, I can't see straight. Worry acts very similar, besides the effects already mentioned it causes a greater degree of physical, mental and spiritual tension There is a loss of sleep. We worry about conditions that we can not change. Do we mean to say that we are stronger than God? If not, why not turn it over to Him and believe that He will make all things work together for good, if we but love him? Suspicion, doubt, fear, jealousy, and lack of forgiveness all have similar effects upon the body. Since the body is the temple of the living God, how can God dwell in our temple if it is saturated with acid, if it is tense, and in an upset state. Let us learn to trust Him in everything. If we can make a perfect release, He will take it and give us His peace.

4. Peace does not mean agreement or compromise, but it means being steadfast without permitting ourselves to come into a state as mentioned above. then we shall not have those psychological or physiological effects upon our system that close the door to the Prince of Peace, but He will enter and abide with us and give us His peace.

The Works and the Word of God

Psalm 19

Introduction

No one can read this beautiful Psalm without realizing that it was the result of much thinking. David is thinking in the first part (vs 1-6) of the glory of God revealed in the heavens above, and in the second part, of God's glory as revealed in His written Word. It is a Psalm of reflection and reveals mature spiritual experience. The writer sees all nature as full of the praise of Jehovah. God pronounced all His creation "good" (Gen. 1:31). Only those who are willfully blind in sin, will fail to see God's glory in the natural wonders of the heavens.

The Heavens Reveal God's Glory vs 1-6

God's revelation in the heavenly bodies is most majestic and impressive. His hand shaped it all. They become much more impressive as we gain a better understanding of their vastness, splendor, order and mystery. This revelation is continous and unceasing (v2). David sees in the regular succession of day and night, a perpetual testimony of God's glory, and the testimony is increasingly praising Jehovah. The heavens do not speak in the form of human language which can be heard with the ear (v3). It is a silent eloquence which speaks alike to peoples of all races. (The word "where" is not in the Hebrew.) Through all the earth the message, the instruction of the heavens has been heard.

The sun is poetically personified and spoken of as dwelling in the heavens (v4b) and in the strength and vigor of a bridegroom, he comes forth in glory to make his daily round, giving light and warmth to all in his circuit around the earth. As the light and warmth of the sun bless the earth, so the glory of God enriches and makes radiant all mankind. The wonderful regularity and order in the movements of the heavenly bodies convince us that the mind of an all-wise God planned and created all.

God's Word Reveals His Glory vs 7-11

God's revelation in His works reveals His power, but it tells nothing about what He requires of man or about the way of salvation. God in His mercy and love has given us another revelation. The "law of the Lord" as used by the Psalmist, means probably all teaching coming from God, the principal part of which was included in the Mosaic law. This law is a perfect guide and sufficient to meet every spiritual need. David uses six descriptive phrases in speaking of the law. It is 1—the perfect law of the Lord; 2—the sure testimony which can be depended on; 3—the statues which are always right; 4—the pure commandment of the Lord; 5—the "fear of the Lord", so called, because it leads men to reverent respect for Jehovah and endures forever; 6—the "judgments of Jehovah". God's Word reveals His mind, His judgments and these are altogether righteous, and most highly valuable (v10).

David mentions six things that God's Word does. 1—Restores, converts the wandering soul. 2—Makes wise the simple, giving understanding in the most necessary things. 3—Rejoices the heart, fills it with the most lasting joy. 4—Enlightens the eyes of the soul. 5—Warns us against all sins and errors. 6—Brings great reward both in the present life and especially in the life to come. God's Word clearly reveals that He is holy.

Man's Need to Glorify God vs 12-14

God's Word possesses deep searching power. David in meditating on this, was led to the realization of his own sin. He prays for cleansing from unseen faults and that he be kept from deliberate sins. By earnest prayer we are saved from the power of sin over us. Our actions and words need to be acceptable to God. Back of our words and acts, is the meditation of our hearts. David is led to pray that the thoughts of his inner heart may be acceptable to God, his strength, his deliverer from sin. Such consecration of heart glorifies God.

God Needs Us

by William E. Juhnke, McPherson, Kansas

Dear Editor and Readers of The Mennonite:

"Calling all young men between 15-30! Calling all young women . . .Calling all between 5-85" Does this seem possible?

We need not feel that there is nothing for us to do. Good needs us now! The chance for work is here and now; it is not just around the corner. The only question is in us. Are we ready and willing to do it?

GOD NEEDS US IN RELIEF. Who will go to Macedonia to help? Who will help those that go to help others? God needs us to help with the relief of human suffering. We can organize local relief units and get others to join. Someone can plan a novel money-raising campaign and carry it through. Whoever invents a better method of raising funds than the best we now have will be a hero. Perhaps new methods will help swell contributions to Rev. P. H. Unruh, Treasurer, Emergency Relief Board, Goessel, Kansas.

GOD NEEDS US FOR PEACE. Some well-intending people declare that America must join the war eventually and, therefore, should do it quickly. They forget that our last entry was a failure; they forget that God calls to peace and not to war. General Sherman said: War is Hell! Does God want anyone for this?

Here are some things that can be done for peace. Somebody has to work out an immediate, sacrificial, and dynamic program for peace. God needs each of us to help. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, 41 Mt. Vernon St., Boston, Mass., has begun on such a plan. We can write for a copy of it, study it, and discuss it. Then we should return our suggestions because the leadership for peace needs the help of all who believe in it.

We must register our stand on compulsory military service NOW. The most effective method is to do this as individuals. We must write to our congressmen, to our governor, and to the president. Just one letter is not enough. We must hold our representatives to pledges thus given. This is not a hopeless task, but a job that can be accomplished. I want to state clearly my conviction that if all stand together who are opposed to going to Europe to fight and who are opposed to compulsory military service, we can achieve these ends.

The two Kansas Senators, to whom among others the writer appealed, have given him positive assurance that they are definitely opposed to compulsory military training and intervention in the European war, especially also to the boys-girls training camps. As a result of such appeals there has appeared in a news dispatch of the Associated Press a statement by Kansas' Senior Senator Arthur Capper, that "he is unalterably opposed to drafting men and boys in peace time, to say nothing of girls and young women, for industrial training, for work in the labor battalions, in the name of preparedness." Let us keep the men who represent us informed of our views.

Writing letters to our representatives is a patriotic duty. There is, of course, the possibility that not enough people will be moved to write to congressmen, and that compulsory military training will be required. What then? The Mennonites left Prussia and Russia, because compulsory military training was forced upon them. I believe that somehow we must awaken to the fact that dark days may be frightfully near. Days when the choices that our forefathers made will face us. Perhaps some type of alternate service could be inaugurated which would win the approval of the government. This does not mean general support of relief work, but a relief program under the sponsorship of the Church, which would give employment to all youth—men and women—in the draft age. It is evident that we do not have this now. We could well follow the pattern of the Friends who have been singularly successful.

The Wichita Committee of Historic Peace Churches has been trying to get something like this established. Harry Graber, a member of the commitee, reports that the committee has gotten several pledges over $300, if the work is put on a continuous basis. The Quakers have far outstripped us in their constructive relief efforts, though we are the oldest peace church. The Brethren have started through Dan West, their field secretary. The Methodists are moving fast in this direction, though they are comparatively new in the field.

Surely such an effort on our part would be in line with our heritage. After the first ten years in America, though the American Mennonites had to withstand grasshoppers and drouths in this period, "they were able to reciprocate the aid given in 1874 by shipping carloads of corn to flood victims in Ohio. At the same time, a trainload of grain went to Virginia to help in raising a fund for a home for ex-Confederate soldiers." (Quoted on page 57, A Guide To The Sunflower State, Viking Press, New York, 1939)

A LETTER

NOTE: Below is a duplicate of a letter to the Mennonite in March, which got lost. Through Dr. J. E. Hartzler the writer was revealed and we thank him for his courtesy. —J. R. T.

Clinton Corners, N. Y., July 22, 1940

Greetings to the readers of "The Mennonite" from the little "colony" of Mennonites at Hartford, Connecticut. We pause from our studies a moment to provide you a glimpse into the Hartford Seminary Foundation and it's relation to Mennonitism. Here are a few facts which we think might interest you:

The heads of both the Old and the New Testament departments at Hartford are Quakers.

The head of the department of Church History and a professor in the department of Systematics are Mennonites.

For a number of years the Mennonite members of the faculty have been offering work in Mennonite History and Polity, which has now become a regular accredited course.

There are at present 8 Mennonite students at Hartford doing work above the B. A. degree.

Hartford's School of Missions is one of the most outstanding in the country. Harold and Ruth Ratzlaff, now under appointment to India by the Mennonite Board (General Conference) are just completing their second year at Hartford.

Russel Mast and Mrs. Mast (Alma Hilty), both of Bluffton '37, have accepted a call to the Deep Run Mennonite Church, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. They will begin their work following Mr. Mast's graduation from Hartford in May.

Of the 35 Mennonite students who have come to Hartford in the past 16 years all are now in Christian service and 28 of them are in the Mennonite Church.

To us it is one of the delightful things about Hartford that it's training is super-denominational. It is training leaders for the Church Universal. Students are encouraged to exercise this leadership within the groups to which their religious heritage belongs, and in the case of the Mennonites, at least, they are admirably fitted to do so.

The Mennonite Students at Hartford, by Hiram Hilty

Negotiated Peace Is the Alternative

The only long-term alternative to a state of continuing and implacable hostility is a negotiated peace. A negotiated peace does not involve surrender. It is unfair to smear it with the term "appeasement." To say that it is impossible because we "can't trust Hitler's word" is to accept a condition of futility. A peace treaty with Germany will be signed by Great Britain some day and, however deeply we may regret it, looks strongly as if it would be signed with a Nazi Germany. We are not at war with Germany. We should begin to give very serious thought to some fundamental changes in our foreign policies before irrevocable decisions based on eternal hate have been made. For example, our Government is doing business with Austria and Ethopia and the old Czechoslovakia and the old Poland as legal entities on the basis of the Stimson doctrine of non-recognition of territory gained by force. Shall we not have to admit that this doctrine, like the non-recognition of revolutionary governments in Latin America, has proven premature in a world not yet ready for peaceful adjustments?

In the second place, is anything to be lost by the resumption of normal diplomatic relations with Berlin? A preliminary study of post-war economic relations should begin. In the third place, might we not save the cost of a two-ocean navy by revising our traditional doctrine of the Open Door? Instead of opposing the organization of a United States of Asia free from the control of eastern powers, should it not be encouraged? We will mention one other possibility inherent in the present situation: is it

Peace Rally

ATTEND THE PEACE RALLY WHICH WILL BE HELD IN THE ALEXANDERWOHL CHURCH ON AUGUST 4TH, AT 7:30 P. M.

PRAYER

Teach us thy ways, O Master of our lives. Teach us how to live without hate and envy, without worry and fear, without losing our souls in the mad rush after things of this world. Teach us how to give and forgive, how to bear and forbear, how to use the things of earth for the purpose of heaven. Make our hearts sensitive to all human need and make us strong to serve in thy name and for thee. Amen. —Daily Talks With God

Peace in Action

(The following letter, written by Rev. George Stoneback of Goshen, Indiana, gives some valuable suggestions in regard to what young people can do to express their attitude of peace in active, concrete action. Any other groups who are trying a similar approach to the problem should share their experiences with the Mennonite youth of other communities by reporting them in the Youth Section of the Mennonite.—R. W.)

"It may be of interest to other young people to know of a group of youth (starting as all Mennonite—but now branching out to other churches of Goshen) who meet in our church weekly to discuss the stand of Christian youth on the war problem. It began rather spontaneously several weeks ago. Two members of our church, who had served in the Friends Service Committee doing reconstruction work after the last war; a Quaker, who had done the same thing and had visited our church service one Sunday; and Dan West, Peace Secretary of the Church of the Brethren, had a little informal meeting in our church and invited in a few young people. The plan had been to have only one meeting. But we got to talking about what peace testimony of brotherhood we could awaken in Goshen, and so we decided to meet again.

Now we want to help set up a refugee family (Dr. Robert Friedmann, from Vienna) in Goshen. The Friedmanns have come and the young people will help the churches support them. Dr. Friedmann was president of the united peace societies of Austria before he had to flee.

However, the young people are not satisfied with only one project. They are looking for a larger one and are now investigating the needs of Goshen. Projects suggested and under examination are:

1. Playgrounds in East Goshen, a neglected part of the city. We would build them and direct the play.

2. Get a Y. M. C. A. or a Y. W. C. A. started here.

3. Help the poor people to beautify their homes. We would solicit the paint, etc. and then paint with them. Prizes would be offered for the greatest transformation in a home.

4. Get one of the big unused houses and rebuild it to house several refugee families.

5. Find an old building that could be moved and rebuilt for a church—community church—in a new section of Goshen that is untouched by the city churches and then help the people to organize their own Sunday School and Church services.

At present the feeling is in favor of the church; the young people feel that this would fill the deepest and most far-reaching need.

We are getting a list of interested people with the number of hours per week each person can volunteer to give for any of these projects we may vote upon. Naturally no pay will be given. Efforts will be put forth to get contributions in kind from merchants, and church people of the city. We feel that if the young people give the inspiration and effort many people will be willing to give material aid.

I hope that this can be developed. Richard Weaver, a Junior at Bluffton and now home for the summer, is chairman of our discussion meetings. Otherwise we have no organization.

This is exactly the kind of thing we have been preaching for, hoping for, praying for, the type of approach that we need. There should be more such groups."

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Senior C. E. Topic for Aug. 18, 1940

Main Topic : Managing my Talents Rom. 12:3-8

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Stand up, stand up for Jesus," I need Thee every hour," "All the way my Savior leads me," "Lead on, O King Eternal"
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Telling of parable of talents
4. Offering for missions

II. Leader's Introduction

No one is so poor, but he has received at least one talent at the hand of his Lord. What he will do with the talent he has received that will be the test of the man. Will he bury it? Then he does not value it highly, then he is lazy and indifferent, then he does not have a respectful or appreciative attitude toward the Giver of the Talent. Will he use it? There lies his chance at proving his gratitude for the gift received, his love for the Master who entrusted the talent to him. There is his opportunity for fidelity and faithfulness, for becoming a man of character and of ability. There is his Master's approval and blessing and reward which comes to him, and adds to what his own faithfulness has achieved.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Talented left-handed men Judges 20:15, 16
2. A talented shepherd lad 1 Sam. 16:17-23
3. Letting our light shine Mt. 5:14-16
4. A parable of humble service Lk. 17:7-10
5. Advised to use talents 2 Tim. 1:5-12

IV. For Discussion

1. Does a person with one talent have as much responsibility as a person with ten?

2. What are the talents which God gives men?

3. Is money-making a talent? When? How?

V. Facts for Study

They will ask you, "What have you done?" Not, "Who were your ancestors?" The famous veil in the sanctuary is not reverenced, by the faithful because it came from the silkworm.

Saadi, the Persian poet

"It is a great deal better to live a holy life than to talk about it. We are told to let our light shine and if it does, we won't need to tell anybody it does. The light will be its own witness Light houses don't fire cannon to call attention to their shinning, they just shine." D. L. Moody

VI. Illustration

A lad who used his talent

A young lad went to work in a foundry where men used often to swear in their conversation. For a few days he said nothing about it, but after having heard a sermon on clean and unclean speech, he resolved to cast aside his timidity and speak out. On the following Monday he said, quietly, after hearing the usual profane conversation, "Please excuse me; I am only a boy, but I would be so glad if you wouldn't swear. I think you would soon find out it is easy to talk without doing so, and it would please God." Instantly one of the men exclaimed, "Three cheers for Charlie! All who will join me in doing as this plucky little chap wishes, say 'Aye, aye'" And every man in the room shouted, "Aye, aye!"

VII. Food for Thought

Do the little things that come to you day by day faithfully and well, and your talent to do the large things will be developed thereby.

The Tabernacle and the Temple

Program Suggestions for August 18, 1940

1 Chr. 28:10a "The Lord hath chosen thee to build a house for the sanctuary."

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude Quiet Music

2. Call to worship Psalm 122:1 "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."

3. Scripture reading in unison Psalm 100

4. Leader's Prayer

5. Solo with violin obligato "Jesus Lover of My Soul"

6. Short talk by a visitor using the song as a theme.

7. Stand and sing in unison "We're Marching to Zion" M. H. B. No. 27

II. Study Period

Aim. That our Juniors may learn about the building of the temple. To help them to a greater love for, loyalty to and deep reverence for their own church, the house of God.

To the leaders. This should be a "Bible reading" lesson. See that every Junior has a Bible in which he can follow the reading. Choose good readers for the assignments. After each topic give time for questions. Make the lesson alive.

1. Introduction, by a Junior boy.

Many years after the tabernacle had been built, while the children of Israel were in the desert, and after they had become a strong and powerful nation, their King David planned to build a permanent House for the Lord. His Son King Solomon did build the temple.

This temple which Solomon built for the worship of Jehovah was one of the seven wonders of the world. It took seven years to build it. It was a very large building, made of rich materials. That building no longer stands, but the temple that is at Jerusalem now was built much later.

1 Chr. 28:2-6, 9-10, 20; second voice; 1 Chr. 28:11, 12-18; third voice.

2. "Building the Temple Proposed by King David" Bible reading: 1 Chr. 17:1-4, 11, 12; first voice

3. "The Temple Built by Solomon" Bible reading: 1 Kings 5:5, 6; first voice; 2 Chr. 3:1,2; second voice; 1 Kings 6:7, 14, 21, 22, 29, 30; third voice; 1 Kings 5:7-11; fourth voice.

4. All stand and sing: "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken" S. H. No. 141.

5. "The Temple Finished" Bible reading: 2 Chr. 5:1, 13, 14; first voice; 1 Kings 8:12-21; second voice.

6. "The Temple Dedicated" Bible reading: 1 Kings 8:22, 26-30, 54-61; first voice; 2 Chr. 7:1-3; second voice.

7. Sing in unison, heads bowed "The Lord is in His Holy Temple"

8. The story of Isaiah in the temple told by a Junior girl. Isaiah 6:1-8.

9. The story of Daniel when he prayed toward the temple at Jerusalem, told by a Junior boy. Daniel 6:1-13.

10. Leader's heart talk "The Temple God's House"

11. Bible Drill. Find Bible verse which tells us how God's people love His house. Ps. 27:4; Ps. 65:4; Ecc. 5:1a; Ps. 122:1; Isa. 2:3; Mal. 3:1; John 2:19 Rev. 7:15 11:19; 21:22.

12. All stand and sing the Doxology.

III. Mission Minutes

A Junior may report on "How the children in India celebrated Palm Sunday." Refer to "The Mennonite" of July 23.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Sing the song of the month. M. H. B. No. 291. Boys sing one verse and the girls the next.

2. All girls repeat from memory the verse of the month, Psalm 27:4.

3. A Junior boy prays the prayer of the month.

4. All join again in singing "The Lord is in His Holy Temple"

Junior leaders. Let us not forget the Junior leader's round table at the Western District C. E. Convention at Bethel College. We will meet in room 202. Bring suggestions, questions, problems. Share your good ideas and good programs with us all.

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes

M. C. Lehman, July 6th cable Berlin, Germany.

Need continues acute along lines present program and much larger contributions expected. Expansion to new fields considered but postponed for later decision because at present concentration on Poland desirable where clothing, shoes, lard and milk are urgently needed.

* * * *

Ernest Bennett writes interestingly as of June 22nd of the canteen for feeding of children operated in Cerbere, France, one of the half dozen villages near the Spanish border in which the committee has assumed responsibility for help to Refugees. "At present two meals are given daily to about sixty persons. Many of the children being fed are fortunate to have their mothers with them, and many have some kind of a place in which to live. Although this canteen is not large nor reaches out further than one small town in France, we feel it does a big work in that it is feeding daily children that might otherwise starve.

I am sure that many of you would rejoice if you could see with me the joy you are bringing to others in a land overrun with the sorrows of war, by the help you give through the Relief channels of the Mennonite Church."

* * * *

The Committee considers it providential that Ted Claassen reached England before the termination of direct communication and passage between that country and France. Although new in Relief service and experience Bro. Claassen is rapidly acquainting himself with the various active relief organizations there and is getting valuable help in this through the London Friends Service Council and Captain Gracey of "Save the Children Fund." All Canadian contributions go to London for Bro. Claassen's allocation.

Until the way opens for a definite M. C. C. project these funds will be distributed through organizations that most efficiently serve now in ways and needs that can be approved. So far the larger portion has gone through aforementioned "Save the Children Fund."

In reply to many inquiries relative to the Committee's clothing Relief program, we refer again to previous Relief notes and to the recent Special leaflet mailed to most of our churches. Clothing packages can be forwarded at any time to Orie O. Miller, Akron, Penna., by prepaid freight, express or parcel post. While at present new clothing is specially solicited, good used clothing is also accepted and will be needed. After Aug. 15th there will be still better facilities for receiving and repacking after which special appeals for larger clothing donations will be made. The next shipment over-seas is planned for about Sept. 1st.

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, BERNE, IND.

Youth on the march! So it seemed in the Mennonite Church at Berne on Saturday and Sunday, July 20, 21, when about 200 visitors, together with a few hundred more of our own young people met in session at the Ohio-Indiana Young Peoples Conference. This is an annual affair, sponsored by the Christian Endeavor Societies of these two States. Probably this was the best attended so far, and considerable enthusiasm was displayed. Challenging youth! How they deserve the recognition of our churches, and are entitled to sound guidance, inspiration, and the best attention that we can give them. For they are the ones who will have the reins in their hands a few years hence. How they will need to be strong in the faith, endowed with determination and Christian courage to meet and tackle the problems that will be theirs, both in the secular and spiritual realms of life. Dr. Lloyd Ramseyer, President of Bluffton College, was the main speaker at these sessions.

Sunday evening, June 14, our Christian Temperance Union held their monthly meeting, the first under the supervision of the newly elected officers, with Edward Burkhalter presiding. Mr. Gerald Stucky, who is home for the summer, was the speaker at this meeting. Gerald is doing well, and as he continues his studies at Bethel College we feel certain that he will make a worthy servant in the Master's cause. We are delighted at the progress he is making and wish him the best of success.

Dr. and Mrs. Suckau are vacationing in the East at present. We are glad they have this privilege. Pulpit supplies are arranged for during his absence. At the recent semi-annual business meeting of the church delegates were chosen for the Middle District Conference soon to be held.

No doubt here in Berne as elsewhere one of the thoughts uppermost in people's minds is the question, Who will be our next President? We wonder. We have our secret hopes, but who can predict? Suffice it to say that the Republican nominee is a native of one of our neighboring towns, Elwood, Ind., where he will make his acceptance speech within a few weeks. Many from here are planning to hear him. God bless and save America!

MENN. CHURCH, SHAFTER, CALIF. July 19-40

As our correspondent is on a vacation, I shall jot down a few things. In May we had baptism. Eleven persons were baptized and another one was taken into the church by letter. Rev. M. Horsch of Upland was here and officiated at these services. We also had a WEDDING recently. Miss Mildred Neuman was married to Delmar Mettler, the writer officiating.—Last Sunday Miss Eva Duerkson and her father who have many friends here were with us. She showed us pictures of her work and field in Africa.

Yesterday evening the members of the Junior Sewing Circle had a sale of things made during the past year. It brought over $100.00. Half of the money will be used for the support of a worker here in the Federal Camp. We are happy and proud that the girls are active and sincere in their work. May the Lord richly reward them.—Fifty children attended our Vacation Bible School. They were taught by Mrs. George Hiebert, Mrs. Jake Neufeld, Mrs. John Reimer, and the pastor.

Vernon Neufeld, home for the summer from Fresno State College, is a welcome help in conducting the church choir. May the Lord make many more, young and old, willing to serve Him with the talents He has given them. Many of our people are on their vacation this and next month, which tends to reduce our attendance correspondingly. But we hope that September will get us back to normal again.

May the Lord continue to bless THE MENNONITE, as it goes to its readers, and also the editor who sees to it that good wholesome material is being gathered from different sources.

J. P. Glanzer

—Bethany Church, Freeman, So. Dak.—A recent bulletin put out by the pastor of this church contains a very good article on "Why Attend a Christian College?" Such articles are timely, and we hope we may have space to publish this one.

COMMENTS ON WAR

Paper read by Robert Weaver, at Peace Rally, held in Goshen, Indiana

(At the peace rally, held at the 8th St. Mennonite Church in Goshen, Sunday, June 2, N. E. Byers, the speaker of the afternoon discussed "The plight of the political and religious refugee in Europe today." After luncheon, Bob Stemen and Ernest Stahly, who have experienced the stand of C. O.'s during war, discussed "The pacifist alternative to military service." Dean Harold S. Bender, in the evening, gave a vital talk concerning "Relief work under the auspices of the Mennonite Central Committee.")

Weaver's Paper

It seems that the popular motto in America now is, "Keep America out of war." In other words, we are to isolate ourselves and let the rest of the world fight to its own ruin. The idea of keeping America out of war is quite upright. Our motto of a few years ago was, "Save the world for democracy." We at least had ideals then—even though we used the wrong means toward them. Is it not possible that we have lost a noble ideal and, in fact, have become quite selfish?

There is a lot of talk concerning invasion into our land these days. If not by sea, the enemy, most likely those wicked Germans again, will of a sudden seize Mexico, Greenland, or Canada and swoop down upon us. However, to quote the President, "We must be so adequately prepared so that we may strike the adversary before they get a foothold." Yes, that is the popular method, preparedness. All we need is the largest fleet, the most airplanes, the biggest army, and the deadliest weapons. After we get these, we can all rest our trembling souls and trust our nation looks so formidable that no other nation will attempt to take our land. The best way to keep out of war, therefore, is to be prepared for war at its worst.

After we have a great war machine, it would be odd if we couldn't use it in a war. Preparedness is the shortest road to war. A nation not prepared for war doesn't invite one. When a nation has great militaristic possibilities, people of that nation may very easily get ideas when aroused by a little propaganda. No doubt we have forgotten a most expensive lesson, that war is a losing game for everyone.

The allies in Europe are now trying to stop the rapid advance of Naziism directed by Hitler. The American people could very easily be stirred up enough to stop this Hitler. We stopped the Kaiser in 1918, and we reaped a Hitler of 1940. If this Hitler is halted and the German people are again put into terrible submission, don't forget that another savior, in the eyes of the Germans, will arise and their revenge will be a hundred fold.

You have all heard of the terrible German submarine warfare on civilians during the last war. However, did you ever hear of the food blockade on Germany in that war? The war had ended, but still the German people could not eat. The Honorable Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty of the British Navy, allowed no food to be sent into Germany for 3 months after the war had ceased! Sending a torpedo amidships of a passenger liner is well aimed and deliberate and surely by the hand of a murderer. But the lack of food in Germany was merely a result of war and a matter of circumstance. Perhaps that's why you didn't hear of that famine that starved 760,000 German civilians, and left traces ever noticeable on the German race. Do you wonder that the Germans are revengeful? When you hear of a detachment of British or French being killed, that is our harvest of evil we helped plant about 20 years ago.

When will we off-balance this terrible circle? We cannot use force to stop force, neither can we use evil to banish evil. To promote goodwill, we must sow goodness. To promote Christianity, we must use Christian methods. We must love and be interested in our enemy. We cannot save civilization by stopping Hitler, we can only save civilization by stopping war! If Germany should ever again get to be a republic, we should help them, cooperate with them, give them a chance and love them, not fight them!

Only men of the genuine Christian type and motive can stop the Germans so that they will not turn again and rend the world. The love and kindness of a fellow man or nation will break down a Hitler much quicker than 50,000 airplanes we hope to make. Hatred, defense, and war only give excuses to fight on and on.

But, what can we do to promote our feelings toward these nations at war? There exists the conventional Red Cross which indeed has served unfortunate humanity. However, in the present case of war, no Red Cross workers are allowed in Germany. Our contributions to the Red Cross, therefore, do not help those in Germany. And we must help friend and foe alike.

M. C. Lehman in Poland is our only worker in any of the German territories. Being very difficult for workers to obtain entrance, we must do our work now through Mr. Lehman. Then, when the time comes, for us who call ourselves Pacifists, let us not hesitate when Mr. Lehman needs us and can get us in! Even the terrible war loving Germans say, "Those Quakers, we love the Quakers," calling all relief workers Quakers. When kindness softens the hearts of soldiers, why seek any other method to stop them?

A pacifist, by many people, is classified as yellow. His mind is quite weak and his body frail. The reports of our workers in Spain, Poland, and Germany sound quite noble to me, indeed. Soon a lot of sound deep thinking and will power will be needed to guide us the way we should go. The test will be difficult, and lest we prepare our mental stand now, it may fail us when propaganda is strong Discuss your viewpoints in your meetings. Read pacifistic literature. Let us draw our conclusions now and take a firm stand. When the time comes, then we will not falter.

When mob spirit and insanity rule, we are not alone, for God is with us. When the wave is gone, even in the eyes of men, "They did the best."

Another Argument for the Church College

The public receives some 39 fold as much educational service for each dollar of taxes remitted to endowed colleges as it receives from each dollar of taxes collected and spent at state colleges. The explanation of this rather startling statement lies in the fact that at an endowed college, each dollar contributed by the public through remission of taxes is matched by about $40 from student fees and endowment earnings, whereas at the typical state college, each dollar is matched by about 35 cents from tuition fees. The two classes of colleges furnish essentially similar service to the public in the way of education of the same character, but make vastly different demands on tax funds. In the endowed college, each dollar that the state contributes through remission of taxes procures about $41 worth of higher education, while each dollar that a state collects as taxes and expends through the typical state college procures only $1.35 worth of this same commodity. The disparity lies in the fact that in the endowed college, remitted taxes equal about 2.5 per cent of the cost of student's education whereas in the publicly supported college, about 80 per cent of the cost of his education is paid from taxes. From personal experience in both types of institutions, moreover, it has been my observation that, if there is any difference, funds are administered more frugally in endowed than in publicly supported colleges; hence, these figures minify rather than magnify the contrast in relative economy to the public . . .

In the second place, those who contemplate philantropic giving would do well to study the relative social benefits to be derived from their gifts. A large bequest which attaches even a fair idea to a large and famous institution may give that idea a force and prestige altogether out of proportion to the merit of the idea. For example, a rich donor who had made his fortune in selling Pekinese pups might conceivably endow at a famous university the X-Institute for research on the treatment of fleas on Pekinese pups. A large enough endowment would probably suffice to effect the attachment. Such a large endowment together with the name of the famous university would give this idea, not harmful in itself, attention and social potential disproportionate to projects of more vital concern to human welfare. Attaching the project to a famous institution may give it polite standing and thus gratify the vanity of Mr. X, but the total result would be educationally baneful. Most donors have in mind social benefit rather than gratification of personal vanity, hence they would do well to weigh the relative benefits that may result from their philanthropies. In this connection I commend the small college as worthy of particular attention. Its quiet merits are overshadowed by the high pressure publicly issuing from the large institutions . . .

The privately controlled colleges are providing the public with higher education of superior quality at a minimum cost to the public. They are a bulwark of independent education, a most essential ingredient of sound social ideology. The endowed colleges deserve a sympathetic attitude on the part of the public because they are both effective and economical. They should not be destroyed by supplanting with tax-supported institutions merely as a phase of socialistic control as against private control of public services. To do so would incur a huge public expenditure without gain in quality of public services. On the other hand, private colleges, because of their contribution to social welfare, merit consideration by those philantropically inclined, who have a desire to foster and conserve some of the most cherished values of the American way of life.

too optimistic to hope for early beginnings of a world federation, with two major functions for the present: first, exploration of the economic injustices among nations that will call for immediate attention, with at least a suggestion of possible solutions; and secondly, supervision of the general and progressive disarmament that should begin the moment this war is over, before the world goes into complete bankruptcy? —From "Peace Action"

—New Hymn Book Coming along Nicely.—Many of our churches and individual members will be interested to learn that the manufacture of the Mennonite Hymnary, our new hymn book, is proceeding with hopeful prospects. The Methodist Book Concern of Dobbs Ferry, New York, that has the contract for making the plates, print and bind the book, a first edition of 5,000 copies, is doing everything possible to speed the work along. For several weeks they have been sending proofs to North Newton, Kansas, by airmail, where they are read and corrected, and returned via airmail within 12-15 hours. Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, Prof. W. H. Hohmann and the editor of this paper do the reading. Copies also go from New York to Rev. L. Hostetler, co-editor, for suggestions. This proof reading, though interesting, is quite a task. It is fortunate that Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, who has been in the printing business many years, is available for this purpose, as he is a trained proof reader, and is pretty sure to catch even obscure errors. Close to 300 plates are already made, and it won't be long until printing can be started. So there is reason to hope that the books should begin to come out in September. The price will soon be announced.

—BETHANY CHURCH, HENDERSON, NEBR. July 25, 1940.—Dry and hot. Harvest was of short duration again this year. The average farmer around here did not thresh 100 bushels of oats, 50 bushels wheat or barley. Corn is all burned up again. Pastures are very short and dry. Many are selling their cows to save the little feed they have for the winter. We read that in other places the harvest is good and fair, only prices are low. We here who buy feed by the sack in the elevators complain how high it is.—Rev. John Abrahams of the M. B. Church was laid to rest lost week.—The three local churches: M. B., E. M. B., and Bethesda had joint prayer meeting for rain last Tuesday. —A. W. Friesen

—Eden Mennonite Church, Schwenksville, Pa.—In the July Church Messenger it is shown how the application of the draft law would touch this church. The pastor, Rev. Freeman Swartz, in filling out a questionaires, discovered these facts:

Male, 18-65: There are 99 men of this age; 31 work in industrial plants, 14 are farmers, 22are executive managers in some business, one a teacher in a higher institution of learning, one a college student, two are unemployed.

Female, 18-65: There are 89 women of this age; one is a teacher, two are nurses, 11 work in industrial plants, 9 are employed in offices, one is a college student. The fact that the members find employment is noteworthy—is it Mennonite Thrift?

—Tabor Church, near Newton, Kansas.—BROTHER A. J. SCHMIDT passed away this morning, July 22. He was a member of the Tabor Church and served as deacon since Feb. 16, 1939, until his end. He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, 3 sons and 2 daughters. Age 54 years. Funeral not yet arranged.

—The father of former President Wilson, a lean, lank looking gentleman, was a minister in the Presbyterian Church. One day one of his parishioners queried: "How is it, Mr. Wilson, that your horse looks so sleek and well-groomed, while you look so poor?" "Well," said the minister, "this is the explanation, I feed the horse, but the church feeds me."

—Brother Winfield Fretz, from Pennsylvania, who is on a study trip among the Mennonites in the west, but is laid up at Upland, Calif., due to an auto collision, has our heartfelt thanks for a highly informative and suggestive letter, in which he expresses his genuine interest in the forthcoming new hymn book, the Mennonite Hymnary, and offers some very valuable counsel as to how the book may be advertised and our people may be induced to buy and use the book. This is very encouraging and evinces real loyalty to our church and its undertakings. He would prefer not to see his name used in this connection, but honor to whom honor is due.

—First Church, Reedley, Calif. It is commendable to see some of our churches as a body sufficiently interested in preventing our country from getting into war, and in attempting to head off legislation on compulsory military training, by writing their senators and representatives in Congress. This church did this. Among the acknowledgements received is this one from Senator Hiram Johnson, addressed to the Pastor: "Would you be good enough to extend to the signers of your petition my thanks for their cooperation in keeping this country from involvement in Europe. . . We want no war. We can stay out of it, if we have the will.

—First Church, Newton, Kansas.—The ordination to the ministry of Jacob J. Regier took place in this church Sunday, July 21. Ordination sermons were preached by the church's pastors, the Reverends J. E. Entz and A. Warkentin. Fitting words were also spoken by other ministers present, and the newly ordained brother. Altogether ten elders assisted in the rite of ordination by the laying on of hands. The young minister and his wife have already made the Burrton parsonage their home.—It will interest many of the older readers to know that both Jacob J. Regier, Jr. and his brother W. A. Regier, pastor of the Mennonite Church at Los Angeles, are grandsons on father's side of Rev. Bernhard Regier, for many years co-pastor of the First Church, Newton, and on mother's side of Rev. Gustav Harder, a long time elder of the Emmaus Church, Whitewater, Kansas, and treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions.

—Dr. E. L. Harshbarger of Bethel College has a telegram from Ray Newton saying, "Of utmost importance, extend hearing of conscription bill. Need immediately many telegrams to Congressman May urging adequate non-hysterical discussion of such far-reaching fundamental changes in American democracy and protesting passage of the bill. Then need all possible leters and telegrams to senators, congressmen urging non-passage when bill is debated."

—Kansas Experiencing a Drouth.—With ideal growing weather in spring and early summer, which helped produce a bumper wheat crop, a period of excessive heat and threatening drouth has now settled down on Kansas. The corn crop is spoiling and there is fear of a shortage of forage crops. But the people seem to take things good naturedly, many agreeing with the farmer who recently remarked: "We have received the good from the Father above, why not also take the less encouraging with the same thankful spirit?"

—More Worthwhile Contributions.— We have received good articles for THE MENNONITE by the veterans Rev. M. Horsch of Upland, Calif., and Rev. J. H. Janzen of Waterloo, Ontario, for which we are grateful, and we shall bring them as soon as space permits. We also have copies of worthwhile discourses presented before district or ministerial conferences which are awaiting publication. We should have more space at our disposal

—Fred Welty, a Mennonite Young Man, whose charming tenor voice was discovered and then trained while he was attending Bluffton College, and later in the Westminster Choir School of New York, on a trip through the west, sang in the First Mennonite Church of Upland, Calif., recently. He is the music master of the Presbyterian Church at Homestead, Pa.

—First Mennonite Church, Hutchinson, Kansas, is asking each member to contribute at least ten cents to the work of the Western District Peace Committee. That is commendable. The district has a membership of about 10,000. Just ten cents from each member would bring in $1,000.00. But one would expect many members to give more.—A recent Church Bulletin carries this comment and urge: "THE MENNONITE has in it some very interesting material. Timely editorials, church news, special announcements, sermon sketches, information on the work of education, publication, missions, S. S. and young people. Are you a regular subscriber?

—A Veteran One Hundred Years Old.—One of the inmates of the Home for the Aged at Newton, Kansas, celebrated his 100th birthday July 19. The sisters saw to it that the event was fittingly observed. An appropriate program was carried out, Rev. G. N. Harms, his former pastor spoke in German and Rev. C. F. Hartmann spoke in English. What an age and what grace from God to able to live 100 years.

—Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa.—This church reports a 50% increase in their summer Bible School, there being 75 pupils in five classes, with six teachers: Beginners, Mrs. John Unruh and Marion Yost; Primary, Mrs. Olin Krehbiel; Juniors No. 1, Mabel Ebert, No. 2, Elmer Seasholtz; Intermediate, Ella Bolton, with the pastor as supervisor. —Rev. and Mrs. Krehbiel are coming west to visit first his parents at Newton, Kansas, and then Mrs. Krehbiel's folks at Los Angeles, Calif.

—Freeman, South Dakota.—We rejoice with our brethren and others in southeast South Dakota that after 7 or more lean years and hard sledding, they now enjoy the blessings of a fairly good harvest, for which they have been longing and praying. Formerly they had not been used to near crop failures. Says the Freeman Courier: "Thrashing will soon start. There will be a good yield here and the grain will be of good quality." Though the price is not what it should be, the government figures run, wheat 68-73 cents, barley 35 cents, rye 38 cents.

—It is reported that friend John Horsch of Scottdale, Pa. fertile writer on Mennonite historical subjects has been seriously ill, suffering from a stroke complicated by other ailments. May God comfort him and grant him his recovery!

—Deep Run Church, Pa.—Sunday, July 28, Brother Russell Mast, graduate of Hartford Theol. Seminary, was installed as assistant to the aged elder, Rev. A. M. Fretz.

—Mountain Lake, Minn.—Mrs. Willis Rich and four children of Newton, Kansas, are guests here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Penner. Mr. Rich and other members of the Penner family are expected to arrive later. —Mt. Lake Observer

HONORING GOD

Throughout Bible history one finds that the truly outstanding men of God were those who had their mind bent on bringing honor to God. Abraham, Joseph, Moses, Isaiah, Daniel, Jesus, the apostles gloried in their effort to honor God. And the lives of these men and others like them teach us the undeniable fact that the closer a person lives to God and His Christ the more sincere he is to honor Them who are All in All. But as one looks out into the world today, one cannot help to observe that this urge, this habit of glorifying God is, generally speaking, becoming a lost art. As men do marvelous things in finance, in science, in architecture, in industry, in engineering, in surgery, in healing and mending broken human bodies, in conquering disease and eradicating the drudgery of life, the world is apt to give honor to these marvelous performers rather than to God whose instruments they are. And, in the measure that they attract our attention, the people are apt to forget God until the majority forget Him altogether in their self-sufficiency. That is the fault that God found with the children of Israel, that instead of honoring Him who had done everything possible for them, they honored almost anything else. In this connection Moses did a herculean task. God performed one miracle after another for the benefit of this chosen people, to show them His concern and love for them. But, no sooner had they been thrilled by the manifestations of God's power when they forgot Him and murmured against Him and their leader. In all the harrowing experiences that Moses encountered with this people, the controlling passion of his heart was, to teach them to honor and fear God. No thought of gaining honor for himself! Not even when God, tired of the endless annoyances heaped upon him by the ungrateful people, offered to destroy them and to make Moses the progenitor of a new and better race, Moses said in substance, No, God, you cannot do that. The heathen know what wonderful things you have done for them, and they would lose their respect for you if you fail to continue and complete the work you have begun with them. What a wonderful servant of God, this man Moses! the sole aim of whose life was to bring honor to God. Do we honor God as He deserves, in our own life, in our families, in our churches, in our conferences, not only with our lips, but with our deeds, as Jesus and the early Christians did. —T.

IS DAWN APPROACHING?

For over four hundred years we Mennonites have been able to maintain our existence as a peace body, taking the stand that as true followers of Christ we must earnestly endeavor to live in peace with our fellowmen; that it is unchristian to shed human blood, wrong to seal the veracity of our statements with an oath and to baptize people until they understand what it means to have faith in God through Jesus Christ. For holding on to these principles, our forefathers were sadly misunderstood. They have been hated, subjected to fierce persecution and death. But with the grace of God we have persisted in the faith of the fathers to this day. Yes, we have been strong in the FAITH. But must we not confess that at the same time we have been lacking in WORKS? True, we have tried to take care of our poor and needy; we have built and maintained hospitals and homes for the aged; we have shipped clothing to those in need of them and have made some effort to help feed the starving, but we have not been altogether adverse to going by on the other side. Other bodies of Christians have gone beyond their denominational circle to seize opportunities for helping those who could not help themselves. And some of our young people have been feeling that we Mennonites, too, should do more than just preach and declare the principles of peace; that they should be given opportunity to do work among the unfortunates, the forsaken, the destitute, bringing cheer and sunshine where there is now gloom and distress. In last week's MENNONITE our readers were told of the encouraging beginnings made by young people of Goshen, Indiana, in self-forgetting community work. In a Mennonite community in Iowa there is a group of young folks trying to do constructive peace and charity work. The Mennonite Church of Wichita, Kansas, with the help of students from Bethel College and some of our churches made a notable start with work in the slum district of that city.

Yes, the time is here, when groups of young Mennonites may be seen going about doing good works, may be just in their own towns and communities, but in due time also in farther regions. May God bless the feeble beginnings and give the urge to larger undertakings. —T.

TWO NIGHTS IN A CAR

"Two nights spent in a car and stuck in a swamp the third night."

Laird, Saskatchewan, July 10th, 1940

Dear Mission Friends:

During my convalescence from a goitre operation, I shall report on my last Mission trip and work. In the first place I want to express my thanks and appreciation for the support that comes to me regularly.

Since I do not own a car, and since one can do so much more effective work than by going on the train, it is essential that I get the use of a car. At some places the train goes only once a week. To help in the work, the Home Mission Committee of Canada has agreed to pay 3¢ per mile for travel to defray expenses. If the road is good this might be sufficient, but if it is as found on this trip, this amount is hardly sufficient.

We are fortunate in our Rosenort Church to have good Deacon Brother D. P. Epp, who has a warm heart for mission, especially as it concerns our scattered Mennonite groups. Brother Epp has been my chauffeur and personal helper on many of these trips. Since he was my faithful companion on this trip I shall not use the "I" but the "we", a term that I like much better.

On May 26th we left home in the afternoon, after we had celebrated Holy Communion in our Church here. We first went to Speers where a group of ten Mennonite families live, to minister to them the Sacraments, since they have no minister. We are glad to report that 14 took part in this service. After supper we hoped to be able to drive to Blue Bird, so that on the following day we might minister to the Hebron Church, and also to serve the Brethren at Sand Beach and Northvale with baptismal and Holy Communion Services. Our trip was freighted with difficulties. We were told to make a turn at a Church, but they forgot to tell us that it was the second church on that particular road, so finally after much driving back and forth we were compelled to spend the night in the car. On the evening of the 27th, we conducted a Preparatory Service—a service where candidates for baptism were to be examined. Each one to be baptized gave a clear testimony of faith and acceptance of Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior. On the following morning the members all gathered for the Baptismal Service and in the afternoon 47 members partook in the observance of Holy Communion.

Our next goal was a Mennonite group at Debden, near Big River, Sask. Since it started to rain and we were anxious to get to our destination, we left the Church as soon as Communion was finished. The road, however, got worse and worse, and, added to this, a heavy fog settled in the low lands. So we were compelled to spend the second night in our auto. Brother Epp used the front seat and left the better rear seat for me.

A beautiful morning greeted us on the 29th, and, getting an early start, we reached the first of our friends by dinner time. Immediately we called on a number of families and invited them to a four o' clock service at the home of Brother and Sister P. M. Neufeld. Brother Neufeld is the Evangelist in this place and, since he stands quite alone, deserves to be remembered in our prayers. He is faithful in his efforts and looks to the Lord for help. We are glad to report that this group is busily engaged in building a church, and when this task is completed the work will go forward with more zeal.

We went on, and on May 30th we celebrated the Lord's Supper with a group at the home of Widow J. G. Giesbrecht. Here 23 partook of the elements. In this small group we held a Mission Festival. My good Deacon D. P. Epp spoke on Foreign Mission and I emphasized Home Mission work. The collection, which was received at the close of the service, gave evidence of the lively interest manifested by those present.

Toward evening we departed for Capasin, which is 35 miles distant, as the crow flies. The road leads through the White Fish Lake Indian Reserve. Six miles out of Capasin we got stuck in a swamp. Our engine worked, but the wheels would not move! What now? There was no help near. Finally Deacon Epp decided to walk to Capasin to get horses to pull us out. I remained alone in the car in this silent swamp until 12:30 the next noon! Brother Epp and another friend came with horses to pull us out. It was fortunate for me that we had some communion bread, which satisfied my hunger at least in part. I could not help but think of David and the shewbread, when he and his were hungry, 1 Sam. 21:6. About 3:30 p. m. we arrived in Capasin and by good fortune we could send messages home with the school children concerning the Evening Worship Service, which was then held in the school house.

The next day, after careful examination by a mechanic, it was found that no serious damage had come to the car, only 14 rivets had been torn off, and these could be easily replaced. We were truly thankful for this bit of good fortune, since to get repairs to Capasin is a tedious and expensive matter, as trains come here only once a week! Later in the day we visited several families, among them one by the name of Heppner, who a few days before had lost all their belongings in a fire. In the evening, worship was held in the schoolhouse and candidates for baptism were examined. Eight precious souls had decided to become followers of Christ, and these were baptized on Sunday morning, June 2nd. In the afternoon 76 took part in the observance of Holy Communion.

On Monday, June 3rd, we preached the Word and brought Holy Communion to a small group south of Spiritwood, where 16 members partook of the elements. As far as I can recall this is a singular experience, since every baptized member was present. In the afternoon we decided to start on our homeward journey, where we arrived in the evening safe and sound, praising God for all His care.

Extract from a letter by Missionaries Marvin and Frieda Dirks

In the next paragraph or so I am going to try to give you an idea of what Christianity has to compete with in the way of religions. At present there are at least five religions that claim more followers than Christianity. Starting at the top, more or less according to size, Confucianism, Buddhism, Taoism, Mohammedanism, and Llama(ism). This last as you know is the religion of Tibet, far west of China. And we have been very much surprised to find that it has so many temples and followers as it has in China. It goes under several names. It is essentially a kind of Satan worship, and its priests are, upon good authority, practically all contaminated with venerial diseases.

The order in which I named the other religions may be largely discounted, for the simple reason that, with the exception of the last two named religions, the other ones are very much mixed. That is, the people who visit the Buddhist temple ceremonies on one day, may on the next day be seen visiting a Taoist temple, and all of them have a profound reverence for Confucious.

Confucianism, in the strict sense of the word "religion", might not even be called a religion, for in its real essence it has nothing of the supernatural in it and is merly a way of living, set down by the sage himself and by his seventy diciples. Thus, China has been the scene of mush missionary work before the time of the Christian missionary. And due to the fact that the more educated people take very little stock in their own religions, excepting in times of distress, or on the occasion of marriages or funerals, even the common people are lax about the multiplicity of religions about them.

Then here comes a new religion, divided half and half between Catholic and Protestant, about equally strong in many provinces, with the Protestants having the edge in most. Then these again are subdivided into such a conglomeration of denominations, all differing to some extent in their beliefs and practices, and even disagreeing as to what are the central truths and purposes of Jesus' teaching; so that the average Chinese says, and thinks, that Christianity only adds to the maze and confusion of their already complex groups of religious systems.

This all sounds very bad for Christianity, does it not? BUT, when you see them (the people, high and low, rich and poor, learned and ignorant, beggars and priests), in great crowds, going out by the thousands to a temple fair day, or visiting the "God of Wealth", and there amid the smoke and the filth and confusion bowing down with burning sticks of incense in their hands; or when you see them, with sore eyes, for example, rub their eyes, and then rub the corresponding part of a horse of bronze, thus transmitting the disease to the next person who rubs there; THEN, you see that you must overcome all obstacles and win as many to Christ as possible. They must see that the religion of Jesus is not just another religion, but that we have a "Savior", who is unlike their heroes of old, alive today. And even today, in spite of all the confusion and turmoil in China at present, men and women are coming out from all the groups I have mentioned, and join the followers and believers in the Christ. Just today, we have a letter telling of taking into one of our churches a small group of believers, some of whom were formerly Mohammedans. As you have probably heard, we have in Taming Fu and surrounding territory many Mohammedans and also quite a strong Catholic mission. Perhaps I should not mention them both in the same sentence in this way, but I do so purposely to show that we have both to deal with in oud work.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

WHY ATTEND A CHRISTIAN COLLEGE?

By H. L. Linscheid, Freeman, So Dak.

These are hectic days in which we live and, with all indications, the future promises to be even more so. The demands and tests ahead will require of the young people of today a special preparation and equipment. So it may be none too early for some timely suggestions. It is during the summer months that students, who desire a higher education, make their choice of schools. With the following suggestions it is hoped and desired that parents will sincerely help their children in making the wisest of choices. School years are the formative years of life, and all of the remainder of life rotates about the impressions and conceptions formed in those earlier years spent in school. How necessary and urgent that a good Christian school be chosen for our young men and women where they will not be victimized by loose philosophers and unchristian standards.

Several reasons are herewith suggested for your consideration of why a Christian College should be chosen:

1. It is well to consider a college where it will be easy for the student to continue his own church attendance. A student who perhaps leaves home for the first time is keenly aware of his new surroundings. If he can associate with such of his own church and faith, his adjustments will be much pleasanter.

2. Young people have open minds and hence are inquisitive, some even to the point of being critical. The relative adjustment of an active faith and human conduct is a problem on which young Christian people want to be enlightened. They need the inspiration of example set by devout Christian teachers as well as their guidance in precept.

3. In the turmoil of modern trends of thought which are no better than heathenism, young minds get confused and many even get lost in their bewilderment and do not come to the simplicity of the truth and to a pure faith in the revelations of God's Word. It seems cruel to so subject the mind and soul of a young man or woman. The Christian College has as its duty to designate modern pitfalls in human thought and action, and then to point out true attitudes and conduct based on Christian teaching.

4. The Christian College is non-militaristic, it is rather anti-militaristic. State schools require two years of compulsory military training whereby the State already makes reservations and capitalizes upon young men in the event of war. A practical tip to you young men who aspire to further specialization beyond college: take your first two years in a Christian College, preferably four years, and thus avoid military training in the freshmen and sophomore years in the State schools. We need to be wise as serpents and yet harmless as doves.

5. Young people seek vocations. There is no better place to reach a decision and make proper preparation for a vocation than under the instruction of a Christian teacher who knows and understands young people, and under the wholesome influence of Christian associates.

6. Young people seek life companions, what better opportunity can be offered than in a Christian student body.

7. The Christian College gives the vision of the moral and spiritual needs of the world, and seeks to inspire young people to devote their lives to noble causes. May these mere suggestions guide you in your deliberations and choices.

Conscription in Times of Peace

The fundamental question of the wisdom of introducing conscription or compulsory military service in the United States in times of peace is being debated at Washington just now. Powerful interests are bringing pressure to bear on representatives to favor such conscription, though that is contrary to the policy of our country.

Action on the Burke-Wadsworth Bill (S 4164) has been delayed. I doubt the wisdom of trying to tell our representatives how they should vote on every Bill; but no doubt the opposition to this Bill will greatly appreciate an encouraging word from individuals and groups at home. Give them this encouragement at once by assuring them of your prayerful support on behalf of peace and good will.

Peace Workers at Washington

A good many of our readers may not know that a group of Mennonite brethern are in Washington, D. C. these days to see what they can do to save our young men from draft into regular military service, if war should come. The brethren representing us are Orie O. Miller and Chris Graber of the Old Mennonites, P. C. Hiebert of the M. B. Conference, and E. L. Harshbarger of the General Conference.

For those interested we give here extracts from a letter by Bro. Harshbarger:

Today's development shows increasing difficulties and delays for the conscription bill. The Senate decided not to report out the bill until after discussion of the mobilization of the National Guard. Senator McNary said today there wouldn't be a single Republican vote for conscription in the Senate. It seems the Republicans and some Democrats are becoming alarmed at the broad and dangerous possibilities involved in the bill. So even if it passes it is likely to be seriously revised.

I attended hearings before the House Com. today at which the star witness was Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick who came down to plead the cause of the C O, and more particularly to urge the House Committee to accept the amendment which I sent yesterday. It was truly a brilliant performance. His recognized ability, his fairness and his superb tact won the whole committee. Our cause was very ably presented. Later hearings brought repeated statements from committee members that, of course, the C O would be protected. So we feel tonight that some rather satisfactory solution may be found, although many things can happen yet.

Tomorrow we have an appointment with the NYA headquarters to try to get authorization for a substitute oath consistent with our position. We are still taking the position that we are not here to lobby against the bill, but rather to get a well-defined status for the C O and are cordially received.

ANNOUNCEMENT

In spite of the war in China, new workers are ready to go out. The Lord willing Brother Lester Wuethrich and his wife, Agnes (Harder) Wuethrich, are to be ordained as missionaries to China, at the Emmaus Church, near Whitewater, Kan., on Sunday afternoon, August 18, at 2:30 o'clock. He is from the Swiss church and she from the Emmaus church.

SIN

By J. H. Janzen, Waterloo, Ontario

"Sin!—What a horrible word!—invented to scare people into obedience to those who want to rule over them without being fit to rule, neither by the strength of their arm, or arms, nor by the strength of their spirit. If strong and free people approach a weakling to do away with him, and he knows that he has neither a legal, nor a moral right to reign, and no strength whatsoever to defend his position, he cries out, Sin!—Eternal punishment!—and the wave that rose against him must abate, leaving the impotent weakling as a ruler on his throne to continue his parasite life at the cost of the strength and happiness of the people that were foolish enough to shrink away from him in superstitious fear of the magic word, Sin!"

It was not a philosopher who uttered these passionate words, but a physician who had ordered me to stop working, to stop worrying, to stop!—to stop!—and to stop everything! To preserve my life he seemed determined to stop me even from living.

Yes, life is a very unhealthy affair. Finally every one dies of it.

I had replied that it was easier to order somebody to stop worrying then actually to stop it. "Well, what makes you worry?" he asked. Being brought up in the idealogy of the Bible and liking the language of the same, I replied in one word, "Sin." And that caused the outburst recorded in the first lines of this article.

My physician is not the only one to believe sin is just an invention contrived for some dubious purpose, only people disagree on who was the inventor.

The English originator of the German idea that the Nordic race is predestined to dominate the world, Houston Stewart Chamberlain, accuses the Jews of inventing that terrible thing "Sin", thereby casting a dark shadow on the otherwise gay human life.

Some think the devil has invented sin, and there might be something to it.—But many of the pious think our good Lord God himself once had to pass away a few idle hours on a hot summer afternoon, and had the angels arrange for him a comfortable seat at a table in the shade of a tree. There he sat down, took a sheet of paper, folded it lengthwise thereby dividing it into equal halfs, chewed his pencil for a while, and then wrote over the column at th right the word RIGHTEOUSNESS, in Capital letters. After a while he put over the left column the caption S I N, and as this word, with only three letters, looked so insignificant against the great, big word RIGHTIOUSNESS, he wrote the three letters far apart and underlined the word heavily.

After that he meditated a little and wrote in the column of Righteousness the first word, "Church", and opposite the same, in the column of SIN, the word "Theatre". Next came "Abstinence" and "Indulgence", then "Humility" and "Pride" and so forth until his hours of leisure were over, and since then exist the categories of Rightiousness and Sin, without any visible reason, deliberately arranged by God, and ordered by him to be either the one or the other.

And these pious people think they were standing that afternoon right behind the good Lord looking over his shoulder, and know exactly what is what, and can judge their fellow men by the writing in the two columns. But the Bible does not explain in such a clear and simple way. It relates that God created the world good, and good only. "And God saw everything that he had made, and, behold, it was very good."

Something evil, and someone evil, must have existed somewhere and somehow besides, and it, and he, sneaked in, in the appearance of a serpent, and made all good things evil. God had mentioned something to that effect to Adam and Eve when he brought them into the Garden of Eden. He then gave them an abundance of fruits to eat, and bade them to eat of all the fruits in the garden in order that they might grow unto perfection. But there was just one tree from which they should not eat, because that might prove harmful to their happiness, and even to their lives. This was the tree of knowledge of good and evil. God wanted the man and his wife to know about evil. Therefore he told them about the tree. But he wanted them to know it by faith rather than by experience, because the latter would prove fatal to them.

A good Professor, of course, has harmless and poisonous chemicals in his laboratory, and he informs his students very minutely about them. And the students had better believe him, lest they experience the effect of the poison on themselves and die.

The Bible does not tell us much about who invented and created sin. But it informs us that there is sin, and that it is very harmful to our happiness and life. My experience in my everyday life tells me the same. That is why I cannot stop worrying. There is nothing in this world that I can indulge in freely and without fear. All the good things that surround me can turn into evil before I even know it.

I go to the table knowing perfectly well that eating is no sin at all. But after the meal I sometimes feel a very distinct pain in my stomach, and that pain punishes me for a sin that I have committed while eating. I did not eat the things which were good for me, but took those which proved harmful. Or I ate too much of the good things on the table, and my eating turned out to be sin to me after all. And so all the good things that I live in, and by, turn into sin for me as soon as I misuse them.

The pious people, mentioned above, invented that sheet with the categories of Rightiousness and Sin for their own convenience. God never wrote such categories down.

Sin is not sin because God ordered it to be so and put the thing in question in the left column of his Order Sheet, but because it harms my happiness and my life. There is no list of things in existence in which we can walk securely and without care. Sin lurks in the best things on earth, ready to consume us as soon as we relax in our vigilance. Sin causes death. Therefore it is Sin.

GOD'S CARE OF HIS PEOPLE

Psalm 23

Introduction

The Shepherd Psalm is probably the best known and the most frequently quoted of the Hebrew songs. It is rightly considered as the gem of all the Psalms. It is brief, of great depth, an unfathomable ocean of truth. Its beautiful imagery is natural to David, the former shepherd lad. He had been subjected to many dangers and the way he was delivered each time convinced him that Jehovah was watching over him. He did not needlessly incur danger. He took earnest steps to protect himself. The oriental shepherd is worthy of much study. He lives with and for his sheep who are more than merely his property.

God Meets Every Want vs 1-3

The foundation thought of the Psalm is in the first five words, "The Lord is my Shepherd." The figure stands for care, protection and provision on God's part: for trust, obedience and following on man's part. David is making a confession of the things he has experienced at God's hands. He has been to him as a shepherd is to his sheep. He has not been left in want for any good and needful thing, and he feels persuaded that he shall not be in the future. He thinks of God as his individual, personal shepherd. It is the shepherd's business to see that all the needs of his flock are go hungry. well supplied. God's character and abundant resources are a guarantee that all our needs will be met. Jehovah's sheep will never lack. No soul need

The Psalmist leads on from the general statement to specific wants supplied. The words of verse 2 are a picture of rest and physical satisfaction. Only a well-satisfied sheep would lie down in tender, green pastures. God's children will find green pastures and soul rest. Four wants are supplied in this verse: rest, food, drink, leading. The rest is two-fold: the passive rest of lying down; the active rest of walking beside the quiet waters. This is a beautiful picture of God's loving care.

The Lord provides for the healing and reviving of our wearied and discouraged souls (v3). With spiritual food, drink and rest of soul—prayer and worship—He restores our soul. Life has its hills and valleys and amidst these He leads us in the right and safe paths.

God Banishes Every Fear v 4

Life has its perils, the experiences of deep darkness, where we can not see ahead at all. Here there need be no fear, for a trust in God banishes all fear. Danger may be near, but God with us is stronger than any possible enemy. When life is hardest and most difficult, then God is nearest to His trusting child. His Word is our protection and comfort.

God Satisfies Every Longing vs 5, 6

Here the figure changes and David portrays God as a bountiful host. A "table" (v5) suggests a bountiful provision as well as a friendly visit with the host. Enemies may be about, but they can not molest us while eating at the table of God, our host. God anoints our heads with the oil of gladness. The anointing with the Holy Spirit is a necessary preparation for the Lord's feast. God's blessings are given in great abundance, typified by an overflowing cup. The child of God receives liberally. David is convinced that God's goodness and mercy shall follow him in every step (v6) in life. We are well protected and secure. There is constant fellowship with God here and throughout eternity. God cares for those who put their trust in Him.

Where the Church Comes In

Right where the handclasp's a little stronger,
Right where the smile dwells a little longer,
That's where the church comes in.
There's where the sun is a little brighter,
Folks treat each other a litle whiter,
And the bonds of home are a wee bit tighter,
That's where the church comes in.

Over its steeple the skies seem bluer,
Friendship within it a little truer,
For that's where the church comes in.
There's a breath from God like a fresh breeze blowing,
There's a stream of happiness, banks o'erflowing,
And the richest reaping from patient sowing—
That's where the church comes in.

When children's lives are in the making,
Or someone's heart with grief is aching,
That's where the church comes in.
Where there's more of singing and less of sighing,
Where there's more of giving and less of buying,
And the strong to help the weak are trying,
That's where the church comes in.

A Spotted Christian

Did you ever stop to think that many Christians are only Christians in spots? Are you? By that I mean our Christianity affects only a part of our lives. Some are "Christian" on Sundays but could hardly be classified as such on week days, perhaps excusing themselves by saying "Business is business." Others, perhaps, fail to take into consideration that one day of the week, in particular, is the Lord's Day. Again others do not take Christ into consideration in the use of their leisure time.

There are some wha are glad to use their talents in earning a living or for their own amusement but are not at all willing to use them when asked to do so in the church or in other Christian work. Then there are many Christians who do not permit Christianity to affect the use of their money but "he is no fool who parts with what he cannot keep, to get what he cannot lose."

Is it any wonder that it is hard to distinguish a Christian from one who is not a Christian! To become "pure in heart" should be the earnest desire of every Christian. The Bible does not say—By their spots ye shall know them. It says, "By their fruits ye shall know them." Do not continue to be only a "spotted Christian."

Eastern District Retreat

Once again our Eastern District Young People's Retreat is relegated to the Hall of Memory, there to remain with the twelve which have gone before. The theme of this Retreat was The Unchanging Christ, taken from Hebrews 13:8, "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today, and forever." This theme proved very timely, for the world today is a changing world, with stability apparently gone; yet we have the assurance of a Christ who is from eternity, forever the same.

The Senior Young People's Retreat was held on June 14 to 16. Rev. Ernest J. Bohn of Souderton was the Retreat chairman, ably assisted by Mr. Walter Temple as Camp Director.

The main course was, "The Prophets and Their Message," led by Prof. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College.

The elective courses were:
Mennonite History - Dr. E. S. Johnson
The Doctrine of Non-Resistance and its Application - Rev. J. J. Plennert
Training for Sunday School Work - Rev. Erland Waltner

Mrs. Erland Waltner was the Girls' Counsellor, Mr. William Shelly the song eader, and Mr. Ernest Leitzel the recreation director.

Saturday evening at camp was especially inspiring. After the Vesper Service, the young people of the Souderton Church presented a Biblical drama, Simon, the Leper. Immediately following this beautiful play, the Retreaters partook of the Lord's Supper, led by Rev. Bohn. It was a true mountain top experience.

The High School Young People's Retreat was held on the following week-end, June 21 to 23. They had the same leaders with the exception of the elective courses. Instead of these, they had a course on religious problems led by Andrew Shelly.

As stated in our Retreat program, "the aim of the Retreat is to help young people grow in the Spirit and knowledge of God; to provide Christian Fellowship; and to challenge them to follow Christ in every day living."

The Retreat leaders have given us the information and inspiration, we have enjoyed the fellowship, and to us has been given the challenge. By our renewed strength, may we who have enjoyed this Retreat, strive anew to live each day for Him, and to show to others that we are anchored on the Sure Foundation, the Unchanging Christ.

2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Reading along line of main topic
4. Offering for missions, or peace work

II. Leader's Introduction:

The word "steward" has had an interesting history in our language. In old England, the word was used to designate a sty-ward, a keeper of pigs. But that was a high office; pigs were valuable assets. The word was gradually used to designate anyone who had responsibility over something valuable that really did not belong to him. In its highest usage, it refers now to man's place as custodian and trustee for all thatGod has given him to use.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

He pledged a tithe. Gen. 28:20-22.
According to His benefits. Ps. 116:12-14.
She gave God all. Mark 12:41-44.
A promised blessing. Mal. 3:10.
To each his dues. Luke 20:21-25.
"As good stewards." 1 Pet. 4:8-11.

IV. For Discussion

1. Should a Christian tithe?
2. If not, what part of his income should he give?
3. What blessings come through giving?

V. Facts for Study

Often the people who have been tithing have claimed that they have received material blessing because of it. Is that what is meant by the prophet, Malachi 3:10-12.

It is said that if all our church members would tithe there would be money enough to carry on our home and foreign mission work, our educational and publication work, our local church work, and in average times also our relief work.

Paul recommended systematic giving. Does Jesus recommend tithing when he says: Ye tithe mint etc,—

What does Jesus say about the use and the abuse of money?

VI. Illustration

Generous Giving.—The floor of the meeting place where the church worshipped was of earth and got very damp and sodden in winter, so that the members were unable to kneel in prayer. One Sunday Mr. Wang and his wife appeared after the service had begun—a most unusual thing. They looked very hot and tired, and we wondered for a moment what were the bulky burdens which they carried on their backs. They came forward to the center of the little group of ten or twelve worshippers, and then each of them laid at my feet five nicely plaited straw hassocks, saying, "This is my present to the church." Knowing their deep poverty I thanked them warmly, and added, "You shall be paid for these." "Oh, no! Oh, don't," they replied; "we can do so little for the Lord's work, do let us do the little that we can." "Where did you get them?" was the question upon everybody's lips, for straw was very scarce at that time, and I had failed to get any one to make them for me. The reply gave further proof of their living zeal. Mr. Wang said, "Well, in the daytime, when we were at work in the fields, we looked for a little scattered straw, and then, after our day's work was done, we went and gathered it up." "But," said I, "working as hard as you do, how could you possibly find time to do this extra work?" "Oh," he answered, "we just stayed up a few nights and plaited them." My heart was very full that day, as I saw these evidences of real devotion to God on the part of these poor peasants, who but a little while before had been in the darkest of heathenism. I could only think of them in their poverty as being "rich toward God," and rich indeed they are in another way also—they are being used in bringing the Gospel to their neighbors and friends.—From a Letter from a Chinese Missionary.

"The Spirit of God dwelleth in you" 1 Cor. 3:16

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude Music of "O Holy Spirit Enter In" M. H. B. 176.
2. Call to worship Psalm 122:1 "I was glad when they said unto me Let us go into the house of the Lord."
3. Scripture reading by a Junior boy, Psalm 1.
4. Sing in unison, all standing, "My Jesus I Love Thee."
5. Leader's opening prayer
6. Three Juniors each repeat from memory 1 Cor. 3:16; 1 Cor. 6:19; 2 Cor. 6:16.
7. An older person may read the words of the hymn, "O Holy Spirit Enter In," and explain it. Pianist may play the melody of the song very softly during this reading.
8. Sing the first verse of the above song.

II. Study Period

Aim, To help our Juniors to realize that we are Christ's, bought with a price, and that even through our bodies we should glorify Him.

1. Introduction

We have seen how so many, many centuries ago God's people built a house in which they could worship Him. At first it was the Tabernacle and later the Temple. Today we call our churches God's houses, but we find several verses in the Bible which say that our bodies are God's temple. We orselves. How can this be?

2. A three minute talk by a Junior boy "We can be God's temple only if we belong to God."
3. Solo "I Am Thine, O Lord."
4. A three minute talk by a Junior girl. "We are bought with a price."
5. One minute talks

1st voice—The temple was holy. We should keep our bodies pure. Matt. 5:8.

2nd voice—The temple was beautiful. We should keep our bodies and minds beautiful.

3rd voice—The temple was used. We should serve Him with our bodies.

4th voice—The temple was dedicated (consecrated). We too should dedicate our life to God.

5th voice—God was glorified in the temple. We too should glorify God with our bodies.

6. Leader's heart talk, "I will dwell in them."
7. Sing prayerfully: "Take My Life and Let It Be"

III. Mission Minutes

1. Read a missionary letter
2. Silent prayer, asking God to help us give more generously for the cause of missions.
3. Mission collection

IV. Closing Moments

1. A girls chorus may sing the song of the month. M. H. B. No. 291.
2. The boys may repeat in unison the verse of the month Ps. 27:4.
3. A Junior boy prays the prayer of the month
4. Doxology

Junior Leaders: Remember our Round-Table. Come expecting to contribute to the discussion; come expecting to get help from the discussion. August 11. C. E. Convention, Bethel College, Room 202.

SERMON SKETCH

by Dillman B. Hess, Winton, Calif.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE, John 10-10

Introduction:

Aspects of Purpose of Christ's Coming
Light and immortality; Pay the Ransom
Redeem Sinners; Seek and save lost.
Reveal Father; Become lamb of God.
Text: To bring abundant life.

I. Men had both physical and Spiritual life before Christ came.

a. Man's life full of guilt and condemnation
b. Headed for spiritual and physical death
c. Alienated life, alien to God
d. Law could not redeem that life.

BUT THE ABUNDANT LIFE IS A LIFE

a. Of Justification through Christ. Rom. 5-18, Rom. 8-2.
b. Of regeneration John 3-6.
c. Of adoption Gal. 4-5.
d. Of everlasting Glory 1 John 5-11, John 10-28, Rom. 4-23.

II. Search for Abundant life is universal quest of the Soul

Many do not know
  For what the soul is crying out.
  Neither where to find it.
Natural desires of man Self preservation, long life

Satisfaction of temporal desires
  Wealth, fame, ownership, success, recognition
Satisfaction of esthetic desires
  Luxury, comfort, contentment, happiness

BUT ALL THESE THINGS ARE NOT THE ABUNDANT LIFE.
  Text: Jesus came to reveal it.

III. Abundant life consists in LIVING NOT IN HAVING
  Not found in abundance of possessions
  Jesus had it yet had less than any man
    Less than the birds, less than the foxes.
  Wealth cannot satisfy hungering soul
    Rich young ruler
  Success in business no guarantee of abundant life
    Matthew, Zachaeus.

Christ came to reveal it. John 17-3
  To offer it. Therefore His invitations
  To procure it. Necessary to lay down life to do so

Abundant life not expressed in length of years
  Methuselah 961, Jesus 33.

Christ came also to Bestow it.
  We are justified by His merits
  We are regenerated by His spirit
  We are adopted by His grace
  We will be glorified by and with Him.

For this purpose lifted up from the earth
  Expressed through: Fellowship with God, Service to mankind.

Conclusions:

1. Abundant life available to every human being
2. Number partaking of it does not diminish source
3. No restrictions or limitations to amount used (Bargain sales, "Only one to a customer.)

Applications:

1. Christ brought abundant life close to us.
   To obtain it we need to come close to Christ.
2. This life must be maintained, perpetuated.
   Therefore "Abide in me."
3. Reject the Gospel and you exclude yourself from this abundant life.
   You alone to blame if lacking

Admonition
  Flee from wrath to come.
  Resist the evil one and he will flee.
  Accept the Son. Believe on Him.
Brother, Sister, Believest thou this? AMEN.

—Eden Mennonite Church Monndridge, Kan.—A very practical way to make a pastor and his family feel more at home and to tie them more closely to the people whom they serve is to procure a home for them right in their midst. This is what the Eden Church has wisely done. They have purchased a piece of property that will make Rev. and Mrs. Walter Gering with family a nice home.

CORRESPONDENCE

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH, ENID, OKLA.

"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all is within me, bless His holy name." Rev. P. J. Wiens very fittingly used this passage as the text for his message Sunday evening, July 28th, at the Homecoming Services here. This occasion also marked the close of the fifth year of service rendered this group by Rev. and Mrs. Harder. Rev. and Mrs. Wiens alos spoke during the morning worship.

Elmer Unruh, a fine young man of Enid gave a talk on "Challenging Youth to Christian Service". Miss Mieka Wiens also spoke in a very interesting way and Frieda rendered a violin solo. Our Choir of about 25 voices and the Ladie's Chorus sang appropriate numbers at both services.

On July 14 a very interesting program was rendered in the church by the pupils and teachers and the annual S. S. picnic was enjoyed in a nearby grove.

Such occasions as those mentioned tend to create a feeling of brotherliness and help to develop group and church consciousness. Though our membership shows no spectacular increase, it is steadily growing. Interest in the various activities of the conference is keenly manifested by liberal offerings and favorable attitude.

The Mennonite Churches of Meno, Goltry, and Enid are cooperating in a joint meeting at the New Hopedale Church at Meno on August 4th, with Dr. H. A. Fast, general peace secretary, as the guest speaker.

IN MEMORIAM

A. J. SCHMIDT, SON OF JACOB A. and ANNA (UNRUH) SCHMIDT, was born June 6, 1886, at Goessel, Kansas, and was called to his heavenly home July 22, 1940.

When he was 19 years old his mother died and he shifted for himself. He learned the carpenter's trade. Next he took up farm work and practiced carpentery as a side line.—On June 11, 1905, he was baptized by Rev. Peter Balzer and joined the Alexanderwohl church. When the Tabor church was organized he became its member and continued to be until his death. It has been his joy and privilege to help build the church and remodel it later.

On April 24, 1913, he was united in holy matrimony with Sara K. Schmidt. Not long after they moved to his farm three miles north of Walton, where he has lived 22 years.—With his wife he celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary two years ago. He became sick with blood poisoning July 11, was taken to the Bethel Hospital July 14, had an attack of pleurisy on July 16, and died of pneumonia on July 22.

We know he was prepared to meet his Lord because he held close communion with Him. The day he was taken to the hospital he was heard praying, "When I stand on Jordan's banks, O God, forsake me not." Saturday night before his death he remarked, "Let's pray all night."

He has been a kind and loving father. We will miss his footsteps, his smile, his kind words, his advice, his love.

He read his Bible often and the verse, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and its righteousness," has been his guide on the way. This verse was quoted at his baptism, his marriage, his silver wedding and when he was ordained as deacon. While serving as deacon it was his desire to serve faithfully.

He has left to mourn his death, his wife, his children, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Schmidt; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goossen; Arthur, Eldo and Evelyn; 3 brothers, 1 sister, 5 brothers-in-law, 10 sisters-in-law, and a host of friends. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon, July 25, at the Tabor Mennonite church. Rev. J. J. Vogt spoke first in English on Matt. 17, 8, emphasizing "Jesus only"; Rev. P. H. Richert, in German, Matt. 25:21; Rev. C. Frey, 2 Sam. 1:26. A quartet sang fitting numbers, and an octet, members of his Sunday School class, sang "Wenn ich am Ufer des Jordan's steh." Rev. C. C. Wedel prayed at the grave.

JOHN SANER was born April 15, 1863, at Herodisht, South Russia. In 1874 he came with his father and other members of his family to America, settling in Logan county, Ohio. In 1879 the family joined a party of immigrants moving to Marion, S. D. Later he moved to a farm near Pretty Prarie, Kansas, where he became one of the charter group that organized the Pretty Prairie Mennonite Church, and his father was the first to be burried in the cemetery there.

In 1884 Mr. was married to Lizzie Graber who passed away in 1888, their only child, a son, having died in infancy. On December 5, 1889, he was again married to Lena Flickinger who became the mother of ten children. Ten years later the family moved to Kingman county, settling on a farm near Murdock. There Mrs. Saner died in 1929. After his retirement last year, Mr. Saner made his home with his children, and since last April with his son in Kingman.

Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. Barbara Base of Cleveland, Mrs. Katie Stucky of Kingman, and Ella, a student at Moody Bible Institute in Chicago; seven sons, Jake, Jonas and John, all of Kingman, Ben of Monroe, Wash., Julius and Christ of Marion, S. D., and Ernest of Cassody, Kansas. He also leaves 27 grandchildren and a great many other relatives. All of the children were present at the funeral services which were conducted at the Bethany Mennonite Church, of which Mr. Saner was a member, the Reverends John R. Duerkson, P. P. Tschetter and E. J. Neuenschwander officiating.

ADVERTISING EVANGELISM

DO YOU WISH TO BE SAVED?
IF SO, WRITE TO "GOOD NEWS HALL"
TOKYO

A simple "advertisement" like this, run for a period of months or weeks in a newspaper in Tokyo, has brought to the leaders of the Japan Methodist Church hundreds of inquiries, and has actually resulted in numbers of people entering the Christian fold. Here is evangelism by advertisement.

The first query from a newspaper reader brings to him from "Good News Hall" a simple Christian magazine and pamphlet, and a card on which he may become a member (and entitled to receive more Christian literature) for the slight fee of one yen (thirty-five cents). If he accepts the offer, he is sent a Christian volume from the pen of Toyohiko Kagawa and a year's subscription to The Kingdom of God Weekly, also edited by Kagawa. He receives also an occasional Methodist publication and a personal letter from a Methodist pastor asking him to write frankly concerning his own personal problem.

The pastor answers the letter that tells of this problem—usually it is quite personal, and needs a reply using all the knowledge of a trained psychiatrist, and sometimes that of a physician.

The Christian answer to the reader's problem is pointed out, and he is also urged to go to the nearest Christian pastor, to attend Christian services; and sometimes a minister is asked to call upon him. As a result of these meetings and correspondence, many men and women—young and old—have through the months been led to accept Christ.

Many of the inquiries come from shut-ins and others who are ill, and the advice of physicians and hospitals is sought. Some are young people who are out of sympathy with their families, and reconciliation is wanted. Some are spiritually needy, and some are economically needy. There is no set reply; each must be answered and dealt with according to personal needs.

In Tokyo, Dr. Charles W. Iglehart has been pioneering in this field of service, and has been advertising in this manner in Kagawa's rural paper. And people have, as a result, been definitely related to churches in practically every province of the empire.

In Fukuoka, the western end of Japan, Dr. Robert S. Spencer has been gathering inquiries from people in some six provinces through advertisements in the papers there. The Rev. Floyd Shacklock, principal of Hirosaki Boys' School, in north Japan, has a theological graduate giving most of his time to answering inquiries and giving counsel as a result of similar space taken in the rural newspapers of that region.

The fact that almost everyone in Japan can read, and that millions read the daily press, has made it possible to proclaim Christian truths by way of the newspaper. —Christian Advocate, June 13, 1940

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Report of the Eastern District Conference—Through the kindness of Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Secretary of the conference, we are the recipient of a splendidly gotten-up copy of the Report of the 142nd Session of the Eastern District Conference. It is a 52 page, 5½x8½ inch brochure, with cardboard covers, fine white paper, good clean print—altogether a fine, commendable piece of work. It starts out with the list of ministers and conference committees. Then follow the minutes of the session, the various reports, the constitution and regulations for the Mennolan Retreat project, resoultions, choice among three invitations for the next meeting place—Deep Run, Allentown, Lansdale, Lansdale being selected—, report of the Young Peoples' Program.

—Rev. John Thiessen Family Visiting on the Bethel Campus—While the Rev. Sam Goering family have been on a visit to South Dakota and a trip East to New York, the Thiessens are taking care of their home. Rev. Thiessen has received a call to serve the South Church, near Freeman, S. D., the church which Rev. P. R. Schroeder served several years, for six months, but he has made no decision as yet.

—MARRIED, June 1, at Presbyterian Church of Sanger, Calif., Gerhard Penner of Beatrice Nebr., with Anna Lichti of Sanger, Calif., by Rev. M. M. Horsch, Upland, California.

—Echo from the Eastern District Song Festival—Two hundred voices, five soloists, and four pianists participated in the program, with Prof. Russel A. Lantz of Bluffton as conductor. The festival was opened with invocation by Rev. Freeman Swartz. Then followed the chorus with four hymns from the Mennonite Hymn Book; "Venetian Song," by Mildred Seitz Clemens; "Rock of Ages", by Gerald H. Kriebel; "Come Holy Spirit", "Bless the Lord, O My Soul", and "The Everlasting Strength" by the Chorus. Solo, "He Shall Feed His Flock", (Messiah), by Helen Baumgartner Kriebel; Solo, "Consider and Hear Me," by Mary Reese Deischer; four numbers by Chorus with Ruth Hunter, Georgia Hazelton, Helen Kriebel and Mary Deischer as soloists. After the offering Master Richard Schantz sang, "Alleleluja" and the Chorus Handel's "Messiah." The program closed with the Benediction by Rev. George Barth and Evland Waltner, and the Choral Benediction.

—The Charles J. Kauffman family who recently moved from Freeman, S. D. to Kansas are now located on the Bethel campus, where Mr. Kaufman has taken charge of the College museum. Alumni Hall, which served the school as a gymnaseum for many years, has been completely remodelled, with the addition of a wide balcony. In this large hall there have now been gathered truckloads of valuable natural history material brought from South Dakota, and several loads of antiquities that had been stored in the attic of Science Hall. In spite of the sweltering weather Mr. Kaufman and assistants are now busy assorting, classifying and arranging the material. The exhibit will be one of the largest and most valuable in this part of the country.

—The Eastern Conference Peace Committee suggests one way of doing something positive during these troubled times will be to take refugee children into our homes and care for them. Those interested can secure information from Rev. Erland Waltner, 818 W. Lehigh Ave. Philadelphia. Pa.

—Mennonite Church, Delft, Minn. Sunday, July 28, marked another milestone in the history of the Delft Bergfelder Church, namely, an organization festival. Rev. John Bartel, our new pastor, made opening remarks and led the program. Rev. I. J. Dick of The First Mennonite Church, Mt. Lake, gave an English message, and Rev. H. H. Quiring of the Mt. Lake Bergfelder Church gave the German message, stressing especially the importance of remaining true to God and standing fast in our faith like our forefathers. He then spoke the consecration prayer for the seventy members that were taken into the church. The men's choir and mixed choir furnished musical numbers. At another meeting previous to this a constitution was adopted for the new organized church. We are thankful to God that we are living in a time when souls are willing to unite with the Body of Christ. —Mrs. Abram P. Baerg, Corr.

—More Good News from Menn. Settlement in So. Dak.— "We have a bumper small grain crop this year. . . . The average yield per acre of wheat is about 18 bushel, oats 45, and rye 22. There ought to be no trouble about the price, because Pres. Roosevelt promised cost of production price and that was all the farmers asked." —Exchange —Something New, a Bible School Rally—The good people of Butterfield, Minn., are planning to have a Bible School Rally, in which all such schools in the vicinity will participate. The exercises will be held in the First Mennnonite Church in the forenoon and the high school auditorium in the afternoon.

—Mountain Lake Territory or rather Cottonwood, county, Minn., is threatened with a rather late grass hopper plague. The jumpers are particularly investing the alfalfa fields and are doing a good deal of damage.

—The Central Conference Mennonites will hold their conference session at Millersburg, Ind. Rev. Paul Whitmer of Pandora, O., will give the devotional address at the beginning of each session. Rev. Orie Miller and Prof. Russell A. Lantz will be the speakers at a Peace program. Dr. J. E. Hartzler will also be heard in several addresses.

—Dr. Abraham Warkentin, like last year, is again going to the Pacific coast to serve as one of the instructors of the California Retreat, and on Aug. 11, he will occupy the pulpit in the First Church at Reedley.

—Rev. G. A. Lincheid writes from Canton, Okla.: Wednesday afternoon (last of July) Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Friesen arrived to take up the work among the Indians at the old Cantonment station. The Indians are happy to greet the new workers . . . Let us remember them in our prayers, for the work here will be trying for them until they become initiated and adjusted.

A SCRAPPED FUEHRER

Napoleon for one short hour
A Fuehrer was of awesome power;
And with his ego overgrown
He seemed predestined to a throne.
But his demoniac lust for rule
And trust in war made him a fool,
And marked him as subhuman scrap,
An ugly blot upon the map.
The man who cared for naught but self
And for the glory that was France
Still has a place on the library shelf
But not in the hearts and plans of men!

SAYS CONGRESSMAN DIES

Congressman Martin Dies says: "There can be no democracy, and no freedom in this country without the Christian religion. If democracy fails in our land it will be because the people turned their back on God. The only thing that will save democracy in the United States is an old-fashioned revival.—There is much that government can't do. It can't take the place of God-fearing Christians."

About the New Hymn Book

The following article is the "Editors' Comments" as they appear in the introduction to the book.

EDITORS' COMMENTS

In compiling this collection of hymns for use in our churches, the editors and those associated with them, were guided by the conviction that congregational singing is of first importance in our church worship. We believed it should be encouraged by providing a large variety of singable tunes set to words that express the religious life and thought of our people. To this end we searched scores of hymn books used by other denominations, as well as those, both English and German, that have had wide use in our own denomination. Probably no one church will use all the hymns included in the book. We trust, however, that every church, whether large or small, will find a sufficient number of hymns to suit their particular needs and preferences. An examination of the Table of Contents and the Topical Index will reveal, at a glance, the general plan of the book and the range of subjects covered.

A special feature of this book is the placing in separate sections distinct types of hymns, such as the Chorales, the Gospel Songs, and the Metrical Psalms. Unless our judgment errs, this plan will make them easier to find and more usable than if they were scattered throughout the book according to their subject matter.

The main section of the book, BOOK I, is made up entirely of standard hymns, selected from ancient and modern sources. Some of these appeared in the Mennonite Hymn Book and are here reprinted A considerable number, however, were never published before in any Mennonite hymnal. Some of the tunes are doubtless new to most of our congregations, and a few of them may seem difficult. But we believe that every tune selected is singable and worth the effort necessary to learn it. Leaders are advised not to introduce too many new hymns at once. After new hymns are introduced, they should be repeated till they are familiar.

Chorales

We call especial attention to the collection of Chorales, in Book IV. They have come down to us from the land of Luther and our forefathers and are a part of our religious heritage. Many of them were found in the Gesangbuch mit Noten, an excellent book which served a former generation well. In all of our hymnody there is nothing finer than these Chorales. They are noble, dignified and powerful. The melodies originally come from tunes which the masses were singing—many of them folk tunes—and are easy to sing. The harmonies are rich and satisfying and especially effective when sung by large groups. In some quarters the congregation is encouraged to sing the melody only. While the Chorales are admirably adapted for unison singing, the practice of singing them in four parts, as has been customary in our church for many years, should not be discontinued. There are no rules for singing the Chorales correctly. They should not be sung in a dragging manner, and certainly not too fast. The Chorales permit of no sentimental or "pretty" effects of shading.

Choirs will find the Chorales, as well as many other hymns in the book, invaluable for special numbers to be sung as anthems. In our opinion, our church music would undergo distinct improvement if much of the anthem literature, now in use, were discarded and these great Chorales and hymns substituted for choir use.

The Metrical Psalms

The Metrical Psalms found in Book V, we believe to be very practical. They can be used whenever a psalm is appropriate. The Psalm tunes are melodiuos, stately, tender; resembling, except for their brevity, the Chorale tunes. They had their origin among the French, Scotch and English people of Reformation days and were written for congregational singing. The paraphrases, though quaint in spots, are interesting and beautiful.

A word should be said regarding the Hymns for Children, Book II. This section is included here, because we believe that the children should early come to know that the hymn book is their book. The church cannot afford to neglect the chillren. Some of the numbers are for small children and alert teachers and leaders will examine the text carefully before making selections for any particular age group.

Children should be encouraged to sing with a light flute-like tone of voice and not permitted to shout. In most cases they will sing in a more lively tempo than adults. A further very necessary word is in order: .Children should learn many of the standard hymns in the main body of the book. It is a mistake to confine their singing to simple hymns written for them. There are very few hymn tunes that children will not easily learn by rote and enjoy singing if given an opportunity to do so. The meaning of the words will unfold as they grow in experience—which is true of adults as well.

The Amens have been added uniformly at the end of each hymn and Gospel song. This custom is of comparatively recent origin but widely, though not universally, observed by modern hymn book makers. The use of the Amen is of course optional. Among the Jews the Amen was used as a response by the people after the priests had said a prayer or doxology, and meant "so be it". All too frequently they are sung today in an indifferent manner, as if they meant little more than Finis—"This is the end".

The Gospel Songs

The Gospel Songs comprising Book III represent a type of church music which has been severly criticised by some and gallantly defended by others. In seeking the judgement of a large number of people—ministers, musicians, and laymen—we found conflicting opinions. Some think the words of the Gospel songs are too self-centered and individualistic in their thought; the tunes, with their snappy choruses too sentimental and undignified to have a place in our church. But many of our people believe that the best of these songs have a legitimate place and with this opinion the editors agree. The music is rhythmatical and easy to sing. On the whole the songs are well adapted for special types of services, particularly revival meetings and other informal meetings. We tried to select, out of the large number available, such as have been used through the years and become favorites with many people. We trust that no congregation will confine its singing to the Gospel Songs to the neglect of the standard hymns in Book I and the Chorales and Psalms in Books V and VI.

The Church Year

In recent times the Protestant churches of all communions have laid increasing emphasis upon the CHRISTIAN CHURCH YEAR, adapted to present day conditions. The Christian Year is divided into seven seasons based on the life of Jesus: Advent, Christmastide, Epiphany, Lent, Eastertide, Whitsuntide, and Kingdomtide (or Trinity season). It also emphasizes a certain number of fixed and movable festivals that are generally observed by the non-liturgical churches. The observance of the Church Year has the advantage of giving a well-balanced, Christ-centered program of worship and adding variety, color and interest to the church life. With this in view we have taken care to supply an adequate number of hymns, easily found in the indices, which are appropriate for all the seasons and special days of the CHRISTIAN YEAR.

Realizing the great responsibility involved in the task assigned us of providing the church with a new hymn book, we availed ourselves of all the help we could get. Suggestions were solicited from our ministers, missionaries, choir leaders and laymen. The many letters they wrote in response were gratefully acknowledged and carefully considered. We benefited by personal interviews with authorities in the special field of church music, especially Joseph W. Clokey, composer and formerly head of the Organ Department of Pomona College; Robert G. MeCutchan, formerly head of the Department of Music at DePauw University, and the general editor of the new Methodist Hymnal; E. Shippen Barnes, composer and organist, and experienced editor of hymn books; and Russell Lantz and Otto Holtkamp of the Music Department of Bluffton College whose criticisms of the manuscript and helpful suggestions were of great value. R. Lantz, together with C. E. Krehbiel of Newton, Kansas, and Mrs. Glen Fuller, formerly of Bethel College, also have our sincere gratitude for their help in the selection of hymns, as well as A. E. Kreider and J. N. Smucker of North Newton, Kansas, who assisted C. E. Krehbiel in the compilation of "Aids to Worship."

After many months of labor, during which we were encouraged and strengthened by the prayers of many of our people, and guided by the Holy Spirit, the long-awaited book, which has been appropriately named THE MENNONITE HYMNARY, has become a reality and is offered for service in all Mennonite churches and homes, as well as others who will use it. We pray that its use may be to the glory of God and the upbuilding of our beloved brotherhood.

TO THE CHURCHES OF THE WESTERN DISTRICT

The Lord willing, the next meeting of the Western District Conference will be held Oct. 23-25, 1940. Is there any congregation or community that desires to invite the Conference to met in its midst? If so please let the Executive Committee know.

We urge that all members remember the work of the Conference before the throne of grace. Pray that we may have a blessed and profitable Conference.

The Executive Com.

Are We Moving Toward Fascism?

Is there any logical reason for going into hysteria in this country, because of the possibilities of a military attack from across the oceans? Is this the real reason for spending billions upon billions for preparedness or is there another more ominous reason? The activities of militarists, munition manufacturers, financiers and certain trends in our government seem to indicate that there is. The unfortunate economic conditions of the country; its unhealthy industrial system that keeps millions from full time work which they earnestly crave, to enable them to support their families; the farm problem, the labor problem with their attendant insecurity and discontent; doling out help to certain classes: Such conditions make the soil fertile for the growth of fascism. And they do not make for national unity which is so essential to a democracy. This does not discount the relief measures which the government has applied and which, generally speaking, made easier going. But any efforts, which fall short of alleviating conditions in total national economy, do not tend to unite the people. Will the war threat and the cry for defense be apt to do that? Can the growing discontent in the country be overcome, can democracy be saved and national unity be fostered by threats of attack from an external foe, by the vast preparedness crusade now on? Or may there be an ulterior motive back of all this stir? The draft law, making our manpower from 18 to 65 liable to military service, places at the disposal of the commander-in-chief of these United States, a nation thoroughly stirred up by military psychology, the largest war force that the world has ever known. Is not this exactly what has happened in Germany, where a man with unlimited power and a mighty war machine can do and has done just what pleases him? Isn't this bringing fascism right up to our doorsteps. Might not our country fall victim to a dictator, whether he be the nation's president or someone else? What seemed impossible in Europe, but is a fact now, is it not altogether possible in America? What is the vast army to be used for? For defense? Both of the major political parties have taken a stand against participation of our men in foreign wars. Where is our defense line? Might it not at some crucial moment come to be Europe, as has already been suggested on certain occasions? May God help prevent passage of the conscription bill and give us as leaders men of true wisdom and godly foresight, to so improve our unfortunate internal conditions as to bring unity to our ranks and thus save American democracy.—T.

"ONE GOD AND FATHER OF ALL," Eph. 4:6.—Our Savior bids us pray: "Our Father who art in heaven." Our Father, He bids us say, not my Father. Why "our Father"? Because all Christians should pray for one another and with one another.

When a man becomes a Christian, he is not left to stand alone in the world. He becomes one of God's people, a member of God's Church, the one holy Christian Church, the communion of saints. All Christians are His brethren, all are God's children, just as he is God's child. And he loves his brethren, all of them, and desires their well-being, even as he does his own. Now, how can he better express this desire than by praying for them to his and their common Father? And not only for them but with them.

When the children of an earthly father desire a certain thing of him in common, they bring their combined petitions before their father. And that very fact makes the father all the more willing to hear their request and grant it. So Christians and children of God, whose interests are really the same, can and should bring their combined petitions before their heavenly Father; they can and should pray with one another.

But they are not all together, you say; they are widely scattered, scattered over all the earth. How can they pray with one another? And they do not know one another, either. Scattered? widely scattered? Yes, they are—from our point of view. But in God's sight they are not a scattering but a mighty gathering, or church, the communion of saints. And God knows every one of them. So when they pray, each in his own place, most of them all unknown to one another, and say: "Our Father who art in heaven," etc.,—before God they are all praying together, for and with one another, and the combined prayers of many millions of worshipers rise up before God's throne, Rev. 14:2, as sweet music in God's ears and prevailing mightily upon God their Father to grant their earnest prayer. —Selected

Reminiscences and Meditations

by M. Horsch

It is now two months since we had the privilege of attending the Pacific District Conference in the Immanuel Church at Los Angeles. We had splendid opportunities to draw comparisons between the Conference as it was thirty-five years ago and as it is at present. These comparisons are not at all unfavorable to the present.

Speaking about the personnel, we could note that the leaders of the conference in the past, are almost all gone to their reward. They were God-fearing men and women, with love in their hearts for the Kingdom of the Lord and for our beloved church. With very little theological preparation, but a knowledge of the Word, they nobly and successfully carried on and laid a solid foundation. Upon this foundation, we were happy to note, the present laborers are building. They have taken up the work where the founders laid it down. Faithfully they are shouldering the responsibilities and under the Spirit's guidance, the work is prospering.

Yes, the foundation is unshaken. Christ and Him Crucified is the solid Rock upon whom the Conference is building. May it be our constant prayer that our beloved Mennonite Church will never leave nor forsake this only true foundation. Otherwise we leave no message to a world that lieth in wickedness, 1 John 5:19. Christ our Savior is the only hope for our beloved country, for the world. This we want to proclaim with clarion calls. It is not for us to withdraw from the world, but in the world exercise the true Christian's illuminating force and preserving power, Matthew 5:13-16. This cannot be done by compromises, or popular slogans, but by consistent Christian life and walk and testimony, 2 Cor. 6:14-15.

Another side of making this Conference a very blessed one to us, was the meeting of a goodly number of dear friends whom we had not seen for years. What a joy to meet them again! What will it be when we all may meet in the presence of our dear Lord, when there will be no more parting. No, after so many years we are not the same. Old Father Time leaves his indelible mark upon all of us. What matters it? Though our earthly house be dissolved, we have a building not made of hands, eternal in the heavens, 2 Cor. 5:1.

Next to this was the meeting and making of new friends, dear brethren and sisters in the Lord. They are of the younger generation and are faithfully carrying on His work. Sometimes we wonder just what the future may bring? The trend all about us is toward breaking down all moral and spiritual restraint. Self-expression, fashion-madness, pleasure-madness is the trend of today and, generally speaking, it creeps into the churches more and more. The consciousness of sin and the need of a Savior is being lost. Should this make us pessimistic? Never, in face of our Lord's declaration in Luke 21:28! No room for pessimissism in a Christian's heart. When we were youngsters we heard the old folks complain about the young people and wonder just what the work of the Lord and the Church would come to. They had reasons to complain and fear, no doubt. Nevertheless, our Great Head of the Church is still leading on by His Spirit and we find consecrated men and women doing His work. His Kingdom is extended practically around the globe. He has His own in every part of the world.

We must not close our eyes, however, to the multiplied dangers confronting especially our young people, the distractions and fearful temptations to which they are exposed. It is true, many are swept away by this current tide, but others remain faithful and true to the Lord and His Church. Yes, He still has His own and His true Church is marching on from generation to generation. As His bride He prepares her, especially by the tribulations of the latter days, toward His return to take her unto Himself to glory. Then the Church militant is transformed into the Church triumphant.

When things look very dark and fear begins to clutch our hearts, let us read Luke 12:32, or Matthew 16:18, or Romans 8:35-39, or Isaiah 11, that great description of our Lord's millennial reign. Yes, in spite of fearful war conditions today, He is going forth to conquer and the kingdoms of the world today unconsciously are preparing the way for Him. The death struggle of this old blood-soaked, war-ridden dispensation must be endured and surely this struggle has begun 2 Tim. 3:1-5. Also the birth throes of the blessed new dispensation must be expected, 2 Thess. 2:3. Then the kingdom of the world will be our Lord's.

Naturally, and rightly so, in our troublous times we emphasize our Christ-taught stand as a non-resistent people. Do we realize, that not going to war or not taking up arms to shoot and kill, is the natural, but one of the less important results of tru non-resistance? If our hearts are not moulded afte the Spirit of our Lord and Master, if we harbo prejudice or malice or jealousy, or hatred agains our fellowmen, we are not non-resistant and migh as well go to war. If we are intolerant towar our neighbor or dishonest in our business dealings we are not non-resistant and might as well take u arms. If in our conferences and churches we quarr and fight and have division we are not non-resistant and had better heed Paul's admonition in Galatians 5:15.

More than this, if we sit in judgment and speak with disdain about our European brethren who do not take the same standpoint as we do in regard to non-resistance, who feel conscience bound to serve their country in a manner which to our conception is incompatible with the Spirit of Christ, we are not non-resistant. The true spirit of peace does not dwell within us. They need our prayers and our Christian sympathy but not our uncharitable criticism.

Another matter! If we sit in judgment over one ruler or another and are filled with hate for one or the other, or one form of government or the other, we have not the true spirit of the Prince of Peace, Romans 12:19-20, Hebrews 10:30. Meditating about these so serious matters we realize our own short comings, yea guilt, in the sight of the Lord. We bow in repentance before Him and remember the words Psalmist in Psalm 103:10-14.

Speaking of the world rulers once more, God in heaven surely is using them today on both sides of the present struggle, for His own dispensational divine purposes. They all need our intercession and prayers. A true Christian cannot pray for the success or victory of one side or the other, but does most fervently pray, that God in heaven may rule and overrule the designs of rulers of nations, according to His own dispensational purposes. We have O so many reasons to be thankful to our God, that He has so led us to become citizens of our beloved America. We want to serve our country very loyally and sacrificially, in every capacity compatible with the Spirit of the Prince of Peace. Our loyalty must be positive not negative. Let us never forget that the most powerful deterrant to keep our country out of this fearful struggle in Europe, is the faithful, fervent and persistent intercession of true Christian citizens.

Once more then, what is our sacred mission here in America and for the world as people of peace? Remember, every triumph of the Gospel, every heart yielding to the Prince of Peace, every life consecrated to Christ our Lord, is a step toward His millennial reign. No, society cannot be saved, nor a warless world be ushered in without individuals being saved. Here we see our great mission and the mission of our peace organizations. Not in alliance with world powers, or with the arm of flesh, or with non-Christian organizations can the great object be accomplished, Zechariah 4:6. On the other hand, use our organizations for aggressive testimony in word and deed concerning our sincerest convictions about war and peace. Then, think of the great opportunities now for relief work, for healing the terrible wounds of war. It takes true heroes to do this work. Let us be peace makers and use every opportunity that presents itself. People are getting too war-conscious as a result of pernicious propaganda. May we strive to get them peace-conscious. Leave no one in doubt, not the least our government, that, as far as within us lies, we are determined to follow in the footsteps of the Prince of Peace. If He calls upon us to suffer for His name's sake, He graciously grants grace and strength sufficient in every case. We pray for our enemies and love them for Jesus sake, Matthew 5:9-12.

The word Pacifist, or Pacifism, is misapplied sometimes. There is such a thing as pugnacious pacifism. This is a caricature of the true. We must beware of it, for between it and the spirit of peace, is a worldwide difference. Many Communists, or Marxists claim to be pacifists.

We close with the words of our dear Master, which He addressed to His disciples while facing Calvary: "Peace I leave you, my peace I give unto you. Not as the world giveth give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither be ye afraid," John 14:27. "Blessed are the peace-makers, for they shall be called the children of God." Matthew 5:9.

Greetings to you, brother Editor and all the readers.

VOLUNTEERS FOR JESUS

at Bethel College

"To know Him, and to make Him known," those are the words which the Student Volunteers of Bethel College selected for their guiding motto for the past school year of 1939-1940. This organization which at the beginning of the year numbered about eighty-five seeks to encourage students to enter full-time Christian service at home or abroad. It strives further to provide a Christian fellowship by means of Bible and mission study for others who may be looking to some other field of work, nonethe-less desiring to please Him. The basis for this fellowship is in the firm conviction that the Holy Scriptures are the only sure guide for life and that Jesus Christ our Lord and Redeemer alone is sufficient to spur us onward to the fulfillment of His great commission "Go ye."

The motto given above suggests the two phases of work carried on by the Volunteers. Two regularly scheduled meetings on Monday and Tuesday nights have as their main purpose to lead students into a closer walk with the Savior. Gerald Stucky, the able and consecrated president of the organization, had charge of the Monday evening meetings; they consist mainly of inspirational talks, testimonies, and prayer. Some topics discussed in these meetings are: How to know God's Will, Personal Work, Problems in the Christian life, etc. The meeting on Tuesday evening consists mainly of instructive programs. Missionaries on furlough bring messages; students make detailed studies of various fields of service. Some missionaries who have served the group in the past year are S. J. Goering, P. W. Penner, John Thiessen, W. C. Voth, and Carl J. Tanis.

The second phase of the work is "to make Him known." If "the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord," then there is good news to be shouted forth. The deputation work is carried out along several lines. Last year, besides the scheduled programs in the churches there were three regularly scheduled deputational programs. The weekly services at the county jail in Newton on Monday nights not only have drawn definite decisions from the inmates, but also have been a real inspiration to the participants. The old peoples' homes in Newton and Goessel were visited twice a month.

A new opportunity presented itself in which the Volunteers gladly offered their services. Five young men of the group who are looking forward to the ministry gave messages in a week of evangelistic meetings in the Salvation Army hall in Newton. Others from the group witnessed for their Lord and gave numbers of music.

The deputation work in the churches was a real inspiration to those who served. Twenty-one churches were served in the course of the year. Besides visiting most of the nearby churches, a trip was made into Oklahoma. The various churches graciously and sometimes bountifully gave that the expenses incurred in traveling might be defrayed.

As a missionary organization in your own school we look to you for prayer support. As we look at the various fields we see that "they are white unto the Harvest." But to look is not enough for Jesus speaks on "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that He will send laborers into the harvest."

AN INVITATION

"The Swiss and the Emmaus churches of Whitewater, Kan., herewith extend a hearty invitation to all mission friends to take part in the ordination of our missionary candidates, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wuethrich on Sunday, August 18, at 2:30 p. m., at the Emmaus church.

J. C. Kaufman,

Another Open Letter

To Mennonite Pastors, Mennonite Parents, and Mennonite Young People:

During these weeks our chief task at our colleges is to enlist the student body for 1940-41 Mennonite students and their parents are urged to consider carefully the reasons for choosing a Mennonite College. It is one of our highest duties to bring to our own schools an increasing number of young people from Mennonite homes and congregations.

Dr. Martin Luther had some interesting things to say on Christian Education. In 1530 he addressed a special sermon to the ministers in which he emphasized the duty of ministers to see to it that their young people attend Christian schools. They are: "Shepherds of souls" — "Must keep watch as an obligation of their office" — "For if we are silent and asleep and youth is neglected, we must pay a high reckoning". To parents Luther said: "God gave children and food for them not that you alone should enjoy them or bring them up to worldly glory. You are seriously commanded to bring them up to the service of God." The indifference toward Christian Education, Luther calls, "the devil's chief work", since the decline of Christian schools means the defeat of God's Kingdom. Luther was a great pioneer and champion of Christian Education. He pointed out that both church and Christian society decay when Christian schools languish and that indifference towards Christian Education is indifference towards God's devine order. Accordingly, we face no more urgent divine responsibility toward our young people, toward the church, as well as toward society at large, than to see that these young people attend our own church schools and prepare themselves to serve God and man in later life.

Christian Education is not left to choice. As a modern educator has said, "It is a divine obligation. Its neglect is sin." These fundamentals of faith and life have been neglected in recent years due to the face that the vision of many has been dimmed by an ever-present worldliness. Due to the present crisis, however, the fogs are lifting. People are seeing that Christ, His church, and His institutions are the need of mankind. If, in this conviction, pastors, parents, and Mennonite people will work together, it will help to fill our Mennonite Colleges with Mennonite boys and girls for this coming school year.

Sincerely,
Ed. G. Kaufman

MIRACLES

translated and submitted by John Thiessen

Miracle No. 2, MA HEIDER

In our neighboring mission I knew an old mother, known as Ma Heider, which means "Mother Heider." Her family was Mohammedan. But in her old age she came in contact with Christians. She saw they had something which she and her people did not have, no matter how devoted to "Allah" they were. She accepted Christ when she was about seventy years old. Normally we all would have said that she, in here old age, had no obligation toward other people any more, and that she was fortunate in having found her Lord in the evening of her life. But Ma Heider did not think that way about herself. She said: "I have now also received this great joy of salvation, so I will bring this to every Indian sister of mine to whom my old body can carry me." She walked from home too home in her own village, and even to neighboring villages to point other women to the Savior, for some twenty years. Humanly speaking she was about finished with this world when she became a Christian; but God chose to use this old earthen vessel for another two decades. That is a miracle.

Miracle No. 3, DADURAM

About a dozen years ago a little boy was brought to Dr. Bauman in our Champa hospital. The people who brought the child said: "Please bury the child." The little boy had fallen into boiling water and was nearly scalded to death. The family could not see the suffering, so they brought the child to the Christian doctor. There was no hope for the child's life, as it seemed to the parents; so they spoke of him as dead already, and asked the doctor to bury him. This, of course, also meant that they relinquished all claims to the child. The little boy was now an orphan. Dr. Bauman took him, and treated those terrible wounds. The little body responded, and after several months Daduram was well. Dr. Bauman then brought him to us at the Manhadih Boys' Orphanage. We took him in, and he soon started to go to school.

About a year or so before we left India for furlough Daduram came to ask me for leave to go to visit his old home and relatives. As first I hesitated to let him go, because he was so very young; and I was afraid his heathen relatives would direct his young mind away from Christ, whom he had learned to love. But Daduram persisted. So after special instructions I let him go. He has gone during a few school vacations. Just before we left India in March 1939, Daduram came to me and said: "When you return to India after your furlough, I believe all my relatives will be Christians." The miracle—a boy considered dead, now leading his relatives to Christ. —Translated

Miracle No. 4, KOKAS

Our Christian brother Kokas of India (at Manhadih mission station) is a very "earthen" vessel when it comes to controlling his temper. His vocation is that of a huckster. In this work of trading here and there he sometimes tries to pull off something which is not on a very high ethical level; and so he is occasionally called before the church council. Once he was even disciplined by the church because of dealing too sharply with some non-Christian people. That made his anger blaze against the church. But after a few sober conversations with him he saw that the Christian church cannot afford to wink at sin. It took him several months, however, to "sweeten" again toward the church, yet in that time when he harbored bitterness in his heart against the church he did not fail to tell non-Christian people about Christ everywhere he went; and he trades far and wide. He frankly says that there is a cross in Christianity, but there is also an Almighty One who helps us bear that cross. It seems to us a real miracle that God uses this hot-tempered brother as a witness for Christ, yet that is taking place in India.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. NEUENSCHWANDER, Secretary

Rosemary, Alberta, July 16th, 1940

Dear Friends in Christ:

With joy I can report that during the past three months I was permitted to sow the seed of the Word, and I pray that the Lord might richly bless the effort.

During April the roads were so bad that it was possible to visit only a few places with Gospel messages and the bringing of the Holy Communion.

But from May 16 till July 7, I was out every day with very few exceptions, looking after the scattered Mennonite families. Worship Services were conducted, Catechism instruction was given and as occasion arose Baptismal and Communion Services were held. In addition many homes were visited, the old and the sick in homes or hospitals were not overlooked. On all these visits it was our purpose to give help and encouragement, also comfort as it was needed, by the use of Scripture and prayer.

Everywhere I served the people came together in large numbers, both young and old, to hear the Gospel. Naturally this is encouraging to the speaker and it was with much joy that we preached the unsearchable riches of Christ, and his atoning death on the Cross. The Lord graciously gave the necessary strength to do this work.

Wherever it was my privilege to serve, the outlook for a harvest is indeed quite good, in the past we have had many disappointments, but we always have new hope.

I am grateful that support has come to enable me to carry on and preach. May the Lord's blessings rest upon all such efforts.

With kindest greetings, I beg to remain,
C. D. Harder

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

BACK TO GOD IN EDUCATION

By Mark Fakkema

Church schools for higher education have long been recognized as necessary to the best interests of the faith and life of our young people. The need of church-directed grade schools is also being laid upon the hearts of some devoted Christians. This article, selected by a brother, sets forth this need.

"THEY HAVE TAKEN AWAY MY LORD."

This is the just complaint which every truly God-fearing Christian must make concerning secularized instruction. The secularism of the schools of our land has dismissed God from His world. It has banished the Creator from creation. It has disowned "the Lord of all." What the fool has said in his heart is now by implication proclaimed from the educational housetops.

Let those who use the name of Christ awaken to the full meaning of this. Two devastating consequences are inevitable.

Deprive education of its vertical relation to God and we deprive it of its fundamental educative character. If a man is a fool who says in his heart there is no God, what must we say of the school which implicitly, if not explicitly, teaches that there is no God? The soul of education is the education of the soul. But what must we say of an education that denies the very existence of the soul? Education without religion is a sharpening of tools without giving direction as to their use. Worse than that, given a depraved human nature, education without religion is education seeking its own depraved level unhindered. Education without God is an engine without a governor. More than that, due to man's fallen state, education without God is an engine in reverse. "Without religious motive," says Wyatt Brown, "any education is adding power to irresponsibility."

If we adhere to the Biblical principle of education and make the fear of Jehovah the beginning, the chief part, of knowledge, blessings will extend not only to the field of education but also to the fields for which education prepares. On the other hand, if we remove our Lord from the scene of educational endeavor—and thereby remove "the fear of the Lord"—we undermine knowledge in its most vital and vitalizing aspect. The truth of these Biblical maxims is forcefully brought home to every one of us who is at all conversant with the apostatizing tendency in modern churches and the demoralizing tendency as expressed in the present day, ever-increasing figures concerning juvenile delinquency, crime, lawlessness, divorce, and the general moral breakdown of modern social life.

But there is more: An education without God dishonors our God. If there is anything that we . . . hold high it is the honor of our God. Our God is a jealous God. He will not brook our disowning of Him in any field of endeavor—and least of all in the field of education, which is basic and formative to all other fields. How can we confess on the first day of the week that the glory of God is the chief end of man, and during the next five days send our children to an institution which prepares them for a life in which man is set forth as the chief end of life? The Word of God tells us that "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." If the daily, physical eating and drinking of our children should be to the glory of God, should their daily mental and spiritual eating be less to His glory? We contend, do we not, that a life of good works must proceed from true faith, must be in accord with the law of God, and must be to His glory—and must not be founded on human-spun theories of life. If the life of our children should be thus, should their preparation for life consist of daily instruction which does not proceed from faith, which is not in accord with the law of God, and is not to His glory, but which is founded on the false theories of evolutionary thinking?

Not only is the well-being of our children concerned, not only do the future orthodoxy of our church and the moral integrity of our civic life hang in the balance, but also the honor and glory of our all-glorious God is at stake. Indeed, an educational system divorced from religion is a maladjustment of the first magnitude.

SERMON SKETCH

By D. D. Eitzen

PEACE IN OUR TIME

" . . . .My peace I give unto you . . . ."
" . . . .In the world ye shall have tribulation but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

"What do you want?" was the question which an impatient professor asked Dante who had walked a long distance to study philosophy. The heavy-hearted Dante uttered but one word: "Peace."

I. Internal Peace

In that response Dante gave evidence of profound insight. All of man's strivings for wealth, pleasure, fame, power and knowledge are but the unconscious manifestations of a restless soul. Material advantages are sought in the hope that they will afford inward peace. Life teaches, however, that the faster and harder we drive ourselves to achievement, the less we have of peace.

"Why is this true?" we naturally ask. Because peace is a state of relaxness based on confidence. The beginning swimmer struggles frantically and not too successfully. But he who, conscious of and implicitly confident in the infinite buoyant powers of the ocean, relaxes, enjoys a supreme sense of rest and security. This illustration is analagous to the inner peace for man about which Jesus was primarily interested.

Indeed, as our text predicts, we are in times of tribulation. But he "whose mind is stayed on Thee"—he who is always thoroughly aware of and unwaveringly believes in the creative, infinitely redeeming and therefore re-creative power of God in Christ Jesus—he possesses a peace "that passeth understanding." Hence the welcome invitation, "Come unto me all ye that labor . . . I will give you rest," for "By grace are ye saved through faith. . . ."

II. External Peace

Is it conceivable that men and women with a heaven-oriented poise will not have a peace-making effect in the world? Is it further conceivable that social peace is possible without individuals with an inner peace? Jesus' birth was announced by the angels as meaning, "Peace on earth to men of good will." (Moffat translation). A spirit of unity is really "the unity of the Spirit."

III. Eternal Peace

Materiality has within itself the seeds of its own disintegration. But the God of Jesus is "a Spirit" and "from everlasting to everlasting." Faith in Him and the spiritual salvation of man, therefore, is not subject to the laws of material disintegration. The peace of God "passeth understanding" and is eternal.

" . . .My peace I give unto you . . . (therefore) let not your heart be troubled."

Confession and Forgiveness

2 Sam. 12:13, 14; Ps. 51:1-3, 9-13; 32:5

Introduction

David was a remarkable man in many ways. When he had reached almost the height of his power, he permitted a grievous sin to cast a deep shadow over the remaining years of his life. His high position made his wicked sin all the more deplorable. David knew better. Sin is doing that which is contrary to God's will in the face of better knowledge. Sin is deliberately making wrong choices and decisions.

David's Sin 2 Sam. 12:13, 14

God sent Nathan, the prophet, to David to expose very pointedly his sin to him (vs 1-11). He had been responsible for the death of Uriah, the Hittite, with whose wife David had committed adultery. David made a sincere confession of his sin (v13). He felt the enormity of his sin against God. Strictly speaking, the evildoer wrongs his fellows, commits crimes against the state, and sins against God. Nathan assured him that God forgave him and would not exact the law's penalty of death (Lev. 20:10). David's sin—he being the King did not excuse it—brought great dishonor upon God and His cause (v14). David too must pay dearly for his evil course. The child"s death would help men to see God's disapproval of David's sin.

David's Penitent Confession Ps. 51:1-3

David appealed to God's mercy. This is all the sinner can do. This Psalm of penitence never grows old. It is the true expression of the penitent's heart and soul. A true Christian experience begins with the substance of confessional prayer. David could not undo what he had done. The mark and stain of transgression remain with us. God alone can blot them out of His book of rememberance. The brightest aspect of David's sin is the depth and genuineness of his repentance. This is always acceptable with God.

David longed for a thorough washing and cleansing from the evil he had committed (v2). God cleanses us from the vilest sins as a fuller washes a fouled garment, not as a man washes his soiled

Be Ye Fishers of Men

(The story is a true story. The characters are internationally known. So I have had to change their names and conceal their identity. S. T.M.)

"Do you know my friend, Joe P——— of Mukden?"

"Yes" replied a fellow passenger, as our ship plowed the choppy waters of the Arabian Sea in the midst of the monsoon. "I am now going to Mukden to carry on the very work which Joe built up. He left it before I arrived there a few years ago. But I have heard a wonderful story of his work for Christ."

The story? A good many years ago a great war lord and bandit chief held a large section of his native country in terror and subjection. He was a brigand of first magnitude. His son, whom we may call Tom Lii, followed his footsteps.

One day this young man, Tom Lii, wandered into Mukden. He was attracted to the work that Joe P——— was carrying on in that city. He became charmed by Joe's life and message. Quicker than he realized, he found himself inescapably bound by the message. Christ had been out fishing in Joe's boat, and He had landed His fish.

Years passed. Tom Lii was drawn back into the circle of the rebels. His father was dead. He became leader in his stead. But Christ had driven His stakes deep in His claim upon Tom Lii's soul.

And now the rebels had captured their Prize. The national government would collapse with the Prize in rebel custody. The destiny of 400,000,000 souls trembled in the balance.

Tom Lii passed a sleepless night. The Prize was a Christian. Tom Lii had been one. NO! He would not permit cold blooded murder. The love of Christ restrained him. When morning came he demanded of his fellow rebels that the Prize be released. Joe P——— through his disciple Tom Lii had turned the destiny of that empire!

Be YE—you who read this—fishers of men. Launch out into the deep! Andrew brought Peter to Jesus, and Peter helped turn Jerusalem up side down—right side up.

Who was Joe P——— ? His parents were devout farmers in Eastern Pennsylvania. Their farm was only a few miles from my father's farm. He grew up on that farm and went with his parents to their "Meeting House." He followed Christ, Christ made him, and he turned the course of history.

It has ever been thus. It is thus today.

In the decade before the last world war, she was studying in Geneva, Switzerland. Left and right philosophies buzzed through the Youth Groups of the city, and troubled them to solve the burdens and troubles of a sorry world. She had gone to Geneva to study Art, but she was caught up in the whirl of Youth Groups who clamored for justice and brotherhood. Her heart ached, and her spirit groaned over the ills, the misjustices, the crimes of society.

Then her sister came down from London. When she could stand it no longer, she cried out to her sister in a burst of passion, "Oh, that I might take all the burdens of the world upon my own head and jump into this Swiss Lake." Her sister who had never ben known to utter a single religious phrase in all her life struck her dumb when she replied,—"You needn't do that, Evangeline. Christ many years ago upon the Cross took upon Himself the woes of this world. In Him lies its hope and their remedy."

The inescapable realization of its truth gripped them. They went out by the power of that Cross. For fourty-five years, through them, up and down the country of Tom Lii thousands of men and women found new light and power through Jesus and His Cross.

The Son of Man goes forth today—who follows in His train? He would empower youth today, even as He empowered the Eleven. They followed Him. He made them. Rome crumbled before their message. Come YE after ME, and I will MAKE YOU. Come Ye after Me, and I will make you to be fishers of men. Who follows in His train?

YOUNG PEOPLE HEAR C. O.

On Sunday evening, August 4, a Peace Rally was held in the Alexanderwohl Church near Goessel, Kansas. The main speaker was Dr. Maurice S. Hess, professor at McPherson College. He spoke on his C. O. experience during the World War.

Roland Bartel opened the program with devotionals. The meeting was then turned over to Edwin Stucky, Young People's Peace Secretary. The Tabor Church furnished instrumental music. This was followed with an address by Miss Marie Regier, a returned missionary, on "The Basis of Peace found in the Sermon on the Mount." The Goessel quartet sang. Next followed the address by Dr. Hess. Lastly Dr. E. L. Harshbarger who had just returned from Washington commented on his experiences there.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Senior C. E. Topic for Sept. 1, 1940

Main Topic: The World at Work Eccl. 9:10; Prov. 13:4, 7, 11; Col. 3:23, 24

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "This is my Father's World," "To the work, to the work," "A charge to keep I have."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Roll call, answered by names of those who have done outstanding work in some field, and a sentence or two on the work they have done.
4. Offering for missionary purpose

II. Leader's Introduction

Sometimes work is called drudgery, sometimes duty, and sometimes privilege. Sometimes people wish they had less of it, sometimes the getting of a job, of work seems a matter of not only making one's living, but also of keeping one's mental and moral balance. There is nothing so detrimental or so dangerous as idleness.

Other times when work is so monotonous, hours are so long, labor is so heavy, that there is no time and strength left for anything else, there work is a drudgery.

If a person has his daily work to do which is in a measure suited to his strength and ability, it may not always be pleasant to stick to it and to do it well, but any one with a sense of responsibility will not shirk, and then perhaps work is a duty.

But sometimes, at least when a vision comes of being co-workers with God as Paul says, when a person becomes conscious of the glory there is in honest toil, of the reward in the feeling of achievement and a thing well done, then work becomes a joyous privilege.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. A working people Neb. 2:17-18
2. An insect as a pattern Prov. 6:6-11 .
3. Mind your own business 1 Thess. 4:9-12
4. Timothy advised to be diligent 2 Tim. 4:1-5
5. Jesus, our example Jn. 9:1-4
6. "Laborers with God," Cor. 3:5-11

IV. For Discussion

1. What factors should be taken into consideration in choosing our life-work?
2. Is some work sacred, and other work secular?
3. What qualities make a good worker?

V. Facts for Study

The real uplift in this world is accomplished by folks who become obligated to some duty. The world is filled with people who wish to do good, in their spare moments, when they are at liberty; but the world has been helped by folks who served the Lord under the sense of a constraining Spirit. "Jesus went about doing good" still is a thought worth keeping in mind as we go about doing our daily work. The motive of serving others may become the crown and glory of the many little things which we are called upon to do in a day's work.

VI. Illustrative Poem

If I have strength, I owe the service of the strong,
If melody I have, I owe the world a song.
If I can stand when all around my post are falling;
If I can run with speed when needy hearts are calling;
And if my torch can light the dark of any night,
Then, I must pay the debt I owe with living light.
For any gift God gives to me I cannot pay;
Gifts are most mine when I most give them all away.
God's gifts are like his flowers which show their right to stay
By giving all their bloom and fragrance away.

—Charles Coke Woods

VII. Food for Thought

"The world does not owe you a living, but you owe the world a life."

Informal discussion of topic

"Gambling is unchristian, it leads to all sorts of crimes, to poverty and despair. You lose character and you do, in the long run, lose money. You haven't a chance.

"Young people can do something about gambling by having strong, intelligent convictions about it, by bein familar with the local laws that concern gambling, by resisting every effort to spread the menace of gambling."

Outline for September, 1940

"THE FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT"

Galatians 5:22, 23

September 1—Love, Joy
September 8—Peace, Longsuffering
September 15—Gentleness, Goodness
September 22—Faith
September 29—Meekness, Temperance

Verse of the month: Galatians 2:20, "I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me."

Song of the month: "Here is My Heart." Mennonite Hymn Book, No. 222.

Prayer of the month: "Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, my Strength, and my Redeemer. Psalm 19:14.

To the Leaders. Since September is fruit gathering time, it will be easy for our Juniors to realize that their lives should also yield fruit. Let us be very careful to help them to see that this fruit does not come by self-effort, or by wishing for it, or even willing it, but that it is produced by the Holy Spirit, and is possible only because he has accepted Jesus as his Savior and that Jesus now lives in his heart.

Program for Sept. 1, 1940

Love, Joy

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude Quiet Music

2. Call to worship. Psalm 100:3. "Know ye that the Lord, He is God, it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people and the sheep of His pasture."

3. Stand and sing in unison "Blessed Assurance"
4. All heads bowed in silent prayer
5. Leaders Prayer
6. Responsive reading of John 15:1-8.
7. Solo "When the Lord of Love Was Here" Mennonite Hymn Book, No. 95, verses, 1, 2, 3.
8. Poem by a Junior girl:

"You are writing a gospel,
A Chapter each day,
By the deeds that you do
And the words that you say,
Others read that gospel,
Whether faithless or true
Say! what is the gospel
According to you?

—Selected

II. Study Period

Aim To create in our Juniors a desire to yield the fruit of Love and of Joy, and to lead him to Jesus, the one who can give this.

1. Read in unison Galatians 5:22, 23.

2. All stand and sing one verse of "Love Divine, All Love Excelling"

3. Leader's Introduction

4. Let a Junior boy discuss the first fruit named: LOVE. (He may call on others to read the Bible passages.)

a. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God." Deut. 6:5; 10:12; Matt. 22:37.

b. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor." Lev. 19:18; James 2:8; Gal. 5:14.

c. "Love one another." 1 Thess. 4:9; 1 John 15:12, 17.

5. A short talk by a Junior girl on "Love," answering the following questions:

1. Who puts love into our hearts?
2. Must we show our love?
3. How can we show our love in words? in deeds? in thought?

6. A talk by an older person "The Greatest Love" John 3:16.

7. Let a Junior girl discuss the second fruit named: JOY.

a. "Thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of my heart" Jer. 15:16.

b. Rejoice in the Lord Phil. 3:1a.

8. A story by a Junior boy.

"A Japanese woman saw some Christians pass by her hotel quite often. She called them one day and said that she wanted to know what made them so happy. She saw that they were different from other people because they were always smiling and happy. This is one way in which Christians are different from those who do not know Jesus. They always are glad, and can rejoice no matter what happens." —Selected

9. Leader's heart talk

III. Mission Minutes

1. Tell about the new missionaries that leave for China this month.
2. Sentence prayers for them

IV. Closing Moments

1. Memorize the verse for th month Gal. 2:20.
2. Solo voice sings the song of the month, all others humming the melody. "Here is My Heart."
3. Bow heads and together pray the prayer of the month. Ps. 19:14, followed by the
4. Leader's closing prayer

Western District Loan Library

Summer days with thier strenuous work program and heat will soon be over again; days will grow shorter and nights longer. That gives many people more leisure time to read good books.

The Western District Conference has the fine arrangement that any one can borrow good books for no cost whatsoever, except transportation. Last winter many individuals and churches have made extensive use of this privilege and the Education Committee invites all who like to read to write for a Book List so that they can make their proper choices.

The Conference has advised the churches to take collections for this purpose at least once a year. Many churches are in the arrears. We need the money right now. Please send in your contribution at your earliest convenience to the treasurer of the Committee: E. E. Kaufman, Buhler, Kansas.

hands. David felt a very keen conviction of sin (v3). His conscience would not let him escape from the thought of his sin. His repentance was thorough and his confession unreserved. There must be confession before there can be forgiveness (Ps. 32:1-5). It is usually difficult to awaken a real sense of sin in sinners.

David's Penitent Prayer vs 9-13

David can not bear the thought that God's holy eyes should see his sin (v9). He feels ashamed of it. He feels a great need for a complete renewing, an inner spiritual transformation (v10). Sin defiles the heart and the gospel provides for a full regeneration, the creating of a clean heart within the sinner. Forgiveness alone is not enough. One must be clean and right within. David had lost the joy of salvation and prays for its restoration (v12). He prays to be upheld from falling again into sin. God's spirit upholds us and enables us to choose and do the right. David now being forgiven, cleansed, restored, righteous himself, can be of spiritual help to others (v13).

David Enjoys the Blessings of Forgiveness Ps. 32:5

David states the result of openly confessing his sin to God—immediate forgiveness. Sin must be confessed. God can and will forgive. In His grace provision has been made for atonement for sin. David's confession was accepted, his prayer was answered, pardon was granted and he knew the blessedness of forgiven and covered sin. Evil results of his sin clouded much of his later life. Sin is something from which we can not be saved too thoroughly or too soon. A refusal to confess steels us against the influence of the Spirit.

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes

M. C. Lehman, Berlin, Germany, July 3rd, 1940, air mail letter: "The third day was spent at Kazun, a Mennonite congregation about fifteen kilometers from Warsaw by good motor road down the valley of the Vistula. This congregation of about four hundred members, sixty families, was completely plundered of everything by Polish soldiers and their Bishop Bartell shot as a spy, while about twenty of his congregation were lined up forcibly to witness the execution, among them women and children. In all, seventeen members of the congregation were killed. The bishop's wife, mother-in-law, daughter, one son, and a hired man were all killed in the house when a plane dropped two bombs on it.

Four cases of milk and lard were left for distribution in the congregation, and a number of members visited. The Mennonites of Germany have already helped them considerably, as also the German government, but need of furniture, dishes, clothes, food, implements is still very great. All are farmers. Yesterday we decided to make one thousand dollars available for this congregation to avoid the acute suffering they would have to undergo the coming winter. They are mostly fruit farmers, and the long hard winter has killed nearly all their trees, in addition to their previous losses."

Ernest Bennett, Toulouse, France, June 26th letter:

"The first shipment of clothing has been received from the port and partly distributed. I have arranged to have eight bales distributed among the Spanish children in the Marseille colonies, and among needy French children from Marseille. This will be distributed along with four cases of Quaker clothing that came in the same shipment, and will be given to poor French children who are recommended by the various school teachers of that district. A further nine bales will be distributed at Perpignan among the Spanish refugees, who now seem to be in worse need than ever. The remainder of the thirty-seven bales will be distributed in Toulouse, which I expect to do in the coming few days. There are about 500,000 Belgian and French refugees in this city, and they are in great need. Since this seems to me to be the biggest need at present I have thought the largest part of the shipment should be used here. As yet I have heard nothing of the second shipment."

* * * *

Ted Claassen, London, July 22nd cable:

"Could you arrange entry permit either Canada or States for Hutterite colony. Passage exit permits all in order. Will be interned unless help comes immediately 80 men, 80 women, 192 children, 72 German adults, total 289."

The foregoing cable refers to the Hutterite Brethren, who had been located earlier in Germany and in Lichtenstein, and who settled in England some years ago with the help of English Friends and Holland Mennonites. Recent correspondence received prior to the cable had informed the Committee of the present plight of these colonists in England. Since receiving the cable, contact in their interest has been made in Washington, and efforts will be continued in exploring possibilities for their migration to Canada or the United States. It is, however, very doubtful whether this can be arranged. Brother Claassen has been instructed to keep in close touch with these folks and their needs.

* * * *

Growing contributions from our churches to the several treasuries cooperating in the work of the Mennonite Central Committee enabled sending $4,000 to the three units on the field during July. Indications are that the monthly sending can be increased each month from now on. Brother Harold S. Bender, Associate Secretary and member of the M. C. C. Executive Committee, sailed from New York July 25th, American Export Line to Lisbon, Portugal, from where he will endeavor to visit the work done by our three units, and with our workers on the field work out plans and program for the coming months, and particularly over the coming winter. It is hoped that the Committee's monthly relief budget can grow to at least $10,000 by winter, and that besides this, large quantities of clothing can be gathered and sent.

MEDITATION

If I can stop one heart from breaking,
I shall not have lived in vain;
If I can ease one life the aching,
Or cool one pain,
Or help one fainting robin
Into his nest again,
I shall not live in vain.

—Emily Dickinson

Have you had a kindness shown?
Pass it on;
'Twas not given for thee alone,
Pass it on;
Let it travel down the years,
Let it wipe another's tears,
'Till in Heaven the deed appears—
Pass it on.

ABOUT SUNDAY SCHOOL MATERIAL

There has been some inquiry where helpful Sunday School material can be obtained. The address for the material suggested for the Cradle Roll, ages 1-4; the Beginners, ages 4 and 5; and the Primary group, ages 6, 7 and 8 is "The Standard Publ. Co., Cincinnati, Ohio." The stories are practically all taken from the Bible, are written in language which speaks to the child in a way he understands, the pictures are well done, and the memory verses and songs given are all choice ones!

For the Juniors, ages 9-11; some who have used the material offered by "The Pilgrim Press, 418 South Market St., Chicago" find it very good. If the teaching material, as well as the daily Bible Readings, are utilized by the classes as well as the teacher, and the teacher chooses of the suggested list of activities to express Christian living, this material may prove very helpful. It is worth investigating. You can always get sample material by asking for it.

Those Sunday Schools who prefer to begin using our own quarterlies at High School Age rather than beginning with the Intermediate group, ages 12-14, may find this material also satisfying for this group. For this age group we should have a good course, chronologically based on the Bible Stories, to give the young people a systematic knowledge of the Bible. One year should be based on Old Testament Stories, taking into consideration especially the lives and personalities of Israel's outstanding leaders, one year based on the life and work of Jesus, one on the Early Christian Church and its leaders.

To all our Sunday Schools we recommend our own Sunday School material for the High School group and the adult classes. —Mrs. Gerhard Friesen

NOTICE

Friends will please note that our address is changed from 1312 North Main to 221 WALNUT, NEWTON, KANSAS. Some will remember this latter place as the one where our mother used to live. It is now being remodeled and we hope to make it our home while on furlough.

A Revival at the Door

We hear much said that we need a revival in our country today and to this I heartily agree. But too often people are pessimistic and have little faith or hope that a revival is possible. I often wonder whether we don't have a revival at the door but fail to realize it.

The gospel is being preached over the radio, the pulpit and on the bill boards. People are being saved by such programs as "The Lutheran Hour," "Let's Go Back to the Bible," "Old Fashioned Revival," and "The Young People's Church of the Air," and others. Then next I think of all these camps and conferences and the influence there. One cannot help but note that many schools have dropped the glee clubs and are now going in for choirs.

In our own General Conference I firmly believe that the spiritual health has improved over what it was some years back. There also seems to be a goodly number of young people of high school calibre preparing themselves for Christian service.

Then observing our own church and others one sees souls being saved and the Sunday School and Church attendance growing and workers going out into the field. It may be that the war and the gloomy conditions in the world are waking people up.

Could it be that we have a revival at the door and all we lack is the faith to thrust in the sickle and reap? —Olin Krehbiel

A MINISTERS' AND PEACE WORKERS' RETREAT

Last week, from noon on Monday to Friday evening, there convened at Bethel College a goodly number of ministers with some peace workers. The group met morning, afternoon and evening for discussion, for lectures and fellowship. There were discussion periods from 9:20 to 11:45 a. m. and 2:00 to 2:30 p. m. and lectures in the evening. Some of the subjects for discussion were: What is our Christian pacifist position, historically, biblically?—What issues confront us a peace church today?—What are some of the problems that bother Christian young people?—What methods of work are most native to our Mennonite character and what methods and types of service would best express our basic peace conviction?—What is an effective program of peace action and what kind of an organization would best serve the needs of this program? The leaders in the discussions were H. A. Fast, J. N. Smucker, P. S. Goertz, E. L. Harshbarger, C. E. Krehbiel and Arnold Funk. There were also opportunities for reading, group meditation and prayer. Lectures were given on, "What Unusual Possibilities for Leadership do the Historic Peace churches have in Promoting the Cause of Peace," by Dr. Henry, Methodist minister, Wichita.—"Possibilities for larger Cooperation between various Mennonite Groups in Positive Peace Action," by E. L. Harshbarger, and "Looking Ahead," by E. G. Kaufman.

—General Conference, 1941.—In a year from now the General Conference will be held somewhere in this section. Meeting places under consideration are Souderton, Perkasie Park, Ursinus College, and Allentown. Preparations for this conference have been under way for some time. There will be coming to Pennsylvania some 250 delegates representing 170 churches in North America with a membership over 35,000. About another 200 visitors will also come on this occasion.

—Bluffton College Succeeds in its Refinancing Plan—Under the splendid management of Bro. D. W. Bixler as special financial agent, Bluffton has now been pretty well cleared of debts. In the fall of 1936 the college owed unsecured creditors some $90,000. At a meeting last fall this group agreed to accept, as payment in full, whatever could be realized from a group of assets, such as pledges and notes held by the school. Collections and distribution on these was put in charge of Mr. Bixel and the work was to come to a close during this last July. This has now happened. That means that the debt of $90,000 is considered paid and the college released from obligations to the creditors. What may still be collected on unpaid notes and pledges will go into the operating and endowment funds of the school. In 1936 the college owed $36,610 to various bonks. In a settlement with a Toleto bank these obligations have been reduced to $2,773. Four years ago, the college owed $101,750 in bonds. Today this bond indebtedness to the public has been reduced to a par value of $53,100. —Mr. Bixler and those who worked with him, as well the creditors and friends, are to be congratulated upon the success of this venture and God's name be praised for his help in saving this fine Christian college from financial embarrassment. Dr. S. K. Mosiman of blessed memory did much to bring about this happy result.

—Alien Registration in the United States—Beginning August 27 next and continuing for at least four months all people residing in any part of the United States who are not registered citizens of the land will be given a chance to register for future identification. The law applies to all persons 14 years of age and over, and the registration may be affected in any first or second class post-office within easy reach of the person registrant. This measure has become necessary, the government thinks, as a result of the wars in the world.

—Bethel Mennonite Church, Mt. Lake, Minn. 8-4-40 This has been a blessed day for our congregation. Our newly elected elder, Rev. P. R. Schroeder, was with us for the first time after his recent operation. He read a verse of Scripture, made a few very appropriate remarks, and led in prayer. Then followed an inspirational message by Rev. H. P. Wiebe from the Bruderthaler Church. A male quartette from Henderson, Nebr., offered special music. These boys are working in the harvest fields of this community. Although Rev. Schroeder is to return to the hands of the surgeon in the near future, we trust that the same Heavenly Father who caused him to recover thus far will also aid his recovering in the future according to His own precious will.

The Mennonite

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Jesus Christ."

VOLUME LV NORTH NEWTON, KANSAS, AUGUST 20, 1940 NUMBER 33

Entered at the post-office at North Newton, Kansas as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing as special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized January 22, 1919

Beautify Our Church Grounds?

In the Old Testament history we find that whatever abode God honored with His presence, He wanted it to be beautiful. It was so with the Tabernacle as with the Temple. We Mennonites have not been known to make much of beautifying our "meeting houses" or "Gotteshäuser." They were rather conspicuous for their simplicity. We do not here wish to advocate lavishly appointed church interiors, as is the fashion with the Catholics. For there can be attractivenes in a neat, tidy interior which may be had by the application of wall paper, or other tasty wall covering, paint and varnish, to give it all a fresh, cheerful appearance. We would rather raise the question whether we might not add a chapter to community up-building by beautifying our church grounds, thus making the place where God neets us Sundays and certain week days more attractive and inviting. Near or around many of our homes we have flower gardens, flower and shrubbery patches that delight the eyes of all that see them. But in many rural communities church yards look anything but inviting or even decent. Graveled driveways, trees, shrubs, and in spring and summer grass lawns would exert an attraction. We are looking for ways and means to link up our children and young people with the activities of the church. Here an opportunity is offered. Flower seeds, small trees and shrub seedlings are inexpensive. Under the sponsorship of some energetic Sunday School worker or C. E. leader, boys and girls could be lead to prepare the ground, do the planting, take care of the plots and thus get valuable, rudimentary lessons in landscape gardening that might stand them to good stead in life. Our Field Secretary reports that the Mennonite Church at Herschel, Saskatchewan, has public spirited workers that have managed to landscape the surroundings of the church and, with small expense, to make it a beauty spot in summer time. This church has thus set an example that is greatly worthy of imitation and within reach of almost any other church. Wouldn't our Father in heaven be delighted to see more such attractive spots around our Mennonite churches? — T.

Quakers Offer Volunteer National Service

There is nothing especially new about the scheme for national volunteer service which so excited the press when the American Friends Service Committee announced it recently. The Quakers have been carrying on such work on a small scale for several years. But it is indicative of the timeliness and value of the present Quaker program to find this scheme available for expansion just now when it is so badly needed. The plan is to set up work camps for all sorts of constructive social service by all "whose conscience will not permit them to serve in armed forces or otherwise contribute to the progress of war, yet are earnestly seeking outlets for their energies to aid mankind and to preserve our democratic institutions." As examples of the sort of work contemplated, the Quakers speak of the reclamation of forests and impoverished farm lands, aid for migratory workers in California and Florida, labor on simple housing projects, service in public welfare institutions and private social agencies, and even work in Mexico building rural schools. A certain number of volunteers will be trained for work among refugees and in post-war rehabilitation in Europe. Each volunteer must enroll for a full year's service and must, if possible, pay his own expenses. He must also agree to work at any job to which he is assigned. In coming forward now with a scheme of this nature, open to others than members of the Society of Friends, the Quakers are taking a long first step toward providing that constructive content for conscientious objection which Christian opposition to army service has badly needed. It is not enough for the young Christian who repudiates the war method to register his objection to carrying a rifle or serving a machine gun. He must find some way to make a positive contribution to the health and strength of society. Many of the churches have talked of this necessity; it has remained for the Quakers to work out a practical method of meeting it. In so doing the Friends Service Committee deserves the support of all the churches.

MIRACLES

Translated by John Thiessen

MIRACLE NO. 5, MUNNIRAM AND MINNIE

Some years ago two beings came to our home in India whom we could hardly call human. They were laden with sores and boils, caused by diseases of immorality. The man, about forty years old, suffered because of his own sins. The child, about four years, suffered because of evil heritage. Both looked so awful that we felt like just driving them away. But we quickly recalled that Christ said that He had come not for the healthy, but for the sick; and that we were in India because of the sinners there. We took them in, gave them a little room near the medicine house. The man was called Munniram; the little girl we named Minnie. Both received medicine and good food, and the "Good News." After a few weeks Munniram was strong enough to go to work. He worked as gardener for several months, and then he said: "I have been raised from the dead, physically; now I also want that Savior because of whom these Christians took me and my daughter in." He accepted Christ, and was a consistent Christian for many years until his death, about three years ago. Every time he came to church he quietly bowed and prayed. His place in church was never vacant. Minnie is today in Normal school, preparing to teach India's children. She is a fine Christian and a beautiful young lady. Yes, another of God's miracles, to make from sin-laden diseased people a saint in church and a saint in church and schoolroom.

MIRACLE No. 7, SUNDARSINGH

Sundarsingh has been one of the major problems in our church in Manhadhi, India. He is almost entirely blind. It has always been a question as to what he should do. Sometimes for a long stretch he is a consistent Christian, and then we send him with the evangelists into the field to help with singing and giving testimony. He is a good singer, and also plays several musical instruments. Then all of a sudden he pulls off some unseemly prank and must be disciplined. Some years ago his supporter in America had somehow confused his name, and wrote to India in German asking how "Sunderling" was (The German meaning "the peculiar one"). This seemed to be the right name for Sundarsingh.

In order to help him earn his own livelihood, we sent him to a blind school, and he learned basket making. He knows this work well, and can earn something in that way. But he is "the peculiar one" all the same. Yes, God has used him. I have heard him testify before high and low, saying: "You have eyes that see physical things, but by God's grace, I have eyes that see spiritual things." I have seen non-Christians being deeply touched by his simple testimony. The miracle is that God uses also the peculiar ones among His faulty followers.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

Mennonite Young People for Mennonite Colleges

True Christianity and Christian schools live and die together. Christianity without a love of Christ is unthinkable. A love of Christ without Christian schools to lead the Savior's lambs is hypocrisy. There is no escape from the Savior's simple, haunting words, "Lovest thou me? Feed my lambs." Church history tells us that whenever the church came to love the world more than Christ, Christian education languished and the church fell in evil days.

Our pioneer fathers loved Christ more than the world, and they made the Christian education of their youth one of their chief concerns. As a result the church was blessed and grew. If Christian education today does not rank as high in our concern as in earlier days, this fact should indicate to us the danger signal for our church. For one generation of indifference towards Christian education can destroy what generations of sacrificing love have built.

Mennonite young people for our Mennonite Colleges is an expression of the deepest and truest Christian insight. It is the foundation for a vigorous church and is an expression of the love of Christ. Christ's Kingdom is threatened today. Human beings everywhere are calling to the throne of God, "O Lord, have mercy upon me." The peace of the world has been shattered. Here in America the church is still free, the gospel is still preached. Christian schools may still flourish, and we of this generation must recognize it as our obligation to help preserve these blessings.

One important way is to finance our Christian schools, which are the very bulwarks of democracy and Christianity. Another way, and perhaps even a more important one, is to see that in these our Mennonite schools are found our Mennonite young people. God needs those Mennonite young folks for the coming tasks in His Kingdom. Our church schools exist to prepare them for those tasks.

The personal interest and the personal influence of some Christian men or women will help many a young person decide where to go to college. All of us recognize our church's missionary obligation: To seek that which is lost. Even to leave the ninety and nine and go out into the mountains. It is the very heart of the gospel. God loves us—we love our fellowmen. God seeks us—we seek others. God goes out to find us—we go out to find them. In a very real sense this great missionary obligation applies in our relation to our church school. It is one thing to seek that which is lost. It is another thing, and just as important, to guard that which has been saved. And one great reason that our colleges were founded was to guard that which has been saved—to afford our sons and daughtres an education with a Christian purpose, a Christian content, and a Christian environment.

Our church colleges are the fulfillment of the great missionary obligation. They prepare leaders and teachers of men as well as laymen, pastors, and missionaries to go out to seek that which is lost. It is therefore our Christian obligation to enlist our young people to attend our church schools. Your personal interest and effort is needed. That is the Savior's way of seeking, winning, and guarding souls. That is one way of building His Kingdom.

We close as we began: Mennonite young people in Mennonite colleges. That is the truest proof of our love for our Christ. We ask for your prayers and your help to get our young people to our colleges for their sakes and for the sake of Him and His Church.

Job's Struggle to Faith in Life After Death

Job 14:13-17; 17:13-16; 19:23-29 Read Ch. 3 to 19

Introduction

Chapters 4 to 19 are a part of the dialogue between Job and his three friends who came to comfort him. The theme they discuss is his sufferings. The fundamental idea of his friends is that these are a punishment for his sins. He declares himself innocent. Sometimes he is in the depths of despair; then again he shows much courage and exaltation of spirit. Job's three friends were lacking in humility of mind and heart. They could not comfort effectively because they did not know the grace of God well enough. Merely using words and pious sayings, will not comfort the afflicted and sorrowing.

Is the Grave the End of Life? 14:13-17

These verses are a part of Job's answer to his friends. He prays that he may be hidden in the grave—Sheol, the gloomy caverns where the Semitic peoples believed the dead went after death—until God's wrath would be past (v13). This wish raises the question (v14), Shall a man live again after death? Job is thinking of a renewed life, a life freed from troubles. This is attractive to him, yet he wonders if he may hope for it. He is willing to wait in the silence of the grave until this change, renewal should come. Job believes that God will call the dead to arise, that He will not leave those who are the work of His hands in the oblivion of the grave (v15). He declares that while God notes all of his sins (v17), yet his hope is in God that He will keep him from sinning. Justice rules in God's great plan for man. In the future life of blessedness, the injustice in this world will be rectified.

What Lies Beyond the Grave 17:13-16

These verses are a part of Job's fourth answer. His comforters "heap up words." They see his sick, broken, ruined condition, doomed to the grave, a dark and gloomy place. There seems to be no hope for one whose body has gone to corruption in the grave (v14), yet Job is not without some hope. He is in deep perplexity. He has no visible testimony of a resurrection life (v15). His hopes shall be buried with him (v16). We have the witness of the resurrection fact in Jesus. Job and the Old Testament saints died in faith.

Assurance of the Resurrection 19:23-29

This passage is a part of Job's fifth answer to his friends and expresses deep faith. He despairs of being understood by them and wishes that his words to them might be imperishably preserved so that future generations judge him aright (vs 23, 24). Regardless of what others may think, Job knows that he will be vindicated (v25). The word "redeemer" should be translated vindicator. Job despaired of any vindication in this life. He clung to the assurance that God would vindicate him in the life beyond the grave. So there must be a resurrection body in which he shall see God, who will take his part and vindicate him. Job clings to this sublime hope (v27) that he shall see God as his friend. He sees the resurrection, the future life, as his full acquittal before God. This assurance gives comfort to his soul. He is convinced that death does not "end it all." For the Christian it is a glorious beginning. The desire for a future life is one of the deepest desires of the human soul. Faith in the future life gives importance and real meaning to this life.

Number
A charge to keep I have 214
A gladsome hymn of praise we sing 403
A great and mighty wonder 526
A little Child the Savior came 300
A little seed lay fast asleep 406
A mighty fortress is our God 549
Abide with me 40
Abide with us our Savior 559
According to Thy gracious word 305
After Thy loving-kindness, Lord 589
Again, as evening's shadows falls 280
Again returns the day of holy rest 286
Ah, dearest Jesus, how hast Thou offended 534
Alas! and did my Savior bleed 108
All glory be to God on high 521
All glory, laud and honor 100
All hail the power of Jesus' name (Miles Lane) 3
All hail the power of Jesus' name (Coronation) 4
All hail the power of Jesus' name (Diadem) 5
All hidden lie the future ways 299
All my heart this night rejoices 525
All praise to our redeeming Lord 322
All praise to Thee, my God this night 33
All things bright and beautiful 410
Alleluia sing to Jesus 124
All people that on earth do dwell 594
All things come to Thee, O Lord 612
Almighty Lord, with one accord 390
Amen, Amen 619, 620, 621, 622, 623
Angels, from the realms of glory 81
Angels we have heard on High 82
And must I be to judgment brought 501
Another year of setting suns 381
Another year is dawning! 380
Amazing grace! how sweet the sound 463
Around the throne of God in heaven 405
Art thou weary, heavy laden 143
Are you weary, are you heavy-hearted 476
"Are ye able," said the Master 392
As pants the hart for cooling streams 586
As with gladness men of old 530
Asleep in Jesus! blessed sleep 314
At even, when the sun was set 37
Author of life divine 309
Awake, my soul! and with the sun 26
Awake, our souls! away, our fears! 258
Away in a manger 414

Be still, my soul: the Lord is on thy side 54
Befiehl du deine Wege 558
Before Jehovah's awful throne 272
Behold a Stranger at the door! 141
Believe not those who say 210
Beneath the cross of Jesus 112
Bethlehem, of noblest cities 88
Birds are singing 409
Bless Thou the gifts our hands have brought 611
Bless the four corners of this house 362
Blessed assurance 480
Blest be the everlasting God 266
Blest are the pure in heart 205
Blest be the tie that binds 41
Bread of the world in mercy broken 304, 306
Bread of heaven on Thee we feed 311
Break Thou the bread of life 288
Breathe on me, Breath of God 135
Brightest and best of the sons of the morning 91
Brightly beams our Father's mercy 448
By Christ redeemed, in Christ restored 310

Can a little child like me 435
Captain of Israel's host and Guide 168
Children of Jerusalem sang the praise 404
Christ is coming! let creation 127
Christ for the world we sing 327
Christ is made the sure foundation 277
Christ is our cornerstone 9
Christ, whose glory fills the skies 26
Christ has for sin atonement made 473
Christ the Life of all the living 535
Christ the Lord is risen again 544
Christians, awake! salute the happy morn 71
Come all ye shepherds 79
Come, every soul by sin oppressed 457
Come, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost 301
Come follow Me 565
Come, Holy Ghost, in love 131
Come, Kingdom of our God 269
Come hither, ye children 413
Come, let us all unite to sing 439
Come, let us join our friends above 319
Come, let us join our cheerful songs 17
Come, let us to the Lord our God 146
Come, Lord, and tarry not 129
Come, my soul, thou must be waking 27
Come, O come, Thou quickening Spirit 548
Come, risen Lord, and deign to be our guest 307
Come, Thou Almighty King 8
Come, Thou bright and morning star 554
Come, Thou Fount of every blessing 189
Come, Thou long expected Jesus 69
Come unto Me ye weary 240
Come, we that love the Lord 443
Come, ye disconsolate 243
Come, ye faithful, raise the strain 113
Come, ye sinners, poor and needy 450
Come, ye thankful people, come 377
Commit thou all thy griefs 558
Cross of Jesus, cross of sorrow 111
Crown Him with many crowns 118

Dark the day on Calvary's Cross 538
Darkening night the land doth cover 32
Day by day the manna fell 247
Day is dying in the west 31

Dear Lord and Father of mankind 181
Dear Shepherd of Thy people 279
Deck thyself, my soul, with gladness 552
Die Sach' ist Dein, Herr Jesu Christ 550
Down at the cross my Savior died 464

Eternal Father! strong to save 169
Eternal One, Thou living God 369
Evening and morning, sunset and dawning 555

Fairest Lord Jesus, Ruler of all nature 97
Faith of our fathers! living still 154
Far and near the fields are teeming 325
Father Almighty, bless us with Thy blessing 59
Father and Friend, Thy light, Thy love 63
Father eternal, Ruler of creation 354
Father in heaven, who lovest all 401
Father, in Thy mysterious presence kneeling 188
Father, O hear us 609
Father of men in whom are one 388
Father to Thee we look in all our sorrow 249
Father, we praise Thee, now the night is over 24
Faher, we thank Thee for the night 423
Father, what-e'er of earthly bliss 251
Father, whose will is life and good 326
For all the saints who from their labors rest 317
For common gifts we bless Thee, Lord 176
For the beauty of the earth 51
Forever with the Lord 261
For them whose ways are in the height 166
For Thy mercy and Thy grace 528
Fountain of good, to own Thy love 218
Fling out the banner 331
From Greenland's icy mountains 333
From heaven above to earth I come 527
From the eastern mountains 89
From yon distant heaven 433

Give of your best to the Master 400
Give to our Lord immortal praise 11
Give to the winds thy fears 246
Glorious things of Thee are spoken 274
Glory be to the Father 606, 607
Go forth to life, O child of earth 211
Go, labor on; spend and be spent 231
Go to dark Gethsemane 107
God be with you till we meet again 365
God is love; His mercy brightens 55
God is my Light! 560
God is our Refuge 588
God is the refuge of His saints 257
God's law is perfect 578
God moves in a mysterious way 60
God of our fathers, whose almighty hand 347
God of the eartth, the sky, the sea 52
God reveals His presence 506
God bless our native land 348
God is in His Holy Temple 2
God sees the little sparrow fall 408
God that madest earth and heaven 35
God the All-merciful 351
God's trumpet makes the slumb'ring world 194
God who madest earth and Heaven 573
Gott des Himmels und der Erden 573
Gracious Savior, Gentle Shepherd 298
Gracious Spirit, Holy Ghost 174
Great God, the followers of Thy Son 13
Great God of nations 349
Great God, we sing that mighty hand 383
Grosser Gott, wir loben Dich! 519
Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah 160

Happy the home when God is there 361
Hail the day that sees Him rise 117
Hail, Thou once despised Jesus 122
Hail to the brightness of Zion's glad morning 332
Hail to the Lord's Anointed 65
Hark, hark, my soul! angelic songs 260
Hark ten thousand harps and voices 123
Hark! the herald angels sing 85
Have Thine own way, Lord! 217
He leadeth me: O blessed thought! 478
He who would be in God confiding 571
Hear our prayer, O Lord 604
Heaven and earth, the sea and air 510
Here, O my Lord, I see Thee face to face 303
Here we come with gladness 421
Hide me, O my Savior 483
His name for ever shall endure 591
Holy Father, cheer our way 254
Holy God, we praise Thy Name 519
Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty 1
Holy Lord, holy Lord 520
Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of hosts 601, 602
Holy Ghost, dispel our sadness 134
Holy Spirit, faithful Guide 137
Holy Spirit, Truth divine 136
How are Thy servants blest, O Lord 33
How blest are those whose hearts are pure 20
How brightly shines the Morning Star! 52
How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord 15
How gentle God's commands! 5
How great, Almighty, is Thy kindness! 51
How happy is he born and taught 20
How lovely are Thy dwelling's fair! 59
How sweet, how heavenly is the sight 32
Hushed was the evening hymn 41

I am Jesus' little lamb 43
I am the Lord, O hear My voice 56
I am Thine, O Lord 47
I can hear my Savior calling 50
I do not ask, O Lord 47
I feel the winds of God today 39
I have a Savior 46
I hear the Savior say 46
I hunger and I thirst 30
I heard the voice of Jesus say 14
I have found a friend in Jesus 44
I joyed when to the house of God 59
I know that my Redeemer liveth 45
I know not how that Bethlehem's Babe 9
I know whom I have believed 45
I look to Thee in every need 24
I'm not ashamed to own my Lord 30
I lay my sins on Jesus 44
I love Thy kingdom Lord! 27
I love the Lord 59
I love to tell the story 49
Immortal Love, forever full 17
I need Thee every hour 18
I sing the mighty power of God
I think when I read that sweet story of old 4
I would be true 20
Ich bete an die Macht der Liebe 5
In Christ there is no East or West 3
In our work and in our play 4
In pleasant lands have fallen the lines 3
In the cross of Christ I glory 1
In the hour of trial 1
It came upon a midnight clear
It may be at morn, when day is awaking 4
I've found a Friend 4

I waited for the Lord my God! 585
Jehovah, Jehovah 507
Jehovah let me now adore Thee 569
Jerusalem the golden 262, 263
Jesu! Geh' voran 574
Jesus, and shall it ever be 192
Jesus bids us shine 420
Jesus calls us: o'er the tumult 140
Jesus Christ, my sure defense 541
Jesus, I never can forget 533
Jesus lives! thy terrors now 543
Jesus, Lord, we look to Thee 321
Jesus lover of my soul 158, 159
Jesus loves me! this I know 428
Jesus, keep me near the cross 490
Jesus, my all 468
Jesus, our Savior, grant us Thy peace 157
Jesus, priceless treasure 564
Jesus, Refuge of the weary 536
Jesus, Savior, pilot me 161
Jesus shall reign where'er the sun 341
Jesus, still lead on 574
Jesus, tender Shepherd, hear me 425
Jesus, the very thought of Thee 155
Jesus, Thou joy of loving hearts 171
Jesus, Thou divine Companion 372
Jesus, Thy boundless love to me 170
Joy to the world! the Lord is come 70
Joys are flowing like a river 479
Joy dawned again on Easter-Day 415
Joyful, joyful, we adore Thee 10
Judge Eternal, throned in slpendor 345
Judge me, God of my salvation 499
Just as I am, Thine own to be 393
Just as I am 458

Lamb of God, most holy 540
Lead, kindly Light, amid th' encircling gloom 162, 163
Lead me gently home, Father 449
Lead on, O King Eternal 399
Lead on, O Father, in the paths of peace 164
Let the whole creation cry 49
Let the words of my mouth 608
Let there be light, Lord God of hosts 353
Let us with gladsome mind 64
Liebster Jesu, wir sind hier 553
Life of all that lives below 238
Lift up your heads, ye mighty gates 523
Light of light, enlighten me 553
Lo, God is here! let us adore 508
Lo, He comes, with clouds descending 130
Lo, the day of days is here 545
Lo! the heav'ns are breaking 434
Lobe den Herren, den maechtigen Koenig der Ehren 515
Lobe den Herren, O meine Seele 513
Look, ye saints! The sight is glorious 119
Lord, dismiss us with Thy blessing 45
Lord God, the Holy Ghost 132
Lord I hear of show'rs of blessing 204
Lord, in the fullness of my might 397
Lord, in the morning 20
Lord, it belongs not to my care 253
Lord Jesus, I long to be perfectly whole 469
Lord Jesus, think on me 196
Lord of all being, throned afar 53
Lord of life and King of glory 363
Lord of light, whose name outshineth 342
Lord of our life, and God of our salvation 278
Lord, speak to me, that I may speak 296
Lord, Thou hast been Thy people's rest 568
Lord, Thou shalt early hear my voice 576
Lord, Thy mercy now entreating 147
Lord, through changing days, unchanging 402
Lord, Thy Word abideth 292
Lord, what a change within us one short hour 183
Lord, who can be with Thee compared? 513
Lord, with glowing heart I'd praise Thee 511
Love Divine, all loves excelling 178, 179
Loving Shepherd of Thy sheep 429
Low in the grave He lay 452

Majestic sweetness sits enthroned 120
Man of Sorrows, now my soul shall greet Thee 537
Master, speak! Thy servant heareth 219
May the grace of Christ our Savior 613
Mighty God, while angels bless Thee 46
Mir ist Erbarmung widerfahren 562
Motherhood, sublime, eternal 304
More love to Thee 472
Morgenglanz der Ewigkeit! 554
My country, 'tis of thee 344
My days are gliding swiftly by 503
My faith looks up to Thee 150
My God and my Father 245
My God I thank Thee, who hast made the earth 177
My hope is built 487
My Jesus, as Thou wilt! 250
My Jesus, I love Thee 216

Nearer, my God, to Thee 202
Nearer the cross! 40
Near to the heart of God 230
New every morning is the love 22
Not alone for mighty empire 355
Not always on the mount may we 98
Now cheer our hearts this eventide 557
Now, on land and sea descending 28
Now thank we all our God 514
Now the day is over 29
Now the laborer's task is o'er 315
Now to heaven our prayer ascending 371
Now to Him who loved us 617
Now to the King of heaven 615
Nun ruhen alle Waelder 556

O beautiful for spacious skies 343
O brother man, fold to thy heart thy brother 299
O children, hither do ye come 534
O Christ in Thee my soul hath found 451
O come, all ye faithful 80
O come loud anthems let us sing 18
O come, O come, Emmanuel 67
O day of rest and gladness 285
O Du Liebe meiner Liebe 536
O for a closer walk with God 197
O for a faith that will not shrink 153
O for a thousand tongues to sing 12
O gladsome light 34
O God of Bethel, by whose hand 167
O God of love, O King of peace 352
O God, our help in ages past 61
O God, Thou faithful God 566
O God, we pray for all mankind 350
O grant us light, that we may know 389
O happy day, that fixed my choice 465
O happy home, where Thou art loved 358
O have you not heard of that beautiful stream 232
O heart of God 237
O Holy Night 86
O Holy Savior, Friend unseen 233

O Holy Spirit, enter in	546
O Jesus, I have promised	212
O Jesus, Thou art standing	144
O little town of Bethlehem	84
O Lord, how happy should we be	255
O Lord of life where'er they be	316
O Lord, Thou art my God and King	600
O Lord divine, that stooped to share	172
O Love that wilt not let me go	175
O Master, let me walk with Thee	223
O Master Workman of the race	93
One is kind above all others	447
O perfect Love, all human thought	312
O pow'r of love, all else transcending	517
O sacred Head, now wounded	539
O Savior, bless us ere we go	44
O scatter seeds of loving deeds	498
O send Thy light	587
O sing a song of Bethlehem	92
O Son of God, we wait for Thee	524
O Son of Man, our Hero	396
O Son of man, Thou madest known	373
O Spirit of Life, O Spirit of God	547
O Spirit of the living God	330
O still in accents clear and strong	294
O that I had a thousand voices	509
O the unsearchable riches	454
O Thou great Friend to all	224
O Thou, in whose presence	470
O thou my soul, bless God the Lord	596
O where are kings and empires now	276
O Word of God Incarnate	289
O worship the King	7
O Zion haste, thy mission high fulfilling	328
O'er the trackless ocean guided	165
On the mountain top appearing	336
One sweetly solemn thought	264
One thought I have, my ample creed	248
Once in royal David's city	412
Once to every man and nation	346
Onward, Christian soldiers	225
Open now Thy gates of beauty	505
Our blest Redeemer, ere He breathed	138
Our Father, who art in heaven	610
Our Lord, His Passion ended	572
Out of the depths I cry to Thee	531, 532
Pass me not, O gentle Savior	474
Peace in our time, O Lord	357
Peace, perfect peace	256
Pour out Thy Spirit from on high	295
Praise God, from whom all blessings flow	618
Praise Him, praise Him	426
Praise Him! praise Him!	438
Praise the Lord: ye heavens adore Him	16
Praise thou the Lord, my soul	513
Praise to the Lord, the Almighty	515
Praise waits for Thee in Zion	590
Pray when the morn is breaking	180
Prayer is the soul's sincere desire	184
Rejoice, the Lord is King	121
Rejoice, ye pure in heart	156
Remember all God's children	436
Rescue the perishing	497
Ride on! ride on in majesty	101
Ring out, wild bells	397
Rise, my soul, and stretch thy wings	200
Rise up, O men of God	230
Rock of Ages, cleft for me	148
Safe in the arms of Jesus	313
Safely through another week	284
Savior again to Thy dear name we raise	43
Savior, breathe an evening blessing	38
Savior lead me lest I stray	502
Savior, like a shepherd lead us	395
Savior, teach me, day by day	424
Savior, Thy dying love	220
Savior, while my heart is tender	394
Savior, when in dust, to Thee	145
See how great a flame aspires	339
See Israel's gentle Shepherd stand	307
See the shining dewdrops	407
Shepherd of eager youth	398
Shine Thou upon us, Lord	293
Show me Thy ways, O Lord	581
Silent night, holy night	83
Since Jesus is my Friend	236
Sing praise to God who reigns above	512
Sing them over again to me	494
Sinners Jesus will receive	466
Sleep, baby sleep	43
Softly and tenderly Jesus is calling	456
Softly now the light of day	36
Soldiers of Christ, arise	198
So nimm denn meine Haende	561
Spirit divine, attend our prayer	139
Spirit of God descend	133
Spread, still spread, thou mighty word	551
Stand up, stand up for Jesus!	193
Still, still with Thee	23
Stille Nacht, heilige Nacht	83
Strive aright when God doth call thee	563
Strong Son of God, immortal Love	149
Summer suns are glowing	386
Sun of my soul, Thou Savior dear	30
Sunset and evening star	265
Sweet are the promises	481
Sweet hour of pray'r!	182
Take my heart, O Father	441
Take my life and let it be	215
Take the Name of Jesus	485
Take Thou my hand, O Father	561
Teach me, my God and King	226
Tell me the old, old story	495
Tell me the stories of Jesus	419
Thank the Lord	376
That man hath perfect blessedness	575
The Church's one foundation	273
The dawn of God's dear Sabbath	283
The day of resurrection	115
The duteous day now closeth	556
The first Noel the angel did say	76
The glory of the spring how sweet	385
The God of Abraham praise	14
The happy Christmas	411
The heavens declare Thy glory	291
The Lord bless you and keep you	614
The Lord doth reign	593
The Lord's my light	582
The Lord's my Shepherd	597
The Lord is my Shepherd, no want shall I know	62
The Lord is in His holy temple	603
The King shall come when morning dawns	125
The morning light is breaking	324
The spacious firmament on high	50
The Spirit of the Lord revealed	570
The stars were silent	77
The strife is o'er, the battle done	116
The wise may bring their learning	418
The whole world was lost	467
The whole wide world for Jesus	340
The work is Thine, O Christ our Lord	550

The year is gone beyond recall 382
The year is swiftly waning 387
There is beauty all around 360
There is a fountain 492
There is a green hill far away 104
There's a land that is fairer than day 504
There is a Name I love to hear 496
There is no name so sweet on earth 440
There is no sorrow, Lord too light 259
There's a wideness in God's mercy 58
Thine arm, O Lord, in days of old 95
This is my Father's world 48
This is the day of light 287
Thou art coming, O my Savior 126
Thou art the way, to Thee alone 185
Thou Grace Divine, encircling all 57
Thou gracious God, whose mercy lends 359
Thou shalt arise, and mercy yet 595
Thou to whom the sick and dying 370
Thou true Vine, that heals the nations 234
Thou who Thyself didst sanctify 297
Though lowly here our lot may be 374
Throned upon the awful tree 109
Through all the changing scenes of life 583
Thy kingdom come, O God 271
"Thy kingdom come!" O Lord, we daily cry 356
"Thy kingdom come," on bended knee 268
Thy way is in the deep, O Lord 242
Thy way, not mine, O Lord 252
Thy Word have I hid in my heart 605
Thy Word is like a garden, Lord 290
'Tis so sweet to trust in Jesus 488
'Tis the promise of God 442
'Tis winter now 384
'Tis midnight and on Olive's brow 103
Today be joy in ev'ry heart 72
To God the only Wise 616
To Thee, O Lord, our hearts we raise 378

Unheard the dews around me fall 39
Uplift the song of praise 366
Unto the hills 589
Unto Thy Temple, Lord, we come 282

Veiled in darkness Judah lay 68
Vom Himmel hoch da komm ich her 527

Wake, awake, for night is flying 522
Walk in the light! so shalt thou know 209
Watchman, tell us of the night 66
We cannot think of them as dead 318
We give Thee but Thine own 213
We've a story to tell the nations 335
Welcome, Thou Victor in the strife 542
We have heard the joyful sound 334
We love the place, O God 281
We praise Thee, O God 437
We plow the fields, and scatter 375
We praise Thee, O God, our Redeemer 15
We thank Thee, O our Father 422
We three kings of Orient are 90
We walk by faith, and not by sight 152
We would see Jesus 20
Wer nur den lieben Gott laesst walten 571
What a Friend we have in Jesus 186
What a fellowship, what a joy divine 489
What a wonderful Savior 473
What Child is this, who, laid to rest 78
What grace, O Lord, and beauty shown 90
What mercy and divine compassion 562
What star is this, with beams so bright 87
Whate'er my God ordains is right 567
When courage fails, and faith burns low 191
When He cometh 432
When I survey the wondrous cross 105, 106
When in the maddening maze of things 241
When morning gilds the skies 19, 21
When my love to God grows weak 102
When peace, like a river 484
When the weary, seeking rest 203
When thy heart with joy o'erflowing 227
When we walk with the Lord 486
Where cross the crowded ways of life 222
While Thee I seek, protecting power 197
While shepherds watched their flocks by night 73, 74
Who is He in yonder stall 96
Who is on the Lord's side 190
Who is thy neighbor? He whom thou 228
Will your anchor hold? 482
Within Thy tabernacle, Lord 577
Word of Life, most pure, most strong 329
Work, for the night is coming 221

Ye Christian heralds, go proclaim 337
Ye fair green hills of Galilee 94
Ye gates, lift up your heads 580
Ye must be born again 461
Ye servants of God, your Master proclaim 6
Ye servants of the Lord 128
Yield not to temptation 477

SERMON SKETCH

By Lester Hostetler, Upland, California

YOUR JOY NO MAN TAKETH FROM YOU

"And your joy no man taketh from you" John 16:22

Most people discover early in life that their joys are very much at the mercy of other people. Somebody else breaks our toys, criticizes our work, insults our dignity, or spreads gossip to ruin our reputation. The cup of happiness from which we are about to drink is smashed by the wilfulness or the carelessness of others. The joy of husband or wife is largely dependent upon the attitude, the words, and actions of the other. The father's joy depends largely upon the child; and the child's joy is made or marred by the temperament of the parent. The employer and the worker, each may have joy or lack of it, depending upon the spirit in which they mingle. In every area of life, in home or factory, in office, school room, on the farm, or in the public service, we are made happy or we are made miserable by those with whom we come in contact.

In view of this truth which is somewhat disconcerting it is good to hear the words of the Master. He speaks of joy so deep that no man can take it from us. It was the last night of His earthly life. He was about to be betrayed by one of the twelve. Soon the Roman soldiers would find him in the Garden to arrest him. Presently He will be tried, spat upon, mocked, nailed to the Cross. All this is well known to Him. Others would do their worst to make His life bitter. But even the sight of the Cross could not take away His joy.

He promised the disciples to be with them. And the presence of Jesus makes the difference in life which gives a joy that cannot be snatched away. A true Christian is still human. You can hurt him, insult him, and taunt him. Reject his love or show ingratitude for deeds of mercy and he feels the sting. But a true Christian, that is, one who abides in Christ and Christ in him, has a realm in his soul which the outside cannot touch. No invader can reach it to destroy his joy. Let us illustrate this great truth.

Take for example the joy one finds in work. There are some who prefer idleness but the majority of us find our greatest joy in work. We plan, we labor, we sacrifice, we give of our time and energy in order to accomplish something. We build up a farm, or establish a business, or found a school or organize a church. Someone will oppose us or laugh us to scorn like the enemies of Nehemiah when he was rebuilding Jerusalem. Someone will criticise, point out mistakes, call attention to weaknesses. It takes all the joy out of work for many people but not for the Christian. His work is hid in Christ; he knows it is inadequate and imperfect. But it is work for Christ; it fits in the program of His Kingdom and in that consciousness he rejoices with a joy that no man can take away.

Or take the matter of one's own character. The Christian is conscious of his imperfections. He knows that he is a sinner, though redeemed by grace. It is easy for people to point the finger of scorn at a Christian and point out the weaknesses in his character. It is often done and the sting of it is enough to take the joy out of living. But in Christ it need not be so. For Christ looks at a life and judges it not by what it is but by what it is possible of becoming. Our characters are imperfect indeed, but they are in the hands of the Master builder, the great Artist, whose work it is to mold them and perfect them. In the commonplace block of marble the sculpture sees a figure of exquisiteness and beauty. In the common human clay, lost, stained and imperfect, Christ sees personality capable of growing more and more unto His own likeness. In that there is a joy which no man can take away.

We are living in days of great uncertainty. What we hold to be very precious today may be snatched from us tomorrow through the brutality and greed of men. In Christ we have that which is permanent. Amid the sorrows of life it is still possible, through Christ, to experience the joy which no man can take from you.

GUIDE BOOK FOR MISSION SOCIETIES READY

Since most of the program committees of the missionary societies make out their programs for the year before the next issue of the News and Notes appears, we take this opportunity to inform our societies that the new Guide Books with suggested programs for 1940-1941 are now ready. The Literature Committee has especially planned these books for society leaders but any one interested in them, regardless of their position in their missionary society, is welcome to a copy as long as they last. They can be ordered from any one of the Literature Committee: Mrs. A. J. Neuenschwander, Quakertown, Pa.; Mrs. A. E. Kreider, North Newton, Kansas; or Mrs. J. S. Schultz, Bluffton, Ohio.

SHOULD CHURCH MEMBERS CALL ON THE PASTOR?

(A Swiss Christian Paper, "La Vie Protestante" (The Protestant Life) has the following to say upon this subject):

When you have a toothache you go to your dentist. When you have a pain you go to your doctor. When you need a pair of shoes you go to a shoe store. When you have any important affair, you upset your routine and go to your banker, lawyer, notary, government office, or the principal of your children's school. But when you have something wrong with your soul you stop going to church, stay at home full of bitterness and wait for years for your pastor to call on you. When he arrives you heap reproaches upon him. Is it normal? Your pastor has office hours, and a telephone. What are you waiting for?

WORLD PEACE PRAYER DAY, SUNDAY, SEPT. 8.—President Roosevelt has set aside this Sunday as a day of prayer on which Americans of every creed and denomination should ask God "to grant to this land and the troubled world a righteous and enduring peace. When every succeeding day brings sad news of suffering and disaster abroad, we are especially conscious of the divine power and it is seemly that we should pray for God's blessing on our country and for the establishment of a just and permanent peace among all the nations." —Bravo for Methodist Youth!—Methodist Youth sent this in a telegram to the President of the United States: "Youth does not want to be conscripted. Peace time enrollment for national discipline is a step toward dictatorship. It is not a defense measure but it is a method of escape from domestic problems like unemployment. It is the same method that Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin have used . . . ."

A Mountain Top Experience

By Onieta J. Tiahrt

Camp Wood, near Elmdale, Kansas, was the scene of the recent Western District Conference Young People's Retreat. It was hot, yes, and windy, too, but such physical discomforts were forgotten as we searched for a better understanding of the works of God and for a better way of life for ourselves.

At Quiet Hour each morning, Miss Amelia Miller led us away from our own petty cares into a realm of quietness where we had time to appreciate the wonders of God's world, and where his spirit soothed us and gave us renewed strength to cope with the problems of a new day.

Then, under the guidance of Rev. Reynold Weinbrenner, we walked with "Christ and the Twelve" and shared in their spiritual experiences. And with Rev. Walter Goering we studied the character and personality of Moses and of other Old Testament heroes, and tried to find in them a lesson for our own lives. Miss Miller said one day that we should "go to school to God," and it seemed almost as if we were doing that very thing in these two classes.

Rev. Henry Fast led the discussion entitled "Christian Youth in a World at War." As Peace Secretary of the Western District Conference, he was very well equipped to aid us in working out our pacifist principles and to help us answer puzzling questions in regard to registration for conscription or compulsory military training, alternative service and the like. I believe that this was the most timely and necessary of the classes; because, in this troubled world, it is most important for young Mennonites to know the answers to these questions and to be able to uphold their beliefs.

The two groups which, I believe, fostered the most interest were the discussion groups on "Questions Youth Faces" led by Mr. Ben Bargen and Mrs. Abr. Lohrentz. Personal problems, boy-girl relationships, and other youth questions received a due amount of consideration by the groups.

Ping pong, horseback riding, canoeing, swimming, soft ball, and bull sessions filled the afternoons. This was the time when everyone got better acquainted with everyone else, and we solved all the world's problems—political, economic, social, international and religious. This was the time when one realized that most of the ministers were quite human, and some of them could even be beaten in a game of ping pong. And this was also the time when boy met girl and they decided what they would do after the evening services.

To me the Vesper hour was one of the most inspiring of our devotional services. It was held on the side of a hill just as the sun was setting. As we watched the sunset and gazed up into the vast space of sky above us, we heard Mrs. Ed. Schmidt tell us that only through a complete surrender to the will of God could we accomplish anything, and we realized how ineffectual is man without the will of God to guide him. It was an experience none of us shall forget.

Nor shall we soon forget Rev. John Thiessen's evening messages, each one rich in "food for thought", and embroidered throughout with accounts of his experiences in India, nor the gospel song service each evening led by Miss Adina Goering. And above all we shall not forget the communion service at the lake on Sunday morning. Somehow with the wonders of God's world about us, and with music drifting across the lake throughout the service, the true meaning of the Lord's Supper was revealed to us and it was a never-to-be-forgotten experience.

HEAR YE!

Have You any unusually good and interesting Pictures taken at the Young People's Retreat that you attended this summer? Especially wanted are pictures which describe the camp, explain retreat activities, and show retreat groups and leaders. Think of the lake, flag-raising, the dining hall, vesper service, coming to camp and leaving camp, etc.

Before you forget send these pictures with a note of explaination to your district Y. P. representative and ask him to forward them with others to John E. Fretz, 3722 North 16th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Why all this? Because the young people of the Eastern District have undertaken the project of putting on a thoroughly good exhibit of Young People's work at the 1941 General Conference session. For this they need pictures of all our Y. P. retreats. Will you help?

Series: Looking Toward Marriage and the Home

MAIN TOPIC: CHOOSE YOUR FRIENDS

Eph. 4:25-32; Prov. 18:24

Sept. 8, 1940

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "I would be true," "Follow the Gleam," "What a friend we have in Jesus."

2. Reading of main topic, and prayer

3. Friendship "Nuggets" in answer to roll call Suggested "nuggets" are the following: "Be slow to fall into friendship, but when thou art in, continue firm and constant." Socrates

"A true friend is the gift of God, and He only who made hearts can unite them." South

"Two persons cannot long be friends if they cannot forgive each other's little failings." Bruyere

4. Offering for missions

II. Leader's Introduction

One of the finest and noblest friendships of which the Bible tells us is that of David and Jonathan. They understood each other, they helped each other, they were not jealous of each other, they loved each other, they drew out the best in each other.

Friendships influence our lives deeply. You become like those in a measure whom you choose as your friends. They open their hearts and their lives to you, you share your life with them. Both of you should be richer, not poorer, because of your friendship if it is of the right kind.

Because courtship and marriage often begin in friendship, the friendships between young men and women are of special importance. There is no better place for young people to find friends than in the church and in church groups where Christian standards are maintained.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

A noble friendship of women. Ruth 1:14-18.
A noble friendship of youth. 1 Sam. 18:1-4.
Friends in suffering. Job 2:11-13.
The loving friendship of Jesus. John 11:30-36.
Intimacy of Jesus and disciples. John 15:12-17.

IV. For Discussion

1. What qualities of character make a good friend?

2. Is a father ever a boy's "best friend," or a mother a girl's "best friend?"

3. Is friendship worth more in good times, or in times of trouble?

V. Bits of Poetry

It is my joy of life to find,
At every turning of the road,
The strong arm of a comrade kind,
To help me with my load.

And since I have no gold to give,
And love alone must make amends,
My prayer is always, while I live,
"God make me worthy of my friends."

Friendship thrives on love and on kindness

It isn't the thing you do, dear;
It's the thing you leave undone,
That gives you a bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flower you did not send, dear,
Are the haunting ghosts tonight.

The stone you might have lifted
Out of a brother's way:
The bit of heartsome counsel
You were hurried too much to say:
The loving touch of the hand, dear,
The gentle winning tone,
Which you had no time nor thought for

With troubles of your own.
For life is all too short, dear,
And sorrow is all too great,
To suffer our slow compassion,
That tarries until too late.
And it isn't the thing you do, dear;
It's the thing you leave undone,
Which gives you a bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.

WHY BE HARD-BOILED?

Sept. 8, 1940

As Thy Days

So shall it ever be.
'Tis planned by one
Whose thought is all for thee,
That in accord with life's great need
A strength divine shall come,
Supplanting weakness, changing greed,
And making plain the pathway home.
In Holy Writ this truth we see,
That as Thy days—so strength shall be.

The marvel of it all!
What wisdom wrought!
Thy weakness to forestall!
Not in advance this blessing falls,
Nor stored for coming days,
Not to be gathered into stalls
Nor bartered for in devious ways;
'Tis surely thine when need makes plea,
For as Thy days —so strength shall be.

The glory, then, be Thine,
O Master, Lord,
For meeting need of mine.
I would not anxious be, nor fret
When burdens press me sore,
But trudge along contented yet
To trust Thee, Lord, and love Thee more
With stronger faith that 'tis for me—
For as Thy days, Thy strength shall be.

Silent Prayer

1 Sam. 25:5-17 David's reputation, A man of devotion.

"Throughout all the Bible there is not a character who lived closer to God than did David. From the time when as a shepherd boy he killed the giant Goliath, until he died, he always lived close to God; but, being human, he sinned. Because of this sin David grieved all of his life and tried his best to make atonement to God. Most of his Psalms were written as a cry to God for forgiveness.

"Let us repeat together his beautiful Psalm 23."

Lev. 19:32 Regard for the aged.

Luke 10:1-11 Christ's directions to the seventy.

Luke 14:7-11 Christ's words to guests,

"He that is down needs fear no fall,
He that is low no pride;
He that is humble ever shall
Have God to be his guide."

Rom. 13:1-7 Right bearing toward officials

1 Cor. 10:32, 33 Avoid offense

"There is an old story of a girl who went to a saint to confess her sins. She was not bad at heart, but she spoke unkindly of her neighbors, and the things she said were not always true; so the saint knowing her fault, told her to buy a fowl and walk out of town. As she walked along she was to pull out the feathers one at a time until all were plucked. She obeyed, and when she returned she was ordered to pick them up again. 'This can not be done,' she said in dismay. 'By this time the wind has blown some away. I could never pick up all of them.' 'So it is with gossip,' replied the old minister. 'It is easily dropped. But never again, no matter how hard you try, can you gather back the words you have so thoughtlessly scattered." —N. W. Whitwell

PEACE, LONGSUFFERING

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—Piano with violin obligato. Melody of "Peace, Perfect Peace" M. H. B. No. 229.

2. Call to worship, Psalm 100:3. "Know ye that the Lord, He is God, it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people and the sheep of His pasture."

3. All heads bowed in silent prayer.

4. Stand and sing in unison, "There Comes to My Heart One Sweet Strain." M. H. B. No. 234.

5. Scripture reading—Colossians 3:12-17, by a Junior girl.

6. Leader's prayer

7. Poem by a Junior boy

A Prayer for Peace

"Dear Father, Jesus taught us all
When He was here so long ago
About forgiving every wrong
And loving all—both friend and foe;
How we should think of others first,
And not be greedy or unkind,
How we should make folks happier,
In all the ways we find.

"Dear Father, tell the world again,
So many lands have quarreled and fought;
It may be some have never heard,
And others—just forgot."

Edith May Cunnings

(The above poem was contributed by Miss Helen A. Penner, Beatrice, Nebraska).

8. Solo "Peace, Perfect Peace" M. H. B. No. 229.

II. Study Period

Aim.—To help our Juniors understand what is meant by "Peace" and "Longsuffering" and to create a desire in them to yield these two fruits of the Spirit, by the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ.

1. Repeat from memory, in unison, Galatians 5:22, 23.

2. A two minute talk by a Junior girl. "The source of peace" Romans 5:1; Philippians 4:7; John 14:27.

3. Story told by a Junior boy, "Peace found in Christ"

Sadhu Sundar Singh, the great Christian of India tells the following:

"Once when I was crossing the mountains I met a girl of good family. Her parents were wealthy. She was on a pilgrimage, and her bare feet were bleeding. In answer to my question she said, 'I am looking for rest and peace and I hope to get them before I get to the end of this pilgrimage. If I do not, I shall drown myself.' I saw that she was in earnest, her heart cried for peace, for salvation. She, the wealthy girl had given up her home and all she cared most for to seek salvation. She did not find peace on that pilgrimage but she met a missionary who told her about Christ. In Him she found peace for her soul. I saw her after she became a Christian and she told me, 'In Christ I have found all and more than I sought. I have found the better part that shall never be taken away from me.' "

4. A two minute talk by a Junior boy "Live in Peace" Colossians 3:15

5. Story, told by a Junior girl.

The "Peace" Offering

Mabel heard an old man tell about some one giving another person a peace offering after they had quarreled. Mabel knew very well what a quarrel was. She and Edna had had one.

Mabel's grandmother always knows that children want a lunch in the afternoon. Grandma calls it a 'piece.' This day Mabel ran to the house. "Grandma, may I have a piece?" she asked. Grandma laughed and gave her a big slice of bread and butter and brown sugar on it. It looked so good that Mabel wanted to eat it herself but she did not. She ran to the back fence. "Edna! Edna!" she called, "Here is a piece offering I brought you."

Edna came outdoors with both hands behind her. She took the bread and said, "Thank you!"

Then she held out a big yellow apple for Mabel to eat.

They were sitting side by side when Edna's brother Tom came by. "Ho, I thought you girls wouldn't play together any more!" he teased.

"We did say that, but I got sorry" Mabel told him. "I brought Edna a piece offering and she gave me this nice apple."

Tom laughed, "You gave her a p-i-e-c-e for a p-e-a-c-e offering."

6. Stand and sing "When Peace Like a River" Service Hymnal No. 228.
7. A Junior girl introduces the next fruit of the spirit by explaining what "Longsuffering" means.
8. Bible reading by a Junior boy, Matthew 18:23-27
9. Song "Christ Receiveth Sinful Men"

III. Mission Minutes

1. Make plans for Christmas gifts to our mission stations.
2. Have a large globe present and point out where our stations are located.
3. Name at least one missionary at each place.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Sing together the song of the month, "Here Is My Heart" M. H. B. No. 222
2. Repeat from memory the verse for the month Galatians 2:20
3. Together pray the prayer of the month Psalm 19:14.
4. Sing "Into My Heart"

IN MEMORIAM

ANNA DESTER, DAUGHTER OF JOHN AND KATHARINE RUPP DESTER, was born on March 13, 1861, near Franklin, Lee County, Iowa. Three years later, in 1864, her parents moved to Washington County, Iowa. In 1886, she, with her widowed mother, two sisters, and one brother, moved to Halstead, Kansas, where she lived the remaining days of her life.

In early youth she gave her life to Christ and was baptized on October 5, 1873, by Rev. William Galle, and joined the Mennonite Congregation at Dayton, Washington County, Iowa. After coming to Kansas she transferred her membership to the Mennonite Church at Halstead in 1887, where she remained a faithful member until her death.

Throughout her life she was keenly interested in her church and the upbuilding of the Lord's Kingdom. She was always ready to help along in financial and other ways as much as she could, especially in the work of Foreign Missions and Christian Education.

Her parents and all of her brothers and sisters preceded her in death. She leaves to mourn her passing: sixteen nieces and nephews, including eight children of her sister Mary Krehbiel, three children of her sister Elizabeth Peters, and five children of her brother Jacob S. Dester; a number of grand-nieces and grand-nephews; as well as many other friends who knew and loved her.

For the past few years she had been failing in health but was not bedfast until a few days before she died on July 30, 1940, which brought her life to an age of seventy-nine years, four months, and seventeen days.

Her life was not lived in the limelight of publicity but in the quietude of her home. her church, and her friends. In Christian faith she bore her duties and the burdens of life without complaining. Those who knew her and shared her love will ever cherish her memory.

Funeral services were held on Friday forenoon, August 2, in the Halstead Mennonite Church with Rev. David C. Wedel, her pastor, in charge.

JACOB P. WEDEL, retired citrus grower, was born near Odessa, Russia, August 3, 1862; passed away at his home in Garden Grove, California, August 5, 1940, leaving his beloved wife, Lena Wedel, four sons and six daughters. Formerly from Moundridge, Kansas, he was an active and faithful member of the First Mennonite Church of Upland, until he moved out of the community nearly twenty years ago. Funeral services were held at Santa Ana, Wednesday, August 7, at 3 P. M., Rev. Lester Hostetler officiating.

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CH., PULASKI, IOWA, 8-13-40.

As an Iowa corn rain falls gently outside, it may be a good time to report briefly on some of the activities which the year thus far has seen in the local congregation.

The harvest season is almost ended with satisfactory and sufficient yields for which all are, no doubt, grateful. The prospects for the remainder, such as corn, soy beans and a few other crops are good and the year here ought to make us all get down on our knees to give thanks that things are as well as they are.—As these lines are written, preparations are being made by a number of members to attend part or parts of the Middle District Conference at Donnelson, fifty miles east. This will be the third occasion this year for the four Iowa churches to mingle together in a special way, and this biggest and best event fittingly comes last.—In June Rev. Wm. Penner of the Wayland church was here for a week leading the customary series of June meetings. In the same month, our pastor W. F. Unruh was at Mountain Lake, Minn., for a schedule of addresses on missionary subjects. And also in that month, the annual Sunday School Get-together of the four Iowa churches took place at Wayland with several car loads of our people in attendance.

In July, eleven young people were received into the church here through baptism. Rev. Unruh preached a special sermon on the Holy Ordinance and the entire service was such as to awaken again a new appreciation for the eternal doctrines and precepts of the Christian Church. In the group of youths were several great-grandchildren of the founding fathers and mothers of 1861, those pioneers who made it their business to build the Pulaski Mennonite church. They built for themselves and for their children and other children, and may the trust be long carried on.

A week ago, Saturday and Sunday, the annual retreat of the Christian Endeavor societies of the Iowa churches was held here, with some hundred young persons in attendance. Rev. A. E. Kreider, of Bethel College was the retreat speaker and the theme developed in the several sessions was "Let your light so shine." A banquet was held on Saturday evening and the program was otherwise highlighted by panel discussions, special music and other features. —V. E. S. Correspondent

THE FIRST MENN. CHURCH IN CHICAGO

It has been some time since we have written any news from the work of our church here in Chicago. On the first of August this year, I resigned as pastor of the church. The mission board is planning to get another pastor to move to the city and take charge of the work. Personally, I am very much concerned about the welfare of the people and have promised to stay until they get a settled pastor.

In view of the fact that we had hoped to have a new pastor by the first of August, I accepted the superintendency of a branch mission on the north side. This is a small charge, but I believe it can be developed into a splendid work. This will be a missionary center. We will use it for the preaching of the gospel and give shelter to homeless children that we find occasionally in our missionary activities. This work merits your prayers and interest. It may be at times we will have to shelter children there until we find permanent homes. We will be glad for any help you may render along the line of canned fruit and the like. No one can imagine what it means to be homeless and without a friend in this great city, unless they have gone through it themselves. In looking over my past experiences in the matter of homeless children, I find that I have been able to rescue fifty-five boys and girls. Some of them are now married, have homes of their own and are living very happily. Some have been called to the ministry and are doing a splendid piece of work for God and the church.

Sincerely yours, A. H. Leaman

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, HALSTEAD, KANS.

Camp Wood Retreat was held July 23-28. Rev. D. C. Wedel, our pastor, was a member of the retreat committee. Miss Amelia Mueller was the leader of the quiet hour. There were 161 full time and 42 part time registrations. Five of our young people attended all sessions and several others part time. At the Sunday sunrise communion service 207 were present. Mrs. J. J. Thiessen gave an interesting account of their work in India at the Dorcas meeting in June and Mrs. P. W. Penner was to be the guest speaker ot the last meeting, but was hindered by the inclement weather. We hope to have her with us at a later date. Miss Marie J. Regier, home on furlough from China, gave an interesting talk about her work at the last Sunday morning service. She as well as the Penners expects to go back to their field of labor this fall. Rev. D. C. Wedel conducted a series of meetings at the Bergthal Church, Corn, Okla., beginning Monday Aug. 12 and concluding Aug. 16. He returned to Halstead in time for Communion Services Sunday, Aug. 18. —Correspondent

During the last few weeks we have again experienced in a special way the grace of our Lord. We owe all thanks to Him for the peace that still prevails in our land. May He continue to lead us as He sees fit. We have also been blessed in a material way, with a bountiful harvest, for which all praise be to Him. Surely He is calling us to a greater service for Him in that He has provided so wonderfully.

Of special services we had, on May 5th, a program sponsored by the Ladies' Mission Society, which was given by the Sisters of the Bethel Hospital. They left on us an impression of the importance of their work, and I believe it was an inducement to better giving for that cause. On May 12th we had a Consecration service for all little children and their mothers. This service preceded an address by Dr. E. G. Kaufman and Dr. Cutshall who was assisting the work of the college at the time. In the evening of the same day the Bethel College A Cappella Choir rendered an inspiring program. On June 23rd both the Sunday School and Worship period time were given to Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Penner who gave us interesting talks on mission work.

There have been seven weddings and one funeral in our church since the first part of April. The funeral was that of grandfather Jacob A. Krehbiel who passed away rather unexpectedly on the 19th of April. We had baptismal service on the 21st of July. Twenty-one young souls gave themselves to their Savior in a public way. Sunday, July 28th, we enjoyed communion services with the newly baptized. May our prayers go with all young children of God that they may overcome the many temptations of these times. Our minister is at present enjoying a change in schedule in that he is attending school in Colorado. May the Lord give him renewed strength and inspiration to carry on the work here upon his return. —Richard Schrag, Corr.

—A GUIDE BOOK FOR MISSION SOCIETY LEADERS published by the Literature Committee of the Women's and Foreign Missionary Association of the General Conference; with programs for 1940-41, is now ready for distribution and may be had by leaders and in fact any society member, as long as they last, by writing to one of the three members of the committee: Mrs. J. S. Schultz, Bluffton, Ohio; Mrs. A. J. Neuenschwander, 122 Juniper Street, Quakertown, Pa.; Mrs. A. E. Kreider, North Newton, Kansas. SEE ANNOUNCEMENT ELSEWHERE IN THIS PAPER.

—Dr. and Mrs. D. D. Eitzen of Los Angeles, Calif. visit Newton. These good people, Dr. Eitzen a graduate of Bethel College and Mrs. Eitzen of the Bethel Hospital, visited friends in and near Newton over the other week end, and also attended church at Bethel College, Sunday, Aug. 11. Unfortunately, however, we were not given a chance to see and greet them. Dr. Eitzen is assistant professor of Pastoral Service in the Graduate School of Religion of Southern California.

—Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, Reedley, Calif. writes, "My improvement has been more rapid during the last few weeks. The doctor thinks I can take up my regular work in September again. It will be necessary to keep the recent experience in mind. I hope to be able to do one man's work by that time, however."

—Rev. J. J. Esau writes from Bluffton, Ohio,— "Greetings! We have returned from the west coast and ARE LOCATED AGAIN AT BLUFFTON, OHIO.

"The Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad. Ps. 126:3. It has been our joy for the past two years to visit a number of our Mennonite churches to conduct Evangelistic services. We feel the Lord has blessed the effort and as He leads and opens the door of opportunity we shall be glad to continue the work. Churches that are interested for meetings may write to us at Bluffton, Ohio."

—Rev. Adolf Friesen, Donnellson, Iowa, writes in a note Aug. 13, "We are looking forward to a fine session of the Middle District Conference. We have had much rain lately, which we needed. There are good prospects now for a bumper corn crop. We hope, however, that the sky will clear for the Conference session."

—Address Notice—The correct address of the Missionary W. C. Voth family is reported to be: 221 South Walnut, Newton, Kansas.

—One of our active ministers who recently wrote to the instigator of the Conscription Bill at Washington, D. C., urging the shelving of the measure with reasons for this, got this reply, "I am sorry that you do not agree with my views regarding the Military Training Bill. I feel confident that if you knew all the facts, you would be one of the staunchest supporters of this program." Our brother adds, "The same spirit that our country has been condemning these last twenty years, has now taken possession of many of our national leaders. May God have mercy on our country."

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hanston, Kansas, writes, among other things, "It looks like rain this morning (Aug. 14) and we do hope it will really rain. We have had but little of the rains that came to different parts of the state recently. When you read in the paper that Western Kansas is wet, just note that this does not apply to our section. We have had only about a half inch of rain all told.

—Rev. Willard Claassen, pastor of the Roaring Spring and Napier congregations in Penna. writes of their recent vacation trip to Kansas, in their Church Bulletin, "It was invigorating to meet friends and loved ones again. The Lord was very gracious to us, no car trouble and no accidents. The speedometer registered almost 3,000 miles. We have the promise for many visitors at Roaring Spring when the General Conference meets in Penna. next summer."

—Bethel College.—Good progress is now being made on the Memorial Hall. Bricklayers are busy at work on the outer walls and the building is taking on shape. While the Hall will not be finished even for temporary use before some time in the late fall, it is satisfactory to know that it is becoming more and more a reality.

—The Western District C. E. Convention held at Bethel College Sunday, August 11th, was attended by large audiences, both afternoon and evening. The principal address of the afternoon was by Dr. H. A. Fast on "Young Mennonites in a World of Crises — Some Practical Thinking, in the evening by Rev. Albert Gaeddert, pastor-elect of the Hoffnungsau Menn. Church on "Young Mennonites in a World of Crisis—Things that Abide." As a report of the meeting may be forthcoming we shall not enlarge here.

—First Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa. The members of this church are busy preparing for the coming Diamond Jubilee Anniversary. A special committee is at work compiling the "Diamond Jubilee Book" which is to go to the press shortly. Bro. J. B. Bechtel, one of the old timers of the church, Emma Kratz and E. Y. Fretz compose the general committee in this work of preparation.

THEFT-PROOF

Edna R. Brown, Spokane, Wash.

Modern inventions and devices include many productions designed to safeguard property of all kinds against theft. Electric alarms, sirens, firearms, safes, bars at the windows, door locks—and no doubt you think of many more—all are common because of the commonness of stealing and robbing. These are supplemented by policemen, detectives, judges, jailers, night watchmen, and theft insurance.

The theft problem is a big one and a certain one. There is always the possibility of someone wanting what you have badly enough to take it.

The world was ever thus. That is why Christ could clearly make himself understood when He said: "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also" (Matt. 6:19, 20, 21).

Riches—spiritual riches—may be made secure. Earthly riches never can be, unless they are converted into heavenly ones. Money invested in gospelizing the world cannot be stolen. On the other hand, it will pay rich dividends. Means used for the glory of God are always theft-proof. God gives us the assurance of this theft insurance. Thus, the poor need not steal nor fret; and the rich need not worry nor err.

Even though the rich person evades theft throughout his life, he is robbed by death itself. His riches cannot take flight along with his soul.

"Riches profit not in a day of wrath: but righteousness delivereth from death" (Prov. 11:4). "They that trust in their wealth, and boast themselves in the multitude of their riches: None of them can by any means redeem his brother, nor give to God a ransom for him. (For the redemption of their soul is precious, and it ceaseth for ever." (Ps. 49:6, 7, 8).

On the other hand, when honest riches are wisely invested, God's riches (peace, joy, grace, love, etc.) are given in exchange, and his blessing is generously granted.

"The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he addeh no sorrow with it." (Prov. 10:22).

Treasures stored in heaven are alone theft-proof.

SELF-CONTROL, THE PRICE OF LEADERSHIP—In Acts 27 we read of the apostle Paul being taken by ship to Italy, as a prisoner of Rome. In the vicinity of the island of Crete, they met violent, contrary winds and, for almost two weeks, the ship was tossed about aimlessly. But amidst scenes of distress of a crew cringing with fear, Paul was calm, because of the peace of God in his heart and the special assurance from Him that not a soul on the ship, nor the boat itself, would be lost. At last driven near a rocky shore, it looked as though the craft would founder. In this desperate situation the sailors were so stampeded by panic that they attempted to leave and consign the passengers to their plight. But Paul by his moral fortitude saved them all, with the calm statement, "except these abide, ye cannot be saved." And, knowing that everybody was famished from fasting and exhaustion, he tactfully uttered this appeal, "I pray you to take some meat; for this is for your health." Then he calmly "took the bread and gave thanks to God in the presence of them all." What a splendid example in this crisis! Then he began to eat and the rest followed him "and all were of good cheer." Thus the one man aboard, who had vanquished his own fear, was equipped to strengthen all who traveled with him, and to calm their spirits. This shows that the price of leadership is self-control, but this must be undergirded by Christ-control to be effective as was the case of Paul, who throughout his missionary career evinced the same attitude of self-restraint that he did here. —T

If there had not been the Lord who was on our side, when men rose up against us: Then they had swallowed us up quick, when their wrath was kindled against us. Then the waters had overwhelmed us, the stream had gone over our soul. . . . Blessed by the Lord who has not given us as prey to their anger. Our soul is escaped as a bird out of the snare of the foulers; the snare is broken, and we are escaped. Our help is in the name of the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

Conscription -- Who Wants It?

Strong brakes have been applied to the pell-mell rush of Congress toward peacetime conscription. Two weeks ago it was freely predicted in Washington that the Burke-Wadsworth bill would be a law within a fortnight. Today it is not all certain to find its place on the statute books of 1940. The Senate military affairs committee has only now been able to report the measure out for debate and in the House hearings are still continuing. The reason is that congressmen, who recently passed a $4,000,000,000 military bill with the disgraceful minority of only one dissenting vote, are "hearing from the country" in unmistakable fashion. Dr. Fosdick abandoned his vacation and went to Washington to oppose the goosestep and advocate democratic respect for the rights of conscience. Thousands of others are going or are writing letters. The rising flood of letters, the delegations trekking from all over the country through House and Senate office buildings, the hearings repeatedly extended in spite of strong military pressure to close them and the emphatic demand for adequate discussion in Congress are signs that an aroused democracy may yet prevent the army from stampeding the bill through. Secretary Stimson did not help the bill's chances when he based his whole argument in its support on the assumption that it was necessary as a "war measure." Senator Holt's assertion that the drive for conscription originated in New York in which various wealthy men subscribed $250,000 to "sell" the scheme to the country through radio also did not help. Continued labor opposition and the statement of former Secretary of War Woodring that a voluntary system would work, if it were given a chance, further reduced the initial momentum of the drive for passage. When the President at a critical moment failed to endorse the Burke-Wadsworth bill by name and in spite of the reproaches of the New York Times confined his approval to "the principle of universal training," the inference became plain that conscription is political dynamite. The army, having over-reached itself in its eagerness for the greater prestige, higher pay, swifter promotions and vaster power which would accrue to it if its favorite dream became a reality, is confronting the possibility that its ecstatic vision of a fortnight ago may have been a mirage. In the meantime, many important religious bodies have not yet spoken. —The Christian Century, Aug. 14, 1940

O why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift fleeting meteor, a fast-flying cloud,
A flash of lightning, a break of the wave,
Man passes from life, to his rest in the grave.
—Wm. Knox

POLITICS AND WAR—are in the foreground of our thinking if we follow the newspapers and the radio programs. The current talk about war and the defense of our country is inspired, in part, by politics. There is no military authority in the country that believes that Hitler could invade the United States and yet we are asked to lay our money and our young men upon the altar of preparedness to save our country from foreign foes. We are well on the way of adopting the evils of Hitlerism in order to fight Hitler. It is an unparalleled travesty in American life. To save democracy we adopt dictatorship; to save our freedom we place ourselves under the yoke of a military machine; to keep our Christianity from perishing we march under the banners of the war-gods. The present war is the judgment of God upon the nations because of their refusal to trust and obey Him. We are following the same road and the end of that road, if continued, is not peace and righteousness but suspicion on the part of other nations, fear, hatred, war, and the punishments of God. Whatsoever a nation soweth that will it also reap.

ANOTHER WORKER EQUIPPED WITH THE LANGUAGE

Dear Bro. Richert: Another Year has passed and as I look back I can lift up my voice with praise and thanksgiving for Him who has kept me and been my help, an ever present Guide and Friend.

This year again I spent about 5 months in Landour in the Language School. Then in Sept. I took my 2nd. year oral examinations and in Oct. 4, 5, 6th the written examinations. Several weeks ago I received the results and was indeed glad to see that I had passed my 2nd year work. At present I have no teacher but am reading Matthew in Hindi and memorizing Hindi Bible verses from the Gospel of John. I believe this will be a great help to me.

My time is divided between the two hospitals. In the morning I take my bicycle and go to the Leper Home first. I spend most of the forenoon over there at the hospital. Then in the afternoon I am at the hospital here. Work at this hospital is increasing again. For awhile we were not so busy, due to the rice harvest. In the Leper hospital we have had some very sick patients. There has been a great deal of fever (malaria) and intestinal disturbance, probably due to the cold weather. The thermometer here in Champa has registered as low as 36 degrees which is cold for the Indians.

I enjoy my work and am glad that I can understand the people more and more as time goes by. I count it a privilege to be here in the service for Him who has done so much for me, and for those who are yet in sin and darkness. We have so much to be thankful for especially that we can still spread the Gospel and give out the message of love. My prayer is that I may be found faithful.

Gratefully yours, Eva A. Pauls

WAS THE OPERATION SUCCESSFUL?

A mason from Sariepalie came to Basna for an eye operation. He came to the Bible instruction class for patients daily. The day before he was dismissed his wife said: "I had to stay with our belongings to watch that nothing was carried away, but my husband listened daily and came to tell me what he learned. Now we are going home to teach our relatives, and we will then all return for baptism." This family has not yet come for baptism, pray that they may have courage to become Christians, and that many more may be helped physically in our hospital and healed spiritually.

Our Church Colleges in the Present Crisis

Many are wondering what will happen to the church colleges in the present crisis. There are those who prophesy that they will become extinct. However, there is another side to the question. A fundamental consideration is the fact that the heart-interest of the Christian church is in Christian education and, therefore, if the Christian church is to continue, the Christian college also has a future of expanding service and increasing value.

We recognize that the difficulties which the church college faces are great. There is the recent significant expansion of public higher education. Endowment returns are lower than formerly. In many quarters there is a decline in the freewill contributions. There are the anti-Christian contentions of secular educators. And what is worse than all of these is that Christian parents often are blind to what is really involved in the choice of a college for their children.

Difficult as these problems are, they do not necessarily mean impending defeat for the church college. Thinking Christian people will not be deceived by the superficial assertion that all education is alike. To be sure, Christian and secular institutions have some similarities. For example, both have teachers, students, classrooms, laboratories, curricula, etc. But there the similarity ends. In all essential matters of aims, purposes, and means there is a worldwide difference between Christian and secular higher education. Their ultimate purposes are far apart.

The secular or state school aims at intellectual development only. It is an instrument to perpetuate the state. It can become an instrument through which the state may be destroyed.

The Christian college is an altogether different institution. It offers intellectual training not inferior to that provided by the secular institutions. In fact, in many cases it affords a training distinctly superior. In addition it provides a moral and spiritual background that is not to be found elsewhere. Its chief aim is the development of a fully rounded Christian personality. It is important that the Christian college is an instrument through which the church works and a means by which the church lives. The church, therefore, will not allow the church college to pass out of existence, but will rather insist that it expand its services and become of increasing value.

THOUGHTS ON GENERAL CONFERENCE PEACE WORK

by L. J. Horsch, Upland, Calif.

Last fall the Peace Committee met in Newton on the Bethel College campus. On the surface not much seems to have been accomplished. While other denominations are taking a greater and ever increasing interest in peace, non-resistance, and the pacifist movement we Mennonites seem to be becoming more and more apathetic. Has the mantle of Elijah fallen on others? Only a few weeks ago 2500 delegates to the Southern California Convention of the Christian Churches and Churches of Christ meeting in Long Beach adopted on July 20th a resolution, "Recognizing the right of conscientious objectors to hold their convictions as followers of Jesus Christ, we pledge ourselves to protect that right." In addition they adopted a resolution "deploring the proposed legislative action embodied in the Burke-Wadsworth Bill now before Congress" and sent copies of the resolution to the President of the United States, to the Senators from California and to the Senate Committee on Military Affairs. Incidentally, I hope that many of our people wrote to our Senators and Congressmen earnestly requesting them to use their influence to prevent the Burke-Wadsworth bill from becoming the law of the land. I am convinced that citizens should make use of the constitutional right of petition, but I also feel we should commend our representatives in Congress when they take courses of action of which we approve.

The General Conference Peace Committee has come to the conclusion that something more must be done than occasional appeals through our church papers or the sporadic educational programs in individual, widely scattered churches. We have determined to engage Rev. Henry A. Fast as our field secretary, the Executive Secretary of the Peace Committee, on a full time basis. He is to visit every church in the entire General Conference (with the possible exception of the churches in Canada) in the interests of the Mennonite Peace Program. He is to help us rethink our position and attitudes not only as local churches, but also as individuals, and as a denomination. Not only is it the intention to have Rev. Fast speak at every church he visits, but he is to help or assist in organizing each local congregation, so that it may effectively conduct a program of education in the Mennonite position of non-resistance. Furthermore, he is to counsel such young men who are facing the very real possibility of compulsory military service. This is not all, however. It is not enough merely to be in opposition. We must develop a program of constructive Christian building and rebuilding of broken homes and blasted lives, of aiding the underprivileged, a program which looks not alone to the problem of relief caused by the European war, but beyond the war to a reconstruction program after peace has arrived. Dr. Fast will ably help us develop such a program. Last winter he spent a month at Pendle Hill, Pa., at a training school maintained by the more experienced Quakers, for this very purpose. In other words his is to be a constructive mission of church visitation, personal help and guidance in a time of crisis, and training for effective service after the crisis has passed.

Naturally this cannot be accomplished without money. So I am writing not only for the purpose of presenting this information, but also to offer our congregations the opportunity of contributing to this timely project. May I also point out that if this project is to succeed there is need not only of one or two offerings but for a definite, systematic program of contributing to this work. The Peace Committee needs a constant flow of funds just as the Mission Boards receive. Naturally it varies but yet there is a continuous income. I was heartened the other day when a letter came to me from one of the smaller churches in the Pacific District Conference stating that this congregation would contribute $5.00 a month for the next five months. Until such time as the General Conference Peace Committee has sufficient funds for this project, the Western District Conference will meet the expense alone and therefore, as you doubtless read in the MENNONITE or in the BUNDESBOTE of July 9th, Rev. Fast will begin his mission in that Conference.

The Peace Committee of the General Conference believes it is carrying out its work in the best possible manner through this project, but we are entirely dependent upon the churches and members of the General Conference for funds. Without money little or nothing can be accomplished, a fact of which I need not remind you. If and when a conscription bill becomes law then the need for funds will become more pressing, as you can very well realize. We believe that if our people realize the need and the urgency of the Peace Committee's present program they will give generous financial support. In the last analysis, however, their interest in and active sympathy for this work will depend largely upon their leaders who, in the main, are their ministers and pastors. So we are appealing to you as the pastor of a church to give this arm of the General Conference your earnest, prayerful support.

PALESTINE was the soldiers' academy for the world. In that little country God was training up a people out of whom in the fullness of time, His gospel cadets should emerge, fitted by all the training of their national history for going out among the heathen to proclaim the unsearchable riches of Christ. —*Wm. CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

WEEK DAY RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

J. S. Schultz

For many years the Sunday School was thought of as the only medium of religious education for children in spite of the fact that it was founded for purposes of secular learning. As long as the school laws of our land were sufficiently flexible, many of our Mennonite communities asked the regular teacher to teach the children Bible stories for a short period daily during the school year; other communities arranged for a month or two of special Bible instruction immediately after the close of the regular term. When an increasing number of homes neglected Bible study, additional ways of teaching children religion were sought, among them Daily Vacation Bible Schools and Week Day Religious Education.

It is our purpose here to describe one community enterprise of the type just mentioned; namely, that of Bluffton, Ohio. One of the fruits of several Union Sunday School Conventions was the Daily Vacation Bible School, first conducted in the summer of 1921. This was held for one month, was open to children between the ages of 5 and 14, and was taught by one trained teacher assisted by local church workers. This plan continued under the direction of the Bluffton Council of Religious Education for three summers, each year over a hundred children being enrolled. Classes met in the First Mennonite and the Methodist churches.

During the spring and summer of 1924 the Council laid plans to organize Week Day Religious Education instead of carrying on the Daily Vacation Bible School. The protestant churches of Bluffton collaborated in this undertaking.

All the children of the elementary school were to receive two half-hour periods of instruction a week by a teacher especially qualified for this work. For several years the high school pupils were offered a course in religion, taught by one of the regular teachers, but this part of the plan was abandoned for various reasons while the instruction in the grades has been carried on continuously to the present. Meanwhile, the four year high school has been changed to six years and religious education again brought back into the junior high school, all of the classes being taught by the regular teacher. Miss Ruth Yoder from West Liberty, Ohio, was the first teacher, serving for nine years. Miss Vivienne Musselman, Miss Alice Treuschel and Miss Janet Henderson followed her. At times our teachers taught in neighboring communities as well, since our own Bluffton program demanded only half to four-fifths of the time of a full-time teacher.

To receive Bible instruction, boys and girls remain in their regular room. Religious education is placed on the daily schedule of the school just as music, art, or the other subjects. Though it cannot be made compulsory, all but a few children take these courses. Bibles and other materials for these classes are kept in the room or carried by the teacher. Bible teaching is supplimented by stories, drawing, worship service including prayer, and the like. Frequent references can be made to children's daily experiences, thus the real effectiveness of religion in daily life is brought home to the pupils. It is well recognized that teaching knowledge of the Bible is not enough, important as that is. To be really meaningful a prime requisite for religious education is that the atmosphere in class be worshipful. The teacher, above all, must be able to control the pupils by love, not by force. Under such conditions the value of religious education to boys and girls cannot be measured.

The Council of Religious Education, made up of two or three representatives from each cooperating church (all but one or two of the protestant churches participate), hires the teacher, determines her salary, makes out the budget for the year, fixes the quota to be paid by each church, and formulates policies. The past year the Bluffton Council also sponsored a Leadership Training Course. For our community, Week Day Religious Education is an integral part of our educational system. For the present at least, we think of it as the best method, together with home and church, to Christianize the child's public school education. When these teachers are Christians and in full sympathy with our program, it is all the more effective.

MIDDLE DISTRICT CONFERENCE A SUCCESS

—Rev. Adolf Friesen of the Mennonite Church at Donnellson, Iowa, where the Middle District Conference has just been held reports "a very fine conference." The business sessions did not become tedious, because they were interspersed with inspirational addresses by the Reverends J. N. Smucker, H. A. Fast and P. W. Penner. The evening sessions were equally inspiring, with Rev. A. S. Rosenberger's conference sermon on Thursday evening and the Women's Missionary Societies and Young Peoples' sessions on Friday and Saturday evenings respectively. On Sunday morning the conference was richly blessed by partaking of the Lord's supper, in the afternoon a memorial service for Dr. S. K. Mosiman and addresses on Peace and relief gave much food for serious thought. As a fitting climax the four Iowa churches gave a musical program in Union Service Park on Sunday evening.

SERMON SKETCH

W. A. Regier, Los Angeles, Calif.

"THE DELIVERING POWER OF GOD"

Scripture: 2 Peter 2:1-22.—Text 2 Peter 2:9a

In the opening chapter of this wonderful Epistle of II Peter, the Apostle assures his readers that inspired prophets in their teachings have given them a lamp which they should cherish and use in the darkness that was prevailing then, and that will continue until the Lord Jesus returns to the earth in Glory, for notice II Peter 1:16-21. Thus our hearts are encouraged for we know that we can have confidence in God's Word. However, when we come to the second chapter, he gives us the negative side, for he tells us that in the Christian Church of that day there were false teachers and that these teachers would be found right on down to the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ which, humanly speaking, isn't at all a bright outlook. But God has never forgotten and He didn't in this case, for into the very heart of that dark picture He sets a lamp, which gives forth a gloriously bright ray of comfort and confidence, for out of that darkness comes this word: "The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptation." II Peter 2:9a.

I. The Lord Knoweth

1. Among the many things that can be said of God that thrill the human heart, perhaps one of the brightest it that GOD KNOWS!

2. For the moment that we receive the assurance that He Knows, there is no more room left for doubt.

A. Now what does God Know?

1. II Tim. 2:19, "The Lord knoweth them that are His."

2. Many in the world today do not know the Lord Jesus Christ as Personal Savior, simply because they have never accepted Him as such—they are seeking to enter in some other way and are being deceived.

3. But the Lord cannot be fooled—"He knoweth them that are His."

4. And we too can have absolute assurance that we are His. Note II Tim. 1:12, John 10:28-29.

B. Job 23:10, "He knoweth the way that I take," linked with Deut. 2:7, "He knoweth thy walking through this great wilderness."

1. Children of God everywhere are finding themselves surrounded by wilderness, but the Lord knows and we can take courage.

2. Matt. 6:8, "Your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask Him."

II. The Lord knoweth how to deliver

1. He doesn't only know us, nor does He only know the circumstances under which we struggle—BUT HE KNOWS HOW TO DELIVER US.

2. Note account of: Israel at the Red Sea; Daniel in the Lion's Den; Daniel's friends in the Fiery Furnace—and to the Glory of God we see how the Lord has power to deliver.

III. The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptation

1. Weymouth gives it added thought by translating: "The Lord knows how to rescue the godly men from temptation."

2. The devil ever seeks to make the temptation appear so great that we thereby will be caused to take our eyes off the Lord Jesus, and if he is successful he has us licked—he always strikes at the weakest point.

3. But our dear Savior has promised us that He would rescue us from temptation—let us trust Him, for He gives ample proof in 1 Cor. 10:13; 1 Thess. 5:24.

4. The question therefore comes down to this: To whom are we looking, to SELF, or to CHRIST?

5. Let us remember—WE CAN BE CONQUERORS ONLY THROUGH CHRIST! Rom. 8:37.

MORBUS SUNDAYITIS

There is a disease that is worse and more deadly than small pox. It is diagnosed by the spiritual as "Morbus Sundayitis." It is a disease which afflicts most church people.

The symptons vary but never affect the appetite. It never lasts more than twenty-four hours. No physician is ever called. It always proves fatal to the soul. It is very prevalent and destroys thousands every year. The attack comes upon them suddenly every Sunday morning.

No symptoms are evidenced on Saturday night. The attack comes about nine o'clock Sunday morning. Usually the sufferer has enjoyed a very good night's sleep, eats a hearty breakfast, but about church time the attack comes upon him with sudden severity.

It continues until morning services are over and then seems to abate long enough for him to eat a large dinner. In the afternoon the sufferer seems to be much better and often goes out for a motor ride, game of golf, or some other form of exercise.

Morbus Sundayitis never seems to affect the eyes, for the patient seems to be able to thoroughly enjoy the Sunday paper. About supper time he gets another attack that seems to last until the church services are over. On Monday he awakes refreshed and does not have a similar attack until the following Sunday.

REMEDY: ONE LARGE DOSE: Awake thou that sleepest and arise from the dead and Christ shall give thee light.—Eph. 5:14.

PRAISING GOD FOR HIS BLESSINGS

Psalm 103:1-5, 10-18 Read 103, 107

Introduction

The two Psalms of today's lesson (text from 103 only) speak of the many blessings we receive from God and of our duty to thank and praise Him. Psalm 103 gives a list of God's mercies, emphasizing especially the forgiveness of sins. The spiritual blessings and privileges which we enjoy are our greatest reason for thanksgiving and praise.

Bless Jehovah, O my soul vs 1, 2

The psalmist addresses his own soul, his inner being. God is highly worthy of the praise of our whole heart and soul, of all our powers of self. God's holy name stands for His person and character. The human heart is prone to forget that God is the giver of the many blessings we enjoy. David reminds himself of his soul's debt of thankfulness. Frequent praise will help to keep us from forgetting. Our thoughtlessness about God's blessings helps to make us thankless.

Wonderful Benefits God Gives vs 3-5

Foremost among God's gracious gifts which we enjoy, is forgiveness of sin and iniquities (v3). Our God is the only One who can offer forgiveness or any unmerited favor. His forgiveness covers ALL our sins. God can heal all diseases, make men whole, spiritually and physically. In times of mortal sickness and greatest danger, God often saves life from destruction (v4). His loving kindness is as a crown upon the head. God satisfies the soul—"mouth" v5—with the best things, satisfies its desires. They who trust in God will continually be filled with renewed life and joy—do not grow old (cf. Isa. 40:31).

Wonderful Person, God vs 10-18

God's love, patience and mercy far exceed our understanding. His justice is greatly tempered with mercy. He does not deal with us as our sins deserve (v10). His mercy is limitless in extent toward His children who reverence Him (v11). He removes our transgressions so far that they will never meet us again (v12). The guilt is removed forever. God's feeling toward His children is like that of a father toward his children, but His love is far greater than a father's can possibly be. Man's life on earth is short (vs 15, 16). God is everlasting and unchangeable. His mercy is the same from generation to generation (v17). His purpose is firmly established. There is no change in His righteous character. His mercy is for those who are obedient to Him.

To acknowledge God's mercies is both a duty and a privilege. He satisfies our needs and desires in the temporal things which nourish and sustain the body. He gives the ability to see, hear and enjoy the many delightful things all about us. Common courtesy prompts us to say "thank you" to one who gives us even a small gift or does us a little favor. How much more then should we express gratitude to our God from whom all blessings flow. We believe in God, we must admit that we ought to praise Him. We need to give OURSELVES to Him. His love demands our all. Praise helps to divert our minds from our trials and troubles. The more we praise and thank the Lord, the greater will be our spirit of thankfulness.

Mission Meeting at Middle District Conference on August 16, 1940

After congregational singing, led by Mrs. Delbert Welty, Mrs. N. N. Soldner led the devotionals on "The Vision", Prov. 29:15 and II Cor. 4:1-10. The Donnellson Ladies' Quartet gave two numbers in perfect harmony and Mrs. Ernest Krehbiel sang a solo. The organists, Alma Lowenberg, and the pianist, Hilda Krehbiel, accompanied the music with great inspiration as they did also for the conference sessions.

The Dorcas Society of Wayland, under the direction of Mrs. Jocob Eicher, gave an effective background for the evening theme, "The Call from Afar." The dire need of the ill-fed and the sick of India was continued in a talk by Mrs. P. W. Penner.—In the remarks during the conferenc a scattering of funds was discouraged. Some Mennonite churches have various entertainments by outside visitors for pay, and so neglect their real duty toward their own missions. What a blasphemy against God to neglect one's own vineyard! Eternal vigilance should also be applied toward harnessing the funds in the right direction. Is a lazy-minded attitude in this respect an excuse for scattering funds in all directions? The words of the prayer book, "Forgive us the things we ought to have done", might well be applied here.

Officers elected were: Pres.:Mrs. N. N. Soldner (St. John), Pandora; Vice Pres.: Mrs. William Unruh, Pulaski; Program Com.: 3 year term, Matilda Basinger (Grace), Pandora; 2 year term, Mrs. Ed. Amstutz (First Menn.), Bluffton; 1 year term, Mrs. Wm. Shelly, Wadsworth, Ohio; Women's work, Mrs. Howard Gilliom, Berne, Ind.; the collection amounted to $33.38. —Matilda Basinger, Sec. pro tem

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

By J. H. Langenwalter

The Way of Life which Jesus taught men makes fellowship necessary. Two or more people guided by the same great Spirit cannot be out of harmony with each other. Their understanding of each other may not yet have reached a state of final possibilities, but it is developing that way.

Jesus gave men a sense of friendship in place of slavery. He told them that whatever might happen, He would not leave them as orphans. Even when He realized that His days on earth were counted, because of the unfriendly and selfish attitude of the leaders of the people, he told them that He would return again. He was always setting up situations so that people had opportunities of really getting together. All this was His way of opening the possibilities of fellowship to mankind.

God's unit in humankind has always been the family. That is the one arrangement among people where the greatest possibilities for real unity can be brought into play. Jesus revealed God as The Great Father. He looked upon men as brothers in a great family. He did not consider Himself as the Crown Prince, but the Son of God. This family relationship was not primarily a matter of blood relationship but a matter of doing "the will of My Father who is in heaven"!

So strong was this desire for fellowship on the part of Jesus that, during the last evening before His crucifixion, He invited His confused, disturbed and divided group of disciples to eat together, not to satisfy physical hunger, but to satisfy His hunger for fellowship with them, even when they were not with Him in spirit. This was a case of heart-hunger. How little the disciples realized it that night and how thankful they were for it after they had come to their senses again!

We, too, are to hold Communion with each other today. May it be no mere formality. May it be a genuine, sincere expression of the desire for fellowship with each other and with God, as revealed through Jesus Christ! Such an occasion calls for healthy, wholesome self-examination. This is no time to sit judgment of others. Only God can judge the heart. If another makes a wrong move that is no reason why I should make no move at all. We need the exercise in expressions of fellowship as well as did the disciples of Christ on the eve before His crucifixion. None of them were "worthy" that night in any sense of perfection which people sometimes demand of themselves and others. However, they were in great need of exercising themselves in the possibilities of fellowship, and Jesus gave them the opportunity under most unfavorable circumstances.

Christian fellowship is not broken, or even weakened, by the accidents and incidents of life. That fellowship can carry us through six months of a changed program without losing strength. On the contrary, it affords us untold opportunities to grow through exercising our possibilities for deeper fellowship.

CORRESPONDENCE

DEEP RUN MENN. CHURCH, PA., Aug. 19-40

Russell L. Mast, formerly of Ohio, who recently was elected assistant to our veteran pastor Rev. A. M. Fretz, and Mrs. Mast were tendered a reception by the congregation on Saturday evening, July 13, 1940.

We were especially blessed July 28, 1940, when Mr. Mast was ordained minister. He is the sixth minister to serve the Deep Run Church during its approximate 90 years of existence. In spite of the intense heat the church was filled to capacity. In attendance also were the new pastor's parents, his brother and sister who motored from their home in Ohio to attend this service.

Rev. Olin A. Krehbiel of Lansdale, Pa., president of the Eastern District Conference presided. A most impressive sermon was delivered by Dr. Elmer E. S. Johnson pastor of Hereford Mennonite Church and a member of the faculty of Hartford Theological Seminary from which Mr. Mast graduated a few months ago. Dr. Johnson took as his text the latter part of Matt. 21:23, "By what authority dost Thou these things and who gave Thee this authority."

At the conclusion of the sermon Mr. Mast was ordained by Rev. A. M. Fretz. Other ministers of the Eastern District Conference also participating were Reverends A. J. Neuenschwander, J. J. Plenert, Freeman Swartz, Howard J. Nyce and E. J. Bohn. —Mae Gross, Corr.

EAST SWAMP MENN. CHURCH, PA.

We are indeed glad to report an increase in the enrollment of our Daily Vacation Bible School, which was 105 as against 92 of last year. There were 87 present every day of the term. We wish to thank the teachers for the time they devoted to bring the pupils to a clearer knowledge of the Bible and the sacrifice Jesus Christ made for us. They were Rev. and Mrs. Harold Burkholder, Mrs. John Snavely, Mrs. John Aukland, and Mrs. P. J. Boehr. The cars used to bring the children in and take them home covered 1100 miles, the farthest coming 12 miles.—July 28 our Young People spent the afternoon and evening at the Home in Fredrick. They gave a program, Rev. Burkholder brought a short message. Then the FEAST. A cold lunch was served by the Young People, to which the folks at the Home look forward. There were 92 over from our church. We would encourage other churches that hold services at the Home to do the same, for the sake of fellowship with the Folks.—On August 7, a special meeting of the Brotherhood was held concerning the present war situation.—Sunday afternoon, August 11, the Young People visited the shut-ins and brought them cheer in song and word.—On Wed. evening, Aug. 14, Rev. J. J. Plenert gave a testimony as to his life in the first World War. A well filled house greeted him.—We are looking forward to a Prophetic Bible Conference, Sept. 12-15, with Dr. La Salle Harrison as speaker.—Our pastor and family moved to their new home in Quakertown, 118 S. 7th Street.—We thank God for all the kindnesses and longsuffering shown to His people. For we are sinners, and sin daily; but asking forgiveness in Jesus' name, it will not be remembered against us. —W. W. Cope, Corr.

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, DALLAS, OREGON

A great many things have happened since the last report from here. On July 4, the four churches, Portland, Pratum, Albany and Dallas had a picnic at Brush College near Salem, where all present had a very enjoyable time. In July Miss Emma Ruth, Field Secretary, was in our midst and interested us with her splendid talks.—Friday night, the 9th of August, we had a house warming for Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Linscheid in their new home which they built this summer. Mr. Linscheid's brother and an Eyman family from Reedley were also over for the occasion, and Mr. Eyman sang a solo which was enjoyed by all.—Rev. Leisy gives chart talks very nearly every Sunday. He draws his own pictures to bring us such wonderful messages. They are explained so clearly that even a small child can understand. And I know they certainly enjoy it all.—The Young People of our church have organized a Young People's Society, of which Helen Thiessen, daughter of our S. S. Superintendent is the leader. That gives the young folks a chance to take part in the services.—The weather was quite damp here for a while which made it hard for the combine. Everybody will be glad when harvesting is over.

BUTTERFIELD MENNONITE CHURCH, BUTTERFIELD, MINN.

The August 18 Bulletin of this church contains an interesting account of the Bible school work that the pastor, Rev. Albert Schultz, has been doing. He says, "There may be some who wonder why it is that I have been doing some of this work. The answer is found in II Cor. 5:14, 'For the love of Christ constraineth me.' Rev. Peterson of Mankato entrusted to my supervision a certain district in which seven Daily Vacation Bible schools were conducted last year and nine this year. We had 265 boys and girls enrolled in these nine schools. The Bible was the only text-book. We are claiming Isa. 55:11, 'My word shall not return to me void, but it shall prosper. . . .' Jesus said, 'What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?' We have here the value of a soul set forth. MORE THAN ALL THE WORLD. In answer to prayer the Lord gave me consecrated and capable teachers. My one concern is that the teachers know the Lord and the Bible. I care very little about their church denomination. I care so little that I do not know the church affiliation of one of them. But through conversation I have discovered that four are Mennonites, three are Baptists, two Lutherans, and one I do not know.—The teachers were given a free will offering in each school except one. The offerings totaled $120.00. They taught 180 days."

MENNONITES IN THE UNITED STATES

—A Census of Religious Bodies, an 80 page brochure, published by the Census Bureau of the U. S. Department of Commerce recently came to our desk. Published four years ago, the report may lack somewhat in accuracy, but it is none the less interesting. The following are some of the data concerning Mennonites: There are seventeen branches or groups (sects) of Mennonites in the United States. The combined total of all these is given as 114,337. One out of each four followers of our faith resides in Pennsylvania. More than 30,000 are found in that state; 12,000 in Ohio; 10,000 in Indiana. The largest branch is the Old Mennonite brotherhood, 46,301. Of these, Pennsylvania harbors 20,546. This state also has 127 of the denomination's 346 churches. Of this total number of Mennonite congregations in the U. S., 289 are of the rural type.—The General Conference of the Mennonite Church of N. A. is listed as the second largest group, 26,535 in 1936. This conference shows a gain of 22.9 per cent in ten years, 21,582 having been the number in 1926. This branch made attempts as early as 1859 to unite all Mennonite bodies. It is strongest in Kansas, with 8,616 members in 36 churches. Pennsylvania, with 3,428 members and 25 churches supplies the second largest contingent in the Gen. Conference. Oklahoma has 1,961 members and 21 churches.—The third largest branch is the Old Order Amish. This group numbers 9,887 members with 100 churches.—The Mennonite Brethren in Christ claim 7,814 members, the Mennonite Brethren Church of North America, in German Breuder-germenide, 7,595, and the Central Conference of Mennonites 3,434 members.

Western District Christian Endeavor Convention

The forty-eighth annual convention of the Christian Endeavor Societies of the Mennonite churches of the Western District Conference was held in the Bethel College Chapel, North Newton, Kansas, Sunday, August 11, 1940. The main theme of the convention was "Young Mennonites in a World of Crises."

The afternoon session was opened at 2:30 by a song service led by Paul Kliewer with Donna Regier at the piano. William Juhnke, president of the W. D. C. E. Convention, led the devotionals and presided at the remainder of the meeting.

The Junior Program, given by the Bethel College Church Junior C. E., was in charge of Miss Minnie Schmidt, who was assisted by Mrs. Eldon Rich. "Christian Endeavor Essentials" were presented by Mary Ann Unruh, Ruth Ann Bartel, Ralph Bargen, Alice Claassen and Carlton Schroeder. A reading, "A New Pair of Eyes", was given by Gladys Pearl Schmidt.

Following this number, John Juhnke gave his prize winning, missions oration, entitled "All for Missions." He said that the really significant question for us today is this: just what can young people do to further Christian missions? In answer to this he gave five suggestions. One thing we can all do is read and study more about our mission work. Second, we can put new life in our mission C. E. programs by practical discussions. Third, we can give to missions on the financial side. Fourth, we can pray for our missionaries. Fifth, we can volunteer for mission service.

Dr. H. A. Fast, executive peace secretary, then gave a challenging and thought-provoking address on "Young Mennonites in a World of Crises: Some Practical Thinking." He compared the action that we as young Mennonites should take in a time of crisis to that of the captain of a ship. First, steady nerves, courage, confidence, clear-headedness, and good judgment are demanded of us. We should be calm because of a great faith. Secondly, we must make sure of our foundations or, in other words, our basic assumptions. The Jesus way is adequate and sufficient for conditions today. In the third place, we must check our machinery. Do we have inner spiritual reserves that will help us to face crises? Then we must be certain of our direction, and we should know the nature of the crisis we face. Finally, we should put the machinery to work. In our own local communities we can strengthen the church by making it more active and far-reaching. We can discover human needs and solve problems on the community basis. Also we can put community building on a spiritual plane.

Special music was next presented by the men's quartet of the Pretty Prairie C. E., consisting of Leo Voran, Fred Krehbiel, Lawrence Kauffman, and Bud Krehbiel.

Carl Stucky, the winner of the peace oratory contest, stated in his oration, "'More Men Needed'—A New Discovery," that the supreme task in this day is to train for peace and to find a reasonable way of doing it. We may be sure that time, effort, sacrifice, enlightenment, action, and unity are essentials in this program. He suggested that we begin by adopting a National and a Church Peace Program. The National Peace Program should consist of a Peace Department in the President's cabinet and a National Peace Conference which would be made up of all the peace groups in the United States. As a church project he suggested the establishing of peace headquarters in Switzerland to help suffering humanity on European need fronts, giving peace training courses in cooperation with the Friends and the Brethren, and providing all Mennonites with peace instructions, including a unified peace statement.

Announcements were made by Harley Stucky and William Juhnke. Irvin Schmidt, Jacob Goering, and Clinton Kaufman, chairman, were appointed as the nominating committee. During the closing song an offering of $21.69 was taken to help defray the expenses of the free Reatreat scholarships given to the winners of the oratory contests. The meeting was dismissed with prayer.

At 5:00 a luncheon was served to the delegates in the College Dining Hall. The Junior Leaders' Meeting under the guidance of Miss Minnie Schmidt met at 6:00. At the same time the official business session was held with William Juhnke presiding. The opening prayer was given by Rev. Alvin von der Smissen. The secretary's report and the treasurer's report were read and accepted. Edwin Stucky gave a report as peace secretary. This was followed by the presentation of the prayer calendar by Sam Richert. The follow-up system was explained by Paul Goering of the First Mennonite Church of Christian, Moundridge, Kansas, where the first set of follow-up cards has been placed in the Western District. Clinton Kaufman read the secretary's and the treasurer's report of the Retreat committee. The secretary's roll call of delegates revealed that thirty-two churches were officially represented at the convention.

Here follow the resolutions passed at the business meeting. But due to lack of space, they will have to be published in the next issue.—Editor of the MENNONITE.

A WORD OF OUR APPRECIATION: We wish to thank (1) the local church for the use of church properties; (2) the local church folk for the fine hospitality which they have shown; (3) those who have served us lunch; (4) those who have been responsible for making this a successful convention; (5) all those who participated on the program in any way.

The new officers of the convention are Rev. Reynold Weinbrenner, president; Rev. Walter Gering, Retreat Committee; and Sam Richert and Miss Mary Becker, program committee.

Alvin Reimer led the opening song service for the evening session. He was assisted by Emran Gamer at the organ and Miss Verna Kaufman at the piano. Hans Regier, vice-president of the W. D. C. E. Convention, was in charge of this program. Inspiring devotionals were given by the Bethel College Church Senior C. E. The set-up of the Young People's Union was explained by William Juhnke, and Erwin Goering spoke about the Fellowship of Reconciliation. Next Charlotte Penner and her sister Margaret sang a duet for the Emmaus C. E. The address "Young Mennonites in a World of Crises: Things That Abide" was given by Rev. Albert Gaeddert. He said that we should seek first the Kingdom of the Spirit. He emphasized the fact that the church needs to be unified and working together for one purpose. A disciplining of ourselves should be carried on in our attitude of prayer and our attitude of Christian love. He also stressed the point that our trust should be laid in God for He is the only power that abides.

The closing resolutions were read by Harley Stucky. The offering of the evening amounted to $10.42.

Rev. J. N. Smucker dismissed the convention with a benediction.

(Resolutions to be Published Next Week)

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Series: Looking Toward Marriage and the Home

MAIN TOPIC: Youth A-Courting Prov. 3:1-7

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "He leadeth me", "All the way my Savior leads me", "Somebody did a golden deed."
2. Special music—several numbers
3. Talk on "Etiquette of Courtship"
4. Offering for Missions

II. Leader's Introduction

A man is moulded into the likeness of the lives that come nearest him. The nearer people are to each other, and the more they think of each other, the greater will be their influence over each other. It is often said that the friendship between a young man and a young woman is one of the most ennobling influences that come into the lives of a young person. This friendship, which often leads to courtship, is one of the treasures of life, indeed to be coveted.—Since it is one of the most far-reaching and meaningful of life's relationships; it is well worth asking God's leading and His guidance for it.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Love at first sight Gen. 14:61-87.
2. Solomon's wicked relationships 1 Kings 11:1-4.
3. Righteous living, an asset Psalms 34:11-16.
4. Love should abound 1 Thess. 3:12, 13.
5. True love is born of God 1 John 4:7-10.

IV. For Discussion

1. It is important that young people should consider whether they have common interests when they go a-courting?
2. Is it essential that the other party be a Christian? Does that mean church membership?
3. Is the home which the other comes from to be given any consideration?

V. Facts for Study

Courting time is "getting acquainted" time. It is a valuable period of life, a formative period. What your life will be eventually depends in a measure on the choice you make. It is one of the fine things about this period that young folks usually see the good and noble in each other, and draw out the best there is in each other. They are also considerate of each others wishes, courteous in their relationships, kind and loving in their ways. —If these things become a habit, something valuable for life has been gained. Christ should be the center of the home; He will be if He is given a place also in the period of courtship.

VI. Food for Thought

"Can two walk together, except they be agreed?" "The basis of friendship must be community of soul."

Marriage is the strictest tie of perpetual friendship, and there can be no friendship without confidence, and no confidence without integrity; and he must expect to be wretched who pays to beauty, riches or politeness that regard which only virtue and piety can claim. Dr. Johnson

Can You Take It?

Song: "He Leadeth Me"

Poem:

Guide and Friend

He who hath led will lead
All through the wilderness;
He who hath fed will feed;
He who hath blessed will bless;
He who hath heard thy cry,
Will never close his ear;
He who hath marked thy faintest sigh,
Will not forget thy tear.
He loveth always, faileth never;
So rest on Him, today, forever!

Then trust Him today
As thine unfailing friend,
And let Him lead thee all the way,
Who loveth to the end.
And let the morrow rest
In His beloved hand;
His good is better than our best,
As we shall understand—
If, trusting Him who faileth never,
We rest on Him, today, forever!

Anonymous, F. H. Revell Co.

WORSHIP

Scripture Reading Deut. 31:6; 1 Cor. 16:13; Eph. 6:10-13.

Prayer by Superintendent

Read and comment on Matt. 10:16-22.

Song "Jesus, I Have Promised"

Reading and Discussion of following references:

II Tim. 2:3-13—Suffer hardship
II Cor. 3:1-11—Not sufficient of ourselves
Phil. 4:11-13—All things in Christ
I Thess. 5:14, 15—Help from brethren

Prayer Song "Savior, Teach Me Day by Day"

Talk by Pastor—Paul's Sufferings and his attitude toward them.

Song "I Gave My Life for Thee"

Discussion:

1. Can you stand—without complaining—teasing, scorn, real physical and mental suffering?

2. Can you resist holding a grudge against someone whom you feel has wronged you?

3. Why should we be willing to forgive? It really isn't so hard to forgive our friends and those we love. The real test comes when it is necessary to forgive our enemies. When Jesus was teaching on the Mount He told the people that if they loved only their friends they were not doing anything out of the ordinary, for even the wicked loved their friends. But it takes someone with a big soul to love his enemies. We do not deserve any praise for loving our friends; it is only when we are Christian enough to love and forgive our enemies that we have a right to claim a reward."

4. If we have thoughtlessly hurt someone, what should we do?

Offering

A Prayer

Those who love Thee may they find,
Thou forevermore art kind;
Those who trust Thee may they know,
Thou dost hear their cry below.

Those who serve Thee may they see,
Service draws them near to Thee!
May this service, trust and love,
Lead at last to heaven above!

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

"THE FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT"

Gal. 5:22, 23

Program for September 15, 1940

GENTLENESS, GOODNESS

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude Pianist plays the melody of "Take Time to be Holy" very softly. Service Hymnal No. 248.

2. Call to worship, Psalm 100:3. "Know ye that the Lord, He is God, it is He that hath made us and not we ourselves; we are His people and the sheep of His pasture."

3. A Junior girl who reads well, may read the words of the song "Take Time to be Holy"—the pianist playing the melody very softly meanwhile.

4. Sing this song in unison, singing softly.

5. Leader's opening prayer

6. Scripture reading by a Junior boy. Psalm 15 (Mr. Ruskin calls this Psalm "The Gentleman's Psalm." It contains a description of a gentleman).

7. Solo "Living for Jesus" Service Hymnal No. 346. Verse sung as a solo, all join in on the chorus.

II. Study Period

Aim: To help our Juniors to desire the qualities of Gentleness and Goodness and to point them to Him through whom alone they may become truly gentle and good.

1. A Junior girl may repeat from memory Galatians 5:22, 23, writing the "fruits of the spirit" on a blackboard as she names them, using a colored chalk to write the two that are the subject of our study today.

2. Leader's introduction: "Gentleness, Goodness," these words are almost the same in meaning. The word gentleness means goodness and kindness. A gentle spirit is not natural to us, but if we pray to the Lord Jesus He will give us a heart that is gentle and good. Unless there be gentleness in the heart there can be none in the life.

3. A two minute talk on "Be gentle unto all". 2 Tim. 2:24; Titus 3:2; James 3:17—By a Junior boy.

4. Memory verses by a Junior girl Luke 6:31-33, 35-36.

5. A two minute talk on "The Lord Jesus is our example of love and gentleness." 2 Cor. 10:1, by a Junior girl

6. Sing in unison "Since Jesus came into my Heart" Service Hymnal No. 207.

7. Telling Aesop's fable of "The Sun and the Wind"

8. A short discussion of what gentleness is not. It is not rudeness, selfishness, lying, vulgarity.

nothing low, (continue).

9. A discussion of what gentleness is. It is kindness, love, sympathy, politeness, courtesy, sincerity (continue).

10. Bible reading By a Junior boy, Matthew 25: 31-46.

11. Tell the story of "How Joseph returned good for evil" Genesis 45

12. In unison pray "Create in me a clean heart O, God, and renew a right spirit within me" Ps. 51:10.

13. Sing in unison, "Stepping in the Light" Service Hymnal No. 309.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Leaders have the names of missionaries written on slips of paper. The Juniors may each draw a name. Tell where the missionary whose name they have drawn is located. The Leader may then ask the Juniors to pray for that particular missionary this week.

2. Continue Christmas plans, (gifts to our several mission stations).

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat from memory the verse of the month, Galatians 2:20. Help those who have not yet learned it to understand it, and learn it.

2. All girls sing the song of the month, "Here is My Heart, M. H. B. No. 222.

3. All heads bowed, boys together pray the prayer of the month, Psalm 19:14.

4. Softly sing in unison, "Into My Heart"

« « JOTTINGS » »

—"Church Messenger", Eden congregation, Schwenksville, Pa. Rev. Fremont Swartz, editor: MISSIONS: Do not forget that God has given us 2,000,000 Chinese and 1,000,000 natives of India, with several thousand American Indians, for whose spiritual enlightenment we must give account to God.—Young people are questioning the Conscription Bill, not because of a lack of patriotism, but because it vitally effects them and their lives, and they are not entirely convinced of the necessity of their being subjected to what so many of their ancestors left Europe to avoid—Universal Military Training. Once started, when, where will it end? MORE DEBATE, LESS HYSTERIA IS DESIRED !"

—A Card from Dr. A. Warkentin, Camp Gaines, Lake Sequoia, Calif., written Aug. 14, reached us too late for use in last week's paper, so we bring it here:

"Greetings from sunny California. The Retreat at Lake Sequoia is in full swing. Close to 100 young people are attending and more are expected for the week-end. A fine Christian spirit prevails in the group. The giant trees and the beautiful lake are a real inspiration. Rev. L. Hostetler is editor of The Sequoia Daily News, a very interesting two-page daily. The weather here in the mountains is ideal; it was very hot in the valley."

—Rev. Henry Harder of Enid, Okla., has been visiting Western Distict churches in the interests of home mission. On Sunday, Aug. 18, he spoke to the Bethel College Church. He gave a vivid and interesting report of the work of a home missionary in his untiring efforts to seek and find "lost sheep," as it were, and with great patience woo them back into the fold of the church. He showed very plainly how necessary home mission work is in our own Mennonite circles, especially in towns to which our people continually drift.

—Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas.—Dr. J. E. Hartzler of the department of Systematic Theology of Hartford Seminary will conduct a series of inspirational meetings at this church from Sept. 8 through Sept. 15. The following are topics of the addresses the speaker anticipates giving: "Jesus and the World Today", "The Lost Sense of God", "What and Who is Man?", "When is Man Saved?" "Jesus or War", "Building Men for God", "Building the City of God", and "The Supremecy of Christianity."

—Freeman, South Dakota, reports a Retreat, to be held August 25 to 28, at Freeman Junior College. The speakers and courses are as follows: Rev. David C. Wedel, Halstead, Kans., "Building a Reasonable Faith", Dr. Guy Herschberger, Goshen, Indiana, "Principles of Non-resistance"; Rev. P. R. Aeschliman, Wagner, S. Dak., "The Cooperative Way of Life". The Retreat Motto is, "The Christian Testimony in a Time of Crisis." All young people are urged to enroll, although everyone is welcome.

—Mennonite Church, Geary, Okla.—This church in cooperation with the Christian and Methodist churches is conducting a two weeks' Preaching Mission. These open-air union services are well attended. Rev. G. E. Osborn of the Philips University Church, Enid, Okla., brings the message, while his son-in-law, Rev. Dyer of Denver, Colo., leads the singing and sings at each meeting. —Mrs. Frantz, Corr.

—Menno Mennonite Church, Lind, Wash.—Dr. Abraham Warkentin of the Bethel College faculty will be the speaker at a week's series of meetings, August 21-27. Let us start now to pray for a time of spiritual refreshing and to plan our time to attend these meetings. Dr. Warkentin will give a ten minute sketch on Mennonite History before each service. —From "Bulletin"

—Second Church, Beatrice, Nebraska, reports in its Bulletin that Dr. Henry A. Fast, Executive Peace Secretary of our conference, is visiting the two churches in that community in the interests of peace. At one meeting he will speak on our peace position, he will give some time to interviews on the peace problem and also hold open discussions on the same subject. The last evening he will show moving pictures of his trip to South America and also pictures taken in the wilds of Saskatchewan.

—First Mennonite Church, Reedley, Calif. reports in its Bulletin that our missionaries from Oraibi, Arizona, Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Suderman, were with them recently, also that the congregation was about to vote on a resolution to employ Rev. Edgar Toevs as assistant pastor for a term of nine months beginning Sept. 25, 1940.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—This church sent the following as delegates to the Middle Dist. Conference at Donnellson, Iowa. Rev. H. T. Unruh, Dr. L. L. Ramseyer, Rev. Grover Soldner, Gerhart Buhler and D. W. Bixler.—Mrs. Verna Patterson of Idaho is visiting her mother, Mrs. Christina Kohli, who has been critically ill. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Blosser and family expect to move to Seven Mile, near Hamilton, where he will be an instructor in the schools. —Correspondent

PRAY WITHOUT CEASING

Thess. 5:17

Men often say little with many words; God, however, can say tremendously much in a few words. What a depth and wealth of meaning in the three words of our theme! Does this injunction mean that we must always stand in prayer or on bended knees? No, for in the previous chapter the apostle exhorts the Thessalonians to work with their hands that they may be in good repute with their heathen neighbors. A true Christian is thrifty and works, and is usually busy at some steady calling. But it is possible that his work, his business may so engross him that he finds little if any time for prayer. Therefore the warning, Pray without Ceasing. But there are kinds of work in which one cannot well pray, as for instance when solving a mathematical problem or playing a difficult piece of music for the first time. What Paul means is this: The true Christian will, without ceasing, remain in close touch with the Master, and he dare never let go of Him nor lose sight of Him. In the case of the calculator or musician, if they be Chrisetians, they should be in a condition to communicate with God upon finishing their task, even if it be just a silent cry of the heart or an inaudible whisper. The Christian's connection with Christ must be so vital that His presence is constantly felt, that the bond with Him is not loosened. It must be as real as the sainted Lavater explained it: Between my Christ and me time and distance are non-existant. He is just to be thought of as in an adjoining room, where one has free access to Him, to obtain strength, help, instruction, guidance.—To pray without ceasing means to be in a prayerful attitude right along, with the readiness to communicate with God as need arises. Prayer need not be audible. The German poet very aptly says "Wenn auch die Lippen schweigen, so betet doch das Herz, and die Gedanken steigen bestaending himmelwaerts." Though the lips may be silent, the heart goes on praying, and the thoughts are constantly ascending heavenward. —T.

UNITED AFTER FOUR HUNDRED YEARS

In the year 1529, at Marburg, Germany, Martin Luther and Ulrich Zwingli were debating the question of the significance of the body of Christ in the Lord's Supper. But the debate brought no agreement. A division, with two faiths or churches, was the result. Now four hundred years later, in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, delegates of the Evangelical Synod of North America convened with delegates of the Reformed Church in the United States and succeeded in consumating a merger between the two bodies, the Evangelical and Reformed Church. Speaking of this event, the Christian Herald fittingly comments, "Those who don't like churches will remind us that it took these two four hundred years to get together; and those less caustic will remind us that it took the U. S. branches of these churches six years to work out the details. But what of that? The churches have plenty of time. What they should remember is that these two great communions are joining on a broad, common base of mutual respect and confidence." Is not there a lesson for us Mennonites in this? O Lord, help that the divided bodies of this faith may soon follow the good example reported above, and that preparations may soon begin looking toward a merger! —T

A SACRAMENT OF WORK

For Labor Day

Upon thy bended knees thank God for work,
Work—once man's penance, now his high reward!
For work to do and strength to do the work,
We thank Thee, Lord!

Since outcast Adam toiled to make a home,
The primal curse a blessing has become,
Man in his toil finds recompense for loss;
A workless world had known nor Christ nor Cross.

Som toil for love, and some for simple greed,
Some reap a harvest, past their utmost need,
More, in their less, find truer happiness,
And all, in work, relief from bitterness.

A toiler with His hands was God's own Son;
Like His, to Him be all thy work well done.
None so forlorn as he that hath no work,
None so abject as he that work doth shirk.

Upon thy bended knees, thank God for work!
In workless days all ills and evils lurk,
For work to do, and strength to do the work,
We thank Thee, Lord!

What Are We Thinking in Times Like This?

by Phil. A. Wedel, Sec. of Gen. Conf.

At the present time our position towards national policies and world conditions may seem precarious. I would like to suggest a few things that we as Mennonite people should keep clearly in mind. Why is it that human beings who love peace so much should be denied it? Why should those who hate war so much be marched into its bloody fields?

I. Why Are There Wars?

From God's point of view there are two reasons for war: War may be either a vindication of Divine justice or a chastisement from Divine justice. Among the first kinds of wars is recorded the one which Michael waged in heaven as he flashed his archangelic sword against Lucifer in defense of the rights of God. But there are other wars which are not for the vindication of God's honor but are a punishment for man's dishonor. James 4:1 reads" From whence come wars and contentions among you? Are they not hence from your concupisciences which war is your members?"

It is to be noticed that James blames the wars not on ideologies, but on men, not on politics, but on concupiscences, not on trade balances, but on sin. When revolting against God, man will first revolt against man. The conflict on battlefields is but the extension of the conflict within man. Jeremiah said "My people have done two evils. They have forsaken me the fountain of living water and have digged themselves cisterns that hold no water."

WHEN MEN FORGET GOD THAN WAR COMES

Furthermore God judges men not by their nations but by their justice; not by their flags but by their hearts. And if there are more men that fear God and pray to Him then God is more on their side than on the other. God is on neither side of the nations in time of war. "God wills not the death of any one but that he should be converted and live." Therefore God is with the just on both sides and against the evil on both sides. God judges men not by their flags but by their justice.

If war comes by injustice and forgetfulness of God does it not behoove us to examine our individual and national life? As in the days of Israel wars came because they forgot God, so today wars come for the same reason.

Therefore before we pick up stones to cast at the adulteress across the sea we ought to turn the searchlight on our own consciences. What is the use of the world overthrowing a Stalin if it keeps the spirit that breeds a Stalin. To oppose a nation justly as the enemy of God we must believe in God and live as those who do. If we will keep sacred the landmarks that our fathers have set and keep our faith in God, our nation will be saved from war.

II. What Is Our Attitude Toward War?

Let us as Christians remember that we have a task before us. We "wrestle not against flesh and blood but against principalities and powers, against the rulers of the world of darkness, against the spirit of wickedness." There is a great contrast between the way of the sword and the way of the cross. We believe in saving rather than destroying it. We believe that war is a futile way of attempting to obtain justice, maintain peace, and preserve high values. Only with good can evil be overcome, hence violence must be abandoned. In expressing these doctrines we do not cite new ones but express only the age old faith of the Church which has been precious to our fathers from the time the Church was founded.

The principles of peace of our Denomination should be taught in every circle, in every Church. The General Conference has a Peace Committee whose duty it is to promote the ideals of peace in our churches. However they must have funds to carry on. The Churches of the General Conference should not forget our Peace Committee in their offerings. Why not have a steady flow of funds into that committee in this earnest time! The need is urgent to make our peace principles effective. During a time when the War mongers are crying loudly, when military Conscription Bills are before Congress it is most urgent that we get the necessary information before us. Our young men need the counsel and the advice that can be given most effectively from this conference source.

We pray that the blessings and guidance of a beneficient God may continue to rest upon our nation and that He may keep us from the curse of war, and should He permit our nation to be plunged by the War god into this conflict going on in Europe may we remain true to our principles of faith.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS will be put to severe tests if the proposed conscription bill now before the Congress is passed. Those who claim exemption must do more than show a certificate of membership in one of the historic peace churches. They must show that they are active members and that their objections to war are sincere and well-grounded. This is as it should be. The government officials deserve our full cooperation in seeking to determine whether claims for exemption are based upon religious convictions and a willingness to suffer for them, or whether they arise out of the selfish motives of desiring to escape the inconveniences and dislocations resulting from military conscription

CHRISTIAN HOSPITAL, CHAMPA, INDIA

An Engagement Ceremony

Last Thursday morning at 10:15 a young Christian man approached me with a long list of names. It was an invitation for the engagement ceremony of one of the Indian Christian girls, to be held at 5 P. M. that day. A check mark was put behind my name on the slip to indicate that I had received the invitation and if possible would attend. As the man passed out of the door he said over his shoulder that I was expected to take charge of the devotional services.

In India the engagement of Christians is usually celebrated with a short devotional service. One member of each Christian family is invited. No one seems offended nor calls it a 'pick' party. After the service sweets or tea or both are given to the guests. The poverty of the people makes it impossible or inadvisable for them to invite the whole church.

Being pastor of the Champa church it became my duty to conduct the service. I have not taken out a license to perform marriage ceremonies, thus being relieved of that job. Here the minister has to have a license before he can perform a marriage ceremony. The two who give each other the marriage vows do not have to have a license. After the wedding the certificate of marriage is sent to the Registrar of Vital Statistics.

We left the bungalow at 5 P. M. to go to the Bride-to-be's home. Just outside the compound I picked up her father who was on his way home. I upbraided him a bit for giving me such short notice and not giving me more time for preparation. He replied by saying that he himself got the notice at 2 P. M. and barely got the train to Champa. He was working on a contract job about 40 miles from Champa.

When they were finally ready to begin the service—such services never start on the appointed time—the father of the bride-to-be came to me and told me that I could now begin, all was ready. I asked him, "By the way, what is the name of the young man?" He scratched his head and said, "Why I don't know! I will go and ask." Wedding arrangements are made in a very short time, made usually by the parents, but I had never experienced a case where the parent did not know whom his daughter was about to marry. The rest of the service was uneventful. Angelina and Milan Das exchanged rings during the service as a sign of their promises and after the service a few sweets were served.

YOUNG PEOPLE ACTIVE IN CHURCH WORK

East Freedom, Pa., July 16, 1940

Dear Brothers of the Home Mission Board:

Here it is past time for my report again, but better late than never is an old saying.

Conditions here seem to be about normal or perhaps a little better. I think it would be well here to tell you a little of our organization; we have a board of trustees, two deacons and a deaconess, secretary and treasurer in our church, then the Sunday School has its own officers save treasurer, church treasurer serves both. Our Young People have their president, secretary, treasurer and program committee. Our Ladies Aid Society have their own officers, president, secretary, and treasurer. The Brotherhood have their own president, secretary and treasurer. All of these organizations are active.

There are still some persons here who desire to be baptized by emersion, so on June 30 we held services at the creek in the meadow below the church and four of our young folks were baptized. There were two young men and two young ladies.

I had the privilege of baptizing one of my own daughters, also one other about the same age, and one young married man age 22 who married one of the girls from our church, and this spring came and made public confession of Christ as his Savior, and another young man eighteen years of age. This makes a total gain of nine baptized members for our church this year.

For the second time since our coming to Smith Corner death claimed one of our members, when a tank of 5,000 gallons of highway oil exploded, enveloping Charles Nofsker, aged 30, and burning him beyond recognition, nothing left but the torso. This makes one wish that he could make everyone see and believe the story of salvation. July 15, just ysterday, a coal mine only 14 miles from here blew up entrapping a number of men. This morning there had been one taken out alive and 61 dead.

Now concerning the spiritual condition of our group, I am glad that I can say that with few exceptions the Spiritual condition is good. The interest seems to be good, the attendance good, the offerings however are not what they should be.

We have two organized Sunday School classes which meet once each month in homes or the church basement for a business meeting and social hour. Our Young People have a program from seven till seven-thirty each Sunday evening. These two groups have gone together and are paying $1.50 monthly to the preacher's salary.

The regular services are held each Sunday, Sunday School attendance 56, average offering $2.62. Morning worship attendance same or near, offering about $1.00 or less, Young People's meeting they have their own treasurer and contribute as above stated, evening worship attendance 45 to 50, offering low.

If I have ommited anything you may want to know please feel free to ask questions, and please visit us when you can.

Sincerely, John S. Raugh

PUBLICATION

THE NEW HYMN BOOK

Regarding the progress that is being made with this book, THE MENNONITE HYMNARY, it can be said that a dummy of 143 pages of the book, after having just gone through the stages of final proof reading at the hands of C. E. Krehbiel, W. H. Hohmann and J. R. Thierstein, this part, about one-fourth of the book, is now ready to be printed. Another good-sized batch of proof for final reading is promised. The distance between Newton, Kansas, and the Methodist Book Concern of New York is a negligible item, for proofs come to the readers by air mail, are promptly read and corrected, and airmailed back to New York. Thus the work of publishing and finishing the book is expedited in every way possible and, just as soon as it is humanly possible to do so, the book will be made ready for sale and use. May we pray that the book will do much for the glory of God and His Kingdom, and that it may find favor with our people, so that a more and more united Mennonite constituency may see their way through to make use of it.

A NEW MENNONITE HISTORY

Our chief Mennonite historian, Dr. C. H. Smith, Professor of History at Bluffton College, and author of "The Mennonites of America", "The Mennonites", "The Coming of the Russian Mennonites", "The Immigration of Mennonites to Pennsylvania", and other Mennonite historical publications, has for some time been gathering material for and writing another treatise in the Mennonites. He intimates that this will probably be his last contribution. Be this as it may, we recognize that this is another gift of his to our people and we consider ourselves fortunate in having a man like Dr. Smith who has the scholarship, the spiritual insight and vision, and the capacity for work to produce these books that mean so much to us and our cause, and also to the world, as it begins to appreciate the cause for which our fathers have stood for four hundred years.

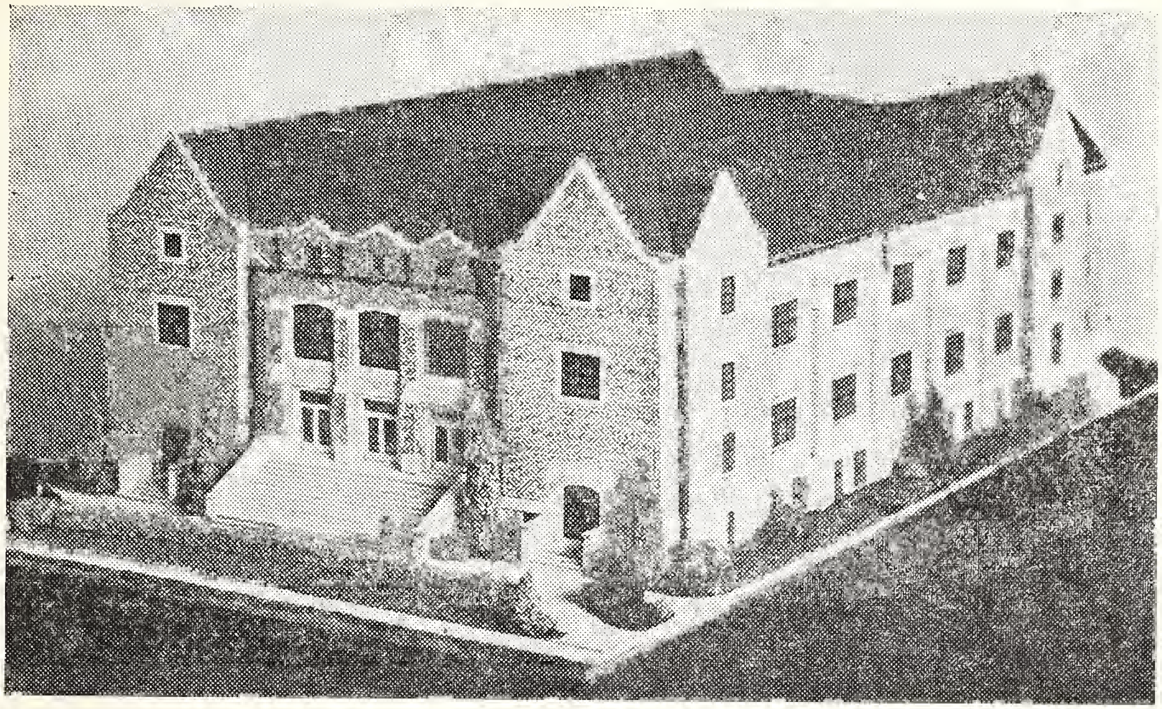
Dr. Smith has magnanimously offered this new monumental work to the Board of Publication of the General Conference for publication and dissemination. And as our Mennonite Book Concern seems to be in a position to handle and see this project through, the Board has graciously accepted the task. This new book by Dr. Smith is somewhat like his "The Mennonites", a general history of our people, which was so well received that it was sold out in less than two years. Only this new book is more complete and features many new findings and items. The author calls it, "THE STORY OF THE MENNONITES", and, as the title suggests, it reads like a story and is devoid of the tedium of many so-called histories. It is a story of our people, simply and interestingly told. We who with a couple of other brethren have been privileged to go through the manuscript find it so. Once having started to read the "Story" one feels like reading on and on. The book will be printed and published in the near future. —T

INVITATION

God willing, the farewell service for Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Penner, returning missionaries to India, will take place in the Hillsboro High School auditorium at 2:30 P. M. on Sept. 15, 1940. The Brudertal Mennonite Church cordially invites all mission friends to attend.

Arnold E. Funk, Pastor

HAS THE CHURCH FATHOMED ITS DUTIES? In his book, "Invisible Stripes," Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing Prison, states in his chapter on "Church or Religion" that of 1,412 prisoners (in 1937) only three said they had no religion. In a recent survey, 730 were Catholic, 496 Protestant, 170 Jews, 12 Christian Science, 1 Buddhist. Less than half of these, however were regular attendants at church services." The warden then comments, "Were I a responsible religious leader, I would not be content with the fact that religion boasts of over 232,000 church edifices throughout these United States. I would be deeply concerned with the fact that most of them are unable to fill their pews. I would worry considerably about the 17,000,000 children and youths of America who are without direct church affilation. I would be distressed over the growing apathy toward church among young and old. I would be ashamed to admit that the church plays so little a part in the lives of millions of adolescents as to leave them barren of spiritual development. And I would plead guilty to a lack of vision which sets the church aloof and indifferent to social and economic currents which lash at the human mind and heart in swirling orgies of hunger and want and death and destruction."



BETHEL COLLEGE MEMORIAL HALL

This Building is being erected as a Memorial to Mennonite and other Christian Pioneers of this Country

An ever growing student body has made it increasingly necessary to provide a more adequate assembly hall. The auditorium on the main floor will seat two thousand five hundred people. This will make it possible for the school to present its various dramatic and musical productions and to invite various organizations to have their conference meetings here. The physical education department will have its headquarters on this floor with the auditorium serving as a gymnasium. Offices of the physical education directors are to be located on this floor also.

The basement of the new building will house the kitchen and dining hall and the student union room for which there has been great need. Besides these, there will be space for the College Book Store and the Post Office which at present are located in the Administration Building where the space they take up is badly needed for more class rooms.

Memorial Hall will fill a very real need for Bethel College. It will release the present dining hall for dormitory purposes. At present the dormitories are so crowded that is has been necessary in many cases to assign three students to rooms which were intended for only two, a very unsatisfactory arrangement. Then, too, Alumni Hall which thus far has served as the gymnasium has been remodeled to take care of the newly acquired Kauffman Museum. This makes it necessary to provide some other place for physical education, arranged and equipped to meet up-to-date requirements.

The thought has been that this building shall stand as a memorial to the pioneers of this country. Many families are erecting a memorial to their parents or grandparents by a one thousand dollar gift to Bethel College to be used for the building. A plaque is to be placed in the foyer of Memorial Hall as a token of this memorial.

The architect's estimate of the cost of the building is approximately $100,000, but with the aid of friends who so generously donate their time and labor, it is hoped that the total cost will not come to that figure. At present there is still about $10,000 lacking. With the opening of school the adminstration of the college intends to intensify its efforts to secure the funds necessary to complete this Memorial Hall.

Approximately one-third of the brick for the walls was laid during the month of August and the outlook for putting the building under roof and make it available for use by New Year is hopeful. Much of the work so far has been done by students and by labor donated by friends of Bethel College from surrounding communities.

State and Church Colleges

By Wendell L. Willkie

On January 27, 1940, Mr. Willkie delivered an interesting address at the celebration of the 70th Anniversary of the founding of the College of Wooster, in Ohio. During the course of his address, he traced the financial difficulties with which church-related and independent colleges are confronted at this time. Then Mr. Willkie said:

"In view of these financial difficulties why should the independent college struggle to maintain its existence and to expand its effort when so many of the state universities, tax-supported, are doing a good job? That is, I think, an intelligent question and one which a great many people are asking. And I think that the answer to it is as clear and compelling as the answer to the more general question related to it: Why shouldn't we let the Government take over our industries and provide for our needs? The answer is that the life and vitality of education, and the life and vitality of a nation's economic system, come from independent enterprise.

"State universities are good today—where they are good—primarily because there are independent colleges and universities which force them to a high standard. The independent college does not have to ask itself: What will the State Legislature think if we undertake this program? It does not have to say: Will this or that activity offend the politicians? It does not have to depend on a lobby in the State Capitol to get funds. Dr. Ralph Hutcheson, the President of Washington and Jefferson College, makes this point very clear in a recent statement: 'We hold that in the battle against the super-State, against state control of thought and political control of education, it is valuable to have alongside the state universities a system of colleges not beholden, not subsidized, not so quickly amenable to political interference. The day will come when the sturdy independence of endowed colleges may help to save the others from political strangulation.'

"Believe me when I tell you, the fight was never more important than now. We have seen in this country a great program undertaken in the name of liberalism, become transformed into a program which is the opposite of liberalism—a program designed to centralize power in one authority. Without the leadership of the independent college, our educational system today would be in danger of accepting political standards as unquestioningly as they are now accepted by educational institutions in Germany."

SERMON SKETCH

DO — KNOW — UNDERSTAND

by J. H. Langenwalter

John 3:17. "Jesus answered and said unto him (Peter), What I do thou knowest not now: but thou shalt understand hereafter."

The word "do" plays a large part in the life of Jesus. He had not only committed to memory the great passages of the Old Testament such as Isaiah 61:1-3; he had put these things into deeds which everyone understood, except those who were not willing to do the things they should have done.

The creed of Jesus lay in the simple words: "I have come to do the will of my Father who sent me." He admonished His disciples in many ways that doing the will of the Father was a matter of first importance. It was more important than blood relationships.

When John the Baptist lay in prison because he had dared to tell the truth he sent two of his disciples to Jesus asking Him: "Art Thou He that cometh, or look we for another?" The answer of Jesus was: "Go your way and tell John the things that ye hear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good tidings preached to them." Just plain facts which give one only a glimpse of what Jesus had been doing day in and day out. So far as we know this answer satisfied John.

What Jesus did was not always clear to men, even to some of those who were near Him much of the time. That was the difficulty with Peter as he faced Jesus after the supper in the story from which our text is taken. For some time Peter had allowed other interests to becloud what the Master was doing. Some of his dreams about the Kingdom of God had not come true, fortunately, but Peter's mind had been so attached to his dreams that he no longer saw clearly what His Master was doing. Hence the thought-provoking words of Jesus: "What I do."

Peter had been with Jesus long enough to learn to know many things of great value. What he had not learned fully enough was the fact that there were still many things of great value which he had not learned to know. Hence the words of Jesus: "thou knowest not now." There is a tang of sadness in these words. NOW was the time Peter should have known what his Master was about. He was not asked to fully understand NOW. That requires time, but to know what kind of thing a person like Jesus is about, that is another matter. Not to know that, means a lack of vital readiness as His follower. That lack had become more and more evident in the lives of the disciples for some time. Peter's flare-up against the Master's simple request to wash his feet at this time was not a matter of a moment. That was the result of a lot of Peter-centered thinking for some time. This made him unprepared to see what the Master had in mind and put him into a bad frame of mind to grasp what it was all about.

Peter's re-action shows that he pitied himself because he did not know. Let us remember that he might have known.

"But thou shalt understand hereafter." That is the spirit of Jesus which Peter had not caught. No matter how dark the night for Jesus, He never lost hope for Himself nor for others. He might have scolded Peter on this occasion; He might have pitied Himself because His disciples had quarreled among each other as to who was to be the greatest in the Kingdom for which they were unfitting themselves by their very attitudes. He did nothing of the kind. He threw out a challenge to Peter to brace up, face the facts and do the thing that needed to be done. That thing was to do the will of the Father and not to insist on what Peter wanted.

Inviting Others To Worship God

Psalm 96 Study 67, 96, 98

Introduction

Psalm 96 is almost the same as David's thanksgiving song when he brought the ark of God into Jerusalem as recorded in 1 Chron. 16:23-33. It may well be that this Psalm was written after that joyous occasion. His heart is overflowing with joy. He feels constrained to sing and wants others to sing too. Psalm 96 is a call to worship Jehovah. Worship needs to be made vital and attractive and we should clearly see our obligation to worship.

Praising the Lord vs 1-6

God's salvation so fills the hearts of men that they must sing praises to Him and indeed a new song fills the heart. David was so overjoyed that only a new song could express it. We need a new song and inspiration from time to time in our worship. Praise and adoration are a part of worship. The true spirit of worship should find expression every day (v2). God expects that His grace and glory should be declared among the "heathen", nations (v3). When we really appreciate our salvation we will naturally desire to declare God's glorious gift of salvation to all nations. David thinks of God's greatness (v4). He is no tribal deity like the gods served by other nations. They are mere idols (v5), helpless, powerless, lifeless. In contrast with these, God is all-powerful and needs to be "greaty praised." Honor, majesty, strength and beauty belong to Him.

Expressing Devotion to Jehovah vs 7-9

These verses contain a command and an exhortation. God is to be the object of our worship because He is worthy (v7). We are to give Him the honor and glory He deserves. We are to assemble in His courts, His house, and bring our offerings there for Him (v8). Our worship needs to be beautiful and glorious within, with the inward graces of faith, love, humility and holiness (v9).

God's Universal Worship vs 10-13

God's purpose is to make Himself known to all the world. His people are to proclaim His rule over all nations and Jesus as Savior and Lord. All creation is poetically represented as rejoicing because of the Lord's righteous rule and judgments in the earth. His active rulership will be in righteousness and truth.

Worship of God

In true worship God and man both have a part. God inspires us to worship. Our part is to open the mind and heart so that He can give us inspiration. Silence, meditation has a real part in worship. Worship is adoration, the bowing before God in reverent contemplation and ascribing to Him honor and praise. In a looser sense, our entire public church service is commonly regarded as a worship service. True prayer is the very heart of worship. There must be a reverent attitude of soul and a desire that our lives be in harmony with God's will, before there can be true worship.

Christian worship is of a highly elevated and spiritual character because we regard God as infinitely exalted and holy. He gives to us all our blessings, gave us our being and the gift of Christ. This should move us to adore Him and submit fully to His will. Through worship we come into conscious fellowship with God, our hearts are inspired and quickened. They who worship God because of what He is, and delight in His fellowship, experience the deepest joy and receive the greatest blessings at His hand.

—OKLAHOMA BIBLE ACADEMY opens September 8, with exercises and program afternoon and evening, classes beginning the ninth. The announcement says, "We offer a fully accredited four year high school course under wholesome Christian influence; also a two and three year Bible course with the main object that the student may learn to know Christ and then be ready to serve Him." Charges for tuition, board and lodging are very reasonable, in fact, meager. The school covets the prayers of Christian friends, which we do for all our schools.

CORRESPONDENCE

UPPER MILFORD CHURCH, ZIONSVILLE, PA.

This year's services were very well attended and great interest has been shown. The Sunday School attendance, too, has been better than ever, a number of new faces has recently been noticed among our Sunday School group. There is little chance to increase attendance or membership from among the rural group, since many or most of them have regular Sunday School affiliations, but the bus, chartered by the Church, brings quite a number of young people from Emmaus.

During the summer months, our services begin at nine o'clock, and end promptly at eleven, thus allowing people living at some distance to return promptly for their noon-time meals. These nice cool Sunday morning hours brought out quite a large number of members and not a few visitors who took advantage of this pleasant arrangement. The regular church services begin at nine, and the Sunday School sessions promptly at ten o'clock. This will permit our pastor time to get to his city-church in time for his morning services there. The superintendents, too, get a vacation, and even the regular teachers of the adult classes have a six-week vacation, since their classes are united for the summer and are taught by visiting teachers.

The annual harvest home services will be held Sunday, September 22.—Daniel Schantz, a junior at Bluffton College, attended Summer School there, returning home the other week. He will return to Bluffton on Saturday September 7.—Sundays, August 25 and September 1, are the Pastor's vacation Sundays. He expects to spend most of his vacation in and around Allentown, taking short trips with his family during the two weeks. The Pastor's wife has been absent from our Upper Milford services for these rather hectic months for the pastor. We hope to see her again after the vacation months.

1940 is a banner year for the Upper Milford Congregation! It is just 200 years that they built their rude log church in the wilderness of Pennsylvania, here at what is now Zionsville, Pa. While the congregation had probably previously organized they did not have a house of worship until 1740, so that this was the first church or school of any kind in this township, since this log meeting house had been used for school and church purposes. Sessions to commemorate this anniversary will be held Sunday, September 8, Thursday, September 12, and a session by the Eastern District Conference, Sunday, September 15.

Mennonite Youth Follow-up Service

Mr. X was a member of a good Mennonite family! As time passed the family spread apart. One went to Wichita where there was no Mennonite Church. Another member of the family joined a Church in Dallas, Texas. Today only ONE member of that family is a Mennonite!

In getting at the root of this problem the Mennonite Young People's Union of North America passed the following resolution in its session at Saskatoon, 1938:

"That we recommend that the incoming executive committee be instructed to devise a system whereby young people leaving their home for school or work be placed in contact with Mennonites in their new locality."

After discussing the possibilities of such a plan with pastors and lay leaders the Y. P. Committee decided that any plan must be 1. wide in scope, 2. personal, and 3. handled by Christian Endeavor groups through their pastors.

A detailed plan was worked out which was first published in the pages of "Our Youth Says" on Feb. 21, 1939.

That plan was revised and tried with one C. E. using 140 names. Estimated cost was checked. It was found that the installation cost would be three cents per name—and perhaps less with a larger group. The total cost of maintaining the index is less than five cents per name.

The cost included collection and checking the name list for inadequate addresses; printing addressograph plates for each name; putting Church and sex tabs on each plate; printing double post cards; labor, postage and other incidentals. Free use of filing cases was arranged. Salutations were placed on each plate at no extra cost.

The needs met by the Follow-Up Service are:

1. It keeps contact of young people leaving their home for school or work.

2. It places them in contact with Mennonites in the new community.

3. It will be wide in scope aiming to include all young people in the conference.

4. It is personal using individual names and addresses.

5. It is handled through the pastors by C. E. groups.

6. It faces the problem of proselyting.

7. Addresses are on file for each person between 15-30. These are made up-to-date when new permanent addresses are reported to the Mennonite Youth Follow-Up Office by sending in the upper card.

8. Church tabs make selective group contact possible. The office will offer the use of these names to each pastor for any message he desires to his own group. The individual church pays such cost.

9. Sex tabs make this type of selective mailing possible. A letter to boys in the draft age could be distributed quickly.

10. It is economical, costing each C. E. less than five cents per name for all these services.

SUGGESTIONS FOR Y. P. WORK

Mis Esther Amstutz, president of the Middle Dist. Y. P. Union, outlined the following suggestions for the business meeting of the Young People's session of the Middle Dist. Conference, which convened recently at Donnellson, Iowa.

A. Support of our educational institutions through attendance, prayer, moral support, and monetary support of our schools.

B. Retreats—the annual retreat we have now should be continued as heretofore. An additional week-end retreat for adult young people should be encouraged. Young people in business could much more easily attend a two or three day retreat than the entire week which is the present set-up.

C. Financial support of the work of the Young People's Committee of the General Conference. In a recent report from Mr. Juhnke, Secretary and Treasurer of the Young People's Committee it was revealed that 3 districts alone had carried the entire financial burden.

D. Use and support of the C. E. Standards and Applications. This suggestion is a result of the resolution adopted by the Young People of the General Conference.

E. Continue the Vine Press—Drive to increase number of subscriptions, news contributions and so forth by all churches.

F. Encourage a Y. P. paper aside from "Our Youth Says" in the Mennonite. Mr. Weinbrenner has mentioned this possibility several times in "Our Youth Says."

G. Peace Work—This is a pertinent issue at the present time. Especially we might urge individuals and groups to remind our Congressmen of our stand in matters relating to war.

H. Mennonite History—More should be done to acquaint young people with this. Perhaps some history can be made a regular part of the C. E. Program in each church, or more space given in our church papers.

I. "The Mennonite Hymnary"—This should be supported by offerings and more important, by encouraging adoption for use in all Mennonite churches.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED BY THE WESTERN DISTRICT C. E. CONVENTION AT ITS LAST MEETING

(Concluded from last week)

The resolutions committee consisting of Harley Stucky, chairman, Walter K. Ewert, and Roger Regier presented the following resolutions which were adopted with one amendment as shown.

PEACE: A. We are grateful to our heavenly Father for the privilege of living in a Democratic land which still enjoys the blessings of Peace. We wish to express our grateful hearts for this blessing by reemphasizing the words of old—"Glory to God in the highest and on earth Peace, Good will to men."

B. We will promote the cause of Peace by what we Say and Do and especially (1) by cooperating with the Peace Committee; (2) by continuing the Peace Rallies; (3) by distributing Peace literature; (4) by supporting the Kansas Institute of International Relations; (5) by endorsing the action program of the F. O. R. (Fellowship of Reconcilation); (6) by holding another oratory contest if at least 8 entrants register by May 1, 1941.

C. We resolve further (1) to uphold to the best of our ability the Biblical Peace convictions of our forefathers; (2) to protest the passage of the conscription bill; (3) to register with the Peace secretary, thereby showing willingness to practice the cooperation and self discipline needed to carry out an immediate dynamic and sacrificial service program.

D. The Convention goes on record as endorsing the Wichita project and the proposed Bethel College Mennonite Training Camp. We commend the Western District Peace Committee for its endorsement of these projects and assure them of our contributions. We urge our young people to avail themselves of the opportunities which these service camps afford. Amendment: The secretary is to figure out a certain per cent of the unearmarked money that comes into the treasury that should be sent to the Western District Peace Committee.

E. We recommend the following steps to be taken by those of draft age if the Selective Training and Service Bill passes: (1) register with the local board under protest; (2) state your conscientious objections to war and to participation in military training; (3) state desire to perform service under civil or church direction; (4) be prepared to state simply, honestly, and clearly your Christian pacifist position when called before the examining board.

MISSIONS: We resolve to meet the ever increasing mission challenge by (1) reemphasizing Christ's command, "Go ye out unto all the world, and baptize all nations;" (2) by increasing our effort to supplement this commandment by our contributions, the first $50.00 to go to the support of Ernest Harder.

RETREAT: (1) Resolved that the young people attend the Convention-sponsored Retreat because it is a great source of inspiration and is an excellent place for young people to relax from the cares of everyday life and to reconsecrate themselves to the things which are eternal; (2) Resolved that an annual secretary-treasury report of the Retreat Committee be made at the business session of the C. E. Convention.

FOLLOW-UP: Resolved that the executive committee be given power to act to complete installation of the follow-up system and that local societies offer their full cooperation by (a) supplying the correct names and addresses of members between the ages of 15 and 30; (b) and that local societies avail themselves of this opportunity by making the necessary contribution which will be 5¢ per member.

STANDARDS: Resolved, that we steadily endeavor to improve our C. E. societies by using the Young People's Standards as a basis.

TIDINGS: Resolved that the Western District Young People's publication, the "Tidings", be continued under the executive committee and that (1) the executive committee appoint an editor; (2) that it be discontinued when a separate conference youth paper comes out; (3) local societies are urged to appoint or elect a reporter who sends news and secures group subscriptions.

LOCAL C. E.'S TIE-UP WITH EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE: Resolved; (1) that these resolutions be published; (2) that copies thereof be sent by the secretary to the officers of the General Conference; (3) that wherever possible C. E. representatives report back to their local societies; (4) that local societies strive to keep in touch with the Convention officers and to support the Western District Christian Endeavor projects.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Senior C. E. Topic for Sept. 22, 1940

MAIN TOPIC: When Youth Marries Eph. 5:25-33

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Come we that love the Lord" "Savior like a shepherd lead us"
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Story of Isaac's marriage (found in Gen. 24)
4. Offering for Missionary Project

II. Leader's Introduction

Marriage should be looked upon as a sacrament. The vows should be made before God in a service that is essentially and deeply religious. Christian young people will want the blessing of Christ and His Church to rest upon their union. They realize "Who holds to his another heart, must needs be worse or better," and feel the need for mutual consecration to the ideals of Christ at the beginning of their journey together on life's highway. There is nothing more beautiful than the hope and joy in the hearts of two young people as they look forward to living together if both of their lives are as one in the service of the Lord.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Creatively, "one flesh." Gen. 2:21-24.
2. A disastrous union. Judges 16:4, 5, 15-20.
3. The progenitors of Christ. Ruth 4:13-17
4. The two are one. Mark 10:1-9.
5. Believers not marry unbelievers. 2 Cor. 6:14-16.
6. Marital relationship. 1 Cor. 7:1-5.

IV. For Discussion

1. What may young people expect of each other after they are married?

2. May the wedding day, and the wedding ceremony be a help toward a happy marriage?

3. Do the preparations for the wedding help to impress on the young people the importance of marriage, or are they a hindrance?

V. Facts for Study

Marriage has love as its foundation and as its corner stone. Without love any marriage is a travesty.

The wedding day marks a milestone in life. It is being looked forward to by both the bride and the groom. The bride puts piece by piece of precious articles into her hope chest. The groom saves and plans for the home to which he plans to take her. Both of them dream dreams, which make life rich and happy.

It marks the day when both leave the parental home. Till now they have been cared for and been sheltered and protected. Now they are to take the responsibility of maintaining a home upon themselves. They are to care for and to take care of each other. They are to have open eyes and willing hands and feet to give to each other aid and comfort and inspiration and courage.

It also marks the date when they take on a new relationship to the community in which they make their home. It is no longer each of them a member of their own family, but the two together a new family with definite influence in the community group.

VI. Illustrations

Perhaps the following two stories carry a suggestion even for the wedding day.

"Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee"

A little girl had been told many times by a childless old couple that if she would come and live with them, they would get her everything she wanted, a pony and cart, a piano, and the like. One day when they had been particularly urgent her father, with whom she was riding, said: "Don't you think you had better go with them?" The little girl looked up at him in alarm and cried, "Why, Father, don't you want me?" "Yes," he replied, "but I can't give you very much, and they will give you everything nice." "But I wouldn't have you!" she said as she snuggled up to him.

"A Friend Loveth at All Times"

A man went into a flower shop the other day, and selected a few flowers, saying, "They are my wife's favorites." The young lady expressed sympathy at the illness of his wife. "Ill!" he exclaimed. "My wife is as well as you are, thank you." The assistant apologized, saying, "I beg your pardon for my mistake, but to tell you the truth, husbands don't usually buy flowers for their wives unless the wives are ill or dead." It is a poor, foolish thoughtlessness which leaves the expression of love until the day of sickness or death.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

Rules for the Game of Life

September 22, 1940

Song "Lead On, O King Eternal"
Scripture Reading Matt. 5:1-16; Phil. 3:13, 14
Prayer Song "Savior, Teach Me Day by Day"
Sentence Prayers

Talk "Rules of the Game"

In the game of life there are many who think they can get along without rules. However, it is just as impossible to play the game of life without rules as it is to play football.

The Bible is the most important rule book in existence.

Throughout the centuries it has been the true friend of man. Not only has it taught him the rules of the game of life, but also how to die so that he might have eternal life.

Talk "The Coach"

Even as an athletic game needs a coach so must we have a coach in the game of life in order that we may have an incentive to live right. Jesus led the way for us. The sinless life of Jesus is an example and challenge to us. It urges us to do our best that we may become more like Him.

Song "Jesus Is All The World to Me"

Talk "Training Time"

Jesus is our example, so let us see what preparation He made in youth for the game of life. Luke says, "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man."

1. He evidently went to the schools of His day and studied His lessons, since He grew in wisdom.

2. Christ had a strong body or He could not have lived the strenuous life that He did. He increased in stature.

3. Jesus increased in favor with God. When He was twelve years of age He said, "I must be about my Father's business."

4. He increased in favor with man. Jesus grew socially. He was loved by the masses of the people, as was shown in His triumphal entry into Jerusalem.

Talk "The Kick-off"

Every person has the privilege of choosing which way his soul shall go—the "high way" or the "low." After he has decided to take the high road, he still is not ready to begin the game in earnest. He must repent of his sins and resolve in his heart to sin no more. Jesus said, "He that confesseth me before men, him will I also confess before my Father who is in heaven," and so a person must make a confession of his belief in Christ.

The next step is baptism. This is not a mere physical act, but the candidate takes Christ as his Savior, and Jesus accepts him as his child.

After one has fulfilled the requirements for salvation he is then entitled to wear the name of Christ (Christian). He has then started his "game of life"—the greatest of all games.

Vocal Solo "My Task"

Talk "The Fumble"

It seems to many of us that our lives are one mistake after another. We are so prone to sin, so weak in our faith, so faltering in our resolutions that we cannot live perfectly.

Louisa Fletcher Tarkington has spoken so beautifully in her poem:

> "I wish that there were some wonderful place
> Called the Land of Beginning Again;
> Where all our mistakes and all our heartaches
> And all our poor selfish grief
> Could be dropped like a shabby old coat, at the door,
> And never put on again."

For the Christian there is such a land—the land of prayer. Jesus has promised to meet us at the place of prayer and forgive all our sins if we earnestly seek His grace and forgiveness.

Talk "The Referee"

Our referee in the "game of life" is a true and just judge because He is the God of love. How sweet to know that we have a loving Father watching over us.

Vocal Solo "His Eye Is on the Sparrow"

Talk "The Timekeeper"

Death is one timekeeper who never fails to allow "time out". But Christians should not fear death, for Jesus has promised to guide them through the "dark valley."

Talk "The Score"

In the "game of life" no hours of study, no deeds of kindness are ever wasted, for every one who obeys the rules and plays his part the best that he can will win the greatest of all prizes, the greatest victory of all ages—eternal life.

—Hereford Menn. Church, Bally, Pa.—A Peace Group and Bible Study class was organized recently at this church. Andrew Shelly conducts the Bible class and Dr. E. E. S. Johnson, the pastor, leads the Peace Discussion class. There is keen interest in these classes and the attendance is growing with each meeting.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

"THE FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT"

Galatians 5:22, 23

Program for September 22, 1940

FAITH

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude "Faith of Our Fathers" by the pianist
2. All stand and sing the above song in unison
3. Call to worship in unison Psalm 100:3, "Know ye that the Lord, He is God, it is He that hath made us and not we ourselves; we are His people and the sheep of His pasture."
4. Leader's opening prayer
5. Scripture reading:

Leader: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Heb. 11:1

Junior: "And Jesus answering saith unto them, Have faith in God" Mark 11:22

Leader: "And that from a child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which also are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus" 2 Tim. 3:15

Juniors: "For by grace are ye saved through faith and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God."

Leader: "Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God" Hebrews 12:2

In unison: "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God" Romans 10:17

6. Silent Prayer
7. Songs of "Faith". All gather around the piano and sing

"How Firm a Foundation", "Faith is the Victory", "My Faith Looks Up to Thee", "My Hope is Built on Nothing Less"

8. Blackboard work

Let us use Phillips Brooks definition of faith for this: Write each initial letter with a colored chalk, then point out that they spell F-a-i-t-h. Forsaking All I Take Him."

II. Study Period

Aim: To help our Juniors understand what we mean by faith and to help them to grow in faith.

1. Memory verse by a Junior girl. Heb. 11:1
2. The Junior leader or some other older person explain the above verse in a few sentences
3. A short discussion on "Faith leads to salvation," by three Juniors, using the following scripture passages: John 1:12; John 3:36; Acts 16:31; Rom. 1:16, 17
4. Solo "I Know Whom I Have Believed" Service Hymnal No. 148
5. A, two minute talk on "Faith", a gift from God Eph. 2:8; 1 Cor. 2:5
6. Examples of faith in the Old Testament (Bible readings)
   a. First Junior—Hebrews 11:3-7
   b. Second Junior—Hebrews 11:8-19
   c. Third Junior—Hebrews 11:20-22
   d. Fourth Junior—Hebrews 11:23-30
   e. Fifth Junior—Hebrews 11:32-40

7. Sing in unison "Trust and Obey"
8. Story "A faith found in the New Testament" told by a Junior girl Matt. 8:5-13

III. Mission Minutes

1. Bring the last few issues of our church papers to the meeting, read there of the various missionaries who are going to the foreign field this fall. Write their names on the blackboard.
2. A short prayer season for these missionaries praying that God may protect them on their journey and that He may use them for His glory. Encourage every Junior to pray for one of these workers.

IV. Closing Moment

1. In unison repeat the verse of the month
2. Pray the prayer of the month
3. Sing the song of the month

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes

Ted Claassen, London, England, July 21st cable:

"Request your telegraphic consent to assume responsibility sixty Polish refugee boys who arrived England after desperate experience Rumania, Hungary, France. French clothing shipment held here. Authorize my using same in England. Opened headquarters 20 Gordon Square."

Authorization in regard to the Polish refugees was sent immediately, conditioned only on cost of this project being possible within the Committee's England relief budget. The clothing shipment referred to was the May 27th shipment No. 2 (48 bales, weight 4,155 lbs.) destined for France, which now apparently has been made available in England to Brother Claassen. Previous "Relief Notes" advised that Ernest Bennett was distributing shipment No. 1 in South France.

August 1st Claassen letter:

"Since my last letter to you on the 24th I have made a trip to Ashton Keynes and spent several days at the Hutterite Bruderhof. Since it seems rather doubtful that the whole colony could get permit to leave at present, it was decided that at least four of their number should go, since they had the passage and exit permit. Since then did receive word that Hans Meier and another brother are sailing for New York tomorrow and have permission to remain in the States for four months. Meier will get in touch with you upon his arrival, and will give you the whole picture of their problem. I plan to meet with their treasurer to discuss some arrangement whereby we might allocate $100 to their need."

Ernest Bennett, Toulouse, France letter, July 17th:

"For the present I am continuing to stay on here in Toulouse. Due to the shortage of workers, the American Friends have asked me if I could see fit to take over the transport department of their work in Toulouse and operate it until I found it necessary to leave, or until they could find another person to carry it on. As I saw nothing to interfere with this, I am taking on this work for the present, with the arrangement to be released as soon as it is necessary to carry on or further arrange for the Mennonite work. As I see the situation now, I feel the general need of help is continuing to grow in France, and I hope our people will continue to do all they can to give help here. If you find you can support further work here, let me know immediately and I will make suggestions in what way I feel we can best help. Of course, the need of food and clothing continues the same, and any amount of money could be used in this way, but I feel that we as a small committee should pick out the small jobs that might be missed by larger organizations."

August 7th cable signed by both Bender and Benmittee in France for fall and winter.
nett confirmed that these two brethren were now together and at work on a program for the Com-

M. C. Lehman, Berlin, Germany, July 14th letter:

"We note with satisfaction and pleasure your plans to expand the relief work in Europe. We have been doing all we can so far to get information as to need for relief in Holland, Belgium, and France. The government is cooperative. It may become possible for us to give you first hand information as to the nature of the need and its extent in the above countries within a week or two.

We are proposing to use the special gift of $500 from the Philadelphia Friends in the buying of food and equipment for a camp of tubercular Polish war prisoners in one camp in North Germany. The German Red Cross is helping us to the information and technique to get the money to this place."

J. Legiehn, Oberschulze, Kolonie Fernheim, Chaco, Paraguay, letter, June 21st:

"The persistent malaria epidemic seems to have about run its course. The effect of it, however, on the colony will continue for quite a time. The actual additional cost medically on account of this epidemic can be clearly noted by comparing deficits in connection with the colony hospital operation for April, May, and June, as compared with a normal three months. Instead of a normal monthly deficit of 33,000 pesos (equivalent to about $100 U. S.) we had instead a monthly deficit this year during these three months of 110,000 pesos. In spite of this handicap, however, there are other developments to show that the colony is still a building. A new engine and dynamo, and milk-processing equipment have just been installed."

IN MEMORIAM

MARIA SCHMIDT UNRUH, DAUGHTER OF ELIZABETH AND JACOB SCHMIDT, was born in South Russia June 12, 1863, in the village of Alexanderwohl, and passed away on July 23, 1940. When she was four years old her parents moved to the village of Mariawohl. When she was about eleven years old her parents immigrated to the United States, in 1874, settling down in the community north of Newton, Kansas, called Emmental.

On December 4, 1881, she was baptized by the Reverend Jacob Buller and received into the Alexanderwohl Church. On April 10, 1883, she was married to David Unruh. They lived together in the Emmental community until 1924, when her husband preceeded her in death. Since then she made her home with her children, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Unruh.

She was the mother of seven children who are all living to mourn her death. They are Mrs. John B. Frey, Newton, Kansas, Henry D. Unruh, Reedly, California; Jacob D. Unruh, Peabody, Kan. Mrs. P. A. Krause, Mountain View, Oklahoma; Rev. W. F. Unruh, Pulaski, Iowa; Dr. R. T. Unruh, M. D., Halstead, Kansas; Mrs. John P. Unruh, Newton, Kansas. She is the grandmother of 25 children and great grandmother of four.

She was in failing health since about last Christmas. The last few weeks she spent mostly in bed because of weakness. She grew incereasingly weaker until on July 23 she departed this life, falling asleep in Christ Jesus in Whom she put her trust to the very end. Our comfort is that we may claim for her all those precious promises of the Word of God which are given to those who fall asleep in Christ Jesus.

The funeral services at the Tabor Church were conducted by Dr. P. H. Richert and Rev. P. H. Unruh. Her body was buried at the Tabor cenetery at sunset on July 26th, 1940.

PETER WIENS, SON OF JOHN AND RENATE (NEE RAHN) WIENS, was born on October 16, 1830, in Krebsfelde, West Prussia. In the following year his parents moved to a larger farm at a nearby villege, Lupushorst. Here he attended the Evangelical Lutheran school. On June 7, 1868, he was baptized on the confession of his faith in Jesus Christ by Elder Claas Friesen and became a member of the Rosenort Mennoneite Church. On January 24, 1883, he was married to Anna E. Jantzen of near Elbing, Prussia. Their first home was a little farm near Danzig. On June 18, 1886 they sold their property and in August left for America, arriving at Beatrice, Nebraska, in September of the same year. During the following 40 years they lived on different farms in the vicinity. In 1929 the parents moved to 820 Garden Street, Beatrice, where they have since made their home, enjoying each other's helpfulness in their old age. In November Mr. Wiens was last able to attend divine services. He longed to go home and be with the Lord. During the last four weeks, when he was bedfast, he complained very little but expressed his thankfulness for every blessing received. On Wednesday, Aug. 14, the Lord called him from the earthly to the heavenly mansions. His age was 89 years, 9 months and 29 days. He leaves his devoted wife, 11 children, 8 sons and daughters-in- law, 21 grandchildren, and many relatives and friends. His favorite Psalm was the 23rd which ends in words that now have been fulfilled: "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord for ever."

Funeral services were held August 17, at the home, with Rev. F. Albrecht and Rev. R. Weinbrenner in charge, and at the First Mennonite Church, with Rev. C. Penner and Rev. W. H. Dyck in charge.

ANNA NICKEL, DAUGHTER OF H. H. AND LIZZIE JANZEN NEUFELD, born December 5, 1906, at Medford, Okla., was called to her heavenly Home August 11, 1940, at the age of 33 years, 8 months, 6 days. When she was two years old she lost her father through sudden death. Feb. 16, 1911, she received a stepfather in H. P. Neuman, who held her and her brother as his own children. On June 8, 1924, she was baptized by Rev. John Lichti and became a member of the Medford Menn. Church. On May 22, 1927, she was united in marriage with Gus Nickel, Clinton, Okla., where they established their own home and lived together until her death. Five children were born to the couple, Jean 11, Mae 9, Dolores Ann 4, Willard Dale 1, and Alwood Leroy 2 months. During her illness she was much concerned about her children, and her constant prayer was that she might be spared the family, if it be God's will. She suffered very much but uncomplainingly, finding much comfort in the 23rd Psalm, and greatly appreciating the prayers at her bedside. She spent the last two weeks, less than two days, of her life at the Bethel Hospital in Newton, Kansas, with the best of care. But she was beyond human help.

She has left to mourn her death, her sorrowing husband, the five children, her mother and stepfather, four brothers and two sisters. Funeral services were held at the Herold Church, Bessie, Okla., August 14, 1940, Rev. Hege used as his texts Gen. 48:21, Rev. 21:4; Rev. Duerksen Rom. 8:28-39; and Rev. Wedel prayed at the grave. Quartet and trio songs were interspersed. Pete Neufeld

MRS. EMILIE ANDREAS, DAUGHTER OF REVEREND AND MRS. JOHN PENNER, was born on August 10, 1887, and passed to her eternal home on Wednesday, July 24, 1940, reaching an age of 52 years, 11 months, and 14 days. On June 11, 1905, she professed her faith in Jesus Christ as her Savior and united with the Mennonite Church of Beatrice. Mrs. Andreas was united in marriage to William Reimer on January 15, 1908. Mr. Reimer was taken in death on November 19, 1913. On February 24, 1927 she was for the second time joined in wedlock to John Andreas, who also preceded her in death on September 9, 1934. Surviving her are 2 step-children, 2 brothers, 2 sisters, and many relatives and friends. "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God." "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Funeral services were held on Friday P. M. July 26, in the First Mennonite Church with Rev. C. Penner and Rev. W. H. Dyck, in charge.

AUGSPURGER—MRS. LUCY K., DAUGHTER OF WILLIAM AND LAURA SHAFER KAPP, was born at Oxford, Ohio, Sept. 1, 1887, and died Aug. 10, 1940. On Sept. 20, 1905 she married to Harry O. Augspurger.

She was a member of the Mennonite Church of Trenton, Ohio, and in her home a devoted wife and mother, always finding strength to minister to the needs of her family even during the eight years of her illness. She found peace in love's unselfishness. Her jovial disposition, in spite of her sufferings, won for her many friends and neighbors.

She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Sara Minge and Mrs. Olga Hunt, one son Wilda, one grand daughter, one sister, three brothers and one half-sister, who mourn the loss of a loved one.

Rev. Amstutz conducted the services. Burial in Miltonville Cemetery. —Lydia Augspurger

—NEWLY MARRIED MENNONITE COUPLES may receive The Mennonite free for a half year when notice of their wedding comes to us in good time. Pastors can help this cause by sending us the news. A postal card will do the service.

—Weddings of Mennonite young people that have come to our notice recently are: Waldo Harder and Abbey Claassen, both of Newton, Kansas. The couple will attend Columbia Bible College, Columbia, So. Carolina, the coming year. Paul D. Quiring and Mildred Quiring, both of Goessel, Kansas. They will move to Offerle, Kan., where the groom is teacher in high school. Waldo Leisy, Newton Kan., and Lucille Schroeder, Hillsboro, Kan. They will make their home in Newton where the groom is engaged in the printing trade. Edwin C. Goering, Newton Kan., and Verna Kaufman, Galva, Kan. Mrs Goering continues a member of the music faculty at Bethel College and Mr. Goering will take advanced courses. Wilmar Voth, Newton, Kansas, and Ruth Penner, Clinton, Okla. The couple will make Newton their home where Mr. Voth is engaged in printing. Ralph Buller, Lehigh, Kansas, and Cleo Smith, Pawnee Rock, Kan. They will reside at Lehigh, where the young man is holding a position at the Farmer's Elevator.

—Alberta Community Church, Portland, Ore.—From a private letter by the new pastor, Arnold J. Regier, there, we cull the following: We are happy to write that we are enjoying our work very much. We were received in a very hospitable manner and have found a very cooperative spirit and zeal for the work in church and S. S. It is a joy and privilege to witness the working of God and the efforts put forth by the churches in the establishment of a mission like this. . . . Some time in October the four Oregon churches expect to hold a joint Bible conference at the Pratum church, also a Young People's Rally and Song Festival. We attended the dedication services of the new church and the Golden Jubilee Anniversary at Pratum August 25. We appreciate the Mennonite with the news from the different churches.

Regier's address is 5215 N. E. Ave., Portland, Ore.

—Congratulations to the Middle District Christian Endeavor for passing the following resolution at their recent annual meeting at Donnellson: "MENNONITE HYMNAL: This should be supported by offerings and, more important, by adoption for use in all Mennonite churches."—This is fine! If now every C. E. delegate will act as a committee by himself or herself and speak of and urge the adoption of the book in their church, the cause will be signally helped.

—BEAUTIFY OUR CHURCH GROUNDS was the theme of a recent editorial in The Mennonite and mention was made of a fine instance in point at the Mennonite Church in Herschel, Sask. Now Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, pastor of the Bethany Church Pa., writes: "I wish you could see the backyard of this church and also the front lawn—a real spot of beauty. The "True Blue" S. S. Class, with the help of a landscape gardener, purchased and planted a large number of shrubs in the shape of a horse shoe around the border of the church lot. Today these shrubs are blooming all the time—a spot of beauty and inspiration to men and we hope a delight to the Lord. To keep the trees trimmed and cared for, the congregation elected Chas. N. Shaffer tree commissioner." — Editor: Thanks, Bro. Neuenschwander! Are there other churches that can make a similar report? This is it. Some of our young people feel the church should provide more work for them. Beautifying church grounds is their opportunity.

Y. P. U. PICNIC

The Eastern District Y. P. U. is planning for a picnic and campfire, on Saturday, Sept. 21, from 3 to 8:15 p. m. It will be held at Mennolan, our new retreat grounds, and the young people of the Union will be given a conducted tour of the grounds. Other features of the day will include informal fellowship, softball, volley ball and quoits; a box lunch and a campfire service in the evening.

The picnic is given to introduce more young people to Mennolan and to arouse more interest in the project. All of the young people of our churches are invited to attend, that we may have a fine time of Christian fellowship and recreation.

—Grace Moyer, E. D. Y. P. Corr.

—Rev. W. F. Unruh, pastor of the Pulaski, Iowa, church, as well as other members of the home family, have our sincere sympathy in the loss of their mother who passed away recently. In answer to a call by his brother Dr. Unruh, Halstead, Kans., Rev. and Mrs. Unruh arrived at their mother's sick bed on a Monday evening. They had a nice little visit with mother following their arrival. But not long after the patient grew very ill and at 5 p. m. next day she passed away.

—Roaring Spring and Napier Menn. Churches, Pa. As an anniversary service in connection with the pastoral couple's first year at the Napier church, a Spiritual Life Conference is to be held at that church Aug. 29 to Sept. 1. Thursday evening Rev. Andrew Shelly will speak on "The Call", Friday evening on "The Way", Sunday morning Rev. Claassen will deliver an Anniversary Sermon. Sunday afternoon, "Praise and Harvest Home Service", Sunday evening, Sermon "The Challenge", Andrew Shelly.

—Mennonite Mission, Lima, Ohio. Rev. George Dick, the pastor writes: "Our street address has been changed again. IT IS NOW 803 E. KIBBEY ST., LIMA, OHIO, instead of 521 Linden Street. This place was sold and the owner wanted to move in. The mission work has slackened somewhat in attendance. Many of the folk who come now are out-of-town visitors.—We feel prayer meeting is as necessary as ever. Outside speakers add variety to the Sunday evening services."

—Rev. G. S. Stoneback, pastor of Eighth Street Menn. Church, Goshen, Ind., writes: "After Sept. 1 our address will be 55 ELIZABETH ST., HARTFORD, CONN. I plan to finish my work for the B. D. degree, which was interrupted when we came to Goshen. In our absence Dr. J. E. Hartzler will preach at the Eighth St. Church until Feb. 1. . . . Our committee is looking for some one to take the church from Feb. 1 to June. Suggestions and applications are welcome."

—East Swamp Church, Pa.—For Sept. 12 to 15 the Young People of this church are sponsoring a "Prophetic Bible Conference", with Dr. L. Salle Harrison of Australia as speaker, and the following as subjects: "Palestine of 1940—Has God Forgotten His Covenant?"—"Russia's Rapid Advance and Germany's Future."—"Will Christ Come in Person?"—"Do Present Day Events Prove the Nearness of Christ's Return?"—Five members of this church are studying for the ministry and missionary work: Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Unruh, Richard Boehr and Burwell Kennedy at Moody Bible Institute, and John Boehr at Bluffton College.

—Though the DRAFT BILL in a somewhat eased form has passed the Senate, which body it was hoped would turn it down, there is still opportunity to register our opposition before the House. Have you—you—you—dear Reader done your duty by writing to your Representatives and the President? In chapter 13 of Hitler's book "Mein Kampf" there is the statement, "It must never be left to the individual to define his faith and will." This is the principle of the conscription act which is to shackle our hitherto free country into bondage.

Brother William T. Snyder, Altoona, Pa., writes among other things, "I have always enjoyed reading the Mennonite which I feel is doing a real service in helping the scattered churches of our denomination exchange thoughts with each other. This is especially important today when the very foundations of our world are being shaken with war and hatred. It is stimulating to read a paper whose editorial policy is not based on a materialistic philosophy but on those principles laid down by Christ."—We heartily appreciate these fine words. Editor

ADVERTISMENTS

When traveling along our modern highways we are struck by the glaring advertisements upon the huge billboards which line the wayside. Here we see an advertisement of the best motor-oil, there of the safest investment, another of the friendliest service, the most comfortable and reasonable hotels, etc. Each puts forth its claim in the superlative degree. And not only that, but thousands of dollars are spent to present the various products in the most clever way. Men become more inclined to buy a certain brand of shaving cream after enjoying the clever little verses that break the monotony of a long drive. Ladies desire the soap which promises to retain that school-girl conplexion. And everyone wants the toothpaste which promises to make the smile more winsome.

Manufacturing companies spend huge sums of money to secure the services of the most efficient advertisers and they are willing to pay the price as long as the desired services are rendered and bring the desired result. But when this ceases to be the case the company tactfully suggests the resignation of the advertiser to engage another who promises better results, for it cannot afford to put out poor advertisements.

We as Christians are God's advertisements. Do we attract or repel? As the people of the world meet us they read our lives and are either induced to accept Christ or reject Him. Often we look at the gross sins of the world and lament the fact that they stand in the way of Christ and His Church. But have we ever stopped to consider that what hurts the cause of Christ and the Church most are not the sins of the world but the sins of the Christians, God's advertisements. It is as one young man said when he was asked why he denounced the Christian faith: "It is because Christians are not Christian enough."

Let us learn a lesson from the world and put forth as much effort to influence prospective children of God to come to Him, as the large manufacturing companies do to secure prospective buyers. They are willing to pay the price of representing their products in order to make the greatest appeal to the public. Are we willing to pay the price of doing our best to win prospects for His Kingdom?

To do this we must remember that God's work depends upon His children and live our lives from day to day knowing that:

> "There's a gospel according to you
> Men are reading every day", and ask ourselves the question:

> "As they read it according to you,
> Do they find the heavenward way?"

DETERMINATION

"Tribulation worketh steadfastness"—Romans 5:3

"Steadfastness—the power to stand up under opposing forces—just sheer determination—this is one of the supreme forces of history. It is something that lies behind nearly every great accomplishment. . . . Ordinary individuals who possess determination frequently achieve more than supposedly unusual persons who lack it.

"When the immigrant from Europe comes to America he is overawed by the immensity of our civilization. The vast expanse of ocean is forgotten as he stands before the greatest building of the world. His heart sinks within him as he ponders his own insignificance. . . .

"When in the Royal Art Gallery, in Amsterdam, you see 'The Night Watch' and realize, Holland has refused a $5,000,000 offer for the painting, it hardly seems possible that once it was sold for a song, along with the rest of Rembrandt's masterpieces. In 1643 the great painter's wife died. Fourteen years later he was bankrupt, and the works of a lifetime were sold for a pittance: but Rembrandt was not finished. He produced many of his greatest paintings after those two tragic experiences; and among them a number of himself. These latter portraits give you the answer. They present the image of a sad face, but also of a strong face. That face seems to say: I labor on. You can break my heart, but not my purpose.

"Michelangelo had reached eighty-three. Most men, if they live so long, by that time have given up creative effort. Yet Michelangelo achieved the dome of St. Peter's, Rome.

"Louis Pasteur was stricken at the height of his career. Other men in a similar plight would have laid their burdens down, but he was determined to go on. He sought the fundamental causes of disease.

"George Matheson was forced to resign his church. His health and failing eyesight made this necessary. Day after day he walked down by the shore to see if his eyes could detect vessels on the horizon. As the weeks passed he was forced to confess that gradually he was entering the world of darkness. But was he finished?

'O love that wilt not let me go,
I rest my weary soul in thee;
I give thee back the life I owe
That in thine ocean depths its flow
May richer. fuller be!'

Millions have sung these words he dared to write in the midst of his tragedy.

"Jesus was kind; He manifested love. He was forgiving; He prayed for His enemies. He was sympathetic; He wept at the grave of Lazarus. But He was also determined. In St. Luke's Gospel it says He set His face as flint to go to Jerusalem. Later, we see Him in Jerusalem, and upon the cross. Now we understand why He had to set His face. And so neither the coarse insults of the priests, nor the shouting hate of the mob, nor the cruel scourge of the soldiers, nor the cross and nails, nor yet the mounting agony of His final fevered, thirsting hours could divert Him from the will of His Father. We hear Him at the very last: 'It is finished. . . . Father into thy hands I commend my spirit? And now we know we have seen the noblest triumph of purpose in history."

WHY STUDY THE BIBLE?

Every young person should make the Bible central in his reading and studying·

1. Because it is the most alive and studied Book in the world today.

2. Because the English Bible is the greatest classic in modern literature.

3. Because its study enlarges one's horizon, and brings one in touch with the most earnest and self-sacrificing spirits of the age.

4. Because to know it helps one to appreciate all else that is best in literature.

5. Because it touches and crowns all other branches of knowledge.

6. Because it is God's appointed means for development of noble Christian character.

7. Because it is God's only salvation and message of grace and power for full salvation of every soul, and satisfies the longing of every heart in the time that now is and that which is to come.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

Tamingfu, Hopei, China.
June 8, 1940

Dear Friends on the Home Base:

Glory and honor to God and to our Lord Jesus Christ! All eyes of the world are centered upon the bloody conflict in Europe. Thus for the time being China is forgotten by the world at large, but still the struggle here for life and liberty goes on. The old enemy remains while new ones come to the scene. Even the red troops have found their way over the western mountains and have penetrated into a good portion of our mission field. They hardly ever fight the foreign troops, but after pushing the national soldiers out of these regions, they organized their own local governments. They extract large sums of money from the wealthy and press the blood out of the veins of the poor. They try to persuade Christians to join their ranks. Some have been threatened by them. In a neighboring mission station they broke up a meeting, and made the leaders to kneel down to be shot, however, a higher officer intervened and saved their lives. We continue to preach Christ, our living Savior; and many people in their despair come to Him. However, all over in occupied and unoccupied regions the future looks dark.

The four schools in the region that we supervise have been able to continue their work, and are now to close for their summer vacation in the next few days. Here at Taming six students will graduate from the grades. Shall they have a way to continue school-work, or shall they be dropped to be picked up by the reds? These are some of many questions that disturb our minds and burden our hearts. Our Christian young people in red regions are hard pressed by them to enter their classes and schools, and later to take up service with them. Some have already yielded and are now with red elements. How our hearts bleed for them! As we study the situation we become more than ever determined, that our schools must continue and even be enlarged; but how shall we be able to do this? Friends, pray earnestly with us for this so vital a work. Can God do this for us? Yes, if your and our prayers are mixed with simple faith, He will undertake for us and bring great and wonderful things to pass.

Since I, with a staff of three or four men, have been very busy with relief work, the direct evangelistic work has suffered somewhat. But the churches continued their work, and the evangelistic workers not needed for relief work also kept on spreading the message of life. Maria and her Bible-women continued with their meetings and character reading and Bible study classes. They did a good deal of house-visitation too. Maria was out in the regions of the village churches for three or four weeks. Much seed-sowing, even among the flood refugees, has been accomplished. The Han Chang group was scattered and divided among themselves. It seemed as if Satan had gotten the victory. It was a discouraging affair. Mr. Liu Ming Shun and Wang Hsiu Ch'ing went there, while the rest of us daily interceded for them in prayer. They spent a whole month with meetings and Bible study among the people. The group at first was greatly torn by factions. Some even held separate meetings; but through the work of the Holy Spirit all confessed their sins, and were again reconciled to God and with each other. So you see that we have our troubles within and without. But Christ is our wisdom and strength. Pray with us that the outcome of all these struggles may be a great and glorious victory for Christ and His Church.

Thanking you heartily for your prayers and liberal support in the past, and trusting that you will not fail us in the future, we will continue to press forward in the Name of Him, who died and rose and lives for evermore. God bless you one and all!

Yours faithfully,
H. J. and Maria Brown

UNION SUMMER BIBLE SCHOOL A SUCCESS

Quarryville, Penna., July 20, 1940

Dear Brethren of the Mission Board:

Greetings in the exalted Name of Christ. Another quarter has so quickly passed by and another report is in order. We praise the Lord for the joy that is ours in His service from day to day. It is our desire and prayer that all our experiences may prove stepping stones and may redound to the furtherance of the work here even as we read in Phil. 1:12.

In so far as our meetings are concerned we do not have summer schedules. Some Sundays a little difference is noticed as a few families may be away; however, as a rule there is not much difference summer or winter. During the last few months the Sunday School attendance has increased some, yet that has not increased the church attendance much because the increase in numbers is mainly in children. These children come from non-Christian parents and are seemingly not interested in the worship service.

The beginning of the year the Board expected a report or two a year from the church secretary, including some financial report. I have not mentioned anything to the secretary due to difficulties at home. Mr. and Mrs. Linton are the parents of a baby girl about a month old. The mother is doing fine but the baby has a serious difficulty in the spinal cord. If you do not get a report from her, I hope you will be considerate in this case. The Lintons have the sympathy of all who know them.

In one of the reports reference was made in regard to painting the church. The work is done and the improvement marked, perhaps I can include a snapshot in the next report. The work and materials cost us about $105.00 which is paid to date. In the church treasury the financial standing is a little better than at the beginning of the year. All other treasuries are in good standing.

For the last two weeks we conducted our community Daily Vacation Bible School at the Church of the Brethren. In my estimation, this was about the best ever held since I have anything to do with it. The attendance and interest was good throughout. Last night the closing program was given. It proved to be very inspirational. The total enrollment was about 120. At least six denominations were represented in the School. Teachers are selected from the various churches, all work is done gratis. It has been my lot to teach the Senior Intermediate Class for the sixth consecutive year. Personally, I believe such a school is a valuable asset to any community or church.

As a family we enjoy the best of health. Plans are made for a short visit to Berne in August. The church council granted a two-weeks vacation and other brethren are to minister the Word in our absence.

Thanking the Board for all help extended and should the Board be able to suggest ways and means by which the work may be furthered, we would be glad for any such statements. "Brethren pray for us." I Thess. 5:25. Best regards to all the brethren of the Board, I am,

Yours, in His Service
Sylvan Lehman

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

THE BIBLE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Supt. Edward E. Kaufman, Buhler, Kansas

The Bible is the oldest American textbook. It was many years the only book in the schools of the New England colonists. The New England Primer, which was used in all American schools, was made up almost entirely of Bible selections.

Generally after the controversy of 1840, religion in public schools has had a difficult road. Since that time we have had some very sweeping legal decisions which have prohibited sectarian instruction in public schools. This has been particularly true of the western states. On the other hand some favorable decisions have been handed down on essentially the same questions.

The tendency of courts and legislators, until recently has been toward an increasing strictness of interpretation, and in the process some earlier favorable decisions have been reversed, and earlier favorable laws have been repealed. At present, twelve states require Bible reading in their schools; six states specifically permit such reading if desired locally, Kansas being among these states; ten states prohibit the reading of the Bible in school; while in the remaining states the law is silent on the question. In these states it may be presumed that the Bible is read in school as local demands or conditions require. The Federal Council of Churches by special committee have considered and experimented on ways and means to promote week-day instruction in religion and most of them have fallen by the wayside. So, to begin with, it seems that the question of Bible in the public schools is a local question and must be solved by local authorities, at least, where the state law does not prohibit such procedure.

Leaders of American life throughout its history have paid tribute to the value of the Bible in a democracy. George Washington said, "Above all, the pure and benign light of Revelation has had a meliorating influence on mankind, and increased the blessings of society. I now make my earnest prayer that God would be most graciously pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility, and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion." John Quincy Adams said, "The first and almost the only book deserving of universal attention is the Bible." Andrew Jackson: "It is the rock on which our Republic rests." Woodrow Wilson: "A man has deprived himself of the best there is in the world, who has deprived himself of this (a knowledge of the Bible)." Calvin Coolidge: "It is because religion gave the people a new importance and new glory that they demanded a new freedom and a new government. We cannot in our generation reject the cause and expect to retain the result."

As a school administrator I believe the value of the Bible from a personal point of view has never been questioned. The problem has been of satisfying sectarian groups in its interpretation. This problem we still have today. I believe the Bible has value outside of sectarian interpretation. Recent trends have shown that where the Bible is taught from its historic, literary, and pacific point of view that it can be successfully put into a high school curriculum as an elective course. All history proclaims the Bible has exerted a very profound influence upon masters of art, in music, in literature, and on all great leaders of the world.

The Bible in our school is taught as a social science, in which we emphasize history, government, literature, map work, outside reading, and memory work. We are now using Hurlbut's Story of the Bible as a text and follow its general outline. We have used Blakie's Bible History for several years, but found it too difficult to motivate interest in the book. After careful investigation we selected Hurlbut's Story of the Bible and find it serves very effectively the interests of the 9th and 10th grade boy and girl. Bible is an elective course, it is taught by a qualified social science teacher. The course is divided into two parts: "Old Testament History and Literature" and "New Testament History and Literature". We spend one semester on each course. The State Board of Education of Virginia and Indiana both issue valuable outlines of courses which they offer in those states. We have found them very valuable for reference material and suggestions to go along with the text.

I make my appraisal of the value of Bible teaching on the basis of the number of students who are taking advantage of these courses. We find that from 40 to 50 per cent of all students will take this course during their high school career. What value in teaching Bible History? Goethe pronounced the Book of Ruth as "the loveliest specimen of idyllic poetry in all literature". Benjamin Franklin, while ambassador to France, charmed the literary critics of Paris by reading from the same book. Sir William Jones said, "I have carefully read and regularly perused these Holy Scriptures, and am of the opinion that the volume, independent of its Divine origin, contains more sublimity, purer morality, more important history, and finer strains of eloquence than can be collected from all other books in whatever language they may have been written."

A recent writer has said, "The Bible is the wonder of wonders, a masterpiece of English, perfection of diction, the height of inspiration, complete in history, absorbing in romance, rhythmic in poetry, brilliant in philosophy and proverb, and startling in its revelation." Why should we not teach it in all public schools where the local situation will permit?

TRAINING YOUTH FOR CHRIST

Pacific District Conference Paper, June 9, 1940

By Edmund Miller, Lind, Washington

The Church of Christ has a task of immense proportions. The great objective is the salvation of man from sin, the preparation and use of him to the ends of the gospel, and the encouraging and supporting of him until he enters the City of God. Now, this reason for the Church's being seems easy to state, but it must be remembered that included in this broad statement are many things, some large, some small, that have to be done. . . . A church has to be built, it also has to be kept clean and warm; the Gospel has to be preached, incidental expenses also have to be met; men and women must be sent to the mission field, but the treasurer's report must also be given; and of special interest to us this afternoon, the young people must be thought of, cared for, planned for, and trained.

Youth is the receptive, impressionistic age. Youth is plastic and responds readily to treatment. Youth is the period for enthusiasm, inspiration, and character formation. Formation now is better than Reformation later. This is the time for the salvation of the man and woman that is to be. This is the golden age for spiritual development.

How shall we train our youth? Here, as in other matters, Jesus is our model. The text, "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man," (Luke 2:52) is an outline for the all-around development of the child.

"Jesus increased in wisdom"—He increased mentally; "In stature"— He increased physically; "In favor with God"—He increased spiritually; "In favor with man"—He increased socially. The boy and the girl marching manward and womanward should increase mentally, physically, spiritually, and socially.

The Church, then, should have this four-point plan in the training of its youth. We need wise men and women, and this is where the educational program of the church comes in. We need strong men and women, for healthy bodies make for healthy mental and spiritual lives. We need men and women who can get along with their fellows. . . who understand and practice unselfishness, tact, cooperation. Here too, the Church can do her part by providing wholesome recreation, which in turn brings social development, through her Christian Education program. We need righteous, moral, Christ-centered men and women, and here we have the key to the training of youth. It is our duty as a church to put Christ into the Whole life of our young people—to show them that this Christ is the Christ for everyday, interested in their everyday activities, understanding their need for an all-around development which will make them useful, Christian citizens.

The most universal instrument of the Church for the training of youth is the Sunday School. The present membership of the Sunday School throughout the world is 38,000,000 — an army or peace far exceeding, numerically, all the standing armies of the world. But here are some figures less encouraging. In this year's church directory of New York City, we find that, although there is a public enrollment of 1,087,002, there are only 228,357 enrolled in Sunday School, less than one fourth of the children in S. S.! In a certain Michigan county where 1,005 are enrolled in 46 schools not one of them is in a church or Sunday School! What do these figures reveal? A great need, certainly. I wonder if they also do not reveal a lack in the Church of today — a lack of spiritual vitality — of effective teaching methods—of proper organization?

Let us state a few practical points regarding the effectiveness of the Sunday School in training youth.

1. Religious teaching must be vital. The Bible must be interpreted in terms of human life as it is today. It must be addressed to persons and not be merely a scholarly dissertation about things.

2. The Bible School must be organized in the light of present conditions and in due consideration for those who are expected to participate in its advantages. It must provide for the training of teachers, if need be, in effective methods and presentation. They must learn that the problem of Bible instruction cannot be solved without generous concession, fine adaptation, and sanctified common sense.

3. The importance of pupil-participation and the need for doing their own thinking and saying their own prayers must be recognized.

4. Personality is an important factor. The Church should rely upon its most intelligent and devoted members, who, if they are not strictly pedagogic, are at least genuine and true, and representative of the best Christian living. Remember, children and young people are shrewd critics of character. They are quick to note inconsistency in the lives of Christians.

5. The primary purpose and intended outcomes must not be forgotten. Stated briefly they are, in part, as follows:

   1. A personal religious experience for every child . . . an aim not always reached, but one to be worked toward.

   2. To leave with the children confidence and trust in the Heavenly Father who is ever present and near, not far away above the clouds in some indefinite and distant place.

   3. For each child to have a sincere and reverent love for God and an unwavering faith in His Word.

   4. A spirit of thanksgiving and appreciation for God's greatness and goodness to us.

5. Greater obedience to God and to parents, and more unselfishness and kindness in relationship with others.

6. To show them that goodness, obedience, kindness, and unselfishness are pleasing to the God of love. And here may I say that there have been too many stories in S. S. contrasting the good boy with the bad boy and teaching that the good boy always puts in his thumb and pulls out a plum while the bad boy comes out at the little end of the horn. Such is not the case. God's flowers who are good and kind and obedient are not hot-house plants. Belief in God does not mean that all life's rough places will be avoided. It does mean that the believer can carry on over the rough places with a quiet heart and steady eye because of faith in God. "A man may live on very little if he has much to live for."

The Daily Vacation Bible School affords great opportunity for leading children into the Christian life and implanting in their hearts a love for the Bible. It often reaches those who do not attend the Sunday Church School and has the added advantages of more time and the combining of physical activity with religious training. It is also a splendid way of building up S. S. attendance.

The Junior, Intermediate, and Young People's Christian Endeavors are training grounds for youth. Every church should realize the importance of Christian Endeavors for the younger folk. Here they are trained for leadership. Here they learn to express themselves, to take an active part in worship, to preside and to plan programs, in short, to become capable leaders and church members of the future.

No other phase of the Christian Education program of the church has been criticized so much by the young people themselves as the Catechetical instruction. The Catechetical class can be made into drudgery, or it can become a great blessing. Too often it is a course prescribed by the parent rather than an elective by the child, and has been entered into grudgingly and, in the language of the young, "gotten over with as soon as possible." To remedy this the catechetical course should be made alive with the very life of Christ, attractive, informative, and creative. The chief aim is not the memorization, with little understanding, of a series of doctrinal questions and answers, but the leading of the young people to a definite decision for Christ. They must be treated as the intelligent beings they are, and be allowed to ask questions, to express their views, and to think for themselves. In other words, the course must be practical and helpful to every member of the class, with proper guidance, to be sure, but with plenty of pupil-participation as well. It is well to combine the study of the catechism with a course in Christian living requiring short themes on such subjects as "What it Means to be a Christian," "How I Can Testify for Christ," "Why Are Christians Tested," "Kinds of Occupations in Which a Christian Can Engage." This not only encourages the child to do his own thinking but it gives the leader an insight into individual needs and problems.

Through our own denominational churches we often find an ignorance of Mennonite History, and of the present-day work of our church. To me such ignorance is to be deplored. The Catechetical class is a fine place to give a few lessons in Mennonitism, past and present. It does not hurt the young people to have a wholesome respect for the denomination of which they are to become a part, and they should know and believe in the glorious principles for which the Mennonites are known the world over. They will be more desirable church members for this knowledge.

The church has another, and too often neglected, part in the training of youth for Christ—the maintaining of Christian schools where not only the mental, physical, and social training provided by the average educational institution is received, but the spiritual as well.

It is but fair to say that many teachers in public schools and higher institutions of learning are Christian believers. But we also know that there is a rapidly growing number of teachers and professors who hate Christianity and covet the opportunity to injure it. These have magnified incidental theories into fundamental beliefs and have claimed that science denies the existence of God, the inspiration of the Scriptures, the divinity of Christ, and the whole system of Christian beliefs. They delight in undermining the Christian faith of the young. They ridicule the church as a "back number." When parents protest against such teaching, the instructors represent them as narrow and charge them with stifling freedom of thought.

Through such teaching many of our young people lose their faith in Christ and their respect for the church. A talented girl, a fine worker in her church, thus lost her faith, and when packing her trunk after graduation contemptuously slung her long-neglected Bible into the waste basket, saying, "I am through with that."

For one, I don't care how much knowledge the schools cram into the children, if they send them home with their faith in Christ destroyed—if they send them back with a deck of cards and a tobacco pouch or package of cigarettes in their pockets instead of a Bible, robbing them of that which is more valuable than money. When they take away from the Bible its divine authority, reduce Jesus Christ to a mere man, even though the best who ever lived, they are robbing the children of their religious faith and the moral principles that make their lives pure, honest, and unselfish. It is a crime to plant a doubt where faith once grew. It is wronging the souls of the young to destroy the foundations of moral living. And that is why Christian schools are maintained. That is why our denomination maintains three Christian colleges—that our youth may not suffer the greatest loss that can come to a soul, the loss of faith in Jesus Christ, the divine Son of God. Is it not our duty as parents, pastors, and other Christian leaders to guide our youth into the right paths of higher education?

We have been discussing the responsibility of the church to its youth, and all Christians must cooperate to enable the church to properly serve its young people. But there is something else that is most important in the training of youth for Christ—the "church in thy house." In a recent address Dr. Robert E. Speer said, "The foundation of the Christian religion is in the home, and there never is one so small that there is not room for Jesus." Too often the parents shunt all religious and moral training on to the church which has the child for perhaps an hour a week. One person, representative of the modern trend has said, "We seldom think of religion in the home, and practice it only in church, if at all." A religion practiced only one or two hours a week isn't going to have a very far-reaching influence upon the children.

There is need, therefore, of the restoration of home religion. Once this temple, the home, was the world's chief shrine, but today it is out-moded, out of date, a family heir-loom condemned to the dusty garret of our memories or to the equally useless status of glass-case admiration. The need is for the re-establishment of home religion, the repossession of a sense of the presence of God in the home.

How is this Christian atmosphere in the home established? It is not created by the display of the Holy Bible on the table, a religious picture on the wall, a hymn book on the piano, or the church paper in the magazine rack, but it is created in unselfish love, by prayer, and by the family altar conducted in sincerity, faith, and reverence. This simple form of daily worship in the family circle is one of the essential elements in creating a Christian atmosphere in the home, and children who do not have it miss a most steadying influence in their daily lives.

Dare we shut Christ out of the home? Are we willing to build a home without Him? Whether through the family altar or in some other way let us give Jesus Christ the first place in our homes. Make Him the head of the house, the unseen guest at every meal, and the silent listener to every conversation. May we build our homes and our youth according to this perscription.

"The gods we worship write their names on our faces."

THE EVER-PRESENT GOD

Psalm 139:1-12, 23, 24

Introduction

Psalm 139 is one of the most remarkable worship Psalms. It is a splendid evening meditation. It presents two great doctrines, that God knows all things and that He is everywhere present. These doctrines which are beyond our understanding, are taught again and again in God's Word and by Christ Himself. A person who really believes in God, naturally feels that he can not get away from God and that He knows all that he is doing and even thinking. Men may and do attempt to ignore God, but they can not hide from nor run away from Him.

The Omniscience of God vs 1-6

In these verses David unfolds the doctrines of God's limitless knowledge. In beautiful and forceful language David says that God knows him altogether and even understands his deepest thoughts. God's knowledge covers that which is actual or possible, past, present, or future. "Thou" in verse 1 is quite emphatic. God has searched me and has examined all my thoughts and motives. His knowledge of my spiritual condition is full and complete. God takes knowledge of all the common and casual acts from morning until night (v2). He understands our thoughts even before we express them. Whether walking, working or sleeping, we are still observed by our God (v3). All the details of our life are known to Him. Every word of the tongue is fully known to God, yea, He even knows what the word will be before it is uttered (v4). How carefully we should guard and weigh our words. In all places we are under the eye and hand of God. All of life is open to Him, yea also the yearnings and ambitions of the heart. He understands our inner struggles and the good that dwells in us. The extent of God's knowledge is beyond our understanding. He perceives and knows without investigation, study and experience. We confess our dependence upon God for the revelation we receive.

The Omnipresence of God vs 7-12

God knows what is taking place everywhere because He IS everywhere. God's Spirit is everywhere and we can not escape from His presence, no, not even in death. Darkness or light make no difference with His power to perceive. The whole of life is pervaded by God's presence. God is wholly present to all His creatures everywhere. He is a Spirit and can not be divided as matter can be. When we pray to God, we pray to Him in his full personality, with all His power at our disposal. This infinite

God is able to reveal Himself to our soul and make us conscious of His presence.

David's Appeal to God vs 23,24

These verses are the prayer of a sincere soul who desires God's presence. He is anxious to have God uncover his faults. He wants to know his true spiritual condition. He pleads to be delivered from evil ways and be led in the righteous way leading to life and peace. God can reveal our condition to us and convict us of sin. A real sense of God's presence arouses a discontent with weak and sinful living. We can not hide from God, but we can hide in God.

SERMON SKETCH

RESPECTABLE SIN

Rev. Phil. A. Wedel, Conf. Sec.

"Ye are likened unto whited sepulchres." Matt. 23:27

These words were spoken to the Scribes and Pharisees. The whited sepulchres gleaming in the sun, were a familiar feature in the landscape. We are not to think of them as separate buildings like the mausoleums of Rome or the present day. They were just caverns cut into lime-stone rock with a great stone set up to close the opening. And once a year these stones were white-washed, not for the purpose of making them beautiful, but to warn people that a grave was there, lest they should touch it and be defiled. Jesus wondered at them as he walked through the hills of Nazareth.

Jesus taught the Scribes and Pharisees and did many wonders before them but they recognized him not. So he reproved them for their hypocrisy and blindness and in the glow of his righteous anger at them he says, "Ye are like unto these whited sepulchres", beautiful outwardly, but full of uncleanness.

Respectable Sin

It is not just secret sin. It is not just sin of which others have no suspicion. It is true that as long as a man's sin is a secret he may still keep the respect of the community. If he is cunning enough to hide his shame, he may still pass as a respectable citizen. But respectability depends upon the keeping of the secret. As soon as the sin is trumpeted abroad the person becomes an outcast. It is not such sin that is so-called respectable sin. It is sin that men may commit openly and yet not forfeit their standing in the community. It is sin that when known carries no special stigma. It is sin that is tolerated in the general opinion.

There are some sins that are socially fatal and when committed the man becomes a leper. You never meet him again at honored tables. His name is struck from the honorable clubs. But there are other sins that men and women commit, yet they may move in society uncondemned. The poor woman of whose shame and misery we read, you remember was criticized by the Pharisees. They had come to Jesus to accuse her. Yet Jesus stooped down and wrote upon the ground. And then he arose and spoke a single sentence and they all went out beginning at the eldest. Jesus told them, "He that is without sin among you cast the first stone." They were not sinners as the woman was because she had broken down the barriers of womanhood. They were respectable sinners. They went to the synagogue and violated no decorum of society.

No class is so prone to respectable sin as the class to which you and I belong, the middle class. There are two classes of society which are notorious for defiant sin. The one is the smart set of fashion, the other is the sunken and degraded poor. Why is that so? The first class is generally the idle class and they are ensnared by the perils of idleness. In American life they belong to the set of fashion because money will buy anything. It will even purchase silence about unrespectable sin.

Amongst the very poor there is also an absence of social standards; this lack of moral controlling judgment, makes sin unshamed.

But in the middle class there is a moral standard. If a man flout it he has to suffer for it—suffer in his business or family. Hence men are prudent and shrink from open vices, and they are tempted to sins that are respectable.

Christ Judges Respectable Sin Very Seriously

All sin was hateful to him and yet the sins that stirred him mostly were not the sins of passion or of weakness, but the cold sins which every one else considered respectable.

Think of the Temple Traders! Did anyone think less of them for trading in the Temple? He drove them out. He never treated sinful Magdalene that way. But he hurled the bitterest judgments upon the sins that seemed respectable.

Why Is Respectable Sin to be Condemned?

It deadens our conscience. In the mirror of society that kind of sin moves in and no one seems to be alarmed or terrified. So is born that deadliest of states in which we are complacent and selfsatisfied.

It is most pernicious in Influence. When we see vice in all its shame there is that which disgusts and appeals. Every profligate with his diseased body, every embezzler with his ruined home, is waving a dangerflag. There is nothing that lures us to the drunkard. But with respectable sin it is different. It has not the look of death upon its face. It has the look of health and prosperity, and on account of this it is appealing. Jesus does not care for followers who only do what is right because of social censure. He wants his followers to be those who walk the Jesus-way because they have become Christlike. Then they will avoid even respectable sin.

O human hearts,
Beating through fear, through jealousy,
Through pride, through avarice, through bitterness,
Through agony, through death.
Beating, beating,
Shame and forgiveness,
Bewilderment and love,
O my own country,
My new world,
Prepare,
Prepare—
Not to avenge wrong
But to exalt right,
Not to display honor
But to prove humility,
Not to bring wrath
But vision,
Not to win war
But a people,
And not people only,
But all peoples,
Not to exact justice from your enemies only
But from your friends,
And not from your friends only
But from yourselves!

IOWA RETREAT

The annual Y. P. retreat of the Iowa Mennonite churches was held August 3-4, at the Pulaski Mennonite Church. A total of 62, registered. Donnellson had the largest number in attendance.

The retreat began with a devotional period of which the Pulaski retreaters had charge. Rev. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College next gave an informal talk in which he also asked for the opinions of his audience. Following this talk two discussion groups were formed. Howard Raid of Donnellson and Rev. W. F. Unruh of Pulaski were the leaders of these.

After devotionals by Donnellson in the afternoon, Rev. Kreider gave his second address. The discussion groups were continued. The afternoon session ended about four o'clock after which there was directed recreation on the church lawn.

The banquet which was scheduled for 7 o'clock wasn't held until about eight because of heavy rain which started about six o' clock. Dirt roads made the driving very difficult. Despite the weather there were about seventy-five young people at the banquet. Four good, short talks on youth as beacon, search, head, and home lights were given. After the program the group gathered and sang songs.

Sunday morning Rev. Kreider delivered the morning sermon. A Sunday School period then ended the morning program.

In the afternoon the Wayland C. E. led in devotionals. Rev. Kreider gave an address on peace, and an interesting panel discussion on "Peace Convictions and Attitudes" followed. The session closed with a transaction of business.

The evening program included devotionals by the Eicher society, the singing of retreat songs, and the closing message.

All left the retreat with new hope and inspiration, feeling that the retreat had been a success. The newly elected officers are: Pres. Mary Wittrig, Wayland; V. Pres. Orlin Fry, Noble; Sec. Eugene Baughman, Pulaski; Treas. Iola Lowenberg, Donnellson.

WASHINGTON C. E. AND S. S. CONVENTION

The following are excerpts taken from papers read at the Washington C. E. and S. S. Convention which was recently held.

"O, how miserably poor are many Christians today because they are not willing to yield themselves. They cling onto themselves when they could give their whole self unto God and have access to the richest bank with blessings untold. O, the blessings and precious promises from God through Christ Jesus are like a fountain ever flowing. But the trouble is we as Christians like to put a faucet on this fountain. And how these faucets have become corroded from disuse. God is pleading with you that you will yield yourself a living sacrifice to Him. Away with the faucets! Away with that old self! This is a fountain of plenty."

—Herbert W. Franz in The Charge of Christ to Me as C. E. President

"Surely we cannot help but realize the great importance of spreading the gospel to all people. He bids us go and make disciples of all nations. Right now a number of the nations are at war with each other. Surely there can be none of the great love of which Jesus spoke when he said, "A new commandment I give unto you, that you love one another as I have loved you. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

War means destruction and desolation and death. Yet the nations spend great sums of money and send the best of their sons out to battle. Jesus lays upon us the solemn obligation of a far different task. He charges us to carry the gospel of love and redemption to all people, even to the warring nations. Have we taken this task seriously enough?"
—Mrs. Herb Broweleit in The Need of Observing the Great Commission.

"Many disappointments may come and we may not be able to see our way through, but if we believe that God is all-powerful and that He is always on the right side, we will be able to win in the end. If we have a strong faith and trust in God it will reveal itself in our daily conduct."
—From paper entitled, The Need of Faith

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Senior C. E. Topic for September 29, 1940
MAIN TOPIC: Christians Are Different
Eph. 4:1-7

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "O Love that Wilt not Let Me Go" "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone", "O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Biography of Muriel Lester, or some other outstanding Christian
4. Offering for Missions

II. Leader's Introduction

A Christian home is a haven of rest in a restless world. Here one finds sweet companionship and understanding. Here is good-will one for another, the willingness "to do" for the other. A Christian home is "different." Good times are shared, burdens are eased, work is made a means of comradeship. The great chapter on Love, 1 Cor. 13, finds expression in the Christian home.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Christians are merciful. Luke 6:27-38.
2. Christians are considerate. Rom. 12:9-16.
3. Christians pray. Matt. 6:3-8.
4. Christians are peaceful. Phil. 4:5-7.

IV. For Discussion

1. How may those who are naturally strong-willed and self-assertive acquire a teachable spirit and the grace of humility?
2. a. What reasons can you give for thinking that the humble service of our fellow men is really serving Jesus Christ?
   b. Is willingness to serve necessary for a Christian?
3. What are the essential characteristics of a Christian?

V. Facts for Study

Why is it that one seldom hears any reference to our need of protecting the American family against losing its most precious possession, its religion? It can readily be proved that lack of religion is the chief cause of broken homes. Divorce very seldom occurs in genuinely religious families. It is religion, above everything else, which insures the stability of the family. But the great problem is keeping the family Christian. How can we assure the continued vitality of its religion?

Kingsley Hall

When quite young women, Muriel Lester and her sister wanted to do something for the poor of London. But they found it impossible to do much for the poor because they did not live on the same level. Leaving a home of comparative comfort and wealth, they moved to cheap rooms in East London among the poorest of the poor. Now that they were of the neighborhood, the needy people began to come to their little rooms for advice, comfort, and friendship. They found here, in the rooms of the Lester girls, the fellowship and the spirit of real Christianity. Out of this friendliness has grown Kingsley Hall. Said Miss Lester, "Those who come to Kingsley Hall to live and work take a vow of poverty." "Whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant."

A Victorious Sacrifice

In Ottawa, Canada, there is a noble statue of Sir Galahad with this motto cut upon it: "If I save my life, I lose it." These were the last words of the brave Canadian youth to whose memory the statue was erected. He saved from drowning two skaters who had broken through the ice, though in rescuing them was drowned himself. But for him, sacrifice meant victory.

Truthfulness and Popularity

"Now why", wailed young Mrs. Blount to her sister, "did Aunt Abigail have to tell Mrs. Judge Gannett that I was the best of the women golfers at the club? I'll never have a game with her now—she's a beginner, you know—and I did so want to get into her set. And the way she called down the federation lecturer for misquoting Ruskin! I thought I'd drop through the floor!" Corrine, in front of the mirror, turned her head from side to side. "Just the same", she said, "I wish Aunt Abigail had been along when I bought this hat; she'd have told me the truth—that I look like a freak in it."

VII. Food for Thought

A Christian is one who has Christ as his Friend and as his Lord and Master.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN WE PRAY?

Sept. 29, 1940

Worship Service
Song "Fairest Lord Jesus"
The Lord's Prayer
Scripture Reading Jas. 5:13-18

Leader's Talk—"Prayer and the Radio"

Prayer is the most precious experience and opportunity of life. Most people do not understand its meaning and purpose. It is not a means of getting something we desire. It is a beautiful friendship between God and His children.

Many people do not understand prayer and how it works, but is there a greater mystery in prayer than in the radio? We cannot understand or see just how sound can be sent through the air in the twinkling of an eye, but we know it can be done. We may not understand all about prayer, but we know God hears and answers it. If we only have faith and keep praying, some day we will find that we are receiving divine aid and strength.

Some critics have held that it is impossible for God to hear prayers. If we should consider only the physical side of the question it would not be any greater marvel for God to hear prayer than for us to hear "Big Ben" striking in London, or an orchestra from Berlin. However, when we consider the divine element, then prayer is not miraculous at all. Why should not the Creator of the universe hear prayer, if we whom He made can hear the music of distant climes?

Things which seem very ordinary to us today were considered impossible three hundred years ago. Miracles to us are very common things to the Creator because He is all-wise. It would be ridiculous for any one to refuse electricity or the radio just because they could not understand all about it. It is just as foolish for people to say that prayer is impossible just because they do not understand it. —N. M. Whitwell

Song "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy"

Questions:

1. What is your greatest difficulty about prayer?
2. Does God answer prayer? (I John 5:14, 15)
3. Why do some prayers fail? (Mark 11:20-26)
4. If you did not have any faith, would God answer the prayer? (Jas. 1:5-8)
5. How will prayer help us? (Matt. 26:41)
6. Paul says, "pray without ceasing." How can we pray all the time?

Poem:

PREVAILING PRAYER

Lord, what a change within us one short hour
Spent in Thy presence would prevail to make!
What heavy burdens from our bosoms take,
What parched grounds revive as with a shower;
We kneel, and all around us seems to lower;
We rise, and all, the distant and the near
Stands forth a sunny outline brave and clear.
We kneel, how weak! We rise, how strong of power!
Why, therefore, should we do ourselves this wrong,
Or others, that we are not always strong;
That we are ever overborne with care;
That we should ever weak or heartless be,
Anxious or troubled, when with us in prayer,
And joy and strength and courage are with Thee?

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

FRUITS OF THE SPIRIT

Galatians 5:22, 23

Program for September 29, 1940

Meekness, Temperance

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude, Pianist plays softly the melody of "Here Is My Heart" M. H. B. No. 222.
2. Call to worship, Psalm 100:3, "Know ye that the Lord, He is God, it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people and the sheep of His pasture."
3. All heads bowed in silent prayer.
4. Stand and sing "Here Is My Heart"
5. Leader's prayer
6. Scripture reading, Proverbs 22:1-12, read responsively
7. Boys' chorus, "O Happy Day"

II. Study Period

Aim — To help our Juniors call to mind the fruit of the spirit which we have studied thus far, and to help create the desire to bear the fruit of meekness and temperance.

1. Read in unison Galatians 5:22, 23
2. Name the several fruits of the spirit and tell one thing concerning each.
3. Leader may introduce the two thoughts for study — Meekness, Temperance

It is told that a missionary in Jamaica was once questioning the black boys, and he asked "Who are the meek?" A little fellow answered, "Those who give soft answers to rough questions."

J. R. Miller, a great man of God, says, "Some one illustrates meekness by saying that it is like one of those fragrant trees which bathes with its perfume the ax that smites into its wood. The meek man gives love for hate, kindness for unkindness, sweetness for bitterness."

If you wish to be meek you must accept Jesus as your Savior, learn to love Him and be like Him.

4. Bible verses that call us to be meek, Zephaniah 2:3; Col. 3:12; Ps. 76:9; Ps. 25:9; 2 Tim. 2:25; James 1:21; 1 Pet. 3:15; Ps. 22:26; Ps. 147:6; Ps. 149:4; Matt. 5:5.

Let each Junior find all verses, then stand and read them in turn.

5. Story of Moses, the meekest of men, told by a Junior boy. References: Numbers 12:3; Exodus 32:1-14, 30-32.
6. Solo "I Would Be True"
7. Three-minute talk by a Junior girl. Jesus, too, is an example of meekness. He says, "I am meek." Matt. 11:29; "Let this mind be in you" Phil. 2:5. Read also 2 Cor. 10:1; 1 Pet. 2:23.
8. "Daniel an example of temperance", told by a Junior boy. Daniel, Chapter 1
9. Discussion "The Blessings of Temperance" led by the Junior leader

III. Mission Minutes

1. All Juniors bring the September issue of the "Missionary News and Notes" to this meeting. Find the number of missionaries named in it. Read parts of some letter.—Decide to write and send a Christmas greeting to one missionary.
2. Sentence prayers for all of our missionaries, praying that God may be their help in time of need, all Juniors taking part.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat in unison, the verse of the month, Galatians 2:20.
2. Four girls each read a verse of the song of the month "Here Is My Heart." M. H. B. No. 222, while the pianist plays the melody softly.
3. Together pray the prayer of the month, all heads bowed Psalm 19:14.
4. Sing softly "Into My Heart"

"Secret prayer is the secret of prayer."

CORRESPONDENCE

FREDONIA, KANSAS, SEPT. 3, 1940

Dear Readers:

A backward look reminds us that we can be truly thankful for the wonderful way our Lord has sustained and blessed us. We have had very nice, cool weather till now. The many rains have been very much appreciated. The row crops look very promising. Some of the small grain crops were good while others could have been better.

We were very glad to have Missionary and Mrs. P. W. Penner with us in the early summer. The last evening of their services we were permitted to partake of the Holy Communion.

Our Sunday School is planning to have its annual election next Sunday. May the Lord lead that each office may be filled with the right person. Our Young People's Meetings are being attended very regularly by all the members. We have purchased copies of the Tabernacle Song Book and enjoy singing very much, which helps to bring life and encouragement into church work. We have been richly blessed in the past and look ahead to another year of His goodness and mercy, hopefully and prayerfully. —Mrs. Harlow Schmidt, Corr.

TABOR CHURCH, NEWTON, KANSAS,

September 1, 1940

In our church, happiness and sorrow have interchanged. The joy is that on Pentecost Sunday 21 young souls were baptized and received as members into the church. Herewith the church assumed anew the duties of providing nurture for these young members so they can grow in the knowledge of the Lord. June 9 we were permitted to partake of the Lord's Supper.

Harvest is again past. Some have received much; others, less and some sparingly. However, there will be enough so no one need suffer. In case there are some who do not have their daily bread, the church council sees to it that they need not suffer. An offering for this purpose is taken every time the Lord's Supper is observed.—Everyone is busy now preparing the seedbed and in a few weeks sowing will begin.

Four funerals have taken place. First, the funeral of Brother Abraham Becker who passed away July 3. He longed to go and see his Lord. He lived alone and when he suddenly became sick, he was helpless. One whole month he had to suffer until the Lord called him home. His close relatives took care of him. His was a life of much work. It was said that he had read the Bible 17 times. For many years he was a teacher in the public schools as well as in the Sunday School.

Brother Abraham J. Schmidt suddenly took sick of blood poisoning and, due to complications which set in, he died 10 days later. This was a shock to the church. On February 16, 1939, he was elected as deacon and the following month ordained. He has served only one year and four months. Previously he served six years as trustee and two years as Sunday School secretary. A vacancy has occurred and we pray that God may help us to fill it again. Brother H. J. S. Schmidt, who was a brother of the deceased, is our Emeritus deacon. For three years he has been sick. He had improved enough that he could be at the funeral. He has suffered much.

On July 23 Mrs. David Unruh, mother of Rev. W. F. Unruh and Dr. R. T. Unruh, passed away. And on July 24 Sister Henry Thiessen died. So there were three funerals in succession. We were again reminded that we have here no earthly abode.

Among those who visited us were Rev. H. N. Harder who told us about the mission work in Enid, Oklahoma. Sister Marie J. Regier who is leaving for China was with us on August 4. On August 25 our pastor and Rev. P. K. Regier of Moundridge exchanged pulpits. Rev. P. K. Regier preached on the aims of the church. The Sunday School plans to have its annual picnic next Sunday, Sept. 8. Next month it will be 30 years that Rev. Richert has served us as elder. The church is planning to observe this occasion.

A Bible Reading class has been organized during the summer months. It meets every Sunday during the S. S. period. The enrollment is large since practically all of the young people of high school age have joined. Each member is required to read five chapters a week. The purpose is to create an interest in Bible reading.

The Law of Sin and the Law of Grace

By J. H. Janzen, Waterloo, Ontario

"That's all wrong" my friend said to me when I mentioned these two laws in a conversation. "Sin disregards law and does not recognize any law for itself, and grace needs no law because it is superior to law, and mercy glorieth against judgment."

And still there is a law of sin, and this is a law of nature by which sin grows out of temptation. Sin may disregard law, but law, certainly, does not disregard sin.

Each man is tempted when he is drawn away by his own lust and enticed. Then the lust, when it has conceived, beareth sin: and the sin, when it is fullgrown, bringeth forth death. That is the law of sin.

A law stands firmly, and your attitude towards it creates the results in a two-fold way. If you respect it and conform to it, it proves a blessing to you. If you disregard or oppose it, it passes judgment on you and brings about your punishment. Sin entices men and women to disregard the laws of nature, thereby causing them to fall under the law of sin and to be punished and finally destroyed, because the full-grown sin bringeth forth death. That is law, and you cannot get around it.

God controls the realm of all creative and constructive laws. Satan tries to interfere by bringing God's creation under the law of sin which makes for destruction. In God there is freedom, even freedom to do wrong. God planted the tree of good and evil, and warned the man and his wife not to eat of its fruits, but He did not make the eating impossible for them. Any sort of serfdom is incompatible with the law of righteousness. Where God's law reigns there is freedom.

The first man and woman misused their freedom and thereby lost it. They believed the lie more than the truth, sinned, and thereby surrendered themselves to the Kingdom of falsehood and darkness. Freedom is incompatible with the laws of sin, as serfdom is incompatible with the law of righteousness. Falling in sin our first parents fell into the slavery of sin. They could leave God's command by their own free will, when they were in God's Paradise. But they could not, by their own freewill, break the fetters of their slavery of sin, once they had surrendered to it. The slavery of sin, logically, is eternal according to the laws of sin that govern it.

A slave belongs to his master with everything that he is and has. So do his children who are born in slavery, and thereby into slavery. He cannot buy himself out of his slavery because all the means that he might happen to accumulate, belong to his master. He is the property and tool of a master who causes him to continue in sin and thereby to get more and more indebted to him. And it is an inexorable law that his debts and the ransom for him must be paid before he can be set free again. "Thou shalt by no means come out of thence, till thou have paid the last farthing."

That makes the case of the sinner a desperate one. There is no way out for him, unless a redeemer pays the price on him, and his debts for him and sets him free. He cannot get free by ignoring the law but only by the fulfilment of the law.

One slave cannot redeem another one. It must be a free man on whom, and on who's possessions, the master of the slave has no claim. If he pays the debt and the ransom then the sinner can get free from his bondage.

In God's guidance a man is free to be good or bad, but in the slavery of sin he can be only bad, and he falls into that slavery as soon as he misuses his freedom and gives himself to evil.

Therefore our Redeemer was a free man, born out of the flesh but of the eternal Father, full of grace and truth. He came not to ignore the law, or to oppose and destroy it, but to fulfill it.

* * * *

Christ's redeeming grace came not to let the sinner sin, and to cover him from punishment that sin carries with it according to law—but to pay the price for him, and his debts, and thus to set him free so that he would no more be bound to sin, and to heap debt upon debt unto eternal perdition. The blood of Jesus Christ cleanses us from all sin, making amends for the sins of the past, freeing us from the dominion of sin, and empowering us by the Holy Spirit to overcome sin by and by, not to commit it any more, and thereby to attain peace and blessedness to the Glory of God and to our souls' complete salvation. Christ would be a minister of sin, if we, while seeking to be justified in Christ, ourselves also were found sinners.

He who sins is under the domination of sin and has not accepted God's grace in Christ Jesus. Grace, also, is governed by law. Jesus did not declare our unpaid debts as null and void. He paid them, and thereby we were set free of them, and through the law, i. e. through the fulfilment of the same by Christ, we died unto the law, and it has no claim on us whatsoever.

If you sin, you are under the law of sin which carries you irredeemably to eternal perdition. But if you accept Christ's grace, your debts are paid, and you are led by the law of grace to perfect freedom of sin, and to eternal salvation.

IN MEMORIAM

ABRAHAM BECKER, SON OF HENRY AND MARIA LANGE BECKER, was born in Gnadenfeld, South Russia, on March 27, 1857. He started to school in Russia, finishing the village school and later attending a higher institution of learning, although his schooling was often interrupted due to weak eyes. On June 6, 1875, he was baptized by Elder August Lenzmann, and received into the membership of the Gnadenfeld Mennonite Church. In 1877 he, together with his parents, brothers and sisters, immigrated to America. Here they settled in Marion County, Kansas, 13 miles north of Newton. He joined the Alexanderwohl Church and remained a member until the Tabor Church was organized when he changed his membership to this sister church. During the school terms 1882-83 and 1883-84 he attended the German College and the Iowa Wesleyan University at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa..

For many years he taught a public school in Marion County, as well as being active as a Sunday School teacher. For about 10 years he operated a small store for the benefit of his neighbors, and for 26 years he operated a thrashing rig.

On Sunday afternoon, June 2, he suffered from a heart attack, which rendered him entirely helpless. For one month the Lord saw fit to leave him on his sickbed, until He called him home on July 3, 1940, at 7:30 a. m. He was prepared and anxious to go to be with Him Whom he had loved and served as his Master and Savior.

He reached the age of 83 years, 3 months, and 5 days. The deceased leaves two sisters, Mrs. David A. Schmidt and Mrs. J. J. Schmidt, and one brother, John Becker, one brother-in-law and one sister-in-law, as well as many nephews and nieces.

ANNA EWERT KLASSEN, DAUGHTER OF GERHARD AND EVA (FOTH) EWERT, was born March 8, 1872, in Michalin, Russia. In 1874 she came to America with her parents who settled in Harvey County, Kansas. On April 23, 1889, she was baptized upon confession of her faith in Christ by Elder Johann Schroeder and was received into the Gnadenberg Church. On September 10, 1893 she was united in holy matrimony with John Harms who died in 1897, and their three children all died in infancy. On June 24, 1900, she was united in marriage to Peter H. Unruh, who had four children of his former marriage. To this union two children were born who likewise died in infancy.

She now joined the Alexanderwohl Church, of which her husband was a member, and on Nov. 10, 1910, the newly organized Tabor Church. On August 3, 1928, father Unruh passed away. On October 20, 1929, she married for the third time, when she was united to Abraham J. Klassen, a widower with 9 children. The family moved to Hillsboro, Kansas, in 1930 where they joined the First Mennonite Church, of which she remained a member until her death.

She was a loving mother to all the children and a faithful member of the church. She took lively interest in the activities of the church, such as the sewing society, and was always ready to help where her help was needed. She spent much time in deeds of kindness for her children. The verse, which she received from her Sunday School Class while she was sick, Psalm 23:1, "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want," she often repeated in her suffering. and found strength and comfort in it. She took sick May 20 and died suddenly Sunday morning, August 11, 1940, from heart failure, at the age of 68 years, 5 months and 3 days. She leaves to mourn her departure her aged husband, 12 stepchildren, her father Gerhard Ewert, 100 years old; one brother, John Ewert, Newton Kansas, and other relatives and friends.

The funeral was held August 15 in the First Mennonite Church at Hillsboro. At the funeral home, Rev. J. M. Regier served, and Rev. J. H. Epp and Rev. P. H. Richert in the church. The remains were laid to rest at the Johannestal Cemetery where Rev. G. N. Harms of Whitewater served.

MOON—MRS. WILHELMINA, born at Seven Mile, Ohio, May 27, 1860, died July 4, 1940. In February 1883 she was united in marriage with James M. Moon of Oxford, Ohio.

Mrs. Moon was the daughter of Rev. John Augspurger, who formerly was pastor of the Mennonite Church in Trenton, Ohio. Her husband, Mr. James Moon, for many years served as deacon of the Trenton Mennonite Church.

Mrs. Moon in early youth united with the Mennonite Church of Trenton, Ohio, of which she was a devoted member, attending services regularly as long as she was able, and it was a matter of grief to her when she could no longer partake in church services. She read her Bible much, having many dearly beloved passages. The funeral text which she selected was II Timothy 4:7. Her pastor, Rev. J. E. Amstutz, conducted the services.

She is survived by two daughters, Miss Della Moon, member of the Bluffton College Faculty of Bluffton, Ohio, and Mrs. Jack Williams of Detroit, Mich., five grandchildren—Jean, Mary, Jack, M'Della, and James Williams, all of Detroit. One daughter, Nellie Irene Moon, died in 1901. Also three sisters and two brothers survive. She will be greatly missed by her family and many friends.

Opportunities and Responsibilities of the Teaching Profession

As the public schools again open their doors to receive the millions of children into their folds, we are led to think of the importance, the opportunities as well as the responsibilities, of the teaching profession. Herbert Hoover says of the teacher, "The public school teacher cannot live apart; he cannot separate his teaching from his daily walk and conversation. He lives among his pupils during school hours, and among them and their parents all the time. He is particularly a public character under the most searching scrutiny of watchful and critical eyes. His life is an open book. His habits are known to all. His office, like that of a minister of religion, demands of him an exceptional standard of conduct. And how rarely does a teacher fall below that standard! How seldom does a teacher figure in a sensational headline in a newspaper. It is truly remarkable, I think, that so vast an army of people—approximately eight hundred thousand—so uniformly meets its obligations, so effectively does its job, so decently behaves itself, as to be almost utterly inconspicuous in a sensation loving country. It implies a wealth of character, of tact, of patience, of quiet competence, to achieve such a record!"

THE TWO TEMPLES

A builder builded a temple;
He wrought with care and skill.
Pillars and groins and arches
Were fashioned to meet his will.
And men said when they saw its beauty,
"It shall never know decay;
Great is thy skill, O builder,
Thy fame shall endure for aye."

A teacher builded a temple;
She wrought with skill and care,
Forming each pillar with patience,
Laying each stone with prayer.
None saw the unceasing effort,
None knew of the marvelous plan;
For the temple the teacher builded
Was unseen by the eyes of man.

Gone is the builder's temple,
Crumbled into the dust;
Pillars and groins and arches
Food for consuming rust.
But the temple the teacher builded
Shall endure while the ages roll;
For that beautiful unseen temple
Was a child's immortal soul!

Mr. Zerger is an instructor in the Great Bend High School and Mrs. Zerger was employed in the office of the Bethel Clinic, Newton, Kansas. Both of them are graduates of Bethel College. — Rudolph Claassen of the First Presbyterian Church of Newton, and Velma Schmidt of the Tabor Mennonite Church, near Goessel, were married at the latter church on August 22.— Ralph Schroeder of Goessel and Ruth E. Frey of Newton, members of the Alexanderwohl Church, were joined in marriage at the church on Friday evening, September 6. — Weldon Neuenschwander and Rufine Liechty, both of Berne, Indiana, were married in the parsonage of the First Mennonite Church of Berne with Dr. C. H. Suckau officiating, on Saturday afternoon, August 24.

—SILVER WEDDING: Rev. and Mrs. Gerhard Friesen, formerly of Bethel College, celebrated their silver wedding at the home of Mrs. Friesen's mother, Mrs. J. J. Schmidt, Route 2, Newton, on Sunday afternoon, August 25. Congratulations and best wishes are extended to the couple.

—GOLDEN WEDDING: Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Unruh of Route 2, Newton, celebrated their golden wedding, Monday evening, August 26, at the Tabor Mennonite Church. May the Lord bless them as they continue their walk together and with Him.

—The Mountain Lake Bible School announces that Mr. Otto Richert of McPherson, Kansas, has been added to its teaching staff. Mr. Richert is well known as a singing evangelist over the radio and in our churches.

—The editor of this paper, Dr. J. R. Thierstein, again had to submit to another very necessary, but not serious, operation on Tuesday, September, 3. He is confined to the Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas, and is reported doing very nicely.

—THE UPPER MILFORD MENNONITE CONGREGATION, ZIONSVILLE, PA., is celebrating the 200th Anniversary of the founding of the church during this week. For Sunday morning, Sept. 8, a special anniversary program was planned, and in the afternoon they had their 7th Sunday School Reunion, also with a special program. For Thursday, Sept. 12, at 8:00 p. m. D. S. T., a Community Service has been arranged at which the various churches of the community will bring greetings to the Milford Church; and on Sunday, Sept. 15, 2:30 p. m. the Eastern District Mennonite Conference will convene. Christian greetings and hearty congratulations are extended to this church.

—On Monday evening, September 2, the Bethel Sisters of the Bethel Deaconess Hospital of Newton, Kansas, honored the class which has just completed its training at the hospital, and welcomed the new class of probationers, in the basement of the First Mennonite Church. After the program, refreshments were served and two reels of moving pictures, taken by Dr. Pauley on his vacation, were shown with the new Keystone Projector, a gift to the hospital by the graduating class.

—Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church— On Monday evening, August 26, the Lorraine Avenue Church of Wichita had the privilege of glimpsing India as the missionaries see it. Rev. and Mrs. John Thiessen visited our church and presented some very interesting slides of India and their work there. Personal contact with the missionaries is indeed inspiring. Earlier in the year we were visited by Missionaries P. W. Penner and W. C. Voth. The Women's Friendship Circle enjoyed an interesting talk by Mrs. P. J. Wiens at one of their earlier meetings.

Since our pastor, Rev. Schmidt, has offered his resignation effective in October, in order that he might enter another field of service, we are having candidates for this pastorage. Rev. Irvin Albrecht will fill the pulpit Sunday, September 1.

Mrs. Anton Richert, Corr.

—Bethel College and its Friends were recently again made happy by another generous gift at the hands of Hon. G. F. Grattan of McPherson, Kansas. Having previously given the school $10,000, he now added $4,000 more, making a total of $14,000. This good man, a prominent attorney and public spirited citizen, has no other connection with the Mennonites except that he has learned to know them as God-fearing, upright, industrious neighbors, and he appreciates the fundamental worth and wholesome influence of Christian schools like Bethel College.

—The Middle District Conference at its recent session reelected Rev. A. S. Rosenberger of Dalton, Ohio, as president and made Rev. Wm. Penner of Wayland. Iowa, vice-president; Rev. G. T. Soldner, Bluffton, Ohio, secretary; Rev. Wm. F. Unruh, Pulaski, member education committee; Chr. Lowenberg, Donnellson, Iowa, trustee; Rev. D. J. Unruh, Pandora, Ohio, home mission board; Rev. John Neufeld, Chicago, program committee, and Carl M. Lehman, Berne, Ind., field secretary.

He held the lamp of truth each day
So low that none could miss the Way,
And yet so high to bring in sight
That picture fair, the World's Great Light.
And gazing up, the lamp between,
The hand that held it scarce was seen.

A Momentous Battle On

For some weeks a fierce battle has been on at our nation's capital on the far-reaching question, whether our country should resort to peace time conscription of its man power as a defense measure. The leglislative measure before our law-makers, known at the Burke-Wadsworth bill, provides conscription for military training of such extensive intent that would eventually place at the disposal of the President, as comander-in-chief of the armed forces of the United States, a military force of several million men. It would thus grant him what amounts to dictatorial power in time of peace and would subject our citizenery to a system of regimentation unknown to us before. It would expose us to the ordeals and evils of militarism which our people have tried to avoid and against which they helped fight in the World War. It would mean, as some one has fitly stated, that "from a people given to habits of industry and peace, we would become a regimented people, geared up to the military tempo of a state which has chosen the way of armed violence."

Our representatives in Congress and administrative officers have been flooded with petitions to oppose the enactment of such a draft law and the valiant manner in which many of the Senators and Representatives have taken their stand against it has been most heartening. But the forces and agencies that have been pushing the measure have been so strong and their influence so effective that the Senate, after three weeks of stormy sessions passed, with a 58 to 31 vote, a version of the bill which would make all men of the ages between 21 and 30, inclusive, subject to the draft. The House in turn voted, 185 to 155, to give the voluntary enlistment system a sixty-day trial before conscripting men for the army. As this article is being written the proponents of conscription in the two Houses are trying hard to cast the bill into a form that it may be acceptable to a majority and thus force a vote before Congress adjourns.

A very large number of people that oppose conscription do so from a purely Christian point of view, as unchristian. Many other thoughtful and truly patriotic people are strongly against it, because they sense a desire in high places to involve this country in the war now on. It would be one of the very last of the many steps that have already been taken in that direction. It surely is in line with the noticable trend toward authoritarian government control. Altogether, then, our beloved country is in a very dangerous situation. As faithful followers of the Prince of Peace we should not let up using all peaceful means to prevent the catastrophy. We should not let up imploring those in authority to stem the tide away from conscription. We should pray incessantly, individually and as churches, that God may in His mercy prevent it.

Later: A compromise conscription bill has now been passed by both houses and made law. —T.

World-wide Communion Sunday

The first Sunday of next month, October the sixth, has been designated as the day on which the Christian churches are earnestly invited to observe world-wide communion of the Lord's Supper, as the Sacrament for a suffering world. In connection with this announcement the "Federal Council Bulletin" fittingly remarks:

"Taking the Cup and the Symbol of the Body broken for the sin and suffering of humanity, will be the widow, the orphan, the refugee, the prisoner of other lands in mystic fellowship with us Americans. Thus the Sacrament will bind together, by the suffering and redeeming love of God through Jesus Christ, a world of men set over against each other in conflict, a humanity literally torn and bleeding.

It is not contemplated that there will be union services; rather it is hoped that each household of faith will have all its members participating in a service which belongs not so much to is as the whole family of worshippers in Christ around the world, Thus there will be in reality one Union Service of many creeds and tongues.

Because of the inescapable consciousness of fellowship with those who suffer it has been suggested that the service in the American churches will be more complete and blessed if we on that occasion dedicate ourselves to a Christian ministry of mercy and relief to those who are in distress. . . . As we bear one another's burdens we shall 'fulfill the law of Christ' and deepen the experience of His Presence through sacrifice. It is not intended that it should be a 'campaign Sunday'. One spirit must be all-absorbing—the spirit of fellowship in Christ's suffering."

Next Session of the General Conference

Within a year, D. v., the General Conference is to have its triennial session somewhere in Pennsylvania. Since this always requires no small amout of advance preparation, preliminary steps are beginning to be taken.

The "Business Committee", which is charged with the preparation and publication of the program about three months prior to the session in the official church papers (The Mennonite and Der Bundesbote), is beginning to bestir itself. The members are the ministers: Chairman, J. C. Kaufman, Whitewater, Kansas; Secretary, Edgar Toevs, Reedly, Calif.; and member, J. J. Thiessen, Saskatoon, Sask.

Brother Toevs requests members of boards and committees and other participants to send in helpful suggestions for consideration and possible eventual incorporation in the program which this committee will present to the Conference as its report.

May I suggest as a symbol or motto for this session "The Christian Armor" according to Ephesians 6:10-20. Billions are being spent for material preparedness; but if military preparedness should be the only answer of the nations to the troubles of a sick world, then humanity requires no second Flood.

In a time like this, however, more than ever true Christianity needs to be stressed and the "Light of the World" exaulted. May it please God to use and inspire the Christian Church and our small denomination as a part of it to His glory!

C. E. Krehbiel, President

HOME MISSIONS

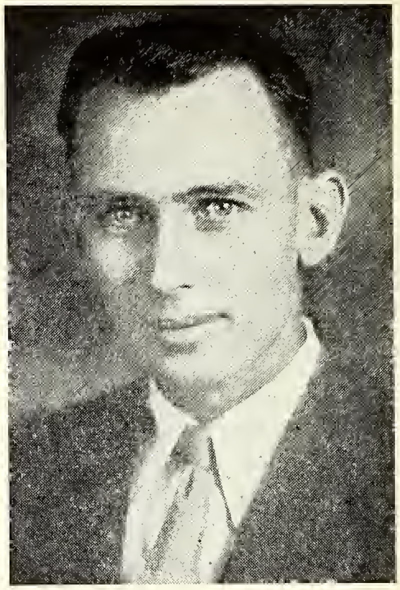
A. J. NEUENSCHWANDER, Secretary

The chairman of the Board of Home Missions reports that they have given a call to Rev. Erwin Albrecht to become pastor of the First Mennonite Church in Chicago, that Rev. Albrecht has accepted the call and that he is starting work there Sunday, September 15.

Brother Albrecht is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Albrecht of the Bethany Menn. church at Kingman, Kansas. He was graduated from Bethel College in 1937 and from Hartford Theological Seminary in 1940.

Since his graduation from Hartford Mr. Albrecht has been visiting and serving churches in Western Kansas, under the supervision of the Home Mission Board.

Let us remember the young worker in our prayers that God's spirit may richly descend upon him, and prosper him in his work, so that the church may grow spiritually and numerically.



Rev. Erwin Albrecht
New Worker at First Mennonite Church, Chicago

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Oklahoma Bible Academy has called Rev. J. R. Barkman as Bible teacher. He is known to many through his work with the Grace Orphanage at Henderson, Nebraska. During the past school year he and his family resided on the Bethel College campus, while he and his son attended the College. At the same time he served the Zion Mennonite Church at Kingman as pastor. This summer he did evangelistic work in the northwest and west.

Our school offers a fully accredited high school course and a two- and three-year Bible course. It has opened Sept. 8, but it is not too late yet to enter O. B. A. to learn of Him and be efficient witnesses of His grace. We covet the prayers of God's children that He may richly bless our Academy.

For information write to PRIN. REV. AUGUST SCHMIDT, MENNO, OKLAHOMA.

Yours in His service, S. Mouttet, Pres. of Bd.

SOLICITING AN INVITATION

The officers of the Minister's Conference of the Western District are prepared to consider invitations for the fall session of the minister's conference to be held, God willing, on the twenty-second of October. The place of meeting of the minister's conference should be within driving distance of Newton where the Western District Conference will meet.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE JANJGIR BIBLE SCHOOL

For the year 1939

"Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ." Eph. 1:3

The students and staff of the Bible School had their annual Retreat in a mango grove near Champa during the first week of January. About 40 Evangelistic workers from Champa, Korba and Janjgir also attended the Retreat. The total enrollment was 72. Rev. and Mrs. Wenger, Rev. Isaac, Drs. Harvey and Ella Bauman assisted the principal of the Bible School in conducting the classes. After the Retreat the students and staff went out on a six-weeks touring campaign in the villages from 15 to 20 miles north of Janjgir. The students divided into five camps. All of these came to the main camp occasionally to give reports and receive instruction. Instead of moving the camps into new villages every four or five days, they stayed in one place for three weeks, in order to teach a course of at least twelve stories from the life of Christ, from His birth to His resurrection, to the villagers so well that they were able to repeat these stories.

The Evangelistic work this year was done especially among two castes, the Satmanis and the Ghassiyas. These have been classified as out-castes by the Brahmins and are forbidden to enter temples for worship. They have their worshipping places under trees, in groves, or any place which suits them. Many Satmanis have ceased to worship idols, but the Ghassiyas will pour a bit of red paint over a stone and call it a god. During our work among these two castes we found that they listened gladly and eagerly. They joined us in singing Christian hymns. We gave them pictures from picture rolls and they hung them up in their courtyards and in their homes. None were baptized while we were out on tour, but many expressed their desire to become Christians some day, and begged us to come back to tell them more of our blessed Savior.

After the touring season all the students returned to Janjgir to attend the graduating exercises of the five students who had finished the three year course and who were given diplomas. The message of the com-mencement address given by Rev. Reynolds of the Disciples of Christ Mission was a very fitting one for those who were going out into life-service for the Master. After the closing exercises all the students went home for their summer holidays.

The new year opened on June 19 with an enrollment of 37. This was 12 more than we had on the opening day last year. During the second semester two more have enrolled, making a total of 39. As we had all the available rooms filled last year already, it is easily seen that we had a housing problem to face. We rented an end room in the pastor's house, emptied two store rooms, and built a small room next to the cattle granery, as that necessitated building only two walls and a roof. Still there were not enough rooms and a dark room next to the cattle shed was cleaned out and whitewashed, and a young married couple from Basna was willing to live in there. A Chamar Hindoo across the road who with his wife went to work in the coal fields till Christmas, rented us his house for Motilal and his family from Korba. In addition two of our Christians, Sakalu Cook and Kallu, moved away, and their small mud houses were available for two student families. Due to leaking roofs and mud floors the houses became so damp during the three rainy months of July, August and September, that the water oozed out and the table, chairs, and bed legs sank into the mud. We praise God that very few of the students had to miss school on account of sickness. Their general health has been especially good this year. However, some of the Bible students' children and babies had dysentary and recurrent fever. We recommend that new living quarters be built for at least six families for the next school year. 2500 rupees have been asked for in the Janjgir budget. This is only about $830 for six families, or about $138 per family. We do not know how many more new students will come next year, but unless we build new living quarters for them we will not be able to admit them.

There are 17 married couples, six unmarried men and three unmarried young women attending the Bible School this year. All but four of the wives of the married students are attending classes. Nearly all the married couples have children. In order that the mothers may attend classes, the children are all put into a day nursery, where two kind, elderly women look after them.

On account of the high price of rice this year, due to famine conditions in some parts of India, some of the students have been unable to buy all the required text-books. They borrow or buy second-hand books as much as possible. However, we have introduced a few new courses this year which necessitated buying new text books. A married couple gets about $4 a month as a scholarship, and with this amount buys fuel, food, oil, and books. Many of the students wear patched shirts to school this year, and most of them come to school bare-footed. However, the students have not complained much, they are a happy lot of young people, and my cup runs over with joy when I see them working and playing, and hear them singing and preaching and giving their testimonies. They teach Sunday-school classes, take active part in C. E. programs, go out in Bands of Witnesses every Friday afternoon to preach, sing songs, and tell stories in the near-by villages. For recreation they play volley ball, hockey and football. In football the ball is kicked only and the player is never tackled. There are five students who are to receive their diplomas next February.

Pray for our students especially that during the touring season of Jan. and Feb., some souls may be won for Christ and that they may be baptized.

With greetings, Martha Burkhalter

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

Christian Education for Home Living

By Ella M. Wiebe, Bethel College

Students enter college at the age of seventeen, with a wide variation of maturity. Some show a definite personality pattern, others seem as yet an unwritten page, or if written, at least undecipherable. But for most of them the four years of college are, next to the pre-school years, the most consequential in life. During these years a student chooses a profession, a life-mate, adopts or perfects a philosophy of life, and if he is fortunate, grows up into that emotional, intellectual and spiritual freedom which is the heritage of the children of God..

We chuckle a bit as we contemplate the unmistakable role which a college plays as a marriage bureau, a most successful one, too, as divorse statistics indicate, but many a prayer rises to God for those who have found each other in our halls. We feel that we have a share in their happiness, and a part of the responsibility if they should fail.

How does the church college prepare youth for the building of Christian homes?

1. By the examples of the Christian homes on the campus. There are no saints living here, but I never knew a more friendly, more democratic, happier and more Christian community.

2. By the spirit which the students bring from their Christian homes, which composes a large part of the campus atmosphere. One needs the experience of a large university campus to appreciate the warmth of a church college campus. Our students work for this family spirit of democracy. We have no fraternities, no sororities; cliques are outlawed by the campus spirit. We have neither Greek nor Barbarian, saint or publican among us, and the occasional Pharisee has such hard sledding that he turns to repentence. This family spirit implies mutual loyalty and respect, reasonableness in bearing with the faults and frailties of one another. It builds a sense of "self" which is the secret of this much heralded "Personality", and is the highest type of satisfaction. The many interrelations between faculty and students, casual and planned, offer rich opportunity for growth, and build a healthymindedness which can withstand the stresses and strains of the larger world, or of the smaller but crucial group, the family.

3. By the Fellowship Hour on Sunday evenings during which problems of student life and interests are discussed. This fine, frank, earnest searching for truth is one of the superior growth situations in college.

4. The social life on our church college campuses has the advantage that we are far removed from the temptations of large cities, and of alcohol. Willy-nilly, we have another advantage in somber disguise: we are all poor together. Not having money with which to buy entertainment, we make it ourselves, which is excellent training in the simple life, in developing resources within ourselves, and in group living. A college owes to it's students, not entertainment, but a place where they can make their own. At Bethel College we have no place where more than one-third of us can get together, excepting in chapel and under the open sky. The chapel is inappropriate for most of our social activities, and rains still fall upon the parties of the just and the unjust. Poor housing conditions send children into the streets to play; we have, in effect, sent our students off the campus in search of recreational facilities. With the completion of Memorial Hall, this situation will be greatly improved.

5. The easy give-and-take of everyday college life gives students an excellent opportunity to learn to know many people from many angles. Some of our older people who have experienced romance enveloped in more mystery, fear that this will detract from it's beauty, but to those who live here there is abundant evidence that youth at college age is incurably romantic. A little of the white light of reason, shed in group conference with understanding and sympathetic faculty members, and a little of the plain light of everyday living can do no harm. Has it not been a long accepted maxim that one should keep both eyes wide open before marriage, and half-shut ever after? Even as I write this, a week before the opening of school, there is a vibrant flutter evident on this campus, the keen anticipation of several hundred young people who can hardly wait to have it begin to happen all over again.

6. By their fruits ye shall know them. Our church colleges exist to train youth for the ministry, the mission field, for teaching and for the home. Of these, the home is the oldest, the most fundamental, without it, none of the others have a chance. The record of church college graduates is excellent. Many a gallant husband at an alumni meeting with the appreciation and perspective which comes with the years, states that the finest thing he got out of college is the little woman who became his wife, and adds: "I want my boy and girl to have the same chance." The women, with that reticense and modesty which is still the charm of womanhood, say nothing, but I suspect that deep in their hearts they feel the same way about it.

Upper Milford Church, Zionsville, Pa.

Celebrates its Two-Hundreth Anniverary

We are moved to tell our readers more about this important historical event than what was given in the last Mennonite, during our absence. From a fine folder, containing programs for the anniversary and pictures of an older and the present church buildings, kindly sent us by Bro. W. S. Greisinger, we note; As in other new settlements, the early Mennonite comers in Pennsylvania first held their religious meetings in their rude log house homes. When the King's Highway was built through there, they erected a log-meeting-house near this road in 1740 which they used for educational and religious purposes for 76 years. But in 1816 they replaced it with a substantial stone structure which was so arranged that it served the double purpose better. This building was enlarged and remodeled in 1843 and then replaced by the more modern present building.

Among the names that are recorded as early members are: Balser, Fink, Gehman, Hiestand, Jansen, Kreter, Moyer, Schantz, Schleifer, Stamm, Stauffer, and Weiss. The following ministers have served the congregation:

Michael Holzhauser, Joseph Schantz, Anthony S. Shelly, Hannes Gehman, Wm. G. Gehman, Wm. S. Gottshall, John Gehman, Uriah, S. Shelly, S. P. Preheim, John Schantz, Victor B. Moyer, Carl v. d. Smissen, Howard G. Nyce (Present Pastor).

The following served as assistant pastors: Wm. H. Grubb, Albert R. Shorman, Elwood S. Shelly, Harvey G. Allebach, Samuel T. Moyer.

There were interesting programs Sunday September 8, forenoon and afternoon, also Thursday evening September 12, at which several ministers of the neighboring churches spoke, and on Sunday, September 15, at which time the Eastern District Conference held its session in this church.

—REV. HAROLD AND MRS. RUTH (REGIER) RATZLAFF Ordained as Missionaries.—At an impressive and well attended service, in the high school auditorium at Buhler, Kansas, this young couple was ordained as missionaries for service in India, Sunday, Sept. 8. A. E. Kreider gave the ordination sermon and P. P. Wedel performed the ordination act. Brief addresses were made by the young missionaries, also by J. F. Schmidt, local pastor, J. E. Hartzler, E. G. Kaufman, and J. J. Ratzlaff. A farewell service will be held for these outgoing workers Sept. 22 at Meno. Oklahoma, the home of Bro. Ratzlaff. Buhler is the home of Mrs. Ratzlaff.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE VOICE OF WISDOM

Proverbs 4:10-27

Introduction

We have two lessons from the Book of Proverbs. Proverbs are short sayings which have been handed down through generations. Usually they refer to some truths of general importance. There is an introduction extending through nine chapters. The opening sentences tell us that the object of the Book is especially to instruct the young in the way of wisdom. The superior worth is prominently emphasized. Wisdom is presented as being essentially moral and religious (1:7). Wisdom has to do with human conduct and the wise person is he who lives righteously.

Heeding Good Instruction vs 10-13

God, the all-wise Father, is the real author of the words which He has put into the mouth of Solomon, who is speaking words of wisdom to his son and to anyone who is willing to hear his teachings. Wisdom is highly exalted. It is not merely knowledge which may be acquired; it is understanding the right, the best use of knowledge. It is concerned about the essentials for the best and fullest life we can live. To those who receive the counsel of a wise and righteous person and take fast hold of good instruction, God promises good rewards. Such living is indeed conducive to long life. God has so ordained things in his moral universe that godliness promotes our general well-being (v10). We are assured of good guidance in "the way of wisdom." In the daily walk, and in times of emergency, we shall not fail, our steps shall not be hindered when we go in this path (v12). Wisdom points the way to a fruitful, happy and worthwhile life (v13).

Avoid Wicked Paths vs 14-17

All need this warning for there is the ever-present danger of turning aside to the "way of evil men" (v14). It is dangerous to begin to have wicked companions or to follow their way of living. It is far easier to avoid such a path in the first place. Evil companions drag one down to their depraved level (vs 16, 17). People become like their companions. The wise person will choose carefully the path in which he walks.

Following Right Paths vs 18-22

The path, the life of the just, is a more attractive picture. It is as a shining light becoming brighter as the vision of the truth becomes clearer, until there is the splendor of the perfect day (v18). God's presence is with the just, the good man. Love, purity and peace are there. The righteous person inclines his ear to God's "sayings" or requirements which are reasonable and appeal to our common sense. They lead us to life in its best sense here, and to eternal life. Many whose souls are dark, prefer the path of the wicked and lose eternal salvation. We need to enter the right path and walk in it to the end of life's journey.

Keeping Our Heart With Diligence vs 23-27

The heart is the center of life. It determines our character and what our life will be. Outward acts express what is within. Our feelings, our thinking should be right with God. Keep a close watch on the heart which stands for the whole person (v23). Keep a close watch upon the mouth (v24). A wayward mouth reveals a wayward heart. The eye is a good indicator of the direction we are going. Let its gaze be on the path of righteousness (v28). Take time to think seriously of our ways in a moral and spiritual sense. There must be wise fore-thought so that all our conduct may be right. There may not be any compromise of honest convictions. Thus we shall be preserved steadfast in faith and Christian character. The person who is truly wise will lead a godly life.

SERMON SKETCH

BLESSED ASSURANCE

by J. P. Glanzer, Shafter, Calif.

Can a person know that he is saved? Surely, he can. We sing, Blessed assurance, Jesus is mine, and not only that, we have God's word for it. I John 5:13, "These things have I written unto you that believe in the name of the Son of God, that ye may know that ye have eternal life."

Here are seven proofs of salvation as revealed in 1st John.

The first evidence of salvation is believing, I John 5:1. "Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God." But genuine belief is not merely head belief, but heart belief. Rom. 10:10. "For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness."—If you believe with your heart the record that God gave of His son, that He died for your sins according to the Scripture, and rose again, then you are saved. John 5:24, "Verily, verily I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life."

If your faith is genuine, it will manifest itself in certain ways and that is, secondly, evidence by Confession. I John 4:15, "Whosoever shall confess that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God." If you have received Christ as your Savior, you will soon let it be known. If you are ashamed, something is wrong. For the Scripture says, "Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed."

The third evidence is the indwelling of the Holy Spirit.—Every believer has the Holy Spirit dwelling in him.—I John 4:13, "Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he has given us his Spirit."—There are nine fruits of the Spirit mentioned in Gal. 5:22, 23. They are: Love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith meekness, temperance. As a Christian, you should at least show some of this fruit of the Spirit in your life.

A fourth evidence of Salvation is love for God and His Word. I John 2:5, "But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected; hereby know we that we are in him."—The Christian must feed on His word. If there is no hunger in the heart for fellowship with God through His word, then something is wrong. But notice it says "keepeth" his word. The believer is not only a hearer, but also a doer of the Word. I John 2:3, "And hereby we know that we know him, if we keep his commandments."

A fifth evidence of Salvation is love for the brethren. If you are a Christian you will love God's genuine children, and will want their fellowship. I John 3:14, "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren."

A sixth evidence of Salvation is overcoming the world. Perhaps you are a worthy Christian. If so, you had better stop and think. I John 5:4, "For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world."—It does not say "has" overcome the world, but is overcoming it. Day by day the believer overcomes the world. The things he once loved, he loves no longer. Earthly things and earthly joys begin to look shallow and empty. Remember 2:15, "If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."

A seventh evidence of Salvation is a hatred for sin.—I John 3:9, "Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him, and he cannot sin, because he is born of God."—It means he will not sin willfully and knowingly. He will not do anything that he knows is wrong. He still has the old nature and it is still possible, while he is in this world, that he may fall into sin. But God's word says, my little children sin not (2:1), but, "if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous."—If you are saved there is a conflict going on between your old nature through the flesh and the new nature through the Spirit, and the secret of gaining victory over sin is in the following verse, "Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the fesh."—Gal. 5:16.

IN FACE OF CONSCRIPTION

The Burke-Wadsworth bill provides for punishment up to five years imprisonment or $10,000 fine or both for any person "who counsels, aids or abets another to evade registration or service in the land or naval forces or any of the requirements of this act or of said regulations or directions." The question arises whether this provision as now drawn might under war-time pressure be stretched to punish a pastor for advising a man to follow his conscience even if it leads him to refuse to register or be drafted. In order to make their position clear at this point, and without at all condoning the principle of conscription, the following affirmation has been prepared and has already been signed by 307 ministers. The ministers signing it do so in no spirit of defiance. They simply desire straight-forwardly to remind their fellow-citizens and especially members of Congress now considering the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill that they intend to stand by the declaration of their churches in this matter; and that no act of government can absolve them from their duty as ministers of God to counsel men to obey their consciences; and that they will therefore continue to give all support in their power to those who may be called upon to suffer for conscientious objection to war and conscription. They earnestly pray that Congress may pass no law which seeks to conscript any man for any kind of compulsory service against his conscience. This affirmation of the Christian minister's right and obligation of conscience before God, " to counsel men in all circumstances to render obedience to conscience and resolutely to do the right as they see it," was prepared and signed, and sent to the members of Congress before there had been time to obtain the signatures of many additional clergy who doubtless would wish to sign and still may do so. They should write to Dr. Allen Knight Chalmers, care of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, 2929 Broadway, New York City. Here is the affirmation.

AFFIRMATION

"We desire to affirm our conviction that no action of government can abrogate or suspend our obligation as Christian ministers to counsel men in all circumstances to render obedience to conscience and resolutely to do the right as they see it. Therefore we must make it clear to our fellow-citizens, and in particular to conscientious objectors to war in any form that we stand ready to counsel and support in all ways within our power those who may be subjected to difficulty or persecution because they are unable conscientiously to cooperate in the operation of a conscription act." —"FELLOWSHIP"

The Light Has Not Failed

By Earl Printz, Jr.

Recently an article appeared in a popular magazine, accusing the church of having failed in its mission of improving the world. The church, the article charged, has not lived up to the idealism of Christ.

We youth challenge such statements. The light has not failed!

Was it not the church that first saw and answered the need for public schools? Was it not the church that first ministered to the stricken slaves of the slums? Is not the church responsible for most of our humane thinking and legislation? Who can read the romantic story of the church and say that its light has failed?

The trouble with the article was the fact that the author's conception of the church was out of proportion with the rest of his thinking. The claims of the church have been presented to men in various forms, and equally various have been the motives which have led men into its fellowship. They all might be summed up in two different views of the church: first, it is a place of refuge and rest; second, it is a field of service and usefulness.

There is something commendable about each of these motives. But in the light of Jesus' standards there seems to be a third motive, usually overlooked, which includes all others. In the words of Luther E. Lovejoy: "The church is not designed primarily to serve me nor primarily for me to serve; it is put into my hands as a most convenient and practical device for serving Christ and, with Him, my fellow men."

Like all the world's great servants Jesus was a dreamer. Had Jesus not been an Idealist, He would never have looked beyond Judea's hills or out over the Mediterranean into the world. But Jesus saw in the crowds of the city and on the lakeshore the children of God. He had the vision of an expanding church and of a kingdom larger than that of Caesar's

Such a vision is only for the eyes of Christians. John saw it. Isaiah faintly glimpsed it! Peter was startled by it! The Christian stewart can and must look outside his own narrow circle of friends into the world.

But Jesus did not stop with just dreaming. Supplementing His dreams were two motives which led Him to act. Every time He saw suffering He was filled with compassion. He was full of pity. His miracles were never performed simply to attract crowds; He simply had to do something to relieve suffering.

But behind the motive of compassion was the kindred but deeper motive of love. Jesus was able to see the potential worth of a man, and love him in spite of what he was. Love was a vital, all-inclusive factor of His life.

We need have no fear that the light will fail if we remember to live lives that are tempered by compassion and love.

The church is a sacred instrument which has been intrusted to us. We youth will not let it fail! Its light shall shine forever!

WORLDLINESS

How is the Church to be in the world and not become worldly? Many noble people are bemoaning the worldliness of the Church. Time was when Christians would lose worldliness by withdrawing from the world. That was not the Lord's way. "I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world." His purpose was not to change the location of disciples, but to change the location of the heart. We, as Christians, are not to withdraw from contagion, but become immune by endowment of invincible spiritual health. The world with its ambitions, its infected atmosphere, has ever been about the Church and individuals in the Church. It comes in the form of intellectualism. Multitudes of the most learned have been, and are, deeply spiritual, but a great host of the learned and pseudo-learned are attacking the spiritual verities today. Indifferentism is another worldly poison. God is not denied; He is forgotten and ignored. Too much machinery is another worldly intrusion. Oh, for the return of simple methods!

The cue? A return to the Bible as the infallable rule of faith and practice; a return to Jesus Christ, unique Son of God, dying for our sins and raised for our justification; a return to prayer alone in the secret place and in company with others. We will then go forward conquering and to conquer.

WHAT DOES YOUR ANXIETY DO?

It does not empty tomorrow of its sorrow; but it empties today of its strength. It does not make you escape the evil; it makes you unfit to cope with it when it comes. It does not bless tomorrow, and it robs today. For every day has its own burden. God gives us power to bear all the sorrow of His making; but He does not give us the power to bear the sorrows of our own making, which the anticipation of sorrow most assuredly is.

HAVE YOU?

Have you, as a Christian youth who believes in peace, learned and thought through thoroughly the basic scripture portions in regard to peace? In connection with this have you seen Dr. H. A. Fast's Peace Counsel for Mennonite Youth? If you haven't then ask your pastor to get some copies immediately for you and others.

Have you read such valuable, supplementary peace literature as The Principle of Nonresistance as Held by the Mennonite Church by John Horsch, The New Testament Basis of Pacifism, by G. H. C. Macgregor, The Pacifist Handbook, What About the Conscientious Objector—A Supplement to the Pacifist Handbook, Help Wanted, by Arle Brooks and Robert J. Leach, Pacifist Program by Richard B. Gregg, If We Should be Invaded by Jesse Wallace Hughan, Victory Without Violence by A. Ruth Fry, Propagenda by E. L. Harshbarger, and Training by Muriel Lester? These are all valuable for a study course on peace and may be obtained from Walter H. Dyck, 1408 North 9th Street, Beatrice Nebraska. Catechism of Peace in a World at War with a Case Book on Non-Violence by Don and Barbara Smucker is a new handbook for speakers and discussion group leaders now available from "Work Camp Committee," American Friends Service Committee, 20 South 12th St., Philadelphia, Pa., at ten cents apiece.

Have you attempted to write out a simple, honest, clear statement of your Christian pacifist position? To do so helps to clarify one's thinking on the subject.

Have you informed yourself as to the C. O. provisions in the pertinent leglislation before congress? If not, write to your representative or senator for copies of the Compulsory Military Training and Service bill as passed in the senate and the house. A copy of the Hearings Before the Committee on Military Affairs U. S. Senate on S. 4164 also provides very enlightening reading and can be gotten through your senators.

Have you given for peace or relief work? Our peace committees can't very well help you if you don't help them financially. Giving for relief should be evidence of our love for all mankind.

Have you formed the habit of daily disciplining yourself in a Christian way? Vigor of body, mind, and heart should characterize every pacifist. Bible reading, meditation, study and prayer are daily essentials.

Have you taken up some project in which you in some concrete, active way can show your Christian goodwill to those suffering from ill-will? Our pacifist faith without pacifist works is dead. Let us be vital, living pacifists who daily witness of the Prince of Peace.

AWAY TO "MENNOLAN"

Young people of the Eastern District, do you want a joyous time of Christian fellowship and recreation? Then come to the picnic and campfire that will be held at "Mennolan", our new retreat grounds, on Saturday, Septembsr 21, from 3 to 8:15 p. m. We will fellowship, worship, play and eat and tour the grounds. Come and be one of the great group of Christian young people that we expect to be present.

A Stranger Looks at the Pacific Conference

By Rev. Paul R. Shelly

For a period of ten years or more I was active in the various Young Peoples Groups in the Eastern District Conference. Many times I wondered as to the type of work done by our other conferences. I read about their activities in the Mennonite but not knowing any of the workers or the places where they labored I didn't secure an insight into any of the situations as they existed.

This summer I decided to use part of the month of August to visit some of the Mennonites in the Pacific Conference and to see in part the work they are doing. I was privileged to do this and now feel that I should share some of my experiences with you so that the Mennonites in the Eastern District Conference as well as the other conferences may profit by the inspiration that I received.

I realize that I am not qualified to write impressions of the work of the Pacific Conference. I was there for too short a time and visited but a few of the churches. It is also true, however, that many times a person who does visit a group for only a short time does have more definite interpretations than the person who stays longer although the opinions may not be as sound. With this apology I begin.

The first thing that impresses one from the Eastern District Conference is the fact that the churches in the Pacific Conference are widly scattered. We from the East do not appreciate this fact enough until we look into another conference. The Pacific Conference is spread over an area of about a thousand miles north and south and five hundred east and west. My contacts thus far have been limited to either the minister or the groups at Lind, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; Reedly and Los Angeles, Calif. In addition to these contacts I was glad I could attend the Young Peoples Retreat of the California Churches at Lake Sequoia, Calif., August 12-19.

The first week in May I was driving through Lind, Wash. and stopped in to see Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Miller who have charge of the work of the Menno Mennonite Church, near Lind. We found we had many mutual friends, mostly Bethel students that I had met at the Hartford Theological Seminary. Although I didn't see the church there I got an insight into the work in one of the Wheat sections of Washington. Rev. Miller lives about twenty miles from the church and many of the members come even farther to worship.

The first week in August I started on a trip to California and made my first stop at Portland, Ore., and was privileged to worship with the Mennonite Group there and to bring the morning message. Rev. and Mrs. Arnold Regier took over the work there a short time ago. They have a very active group to work with and there appears to be much hope for the future. I was agreeably surprised to see Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Wiens there, having met them several times at Eastern District Conferences.

MAIN TOPIC: Our Church a Laboratory
October 6, 1940

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "The Churches One Foundation"
   "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name"
   "Come, Speak a Word for Jesus"
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Two short talks on: "Why Do I Go to Church?"
4. Offering for Mission Work.

II. Leader's Introduction:

"There isn't any chance to do anything very wonderful in a little country church like this." said Milton. "If I ever get to a city, I am going to undertake something big." "If you ever get to the city and hear God's call, don't be surprised if he tells you to go back to the country and furnish leadership there," replied his friend.

We may well each ask ourselves, "What does my church expect of me?" The church should be the centre of the religious life of any community. All that can be brought to it of fellowship and sharing of inspiration and enthusiasm for the work of God's Kingdom should be gladly and freely given to all the members.

We should believe in the church, believe that it has a mission in nourishing men's lives that nothing can replace. We should believe in it as the farmer believes in rain. He may get along without paint on his barns, without a combine, or even a tractor, but he must have rain to grow a crop.

We should prove the influence of the church in our daily living. Doing the work of the church is much more than baking pies and sewing quilts, or even attending and sharing in C. E. meetings and S. S. work. It means living the Way of the Master of the church in our homes, our communities, and even reaching out to bring the gospel message to far distant lands.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks:

1. The true spirit of worship. Ps. 95:1-7a
2. Discipline in the church .Matt. 18:15-10
3. Preaching and witnessing Luke 24:45-48
4. Freedom of truth John 8:31-36
5. Fellowship in worship Heb. 10:19-25
6. Growth in Christian virtues II Pet. 1:2-8

IV. For Discussion

What does the church in your community do that cannot be done by any other organization? What tasks are there that the church ought to be doing to make the life of the community more Christian? What can the young people of the church undertake for the church?

V. Facts for Study

What does the church do?

1. It keeps the Gospel at work in the world. It is the centre from which light and life and power radiate into the world.

2. It presents Jesus Christ as the Savior of man. It offers Him as the Way, the Truth, the Life. It adores Him as its Master and Leader. It worships Him as the one who brings peace into the hearts of men, and the power to live a new life.

3. The church is the centre of inspiration for Christian living at home and in the community. It offers opportunity for fellowship. Just as a heap of live coals have a much better chance of giving heat and warmth so a group of Christians will find their fellowship to mean much for their life.

4. The church is a school of religious training. The pulpit, the S. S., the C. E. nurture the Christian life, and help it to grow and become strong. It is a centre of information and teaching as to the Christian way of living.

"To the Summit"

W. A. Cameron in his "Jesus and the Rising Generation" tells of a little wicket gate some place in England. By it is a guidepost with two arms. The one pointing to the left reads: "Beware of the Blasting." The other points straight ahead with these words, "To the Summit." This choice is to be found by each of us as we travel on life's way. Our life, short enough, may be so easily blasted. Or by choosing the right way, we may climb "To the Summit" of eternal life and glory.

VII. Food for Thought

Moses was asked to take off his shoes at the burning bush—does reverence at church services help us to "meet our God?"

A lazy, indolent church tends toward unbelief; an earnest, busy church, in hand-to-hand conflict with sin and misery, grows stronger in faith. —Hall

Talk "The Service of Time"

"There is a hunger of the soul as well as of the body, and many a man and woman who sit down to tables laden with food every day, are starving for a little understanding and sympathy. There are people who live in palaces who are just as homeless as any wanderer of the streets and who would be just as grateful to be given a warm seat at your fireside and a few words of friendship as the tramp would be for a handout. There are millions and millions of people dressed like Solomon in all his glory who are freezing to death from loneliness. The poorest of us have ourselves and our time to give, and they are the most precious gifts that any one can bestow."

Let us consider our own community and see if there are any who might be in the above position. If there are, what can we do about it?

Song "Somebody"

Talk "Sharing With Our Old People and Children"

"Many hundreds of children are the charges of our churches. The children need milk, chlothes, books and food, just as we do. God has been good to us in preserving our parents to care for us. These have been less fortunate. Let us show our gratefulness for our homes by sharing with those who have none.

Our churches have a large family to care for. Many dear old people have spent their entire lives in Christian service. They have shared of their money and lives so generously that when they can no longer work they do not have the means laid up to care for themselves; so they must look to us.

There are hundreds of these dear old people who are 'guests' in our homes, awaiting the summons to go to the eternal home. Surely we can share with them of our wealth of spirit and of heart."

1. Are there any children in our church homes with whom we could share at Thanksgiving Time? Let us keep them in mind and start now to plan how we might help them.
2. Are there any aged people whom you could cheer by little deeds of kindness? Plan a pleasant surprise for them also.

Solo "O Jesus, I have Promised to Serve Thee to the end"

Discussion—Our parents are continually giving the best they have that we might be happy. Now we want to discuss some ways in which we can share "our best."

We all want to choose some project which we can work out in our own homes to make our family life happier.

1. Are there any additional chores which we could easily do?
2. Could we try harder to save money?
3. Could the girls decide on some definite way to relieve Mother for a day or even an evening or even an hour or two.
4. How about planning family outings?
5. Could the whole family plan something special to do for someone on Thanksgiving or Christmas?

GIVING ACCOUNT OF OUR STEWARDSHIP

In Luke, the 16th chapter, the story is told of a servant who was asked to give a report of his stewardship. If God should ask us this day to give an account of our stewardship how would the record look?

Stewardship of Time. We were each given 8760 hours last year. Around 2900 hours were spent in sleep. Besides eating, working and playing, how did we make use of the remaining hours? One seventh of our waking hours amounts to 832 hours and you notice that almost makes one-tenth of the total hours. This time belongs to God but did He get His share?

Stewardship of Talents. We were given talents and blessings and they are to be used. Some people may think their talents few but that is no excuse for burying what we have in the ground. The greatest gift that comes the way of man is salvation. We as Christians have this gift but what are we doing with it?

Stewardship of Tithes. God has given temporal gifts also but what proportion of these were put to work for Christ? The writer kept a very comprehensive record of his tithing last year for his enlightenment. He found that of the 11% of income given, 31% went to local church, 20% to missions, 11% to Christian education, 9% to charity, 8½% to auxiliaries, 8½% in personal gifts, 8% to conference purposes, and 4% to other causes. God doesn't only want us to give but to do so intelligently and lovingly.

Try keeping account of your stewardship and see what God will do for you.

BETHANY BIBLE TRAINING SCHOOL

Munich. N. D.

—"And thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart."—Jer. 15:16b

The Bethany Bible Training School announces its opening, Oct. 28, 1940. It has as its aim the preparation of young people for full time service as directors of the educational program of the church. This program includes Teacher Training classes, Daily Vacation Bible Schools and the regular Sunday Schools.—The time required to cover this course is three years of twenty weeks each. This leads to a diploma given by the "Evangelical Training Assocoation" of the Moody Institute, Chicago, Ill.—The question might arise in some one's mind, "Why attend a Bible School?" The most unfortunate young person today is one who must start out in life without the background of Bible training. It is difficult sometimes to grasp the viewpoint of parents who desire the best spiritually for their children and yet think it matters little whether or not Bible training is included in preparation for life. Besides Bible study, a Bible School course includes many things necessary for the Christian who wants a systematic preparation for the Lord's work. In a Bible School one soon acquires a burden for the unsaved. Students are urged to speak to those they meet about the matter of salvation. And not only is the desire implanted in the heart to speak to the unsaved, but one is taught how to do it. Another important thing which comes to one during a Bible School course is a great love for the mission field. The student finds a missionary atmosphere in the class room. Through letters from different fields they are remembered daily. Then there it the practical work. Soon after school starts, students visit hospitals, old people's homes, give programs in churches, radio broadcasts, to put in practice what is being learned, and when they finish school, there is a feeling of confidence which experience gives. It would require a book to tell of all the benefit and inspiration that is to be gained from a Bible School course.

The Lord willing, Rev. Edwin F. Walter, who at present has a pastorate at Onida, S. D., will again resume his position as instructor in our Bible School. The courses for the year 1940-1941 are as follows:

Bible Synthesis (Isaiah to Acts), 3 hours; Bible Doctrine (Doctrine of Holy Spirit and of Man), 3 hours; Pedagogy (Teacher Training); Christian Evidences, Vacation Bible School, Bible Analysis, English, Personal Evangelism, Bible Geography, Biblical Criticism, Church History, and Music each one hour per week.

Anyone interested in Bible training here should write to the chairman of the Bible School Board, Mr. A. E. Thiessen, who will give full information.

EMMAUS CHURCH NEAR WHITEWATER, KAN

Rev. and Mrs. Lester Wuetrich were ordained as missionaries in our church on Sunday, August 18. Brother Wuetrich is a member of the Swiss Mennonite church, near Whitewater, and Sister Wuetrich of our church. A large gathering attended the service, rejoiced in the many worthwhile things that were said and carried away a blessing. The couple leaves for China at the beginning of September. With them goes Miss Marie J. Regier, member of this church and a former missionary in China. We pray that God may use them in bringing many precious souls to a knowledge of Jesus Christ as a personal Savior. We have often heard that the forgotten word in the vocabulary of the world is missoins. Is it not the neglected word in the vocabulary of Christians today?

On August 25 our church had its annual Sunday School picnic, at which Rev. Milo Kaufman, president of Hesston College, was the guest speaker. Our church has been richly blessed by the young people that have attended the Academy and Bible School of this college. Rev. H. A. Fast, peace worker, spoke in our church August 29, in regard to the problems improve a lot now. —Edward Entz, Corr.

BETHANY MENN. CHURCH, KINGMAN, KAN.

September 2, 1940

During the manth of August our church had Missionary Thiessens from India as visitors. They showed pictures which were very interesting. Missionary Penners from India are expected to be with us the coming Sunday, the Lord willing. May the Lord lead them safely through their journey of life. Several marriages took place the last month. Congratulations to all of them. Baptismal Services were held on August 11, at which time nine boys and six girls were baptized and taken in as members of the church. May they be guided by our heavenly Father who leads us safely home. They had been instructed for some time by our pastor Rev. E. J. Neuenschwander. On August 18 communion services were held. It is raining a good deal here now. Some wheat sowing has begun, but is delayed on account of rain. Feed crops will improve a lot now.

GRACE CHURCH, PANDORA, O. Sept. 9, 1940

Our church correspondent Mrs. Selma C. Sommer is at present located at Denver, Col. Her interest in all our church activities was always a source of inspiration to others and we greatly miss her. We hope the change of climate will restore her much-impaired health.

The Young People's Choir of our congregation has furnished the special music at our church services this summer. On the evening of August 25, they rendered a sacred concert under the direction of Miss Esther Hilty which was a credit to both the choir and the director. The S. S. is in the midst of reorganization for the coming year which begins the first Sunday in October. The pastor also expects to start a class in catechetical instruction at that time.

On Sunday evening, September 8, Miss Mildred Keel one of the local high school teachers, gave an address at our church on "What Kind of a Citizen Does this Country Need?" She stressed the following five points: Educated and intelligent, ambitious, law abiding and obedient, sincere and honest, and be a Christian. S. B.

IN MEMORIAM

DAVID G. BECHTEL, SON OF JOHN BECHTEL AND ELIZABETH (HIRSCHLER) BECHTEL was born near Donnellson, Iowa, on September 19, 1861. He came to Kansas November 9, 1882, and settled on a farm one mile west of Moundridge, which was his home for the remainder of his life. He was baptized September 26, 1875, by Rev. Christian Schowalter, joining the Zion Mennonite Church near Donnellson, Iowa. On February 28, 1909, this membership was transferred to the First Mennonite Church of Christian, Moundridge, Kansas, where he remained a faithful member until death.

Death came to him peacefully in the Axtell Hospital at Newton, Kansas, August 25, 1940, at the age of 78 years, 11 months and 6 days, the cause of his death being heart failure. He put his trust in the Lord and therefore was not afraid to go. The deceased had four sisters, all of whom preceded him in death. He leaves a number of nephews and nieces, and also many friends in this community who will miss his cheery greeting.

Funeral services were held from the First Mennonite Church of Christian on Wednesday, August 28, his pastor Rev. P. P. Wedel officiating. He used as a text for the funeral sermon, Psalm 118, 8, the verse that the deceased himself suggested before his departure.

KATHARINA VOGT NEE KREHBIEL was born Oct. 3, 1870 in Lee county, Iowa. She was brought up in a Christian home and early turned to the Christian faith. On Sept. 28, 1884, she was received by baptism on confession of faith into the Zion Menn. Church of that place.

At the age of 22 she cast her lot with the now bereaved husband, David A. Vogt, and they made their home in Harvey county in Kansas, for 15 years. Five children have come from them. In 1908 they moved to Oregon, built their home near Pratum and joined the Emmanuel Menn. Church there. They were loyal supporters of various church activities for many years, the deceased being a faithful member of the Ladies' Aid Society. Later, when Bro. Vogt's hearing failed him, they joined the company of shut-ins and listened to the radio, especially the gospel sermons of Dr. Deitz, pastor of a Sunnyside Congregational Church in Portland. The deceased was a faithful wife and a loving mother to all her children. Her whole life is described in Ps. 103:15, 16, 17: As the flower of the field she flourished. An evil wind passed over her and she is gone; but the mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear Him and His righteousness to children's children; to such that keep His covenant and remember His commandments.

She leaves her husband, three sons, Luke, Carl and Harold of Salem; one daughter, Edna, Mrs. Huckenstein; two grandchildren; two brothers, Jacob H. Krehbiel of Kansas and Ed. Krehbiel of Wash.; a sister, Mrs. John Krehbiel of Calif., and many friends and relatives to mourn her departure. Her age is 70 years less one month. Services were held Sept. 4. Words of comfort were spoken by S. S. Baumgartner on Jer. 29:11 and Isa. 55:8, 9. Her body is intered in the cemetery of the Emmanuel Menn. Church.

MRS. ELIZA NUSSBAUM TSCHANTZ, DAUGHTER OF SOLOMON AND KATHARINE LEHMAN NUSSBAUM, was born in Canton Bern, Switzerland, December 30, 1871, and died at her home north of Kidron, Ohio, August 1, 1940, at the age of 68 years, 7 months and 2 days.

She came to this country on April 10, 1890, at the age of 11 years, and was received into the fellowship of the Salem Mennonite Church, Dalton, Ohio. To this church and in this consecration she was faithful to her dying day. Recently she attained the record of not missing Sunday School for seven years barring one Sunday. On December 29, 1892 she was united in marriage with William P. Tschantz with whom she shared life's joys and sorrows for 48 years. She is survived by her husband; one daughter, Elrena, wife of Rev. A. R. Keiser of Bath, Ohio; two sons, Milton and Clayton; and three grandchildren, as well as three sisters and many other relatives and friends. Mrs. Tschantz, although retiring by nature, was exceedingly firm in her Christian convictions. She was very conscientious and was always manifesting her deep concern for her family, her friends and for her church. She was a great lover of singing whether in the church or, when on other occasions, the music was in honor of her Lord and Master.

Funeral services took place from her home and Salem Mennonite Church on the morning of August 3, conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. S. Rosenberger, assisted by Rev. Wilmer S. Shelly of Wadsworth, Ohio.

GOD BE PRAISED FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLES' OHIO AND INDIANA C. E. SOCIETIES

—Why? The other day when we opened our mail we felt like making a leap for joy, for there was a letter containing a good sized check with this note: "Enclosed you will find a check for $45.00 which the Young Peoples' Ohio and Indiana C. E. Society are contributing towards the publication of the new Mennonite Hymn Book.

Sincerely yours, Lester Diller, Sec. and Treas."

The Editor, as Chairman of the Conference Board of Publication, accepts this splendid gift, as an expression of genuine Christian thoughtfulness and generosity, with sincerest gratitude in the name of the Board, and with a devout prayer that God may richly bless this group of young people. Would that other C. E. Societies might follow this splendid example.

WEDDINGS

—DETWEILER - SCHULTZ—On August 31, at the Mennonite Church in Bluffton, Ohio, Miss Emma Detweiler, daughter of Rev. I. R. Deitweiler of Bloomington, Ill., was married to Mr. Harold B. Schultz, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Schultz of Bluffton, Ohio, by the father of the bride. The bride was graduated from Bluffton College in 1938 and taught in high school two years. The groom graduated last spring from the engineering college of the University of Cincinnati and is employed by the Benedix Corp., South Bend, Ind. The couple will reside at 113 Portage, South Bend, Indiana.

—HARRIS-AMSTUTZ—At Pandora, O. on Sept. 10, 1940, Miss Dortha May Harris was united in marriage to Mr. Wade S. Amstutz of Pandora. The young people will reside at 2270 N. High, Columbus, Ohio.

—SCHMIDT-EPP—Before a large company of relatives and friends Miss Rubie Schmidt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schmidt of Moundridge, Kan., and Mr. Melvin Epp, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Epp of Newton, Kan., were united in marriage, Monday, Sept. 2 at the Zion Menn. Church in Moundridge, with Rev. P. K. Regier reading the vows. They will make their home at 207 South Pine Street, Newton.

—SUCKAU-GERSTNER—On Saturday, Sept. 7, took place in the First Menn. Church at Berne, Ind., the marriage of Miss Edna R. Suckau, only daughter of Dr. C. H. Suckau, pastor of this church, and Mrs. Suckau, to Mr. John H. Gestner, Jr. of Phil., Pa., the bride's father officiating. The bride was given away by her brother, Dr. J. W. Theodore Youngs of Columbus, Ohio. Following a trip east, the couple will reside in Boston, where the bridegroom will do graduate work at Harvard University.

—BASINGER-RUTH—Sunday morning, Sept. 1, in the Mennonite parsonage at Summerfield, Ill., occurred the wedding of Miss Grace Basinger, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Basinger, and Mr. Ralph Ruth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav W. Ruth, in the presence of the immediate families. The bride's father performed the ceremony.

—GAEDE-GREEN—In the Mennonite Church at Shafter, Calif., on Sunday Sept. 1 Miss Marie Gaede, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gaede was married to Delbert Greene, a nice Christian young man of this neighborhood, with Rev. J. P. Glanzer, pastor of the church, officiating. About 200 guests were present. —J.P.G.

Hearty congratulations for a long, happy and useful life are extended to these couples by the editor.

—Distant Ministers Visit Bethel.— On the occasion of the opening of Bethel College several ministers from a distance brought their sons and daughters to the school and visited a bit. Rev. A. W. Friesen, pastor of the Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebr., brought his two sons, Elwin, a junior, and Roland, a freshman, to the school. Two older sons of his are attending medical colleges. Rev. and Mrs. Lester Hostetler of Upland, Calif., accompanied their daughter, Alice, here for her senior year at the school, and were welcome visitors on the campus. Their son, Hugh, who has been working his father's orchard at Sugar Creek, Ohio, during vacation, met them here and went home with them to attend school there. Rev. H. T. Unruh and daughter, Mildred, of Bluffton, Ohio, came in via Tulsa, Oklahoma, where they visited son and brother, Earl, and his wife. Mrs. Unruh, who had come earlier to visit her mother, returned with her husband. Miss Mildred is now a student and assistant librarian at Bethel.

—Rev. Erland Waltner, pastor of Second Church, Philadelphia, writes: Please send The Mennonite to our new address: 732 WEST LEHIGH AVENUE INSTEAD OF 818 WEST LEHIGH. We have moved from a little two-room apartment to larger quarters. In their Church Bulletin of Sept. 1, Bro. Waltner says: "We have now been two years with the Second Church. These have been years of rich experience with which I would not part for a fortune. The greatest lesson that I have learned is that nothing worthwhile can be accomplished for the church of Christ without God and prayer. The greatest disappointment of these years has been the failure of many members to take advantage of the spiritual opportunities which our church offers. The greatest joy has been that of seeing the church grow, numerically, materially and spiritually.

—Alberta Community Church, Portland, Ore.— "We owe a vote of thanks to Mr. Anderson, Sr. from Washington who donated a load of wood for the church. It was some of the wood saved from the fire which raged near his place. We are grateful for this generous gift." —Bulletin

—Mrs. Ted Claassen of Newton, Kans., had a cablegram from her husband that he is again safely back in London, England, at 20 Gordon Square where he is to continue his relief work under the auspices of Mennonite Central Committee. Bro. Claassen had been over to Portugal to plan with Dr. Harold Bender of Goshen, Indiana,concerning future relief work.

—It is with regret that we chonicle the fact that from one of our Kansas churches, in which we have a particular interest, eight students have gone to the Bible School, Los Angeles, Calif. and only one to Bethel College. Bible schools are necessary and are doing much good. But Bethel College, too, offers a number of courses in Bible, taught by genuine sound Christian teachers. So why eight to the non-Mennonite school to one in our own college?

—The Y. P. Christian Endeavor Societies of the First Church of Berne, Indiana, are sponsoring their sixth annual Bible Conference, which is to be held from Sunday, Sept. 15, through Sunday, Sept. 22. Mr. Roy L. Brown, nationally known evangelist, who is a business man with Biblical messages, is to be the speaker.—Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander and family of Quakertown, Pa., have been visiting relatives and friends in Berne recently. From there they went to Bluffton, Ohio, where son Robert and daughter Ruth will attend Bluffton College.

—Mennonite Church, Roaring Spring, Pa.— The following young people from this church are attending Bluffton College this year: Lester Grace, Jack Cornelius, Leonard Metzler. A truck load of 32 people, members and friends of this church, drove to Napier Friday evening, Sept. 6, for the Corn Boil. More than 600 ears of corn were prepared. All enjoyed an evening of good fellowship. —Bulletin

—OUR COLLEGES.— The last Freeman Courier reports that Freeman Junior College has an enrollment of 113: College students 55, freshmen 44, sophomores, 11; academy students, total 58: freshmen, 19; sophomores, 19; juniors 20; seniors 10. The only report that we have from Bluffton College is, that the enrollment is about the same as last year. Bethel College had, at the close of last week, an enrollment of 322, which is 25 less than last year, when the fresman class numbered 151, now 111. Other totals are, sophomores, 97; juniors, 57; seniors, 42; specials, 15.

—Rev. G. A. Linscheid, ex-missionary, writes: "After having been absent from my home in Newton for six months helping out here and there and vacationing in between, we are glad to be 'at home' again."

—The Sixty-sixth Annual Convention of the Eastern District Sunday School Union will occur on Saturday Sept. 28, in the Grace Church at Lansdale, Pa. The convention theme is, "Preparing the Way".

—Rev. Delbert Welty, pastor of the Emmanuel Menn. Church at Noble, Iowa, on a trip in the West preached in the First Church at Reedley, his home church, Sunday, Sept. 8 .

—CORRECTION.— A few weeks ago, in No. 33 of THE MENNONITE, the article by Missionary John Thiessen was erroneously labeled as though it were a translation by him. This was caused by the word "translated" written on the margin of the copy, indicating that it had been rendered from English into German for the "Bundesbote". This correction is intended to give Bro. Thiessen credit due him for an original article. P. H. Richert —First Menn. Church, Reedley, Calif.—Their Church Bulletin reports that Rev. Edgar Toevs has accepted the call of the church for nine months' further service as assistant pastor, and Brother Toevs says: "We are grateful for the pleasant associations we have had with you in past months and trust that our work in the future shall be of mutual blessing to all concerned." Dr. Langenwalter expects to take up his work Sunday, Sept. 15, grateful for the opportunity. On Sunday, Sept. 8, the church remembered the long and faithful service of its pastor emeritus, Dr. H. J. Krehbiel, on his seventy-fifth birthday.

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hansten, Kan., writes: "I read two articles in the last Mennonite with unusual interest. The one by Supt. E. E. Kaufman of Buhler, Kansas, "The Bible in Public Schools" is a good answer to those who insist we dare not have any Bible in our public schools. The other one by Rev. Edmund Miller of Lind, Wash., "Training Youth for Christ", is surely a good argument for having our Mennonite young people go to our own schools.

Parents' Responsibility in Molding their Children's Lives

The home, the school, the church and the community are the institutions that jointly control the training and education of our children and young people. In this article we would like to show that the responsibility and the influence of parents in the home supersede all other factors in molding young lives. God in creating man has implanted in him an immortal soul and upon the parents very largely rests the duty of directing this soul toward a vital contact with its maker. Sunday School teachers and ministers can assist in this task, but unless the parents do it as though it were their only duty—privilege is a better term—the outcome might be uncertain. Any number of truly great men have left their testimony that the decisive influcnce for good in their lives had come from godly parents, particularly their mothers. So the great cry for a possible reformation of a sinful world is for an ever increasing number of God-fearing parents.

The first thing needed in the home is praying parents. A child cannot escape the influence that comes from a realization that its parents keep in contact with God. Early in the life of a child the godly mother will pray for it in its presence, and in due time teach it simple prayers. Later it will join the parents in their family worship.—Though prayer is a fundamental need in the home, it is just as necessary that the parents give evidence of their daily walk with God. Praying and acting the Christian life must go hand in hand.—Honest parents will sympathetically guide the child's reading in the direction of morally clean, wholesome literature. They will not neglect, as so many parents do, to see to it that the child is provided with good, interesting, uplifting books, among which the Stories of the Bible, in their historical sequence, or the Bible itself, must have chief place. To inculcate in the child a love, or shall we say, a hunger, for genuinely good reading is one of the best heritages that parents can bestow on it. If to this can be added a love for uplifting, edifying music, the child will be in possession of the means to entertain himself and, that, too, right in the home.—Parents that are concerned about seeing their children grow up with a well balanced character, will exercise wholesome discipline in training them. One of the hardest lessons in life is, for naturally selfish human beings, to learn how to get along with other people. Experienced teachers tell us that an only child in the family is frequently among the hardest to handle. Why? Because of its selfishness, because it has not learned to be kind, to respect the rights of others. To equip the child with the necessary equilibrium in conduct, the parent may, occasionally, have to set his will over against the child's, and use appropriate measures of discipline. Compromising with a child, when he is wrong and knows it, may prove fatal; so also mothering it to an extent that it is not allowed to make right decisions of its own.—Parents with the proper respect for themselves, and the rights of others, will guard against abusing a child. Wounds thus made heal slowly, if at all. Jesus very definitely taught that whosoever causes little ones to stumble was subject to the severest punishment.—A true father or a true mother cannot help giving their children the impression that they are their best friends on earth. This will inspire in the children such a confidence as to regard their elders as their best counsellors, when facing far-reaching, weighty questions or problems in their lives. Thus there continues a bond of attachment that can be broken only by death. "Train up the child the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

ATTENTION SUNDAY SCHOOLS

—Order Christmas cards of the "Sunshine Line" from our Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Indiana. Sell them through members of the school at $1.00 a box. The S. S. is allowed to keep 50c on every box sold. These are beautiful scripture text cards of high quality. You can find no better elsewhere and you will be helping a worthy cause, as the money earned will be sent to the Publication Board.

SILENCE

I need not shout my faith. Thrice eloquent
Are quiet treees and the green listening sod;
Hushed are the stars, whose power is never spent;
The hills are mute: yet how they speak of God!

Pointers on Peace-Time Conscription

Forty-eight houre after Congress had passed the draft bill, President Roosevelt signed it and proclaimed October 16 as registration day. On this day, all men 21 to 35 will register at registration places to be established in each community.

Local registration boards will shuffle the registration cards and give each draftee a number.

A series of numbers will be drawn in Washington by lot. When the first number is drawn, each man who has the corresponding number in the local board's file will be listed as the first man liable to service from his local group.

Questionnaires will then be sent to the men in the order their numbers were drawn, asking the number of dependents, physical disabilities, etc. On the basis of this information the men will then be classified thus: Class I (avaliable for immediate service) Class II (service deferred because of dependents); Class IV (service deferred by law—legislators, judges, etc.)

A Washington board will determine a quota for each state, based in population and number of men already in the army or navy. Enough men will then be taken from Class I in each state to fill its quota. Each man will receive a physical examination. If he cannot meet the requirements he will be passed over and the next man taken.

Men in the deferred classes will not be taken unless there are not enough Class I men to meet the army's needs.

As to students, this word has been received from Washington: "All students who are signed up for this year are deferred until July 1941."

Dr. Henry A. Fast, conference peace worker, has gone to Washington, D. C. to be present for any help he might be to government officials in determining what service conscripted Mennonite and other conscientious objectors can render the country outside the military organization.

CONSCRIPTION DENOUNCED BY QUAKERS AND DISCIPLES

The Society of Friends' opposition to military conscription is expressed in the statement by Dr. Walter C. Woodward, editor of the American Friend of Richmond. "We share with all others a concern about the welfare of our country," said Dr. Woodward, "but we feel that military conscription undermines the principle of liberty for which this country had stood for many years. As for ourselves we seek no special privileges. . . . We want provisions made so that conscientious objectors may be respected, with a government department free of military domination, designated to pass on claims of those who have conscientious objections to military service."

Religion and Politics

By Maridel Harding, Bethany, Okla.

Sam Jones, the Georgia preacher, said, "I don't believe in mixing politics and religion, but I do believe in mixing religion with my politics. It helps it as much as sugar helps coffee."

Faced with a question as to the propriety of paying taxes to Caesar, Jesus aswered, "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's" (Matthew 22:21). So far as Christianity is concerned, this answer must forever define the proper relationship between Church and State. In this statement Jesus recognizes the civic responsibility of Christians. Government stands for that order without which society cannot hold together. The people who came to Jesus with the matter of paying taxes to Caesar felt toward the ruler as all subjugated people have felt toward their rulers. Yet the answer of Jesus implies that Caesar, though hated, provided a certain amount of security. The whole community receives something from government, hence all must share in supporting it. No man has a right to order his life apart.

Christians who fail to acknowledge their obligation to government invalidate their religion. If people who try to order their lives before God withdraw from civil affairs, they have no right to complain when government is dominated by bad men. A decent government is not likely to prevail without the undergirding of religion. In their private relations men may be noble, but unless they let that nobility take hold of civil affairs, good government is doomed.

No man can be truly Christian who is not concerned with that which affects the well-being of his fellowman. Participation in political matters may harden the hard and belittle the small, but it will not affect the man who wants to see the Spirit of God permeate the affairs of Caesar. Society has no subtler foe than the Christian, who takes the attitude that politics soil the soul; or the Christian whose other affairs so absorb him that he has no time for the affairs of government. Religion should be a social as well as a personal concern.

To render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's does not hinder one from rendering unto God that which is His—unless Caesar became a totalitarian. In that case, the Christian must oppose Caesar. Conscience is one of the things that does not belong to Caesar. The price of soul liberty may become dear in a totalitarian state, but no price is too high to pay to keep a clear conscience before God. —Herald of Holiness

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

UNITY IN CHRIST

Surrounding the General Conference Mennonite Mission field in India are working four other missions, viz., The Old Mennonites, the American Evangelical, the Disciples of Christ, the Missionary Band of the World. With our mission together are then five denominations in that area. This area is called Chhattisgarh, the name designates also the dialect spoken by those people, about 4,000,000. The name has been derived from the fact that many years ago 36 petty kings ruled. The dilapidated forts are still in existence. "Chhattis" means thirty-six, "Garh" means forts.

Now more than 30 years ago the missionaries of this area felt the necessity to manifest their oneness in the work, in their goal, in Christ before the general public. A Missionary Conference constituted by all missionaries of the missions was arranged. The inadequateness of this was noticed in not letting the Indian Christians share their unity. The respective committee suggested a gathering for the Christian community a conference of this nature. The members went in search of a central place. This was after a long while found to be a wooded island in he Sheonath River. The idea of such a joint-meeting met with welcome approval. The meeting was installed. Ever since that the annual attendance grew favorably, the Indian Christians shared the responsibilities encouragingly. The discussions in both conferences elimated the denominational shading. The thoughts centered on the common emphasis getting the Gospel to the masses, and caring for the Christian groups living in various localities. The steering toward this unification brought out worthwhile results in numerous ways. This new organization spread its roots throughout the territory most effectively.

Just recently the 30th anniversary was celebrated. At this gathering it was noticed that 146 persons were present who took part in the first meeting. To attend this memorial meeting fifty-two smaller and larger groups marched in from all directions, singing and with appropriate banners waving. The non-Christian multitudes in the villages through which the groups marched were amazed over the huge number of Christians from among their tribes approaching the villages in such a happy mood. These groups applied every available effort to make Christ known. At the session the deliberations throughout pivoted on this main objective, "How can we as native Christians in our lives be more effective to present Christ before the observing multitudes about us?" Ever since such untiring emphasis has been launched, the spreading of the Gospel set the stakes farther and firmer among the people with unheard results.

The island commanding much the shape as Palestine, particularly swarmed with both Christians and non-Christians. The influence cannot be described in words. To make the final day of still greater significance 1357 of God's children from among these five denominations gathered around the Lord's table to partake of this holy sacrament. The words of praise coming from those attending would fill a large volume. "But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ!" (Eph. 2:13)

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. Neuenschwander

Extracts from a Letter by J. J. Thiessen (Translated)

Saskatom, June 18, 1940

To the Board of Home Missions:

Returned from my trip to the Northern District Conference, in session at Henderson, Nebr., from June 2 to 5, I feel constrained to give you a report of my work.

I knew that Bethel College would be busy with its closing exercises on May 30 and 31. Having long wished to get acquainted with the school and church activities of our brethren in the states, and scheduled to be at Henderson for the conference, I made a side-trip to Newton, Kansas, and I am grateful to God and the Board for the opportunity thus obtained. I saw and heard much and hope to be able to make use of some of it in my work.

June 1, I drove with Dr. H. Fast to Henderson. The Ministers' Conference there opened at 5 p. m. Already acquainted with some of the brethren and introduced to others by H. Fast and P. R. Schroeder, I soon felt quite at home, and participated in the discussions. The Mission festival followed on Sunday, and I was privileged to speak forenoon, afternoon and evening. The meetings were large and the audience quite attentive. While the meetings were on, the Brethren A. W. Friesen and P. R. Schroeder drafted an itinerary for me. That was not so easy, because of meetings already scheduled. In some places Missionary P. W. Penners were expected, in others evangelistic meetings were scheduled. Finally the following program was shaped: June 6, Beatrice, Nebr.; June 7, Wisner, Nebr.; June 8, Avon, S. D.; June 9, Bethany church, Freeman; Bethel church, Dolton; Salem-Zion, Freeman; June 10, Summer Bible school, Salem church; Bethesda church, Marion, S. D.; June 11, First Mennonite Butterfield, Minn.; June 12, Bergfeld, Delft, Minn. June 13, Bethel Mountain Lake; Young Peoples' Retreat, Mt. Lake, Minn. In Wisner I could not serve on account of a flood; at Avon a cloud burst prevented a meeting.

Everywhere I was accorded friendly reception and had appreciative listeners. In Mt. Lake I was privileged to speak to a Ladies' Missionary society. If we are to reach the young people, we must necessarily speak in English. So at Freeman I was importuned to preach in English by Bro. Linscheid. His verdict was mild and he seemed to be satisfied. Naturally I had made due preparation. In the Bible school I again spoke English.

At every place I made a short address and then reported on the following phases of activity in the General Conference of Canada:

a. Pastoral work by traveling ministers among the scattered families and groups.

b. Support of church building propects.

c. City missions and Girls' homes at Winnipeg Soskatooon and Vancouver.

d. Service among the spiritually retarded parts of Old Colony Mennonites near Swift Current, by opening a Bible school and stationing a worker there.

e. Unifying work among the homeless Mennonites in Winnipeg and Saskatoon. In my reports it was natural also to touch upon the distress, persecution, relief and emigration in Russia.

Many have told me that it was a good idea to send workers in Home Missions around among the churches. I received no collections suggesting that they should be sent to the respective treasurer. In each instance I thanked the good people in the name of the Board for the cooperation in the work and invited continued intercession and support. May God bless this feeble attempt!

RIDING THE WINGS OF DESTRUCTION

The first phase of the "battle of Britain" is the struggle for air supremacy. That struggle now involves hundreds of planes daily. Control of the skies is a decisive new element in military strategy whose importance is just beginning to be realized. With that established by one side over the other, the initiative in all other phases of war passes to the side whose air fleet survives extermination. Henceforth the victor alone knows what is happening behind the opponent's lines. Once lost, air power cannot be regained, for the victorious fleet can destroy airplane factories with second class ships so long as they are not opposed in their own element. While nothing about this war is certain until it is proved twice, the trend against Britain is shown by the fact that the major air battles are occurring over the British Isles and by the fact that Britain's attacks on the continent are occurring at night when an inferior air force can strike and have a chance of getting away. Back of what is happening in the air is the battle of the factories, each trying between bombardments to make planes faster than they are shot out of the sky. And back of that is the battle of the schools, each engaged in "processing civilians" into air pilots to replace the young fliers who ride the wings of destruction to flaming deaths in careers which average between one and two months of active front line flying.

MENNONITES, LOOK AT SCIENCE

By L. C. Kreider, Bethel College

Mennonites as a group so often are frightened at the word science. Science is systematized knowledge considered in reference to the discovery or understanding of truth. This, then, can be made a power for good, especially in our time where we often despair of knowing truth from error.

Let us consider briefly the method of a scientist as he searches for truth. We have all used it in part, but a fuller understanding of it should be of value to all of us as we try to sift truth from error. The steps of the scientific method are:

1. Be observant yourself. Try to see things as they really are. Too often we are satisfied with the report of what others, often people with defective vision themselves, say they saw.

2. Ask yourself why things are as you see them. The questions "How?" and "Why?" are legitimate for adults as well as for children.

3. If your questions have been answered by others, find out what men most competent to judge have said.

4. If your questions have not been answered, or if you have reason to suspect the truth of the answers of others, try your skill in answering your own questions. (These probable answers are called hypotheses by scientists.) It is safer to think of at least several probable answers.

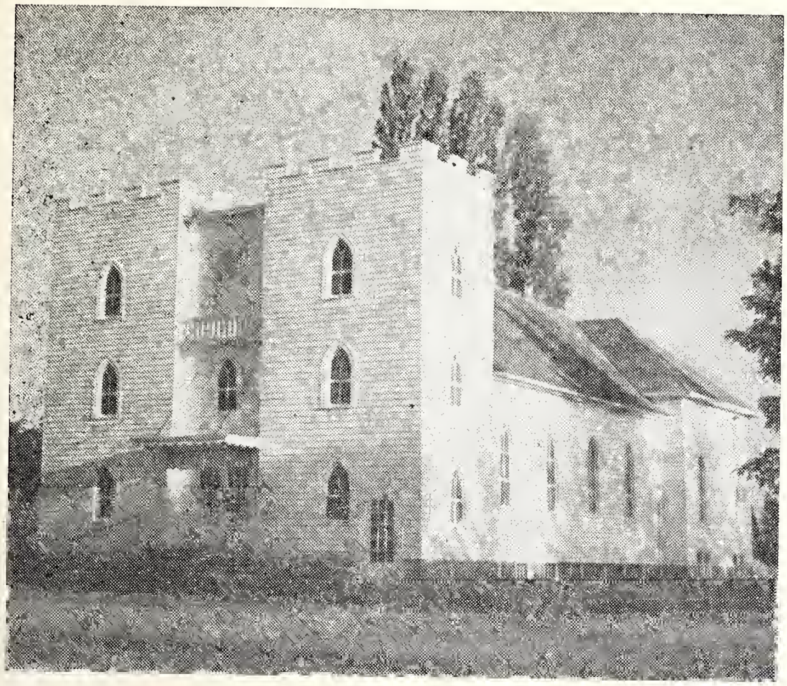
5. Test each of your more probable answers by experiment.

The use of the method of science for learning truth of any kind requires a considerable degree of skill which is best won by persistant practice. Many questions have not yet been answered by the scientific method and some probably never will yield to it. It is responsible for most of our advance in material things. There is no reason why it cannot bring advances if applied to the social, economic, political, and possibly also to religious problems that vex us today if we become skillful in its use. In fact, it is already paying rich dividends in these fields in the hands of a few of our leaders.

Rev. Erwin Albrecht, who was recently called to the pastorate of the First Mennonite Church in Chicago writes: "I have moved to Chicago and my new address is: 519 WEST 72ND PLACE, CHICAGO, ILL."

A Brief Story of the Emmanuel Church, Pratum, Oregon

Somewhat abbreviated from a copy by D. J. Steiner



Emmanuel Mennonite Church, Pratum, Oregon
Recently enlarged and remodeled

On Sunday, August 25, the Emmanuel Church of Pratum, Oregon, dedicated its remodeled and enlarged church building and celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its existence. We have before us a well composed "History of the Church," written by D. J. Steiner for publication, which we shall give here in substance.

In the seventies and eighties of the last century families of Swiss Mennonites settled near Silverton, Oregon. Among them were: Rev. C. B. Steiners, Dave Boeglis, John Heyerlys, Christ. Geigers, Gottlieb Sommers, Peter and Christian Neuenschwanders, Peter Geisers, John Ulrich Beers, Joshua Sutter, and Peter Herr. John Liechty and Christ. Wenger were the first to break away from the good old "Sonnenberg" settlement. Services were held in the homes of the group for some time. Then they were allowed to worship in the small German Reformed church for a number of years, until that church membership disbanded.

In the fall of 1889 John Rich arrived on the scene and obtained permission from the proper authority to hold services in the unused Reformed Church. He preached to the German and Swiss neighbors of Lutheran and Reformed faiths. The Rev. C. B. Steiner group also worshipped in this house and Rev. John Rich asked their consent to preach in turn with their ministers, Steiner, Geiger and Beer. But, looked upon as too liberal, favoring S. S., etc., he was denied the privilege, whereupon they decided to worship in their homes again. Rev. Rich consequently continued to preach for the people of the community every Lord's Day until Pentecose 1890.

Then the General Conference itinerant minister, Rev. John B. Baer, visited the community and held evangelistic meetings which were well attended, strong interest was manifested for closer relationship, the worshippers were richly blessed, their hungry souls fed, their hearts united, and the following became charter members: Rev. John Rich, our first pastor; Mrs. John Rich and Mary Rich, John and Anna Gerber, Noah J. and Mary B. Gerber, Dan J. and Pauline Steiner, Pete and and Rosa Steffen, Eph. and Martha Steiner, Chris and Mary Gerber, Mattie Meyer, Sam and Lizzie Beutler, Barbara Stauffer, Katie Sommer, Rosa Amstutz, Pete and Louise Herr, John Ulrich Mueller, Pete J. Gerig, Jr., our second pastor; Peter Gerig, Sr., Rosina, Nicholas and Joe Gerig, Mary Gerig de Vries, Jacob and Josephine Stauffer—32 in all. Of this number 13 are still living.

Rev. J. B. Baer visited the scattered groups of our people along the Pacific coast in 1892 and 1893, encouraging them to continue steadfast in the faith. Much credit is due him for his untiring labor. Brother Rich continued to shepherd and feed the flock, without remuneration. In 1894 he became dissatisfied with his baptism, and he and his family joined the German Baptists in Salem.

A call was then extended to Pete J. Gerig Jr., a member of our church, to become our second minister. Although poorly educated and lacking the preparation for a minister, but yearning to save souls, he agreed to serve by the grace of God. Rev. Jacob R. Schrag of Eugene, Oregon, ordained him, Dec. 16, 1894. His ministry was signally blessed and the membership doubled during his pastorate of 15 years. He died in 1909.—So we were again without a pastor. But we were fortunate, before long, to find in Bro. S. S. Baumgartner of the Garden church in Kansas, a successor, and our third pastor.

In June 1896 the first Pacific District and S. S. Convention was held in the Baptist Church at Pratum. Rev. J. B. Baer, Samuel F. Sprunger, J. J.

Balzer, Christ. Kaufman, P. R. Aeschliman, Jacob R. Schrag, A. A. Sommer, Deacon Peter B. Steiner and Jonas A. Amstutz, all had a share in the program, which was rich and brimful of good things to enjoy. Rev. S. F. Sprunger served as chairman and Rev. J. J. Balzer as secretary. The united choir of 35 voices from Eugene, Dallas, and Pratum, under the leadership of D. J. Steiner, added materially to make the gathering a real success.

Those were indeed "horse and buggy days." Guests from far and near came on their spring wagons, and the horses were turned out in a pasture. Our farmers, still pioneers, lived in log houses or small frame buildings, with little room to entertain. But the ministers from the east were provided for in the homes, while the local guests brought bedding along and were comfortably quartered in the Pratum warehouse. An abundance of straw was at their disposal to make their beds on the floor. The apartments were partitioned off with hop sacks and burlap. An old cooking stove was set up and provisions furnished them to prepare their own meals.

Rev. Paul Aeschliman, itinerant minister and evangelist, attended to our spiritual needs for a number of years. He was deeply interested in winning souls for Christ, and his untiring labors were crowned with good results. When it was announced that he was coming down to hold special meetings, everyone was glad. His visits were always welcomed. Now he has departed this life. "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever."

Through appointment by Rev. J. B. Baer, D. J. Steiner served as our first S. S. superintendent and was succeeded by Pete Stephen for 25 years.—The congregation paid $10.00 a year for the use of the church, for a period of 14 years. Then an acre of ground was donated by Wm. Roth, Sr., and a church built thereon, in 1904, which was in constant use up to remodeling and enlarging this year, 1940.—It is a strange coincidence that the pastors Gerig, Baumgartner and Franz have preached in our congregation the same length of time, 15 years.

At the dedication and anniversary service, Rev. J. M. Franz of the Grace church at Albany preached the dedicatory sermon, based on II Chron. 2:4. The highlights were: We are dedicating this church to the service of the Lord; 1) as an assembling place for God's people. 2) as a place devoted to the teaching and preaching of God's Word; 3) as a place of prayer and worship; 4) as a place of fellowship. Rev. S. S. Baumgartner spoke on "The last thitry years of the church," while Dan J. Steiner read a paper on "The first twenty years of the church." The choir and the young men's quartet brought inspiring selections; the choir rendered the "Hallelijah Chorus" from the Messiah, ably by Roy Rutchman.

SERMON SKETCH

By J. J. Voth, Bethel College

I Thess. 5:21

The words of the Apostle Paul, "Prove all things, hold fast to that which is good," find their most pertinent application in times of moral upheaval. Life's principles upon which moral behavior rests and by which it is guided are often tested and tried. History contains numerous examples of this truth.

EXAMPLES FROM THE PAST

1. The time of Joshua. The children of Israel had completed the wilderness journey and the conquest of the promised land. They had reached a time when a new beginning had to be made. Conditions of life to which most of the people had become accustomed were rapidly passing. They stood on the threshold of a new era. Joshua gave them a final word of admonition, "Choose ye this day whom ye serve." Its thought is similar to the thought in our text.

2. The time of the Apostle Paul. This also was a time of great moral upheaval. Everywhere the new religion of Jesus Christ was bringing about mighty changes, not only in individual lives, but in the whole social and moral fabric of men. Whole groups of people were being uprooted and transplanted into new ways of living. Even the enemies of Paul saw the tremenduous change that was taking place and one day they accused Paul of "turning the world upside down." Into this condition of affairs Paul is heard saying, "Prove all things, hold fast to that which is good."

EXAMPLES FROM THE PRESENT

Not many leaders of the present time doubt that we are in the midst of another tremenduous moral upheaval. We are seeing today the utter collapse of many accepted views of life.

1. The business ethics is changing. Communistic influences have brought great insecurity. Many people no longer believe in frugality, honesty and the advantages of making an honest living for themselves. Here we do need the admonition of our text.

2. The conceptions of government are rapidly changing. There is a definite shifting from the democratic to the fascistic conception of government. The welfare of the individual is being subordinated to the welfare of the nation. The value of individual life has been greatly lowered in recent years. Every true follower of Jesus Christ knows that this is contrary to the teachings of the Master. Yet there are many who need to apply St. Paul's admonition, "Prove all things, hold fast to that which is good."

3. The conceptions of individual freedom are changing. Out of the emphasis upon national security has come the proposal for universal military training. We need to realize that this proposal is much more inclusive and far reaching than anything ever proposed by our government. Is there any good in this? Like the children of Israel in the time of Joshua and like the people in the time of Paul this generation of ours is facing entirely new responsibilities and new problems. It is truly a time of moral upheaval. We need to heed St. Paul's admonitation. "Prove all things, hold fast to that which is good."

THINGS TO HOLD FAST

In the face of such conditions what shall we hold fast to in order that we may not lose ourselves in the morass of modern superficiality and sin?

1. Let us hold fast first to the inspiration which comes from the lives of great men. To be inspired by the examples of great men of God is one of the strongest forces we can find to help us hold ourselves to our best possibilities. Joshua found this inspiration in the life of his predecessor, Moses. Paul found it in his great example, Jesus Christ. Let us not forget our history and the examples of noble men of our church. Above all let us "remember Jesus Christ."

2. Let us hold fast to the love for our own people. St. Paul loved his own people deeply. This love drove him from place to place, shunning no hardship in his determination to help them. Love for people drove Jesus to the cross; it drove Paul to his work, and it has ever driven men to noble deeds.

3. Let us hold fast to a deep faith in God. No one with great faith in God need feel he is working out only his own purposes but will be assured that he is helping God work out his livine purpose for humanity. Consider De Mille's great picture, "The Sign of the Cross." It shows the martyrdom of the Christians in the time of Nero. Though the events which are portrayed in the picture are purely imaginary they nevertheless are a noble testimony to the strong faith in God which these early Christians possessed. May God grant us sufficient faith to stand firm in this evil day.

It is in this faith that wisdom can be found to discriminate between good and evil: wisdom to recognize the grain among the chaff. In this faith there is that needed understanding which helps men to live out in their lives St. Paul's admonition, "Prove all things, hold fast to that which is good."

THE USE AND ABUSE OF WEALTH

Proverbs 11:24-31; Luke 16:11-13

Introduction

Our character is revealed by the way we use that which we can control. One of the things which so largely concerns us continually, is the making and using of money. We do well to seek whatever light can be found in God's Word. Money is a necessary medium of exchange in our civilized world. God's Word recognizes it and honors its proper use. Money when rightly used, will enlarge our personality; when wrongly used, it injures and degrades ourselves and others.

Generous Giving the Way to Spiritual Prosperity, vs 24-28

The first two verses express the wisdom of liberal giving. He who gives freely is blessed by God with an increase over what he had. He who selfishly withholds and hoards what he has, is not prospered as much by God (v 24) God loves a truly generous heart. The liberal giver is benefitted and refreshed materially and spiritually (v25). Liberal giving reacts favorably on one's personality. It develops unselfishness and a concern for other people and for God's work. A liberal person has more influence with others, as he is better liked. The liberal soul receives the greatest blessing. We shall never prosper spiritually if our first concern is to grow rich. He, who for selfish gain, refuses to sell his grain in time of security, wins the ill-will of the people. A curse rests upon those who misuse God's bounty. (v26). We can not use the bounty of God for selfish purposes without incurring His displeasure. The unselfish and just man gains the esteem and goodwill of the people. The blessing of God and man rest upon those who are moved by the spirit of doing good service (v27). As Christians, we should seek to do all the good we can. Riches, which so easily steal the affections of the one possessing them, are quite uncertain and can not bring peace of soul nor give comfort in the crises of life (v28).

Fruits of Righteousness vs 29-31.

Righteousness must needs express itself in the home relationships. Money matters so readily wreck the home life. The spiritual qualities of the home are far more important than possessions. They who live out God's righteousness are as a living tree, bearing fruit which delights and spiritually feeds many. The righteous man will be rewarded on earth; the sinner will be punished even in this world.

How to Use Money, L. 16:11-13.

Money is called unrighteous mammon (v11) because it so often ministers to evil. If one is unfaithful in the use of money committed to him, it is evident that he may not be trusted with the higher, the spiritual riches. God expects us to be faithful in the use of that which is another's, if we are in a position of trust; and also in the use of our own entrusted to us by God. If we are faithful in using our sacred trust, then God can eventually reward us with our own—the true riches, a mansion in heaven. We can not serve God and mammon, but we can serve God with mammon.

Money, to be a blessing, needs to be acquired honorably and honestly, without wronging any one, or self, or sinning against God. We are responsible to God for the use we make of our money, just as for our other acts. As stewarts of God, we have no right to waste any of it, nor use it for needless, extravagant, and definitely harmful things. A fair portion should definitely be given to the Lord's work. Our money represents an opportunity for doing good. We shall be held responsible for our use or misuse of the opportunity.

Bethel College Mennonite Work Camp

Purpose. To give Mennonite young men an opportunity for training in Christian humanitarian service through participation in a program of worship, study and work.

Time. The program runs in cycles of about four weeks each—the first from Monday, October7 through Friday, November 1; the second from Monday, November 4 through November 27; etc. etc.

Schedule.

6:45	Breakfast
7:15- 7:30	Morning Devotion

THE GLORY OF ISRAEL

Many nations may justly be proud of, and claim recognition for, their outstanding citizens: their brilliant statesmen, generals, scientists, reformers, theologians, teachers, musicians, composers, explorers, inventors, poets, etc. But the glory of the glory of nations must for all times to come be ceded to Israel of old. For what nations since the world began can in the slightest degree compare with the Israelites, "to whom pertaineth the adoption and the glory and the covenants and the giving of the Law and the service of God and the promises; whose are the fathers and of whom as concerning the flesh Christ came, who is over all, God blessed for ever, Amen"?

Jesus said to the woman of Sychar: "Ye worship ye know not what; we know what we worship, for salvation is of the Jews." In the Old Testament He loved to call Himself the God of Israel, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. And He so loved the world, all nations and individuals that He came down from heaven in human flesh and blood and gave Himself for all that whosoever believeth on Him should not persish but have everlasting life.

And in blessing the world with His salvation, He came to Israel first. After that He gave commandment to preach the Gospel to all nations, to every creature. For by the preaching of the redemption of the world, even the forgiveness of sins through His blood, the God of Israel would bring every child of man to His holy Christian Church, the true Zion. Therefore the greatest honor and distinction which can possibly come to a person, Jew or Gentile, is to become and remain a Christian, a dear child of the one true God through faith in Jesus, the Son of Abraham, the Son of David.—O Jesus Christ, Thou art our Glory and our Honor. Amen.

THIS AND THAT

REGISTRATION:

"Since the selective service act (S. 4164) has become a law it is necessary that C. E. societies study what is required of a conscientious objector.

The draft age is 21 to 35. All Mennonite young men will want to consult their pastor. Copies of the Pacifist Handbook will be helpful and can be gotten from the Fellowship of Reconciliation, 2929 Broadway, New York, for ten cents.

The President has fixed October 16 next as the day of registration. By law all must register. Let us register for Christ. Let us pray for those taking this stand."

—Wm. Juhnke, Sec. of Young People's Union

COPY OF CONSCRIPTION LAW:

"As soon as the exact wording of the law is known the complete text with pertinent comment for C.O.'s will be published in a folder by the American Friends Service Committee in cooperation with others. This can be ordered from the American Friends Service Committee, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa., or the Fellowship of Reconciliation, 2929 Broadway, New York City."

PRESIDENT OF Y. P. U. TRAVELS:

Rev. Olin Krehbiel, President of the Young People's Union, interviewed all the district representatives except one or two, Mr. William E. Juhnke, Y. P. U. Secretary, Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, Y. P. U. Counselor, and R. Weinbrenner, editor of youth section, on his 8,000 mile trip this summer. He also spoke at the California and Freeman, South Dakota retreats.

A Stranger Looks at the Pacific Conference

By Paul R. Shelly, concluded from last week

From Portland I went to the Southern Part of California and visited with some friends. On Wednesday evening I worshipped with the group in Los Angles and met the pastor, Rev. W. J. Regier. It so happened that Rev. A. Warkentin of Bethel College was there that evening and brought the message. There is an active group of young people in the church and while many churches are closed for the summer months this group had a good attendance.

Reedly was the next place where I stopped. I was happy to meet again the pastor of the church, Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, whom I met for the first time some years ago at a Retreat at Bluffton College. I went to the California Retreat with Rev. Edgar Toevs, Rev. Langenwalter's substitute during the last few months. Reedley has the largest church in the Pacific Conference and has an active group of workers.

It was at the Retreat that I really received the real glimpse into the work of the Pacific Conference, for it was here that I could "look into" all of the California churches, meeting some of the young people as well as some of the ministers I had not met before. The place of the Retreat is ideally located at Lake Sequoia, about a mile from the entrance of the General Grant National Park at an elevation of 5,300 feet. It is also situated within an hour's drive from the King's River Canyon.

In this article with a rather wide scope I hesitate to give impressions of the Retreat, because I will not be able to do it thoroughly. However, since I have been attending Retreats of all kinds during the past ten years, I do feel that I should give a few brief observations of this one in the hope that some of the things done there may fit into some other program next year.

The leaders were good. Dr. Warkentin was there for the second year and again received the wholehearted response of the group. The names of the other leaders were mentioned in previous writeups. We received our Daily Newspaper edited very ably by Rev. Lester Hostetler. The day began with Chapel Services which were conducted by the young people of the various churches, each church taking its turn. Each evening we had Vespers at which time the various ministers present spoke. Rev. Olin Krehbiel, Lansdale, Penna., president of the Mennonite Young Peoples Union of the General Conference, visited the Retreat one day and brought the message at the Vesper Service. The Sunday afternoon Song Festival, under the direction of Rev. Hostetler, was an experience long to be remembered. Out of the group that was present he had all kinds of musical combinations. It happened to be Full Moon at the time of the Retreat and we had a "caravan" of row boats round the lake one evening and had our service surrounding the "Float" with a Cross shining on the far side of the lake. We also met the Sudermans who were among the leaders of the Retreat. One could and should continue but these highlights must be sufficient.

I cannot close this article without a few brief conclusions. (1) I was amazed to find a fine sense of unity among the Mennonites of the Pacific Conference in spite of the transportation problems that they have. The Field Secretary, Miss Emma Ruth, helps in this tremendously by visiting the various churches and also by editing the Pacific Workers Exchange which is published monthly. The Retreat, too, helps to create and maintain a spirit of unity. The attendance over the week-end was over a hundred, many coming around three hundred miles to get there.

(2) It was very fine to meet many people whom I seemed to know even before I met them because of mutual friends that I had met at Hartford. It may be something that is not applicable here, but I do feel that this is one of the good reasons for having one Seminary where our Mennonite students are trained. At least I was glad that someone had spoken to me about Hartford and also at the same time someone else had spoken to others about the same school. If it had not been for this I would have been a total stranger to many. This way I had already met many people because of the mutual contacts we had at Hartford. This may be worth thinking about.

(3) I sensed again on my part as well as on the part of the group as a whole a demonational loyalty while maintaining at the same time the larger and broader outlook. This was especially because of the course on "Mennonite Backgrounds" with their present day applications by Dr. Warkentin. This is not a narrow outlook but one that is keenly needed in a day when we may again be asked to stand up for our convictions in a time of crises.

(4) I sensed a feeling which is always encouraging and that is that here were a group of young people with a deep sense of loyalty and devotion to their Master. We see so many young people today who are interested only in the things that are temporal that it is always a thrilling experience to see a group who are interested primarily in things eternal. I feel that we as Mennonite Young People throughout this entire country are united in a common cause—that of living for and serving the Master, our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

MAIN TOPIC: Daily Witnessing 2 Cor. 3:1-3; Mt. 5:11-16

October 13, 1940

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Come speak a word for Jesus", "Am I a soldier of the cross", "One more day's work for Jesus."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer. Several short prayers by members who may be asked before hand, if desired.
3. Special music by the church choir.
4. A good reading, or playlet

II. Leader's Introduction

The gospel tells us of several things which Jesus did which we may call "daily witnessing." They tell us that "he went about doing good." Jesus himself sends the message to John the Baptist, "the blind see, the lame walk, the deaf hear." That kind of living today "doing good to those with whom we live," is still a very effective way of daily witnessing.

The message that Jesus sends to John also includes the statement, "and to the poor the gospel is preached." And we know that He considered it part of his mission to go from place to place to preach and teach. Today, too, we need to "tell the old, old story of Jesus and His love."

Another thing which Jesus did to make His daily witnessing effective is the fact that He chose the Twelve "to be with Him." His daily life, as He wealked with them and talked with them was a continuous witnessing.

Our daily life in home and community will speak louder than any words we may say of the faith that is within us.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. The Twelve witness Lk. 9:1-6
2. A Pharasaic witness Jn. 7:45-53
3. A precarious witness Jn. 1:6-8; 14-18
4. A practical witness Acts 9:39-42
5. Power to witness promised Acts 1:4-8
6. A charge to witness 1 Tim. 6:11-15

IV. For Discussion

1. What can the C. E. do to "witness for Christ?"
2. Are there times and places that call in a special way for "witnessing?" When? Where?
3. Why do non-Christian lands sometimes centure so-called Christian countries?

V. Facts for Study

The missionaries sometimes find it hard to explain the kind of life that is being lived in there home countries when the natives ask them about things they hear and read that are going on in these countries. They cannot understand why Christian nations would go to war, why negroes would be lynched, why there would be strikes, why the poor people are not taken care of.

On the other hand the missionaries are finding valuable aid for their work in the life of the home churches, whose love and interest for the people with whom the missionary works is felt by them and speaks to them clearly and effectively, and helps to win them for Christ and His way of living.

An Opportunity Lost

Some years ago the Reverend Huie Kin, a Chinese Christian pastor in New York City, was reading a daily paper. Noting that a distinguished countryman of his was to be in New York over Sunday, he telephoned him at his hotel, inviting him to the regular Sunday service of his church. The invitation was promptly accepted. After the service was over the guest said to the pastor: "When I was a boy in China, I was acquainted with some Chinese people, and I thought very highly of Christianity. I had never definitely identified myself with any Christian denomination, but when I was appointed to America I decided I wanted to be with Christian people there, and made up my mind to accept the first invitation which was given me to attend a Christian service." Then, after a brief pause he continued, "This is the first invitation I have had." The speaker was Mr. Wu Ting Fang, who had been for some time Minister of China to this country. And because this Sunday was his last Sunday in this country, not his first, the invitation to join the Christian forces in America came too late.

Putting First Things First

Dr. Lyman Abbot was traveling through a district that had been devastated by fire. It was a district largely populated by sincere Puritans. There were many temporary log houses and rough shanties in view; in these crude dwellings the people were sheltering themselvs. Dr. Abbot was surprised to see one fine, large brick dwelling that stood out obviously above the rest. In reply to his question he was informed that the brick building was the church. "Oh," he said, "then the church was not damaged by the fire!" "Oh, yes," he was told, "it was completely destroyed. That is the new church. We rebuilt that before starting to rebuild our own houses."

Call to Worship

"My Daily Prayer"

If I can do some good today,
If I can serve along life's way,
If I can something helpful say,
Lord, show me how.

If I can right a human wrong,
If I can help to make one strong,
If I can cheer with smile or song,
Lord, show me how.

If I can aid one in distress,
If I can make a burden less,
If I can spread more happiness,
Lord, show me how.

If I can do a kindly deed,
If I can help someone in need,
If I can sow a fruitful seed,
Lord, show me how.

If I can feed a hungry heart,
If I can give a better start,
If I can fill a nobler part,
Lord, show me how.

Song "More Like the Master"
Examples of people who have dared. (Two weeks previous to the meeting assign certain people to a number of Intermediates. Have someone find a story of one who dared in the field of medicine, another in discovery, another as a missionary, etc. and have them give short resumes.

Discussion:

1. Did these people who dared trust in their own strength?
2. What gave them courage that they could do it even though they were aware of some of the great difficulties?
3. How can we have the courage to say "Yes, I can do it?"
4. Has your society ever had the experience of having members who are fearful of trying anything new?
5. What can be done to help such members?
6. Can some of you give examples by stating times when you were asked to do something different? Did you find that willingness to try helped you?
7. Perhaps one or two can tell of the thrill they had when they found they could do the task which at first seemed impossible.

Silent Meditation (Let us pray to God for courage to face harder tasks for Him. Let us ask Him to make us willing to face new tasks. Above all, let us seek a greater trust in God so that we shall ever be confident that He will show us how.)

ALL NEEDS MET

Grace that never can be told
Flows for Jesus' sake; .
No good thing does He withhold,
Have we faith to take.
Rise, my soul, begin to live

A boundless store
Waits the asking; want no more.

Closing Prayer by Superintendent

If nobody smiled and nobody cheered,
And nobody helped us along;
If each every minute looked after himself,
And the good things all went to the strong;
If nobody cared just a little for you,
And nobody thought about me,
And we all stood alone to the battle of life
What a dreary old place this would be.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

Outline for October, 1940
"TEACH US TO PRAY"
Luke 11:1

October 6—Jesus prayed
October 13—The Lord's Prayer
October 20—Old Testament Prayers
October 27—Prayers that we can learn

Verse for the Month—John 5:14 "And this is the confidence that we have in Him, that if we ask anything according to His will He heareth us."

Song for the Month—"Sweet Hour of Prayer" M. H. B. No. 201.

Prayer for the Month—Luke 11:1; Luke 22:42b. "Lord, teach us to pray." "Not my will but Thine, be done."

For the leaders: Let us make this month's study meaningful for our Juniors. What is prayer to them; a habit? a routine duty? or a real spiritual experience? What will it mean to them because of this month's study? Doesn't that challenge us?

JUNIOR CORNER
"Teach Us to Pray"
Program for October 6, 1940

JESUS PRAYED

Setting: Place a large, good print of Hofmann's "Christ in Gethsemane" on an easel. Place before this a small table and lay upon that an open Bible. Long lighted tapers on either side of the Bible adds much.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—Music of "Have Thine Own Way Lord!" played very softly.
2. Call to Worship—"Let the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, my Strength and my Redeemer.
3. Sing in Unison—"Sweet Hour of Prayer" M. H. B. No. 201.
4. Scripture Reading—"Jesus' prayer for His followers. John 17:1-26 by a Junior boy who reads well.
5. All heads bowed in silent prayer.
6. Poem by four girls.

PRAYER

Prayer is the soul's sincere desire,
Uttered or unexpressed;
The motion of a hidden fire
That trembles in the breast.

Prayer is the burden of a sigh
The falling of a tear,
The upward glaring of an eye,
When none but God is near.

Prayer is the contrite sinner's voice
Returning from his ways;
While Angels in their songs rejoice
And cry, "Behold he prays."

Prayer is the Christian's vital breath
The Christian's native air
His watchword at the gates of death;
He enters heaven with prayer.

(In unison, heads bowed)

O Thou, by whom we come to God,
The life, the Truth, the Way;
The path of prayer Thyself hast trod;
Lord, teach us how to pray!

—James Montgomery

7. Leaders' Prayer
8. Solo—"In the Garden"

II. Study Period

Aim: To help the Juniors realize that prayer means fellowship with God. Also to help them to know that prayer is an essential part of our Christian life.

1. Introduction. Jesus prayed very much. He prayed because He loved God, the Father, and wanted to tell Him things and listen to Him, for He knew that God is wise and knows all things best. He knew that God is Love and that all He does for us is done because of His love. So Jesus prayed to God and trusted Him, even when His will was hard to understand. Jesus always asked God's guidance and help in all things and He thanked God for all things.

2. A two minute talk by a Junior on "When Jesus Prayed." In the morning, Mark 1:35; Luke 5:12-16; all night, Luke 6:12; in the evening, Matt. 14:23; at His Baptism, Luke 3:21b; on the Mount of Transfiguration, Luke 9:28, 29; before eating, John 6:11; Matt. 15:36.

3. A two minute talk by a Junior girl on: "What Jesus Prayed." A prayer of thanksgiving, Matt. 11:-25-26, and John 11:41, 42; That God might be glorified, John 12:27-28; That God's will be done, Mark 14:36.

4. A two minute talk by a Junior boy: "For whom Jesus Prayed." For the children, Matt. 19:13b; For Simon, Luke 22:32; For all of His followers, John 17:1-26; For His enemies, Luke 23:46.

5. Stand and sing in unison the prayer song, "More Love to Thee."

6. Discussion—"What Jesus said about Prayer." Each Junior should turn to each passage, after the scripture has been read; discuss it informally. John 15:7, Conditions of prayer; Matt. 7:7, 8; Matt. 21:22, Prayer will be heard; Matt. 6:5-8, Secret prayer; Matt. 5:44, Pray for others. Mark 11:25, forgive before you pray; John 16:23, 24, Pray in Jesus' name; Luke 18:1, Pray always.

7. Story-telling—A Junior boy may tell one of the parables that Jesus told, Luke 18:9-14

8. Sing in unison—"Sinners, Jesus Will receive." M. H. B. No. 144.

III. Mission Minutes

A short prayer season for our mission work. Pray that God may increase our interest in our missions. Pray that we might be more faithful in praying for our missionaries and for the Christians among the heathen. Pray that we might be more willing to give gifts of money for the missions. Pray that God may use us in His service.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Sing the song of the month softly.
2. Memorize the verse of the month.
3. Pray the prayer of the month.
4. Sing—"Into My Heart."

If you have knowledge let others light their candles at it. Margaret Fuller

INTO HIS PRESENCE

By Betty J. Regier, young teacher, Newton, Kan.

Once there was a little white church, a quaint little church with a spire and a sweet toned bell and pointed windows with clear, bright panes of glass. The church stood upon a hill, hard by a row of majestic cotton woods, and far across the gentle slope, from the church door you could see the fretwork pattern of fields studded by miniature farms and in the distance the hazy blueness of hills.

To this church came sun-browned farmers, peaceful faced women and children, ranging from the babe in arms to the gangling adolescent. All came to fill the hard pews and worship here. Someone, usually a fresh cheeked girl, played the little organ, and they all sang—even the feeble, near sighted church grandfather, and the sprightly year old infant who babbled a song at her own sweet will while the others sang.

A hundred yards away from the church across a leaf patterned brown road stood the weathered brown house of the minister. He was a man, getting old in years, yet loved by all his church members. In the evening he would sit upon his porch thinking out his sermons, or meditating, while larks sang long farewells across the golden meadow and the distant whistle of a farmer's boy sounded thinly on the evening breeze.

One Saturday evening in autumn he sat there rocking, enjoying the mild, quiet air, the first prick of early stars and the wind's conversational whisper in the drying vines. The Bible lay open on his knee, and across the roads in the shiny panes of the church windows the last light of the sun had faded, leaving them sombre, robbed of the brilliant gems of a moment ago. The minister sighed. It was getting too dark to read the Bible. No matter, he knew it by memory anyway. But one thing he did not know. And that was about what he should preach tomorrow. He had thought he had the clue but somehow it had evaded him. His wife, faithful coworker of his long service, came out on the porch, to ask if he had made his decision.

"No use, Mary," he said. "The Spirit has not spoken."

"You've been thinking about it all day. Do you suppose the Lord wants you to preach about something special tomorrow?"

"Why I hadn't thought of that." The minister peered at her through the gathering dusk. Often Mary brought to light some truths that would seem hidden.

After she had gone to attend to the last of the Saturday baking, he still sat there in the long gray evening, thinking.

Five of his flock were in need. Their hearts were sore, tired, in need of a healing balm—five who had gone to church but not into God's presence, who longed for something deeper, richer, more satisfying then their lives could give, that their friends could give, and even that the little church could give.

There was old man Jones who lived down by the Creek. This evening he sat in his cluttered little house, feeling the lonliness of old age when it is bittered with the distrust and faithfulness. It was so warm that he had his window up and he sat there looking over plains and seeing things—not the ordinary things like grass and pasture and slope, but things that took ugly shapes, visioning themselves grotesquely in his mind. The past shifted into his mind like a esries of picture cards . . . . His wife's young sweet face, the baby, their lilting laughter, the sudden silence of death. The cards after that were colorless, lonely, showing a heart made brittle and stony by the touch of a grief too deep for words. And then the cards dropped and collapsed. Old man Jones, scorned by the neighbors, feared by the boys, laughed at by the girls, pointed at with derision, with a dry sob in his throat, suddenly saw how empty his whole life was. The clock ticked on above the cluttered bureau. The old man thought he would not go to church tomorrow.

But he went. .

That same Saturday evening, Anne and her two children came out of the deep brush with wood for their winter's fire. Anne often did this on Saturdays when the children were home for she was frail, and could hardly do it herself, and winter was fast on its way. She walked slowly, her eyes saddened. The young ones fairly ran with their basket of wood between them, kicking the fallen leaves with shouts of joy.

"It's most time for a bonfire, isn't it, Mother?" The boy cried back over his shoulder.

The little girl crowed with the joy of it, her braids bouncing.

How healthy they were! How healthy, spirited and happy! Since their father's death, Anne had had to struggle alone. If she had not their help, their very presence, where would she be? Tomorrow, she thought vaguely, is Sunday. I'll dress them for Sunday School and send them, but I won't go.

She dragged her tired feet to the road. The first star shone in the lemon colored west, centered on a stage flanked by rose cloud curtains. Her cheek dropped on the top rail of the fence and the tears gathered slowly on her lashes. But Anne went to church.

A mile from the church, in a room of a white square house, a man sat, looking out of the window to where night blotted out the last blush of the sun. He was a man of character, a strong faced, earnest man, and at this very moment he stood at the dividing pathway. In his hands he held a letter.

The letter was a great opportunity—in his hands—an opportunity for wealth, power, fame. Far away, now, seemed his real calling, fading away with the light of the sun. Dallas sat there, thinking, feeling the pressure of this letter upon his mind—yet knowing uneasily that the true calling was not being heeded. Dallas had come home from the seminary for the week end to visit his parents and to see the farm again, after having been away for the summer. At home he had found the letter. Now he did not want to go back. He remembered that the next day was Sunday and that he had been looking forward to visiting the little white church again. Well, he would not go. But some compelling force changed his mind.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ELSIE M. SCHNEBELE, DAUGHTER OF JOHN LOWENBERG AND CATHERINE R. STROHM LOWENBERG, was born December, 1864, and passed away Thursday morning, August 29, 1940 at the age of 75 years, 8 months and 12 days. In early youth she joined the Zion Mennonite Church of Donnellson, Iowa, and was an active member of it all her life.

On March 31, 1887, she was united in marriage to Henry F. Krehbiel. To this union four children were born, one dying in infancy. Her husband passed away April 28, 1894. On October 31, 1897, she was united in marriage to John Schnebele, who passed away February 3, 1938. To this union also four children were born, two of them preceding her in death.

She is survived by five children, Mrs. Ella K. Pink, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Krebill, H. Fred Krebill, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Pickron, Orlando J. Schnebele, seven grandchildren, one sister, eight brothers and many relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at the Mennonite church Saturday morning at 10:00, preceeded by short services at the Agnew Funeral Home. Rev. Elmer Basinger of Summerfield, Ill., officiated in the absence of Rev. A. Friesen. Interment was in the Mennonite Cemetery.

LETTERS

Richlandtown, Pennsylvania, September 12, 1940

Dear Brethren and Sisters of our Churches:

Greetings in the precious name of the Lord Jesus Christ. There has been a long silence, but we have been deeply interested in the work of our church these years that we have been among you, and away from our beloved mission field in China. There has been work for us to do in the homeland. We have had our joys and sorrows, and some severe testings too. With confidence we can say with the apostle Paul, "that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us." (Rom. 8:18).

Not long ago we received word from our Mission Board that they are endeavoring to arrange for sailing for us, that we might again return to China to our mission field in the coming November month. Even though we knew since early in the year that they had decided to return us to China, it brought special joy to our hearts when the latter word came. We praise the Lord for being gracious and patient with us, and that He has counted us worthy to be His witnesses to His children in China. Our hearts are filled with gratitude toward God for our church which is standing back of us as we are so soon to go back to that needy land of China.

Many things are crowding in upon our minds for attention, since the time for preparation is so limited, and we ask your prayers for us. There is also the matter of arranging for the stay in the United States, as we return to China with three youngest children, of the three older boys, John, Richard and Ernest. We believe the Lord has already arranged for these affairs, and also does He understand what is means for the family to be separated for the first time, and for so many years. How much we need the help of the Lord in all things. The thought in Ps. 28:7 becomes precious to us these days, "My heart trusted in Him, and I am helped." In addition to God's help, we know that we can count on the prayers of many of God's children, for which we praise the Lord. Without your prayers we do not want to venture out again, and that into such a changed situation all over the world.

As far as we know our address will remain as now until the latter part of October.

Very Sincerely yours in Christ,
P. J. and Frieda Boehr

4937 Lincoln Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Editor:

I am taking the privilege of writing you to thank you for every courtesy shown during my pastorate of the First Church in Chicago for the past six years. God has graciously blessed your paper to the reading of many friends.

Allow me to thank the many friends who have remembered us in prayer and contributed so kindly for the work as well as the poor. The church is now under the supervision of Rev. Erwin Albrecht, of Kansas.

I am devoting my time to one of the branch mission stations at 4937 Lincoln Avenue. This is located in a section of many poor people. We use this building not only for preaching, but also for homeless children that we find in our missionary activities. Just now I have four homeless children that I am responsible for keeping. I am arranging to adopt one little girl five years old in a family at Freeport, Ill.

I am sure the many friends will not forget us in your prayers, and help for the helpless.

Sincerely yours, Rev. A. H. Leaman

THIS IS NEWS!

Robert Kreider, home from a full year at Chicago Theological Seminary, and employed all summer at Ford Training School, promised to stay over one day to address our opening meeting. With a good musical program, the old K. G. and E. rooms should ring with real fellowship. September 23—8 p. m. Do come out. You will be surprised at the report of the progress made on our Dining Room-Kitchen project; you'll agree we ought to just keep at it. Your support has been marvelous; and that in spite of the constant heavy demand on your time and money. Some women like to make their membership contributions at the first meeting; that leaves the whole winter free for service. Fine idea, says the treasurer. She'll be there. Will you?

Elizabeth Voran, Secretary
Bethel College Women's Association

—Mennonite Church, Lind, Washington.—"From August 21 to the 27th it was our great privilege to have Dr. A. Warkentin of Bethel College with us for special meetings. His inspirational messages on "Meeting the Master" and the 15 minute sketches of Mennonite History preceding each sermon will long be remembered. On Sunday afternoon, August 25, a fellowship dinner in the Lind park was given that the people might become better acquainted with Dr. Warkentin, and to honor the nine college students and professors who were returning to their places of study in widly seperated parts of the country. After the dinner a vesper service was held in the park with Dr. Warkentin as speaker."

—From a Letter

—Emmanuel Menn. Church, Pratum, Oregon.—With permission of the writer, Mrs. John Merryman, her fine correspondence, containing a report of the recently held "Golden Jubilee' at this church, most of her article will give way to a "History of the Church" and recent doings by Bro. J. D. Steiner which, with a nice cut of the church, appears elsewhere in this paper. But here is real news. The sister reports near the close of her letter: Bro. Daniel Unruh of Pandora, Ohio, has accepted a call from the congregation to be our next pastor. Plans are that he will be with us the first of the year. Much credit is due our church board and pulpit committee for making possible the services of a number of brethren who have ministered to us. We covet the prayers of the churches that we may faithfully carry on.

—Missionary J. J. Thiessen's recently moved to Inman, Kansas, where the family will reside and three of the children attend school, while Rev. Thiessen is to visit and serve our brethren in Canada, Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta until about Christmas time. He thinks is is a real busy life, but some day rest will come.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., DIAMOND JUBILEE ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION will be on October 20 to December 15. Sunday October 20 to October 27, Dr. J. E. Hartzler will be with us. James W. Plenert left couple of weeks ago for North Newton, Kansas, to enroll as a student in Bethel College. (Young Plenert is the son of Rev. J. J. Plenert, pastor of this church, and his wife.)

—Rev. John Flaming of Corn, Okla., recently suffered a stroke and was found in an unconscious condition by Mrs. Flaming. He is somewhat improved by now, though still quite ill.

—Ebenezer Church, Gotebo, Okla., Mrs. Fred Streun, seriously ill for several weeks, has been taken by ambulance to the Bethel Hospital at Newton, Kansas. Mr. Irwin Wedel who has been doing mission work in Louisiana and Texas was home for a week. He has a very effective way of presenting the gospel and his message Sunday morning was greatly appreciated. Mr. J. J. Brandt, bedfast nearly all summer has by the grace of God sufficiently recovered to be able to attend church last Sunday. This section of Oklahoma hasn't had any rain since June. Crops are very poor —Bethel College.— Soon the brick walls of Memorial Hall will be finished. Seven brick layers and ten students are busy at this work. Then the work on the roof will be begun.— At considerable expense the Interior of Alumni Hall has been fitted and equipped to house the Kauffman Museum. A wide balcony greatly increases the space. The big job of arranging the vast amount of material for exhibit is nearing completion, and there will be surprise after surprise after the building is opened to the public. 150 students attended the summer school. The use of the "One Course Plan" seems to suit the needs of students, and helps to increase the enrollment. The school employs 150 students in its work program. The jobs on which they help include 25 different types of work.

—BLUFFTON COLLEGE—Bluffton College began its first semester activities last week with registration results indicating an enrollment for the year which will be about the same as last year. Highly encouraged by the fine group of new students, the college is looking forward to a very good year in its various programs and activities. With several foreign students enrolled the enthusiasm and interest is running high. Plans are going forward rapidly in preparation for the annual Homecoming which is to be held October 5 and 6. Parents Day will be observed in connection with the Homecoming program on Sunday, October

Brother Peter Becker, member of the First Mennonite Church at Aberdeen, Idaho, will be ordained to the gospel ministry in his home church, Sunday, Sept. 29. Bro. Becker and his wife are at present in Christian work in the Sunday School Union.

WEDDINGS

—KLIEWER-HARMS.—On Saturday evening, Sept. 7, at the Spring Valley Menn. Church, Miss Lois Kliewer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Kliewer of Spring Valley, and Dr. Frank Harms, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Harms, Cordell, Okla., were united in marriage by Rev. Edmund Miller of Lind, Wash., The young couple will live in Aberdeen, Idaho, where Dr. Harms is a practicing physician.

—FRANZ-CLAASSEN—Miss Othelia Franz, daughter of Mr. Leonard Franz of Schrag, became the bride of Mr. Rudolf Claassen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Claassen of Colfax at the Menno Church near Lind, Wash., the pastor Rev. Edmund Miller performing the ceremony, and Rev. Harby King of Colfax giving a sermonette. The young people will live on a farm near Clarkston, Wash. Present address: Colfax, in care of Wm. Claassen.

—GOOSSEN-NICKEL.—At the First Mennonite Church, Mt. Lake Minn., on Friday evening, Sept. 6, Miss Susan Goossen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Goossen, was married to Mr. Leonard Nickel, the only son of Mr and Mrs. H. T. Nickel of Butterfield, by Rev. I. J. Dick, who used as a text for his sermonette, Col. 3:14, "And above all these things put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness." Both young people are talented musicians. They will reside at Storden, Minn., where Mr. Nickel owns and operates a plumbing and heating shop.

—DENMAN-SCHMIDT.— The wedding of Miss Dorothy Louise Denman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Denman of McMinnville and Mr. Clarence Sshmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Schmidt of Dallas, was solemnized in the Grace Menn. Church of Dallas, Oregon. After the wedding the newly-weds were given a miscellaneous shower in the church basement, followed by refreshments for all. The couple will make their home at Amity, Ore., for the present.

—GOERING-GOERING.—At an impressive service in the Eden church, Miss Helen V. Goering, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Goering of Moundridge, Kan., became the bride of Mr. Orlin Goering, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Goering, on Thursday evening, August 22. The father of the bride, Rev. C. J. Goering, solemnized the act. After a trip to Colorado the young people will make their home on a farm a few miles from Moundridge.

—REGIER-EPP.—At Henderson, Nebraska, recently took place the wedding of Dr. Kathryn J. Regier of Mt. Lake, Minn., to Mr. Henry S. Epp of Henderson.

—STOESZ-HARDER.— In the First Menn. Church north of Butterfield, Minn., there occurred, recently the marriage of Miss Katharine E. Stoesz, daughter of of Mr. and Mrs. Erdman Stoesz, to Mr. Cornie S. Harder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Harder.

—GRABER-SCHRAG.—The wedding of Miss Leona Graber of Prettie Prairie, Kas., and Mr. Howard Schrag of Freeman, So. Dak., was solmnized in the Mennonite Church at Prettie Prairie, August 18. The young people will make their home near Freeman, where the groom is farming.

—ROTH-VOTH.— The federated church at Whitewater, Kansas, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Ruth Roth of Whitewater and Mr. Edward Voth of Buhler, Kan., Sunday afternoon Aug. 18. The couple are both graduates of Bethel College and have been teaching. They will be at home in Garden City, Kan., where Mr. Voth is a member of the high school faculty.

FROM A RELIABLE SOURCE.—A trustworthy correspondent in China recently gave his observations of the present situation there. He had just had word of the fall of France and remarked: "It is hard to think of anything else—just a dead weight—that makes anything else seem hardly important." As for the Chinese matters he says, the Wang Ching Wei government has made a ripple rather than a splash, not winning the loyalty of the Chinese. Had it not been for Nazi victories in Europe, it is likely that the Japanese would been treating with Changking by this time, for they have had no real military success for many months. This correspondent as far back as June was sure that the Indo-China route for supplies to Chiang would be cut, and probably the Burma road also. He counted on the British having to leave Tientsien and foresaw that America would have to assume the support of Western interests in the Far East. He felt that there must be considerable sentiment for "patching up with Japan in view of the threat in Europe." Cut off from supplies, the Chiang regime might fall. "If, on the other hand, America can continue the effective support that Hull has already given, she might find that China is a much stronger ally for the democratic cause than she had thought." —Exchange

COME, LORD JESUS!

Weary with strife, and worn with earth's care,
We would fain rest, and yet do not dare;
Our souls are in anguish, and moist is our brow:
"Come quickly, Lord Jesus, yes, come even now."

The tempter doth buffet and thwart all our plans,
We grow discouraged, but God holds our hands;
Our path is so dark, and the clouds hang so low:
"Come quickly, Lord Jesus, yes, come even now."

Hungry and haggard we watch and we pray,
Our windows are open, we wait for that day;
Our strength is nigh spent, so our heads we must bow:
"Come quickly, Lord Jesus, yes, come even now."

"I'll come again," so saidst Thou one day;
We work and we strive, we watch and we pray,
Only that promise does faint hope allow:
"Come quickly, Lord Jesus, yes, come even now."

THE BRIDEGROOM'S VOICE

Alice Louise Cary

I Thessalonians 4:16

They sleep in every land and clime,
The blessed dead, who wait
The coming of that Rapture-time
On God's appointed date.

No bell or siren has the power
To rouse them or awake;
They sleep in Christ; in that glad hour
A heavenly "shout" shall break.

The silence and the sleep of death;
The Bridegroom's voice they know!
Transformed by One who gives them breath,
They shall arise and go!

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE STORY OF RUTH

An eminent writer has called this story "the loveliest little idyll in existence", and, viewed solely from its literary merit, no more charming love story can probably be found anywhere. Again and again have writers and speakers upon the subject extolled the beauty of this old story. But the purpose which its author had and the value that its one-time readers placed upon it was deeper and more significant.

The period of the Judges in Israel presents a dark, accusing picture of the infidelity of the chosen people, who again and again forsake their God, and the book of Ruth gives us a glimpse of a healthier trend that still remains. Through it runs a vein of protest against unhealthy tendencies, such as are also found in Jonah, Job and parts of other books of the Old Testament. These protests are like the monadnocks of the Western plains that stoutly resist the erosion surrounding them.

One of the outstanding features of the story is the steadfast character and the stout-hearted personality of Ruth, so splendidly portrayed in the scene of departure between Naomi and her daughters-in-law. Orpha returns with apparently little concern. Not so Ruth. "Entreat me not to leave thee, nor to return from following thee. For whither thou goest, I will go, and whither thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God, my God; and where thou diest there I will die, and there will I be buried." Are not our hearts strengthened, our nerves steeled, and our spirits buoyed up by this declaration? There is no if about it, 'such as "If all goes well", "If I like your people as well as I do you", etc. Thrown aside are native land, ancestral religion, kinship, by the inward urge to be in Jehovah's land, undaunted is the faith in a new future. Here is an example of genuine friendship. Emerson has aptly said, "The only way to have a friend is to be one," which means to cast lots with him come what may.

Another challenging trait in this story of Ruth's —and her mother's-in-law as well—is the undaunted fortitude which they evince under the stigma of extremely contrary experiences. How like the manner of Jesus! "Let us be up and doing, with a heart for any fate, still achieving, still pursuing, learn to labor and to wait," would be a fitting watchword in the case. "And she went and came and gleaned in the field after the reapers," as though nothing had happened. "Life cannot do much to a person who has the courage to pick up the broken threads and weave them into a beautiful tapestry, through which run the dark threads of suffering and pain."

A third meaningful phase of the story is that God can and does use apparently contrary situa- tions to bring about his own ends, and he likes to do this by using persons whose faithfulness is unquestioned. God often breaks barriers which hard headed human nature declines to do. Here, a Hebrew and a Moabitish woman are strangely brought together to become the progenitors of the royal race of David, who became the ancestor of our Savior. In doing this he ignores racial barriers and shows that he is no respector of persons as long as they try to do his divine Will. Here God solves the race problem which man has not yet been able to accomplish. If we would only let Him He would also help us solve the minority group problem, the labor problem, and what not. O how little do we practice, in all relations of life, Jesus' admonition, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." —T.

"FOLLOW ME." MATT. 9:9.—There is the challenge to a crusade in this call; the imperative order of a military command; the winsome invitation of a friend to walk by his side. In the mood of the New Testament, it is a call to action. Jesus does not say, "Come and worship me." Worship has great worth, but it may keep us behind walls, and away from living needs. He does not invite "Come and believe in me." Reciting a creed, good and true though it may be, may become formal and powerless. Some of us prefer to defend doctrines rather than win the world for Christ. His call is to "live as I live; think as I think; love as I love; probe life as I probe it; suffer as I suffer; change life as I change it; oppose evil and support good as I do; bear the burdens of the world as I bear them; accept your cross as I accept mine; be a savior as I am Savior; and "Lo, I am with you always." —Selected

ANNOUNCEMENT

Rev. H. A. Fast, who has been serving the Western District Conference as Peace Secretary, has now been taken over by the General Conference Peace Committee to serve as full-time Peace Secretary through-out the whole Church. He has been called to Washington by the Mennonite Central Committee to assist in working out some of the problems relative to the Conscription Bill.

To those churches near Newton, Kansas, who had hoped to have Rev. Fast present his peace message, the Western District Peace Committee is pleased to announce that Dr. E. L. Harshbarger has consented to fill a limited number of appointments to discuss the problems of Peace and Conscription. Arrangements should be made direct with Dr. Harshbarger at North Newton.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

Mennonite Colleges and Peace Education

by E. L. Harshbarger

There is no lack of peace education in American colleges today. Every campus hums with peace activity. Unfortunately, peace activities are so diverse in nature that they tend to divide rather than to unite. The majority of the activities are materialistic only, stressing such matters as economic barriers, world courts, and legal remedies for international troubles. Some are frankly Marxist; others merely opportunistic. What is needed today in peace education is a positive, cohesive force. That force is found in the teachings of Jesus.

It would seem obvious that only Christian colleges can give adequate leadership to a peace movement whose dominent motive is Christ-like living. Unfortunately again, however, many Christian colleges and Bible academies are positively militaristic in their teachings. Many are not interested in peace at all. Therefore, it seems logical that Christ-inspired education must look for guidance. In addition to our own people there are today thousands of conscientious objectors in other denominations who are seeking aid and advice. This is the golden opportunity for Mennonite colleges.

To meet this challenge Mennonite colleges should provide a program which is Biblical, voluntary and sensible. The program must reach all our constituency. It should train leaders for our communities. It must stress peace as a positive way of life, a way of brotherly love, mutual helpfulness, and Christian charity. Such a program will spend little time merely in denunciation of war. It must exemplify the overcoming of evil with good.

Our colleges should assist all our communities in making a careful study of the Biblical basis of our peace testimony, of church history and Mennonite history in particular, and of the relation of the peace way of life to the modern problems which confront all of us.

Peace libraries, meditation and study groups, deputations, service projects, and similar agencies should be set up or improved on every Mennonite college campus.

If this type of work had been done years ago, there would not be the bewilderment and consternation now found in so many Mennonite communities. Let's act now.

Our whole social life is in essence but a long, slow striving for the victory of justice over force.
—John Galsworthy

HOMEWARD BOUND !

Dear Readers: It sounds rather queer while in the native land to use the expression "Homeward Bound." But, having spent about half the lifetime in India, those prevailing customs, etc. become deeply engraved.

Thursday, Sept. 19th, we boarded the train in Hillsboro westbound. The numerous friends at the depot certainly awakened great enthusiasm for our return to the land with millions groping in darkness. Many of these dear ones we were privileged to look into their faces, we shall never meet again in this world. Happily, the children of God harbor the living hope to be some day reunited never to sing another parting hymn. We did enjoy the trip via Denver, Cheyenne, Ogden to Pocatello for Aberdeen, Idaho. The following Sunday and a few days following we spent very appropriately with some of our family members residing near Aberdeen, a host of relatives and other dear friends. The Sunday gatherings again brought us face to face with the large congregation whose membership exceeds the three hundred mark. Oh, what a fellowship those days! The pastor and the church constitute a large intimate family circle to be highly admired. The Lord showers His blessing upon this group of believers. During the social gatherings various edifying conversations ensued: old friendship experiences renewed, new contacts formed, the circle has again been most happily enlarged. A certain gathering on Sunday afternoon observed with the presence of the pastor a farewell service.

Many inquiries are made as to how we are going to travel. We are sailing on the American ship "President Taft" from Los Angles harbor in Oct. 11th, this boat is to convey us via San Francisco, Honolula, Yokahoma and Koba, Japan, to Manila by Nov. 5th. Here after a detention of about four days we are to board the steamship "President Adams." This shall bring us via Hong Kong, Singapore, Mulucca, Penang, Colombo by Nov. 21st to Bombay. From there about 800 miles more will usher us into the midst of our India Brownies for the fourth time. What an uplifting anticipation graces our outlook. There is where our field lies, there is where our activities shall abound another term of service. Your prayers are much coveted, they have held us up for more than 30 years. Let us have them unceasing, rising to His throne—II Tim 1:3.

Mail sent from Kansas and further east four days ahead will be found in our cabin, provided that it is addressed as signed above. Rev. and Mrs. Harold Ratzlaff sail with us.

Yours in His service,
P. W. and Mathilde Penner

FIRST QUARTER REPORT, 1940
TAMINGFU-EDUCATIONAL

Dear Brethren: Thank God, our school-work is not only continuing, but our enrollments have greatly increased since New Year. The Nanloa and Tsing feng schools also had larger enrollments, but the several visits of bombers have scattered the city folks into the villages, and many hesitate to return, so in those two places at present the attendence is below normal. In the city of Tamingfu we are at liberty to carry on school work, although we had to comply with the new regulations as to books etc. The officials know, that our school has never been registered with the government, and they say that at present this regulation is not being enforced. So we humbly bow and praise God, that He is giving us even with the young generation an open door of opportunity, not only in instructing the children of our Christians in the community but also the children of friendly non-Christians. We regret that the Christians in the country have to miss such a privilege. Some ask for schools at the country churches, but we cannot see our way clear to provide schools there. There are so many problems hard to solve. Evidently they need the prayer solution. Here all can help along. Do remember us before the throne of God!

Very faithfully yours, H. J. and Maria Brown,

ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY TO LEND A HAND

The small—but active—congregation at Newport, Wash., is confronted with the necessity of taking down their church building and reconstructing a new one. Having plenty of good sand in the immediate neighborhood, and a machine to make cement blocks having been offeret to them, they resolved to excavate a full basement and build the walls for the building out of cement blocks. The plan is to complete the basement for the present need and finish the auditorium as they can. All labor is to be donated. It is to be a project similar to the one at Dallas last year, where there is at present a flourishing church of 149 members on the way to become selfsupporting. How about it? Shall we give these dear people at Newport a lift, too? All contributions are to be sent to J. C. Jantz, Odessa, Wash., marked: "For the Church building fund at Newport, Wash."

of Evangelixation Committee

INTO HIS PRESENCE

By Betty J. Regier, young teacher, Newton, Kan.

(Concluded)

A little farther down the road in a house, sat a prisoner, also looking out of the window. A prisoner was Malinda, in a prison not made of bars and bricks, but one made of her two useless legs. A year ago, the accident had happened when Malinda, just sixteen years old, brimming with life and anticipation, had fallen beneath the wheels of a car. Operation had followed operation, but nothing would restore the use of her legs. Life had been wrenched from her, not by death but by the loss of all brightness and hope. She sat in her chair by the window, watching the shadows deepen on the hillside, a girl of seventeen, the silky darkness of her hair shadowing a slender pale face, aged beyond its years, once round cheeked and fresh.

"Tomorrow is Sunday," she mused. "And we'll go to church as usual. But I don't want to go. When I see them all walking, the little ones running in the church yard, the girls walking up the aisle, their dresses rustling, and the minister walking up the steps to the platform—oh, it is too hard, too hard!"

She covered her face with her hands, thinking of the years ahead, long and lonely, which she would spend in watching other people walk.

"I needn't go to church tomorrow. No, I'll stay at home. I'll plead a headache, and no one will know."

But the next morning she did not complain of a headache.

At the supper table in his home, Jimmy sat quietly between his parents and ate. The older two talked of deep, grown-up things, far beyond Jimmy's reason, and yet they talked bitterly and coldly, Jimmy knew that, Jimmy's father would say sarcastic things to his mother and she would answer sarcastically. Jimmy knew they did not love each other and that he was always in their way. He felt their chilliness when they were nice to him. His mother would pat him on his head, and he knew, despairingly, that she did not mean it. Most of the time they were cross or cold and they never understood things he said, or didn't listen. So Jimmy was as quiet as could be.

Jimmy's father turned to him suddenly and pretended to smile.

"Did you have a good time playing today, Jimmy?" Jimmy knew his father wasn't interested, so he merely nodded, and sure enough, his father forgot about it, and turned to resume his conversation with his mother.

He said something severe, and she said something harsh, then he became bitter, and she burst into tears and left the room.

Jimmy was quite used to this. But he turned to his father.

"You made Mamma cry!" he said sadly.

"Go to bed." his father said. "Tomorrow is Sunday School."

Jimmy was glad to be up in his room. It was not nearly time for bed, but he undressed and lay down watching the evening darken outside the window. Yes, they would send him to church tomorrow, but he need not go. He would loiter along the way and play, and not go at all. He felt too lonely all by himself in church when other little boys had their mothers and fathers.

Lying in bed, Jimmy tried to imagine his third parent. He was usually a very real person to Jimmy—a third parent who had all the love for him that his two parents did not. But tonight Jimmy was too lonely and miserable to imagine love.

But the next morning he did not loiter. He went to church.

That evening when the minister went inside to work on his sermon, he was inspired with new fire. An inspiration had come to him during the evening. For many Sundays he had been preaching on good, solid texts to be sure, but tonight a vision had come to him. Tomorrow he was going to preach for the faint, for the sick, for the loveless. Tomorrow he was going to feel into lonely souls, find the aching cries, the shrill aching, groping cries, of the needy.

Sunday morning dawned and the mists lifted from the hills and the sweet-toned bell sent out its chimes. The farmers finished their milking and dressed and shaved and their wives got the chillren ready. One by one the pews filled. The minister saw them all as he mounted the pulpit. He saw old man Jones in his wrinkled suit ("My, how old he is getting", he thought). He saw Anne between her children whose faces were expectantly lifted to his, but he noticed Anne's hanging down. He saw Malinda patiently sitting in her chair, and he also saw the shadows under her eyes. He saw Dallas and wondered why he seemed so restless and moody. And also he saw little Jimmy in his best clothes, sitting alone, near the front.

Never had the minister preached a sermon as he gave now. He told of Christ's Love—the greatness of which could expand any life to swelling proportions, no matter how frail or feeble. He told of the saving power that can overcome the world, that can break the barriers of loneliness, the heaviness of worry, the cowardice of weakness, the shackles of physical handicap, and lovelessness, greatest of all evils.

Five people walked into His Presence that day in the little white Church.

Western District Conference Loan Library

In 1938, largely through the efforts of Dr. A. Warkentin, the Western District Conference Loan Library was established. The beginning was made with about 850 books, either donated or transferred from the college library. During this year close to 600 more books have been added.

To save the expense of publishing a Revised List of all books, the Education Committee is getting out a SUPPLEMENTARY LIST of the newly added books. Copies of this List will soon be sent to the churches and will also be available at the coming Conference. This list, together with the first list which, it is hoped many have preserved, will then furnish a key to the entire Loan Library.

The books found in the Supplementary List were purchased or partly donated. Rev. J. M. Suderman has turned over to the library about 340 books from his painstakingly selected private library, at an almost give-away price. The Supplementary List comprises: Biography, 31 volumes; Education and related subjects, 93 vol.; Fiction for Adults, 60 vol.; Fiction for Children, 58 vol.; Religion and kindred matter, 93 volumes. The more specifically Suderman List comprises: MINISTERS' DIVISION — Doctrine and Theology, 33 vol.; GENERAL—books for old and young partly religious and partly practical, 137 vol.; MISSIONS, 19 vol.; SERMONS and ADDRESSES, 71 volumes.

Address requests for book lists and orders for books:

—Menno Church, Lind, Washington, Having had occasion now and then to compliment Mrs. Edmund Miller, the pastor's wife, for her artistic ability as shown by the beautifully executed church bulletins that we received, the "Adams County Leader" in an article under the caption, "Lind has a Talented Artist" tells among other things that Mrs. Miller occasionally receives commissions from large organizations for art work. Just recently she completed a beautiful piece of work for the Portland, Oregon, Chamber of Commerce, a parchment plaque 10 by 14 inches extending felicitations to one of its members. The engrossing was all done free hand, though it has the appearance of an engraving. Mrs. Miller received $20.00 for this.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

October 6, 1940

Luke and His Gospel

Luke 1:1-4; A 1:1; Col. 4:14; Tim. 4:11

Introduction

This lesson is an introduction to our studies in Luke's Gospel which will be covered by the lessons of the next six months. We like to know about the author of a book which we read, especially whether he is well qualified to write the book. This is also true of those who wrote the Gospels. In these studies of Jesus Christ, we are dealing with one whose life and works are of vital concern to people of all nations and of all classes of society. Christ has been the object of serious thought on the part of great thinkers of many nations. His words too have given delight to multitudes of unlearned peasents in their humble homes. Luke, in his beautiful Gospel, presents the facts of Christ in a way to serve the religious needs of men. A careful study of these facts will provide food for our souls.

Luke's Purpose, L1:1-4

The writer of this Gospel and of Acts is the same person (compare A. 1:1). A careful reading of the Acts reveals, too, that the writer was a companion of Paul in the later years of his life. (A.20:5,6,13-15). Luke's Gospel is written for the Greek (Gentile world). His purpose was to show Jesus to the world as the Son of man, the Friend of sinners, the universal Savior.

It is evident from verse 1, that early, before Luke wrote his Gospel, there were written narratives concerning Christ. These were written by eye-witnesses of the work and life of Jesus (v2). Luke does not claim to have been an eye-witness. He believes there is room for a more comprehensive record concerning Christ. He speaks as a historian who has made a careful investigation (v3), "having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first." His Gospel, designed to instruct Theophilus, would also impress him with the certainty of the things he had learned about Christ (v4).

Luke Writes a Second Treatise, A. 1:1.

The subject of the Gospel was, "what Jesus began both to do and to teach." The subject of Acts is what Jesus continued to do and teach through the power of the Holy Spirit in the lives of the Apostles and other believers.

Luke, the Beloved Physician and Companion of Paul

Col. 4:14; IITim. 4:11

Paul had a doctor with him in some of his journeyings and during his two Roman imprisonments. This greeting was sent from Rome near the end of his first imprisonment. Luke emphasizes the healing power of the Great Physician. He describes diseases with professional accuracy (L. 5:12), and speaks freely of the healing power of Jesus. He records many of the healing miracles and numberless general healings.

Luke seems to have been the most faithful of all of Paul's companions. What a comfort he must have been to him during the trying and lonely days of his Roman imprisonment.

Luke's Gospel gives us our most complete picture of Christ. Luke is our chief source of information concerning the Perean ministry. In this record he sets forth the work of Christ for the Gentile world. He alone records some of the finest of Jesus' parables. He wrote his Gospel particularily for the Gentiles, of whom he was one. He passed over those elements in Jesus' teachings which were particularly Jewish, and dwells upon the broader teachings — Christ's forgiveness of the penitent, his grace to the poor and outcasts. Parables like that of the Good Samaritan and the Prodigal Son appeal to all people. Luke's Gospel gives us an adequate ground for our faith in Christ.

SERMON SKETCH

AN APPEAL FOR HELP

"Ye see the distress we are in, how Jerusalem lieth in waste. . . . Come, let us build up the walls of Jerusalem, that we be no more a reproach. Neh. 2:17

"You see the distress we are in." This was an appeal to their Jewish patriotism, their pity and their piety. Your city in ruins, God's city desolate. He includes himself and said, "we." So the church, "you see the distress that WE are in." When the church of Jesus Christ arises and sees the shame of its weakness in its compromising with the world, when it will strengthen her stakes, and lengthen her cords, then shall her converts be multiplied.

This was a personal solicitation "come, let US build." No time for debating or discussing failures. We are called upon to take our share of the work of the church. We can not substitute money, or prayers or good wishes for work. "Every man's work shall be tried." The child and the invalid, the school girl and the maid servant, the merchant and his errand boy, the house wife and her maid, the farmer and chore-boy, all have some work to do for God.

Nehemiah said "come." None should ask others to go where they are unwilling to go themselves, nor do work that they are too proud to do themselves. "Come" is always more successful than "go."

His desire was that their reproach might be lifted. Under Ezra they were unable to rebuild the walls; but now Nehemiah for "His great name's sake" desired to do what Ezra had not been able to do.

The Lord is a jealous God and when His church is reproached and scorned He is assailed, and will, for His honor's sake, defend His own. "Why persecutest thou me?" The wounds inflicted upon one of His own are felt by Him, the living head in heaven.

He persuaded them that this was of the Lord. They are the best scholars who will work without the rod; yet none so good but they will need correction sometimes. There was no occasion for them to doubt since both God and the king were favorable.

They responded promptly, and entered upon their work practically. They did not offer a substitute, but undertook the work required of them. All difficult tasks must be faced and done in the fear of God. Fancy and flimsy methods break down. All with one accord undertook to carry out the work by God's blessing, and the king's favor. Co-operation is necessary to the success of any large undertaking.

"Pliny speaks of a stone on the island of Scyros, that if it be whole, though large and heavy, will float, but when broken it will sink. So long as the church keeps united nothing shall sink it; but if it breaks up, and divides, it is in danger of going down." —Gospel Banner

Newton, Kansas, September 14, 1940: Executive Committee Meeting Minutes. "H. S. Bender brought personal greetings from European workers: Lehman, Bennett, and Claassen and from several European Mennonite leaders. Bro. Bender orally reported the details of his trip. The committee by motion then expressed appreciation to Bender for his service and detailed report."

Henry W. Wiens, Reedley, California, was appointed for one years' service and is to proceed either to Alsace or to France. Arrangements are being made for him to sail either September 19th or the 26th.

John E. Coffman, Vineland, Ontario, was appointed to service in England and will assist Bro. Claassen in the developing program there and by the time of the end of Claassen's term of service can undoubtedly take over the responsibility for the program.

It is estimated that European War Sufferers Relief Fund receipts for the eight months period to May 1st, 1941, would exceed $80,000.00. The budget plans to the several units on the field were allocated on this basis.

During Bro. Bender's visit in France he had several opportunities to accompany Bennet in his regular visits to the special refugee feeding project in the vicinity of Cerberes. He presented the committee with a special letter of thanks from the Spanish refugees who are being thus helped by the M. C. C. The letter was signed by 45 Spanish refugee children who are receiving two warm meals daily in the Mennonite canteen. Each signature was further illustrated with an original drawing. The group as a whole also sent personal greetings of grateful appreciation to the U. S. Mennonite brotherhood.

The M. C. C. treasurer's operating statement for December 1st, 1939, to September 1st, 1940, indicates that a total of $32,132.25 has been contributed to European War Sufferers Relief Fund. During this same period $8,212.30 were forwarded to the work in Poland, $9,582.69 to France and $9,714.37 to England. The foregoing figures, both receipts and expense were considerably in excess of estimates that had been earlier made. The M. C. C. appreciates this liberal support on the part of all its cooperating groups. A detailed report of receipts and expenditures will be made as of December 1. 1940, and published.

Ephrata Clothing Depot, Sept. 7th

Today the new relief office opened work, and began in opening, sorting and classifying the contents of seventy packages of clothing which have been received from 15 different states. A card acknowledging receipt of these goods was sent to all whose addresses were available. Our M. C. C. members were advised of the list of anonymous parcels. Sister Lehman states, "It was a real joy and satisfaction to open these packages and to note the work, money, time, love and consecration which they bespeak. We appreciate this interest and these contributions to today's need."

Before October it is planned to have a special clothing folder available to all sewing organizations and churches which gives detailed information as to kinds and quality of clothing desired. Shipment of new and of good used clothing should be forwarded prepaid to Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania.

All Canadian clothing will be shipped to England as rapidly as sizeable shipments accumulate. All clothing gathered in the U. S. will be prepared and packed for shipment to Europe. It is hoped that by the time our contributions are gathered and ready for foreign shipment permission for forwardings to needy Europe can be obtained.

LET US PRAY

For three years the most inhuman, atrocious and demoniacal war in the history of the world has been raging in China. The most peaceful and inoffensive nation in human history, quietly working out its own destiny, living its ancient way of life, rooted in the centuries before America was discovered, making no exactions upon any other nation, has been the helpless victim of the most militant, arrogant, cruel and pitiless invader that has ever stained the pages of history with the blood of its countless victims.

Not even the Hitler devastations and butcheries by the most destructive scientific weapons of assassination can compare with the desolation of homes, demolition of cities, desecration of temples, destruction of colleges, dispossession and death of countless millions of men, women and children of China by the armies of Japan.

All of this has been made possible by the cooperation of the United States in supplying Japan with the implements of destruction, the scrap iron and steel and other raw materials which have enabled Japan to continue its devastation of China through three years of undeclared war. And the President now proposes a Day of Prayer!

We shudder over the aerial attacks of the Hitler bombing planes upon the people of England, despite her equipment of the anti air craft guns which takes a toll of five German planes for every one downed by the invader, while the rain of hell from above has been daily falling upon Chinese cities without any weapons of defense.

The story of the repeated bombardment from the air upon the Chinese Capitol of Chungking, with the devastating fires burning the civil population in their hill-top bamboo houses, as told by Madam Chiang Kai Shek and American residents, beggers description.—A city as large as Washington lies in ashes.

As recently as last week the press recorded the frightful results of countless raids by 200 Japanese demons of the air, with its fearful toll of lives, in a declared determination to wipe the city from the face of the earth.

All of these outrages have been made possible by the supplies of American aviation gasoline and crude oil for re-conversion over a period of more than two years, impossible without American motivation, and has been approved by our government despite continued appeals and protests which have fallen upon deaf ears at Washington. Let us pray!

A "moral embargo" was finally declared which reduced to a minimum the export of aviation gasoline since the first of January, but the export of scrap iron, steel and other ingredients of munitions, and of crude petroleum, has gone merrily on, supplying the weapons of death used to subdue or annihilate China, while the controversy whether we shall exchange fifty out moded twenty-five year old World War naval relics to England in exchange for American military bases on English soil of the western hemisphere, continues to agitate Congress and the nation.

Department of Commerce figures disclose that the United States exported 4,440,000 barrels of crude petroleum to Japan the first five months of 1940, despite the "moral embargo" and the marked reduction in export of refined aviation gasoline, since August 1st, embargoed by the President to all countries outside the Western Hemisphere.

If the entire supply were cut off, both crude and refined, it is believed that the war in China would long since have ended.

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, BUTTERFIELD, MINN.

Sept. 19, 1940

Greetings with Psalm 105:1-2: "Oh give thanks unto God; call upon his name: make known his deeds among his people. Sing unto him, sing psalms unto him: talk ye all of his wondrous works." Surely, we have experienced woundrous gifts out of His mighty hand in our church and community.

On August 18 twenty-two young people were baptized and received into the church, and one sister was also received. All these gave their personal testimony, confessing before the congregation that they have accepted Jesus Christ as their personal Savior. Our prayer is that these young people will grow in their Christian life, in grace and knowledge in their Lord and Savior. —September 15 we observed the Lord's Supper with these new converts. The Lord's supper is for all saved people, not only for certain church groups. Jesus gave this memorial meal lest we forget Him and His finished work on the Cross.

Our pastor Rev. and Mrs. Schultz and three girls took a much needed vacation to Wolf Point, Montana, where he served at a Young People's Rally on August 25. They also had occasion to visit Glacier Park.—The Lord has blessed us abundantly. Our small grain crops, corn, gardens and orchards yielded abundantly. God be praised for His goodness to us!

Prayer Calendar

A Fellowship Prayer Calendar for the use of young people has been prepared by Sam Richert under the direction of the Y. P. U. Committee. A considerable number of young people's societies have gotten copies of it and have found it to be very helpful.

Copies can be gotten from Mr. William E. Juhnke, McPherson, Kansas. Our goal is to have every young person of the General Conference use one of these prayer calendars. C. E. Leaders, order sufficient copies for your society, today.

California Mennonite Young People's Retreat

Again the youth of California have cause to praise our Heavenly Father for the blessings received at our annual Retreat at the beautiful Lake Sequoia, August 12-19. The sanctified surroundings were a fine setting for the rich spiritual food which was offered the Retreaters.

From the early devotional chapel period before breakfast to the campfire service at night, an attitude of Christian fellowship prevailed. The example of our leaders helped to create this atmosphere. Dr. A. Warkentin headed the committee of instructors. Not only did he assume this responsibility, but he also taught classes in Bible, directed a study in, "the Christian and Peace," and arranged for the campfire services, which followed the theme "Meeting the Master." For our missionary representatives we were privileged to have Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Suderman from Arizona. Rev. Suderman led in a period of mission study, and in a quiet but effective manner during that hour and on other occasions depicted the importance of the missionary cause. Rev. William Bestvater dirceted periods of Bible study and aided also on other occasions with inspirational messages. As an auxiliary group aiding these leaders, there were several pastors from our churches who were given opportunity to offer us spiritual guidance. We are indeed thankful that these men of God were led to be at our Retreat.

A new and truly unique experience was the lot of the Retreaters when a moonlight boat ride around the lake was arranged for one evening. Enough boats were procured to make it possible for all Retreaters to go out. In a serpentine we rowed around the lake, singing most of the while. Finally we encircled the raft, from which place Rev. Edgar Toevs gave us a fine spiritual message. This experience is one which will linger long in our memories.

For the first time in a number of years the Retreat extended over a period of a full week. Thus we discovered what extraordinary blessings could be in store for us on Sunday. The day was one of hallowed atmosphere, lending itself to true worship of God. We had Sunday School, with the optional choice of three fine classes, followed by services which included the common service. How near one feels to the Lord in the groves which are His temples! To give vent to the feeling of praise, a Song Festival was held in the afternoon, and everyone present was given an opportunity to take part.

Many Retreaters must have felt like Peter, regretting to leave the mountain-top, with all its great experiences. The problems and pleasures which are connected with our daily life seemed so minute compared to the greatness of God's love, and one could not help but feel the challenge of Christ to carry this mesage with us as we departed for our various homes. —Louise Richert, Pacific Dist. Y. P. Rep.

Report of the All Mennonite Young Peoqle's Retreat at Quaker Haven

Aug. 5 to Aug. 11, 1940

The All-Mennonite retreat, formerly held at Shipshewana, was held this year at Quaker Haven, Dewart Lake, south of Syracuse, Indiana. A number of things caused a low enrollment—only 45 retreaters were enrolled. However, the fine fellowship and the excellent courses of study made this one of the best retreats to date. As was anticipated, the common dining hall and the two dormitories instead of scattered cottage groups made for a much better fellowship and a finer spirit at the Retreat. The Friends who own and operate the camp gave us such excellent cooperation that we all felt more closely akin to the Friends when we left than we had ever felt before. A fraternal delegate from the Friends young people also gave us a fine contact with these fellow non-resistant people of the simple life.

The sunset services were exceptionally inspiring. Rev. E. J. Bohn, chairman of the Eastern District Retreat, conducted these as well as the morning quiet hour services and the Sunday morning worship service. At the sunset services Rev. Bohn set forth some of the principles of Jesus as exemplified in the life of some great man. After the formal part of the service we all remained seated in quiet meditation as we watched the last rays of the setting sun bathe the lake and the woods in a golden splendor. The sunsets were all exceptionally beautiful, the lake is picturesque, and this conspired to add more inspiration to the sunset services. No one can soon forget the uplift of these golden moments.

A new feature of this year's Retreat was the fact that we had a trained recreational leader in Miss Emma Detweiler (now Mrs. Harold Schultz). In addition to directing the Retreat recreation, Miss Detweiler taught a course in recreational leadership.

Of this course, Miss Josephine Mullett reports:—

"Since the majority of us was interested in knowing how to plan Christian parties, Miss Detweiler, our leader, instructed us along that line. One of the important factors in a good party is to have everything ready before time and not to play one game so long that it becomes tiresome. One day we all tried our hand at recreational leadership . . . trying to put into practice some of the tips we were given, such as;— 1. Do not shout at the group —wait until they become orderly. 2. Know the game you are trying to explain. 3. Do not try to handle too many people at one time. 4. See that all participate.

The most important principle we learned was to have good sportsmanship."

The music course was popular, as it usually is. Of this course, Miss Eleanor Berky writes:—

"The music course under the direction of Miss Eleanor Niswander of Bluffton, met each morning at 9:50. The class first studied the various types of hymns, singing many of them. The hymns of Charles Wesley and Isaac Watts were noted especially. Standards for congregational singing and the rules of John Wesley for hymn singing were studied. During the latter part of the week members of the class had the privilege of hearing a number of excellent phonograph recordings, including both choral and instrumental numbers. Retreaters who took this course have gained a greater appreciation for church music and many helpful pointers on singing."

Evidence of the interest developed in Mennonite history as a result of Dr. C. H. Smith's course was afforded by the fact that the retreaters who conducted the chapel service on Thursday based their service on the lives of several Mennonite leaders. Their service showed a fine understanding of Mennonite history. Dr. Smith covered the history of the Mennonites to about 1900. On Saturday, Rev. Earl Salzman of Topeka, Indiana, gave the history of the Central Conference and something about the cooperation between the two conferences represented at the Retreat. The Retreat committee felt the need for more Mennonite history study among the young people, and therefore put this course into the Retreat program. The results, so far as we can tell—were very gratifying. We hope that our young people will know more about the denomination to which they belong. We were fortunate indeed in having a man like Dr. Smith to conduct this course.

In keeping with the suggestion of the Middle District Conference, the committee put a missions course, conducted by a returned missionary, on the program. We were happy to procure the help of Rev. John Thiessen to fill this place. Following is the report of Rev. Thiessen's course as written by Lorel Mullett and Curly Bowen:—

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Senior C. E. Topic for Oct. 20, 1940

MAIN TOPIC: REMEMBER THE SABBATH
Exod. 20:8-11; Mark 2:23-28

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Safely through another week", "Prayer is the soul's sincere desire", "O day of rest and gladness", "Savior, again to Thy dear name we raise."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Talk by an older person "How Sunday was spent in my childhood home."
4. Offering for the cause of Peace

II. Leader's Introduction

Christians of today need to make more of the Sabbath than they often do. They should not make the day common, using it to gratify their selfish purposes, a day for pleasure-hunting or lavish entertaining, or continuing with their everyday work. They should not misuse it by doing those things which take away from it its primary significance.

Sunday should not be mainly a day of "Thou shalt not" but "a day of rest and gladness." It is a day of possibilities—a day where body, mind and spirit should be refreshed. It should be looked forward to for the opportunity of worship, of fellowship, of rest, or helpful service even where special occasion calls. We would find the world a very different world if we had no Sabbath Day.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. The first Sabbath Gen. 2:1-3
2. Blessings promised Isa. 58:13, 14
3. Jesus heals on the Sabbath Luke 13:10-17
4. A Sabbath well spent Acts 16:12-15
5. Sabbath rest typical of eternal Heb. 4:4-11

IV. For Discussion

1. How did Jesus spend the Sabbath?
2. Do you think that Christians should regularly go to church and to S. S.?
3. With what activities can we fill Sunday so that they will be in keeping with the spirit of the day?

V. Facts for Study

WHAT USE WOULD JESUS MAKE OF SUNDAY?

The first time we meet Jesus on the Sabbath day, Sunday of that time, he is in the synagogue at Nazareth. He was there at the synagogue despite the fact that a lot of those people went to this place of worship only because of the force of habit, and a lot of them were only pious but not truly serving God. If Jesus were walking here on earth today would he be in church regularly (as his custom was the Bible says of him) even if those going to church were not all the very best of Christians, but many of them having lots of faults that need improving? To Jesus the synagogue was the place where God's word was read where men talked about God and His word, where men prayed to God, and he found it worth his time to be there.

But he was not only present, he took part in the worship. On that memorable Sabbath Day when he was asked to read, he did not look around to see if he could pass, as the scroll was handed to him, that job on to some one else who could perhaps do it better, or make excuses that he was not prepared, but he took the scroll and read. He took the opportunity that God and men offered him, and spoke of his conviction that the Spirit of God was upon him, and announced his program.

And what was the program which he announced on a Sabbath Day? It was a very practical one, and dealt with the problems which the people were facing daily. He said he was sent to preach good tidings to the poor, release to the captives, recovery of sight to the blind, and liberty to the bruised. In other words he said that his life work would be to help those in physical distress and those in spiritual need.

If Jesus were here today, would he use the Sunday morning and the House of God, to say very plainly, that men are their brother's keepers, meaning their neighbors' keepers? Would he say also, as he did then, that the acceptable year of the Lord, the grace and forgiveness through Jesus Christ is to be brought to those yet in darkness and would he say that we are to do it? Would he perhaps again say that those in physical need must be helped, the sick, the lame, the blind, the poor, and tell us that we are to "follow him" doing this? If Jesus were speaking to us today would he tell us to help the angel song "peace on earth" come true, encourage us to work for peace and to believe in it.

And what else did Jesus use the Sabbath for and what would he use it for if he were here today? One Sabbath he was walking on one of those narrow paths that lead through the wheat fields and his disciples were plucking grain and eating the wheat. We don't know where he was going, or why he was there, but we do know that he was out there in the midst of God's wonderful world together with his friends. Would Jesus possibly if he were here take some time on Sunday to spend walking the fields, seeing nature in the wonderful garb of spring, or the somber colors of autumn, and breathing the invigorating fresh air of the countryside or of the hills? Would he also possibly like to spend an hour or two chatting with his friends, enjoying the sympathy and understanding that friendship brings? Would he agree with us when we say

"Tis the Human Touch in this world that counts,
The Touch of Your Hand and Mine
Which means far more to the fainting heart
Than shelter and bread and wine.
For shelter is gone when the night is o'er;
And bread lasts only a day,
But the touch of the hand and the sound of the voice
Sing on in the soul alway."

And again we find Jesus busy healing and helping the sick when he met them with their needs on the Sabbath day. And very likely if he came across some one today to whom he could bring joy and health and happiness on Sunday, he would not go by, but find it a pleasure and a duty to

"Help somebody today, somebody along life's way
Let sorrow be ended, the friendless befriended
Oh, help somebody today."

And so Jesus our Master would today, as he did in those days of old, on Sundays, as well as on week days do what his Father in Heaven would have Him do. He would live up to the spirit of that beautiful song:

"I'll go where you want me to go, dear Lord
Over mountain, or plain, or sea,
I'll say what you want me to say, dear Lord,
I'll be what you want me to be."

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

The Best Use of Sunday

Oct. 20, 1940

Call to Worship

"This is the day the Lord has made. Let us be glad and rejoice in it."

Scripture Reading—Exod. 20:8-11; Mark 2:23-28.

Song "Safely Through Another Week"

Vocal Quartet "O Day of Rest and Gladness"

Prayer Song "Take Time to be Holy"

Sentence Prayers (Surely on the Lord's day each member can offer at least a sentence in prayer to the one who gave us the day.)

Sunday Observance

Find what laws exist in your community relating to the use of Sunday. What does the law say about commercial affairs? According to your opinion to what degree are they being enforced?

Bible verse finding—Matt. 12:9-13; Luke 24:17-27; John 20:24-29; John 20:19-23; Rev. 1:12-18; Rev. 22:17; Exod. 31:16; Exod. 23:12; Mark 6:2; Acts 13:44; Mark 3:3, 4; Exod. 35:2; Isa. 58:13, 14.

Discussion

1. What effect does shortening the hours of labor have on the use of Sunday?
2. Are Sunday amusements unfair to any class or group other than the worshippers in Christian churches?
3. Is it Christian to go to commercial amusements on Sunday?
4. How many services ought we to attend?
5. What shall we do Sunday night after service?
6. If our friends make it hard for us to use the day as we think it ought to be used, what shall we do?

7. Is it right or wrong to have things just a little nicer on Sundays than on other days?

Song "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus"

What principles should guide the Christian on Sunday observance?

1. Asking "Could Christ engage in this?"
2. Doing nothing which would be a stumbling block to others.
3. Abiding by Scriptural precept.
   a. 10 Commandments
   b. "The Sabbath was made for man."
   c. "Love the neighbor"—service.
   d. "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy."

Offering—(Before receiving the offering read 1 Cor. 16:2 and have the members realize that even this is a part of the program for God's day.)

Closing Song "It Pays to Serve Jesus"

Benediction

5. Remain standing for the leader's opening prayer.

6. Scripture reading by a Junior girl, Luke 11:1-10.

7. The Lord's Prayer in Poetry—by a Junior girl. "Mrs. Sarah J. Hale who was born in New Hampshire in 1790 and who died in 1879, wrote the Lord's Prayer in poetry."

Our Father in heaven,
We hallow Thy name!
May Thy kingdom holy
On earth be the same.
Oh, give us daily
Our portion of bread;
It is from Thy bounty
That all must be fed.

Forgive our transgressions,
And teach us to know
That humble compassion
Which pardons each foe;
Keep us from temptation
From weakness and sin,
And Thine be the glory
Forever — Amen.

Winona Echoes, 1926

8. Invite the men's quartete to sing "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" for the Juniors.

9. A Junior boy may read John Bunyan's Metrical Version of the Lord's prayer.

Our Father which in heaven art,
Thy name be always hallowed;
Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done;
Thy heavenly path be followed.
By us on earth as 'tis with Thee,
We humbly pray;
And let our bread us given be
From day to day.
Forgive our debts, as we forgive
Those that to us indebted are;
Into temptation lead us not;
But save us from the wicked's snare.
The Kingdom's Thine, the Power too,
We Thee adore,
The glory also shall be Thine
For evermore. Amen.

II. Study Period

Aim—To help our Juniors to pray the Lord's Prayer reverently and not just "say" it carelessly. To teach them the richness of this model prayer.

1. Introduction—We all know the Lord's Prayer. We say it in school and at many meetings, but we do not always pray it. We say it mechanically. That reminds me of the prayer-wheel. The prayer-wheel is very ancient, but I think there are some places where is is still used. People thought that the more prayers they offered about some one thing the more certain they were that God would hear them. Then they reasoned God can see as well as hear, so they wrote the prayers and tied them to the spokes of a large wheel. Then by turning the wheel they could say a thousand prayers a minute. They must have forgotten that Jesus said, "Use not vain repetition" and "They think that they shall be heard, for their much speaking." Let us not just say the Lord's Prayer, but let us pray it reverently.

(Leaders refer to the revised catechism for an outline of the Lord's Prayer.)

2. Read the prayer phrase by phrase and discuss each phrase. (The leader may ask the pastor to lead this discussion.)

3. All pray this prayer, reverently.

4. Sing in unison—"Lord, I Hear of Showers of Blessings." M. H. B. No. 202.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Refer to the October "News and Notes" for items of interest from our mission fields. Have the Juniors read these.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat from memory the verse of the month.
2. Pray the prayer of themonth.
3. Sing the song of the month.

JUNIOR CORNER

"TEACH US TO PRAY" Luke 11:1

Program for October 20, 1940

Old Testament Prayers

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—Pianist plays softly "O Worship the King"

2. Call to worship 1 Chr. 16:8, 11. "Give thanks unto the Lord, call upon His name, make known His deeds among the people. Seek the Lord and His strength, seek His face continually."

3. All bow heads in silent prayer

4. Stand and sing, "O Worship the King"

5. Scripture reading—(Let all Juniors follow this in their Bibles). Psalm 51:1-17.

6. Leader's prayer. All stand for this

7. Poem, by a Junior boy.

Praying

"To say my prayer is not to pray
Unless I mean the words I say
Unless I think to whom I speak
And with my heart His blessing seek,
Then let me, when I come to pray,
Not only heed the words I say;
But let me seek with earnest care
To have my thoughts go with my prayer"

—Selected

8. Solo from rear of church "Sweet Hour of Prayer"

II. Study Period

Aim—To help our Juniors to realize that prayer is a vital thing. To teach them that men of God come to Him in prayer about all things.

1. A Junior boy repeat from memory Ps. 55:1.
2. A Junior girl recite from memory Ps. 55:17
3. All Juniors read in unison Ps. 139:23, 24
4. The story of Abraham praying for Sodom, told by a Junior boy. Reference — Gen. 18:23-33
5. Discussion "What can we learn from Abraham's prayer" Question and answer
6. The Story of "The Prayer of Moses for his people" told by a Junior girl. Reference — Exodus 32:1-14, 31, 32.
7. Sing in unison the first two verses of "I Am Praying for You"
8. Read David's prayer of Thanksgiving 1 Cor. 29:10-19 by a Junior boy
9. Study together Daniel's prayer and confession Daniel 9:5, 6, 10, 15, 17, 19.
10. Solo Two verses of "Just As I Am"
11. A Junior girl may read Solomon's prayer for wisdom 1 Kings 3:6-14.
12. Leader's Heart Talk.—Help the children to see that we must come to our Heavenly Father with a spirit of sincerity, humility and gratitude when we come in prayer. That we must confess our sins in true repentance, that we should remember others in our prayers and that we should always praise our Lord for His manifold blessings.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Name the missionaries who are returning to India for the fourth time. Tell something interesting about their daughter.
2. Name the missionaries who are going to India for the first time, on the same ship.
3. Pray that they might have a safe and pleasant journey, and that God may bless them richly in their field of service.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Give the verse of the month from memory.
2. Pray the prayer of the month.
3. Sing the song of the month.

To the Leaders

Ask the Juniors to write out several prayers and bring them to the next meeting. These might then be used in both the worship service and the study period.

They should write out a prayer in which they confess some wrong that they have done and ask forgiveness. Write out another prayer in which they thank God for some special blessing. And a third prayer in which they ask God's help for some one in need. Or if you think best ask them to write one longer prayer in which these several thoughts are combined.

Eastern District Fall Rally

The young people of the Eastern District Conference are holding their Fall Rally at the Springfield Mennonite Church on Sunday, October 13, at 2:30 P. M. The speaker at this meeting will be Mr. Orrie Miller of Akron, Pa. Mr. Miller is of the Old Mennonite group, and is a member of the Mennonite Central Committee. His message is sure to be inspiring, and of great interest to all young people.

An unusual feature of the Rally will be a presentation of Bibles. At the annual convention on May 30, it was resolved that each society buy one or more Bibles to be sent to a missionary either for personal use, or for distribution. The Bibles, or the money to purchase them, will be brought to the Rally and dedicated there. This is to be a personal mission project for each society, and we pray that as the Word goes forth, souls will be won for Christ. We have his promise that, "it will not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I send it."

A Destructive Insect Used as Food

Many of our readers still remember how repugnant and nearly nauseating they felt when they first read or heard that the great prophet, John the Baptist, fed on locusts and wild honey, and some seem never quite to overcome this at mention of the subject. Yet, it is a fact that grasshoppers, especially the migratory locusts are extensively used as food and even as a delicacy among different people of eastern lands.

In Lev. 11 the children of Israel were forbidden to eat fowls that creep on all fours but were permitted to eat, of every flying, creeping thing going on all fours, those that have legs about their feet and leap upon the earth. This includes the grasshopper and what an accurate description it is. It proves that John did not trespass the food-laws of his people. The locust hopper is undoubtedly the most voracious and most destructive insect in existence, for on their migratory trips through the lands they devour not only the growing grain crops but all other vegetation as well, so that the description of the plague they brought upon Egypt when they came shooting along like hail and darkening the whole land is probably a true picture of their devastating work at its worst.

Those of us who have visited Salt Lake City will have seen the monument erected there to the Sea Gulls, in connection with which the Mormons have this story: When they had come to that section of country they put out several hundred acres of wheat. When the grain had reached a fair height and was beginning to look promising, the locusts came in large numbers. Then the people prayed and prayed to God for delivery from this plague, until suddenly swarms of sea gulls appeared and rid the wheat of the pest.

Entering into the cities of Tripoli, North Africa, are heavily loaded donkeys. They are taken to the market place where the drivers relieve them of large sacks filled with dried hoppers or locusts. And on the morrow many houses will regale themselves with grasshopper soup.

The rain doctor of the Hottentots, to the south of the equator, busies himself practicing the sacred customs of his tribe. Half starved drummers are beating the muffled rythm of the sacrificial rites. The poor blacks of the region are starving. The priest implores the gods to send them streams of blessings from the desert. And occasionally, when starvation is at its hight, swarms of locusts appear and the starved can appease their hunger in royal fashion, for what is more delicious than roasted grasshoppers.

The Bedouin of the desert has pitched his tent. In a hole in the sand burns a bright fire. It heats the sand round about. Now the burning sticks of wood are removed and a bag filled with live grasshoppers is placed into the hole, covered with a pile of hot sand on which the fire is started again. Thus the desert dweller prepares his favorite tit-bit, while the Arab of Bagdad counts a dish of stewed locusts with pomegranates among his choicest delicacies.

The people along the shores of the Red Sea boil the hoppers, dry them on their flat roofs, put them in bags and ship them to the cities as a staple food product. The Moor prefers them to fried pigeons. In Chinese cities they are being sold on the streets like peanuts. The natives of Australia dry them, grind them into flour, and bake cakes form them.

The locusts have been an important source of food supply, but have also worked damage and distress. Roman chronicles tell, how, on the north coast of Africa, immense swarms of them were occasionally driven by desert winds into the Mediterranean Sea, then washed on shore, where they formed walls four to five feet high, and the stench from their decomposition so polluted the air that much sickness ensued, and on one occasion several hundred thousand people died from the pest that followed. In the Italian city Ahmedabad at one time 100,000 people died during the migration of huge swarms of locusts. In the year 1876 the prairies west of the Mississippi were invested with such masses of the insect that the damage they caused was estimated at $200,000,000. Old timers tell how in South Russia on one occasion the hoppers appeared in such large numbers that they darkened the sun, rendered the green fields black like freshly broken sod, and left the trees stripped of all foilage as in winter.

Happiness grows at our own firesides, and is not to be picked in stranger's gardens. —Douglas Jerrold

SUCCESS

By Edgar DeWitt Jones

"Your column is concerned with 'successful living.' May I ask you to give us your definition of what constitutes success?" writes a reader.

This is a big order one way you look at it, and surprisingly simple viewed from a practical premise. It is a truism to say that most people think of success in material terms. Whosoever reaches a place of recognized usefulness and attains a competence is a success in the eyes of the community. Good as far as it goes, this conception of success stops too soon.

History shows that some who were hailed as huge successes by their contemporaries are numbered among the failures by virtue of the evil they did which lives after them, while others, judged pathetic failures by the generation in which they lived, are now, because of what they stood for, in the Hall of Lasting Fame.

With this paradox in mind I venture some standards of success which cut deeper than the popular idea of successful living.

To live nobly and to help others so to live, without an iota of self-esteem on your part—This is success!

To love sacrificially and be loved dearly by those who know you and understand—This is success!

To be willing to pay the price of an educated conscience and then follow it whithersoever it leads—This is success!

To shape one's life so that the place where he lives is lifted even a little Godward by his having lived there—This is success!

To love little children, and be patiently considerate of old age—This is success!

To respect personality, and show compassion for dumb animals; and to lessen pain and suffering whenever possible—This is success!

To earn a little and to spend a little less—This is success!

To give your best to the highest you know—This is success!

To put the Beatitudes into daily living—This is success!

To stake your life on the highest conception of God you can apprehend—This, too, is success!

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hanston, Kans. in the Dust Bowl region writes: We are enjoying moisture out this way. Had a nice, gentle rain nearly all day, Sunday, Sept. 22, and another good shower Tuesday evening. This looks very encouraging to the farmers, for it promises good wheat pasture.

A WORD TO CORRESPONDENTS

—Early in the year we sent out franked envelopes and postcards to about 90 correspondents whose address had been reported to us by the pastors or leaders of their churches. Some, though comparatively few, have been heard from in Correspondences, more of them in Jottings. But quite a large number have hardly been heard from, though an occasional Jotting from their church would be appreciated. Later, when we approach the Christmas season, a good many will wake up to make up for what they might have done in time. Then we may be flooded with their contributions. Would it not be well to start now? Short, meaningful Correspondences or just Jottings are solicited, especially from those in arrears.

—Mennonite Church, Ransom, Kansas.—We very much appreciate a copy of the first "Ransom Church Bulletin" which the pastor, Rev. Abr. Albrecht, kindly sent us. Of the many items it contains we cull the following: The pastor is greatly encouraged by a good attendance, and quotes a certain writer thus: "There is no limit of service and sacrifice a pastor is willing to put forth to meet the demands of an interested membership." He mentions a fine S. S. attendance averaging 82, with that of the church matching it 100 per cent or better.—On June 23 the church was privileged to welcome fourteen new members into its fellowship, eight through baptism on confession of faith and six through the right hand of fellowship.—Prayer meetings have not been attended so well, as some seem too busy; yet people take the time to attend basket ball games, farmer's meetings and others.

—First Mennonite Church of Geary, Okla., cooperating with the Christian and Methodist churches of the town, has union Sunday evening services. A musical program is arranged for one Sunday evening each month. It is very dry at Geary, though the most part of the state has had rain.

—Mrs. P. E. Frantz

—Alberta Community Church, Portland, Oregon.—In the neatly decorated Bulletin of this church, we find among other good things the following worthy of note: "A Study in Logic: 1. Whosoever believeth that Jesus is Christ is begotten of God."—2. Whatsoever is begotten of God overcometh the world." 3. He that believeth that Jesus is the son of God overcometh the world."

—Bethany Church, Freeman, So. Dak.—The Annual Mission and Harvest Festival will be observed Sunday, Oct. 6. A full day is planned, in the morning mission services, with the new Bible instructor at Freeman College, Rev. J. B. Toews as speaker. In the afternoon there will be a program by the local Mission Society. In the evening Rev. Toews will bring another message.

—Rev. Isaac Epp, 59 Fifth Ave., Swift Current, Sask., sent us a very meaningful and timely poem, entitled, "Come, Lord Jesus." We are truly grateful for this poem and are sure that many of the readers will appreciate and treasure it. It appears on page one of this "Mennonite."

—Bethel Menn. Church, Wolf Point, Mont.—The Young People of this church sponsored a Rally held Sunday, Aug. 25, with Rev. Albert Schultz, former pastor, now serving the Menn. church at Butterfield, Minn. as speaker. The subjects for discussion were: "Youth and Education", "Our Attitude to War", "Young People and Amusements." The young people here have posted passages of Scripture on the highway leading out of Wolf Point, and one large motto near the church reading, "Just one Life, It will soon be past. Only what's done for Christ will last."

—First Menn. Church, Reedley, Calif.—This progressive church has outlined its church program for every day in the week from now until June 25, 1941. Sunday brings the regular services, Sunday School, Worship service in the morning, C. E. and church service in the evening. German service first and last Sunday in month.—Monday, Pioneer's meeting, Worth While Circle, 1st Monday of month, Council meeting 2nd Monday of month.—Tuesday, Pioneers and Orchestra.—Wednesday, Y. P. Choir, "Gebetsstunde", Men's Chorus.—Thursday, Friendly Indians, Forum on Present Day Problems, Ladies' Mission Society.—Friday, Workers' meeting on 3rd Friday of month, socials.—Saturday, Jr. Mission Society last Saturday of month; 3:00 p. m. Catechism, social evenings.

—Bluffton College.—Mr. W. C. Ramseyer, member of the Board of Trustees and extensive potato farmer of Wayne county, Ohio, has made the college a donation of $4000.00. This will enable the school to remodel and redecorate the Chapel. The old platform will be replaced by a stage structure. The unsightly steel pillars will disappear. The seating capacity will be 325, the first floor will accommodate 285 and the balcony 40. The entrance to the assembly room will be adjoining the present main entrance to the building.

—Bethel College.—With new members recently gained the Student Christian Movement organization now has a membership of 270, about 80 per cent of the whole student body.—Dr. E. L. Harshbarger brings the message at the Bethel College Church Sunday, Sept. 29, in an address entitled, "The Conscription Bill and Its Implications".—Dr. E. Guy Cutshall, who has been assisting in the financial campaign since spring, and Rev. Felix Schrag, college field representative, have gone to California to visit the churches there in the interest of the campaign.

—"Church Messenger" of Eden Menn. Church, Schwenksville, Pa., Rev. Freeman Swartz, Editor.—Mrs. Lizzie K. Landis, her sister, Mrs. Katie Smoyer, and the pastor made a trip as far as St. Paul, Minn. On the way they visited Rev. W. S. Gottshall in Cleveland, O. and Rev. P. R. Schroeder, Mt. Lake, Minn. Rev. Gottshall can sit up and move around but cannot speak and see very well. He cannot read, but from the large porch of the apartment of his children, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Geiger, where he stays, he has a wide vision of the residential and park area of Cleveland.—At Mt. Lake the party had the privilege of joining the dinner on Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder's thirtieth wedding anniversary. Bro. Schroeder seems to be recovering nicely from his last operation.

—Second Menn. Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—PASTORAL MESSAGE: The end does not always justify the means but the end is ever more important than the means. The end of Paul's labors was to glorify Christ by winning men to Him and His Kingdom. Keeping this end constantly before him he ordered his whole life to fulfill this one purpose. What is our purpose in life and how well is our life organized to fulfill this purpose?

—First Menn. Church, Allentown, Pa.—The beautiful picture "Christ in Gethsemane" was presented to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Held, after they sold the store next door. Mrs. Held said, "I'll miss the church next door. When your windows were open I could hear much of the sermon and used to join in the singing."

America's Shame

America is a land where many blessings abound. For peace, for liberty of worship, and for higher living standards than other nations we all are thankful. But it is a land wherein there is much to shame it. Charles E. Gremmels, of New York, member of the Christian Business Men's Committee International, in a recent radio message called attention to the following facts: that 3,000,000 children are born annually of drunken parents, that 100,000 high school students are addicted to the use of marihuana, with its disastrous consequences; that more than 700,000 young people under twenty-one are enrolled in America's growing criminal army. He stated that, whereas the divorce ratio was one out of thirty-three marriages in 1870, it was one out of five in 1938. And he said that last year America spent $15,000,000,000 on crime, $1,053,000,000 on movies, $ 500,000,000 on tobacco, $1,000,000,000 in beauty shops, $400,000,000 on cosmetics but only $2,600,000,000 on public education and $3,500,000,000 on medical care. And all church expenditures of all religious bodies in 1936 amounted to just $550,000,000. America has drifted far from God, the Source of her blessings. —P. Evangel.

Christianity Facing a New Philosophy

Christ came into this world to free man from sin if he accepted Him as Savior and became His true follower. "If the Son shall make you free, you shall be free indeed." Democracy is one of the beneficent results of the influence of Christianity. America started out as a Christian nation, because its early settlers were mostly persecuted Christians from Europe. So it offered all newcomers freedom, not only religious but political, economic and social as well. Christianity tends to free the individual, and governments that put this idea into practice are known as democracies, i. e. governments where the people rule themselves, as in parts of Switzerland, or through their chosen representatives as with us. And the measure of freedom which the people of this country enjoyed for many years, when our government was run in a generally Christian spirit, was unparalleled.

But of late years the influence of a new philosophy, which makes the State instead of the individual of supreme concern, has been filtering in. And knowingly or unknowingly the people and the government have been affected by it. It has been noticed that the executive branch of the government is inclined to appropriate some of the power that is really vested in Congress, the representatives of the people. Thus we seem to have been tending toward the new philosophy, totalitarianism, which is turning parts of the world upside down. Totalitarianism in its various aspects, communism, fascism, nazism, holds to the principle that the state and its interests are supreme and the interests of the individual are subservient to the state. Here the individual and individual liberty count for little, all must give way to the state.

Thus it is plainly discernable that this philosophy goes directly counter to Christianity and greatly endangers it. This is a fact about which Christians need to concern themselves seriously, and do what they can to stem the tide. Because, in the measure in which this philosophy spreads, Christianity will find itself pushed back. Russia is a good illustration of this. And it is believed by many that it will take only about a generation to bring the fascist-nazi dominated countries to much the same condition. Gospel preaching would then become very difficult if not impossible. Our liberties, Christian liberties particularly, would be taken away; the mission fields would have to be abandoned, the churches would either be closed or turned into pagan temples, and the Bible would become a forbidden book. One shutters at the thought of such possibilities.

But God is still on the throne, and He will not let this thing go on unheeded. Nor may we Christians sit idle. We must do what we can. Though we cannot use the military sword to fight, we have the sword of the spirit, PRAYER. We must pray individually and unitedly. "For the effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." Jas. 5:16.—"The prayer of the upright is the Lord's delight."—"He heareth the prayer of the righteous." Prov. 15:8, 29.—We can do penitence for our sins and in every way draw nearer to God. When His chosen people did that, He was ready to help and lift their afflictions.—It becomes our duty as never before to use our moral suasion influence in helping put godly men into the offices of government, from the President and Governors down to the smallest local officer.—We can and must use our influence to bring the Bible back into our public schools, to inculcate the principles taught by Christ into the minds and hearts of the young. We must help suppress the mania of amusement and frivolity, of excessive sport and high living, and endeavor to live a simpler, more contemplating life, and expect great things from God. —T

FORGIVING.—"How oft shall we forgive?" asked Peter, "Till seven times?" Christ said, "I say not unto thee till seven times, but until seventy times seven." What great forgiveness was proffered by the Lord as He hung upon the tree. How tender was the love, how great was the compassion which cried, "Father, forgive them." And whom would Christ forgive? Even those who hated him without a cause. Such a spirit of grace staggers our conception. It is this that so amazes us as we stand at the foot of that cross. It is the cry of love for the dying thieves and the heart-pleas for the maddened mob who nailed Him there and who railed at Him. Such love and such pity never met before. Weigh the words well, "While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." "For a righteous man some would even dare to die," but Christ died for those who hated Him for His enemies and not for His friends.

Conscientious Objectors and the Conscription Act of 1940

by E. L. Harshbarger, Professor of History, Bethel College

Complete rules for the administration of the selective Service and training act are not yet available. As soon as they are ready, they will be rushed to ministers and interested parties. Meanwhile, the following resume of the legal position of the conscientious objector under the act may serve to clear up many difficulties in the minds of our constituency.

I. Registration: All men between 21 and 35 years inclusive are expected to register at their usual voting place, on October 16. The registration card asks primarily for your name and address and other identifying information. Claims for deferment or exemption are not listed on the card, because that opportunity comes later. These registration cards are delivered to the local Selective Service Boards, where they are numbered. A lottery held in Washington will then determine the order in which registrants will be called. Remember, registration has no bearing on your stand as a conscientious objector.

II. The Questionnaire: A detailed questionnaire will be sent later to registrants. This is where, among other things, you may state your conscientious objection to participation in military training and service. The registrant should be able to state clearly and briefly on this questionnaire the basis for his objection.

III. Inquiry and Hearing before the Local Board: Details of procedure at this step are not yet available, but the law provides that the conscientious objector, when called, is to appear before the local board for inquiry and hearing as to the sincerity of his convictions. Careful study of the reasons for one's convictions is important.

IV. The Assignment to Services: Those whose convictions against war are found to be sincere may be assigned to either of two types of service according to the law. First, the board may assign you to non-combatant service, that is, service under military command which does not necessitate the taking of life. A full definition of this term has not yet been given, but judging from the first world war, it will be a definite part of the war machine and subject to military orders. Secondly, for the first time in our history, the right of performing civilian service is recognized by the law. The great majority of Mennonites who wish to be as completely outside the war machine as possible, will no doubt elect to do this type of work. And the law provides that if the individual has a conscience against non-combatant work, the board shall assign him to this civilian service. The kinds of work recognized by the government under this civilian service are still to be defined. Our peace committees are now at work on this problem, and information will be forthcoming as soon as it is released by the government. It is important to remember that two types of service are recognized by the law, one under the military, the other under civilian direction.

V. Appeal: Persons who feel that justice has not been secured before the local board may appeal to the Appeal Board and the Department of Justice. Rules for this procedure will also be forthcoming.

VI. Refusal to register carries with it a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment or $10,000 fine or both.

VII. There is also a similar penalty for any person "who knowingly counsels, aids, or abets another to evade registration or service." This does not prevent ministers from counseling their members who are conscientious objectors, because the position of the conscientious objector is specifically recognized under the law. In other words, any one who conscientiously follows the provisions of the act need not fear any penalty.

WHAT DO OUR FACES SHOW? Some one has aptly said, "Our faces are like billboards, showing mental conditions, dispositions, and physical conditions." They are mental and emotional barometers that give us away. Even children are showing in their faces the evidences of contentment or discontentment. Can it be possible that parents are permitting their children to bear the burdens of the home to such an extent that their faces show distress? Yes, one would not have to go very far to find illustrations of this. The atmosphere of the home and its influence stamp their imprint upon its inmates. The apostle Paul said, "I bear in my body the mark of the Lord." We may assume from this that in spite of some physical handicap from which he probably suffered, the peace and happiness that were in his heart showed plainly on the outside. True Christians usually let their countenance reveal the characteristics of their Lord and remind others of Him. Once in a while one can see a face with a spiritual glow that speaks volumes, a radiant spiritual countenance that bespeaks the indwelling of the spirit. "A man's wisdom makes his face shine and the boldness of his face shall be changed." Eccl. 8:1. —T

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

A FAREWELL THOUGHT TO OUR MANY FRIENDS

As we go out to our field of work our prayers extend ahead to India and back to you our many friends at home. We pray that God's richest blessings may come to all of you and may the Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ sustain you in all the experiences which may come to you, whether they be experiences of joy or experiences of trial.

As we go out to be missionaries in India, we do so as your representatives. We go for you, under the auspices of our General Conference. For this reason we feel that you, as friends and supporters, are entitled to know what we believe. Therefore we submit:

In II Cor. 5:18-19 we read. "And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation: To wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them, and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation." In accordance with this we believe that God is reconciling the world unto Himself and it is our privilege to give ourselves as instruments in the hands of God and thus do our part in the ministry of reconciliation.

In Acts 4:12 we read. "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." This is our conviction too. We shall try in every way we can to hold this one great name—Christ—before all those among whom we work. Furthermore, by the help and guidance of God, we hope to be able to so live, that our lives will conform to the teachings of Jesus.

In these days which are so darkened by the great clouds of war, it is our duty and privilege to bring the "Light of the world" (John 8:12) to those souls who are wandering and struggling in the darkness of sin and superstition. We are praying that God may give us grace and strength and wisdom to so witness to the saving power of our Lord and Savior, that many souls may be won for Him and that they may experience that peace that passeth all understanding and which only God can give.

Yours in His service, Harold and Ruth Ratzlaff

TWO NEW WORKERS OFF TO INDIA

With the two old workers, Bro. and Sister P. W. Penner, two new ones go out, namely Bro. and Sister Harold Ratzlaff. The Penners have already published a brief word of farewell, and here is also one from the Ratzlaffs. (These four workers will leave from Los Angeles on Oct. 11, on the S. S. President Taft.)

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION AND BUSINESS

Is there a responsibility on the part of Mennonites toward economic readjustment?

Historically always, primarily, an agricultural people we have shyed away from business as something in which an honest man could hardly indulge. We have said, practically, that a person could not be spiritually alive and economically sound. At the same time we have said that God made all things, and economics deals primarily with things—the things which give man satisfaction—the things which satisfy.

Odd, isn't it, that both religion and economics are striving toward the same thing—to help man find what satisfies? what satisfies longest?

If there is any spiritual dynamic in the Mennonite conception of mutual helpfulness, as expressed in such institutions as the Mennonite Aid, the Bethel Hospital and others like it, our missionary activities —if it is desirable and demonstrably effective to teach people in foreign lands the importance of simple honesty, of square dealing, of tolerance in human relations, then it would seem that in this land, which so badly needs such confidence in human relations, such implicit respect for a man's promise, we should reach out and make our contribution also.

But do we? How often do parents advise their children to study economics, labor economics, money and banking, personnel management, business organization, international trade and finance, and so on, in order that, knowing intimately how business does work (and by what process such chaos as we enjoy today comes to be!), they may the more effectively bring to bear upon a ruthless, joyless world of business the secret of truly great living, and the joy of correct, well-adjusted human relations?

So long as we advise—or let our children be advised—in the selection of life work and the training for life work on the basis of how they can make the most money, and so long as preaching and missionary work alone are considered the only types of unselfish, self-giving life service, so long we need not be surprised if someone else, with less insight into the real difficulties which face us, takes and keeps the reins of economic control.

If the teachings of Jesus are really meant to work, surely they should have some application in business and industry!

"So let your light SHINE!" —Anonymous

It is very sad for a man to make himself servant to a thing by the hydraulic pressure of excessive business. I would not like to be merely a great doctor, a great lawyer, a great minister, a great politician—I should also like to be something of a man.

A SERMON

GETTING ALONG WITH OURSELVES AND OTHERS

By J. N. Smucker, Pastor, Bethel College Church

We have learned to get along quite well with nature. Temperature has been pretty well controlled with our furnaces and air-conditioning. We import the foods we eat from all corners of the earth instead of depending on what we grow only locally. Irrigation turns deserts into gardens.

We have very little trouble getting along with animals. That used to be a major problem. The small insects now seem more bothersome, but these we are learning to control by spraying and other methods. Our mastery over animal life is quite complete.

We have made large use of the metals and are still pretty well in control of our machines. Occasionally they do get out of hand and destroy us, but on the whole we are still master of our inventions.

Yes, we have harnessed the forces of nature, subjugated animals, and overcome all sorts of handicaps, but in one great field we have not been so successful; we have not fully mastered the art of getting along with people—both ourselves and others. In fact, all our progress in bringing the world closer together seems to have increased this human problem.

The most troublesome of all "human relations" problem is not how to get along with others, but rather how to get along with ourselves. Moody once made the statement that he had more trouble with himself than with any other person he had ever met. That is our common experience if we will admit it. Inside of each of us there dwell two beings. Stevenson illustrated this in a way that can never be forgotten by anyone who reads "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde." Paul dwells on the fierce struggle between the "flesh and the spirit", and the difficulty he experienced in having the two dwell together in harmony. There is for all of us the I and the Me.

Our greatest problem is not adjusting ourselves to the circumstances about us, nor even in adjusting ourselves to the people about us. Our major problem is how to get along with ourselves; the adjusting of this I and Me relationship. Too often we blame circumstances, or others,—friends, husbands, wives, business associates, when all the while the major trouble is with ourselves. We must first establish harmony within the borders of our own souls, solve our own inner problems and conflicts, then we can get along with our surroundings and other people. What internal wranglings and quarrelings and mutual hatreds we do have to contend with as the I and the Me struggle with each other. Sometimes we seem not so much human beings as a civil war raging within us. When some one cynically tells us what is the matter with his neighbors and the world in general he may not tell us anything new about the world but he does tell us a great deal about himself.

The fault dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves that we are underlings.

In trying to bring about inner harmony we do well to heed the words of Goethe "Beloved brother, let us not forget that a man can never get away from himself." Someone asked an Englishman why he drank, and the reply was "because it is the quickest way out of Manchester." The Prodigal son tried this method and it was only when he came to himself that he solved his problem. We cannot get away from ourselves, for at every turn we bump into ourselves.

There are but three possibilities in this I and Me relationship. One is to continue through life in the state of inner civil war. But no one wants that. A second possibility is to allow the lower nature to dominate the higher. But as the animal nature is put in charge we gradually become more beastial. The third and only right solution is to have the spiritual in charge, the higher over the lower. To accomplish this there must be an alliance between the real self and the Christ, for continuing in our own strength the struggle is too much for us.

Henry Drummond was riding over a mountainous road listening to the driver relating his ability to gain the spiritual mastery over himself. He asked Drummond what he could do. Drummond replied, "suppose this team of horses should begin running away and get out of control as they sent us careening around the mountain curves; and suppose you knew that I was the most expert horseman in the realm, well able to handle any horses however wild or out of control, what would you do?" "Why sir," was the answer, "I woud instantly put the reins in your hands." "Certainly", replied Drummond, "and why not put the reins of your life into the hands of the great expert in human nature. You cannot overcome by yourself, why not let Christ do it"? There lies the real solution. This means the conquest of fear and discouragement. This means we are able to overcome bad habits because we cut off their food supply and give them no sustenance. Feeding on the food of Christ is no diet for bad habits. Our text says "love thy neighbor as thyself." "As thyself" means that we are to have a love for the spiritual within us, the divine nature placed there by God. We will thus put the spiritual expert in charge, even Christ our Lord. Only so will we have inner harmony and peace; only so will we be in friendly relations with ourselves for we are in constant control of the Christ.

This really solves the problem of getting along with others. If we have given ourselves fully to Christ then we can give ourselves fully to others. Not that there will be no more difficulties or problems in our relations with others, but by loving others as ourselves and loving ourselves enough that we put Christ in charge we are well on the way of successfully getting along with others.

We will thus take a real interest in others and a deep concern for their best welfare. We will learn how to take criticism and not lose our temper. For as someone has said, "my critics are the unpaid watchmen of my soul". If their criticisms are correct we profit by them. If they are false then we can go on our way and "let the little sparrows twitter."

With Christ in control we will use His method in dealing with others. We will turn the other cheek and go the second mile. We will overcome evil with good and love our enemies. Even enemies cannot long stand this treatment. We draw the power needed for this way of life from the Christ in control.

Getting along with ourselves and others then resolves itself into this: we learn the art of self-mastery by giving ourselves to the Master. Then with a soul rich and deep and full of the Master's spirit, we mingle with others, considering each one as also a child of God and with a genuine concern and love for all men, bearing no malice or ill-will, recognizing no slights, taking no offense, dealing with all in the spirit of Christ; loving my neighbor as myself. This is made possible only by first loving the Lord our God with all our heart, soul, mind and strength.

The Boyhood of Jesus

Luke 2:40-52

Introduction

The second chapter of Luke covers the period from the birth of Christ until the age of thirty when He began his public ministry. Luke's record of Jesus' childhood and young manhood—while the longest of the Gospels—is quite brief. The apostles did not know Jesus until the beginning of his public ministry, so this period did not figure in their ater preaching. The first thirty years of Jesus' life —spoken of as "the hidden years in Nazareth"—were of local interest only. They were years of development, of preparation. Those who seek a "short cut" preparation in our day, for the Christian ministry should consider well Jesus' preparation.

Jesus Growing up in the Home v 40

Jesus grew up in the home of his devout parents n Nazareth. They were deeply interested in the services of the house of God. Home religious devotion was not omitted. God entrusted His Son into a godly home and family. Jesus grew up without taint of sin and with the fruits of the Spirit existing in Him. The grace of God was revealed in singular endowments of mind and spirit. He developed mentally and physically as a normal boy and into young manhood.

The Boy Jesus at the Passover Feast vs 41-45

When Jesus was twelve years of age and so "a son of the law," he went to the passover feast with his parents. This was probably the most significant event in his silent years. Doubtless everything related to the passover took on a new and deeper meaning for Him. It must have impressed Him wonderfully to mingle with the great feast-time throngs in the magnificent temple. His great interest in the house of God, and His understanding of its significance, constrained Him to tarry there when his parents started on the homeward journey.

The Boy Jesus with the Doctors in the Temple vs 46-50

On the third day after starting for home, Jesus' anxious parents found Him with the eminent and highly learned rabbis (doctors) in the temple. He, at twelve, was capable of discussing religious subjects with these doctors in an astonishingly intelligent manner (v47). His deeply penetrating understanding made a profound impression. He revealed a deep insight into spiritual truths, such as possibly the doctors scarcely possessed and understood. He was there to learn. He was "hearing" and "asking" questions.

Jesus was surprised that his parents should have been anxiously searching for Him (v49). There is no note of apology in his reply, in his question, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" For Him the temple was his Father's house, and He felt that He belonged there where "the things of the Father", spiritual truths were especially considered. The boy Jesus was already conscious of his mission in the world and that He is the Son of God, that God is His Father.

Further Years in Nazareth vs 51, 52

Jesus returned to Nazareth and was "subject" to his parents. He doubtless helped Joseph in his carpenter work and Mary in her work and in doing so He was truly "about His Father's business." He grew physically, mentally and socially. This quiet life was a good preparation for his later work in his ministry. He constanty kept in mind the place he had in God's plan. He grew into the perfect man.

A Radiogram from China by Sister Marie J. Regier, on October 3, reads: "PEKING, CHINA, SAFE." This, of course, includes the Wuethrich couple also. Thank the Lord! —P. H. Richert

What Can Missionaries Do to Help the Ministers in Their Work

By Davil C. Wedel

Read at the Spring Ministers' Meeting

The work of the minister and the missionary is essentially the same though the method may have to be different. It is the work of both to bring individuals to Christ for His redemptive touch. The labor of bringing stained and sin-soiled men and women to the Redeemer belongs to both. The work of both is that of evangelism and education. These two belong together. Evangelism is birth. Education is growth. Conversion is not enough. There must be instruction in the new way of life. The converted man or woman is eager to learn, eager to grow. There must be those who guide this growth. Or perhaps we should put the matter just the other way and speak of education and evangelism, and then after evangelism more instruction, for the loyal teacher prepares the individual for the acceptance of Christ—that is education. But after that preparation he urges a decision upon the individual—that is evangelism.

The work of the minister and missionary began with the Master himself when He said, "Follow Me." The technique for evangelism for both the missionary and the minister is just as simple as it was with Jesus. Our work lies in persuading men to listen to the call of the Master. We speak of it as persuading them to listen to the Gospel Message. Then the message, after they have heard it, sinks into their hearts. Through the moving of the Holy Spirit they yield to the call and give themselves to Christ. This is our work in a broad general outline.

How then can the missionary help the minister in his work? Charles R. Brown has said that there are three essentials that are required of a minister. He must learn to think, to speak and to live. When Jesus began his ministery, he taught as one having authority and not as the scribes and pharisees. The people were astonished at what Jesus was saying. They asked each other whether this man was not the carpenter's son. During those eighteen years between Jesus' first appearance in the temple as a twelve year old and the time of the beginning of his ministry Jesus learned to think. During those years he listened. He listened to the great spirits of the past as they spoke from the books of the law and the prophets. He listened to the men of his own day, "asking and answering questions." But above all He listened to the voice of God as He heard it in His own soul. From these years when he listened there came to Him clarity of thought and a great understanding of the heart of man as well as a profound understanding of the heart of God. As He came to know more fully the heart of man and God He came also to know how to think with man and with God.

It seems to me that in a special way the missionaries can help us to think more clearly. The missionary is constantly confronted with those who do not believe. It may be that this is due to their ignorance and perhaps also to their skepticism. Consequently when the missionary stands before an audience he makes his message vital, gripping, setting forth in simplicity and clarity the essentials of the gospel. His message is one of simplicity and sincerity. He would not dare say anything which he has not thought through himself. He has his reason for his belief and his statement of it. How vague over against this is at times the message of the minister. It is something he has heard, or which someone has said, but which he perhaps has not thought through. The missionary does not dare do such a thing. The skeptics in the audience might laugh him to scorn. If he could not defend himself he would be branded as one who himself was not sure of his message. Shall we as ministers then not learn to be as simple and precise as the missionary? Shall we indulge in speculations which we cannot prove and which belong entirely in the realm of the unknown? We can learn to think clearly as the missionary has taught himself to think.

Again the missionary can help us to learn to speak. He has to speak in such a way that he is persuasive. To win the hearer to his message he has a wide knowledge of the scriptures.

I suppose that most of us have been somewhat ashamed at times when we realized how little we actually knew our Sacred Scriptures. And yet it is the tool with which we work. My experience with missionaries has convinced me that they are Scripture-minded. They had to learn their Scripture verse by verse as we do, yet their tongue was trained in their use. Their minds were steeped in the contents of the Bible.

Moreover by the fact that they go to a foreign land, to a strange people they became students of human nature. They observe the people with whom they work and study their habits, their reactions. They discover what moves their hearts. They see what possesses the minds of the people to whom they minister. Because they come to know people they can also speak to them. They can see through to the heart and move it. We must learn to speak like that.

The missionary can help us again because he has learned to live. It is perfectly obvious that a missionary's life is his message. The story of the missionary who had come to a village to ask whether the people there had ever heard of Jesus received the answer that he had lived there a number of years ago, is still true. A missionary had lived in this particular village and worked quietly. The missionary lives for a purpose, namely to preach Christ. How we live here at home! We are out of breath half the time running to get somewhere else. We, too, must learn with singleness of purpose.

Now let us turn from this indirect way in which the missionary helps the minister to a more direct way. It will be quite evident that what is said is merely suggestive and perhaps suggestive with a question mark at times. We turn then to think of the relationship between the minister and the missionary when the missionary is here on furlough. The furlough as we all know is a time for rest. But part of this time is also set aside for the visitation of the various churches of the conference. The objective of this visitation is for the purpose of telling about the work that is being done in a particular field.

We all know in what a splendid way this has been done. We can recall how even as children we enjoyed these reports of the missionary. To be of still greater help to the minister in creating interest in missions and to help the work in general it would be helpful not only to bring a gospel message and give a report of the work, but to point out the needs of the church at home. Let the missionary tell the home church what in their experience they consider to be essential in the church. My point is this. If the need of the church at home can once be so presented that the church itself feels the need, the church will also come to see the need of the mission field. The minister can continue to push a church program which he feels would meet the needs of the people but it will not be accepted unless the people feel the need also. He can try to make the people conscious of the need but they still feel that he is trying to put on an elaborate program. But when the missionary comes and says—these are the needs of a church as we have found them in India, in China, we believe these are also the needs of the church in America, then the picture takes on different proportions. For example, if Missionary P. W. Penner should tell us that in their work they had found that the only way they could bear up under their responsibility, that the only way that they had found the necessary strength and courage for their task, was through prayer, and then should turn to us as the church and say: "My friends, in your life you need a period of prayer. You could form prayer circles in this church where you pray for each other and for yourself. That would not only help you as an individual, but it would help the church. Why don't you ask the help of your pastor to get such prayer groups started." Or if Missionary John Thiessen would tell us of his work in the schools, the work with young people and show how rich and rewarding such work is and can be and then should turn to us as a church and say: "How much effort do you as a church devote to your young people? I believe your church program is designed too much for the old people. It does not include enough of interest for the young people. The catholic church is not making that mistake. Out of every hundred dollars it spends, eighty dollars is spent on youth. Only twenty is spent for adults. In our protestant churches we spend only twenty dollars out of every hundred to teach boys and girls and to win them for Christ. The eighty are on adults. You as a church need to make greater investments in your young people." Such a statement would help the pastor in determining where he could place the most emphasis in his programs and would at the same time prepare the people for such a change. My point in this paragraph has been that the missionary can help the minister by pointing out in general what the churches at home need. By seeing the need at home we come to see even better the need abroad.

I am inclined to believe that this method would also operate well in regard to the financial side of the church. When a missionary comes home and says, "We need more money to carry on our work" it does not make a very great impression upon us and we are consequently not moved to give very generously. We are not inclined to give to any cause until we come to understand the need. If the missionary could show how additional money could be used to splendid advantage in the work of the home church, I believe he would at the same time plead the cause of better financial support for the mission enterprise. He could cause the people to say, "Well, if we need so much for our own church, how much more money must it take to carry on the work of evangelization which our missionaries are doing.

Again the missionary can be of help to the minister by making known to him the methods he used in his work. We have a typical example of this in one of the papers presented to this conference about a year ago. One of our mission workers spoke of his methods in carrying on the work of evangelism. The various methods were pointed out that were used. The same could be done in regard to visitation. He could tell us what made the call in the home of the non-christian effective and helpful. How did the missionary prepare the way for the presentation of the claim which the Lord Jesus has on each life. He could tell us further of the presentation of the message. How does the missionary maintain the spiritual glow in his heart when there are so many discouraging circumstances. What methods does he use to keep the altar fires burning brightly in his own house and soul. Perhaps we can summarize this point by saying that the missionary can help us see how he works. Incidentally, I believe all of us would be helped if we as ministers were less a closed book and would let our co-workers see something we have done and how we have done it.

There is another way the missionary can help the minister. On the many occasions when the minister brings a message emphasizing missions, whether that be the first Sunday of the month or at less regular intervals, the minister needs materials for such sermons which the missionary can supply. There is, of course, no question that the Bible is the source book for missions but the minister needs also the information about what is being done in the field supported by the church. In part, this need is met by the articles that appear in the church papers and the mission numbers of these papers. In addition, the missionaries in China are now sending out issues of a small paper called the China-Home Bond. It contains news items and reports of what has taken place on the field. In the issues so far appear a complete chronicle of all the important events of the years 1938 and 1939. Whatever form these reports from the mission field may take, it is certain that no one else save the missionary can bring these reports.

While we are talking about material for the minister's mission sermon perhaps it would not be out of place to point to what one other mission board, the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church is doing. It has sent out a folder about missionaries who are ready to go to their respective fields just as soon as funds can be provided for this purpose. On each of the these pages there is a picture of the missionary and a short sketch of his life. Here is a short paragraph: "A dozen years or more ago, Dr. Frank S. Beck, missionary to Bolivia, was on a speaking tour in America. His itinerary took him through South Dakota, and he stopped for a night or two with a pastor friend in the town of Kidder. At supper he was telling of his experiences in the mountain country around La Paz, of the Bolivian Indians and their needs, of the mental and spiritual hunger of these people. A young son of the family listened. . . . "I would like to be a missionary like you" said the lad half aloud. If anyone heard the remark, they soon forgot it. But Robert Leslie Dunn did not forget!

I have thought since receiving this folder that the missionaries and the mission board could help the minister and the people of our churches by issuing such a folder about the work of our missionaries, probably one folder with pictures for each field.

Let me close by mentioning just one other way in which the missionary can help the minister and that is by the contacts and fellowship with the minister. In these contacts the missionary should not hesitate to speak of the experiences that have been his as of his own personal life and faith and hope. From such fellowship there comes help for personal living. The minister gains new hope, new zeal, and inspiration for his work from such contacts and fellowship.

Diamond Jubilee Anniversary

At he First Mennonite Church in Philadelphia, Pa.

Following is the substance of a letter by Rev. J. J. Plenert, pastor of this church which we are glad to bring in THE MENNONITE.

"In order that a larger number might participate in our Jubilee Celebration the following plan has been adopted.

Sunday, Oct. 20 to Sunday, Oct. 27—Dr. J. E. Hartzler.
Saturday, Oct. 26—Anniversary Dinner. Strawbridge and Clothier. Tickets $1.25.
Sunday, Oct. 27—Home Coming Day
(Offering will go towards our new furnace)
Sunday, Nov. 3—Youth Day. Youth at work in church.
Sunday, Nov. 10—Conference Day. Vesper Service.
Sunday, Nov. 17—Community Day
Sunday, Nov. 24—Thanksgiving Day.
Sunday Dec. 1—Music Day. Vesper Service.
Sunday, Dec. 8—Church Council Day.
Sunday, Dec. 15—Family Day. Vesper Service

But our Jubilee Celebration would be a failure if we only depended on the committees' and the program. We need all members and friends of our church to be with us and help make this celebration a success. Therefore, we come to you with this appeal and ask you to enlist actively in this celebration so as to make this a Spiritual blessing to the church, yourself, and the community.

Would you enlist in the following:

1. Daily pause for prayer and ask God to bless you, the church, and our celebration.
2. Feel a personal responsibility to our friends and inactive members. Pray for them and invite them to our celebration.
3. Pray, the Lord willing, that at this Seventy-Fifth join our church.
4. After prayerful consideration fill out the enclosed cards and mail same to the responsible committees.

PRAY, SPEAK, and WORK for the Jubilee and TOGETHER, with God's help, make this celebration a wonderful blessing to all.

—Sincerely, J. J. Plenert

MARRIED

—SALTZ—UNRUH.—On Sept. 4, 1940, Lee H. Saltz and Lavina Unruh in the Johannestal Church, by Rev. J. M. Regier. The couple will live at 1615 N. Market St., Wichita, Kansas.

—EWERT—PLETT.—On Sept. 20, 1940, Ben Ewert and Clara Plett in the Johannestal Church, by the pastor, J. M. Regier. The young people's address is Hillsboro, Kansas.

—ISAAK—WIEBE.—June 25, 1940, at Aberdeen, Idaho, by Rev. Phil A. Wedel, Carl Wiebe and Freda Isaak.

—LEIGHTON—MARTIN.—August 16, 1940, Edgar Leighton and Florence Martin at Aberdeen, Idaho, by Rev. Wedel.

—BEAM—COLBORN.—August 23, 1940, at Aberdeen, Idaho, by Rev. Wedel, Whitney Beam and Roberta Cobborn.

—PETERS—BARTEL.—August 27, 1940, at Aberdeen, Idaho, Albert Peters and Susie Bartel, by Rev. Wedel.

—LATSHAW—MOSEMAN.—On Sept. 14, at the Hereford Menn. Church, Bally, Pa., took place the wedding of Miss Grace N. Moseman, daughter of Jesse Moseman, Clayton, to Russell C. Latshaw, son of John Latshaw, Congo. The quiet ceremony was performed by Dr. E. E. S. Johnson, Pastor.

—PANKRATZ—RICHERT.—On Sept. 27, at the Alexanderwohl Church, Goessel, Kansas, Miss Margaret Pankratz was united in marriage to Mr. Sam Richert by the father of the groom, Dr. P. H. Richert. Sermonettes were given by the Reverends P. H. Unruh and C. C. Wedel. The couple will reside at Newton, Kansas, where Mr. Richert is engaged in the printing business.

NOTE.—Pastors or others reporting weddings should by all means state, as definitely as possible, where the young people intend to live. Otherwise THE MENNONITE cannot be sent to them as a gift.

—A Bill before Congress against Conscription—Through Representative Vito Marcantonia, New York, the "American Peace Mobilization" organization has introduced a bill to repeal the Conscription Law. The contention is: Compulsory military training in time of peace dislocates the nation's economic life, increases the cost of living, leads to want and privation, is not justified by any condition now facing this country. The opposition thus inagurated by the A. P. M. is to be carried throughout the country by more than 250 Community Peace Councils that have been set up in 40 states.

This and That

DISTRICT PAPERS:

A copy of each issue of the Western District Tidings is being filed in the All-Mennonite Historical Library at Goshen, Indiana. It has been suggested that this paper be made a bi-monthly; it is now issued three times a year. Mr. William Juhnke, who has very efficiently edited it thus far, was recently reappointed as editor.

The Workers' Exchange of the Pacific District now appears in a 7½ by 8 in. size and has 8 pages full of vital news and articles.

PRAYER CALENDAR:

Have you tried to become acquainted with the persons for whom you pray? Dr. A. Warkentin's book, Who's Who Among The Mennonites is excellent for this. Use the copy in your home or in your church library.

PEACE PROJECTS:

The young people of the Buhler, Kans., church have organized the Buhler Mennonite Service Society for the purpose of engaging in peace projects. The registration blank and the project sheet put out by them are worthy of study. Types of projects listed are: illness, fire, storm, floods, relief, construction, educational, sanitation, conservation. Mr. Ed. Kaufman, principal of Buhler High School, is the chairman of the society.

ARE YOU A FIFTH COLUMNIST?

Do you have a fifth columnist in your personality that is hindering you? A good character or personality must have a good foundation, namely, faith in Christ Jesus. We should have the columns of honesty, sincerity, self-control, love for fellowmen. But if we also have a fifth column of selfishness, jealousy, or perhaps greed we are hindering ourselves and are not accomplishing the good that we could be doing if this fifth column were not a part of our personality. In fact a fifth column such as this can undermine our character and destroy what we are trying to accomplish for Christ and His kingdom. But how can we get rid of it? First of all, we must really want to get rid of it. Jesus has the power to help if we but ask Him. What blessings we lose only because we fail to call for them! It is like the story of the negro who upon being questioned as to how he liked the new minister replied, "Why he asks the Lord for things the other preacher didn't even know He had." —Helen A. Penner

Report of the All-Mennonite Young Peoples' Retreat at Quaker Haven

Aug. 5 to Aug. 11, 1940

(Concluded from last week)

"The course—'Christian Missions' under the inspirational leadership of Rev. John Thiessen, had for its purpose, 'To acquaint ourselves with and to increase the appreciation of Christ's work.' Before coming to the 1940 Retreat we had the impression that missions were thousands of miles away, pertaining almost entirely to native folk; others took in a little more territory, inasmuch as missions takes in everyone coming under the last orders of Christ—'Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.' Discussions, however changed the opinions of most of the Retreaters when they associated Christian missions today with the life, personality, and teachings of Jesus.

Class discussions with the purpose of Christian missions constantly in mind led from the definition of missions (the sharing with others regardless o race, color, social stability, or nationality—the bes that we have), to the reasons for missions, to the spread of missions starting from the life of Chris to after the Reformation and finally taking up missions in India itself, as to the history, people, ministry, and the missionaries in service there. Th class wishes to thank Rev. Thiessen for the enlightenment which he has given them and wishes him the greatest of success in his service to India."

We were also privileged to have Miss Cecili Sheppard, travelling worker of the Fellowship o Reconciliation, on the Retreat faculty. Her cours —very important in these days—was "New Testament Teaching on War." Miss Esther Bohn, th only retreater from Pennsylvania, was selected t report on this course. Her report follows:—

"At the time Jesus lived, the Jews followed th teaching of Moses, an eye for an eye, and a toot for a tooth. The Jews believed it was wrong t kill a friend—that was disobeying one of God commandments—but they saw no wrong in conquering their enemies by force. Because of the dictatorship of Rome, they eagerly awaited the arrival of a Savior, who, as some thought, would bring heavenly forces with Him to kill the enemies of the Jews. Others believed that this Savior would organize forces among the Jews in order to take the power away from Rome. But Jesus did none of these things. Instead, He went about teaching, healing and preaching. He taught his followers to love their enemies, to obey God rather than men, and to forgive those who wronged. When James and John asked for high positions in Jesus' earthly kingdom, Jesus told his disciples that He came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many. The people must have been astonished at these new ideas. They had expected to make Him king. Wasn't He going to deliver them from the rule of Rome? People came from far and wide to hear this man teach and to be healed. In this way Jesus showed that there is a stronger force than violence—the way of love. . . . Because He loved not only the Jews, but everyone, He could not take the world by force, but won it by love.

It would have been easy for Jesus to follow Satan's way when He was tempted—to start an earthly kingdom, but He took the harder way. Today it is still hard to follow the way of love and peace and to stand up against ridicule. It is harder to follow Jesus' way in time of war than to follow the majority who shoulder guns.

What Jesus would do today was discussed. One situation considered was of a man who had no job but had a family to support. He was offered a job which directly helped the war. Should he accept the position? The decision finally arrived at was; no—Jesus would not have taken that work. Today Jesus would not in any way help to further the war, either directly or indirectly.

The evening sessions were unusually good. The first night was a fellowship program, ending with a consecration service in charge of Miss Donita Hartzler. Mr. Van Zandt gave a moving address on Tuesday night. By means of address and moving pictures, he showed the plight of young people in many lands, especially in China. As a result of the address, a jar was placed on the table by the door of the dining hall for contributions for China relief. After enjoying the rich meals, the retreaters placed a few pennies into the jar—realizing that 3 cents will keep a Chinese alive for a day. Rev. Thiessen gave a most interesting illustrated lecture on his work in India on Wednesday evening. Thursday, Miss Sheppard and Dan West discussed the problems of peace, war, and conscription with the retreaters and the large number of guests who came for the evening. On Friday evening the retreaters gave a most delightful service of choral and instrumental numbers. The chorus and orchestra under the direction of Miss Niswander sang and played in a professional manner. There were also some outstanding solos and group numbers. Saturday night there was a campfire, wiener roast, lighted trail service, and campfire dedication service, directed by Rev. Bohn and Miss Niswander.

The Retreat closed Sunday noon with a fellowship circle after the noon meal. All were reluctant to leave the spot where they had enjoyed so many moments of happy fellowship and inspiration.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

MAIN TOPIC: DEBUNKING THE LIQUOR ADS.

Prov. 20:1; Ps. 119:29-33; Eph. 5:15-21
for October 27, 1940

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Lead on, O King Eternal", "Yield not to temptation", "Dare to be a Daniel."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Statistics on "Drinking and its Effects"
4. Offering for Missionary Purpose

II. Leader's Introduction

Even as far back as 1898, in the days when cars were unknown a man like Gladstone said: "The ravages of drink are greater than those of war, pestilence, and famine combined."

Earlier than that we have the word of Buddha, 550 B. C.: "Drink not liquors that intoxicate and disturb the reason." And of Solomon, 1000 B. C.: "Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his colour in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder." (Prov. 23: 31, 32.)

Their conclusions about drinking are verified by modern science. Among others Dr. Charles Mayo says: Through alcoholic stimulation a man loses his co-ordination.

Science furnishes us the facts, but religion must furnish the incentive and the power to work against the inroads of the drinking problem.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Effects of Intoxicants Prov. 23:29-35.
2. A temperate Hebrew Prince Daniel 1:3-8.
3. Liquor weakens a nation Joel 1:5-7.
4. Set a good example Rom. 14:19-21
5. Soberness exhorted Titus 2:1-6.

IV. For Discussion

What should we do in the line of teaching in regard to the drink problem? Are we as Christians obligated to work for abstinence? What is there that we can do?

V. Facts for Study

Robbins Stoeckel, Commissioner of Motor-Vehicles of Connecticut has said: "The really dangerous driver is the man who has had one or two drinks only, who still thinks he is in possession of his faculties, but whose driving judgment has been impaired. On the public highways, moderate drinking is more dangerous than immoderate."

In an experiment in Milwaukee a device was used to measure the time that elapsed between a signal and the application of brakes. Four ounces of whisky was given.

Those who had this amount were able to pass the ordinary tests used to determine drunkenness, and were able to perform adequatelly the routine actions involved in driving, but they were not able to do as well in avoiding obstacles placed in the road, backing the car, and using the emergency brake.

Experiments show that alcohol taken without food in amount not to exceed 30 c. c. (one ounce) produces a sufficient depressive action in most people to interfere somewhat with various mental functions: vision is impaired; the field of attention is narrowed; mental associations are slower; and even if sleepiness isn't produced, the attentive consciousness tends to be occupied with subjective feelings and thoughts so that the individual is not easily aroused by the noises, lights or movements in his environment. . . .

THE ACCIDENT

"How did it happen? Well, they met head on,
Rounding the curve. Going too fast, I guess.
A quarter of an hour, more or less,
Was hardly worth a broken neck. He's gone.

"The road was too narrow?" No, the road was wide,
The other driver gave him half the road
And something extra—for the wheel marks showed
He swung his car well over to the side.

Drunk? Oh, I wouldn't say that he was drunk—
He had been drinking. Yes, it's very sad.
A fine young man—the only son they had.
The other? Crippled. Both the cars are junk.

And Who's to blame? God knows! The government?
The trade? The boy? His parents? You and I?
We're in the business! People are content
To let it flourish. Yes, we voted 'dry.' "

Thought by Leader

Let us pause today and think of the blessing we have had since childhood to go to services of the church. Have any of us been persecuted because we wanted to go? Have any of us ever been punished by parents or relatives because we believed in Jesus? Let us be silent for a few moments and consider the blessings we have.

Paragraphs concerning youth in our own Mission fields.

1. From "Twenty-five Years With God in India"

"About the years 1918 to 1920, Isa Das went from village to village preaching. Repeatedly he went to Bhorpur bazaar. Pateram, a youth of 16 or 17 years, heard the message. It struck none too firmly in his heart. He applied for baptism, however, and received Christ in 1922. He was the only Christian in his village, and barring one, the only Christian of all his relatives. His wife was not ready—he came alone. His father and mother were idol worshippers and offered yearly sacrifices to household gods. The next year he was persuaded by Bro. Thiessen to tramp 65 miles to a convention. Fired with new zeal he returned home. By 1924 he had prepared his wife, parents, an uncle and aunt, and one cousin for baptism. By 1927 he had brought to the feet of his Savior seventeen which included each and every one of his adult relatives."

2. From a Christmas Letter from China in 1937.

"Just a year ago we started on what was probably the most encouraging year of our mission work in China. From the country came men and women begging for someone to come and preach to them. Who had told them about Christ? 'Years ago there was a school in our village and the teacher preached about the true God. We have been so busy all these years, but now there is a desire within us to know more about Him.'

"With this need in mind the Bible School is training men and women—fifty each year. How your hearts would be thrilled, could you see the dozen or more graduates each year!

"The Hua Mei School with its nearly 300 students challenges us. Within the student body is the 'Love-the-Lord-Society' with 70 members radiating the spirit of Christ."

3. From Oraibi, Arizona

"We do so enjoy the work with the young people and children but are finding much opposition to this type of work. But realizing that the youth of today is the church of tomorrow, that a young life won to the Lord means a life time of glory to God, and that it is so much easier to win a person to the Lord in the early years of life, we do ask you for much earnest prayer for this field of labor. Truly it is a time of seed sowing and needs the patient waiting for ripening grain, but even so what a chose field it is to sow the Word of Life."

Leader

How many of us would be willing to be the only one in our town who is a Christian? Would we have the courage to face scorn? Think of the young people in China where life has never been harder than it is now for them. "Chinese young people are being tested by tragic experiences, yet those who have been converted are completely loyal."

PRAYERS THAT WE CAN LEARN

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude. Variation of "Jesus Lover of My Soul" by the pianist.

2. Call to worship, "Let the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, my Strength and my Redeemer."

3. Sing the prayer song, "My Jesus, I love Thee."

4. Scripture reading (responsively) Psalm 138.

5. Several of the Juniors may read the prayers that they have written and brought to the meeting.

6. Leader's Prayer

7. Song-season. Sing Prayer songs that the Juniors have selected. Gather around the piano for this. Suggested songs: "Abide With Me" verses 1, 3, and 4; "Lead Kindly Light," "Jesus, Thy Blood and Righteousness," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "I Need Thee Every Hour," "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

II. Study Period

Aim. In teaching these prayers to the Juniors we give them a prayer vocabulary. So our aim is to enrich their prayer life.

1. Leader's introduction—It is well to memorize several prayers. That does not mean that we shall use only those, no, we must talk to God in our own words, as you have done in the prayers that you have written, but sometimes we need to have a prayer that we have "learned by heart". Tonight we want to talk over and learn several such prayers.

2. We have learned that Jesus prayed before eating. The following prayer is one to use before meals.

GRACE BEFORE MEALS

"Lord Jesus, be our Holy Guest,
Our morning joy, our evening rest
And with our daily bread, impart
Thy love and joy to every heart." Amen.
—The Upper Room

Our grandparents often sang a "Grace Prayer" and I am told that in Scotland the"Grace" is usually sung. The following may be sung to the melody of number 502 in the "Gesangbuch mit Noten." Perhaps you would like to learn to sing it.

"Be present at our table, Lord;
Be here and everywhere adored;
These comforts bless, and grant that we May feast in Paradise with Thee.
For Jesus" sake." Amen.
thank Thee, Heavenly Father

3. A prayer of thanks after the meal.

"We thank Thee, Heavenly Father
In Jesus Christ, on high,
That Thou do'st all our Needs supply." Amen.

4. In Mark 1:35 we read that Jesus prayed in the morning. This is a morning prayer.

"I thank Thee Lord, for quiet rest,
And for Thy care of me,
Oh, let me through this day be blest,
And kept from sin, by Thee.
Oh, let me thank Thee, kind Thou art
To children such as I.
Give me a gentle loving haert;
Be Thou my friend on high."
Amen.

5. We all have learned several evening prayers but perhaps we would like to learn another one.

EVENING PRAYER

"Father, unto Thee, I pray,
Thou hast guarded me all day
Safe I am while in Thy sight
Safely let me sleep tonight.
Bless my friends,
The whole world bless.
Help me to learn helpfulness;
Keep me pure in Thy dear sight
Because of Thy great love and might.
For Jesus' Sake." Amen.

6. Other Prayers

A.

"Jesus take this heart of mine
Make it pure, and only Thine.
I Thy faithful child would be.
Help me Lord to live for Thee."

B.

"Dear Lord, for these things, I pray
To know Thee more clearly
To love Thee more dearly
To follow Thee more nearly Everyday." Amen.

C.

"Create in me a clean heart, O God,
And renew a right spirit within me."
Amen.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Read parts of Miss Martha Burkhalter's letter as given in the October "Missionary News and Notes."

2. Plan a handkerchief Christmas Shower for one of the missionaries among our American Indians.

3. Pray for all of our missionaries.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Together repeat John 5:14.

2. Pray the prayer of the month, Luke 11:1; Luke 22:42b.

3. Sing the song of the month, "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

To the Leaders:

Iam sure that you noticed and corrected the mistakes in the poem given for the program of October 6. The third line, in the second verse should read "The upward glancing of an eye and not as it was printed.

CORRESPONDENCE

SMITH CORNER MENN. CH., SEPT. 30, 1940

Greetings to all! During the week previous to Easter we were led by the Spirit to hold special meetings and what a blessing they proved to be. We, the Christian people, were spiritually uplifted and drawn closer to God. The greatest blessing was that seven precious souls were born into the Kingdom, and quite a few of our members who had wandered away were brought back anew.

The meeting came to its close on Easter morning with baptism, reception of new members and Holy Communion. In all, nine new members were taken into the church. Two brothers on a former baptism by Rev. Yoder, three boys by sprinkling, and the other two young men, who had made their profession before this time, by emersion. Those four were baptized on June 30 in the creek below the church, at a very solemn service in the presence of a large crowd of members and friends of our church.

On May 9, the Eighth District Sunday School Association of Blair Co. held their annual convention in our church, which proved to be quite a blessing. Our pastor was vice-president and two of our members held other offices in the convention.—Early in March we had Bro. John Thiessen with us for an evening. The pictures of his work in India, which he showed, were well received. We are also looking forward to the coming of Missionary W. C. Voth.—This week we plan to put a new roof on the church at a cost of about $100.—Next Sunday we expect to observe World-wide Holy Communion, at which time we plan to take in three new members again. The last week of October we intend to hold revival meetings by the grace and help of God.

Everything is going along nicely. Sunday School has the highest attendance, 50 to 60. The church attendance is fairly good but not as good as might be expected. —Melvin Smith, Corr.

IN MEMORIAM

IRA VERNON AMSTUTZ, SON OF JOHN AND SUSAN (STEINER) AMSTUTZ was born near Orrville, Ohio, August 3, 1898, and passed away September 4, 1940, at Tulsa, Oklahoma. Death came quickly and peacefully to this young man, the cause of his death being heart failure.

At the age of two years he moved with his parents to Geary, Oklahoma. In 1908 with the family he moved to Salem, Oregon, where he lived until the mother and father died. In 1916 he, with the other children, returned to Geary. On April 23, 1916, he united with the First Mennonite Church at Geary.

On August 21, 1919, he was married to Edith Stumbo. To this union were born four children, Jerry Lou, Marry Francis, Ira Jr., and Robert Lee, all of whom survive. He also leaves five sisters, Mrs. Celesta Base, Mission, Texas; Mrs. Lydia Funk, Calumet, Okla., Mrs. Pearl Coil, Geary, Okla., Mrs. Elma Payne, Oklahoma City, Okla., Miss Nora Amstutz, Los Angeles, Calif., and four brothers, Wesley, Harvey, Earl, and Dillman of Geary, Milo of Tulsa, Okla., and many other relatives and friends to mourn his departure.

Funeral services were held at Tulsa, Saturday, September seventh, at two p. m. Words of comfort were spoken by Rev. J. W. Porter, on first Samuel twentieth chapter, a part of the third verse. "There is but a step between me and death." Interment in the Rose Hill Cemetery, Tulsa, Okla.

—Mrs. P. E. Frantz

MISS LENA BASINGER, DAUGHTER OF THE LATE MOSES AND SOPHIA (NEE AERNI) BASINGER, was born November 27, 1875. After years of suffering, from rheumatism and arthritis, she passed away peacefully at her home in Pandora, on September 2, 1940, at the age of 64 years, 9 months and 6 days. For the last 21 years she made her home with the Ben Augsburger family, where she cared for her nephews and nieces since the death of their mother. Six month ago she came to Pandora where she made her home with her brothers and sisters.

She was a member of the St. John Mennonite Church, where she faithfully attended as long as her health permitted. Her interest in the church never ceased, though she could not attend the services.

She is survived by four brothers and five sisters. Funeral services were held from her late home and from the St. John Mennonite Church, on September 4. Rev. Daniel J. Unruh, the pastor of the church, spoke on Phil. 1:21 at the house and I. Cor. 13:12 at the church. A Ladies Quartet sang one number at the house and two numbers at the church.

Interment was made at the cemetery adjoining the church.

Rev. Henry J. Krehbiel, Reedley, California passed away October 5, 1940

Rev. J. H. Langenwalter just reported the sudden passing of the well-known minister of our General Conference who for many years served the Reedley Church as pastor and has a distinguished record of service in the Conference both as its president and in the Board of Publication. Our sympathy to the bereaved family.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Eden Church, Schwenksville, Pa.—Among the churches that observe "World Communion" of the Christian Church, on Oct. 6, is this one. Its Bulletin says: "The spiritual Council of the Congregation, composed of Pastor and Deacons, urges you to come and share this fellowship on that day. We shall be glad to welcome you at the Lord's Table and invite you according to I Corinthians 11:20-34, to come and meet with our Lord in this ordained Memorial of His Sacrificial Death and Resurrection by the act of "Breaking Bread and Sharing the Cup."

—Newspaper Week.—Last week was National Newspaper Week. No doubt the newspaper in the country has done much to champion democracy, human liberty, freedom of speech, of essemblage, and of religion, although not as much for Christian religion as it might. It claims that "The American Press is the first line of defence in the battle for the maintenance of Democracy." A good many of the papers do considerable harm by advertising things that would be better if they were marked, "Hands Off."

—FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE.—The school has decided to do its own printing. It has purchased part of the equipment of a newspaper establishment that quit business.—Their Bulletin reports an enrollment of 137 at end of third week of school, 63 in the college and 74 in the academy. Last year at the same time the total was 139. The trend of the enrollment shows that the students come from an ever widening area. In 1931 68 per cent of the college students came from the academy and Freeman high school, and the other 32 per cent from 9 other high schools. In 1940, only 30 per cent of the college students come from the local schools, while 70 per cent come from 19 other high schools. In 1931 about 87 per cent of the college students expressed affiliation with some branch of the Mennonite Church, in the 1939-40 school year only 67 per cent belonged to some Mennonite church, 33 to some other denomination.

—Pastors Conducting Devotionals in Rural Schools.—"THE BERNE WITNESS," Berne, Ind. brings the cheering information that the pastors of the County Ministerial Association are conducting the devotional exercises in the rural schools for the third year. What a splendid idea! Would that such work might rapidly multiply and become a custom in the country. A complete schedule of the appointments for the devotional periods is worked out and followed. School officers, pupils and patrons feel that the work is a real success and heartily endorse it.

—The Women's Missionary Society of the First Menn. Church, Berne, Ind. recently had a meeting in which the program centered in "Our Relation to God." Talks were given on "Repenting", "Trusting", "Praying", "Serving", "Reverence and Public Worship", and a poem on "Obedience" was read. The talks were interspersed with special music by a ladies' trio and an organ solo.

—Dr. P. R. Schroeder, now pastor of the Bethel Church, Mt. Lake, Minn., is recovering nicely from his latest operations. From a letter to the Freeman, S. D. Courier, we take this: Dr. C. F. Dixon (Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.) removed my tumor June 28. I was in St. Mary's Hospital four weeks after that, being very sick at first. Meanwhile Mrs. Schroeder moved our household goods from South Dakota to the Bethel church parsonage. My return of strength was so rapid that I could be in church every Sunday in August, preaching one Sunday, and also the first Sunday in September. On Sept. 6 Dr. Dixon performed my closure operation, and again my recovery was so fast that they told me it was the fastest they had had in 2½ months. I was dismissed from the Hospital Sept. 19, but had to stay in town to go daily to the clinic for change of dressings. So far I have had constant surprises of the Lord's goodness and mercy in answer to the many prayers offered in my behalf.

—The Pacific Dist. Conference is showing considerable growth recently. By the Grace Church at Dallas, Oregon, a new church has been erected and 92 members added to the congregation, largely through the efforts of its pastor, Homer Leisy. The Emannuel Menn. Church at Pratum, Oregon, enlarged and remodeled its church building and could celebrate its fiftieth anniversary. The Conference budget has been expanded to meet the needs of the growing work in the District. It provides partial support for the work at Newport and Deer Park, Wash., Dallas, Albany and Portland, Oregon. At Newport the erection of a new church building is to be begun. At Winton, Calif., a new congregation is developing, through the devoted service of Rev. D. B. Hess. At the Conference session held in Los Angeles, last summer, a total of 2651 members for the District was reported, showing a gain of 208 for the past year.—Now the "Workers' Exchange" reports that Sunday, Sept. 15 marked the beginning of conference work in the Shafter Migratory camps, in California, and that Mr. and Mrs. Chris Ummel are being sent into this needy field.

—Hereford Menn. Church, Bally, Pa.—We thank Miss Mae Latshaw, correspondent of this church, for a copy of their bulletin of Sept. 22 which in a special way is an anniversary number recognizing the Fiftieth Birthday of Bro. Ralph Weller Berky, in these words: "The Hereford Mennonite Church today makes grateful recognition of its first hymn writer: Ralph Weller Berky. We salute him today on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday anniversary. For many years he has in word and song and deed been an inspirer of childhood and youth in this church and community. These inspirations have come into tangible expression in lines of poetry and in measures of music. His long years of leadership among Junior and Intermediate Christian Endeavorers and the instruction and guidance given the "Buttervalley Meadow Larks" have left lasting marks upon many young lives in this community. Moreover, he has inspired the conservation of all that is beautiful in the world of nature; the fine example is lovely "Larkland."—The folder contains several good poems from Bro. Berky, some of which are welcome material for The Mennonite.

—First Menn. Church, Reedly, Calif.,— Gleaned from the Church Bulletin: "FOUR WORKING DEFINITIONS— LIBERTY means to be free to be and do your best. LICENSE means to demand the right to be and do your worst. INDEPENDENCE means the self-control which makes it possible for you to be and do your best. STUBBORNNESS means to demand the kind of control of yourself which makes you be and do your best."

It is planned that the first meeting of the "Forum on Messages of the Prophets" shall be held Thursday evening, Oct. 10.

—Immanuel Mennonite Church, Los Angeles, Calif. recently installed a Public Address System, given as a memorial to their departed sister, Miss Helen Janzen, by her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Janzen of Pasadena. On Sunday, Sept. 22nd, a brief dedication service was held. The set includes several hearing-aids in the pews for friends who are hard of hearing, and a speaker for the Mothers' Room, also a speaker for the main auditorium, and facilities to extend these conveniences to any part of the building. We feel this adds very much to the enjoyment of the services of the church. Fall activities are coming in with a rush. For October we will have a Students' Night, a Sunday School Rally Day, and a Farewell for our missionaries, Penners and Ratzlaffs, soon leaving for India.—Corr.

—Grace Menn. Church, Enid, Okla.,— Our minister, Rev. H. N. Harder, conducted Evangelistic Services at the Sichar Church at Cordell, Okla., the last week of August. Mr. Albert Unruh of Meno filled the pulpit here in the absence. Sept. 18, Rev. Harder addressed the Garfield County S. S. Convention on the subject "Jesus' Message for Times Like These."

The church was happy to receive four new members into its fellowship, Sept. 22. They are Mr. and Mrs. Cornie Van Riesen, Mrs. Walter K. Ewert, and Miss Agnes Frey. On Sunday, Oct. 6, we will join other churches in observing World Communion Sunday. The Mennonite Brethren of Enid and the Grace Mennonite C. E. Societies joined in a program on "Fellowship With God and With One Another" on the evening of Sept. 29. —Correspondent

—Bethel Hospital at Mt. Lake, Minn. reports a very successful fall "Gift Day." Considerable cash and large quantities of vegetables, fruit and canned goods were received, among them gifts of 15 bushels of apples, 8 bushels of potatoes, 6 bushels of grapes, 50 quarts of canned fruit, 200 pounds of flour, 225 pounds of sugar, and a load of corn cobs.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—Speaking of the World Communion, Oct. 6, the Bulletin says, "Though each will go to his own church and observe communion according to the forms of his church, this is a great testimony of the union of the church in the Lord Jesus Christ — A UNITED TESTIMONY TO A DISUNITED WORLD.

—Large Losses of Life and Injuries in the U. S. in 1939. From the National Safety Council statistics we take the following: 93,000 persons lost their lives through accidents; 8,800,000 were injured. The number of deaths due to traffic accidents was reduced 6 per cent, though there were still 32,000 victims from this cause, while 1,500,000 received injuries. Through accidents in houses and buildings 32,000 died and 4,700,000 were injured. Industries suffered 16,000 dead and 1,300,000 injured.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—Bulletin, Sept. 29. "The thought of God and his church is not an escape from life and duty. It is rather a realization of the glory of the task before me and a challenge to meet it. The church and its worship gives me the poise and the uplift I need in an hour like this. This hour is not all dark and gloomy. There is still belief that I can become the person I was intended to be. May we grow in grace and in the knowledge of God."

—Mennonite Church at Napier, Pa. has installed a furnace, at which job the pastor, Rev. Willard K. Claassen, took an active part for three days. The Bulletin says, The absence of the old stoves and long pipes in the church adds greatly to the appearance. It will now be possible to add four or five more pews which we have often needed.

America's Opportunity

Here is an enigma, the United States of America living in comparative comfort and plenty, and half of the other world living on the verge of starvation. Do they deserve their lot, do we deserve our blessings? Jesus taught the fundamental principle of the good neighbor policy in the words, "Love thy neighbor as thyself," and in the parable of the good Samaritan he illustrated what he meant. Today uncounted millions of innocent people in Europe and eastern Asia have fallen among the thieves and robbers and are lying in their wounds, want and distress, unable to help themselves. The number of refugees in China runs into the tens of millions, all Europe is overrun with them. One out of every ten persons in France was a war refugee, now millions of French are reduced to the same fate. Spain still has more than enough of them, and there are too many of them in the German occupied territories. Large numbers of them are now starving, and what will be their lot this winter? These unfortunate ones are rightfully looking to America for Samaritan help, for is not that country rich in wealth and resources of all kinds? And, truly, if the billions that are now to be spent on peace time military preparation on land, water, and in the air were spent for relief to war sufferers, adequate help could be given on a large scale. Naturally the spending of such huge sums of money for military purposes, will impoverish our country somewhat, proportionally. But when one considers the piles of money that are still available and are being spent for luxuries, on sports and innumerable things not necessary for frugal, economic living, our country could, without hurting itself, act as the good Samaritan to all warstricken needy. We Mennonites who found refuge in this fair land should feel special obligations in this matter. We have begun to do a little relief work in Europe under the auspices of the Mennonite Central Committee. But what we may do will be merely a drop in the bucket, in comparison with the enormity of all relief needs.

We did fairly well in relief efforts after the World War. But they were mostly extended to brethren in the faith. Should we put forth less effort now? Are not all men equal before God? We who are unwilling to join the military procession to win laurels there, should we not be anxious to show our measure of heroism in Samaritan fashion? Should we not take it as our Christian duty, in times and conditions like these, to render help until it hurts. It does not matter how much or how little others may give or do, God will hold each one of us responsible for what we ourselves can do.

We have shown America's opportunity for doing relief work. But another opportunity lies open before us. We should join those leaders in the PEACE-NOW-MOVEMENT in other lands in their efforts to bring about an early peace, a just, general peace. In August fifteen such leaders outlined a possible movement of this kind. In the Christian Century of Oct. 9, we find excerpts of the plan and we take liberty to quote this, with some slight omissions:

Hitler has declared: "I see no reason why this war should go on," and it is probable that the great majority of the German nation shares this view. It is not Hitler but the German people whom we have to answer. We must sooner or later win the German people to our side. Vague allusions to a "free" Europe, to come at the conclusion of a prolonged war, will not serve to achieve this end.

The time has come for plain speaking on our side. We should confront Hitler's peace with our own peace. We should seize the initiative by offering the world a bold and concrete alternative to Hitler's plan which shall strike upon the minds of intelligent human beings as being democracy's answer to a totalitarian Europe. Otherwise, the misery and destitution of the conflict ahead may well drive the peoples of Europe even more solidly into the Germanic system economically and psychologically.

Now, when we are undefeated, when our real power has not been fully tested, is, we believe, the time when we should tell Germany and the world the terms on which we would make peace. We should put forward, at once, in outline, what we mean by a "free" Europe. We should invite, at once, the United States and the Americas to join us in agreeing on the minimum basis of a peace settlement as we desire it.

Hitler may reject it: he may not. We cannot say. On the worst showing, it could do us no harm: on the best showing it might save civilization as we know it today from destruction and give the forces of democracy everywhere the respite which they need in a world which is fast becoming fascist under the impact of modern war.

Yes, if America could somehow assist, or take the lead, in getting the belligerents in Europe to state their peace terms, and then try to help build up as equitable a peace as possible, how fortunate it would be to seize such an opportunity. —T

INNOCENT VICTIMS OF WAR

War is no respecter of person, age, race or rank. It stops at nothing, and it sometimes happens that men in its servive become murderers of innocent victims with no intention of harming human lives. Two such accidents have recently happened. We were all shocked by the news that seventy-nine children lost their lives when the ship City of Benares was torpedoed out on the Atlantic. They were, like other refugee children, being brought to America for safety. It is thought that the torpedo was fired by a German submarine, although this is not known for a certainty. Just a week before this tragedy happened, British airmen bombed and wrecked one of the units of the wide and favorably known Bethel hospitals at Bielefeld, Germany, institutions that may be fitly called "city of refuge" for sick, epileptic, crippled and otherwise afflicted people, which was established and is being maintained by the saintly Pastor Bodelschwingh and Christian friends. The hospice stood somewhat apart and was plainly marked with a hospital sign. It was terrible when the bombs plunged into the cottages occupied by epileptic and feeble minded children, killing nine outright and wounding many more. Yes, such is war's inhuman, all destructive nature. And it is quite possible that the English raiders and the German submarine crew were much grieved when they learned of the tragedies that resulted from the discharge of their weapons. —T.

ONE BODY WE

—"We all need to recognize that the Christian body is one, functioning now in the home, now in the local congregation, now in the community, and now in the school. In all of these we must face the great task of maintaining a Christian spirit and view of life against gigantic, antagonistic forces which are loose in the world. By every agency and effort possible we must engage in this conflict for the Christian doctrine of God and of man with truth, love, right, brotherhood, and unity. Change there will come, and it will be either "change and decay" or "change and advance." The crisis in the world today still is who shall prevail—Christ or Caesar. Is the human spirit to be subordinated to force and to the will-to-power, or are these to be made subject to the divine spirit of love and to the will-to-serve? The Christian answer is to be given by the church and its agencies foremost among these agencies is the church college."

—From an address by Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman

PUBLICATION

An Urgent Appeal to the Readers of the Mennonite

Dear Friends:

As readers of The Mennonite we extend to you our greetings, hoping that this weekly church paper is a welcome visitor in all of your homes.

But have you ever stopped to think how valuable this paper is to you? How much would you know about conference work (home and foreign missions, relief work, publication work, schools and education, etc.) if you were not kept informed on these activities through our conference papers, the Mennonite and the Bundesbote? And how much would you know about what is going on in Mennonite circles and what is being done through our conference churches and their organizations, if you did not read about these things in your conference papers? It has very properly been said that our conference papers are the binding element which holds together our churches and their members. Without this uniting and unifying medium we would soon become strangers to one another and drift apart. And what this would mean toward slackening up the work of building the Kingdom of God can easily be imagined. What we need, therefore, is an ever increasing number of readers of these papers.

But in order that these papers may be maintained and kept at a high level of efficenecy, the cost of editing, printing and mailing must be met. And since we do not carry any paid advertising which would considerably reduce the space for more valuable reading matter, this expense must be met out of the subscription price paid by the readers. And that is why it is so important that the readers keep their subscription paid up to date. If this is done, the papers can be maintained and kept efficient without a deficit.

In the fall of the year it is when most subscriptions expire. May we therefore ask you, dear readers, to look at the label on your Mennonite and notice the expiration date printed there? And if you find that your subscription will be due soon, will you not kindly do the editor and the Publication Board the favor to send your check or cash for a year's renewal NOW? Or if your subscription is in arrears, will you not make an honest effort to pay all or at least a substantial part of these arrears NOW?

As heretofore, all readers who pay their subscription a full year in advance from January 1, 1941, will receive the 1941 Year Book free. We also have some 1940 Year Books left which will be given free, as long as the supply lasts, to anyone who will pay his subscription in full to January 1, 1941.

ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS (NEW OR RENEWALS) SHOULD BE SENT TO THE MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

P. S. Please use the convenient Order Blank printed on the last page of the paper. Kansas subscribers should include 2 per cent Sales Tax with their remittance.

EVANGELISTIC COMMITTEE ANNUAL REPORT

Dear Brethren:

How our lips and hearts bubble with praise and thanksgiving unto God the Father and Jesus Christ our Lord and Savior! We are happy to report that even during this second year of the "China Incident" among rumors, threats, and actual numerous bombings and practically continuous fighting in the occupied part of our mission field, we have been able to continue the religious work, although not always in the old way and in the same place. The most active time of the year were the fourth quarter of 1938 and the first quarter of 1939. This, however, pertains more to the country evangelization. We had by far too few missionaries for this line of work. Rev. and Mrs. S. F. Pannabaker were much occupied with the Bible School, so that their time was very limited for the work in the Ch'ang Yuan district; but they did all they could under conditions. Rev. H. J. Brown carried on very active village and station work for the two quarters prior to their going to Tamingfu, at which time the Pannabeckers again shouldered the full responsibility. During all winter there was no let up in tent work and catechism class instruction, besides numerous women's reading and Bible study classes. Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Voth had for themselves the greater part of the Tamingfu district to serve in church meetings, catechism classes, and even three short term Bible schools. Besides this Mrs. Voth, through the supervision of Biblewomen, carried on a good deal of instruction in the Home Reading Course. Misses Fast and Kuyf worked faithfully among the local women at Tamingfu and nearby villages. The former had a "young Women's Training School," "A Women's Leaders Bible Class," and "The Women's Church-members Cottage Bible Class." While the latter was busy with a Junior Church or Sunday School and the Clinic work on the station, with the literacy classes in different villages. In early fall the two together had visited many villages, making a number of calls in each.

During the Chinese New Year the Week of Evangelism was observed in all larger centers, but many of the country churches also put forth great efforts to spread the "Good News." Not all the reports are in, but from those on file we judge that close to 200 Christians each gave eight days for volunteer services in going out and spreading the message of life through singing, giving personal testimony, and regular open air preaching. Much distribution of literature was also successfully caried out. In quite a few places reading and Bible study classes were held with large attendance.

In some parts of our field prevailing conditions did not permit the opening of catechism classes, Although there are plans for opening such classes in the near future, it remains to be seen what the outcome of such an attempt will be. This report leaves all part-time classes out and also persons that did not regularly attend, and still the report shows 667 inquirers of whom 203 were baptized and received into the church. Surely we have great reason to be thankful. If we faithfully support them in our prayers, they will grow and bring rich fruit to the praise and glory of God.

CHINESE RETREAT

The missionaries had an English retreat in the month of May, which proved not only to be interesting but a great blessing to all that attended. In a way the missionaries were a little selfish, for they wanted to be fed first with the bread of life, before they gave it out to others. In the month of July the Chinese had their retreat. The committee prayerfully considered the restless condition of the country, and thereupon came to the conclusion that it would be better to have small local retreats in preference to only big one. Tamingfu, Tsingfeng, K'ai Chow, Tung Ming, and Ch'ang Yuan Hsien were the five retreat centers decided upon. Since the "foreign" troops were at Nanloa and our mission place occupied by soldiers, that city for a retreat center was cut out of consideration. The workers there were advised to go to Tsingfeng. The leaders were Li Kuai of T'sao or Ch'eng Kuo T'sun for Tung Ming, Wang Wan Chu for Ch'ang Yuan, Rev. Chang of Hua Hsien for K'ai Chow, Wu Tung Hsin for Tsingfeng and Chang Ching for Tamingfu. They all served except Mr. Li, who was prevented from coming on account of war conditions, and Mr. Chang Ching because of heavy rains and flooded roads. Mr. Ch'eng took Mr. Li's place and different people substituted for Mr. Chang. The attendance at every place was good and the interest in the given topics great. From Ch'ang Yuan district came the report, that the great interest in the subjects and the free participation in the discussions compelled them to run over closing time. In Kao T'sun (preferred to Tsingfeng) thirty workers and deacons registered but seventy people attended. The Christians there also requested special evening meetings; since the program had left the evening hours free, the group responded and held evening services . At Tamingfu the attendance was somewhat lower (51), but heavy rains in those days interfered very much. With the exception of one or tow subjects the group also showed great interest. On the last day and by the discussions of the last subject a resolution was passed to put out an all-field annual prayer-cycle, expenses to be borne by free-will offerings of the group.

One country-preacher came to the retreat very discouraged and had already decided to resign, for he considered his church a "hopeless case," but by the end of the retreat he again, with strengthened faith and new hope, went back to his church determined to serve in a new and more consecreated way. He is getting results now. He writes and others tell us, too, how things are changing for the better in that country church. So far this, too, we have great reason to praise God.

CHURCH SURVEY

For several years a desire for a church survey in our mission field has been talked about and promised. However, the restlessness of the country and the heavy burden of work resting on the shoulders of a few missionaries have not permitted the carrying out of this project. Even this year the committee had neither the man-power nor the funds to do extensive work; but during the retreat the leaders of each group were requested to investigate and fill out the committee's questionnaire. In one place the leader was not there and in another place the churches were too many that they could have been visited by the retreat leader during the limited time, and so for these places a helper had to be found.

CLOSING REMARKS

Again we assure you that we are grateful to God for giving us such true and zealous foreign and Chinese coworkers in the evangelistic field of this our Mennonite China Mission. We are looking forward for the new missionaries that came out last year and have now already finished a year of language work; and we also welcome Bro. and Sister Ewert back to this great task of evangelism. We also welcome the newly arrived Bro. and Sister Dirks, hoping that they too in due time will join us in bearing the banner of the cross throughout our whole field for the salvation of many. Thanking God again that, not withstanding our shortcomings, it has pleased Him to use us another year for the salvation of souls and for the coming of His Kingdom, we remain prayerfully, —The Evangelistic Committee: H. J. Brocon, Chr.

Wilhelmina Kuyf and Sylvia T. Pannabecker

TO THE CHURCHES OF THE NORTHERN DISTRICT

The Churches of this Conference are kindly but earnestly requested to remember the conference treasury. There are bills to be paid and the treasury is empty. The money should be sent to:
REV. ALBERT SCHULTZ, BUTTERFIELD, MINNESOTA, conference treasurer.

Dr. H. J. Krehbiel Gone Home

Saturday morning a week ago, just as The Mennonite was being put in the press, the sad news of the passing of Rev. H. J. Krehbiel of Reedley, California, reached us, and all we could do then was to bring a statement of it. Today we wish to add that, with the departure of Brother Krehbiel, a very interesting and useful life has ended, one that richly deserves the "Well done" of the Master whom he devotedly served. The departed has spent practically his entire mature life in the service of our Church and its cause. He served the Apostolic Mennonite Church at Trenton, Ohio, as a young man not yet out of the twenties. Then he accepted the pastorate of the First Mennonite Church at Reedley, California, when it was just in its beginning. And when impaired health made him relinquish the manifold work there, some years ago, the growing congregation had a membership of something like 400. He was a man of magnetic personality, a ready and forceful speaker. He took an active part in the founding and development of Bluffton College. And in recognition of his qualities of leadership, his unselfish service to mankind, and his scholarly attainments this College conferred upon him the degree Doctor of Divinity. For years he was a member of the Board of Publication or its chairman. During the trienniums 1920-23 and 1923-26 he served the Conference as its president, and it was particularly as conference secretary, working with him, and on the Board of Publication, that we learned to appreciate this good and godly man in his true value. Though he has left us, his good influence goes on.

Heaven is a place of restless activity, the abode of never-tiring thoughts. —Beecher

Additional Information on Conscription

by E. L. Harshbarger, Professor of History Bethel College

Some time bofore October 16 all ministers should have received a second pamphlet from the peace committee giving greater detail and a few minor corrections with regard to the administration of the conscription act. The following summary should be studied in addition to counsel previously received.

I. REGISTRATION: All male citizens and resident aliens, between the ages of 21 and 35 inclusive, are required to register on October 16. There will be no individual written notice of place and date of registration. Notices in newspapers will be considered sufficient notice. Registration calls for personal data about the registrant. There is no provision for a conscientious objector to state his objection to war at this time, that being provided for in the questionnaire, but there is nothing in the regulations to prevent a person from writing on this registration card that he is registering as a conscientious objector. After registration is complete each registrant is given a certificate to show that he is duly registered. This certificate should be retained to prove that he has registered. After registration each person must notify the Local Board of any change of address so that the board may know where to send his questionnaire. Local Boards have the authority to require persons appearing before them to take an oath, but affirmation is accepted. The regulation in this connection says that "whenever an oath is required, an affirmation in judicial form, if made by a person having conscientious scruples against the taking of oaths, shall be sufficient compliance." Special rules govern the registration of persons who may be outside the United States, for the sick, quarantined and others.

When you give your home address in registering away from home, it means that the registeration questionnaire will be mailed to your home address. This questionnaire MUST be returned to the Selective Service Board in your home district within five days. Make certain that some person in your home town will forward it to your temporary or travelling address in sufficient time to allow for its return to the proper board within the five days alloted. If by reason of distance from your home there is insufficient time to return the questionnaire to the Selective Service Board of your home district, consult the local board where you register for advice as to procedure.

II. WHAT HAPPENS AFTER REGISTRATION: After registration the registrants will receive registeration questionnaires by mail in the order in which their numbers have been selected by lot in Washington. These questionnaires will provide an opportunity to state conscientious objections to military service. The section dealing with conscientious objectors will contain a note that persons requesting exemption on the grounds of conscientious objecttions to military service can SECURE AN ADDITIONAL, MORE DETAILED QUESTIONNAIRE, BY ASKING THE LOCAL BOARD FOR IT. On the basis of information given in this special questionnaire, the local board may decide a man sincere without a hearing, but cannot declare him insincere without a hearing. Assistance and advice may be secured by the registrant in filling out these questionnaires. The local board may find the C. O. sincere and assign him to non-combatant work within the army, or if he has sincere scruples against such service, he may be assigned to "work of national importance under civilian direction;" or the board may find him insincere and rule that he is liable for full military service.

Provisions have been made for appeal to an Appeal Board, which turns the matter over to the Department of Justice. A trained investigator will collect all possible data on the person appealing, and a hearing will be allowed with opportunity to submit additional evidence, have attorneys, wittnesses. These hearings will be conducted by United States attorneys in each Federal Judicial district. The recommendation of the Department of Justice will then be passed to the Appeal Board, which has final authority to rule on the sincerity of the registerant.

Definition of the term "work of national importance under civilian direction" is not yet available. Representatices of the historic peace churches are now conferring with the acting Director of Selection Service relative to the possibility of this work being carried on under the direction and control of authorized church service agencies.

III. CLASSIFICATION: After the questionnaire is returned to the Local Selective Service Board, this board will classify all registrants in four classes. Class four includes those physically unable to perform any services; class three those with dependents; class two those employed in work which the President shall declare to be essential; and class one those persons available for immediate training and service. Present plans call for physical examination of all persons before classification, including conscientious objectors. A C. O. with dependents will be placed in class three, one physically disabled in class four, etc. Only those C. O.'s in class one are asked to establish the sincerity of their convictions.

Registration does not put a man under military control. A registrant does not pass under military control until he is inducted into the military camps and takes the oath of allegiance. The registrant taking civiliian service never comes under military control.

Conscription and Exemptions

A Timely Word by Rev. Franz Albrecht, Beatrice, Nebraska

Thinking of all that has been said, written and done in regard to Conscription and Exemption of the Conscientious Objectors from military training and service, I feel toward our beloved youth like Luke before he wrote his Gospel to Theophilus. I therefore wish to say: Forasmuch as many have taken in hand to write concerning those matters which fill our hearts and minds with anxiety, it seemed good to me also to write concerning those matters which we all will have to deal with whether drafted or not.

I am grateful for every effort of the Peace Committees of our General and District Conferences. The information and advice that has been published by these committees is of great value to all who desire to be prepared and to stand the test of faith which we as followers of Jesus Christ have to expect in the near future. Such instruction and advice is based upon biblical and constitutional rights, which we ask to be granted to the Conscientious Objectors. Officials who are to deal with them are thereby made to feel and to acknowledge that the Conscientious Objector knows and understands the Bible and the constitution better than they; which usually aggrevates the mind of those in authority. The Pacifist Handbook and the questions of the London Tribunal reveal the fact, that officials try to manifest their superiority and hope to convince the Conscientious Objectors that they are wrong. I would therefore express myself definitely as one who has no right to demand exemption from military training and service; but I trust that my beloved government as a servant of God will in the future, as heretofor, in mercy deal favorably with me and permit me to continue to live and to worship according to the word of God and the teachings of Jesus in time of war as well as in times of peace. History proves that God has richly blessed and prospered the nations that tolerate such inhabitants. My intention would not be to argue but to plead for such a favor in the name of Christ the Savior of men who teaches all men how to serve him and our fellowmen faithfully and conscientiously. In such a state of mind I would prayerfully enter an interview with the appointed officials trusting in Him who said: "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

—Rev. Isaac Epp, Swift Current, Sask.—Preparations are under way for the Bible School year, which begins Oct. 27. The prospects are not at all discouraging.—We enjoy The Mennonite very much and certainly wish you and everyone connected with the work God's richest blessings.

SERMON SKETCH

by Jacob H. Janzen, Waterloo, Ontario

Behold my servant, whom I uphold, etc Isaiah 42,1

1. WHO IS THE LORD'S SERVANT?

Among the many it is first of all our Lord and Savior, the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who came to do that part of the service which no one else could do.

After Him those are God's servants who are born again, and to whom not the calculations according to wisdom and passion of this world are the determining factors, but the Spirit of God, the faith in His fatherly love, and the hope for the glory of His children.

2. OF WHAT USE IS IT TO BE A SERVANT OF GOD?

God upholds His servants. Even if all odds would be against them they will prevail.—Worldly wisdom calculates that a heartless, inconsiderate indifference toward the needs and sufferings of our fellow-men keeps us from helping them and thereby increases or, at least, preserves our own means of sustenance, and thereby we shall be upheld. But godliness sees that matter in an entirely different light.

3. WHEREBY WILL GOD RECOGNIZE A MAN OR WOMAN AS HIS SERVANTS?

By the Spirit whom He has given His children as a guiding light. That Spirit makes us like Him who loved us while we yet were sinners. That Spirit makes us calculate differently then the world does, and in His light we understand that, and how we will be upheld by love and sympathetic consideration of our fellow-man's needs, and by helping him in his afflictions.—The Spirit of God recreates in us the lost likeness of God, and by that our Lord recognizes us as His servants, who act wisely.

4. WHICH ARE THE ACTIVITIES OF THE SERVANTS OF GOD?

They bring forth justice to the Gentiles, where there is no justice, i. e. to undeserving people. The sinners love those who love them, and do good to those who do good to them. But God's servants love even their enemies.

5. WHAT OF IT ALL?

If we are not servants of God we will not be upheld, and the way of the wicked shall perish.

As God's servants we have access to the store house of His riches, and we will grow by helping and giving. And, besides, we will acquire the love of those whom we are helping by the mercy of God, which will make us the more happy.

As God's servants, bringing justice to where there is none, we work on a project that is bound to be completed and will never fail, as "the gospel of the Kingdom of God shall be preached in the whole world for a testimony to all nations; and then shall the end come;" and "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but God's words shall not pass away."

He who serves God saves both himself and them that hear him.

The Message of John the Baptist

Luke 3:3, 8-17, 21, 22 Read chap. 3

Introduction

Luke with exactness connects John's coming with current political and ecclesiastical history (vs 1, 2), so we may be confident that we read exact history. God left nothing to mere chance in preparing the way for Jesus' coming. John the Baptist was born at the opportune time and specially prepared and endowed to be the forerunner of Christ. He received his special training while "in the wilderness," in solitude and communion with God (L. 1:80) until the time was ripe for him to enter upon his public work. He was a Nazarite in manner of life, with a camel's hair raiment and locusts and wild honey for food. He avoided the cities in his short ministry and stayed in the region of the Jordan where large crowds came to hear him. Many came for instruction and baptism.

John, God's Messenger v 3

John brought God's message, not his own. "The word of God came to John in the wilderness" (v2). God spoke to him, laid a burden on his heart, placed a message on his lips, then John spoke to the people. God broke the silence of the centuries since the prophets had spoken, and now spoke through John. He received his message from God and at once began to deliver it in the great out of doors. The substance of it was, "the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins." He asked for a public profession of repentance and renunciation of sin, in the act of baptism. Repentance is a change of mind concerning wrong and evil deeds, a change of mind and heart for the better, so moved by the convictions that one has sinned against God. It is sorrow for sin as SIN, an indispensible requisite for saving faith.

John's Preaching and Message vs 8-17, 21, 22

John's preaching drew multitudes (v7). The power of the Holy Spirit was upon him (1:15). Many of his hearers were of the Pharisees and Saducees (Matt. 3:7). He spoke in strong words (v7). John was not familiar with honeyed words. At times, strong language is necessary to waken sinners from the lethargy of sin. John believed in a coming wrath of God against sin, a doctrine as unpopular then as it is now. He plainly declared that their being descendants of Abraham was not enough to insure being acceptable to God, who could make better people than they were, out of the stones along the Jordan.

The hour of judgment is at hand, John declared (v9), and will be meted out against all who do not bring forth fruits worthy of repentance. His message gripped his hearers' conscience (v10). John's answer is very practical. It hits at business greed and demands practical charity. They are to show that they love others by treating them in love and charity (v11). The publicans and soldiers were told to conduct their work honestly and honorably (v 12-14). This would indeed be an evidence of repentance on their part.

John's preaching aroused the people to think of him as the Messiah (v15). Very modestly he declared the mighter one who was to come and who would by the baptism with the Holy Spirit and fire effect an inner cleansing and transform their hearts (v16). This baptism we as individuals, and the Church need today. Jesus heard of John's preaching. He came to hear him and gave His approval to it. He came to be baptized, not for repentance, but for dedication. He was anointed with power by the Spirit and God expressed His delight in Him.

John sought to prepare the people spiritually to accept Christ. He demanded fruits of life as evidence of real repentance, which is a godly sorrow for sin, which sorrow shows itself in forsaking sin and seeking God's mercy. God knows whether repentance is real and men see the fruits when they are shown.

DOCTRINAL - DEVOTIONAL

IT'S YOUR PRIVILEGE TO BE A SOUL-WINNER

By Rev. Will H. Houghton, D. D.

And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness, as the stars for ever and ever.—Daniel 12:3.

What a high privilege—"to turn many to righteousness." And what a reward—"shall shine as the stars forever." Do you have this "forever" in your life? Did you ever turn one soul to righteousness? Surely your influence is not cast for evil? Or, perhaps you are neutral and your interest negligible.

You live in a world of unrighteousness and sin. It is a world of defeat and despair. Even those who have found a measure of success in living from year to year confess at times to a sense of futility. What is the end of it all, is the question of their hearts. The temporariness of life is disturbing. Men long for permanence. You may have the privilege of putting them in touch with an eternity of satisfaction. Bring them to the One who is Eternal Life—Jesus Christ.

Would you like to do your best for God? Become a soul-winner. Link your life to His for the greatest enterprise of rescue.

Would you like to do your best for the world? Reach out your hand to point to Christ. Sometimes your hand will give a motion of warning, for souls are in danger. Sometimes there will be a motion of beckoning, as you repeat the invitation of your Lord, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest" (Matt. 11:28).

Would you like to do your most for your church? What greater service is there to render the cause than this, to be a seeker of men? This is the Church's mission and commission, and you enable your own church to justify its existence when you point a soul to Christ. You might give a memorial organ to your church. Splendid. But win a soul and you will have done more.

Why not do your best for yourself? Soul-winning is it. It enriches your own life. It makes you a growing and a knowing Christian. You will find the joy of the life that is Christ—you will be a glowing Christian. There will be much of earthly reward. To see a life transformed! To see the sin-marred face become radiant! To see defeats turned into victory! And there will be heavenly reward, also. Be sure of that. You will be glad then, and will wish you had started it sooner. Not empty handed and ashamed then, but golden sheaves to lay at His feet!

What is soul-winning? It is bringing men to Christ. It is not changing men from one denomination to another, or from one church to another. It is not getting men to change their opinions, but to receive a Person. "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name" (John 1:12).

You are not after the reformation of a man, but the regeneration of a man. You seek not to make members of your group, but members of His body. If they join your group later, rejoice—and send them out after somebody else. Be satisfied with nothing less than their straight and sincere acceptance of the living Christ as Savior and Lord. Spurgeon said, "To make proselytes is suitable labor for a Pharisee, but to bring men to God should be our aim."

It is doing what Edward Kimball did, when, as a faithful Sunday School teacher, he went to young Dwight L. Moody's place of business and led him to Christ. Would you not like to be Edward Kimball today? But all he did was to bring a lad to the Saviour. Why do you not do that and see what God will do with the lad?

It is doing what D. L. Moody did as a regular thing. It is true that he successfully preached to thousands and saw multitudes, at his invitation, make public confession of Christ, but day by day he made it a rule to speak to at least one soul about the Saviour.

Soul-winning is fishing for men. "And he saith unto them, Follow me, and I will meke you fishers of men." (Matt. 4:19). It has been frequently said that the first law of fishing is to go where the fish are. Indifferent worldlings do not attend church where the preacher can get a hook in them. You take hook and bait, and go after them, and consider your own experience of God's grace the bait. Tell what Christ means to you, but be sure to use the Scriptures. The Bible has the power needed to convict and convert.

Soul-winning is witnessing for Christ. You witness not to those who are already in agreement. Jesus Christ is on trial out there in the world, and there, where men are falsly judging Him, you are to be His witness. What do you know? Does He save men? Has He saved you? Do you know His peace? Has He given your life point and purpose? Then tell someone else. Kindly, but presistently, tell them, and tell them again. This is what He wants you to do, for He said to His own, "As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you" (John 20:21).

There are important reasons why one should win souls, but there can be no greater reason than that Christ commands it and expects it. If He is your Master, He has the right to command and you must not ignore the command.

Mark 16:15 is perfectly clear. "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Some assign this text to missionaries only, but it includes all Christians—"Go ye." Some "dispensationalize" it away. That is comfortable. It is the lazy way of meeting the commission, but it will not do.

To this we would join, "And hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation. Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God" (II Cor. 5:19, 20).

Consider also our Lord's words: "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, He may give it you" (John 15:16). He is not here talking about the fruit of the Spirit to which Paul refers—"love, joy peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance" (Gal. 5:22, 23).

What is fruit? It is the propagating part of the tree. The peach tree bears its fruit, and every peach has a seed, and every seed is a potential tree—and more fruit. Tree, fruit, seeds for other trees, and more fruit. This is nature's plan. This is also God's plan.

See it at work in the book of Acts. A soul saved, and that soul touching another soul. Why are you a Christian? Not merely that you might be saved finally—not even that you might enjoy the Christian life now—but that through you the Holy Spirit might touch another life for the glory of your Lord.

But there are other reasons. You must consider the deep need of men The world is lost in sin. It is not merely that men had lost their way, and Christ is the way-shower. Brunner represents a certain kind of theology as saying that the only thing separating God and man is distance. Presumably man will overcome that and overtake God. But will he? Suppose man's back is turned toward God? Then the distance increases rather than narrows.

That men are lost—totally lost—was what Jesus, and Paul, and John, and the others believed. "For the Son of man is come to seek and save that which was lost" (Luke 19:10). "For God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16).

This is the reason for the outcry of the Philippian jailer, "What must I do to be saved?" (Acts 16:30), and the reply of Paul and Silas, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house" (Acts 16:31). It is also the reason for John's declaration, "He that hast the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life" (I John 5:12).

Dr. Torrey sets forth the advantages of personal work:

1. All can do it.
2. It can be done anywhere.
3. It can be done any time.
4. It reaches all classes.
5. It hits the mark.
6. It produces large results.

THE FIRST CAUSE

By Dr. Harry Lindbloom

Member American Chemical Society

Speculative Science presents us "the first cause," and attempts no further explaination. Scriptural Revelation presents us with God as the Author, and continues throughout the pages of Holy Writ to introduce Him. Not only is He presented as the Cause and the Sustainer of all things. Many mysterious things in nature find their explanation in this latter thought. Aside from the thought of an upholding, omnipotent and intelligent being, thousands of natural phenomena leave us in the labyrinths of inky blackness and murkey night. Not only is He set forth as the Creator and the Sustainer of all things, but also the goal and object toward which all hings move. Every realm of Science declares that things are in motion. From the revolving spheres of the universe seen only by the aid of the telescope, to the minute forms of life, seen through the microscope, everything moves. The most solid substance of matter is made up of rotating and revolving molecules. Why are they moving and what is their goal?— Scripture helps us—"by Him are all things made and to Him are all things made." In other words He has an ultimate object in Creation. It is under His control and moves at His direction. Pseudo-science would say—"Things are feeling their way along, casting aside the unfit, permitting the fit to survive and continually reaching out and up, and no one can tell what the ultimate and fianl result of this continual progress, development and advancement will be. Along with the hypotheses of science, comes the strange philosophy that all things are moving forward and onward, becoming better with each generation nad soon a Nirvana and high heaven will be reached.

God in Christ demonstrated His complete control over all departments of nature. The winds obeyed Him, the waters carried Him, the nature of substances was changed at His touch, as in the making of wine out of water; a fish at His call with a coin in its mouth; the loaves were increased in His hands, and His word and touch were authority in all realms of creation. Who else could control the created things but the Creator?

Without this governing officer, how can the great interruptions in the so-called "slow and gradual process" be accounted for? Imaginative science would have us believe that all moves along slowly and orderly, climbing its upward rugged path. But the history of matter most assuredly reveals sudden interruptions and reversals. Who caused this?—The Word that brought matter into existence can surely direct its course and movement. All obey Him.—Did we say ALL—? Yes, with one exception. Nature responds. "The Voice of the Lord is upon the waters, the voice of the Lord is powerful, is full of majesty, breaketh cedars, His voice maketh them skip like a calf, life a young unicorn; the voice of the Lord divideth the flame, shaketh the wilderness, maketh the hinds to calve, and discovereth the forests." (Psalm 29).—Man does not respond, "Wherefore when I called there was none to answer?" (Isa. 50:2). Again nature responds—"behold, at My rebuke, I dry up the sea, I make the rivers a wilderness, I clothe the heavens with blackness and I make a sackcloth their covering" (Isa. 50:2, 3, 4). The Lord hath spoken, and all of nature like a mighty chorus sings His praise. The heavenly host, the shining sentinels of the night, march forth at His command, the clouds float on, the lightning flashes, the rain descends, the lilies of the field raise up and turn a smiling face to His orders. But man—"behold He has stood all day with outstretched hands and called and called, "What is your answer?"

Vital Question and Answers

Question— Should I as a conscientious objector state my convictions at the time of registration?

Ans— "Nothing in the registration card commits you to military service. You should therefore not attempt to insert any statement regarding conscientious convictions. If you feel that you must do so, you are advised that the government will keep no record of such a statement, and will therefore have no value."

Question— According to law what positions can I take as a C. O.?

Answer—

(1) Noncombatant Service in the Military Forces

"Generally speaking, this service does not require the bearing of arms, but includes such work as medical service, quartermaster service, transport service, and the like. However, it makes you legally a soldier and subject to military orders, and if you choose it, you will be inducted into the army. This type of service differs from combatant service chiefly in that you are not called upon to take life directly. In principle there is no real distinction between the two. As an noncombatant soldier you are in fact definitely a part of the military organization and perform a necessary service in its total program. You are merely displacing another man willing to carry the gun. Your acceptance of this type of service will inevitabely tend to weaken your testimony as a conscientious objector, and you will probably feel that you can not take it and be consistent."

(2) Civilian Service

"If your conscience will not permit you to participate in noncombatant service under the military organization, you may choose, and the Local Board may assign you to, 'work of national importance under civilian direction!' Just what constitutes 'work of national importance' has as yet not been defined, but it is to be distinctly civilian service entirely separate from the military organization. It may be work under civilian direction in various agencies of the government. It is hoped that it may also be preformed under the direction and control of private agencies. This latter type of work might be under authorized church service agencies. Final decision on this point is expected soon. This latter type of service would enable conscientous objectors to perform a truly useful service to their country under a church organization in a Christian environment and in a Cristian spirit, and we believe most, if not all of you, will prefer it."

The above answers were taken from COUNCIL TO MENNONITE YOUNG MEN REGARDING THE SELECTIVE TRAINING AND SERVICE ACT OF 1940 AS IT APPLIES TO CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS.

A Thought for Today

"Well, It looks as though our 'Mother' earth is undergoing a terrible periodic turmoil, doesn't it?"

"It surely does, and what are we going to do about it?"

"Plenty!"

"Here are some pointers. Firstly, let's not kid ourselves into believing that in this war one side has a monopoly on justice, righteousness, and religion. Secondly, let's remember that the American Press and radio are today building up a huge war hysteria, and that the reason for their success is the fact that "Every individual is a potential victim of propaganda." Thirdly, it is not always possible to analyze material so as to determine the amount of propaganda contained therein, but it is possible to reserve judgment. Fourthly, equally as important as to be on guard against propaganda is to take an invoice of ourselves and then to carry out in words and actions one's particular task. The conscription law seems to emphasize that each soldier is a particular unit. He has his own particular task for which he must be trained so that he may carry it out efficiently. Thus is it also in the realm of Christianity. Those of us who believe in the way of Peace, must discover where we are needed for peace and then 'fulfill' our task. We must also remember that the Peace-lovers have the bigger job, for their's is the job of construction which always demands more courage, loyalty, discipline, and sacrifice than the job of destruction. Our task is to build and to purify the world."

"What can I do now?"

"One can find his job and set his goal. Then when the winds blow one won't drift to some other task or lose one's sense of direction."

"What are some aids that might help me to do this?"

"(1) Good reading material, the Bible and other literature. (2) Past experience—direct or indirect. (3) Good, clean, wholesome fellowship in school, church, peace rallies, etc."

"Maybe this program won't do much to the world, but it will surely do a lot for me." —Harley Stucky, Peace Sec. of the Western District C. E. Conference

(The Fellowship of Reconciliation suggests that its members observe a whole day of fasting on Registeration Day, which is to be considered as a "Day of National Humiliation." As Mennonites we could observe the day in a similar way and use the money saved from our meals for relief purposes. R. W.)

PEACE RALLY

A Western District Young People's Peace Rally was held on Sept. 8. in the Mennonite Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas. The speakers of the evening were Dr. Henry A. Fast and Prof. Maurice A. Hess of McPherson College. Music was furnished by the local church. A brief question period was also held.

Dr. Fast, spoke on "Mennonite Confessions of Faith." He used as a scriptural basis the Sermon on the Mount. If the Mennonites had a creed it would certainly be the Sermon on the Mt., for it contains the basis of many Mennonite doctrines. Prof Hess spoke on "Life As a C. O. During the World War." He related many interesting experiences of which the most vivid was the experience of solitary confinement on a diet of bread and water. Harley Stucky

MAIN TOPIC: CHRISTIANITY UNDER FIRE

I Peter 4:12-19

Nov. 3, 1940

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "The Son of God Goes Forth to War," "O Jesus, I Have Promised," and "Jesus, I My Cross Have Taken."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Story of some early Christian martyr. (Can he be found in church histories?)
4. Mission offering.

II. Leader's Introduction

We all admire the brave person who willingly offers his healthy blood in an operation for blood transfusion to save a patient's life. But there is another sort of heroism which is unheralded and unsung at the time of its performance. That is the willingness to suffer and even to die for the principles of Christianity, for Christ and His cause. Loyalty to Him may mean persecution. Christ himself went the way of the cross. His followers must be willing to live for Him, and to work for Him. If this indicates suffering and persecution, they but walk in the way the Master himself has gone.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Persecutions anticipated. Matt. 10:16-22.
2. Commission and confirmation. Mark 16:15-20
3. Persecution, a blessing. Acts 8:1-4
4. The encouraging Presence. John 16:29-33.
5. Exhortation to faithfulness. II Tim. 4:1-5

IV. For Discussion

1. How did Jesus prepare Himself for suffering and death?
2. What can we do to become firm in our convictions and in our loyalty to Christ?
3. Are Christians today suffering persecution? How? Where? Why?

V. Facts for Study

The Peter who said to Christ "Though all men shall be offended because of Thee, yet will I never be offended" denied Him soon after that. A few weeks later this same Peter stood up courageously in the face of opposition and enmity, endured persecution gladly for His Master. What had happened to him in the meantime to make him strong and steadfast?

Our Mennonite conviction that war is wrong and that the way of peace and forgiveness, and love is Jesus' way, is being tested again in these days. To rethink and deepen our convictions, to reconsecrate ourselves to Christ and His way of living is a definite need today. It is one thing to say that war is sin, it is another to live that conviction when to the majority, in the face of facts force seems the only way to save democracy and to secure religious and civil liberty. TO HOLD FAST TO THE WAYS OF PEACE AND LOVE, AND TO BELIEVE IN THEIR POWER to win, in the face of suffering, perhaps BY THE WAY OF SUFFERING will mean loyalty and deep-rooted conviction.

"Steadfastly Minded to Go"

While I was making preparations for my journey, Kachi Ram entered the tent. He looked frightened and perplexed. "What are you doing, sir?" he inquired hurriedly. "The doctor says you are going to leave alone, to night, to cross the mountain range, and go to Lhassa by yourself."

"Yes, that is true."

"Oh, sir! The perils and dangers are too great; you cannot go!"

"I know, but I am going to try," I answered.

"Oh, sir! Then I will come with you."

"No, Kachi," I objected, "you will suffer too much. Go back to your father and mother now that you have the opportunity."

Then Kachi answered, "No, sir; where you go, I will go." —H. A. Savage Landor

VII. Food for Thought

White Captain of my soul, lead on;
I follow thee, come dark or dawn,
Only these things I crave;
Where terror stalks helps me be brave,
Where righteous ones can scarce endure
The siren call, help me be pure;
Where vows grow dim, and men dare do
What once they scorned, help me be true.
—Robert Freeman

—Rev. J. J. Plenert, First Church, Philadelphia,— "We pray that the Christians will be able to stand the test of these crucial days, and that especially the Mennonites and other Pacifist groups will now make their testimony. This no doubt will mean great sacrifices on all our people. May God grant that we will hold to the Christ way of life."

Poem

LET ME GO BACK

(Words of a Missionary)

Let me go back! I am homesick
  For the land of my love and toil,
Tho I thrill at the sight of my native hills,
  The touch of my native soil.
Thank God for the dear home country,
  Unconquered and free and grand!
But the far-off shores of the East, for me,
  Are the shores of the Promised Land.

No longer young—I know it—
  And battered and worn and gray,
I bear in my body the marks that tell
  Of many a toil-filled day.
But 'tis long to the end of a lifetime,
  And the hour for the sun to set;
My heart is eager for years to come;
  Let me work for the Master yet!

My brain is dazed and wearied
  With the New World's stress and strife,
With the race for money and place and power
  And the whirl of the nation's life.
Let me go back! Such pleasures
  And pains are not for me;
But Oh! for a share in the Harvest Home
  Of the fields beyond the sea.

For there are my chosen people,
  And that is my place to fill,
To spend the last of my life and strength
  In doing my Master's will.
Let me go back! 'Tis nothing
  To suffer and do and dare;
For the Lord has faithfully kept His word,
  He is "With me always" there!

From a Christmas Letter by a Missionary in China

"Early in the morning (4:45) we were awakened by sweet singing. The girls mentioned before were singing "The First Noel" and other songs. How pleased I was that they made the rounds among the helpers' homes, the gateman, yardman, etc. They could expect nothing from them and they knew it, but the joy of Christmas knew no class distinctions. The love of Christ had also filled their hearts. After they were through they came into the house to warm up beside the fireplace. After a little, a lovely voice sang outside the door, it was dear Mrs. Loa, our faithful helper. She sang "Silent Night, Holy Night." After that group after group came to carol, the yard people, the school children, groups from the suburbs, children taught by a crippled Christian girl, who of their own initiative had organized into a class and found their own teacher to teach them, sang lustily for us. Over 200 had passed through our home that morning. To all we gave a handful of peanuts." A. Fast

From the same Missionary quoted from a letter received in 1938.

"Talk of the 'Wandering Jew' we certainly felt like wanderers. I have lived in suitcases since May 27, 1936, with the exception of five months at Taming when I had actually unpacked for that length of time. The actual fact really is that I have been packed more or less since I left for furlough in spring of 1934. As yet we do not see the end of it. But we do not want to complain. There is too much to be grateful for. So far we have not been in want of food or shelter and we have been kept wonderfully from harm. We enjoy health and friends."

From Wilhelmina Kuyf, also in China. April, 1940

"Just now we are in the midst of instruction classes which is another name for catechetical classes. It is a much 'stiffer' course than that implies at home. Folks come for two weeks, meeting daily from 9:30 to 12, and again from 1:30 to 4. In between times they are studying away at their catechisms, or learning a new song, or talking about what they have heard preached that day. Some of them have brought their own food and burning material, others buy prepared food here. We help especially in the first period in the morning and afternoon, when the people study. Remember, many of these folks don't read a character, and it is terrifically slow business getting them past the first page. If they only would understand what they read! We are grateful for some who do, and for those who read and are going ahead. We pray every day that God himself will open their understanding."

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

Outline for November, 1940

"THANKS BE TO GOD"

November 3,—Giving Thanks by Helping Those About Us.

November 10—Giving Thanks for our Country and Peace

November 17—Giving Thanks by Sharing: The Good News

November 24— Giving Thanks by Sharing: Gifts

Verse of the Month—Ephesians 5:20: "Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of Lord Jesus Christ."

Song of the Month—"For All the Blessings of the Year" M. H. B. 381. (This may not be a familiar song, but it is well to learn new songs every once in a while.)

Prayer of the Month—I Chronicles 29:13, 14b: "Our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name . . . . for all things come of thee, and of thine own have we given thee."

Dear leaders: We are again entering the Thanksgiving month, and we ask ourselves the question, "Have we lived thankful lives before our juniors, 'giving thanks always for all things unto God.' " In the suggestions for the last program mention was made of giving the child a prayer vocabulary. Every child gets his vocabulary from those about him. As your juniors follow your prayer vocabulary, which words appear more often: "Give me" or "Thank you"? If, during this month, we can impress upon the minds of our juniors the necessity and loveliness of saying "Thank you" to God, we have achieved one of the chief aims that should be ours during this month.

JUNIOR CORNER

"THANKS BE TO GOD"

Program for November 3, 1940

GIVING THANKS BY HELPING THOSE ABOUT US

Setting:

Have a center which creates an atmosphere of worship, in the front of the room. This could be an open Bible with candles to either side and a light thrown upon the open page, or one of the many sacred art pictures which suggests worship could be used. Besides this, have a setting of soft music as the children come.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—"O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee" M. H. B. 287.
2. Call to Worship—"Serve the Lord with Gladness: come before His presence with singing."
3. Worship in Song—"O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee" M. H. B. 287
4. Worship in Scripture—Psalm 100, read by a junior boy.
5. Leader's Opening Prayer.
6. Leader's Introducton of the theme of the month and of the evening, arousing in the juniors the desire to show their thankfulness by helping others.
7. Poem—"Just to be Tender" by a Junior girl, who reads well and impressively.

"Just to be tender, just to be true,
Just to be glad the whole day through,
Just to be merciful, just to be mild,
Just to be trustful as a child;
Just to be gentle and kind and sweet,
Just to be helpful with willing feet,
Just to be cheery when things go wrong,
Just to drive sadness away with song,
Whether the hour is dark or bright,
Just to be loyal to God and right,
Just to believe that God knows best,
Just in His promises ever to rest;
Just to let love be our daily key,
That is God's will for you and me."
—Author unknown

8. Special Music—"Somebody Did a Golden Deed" by four junior girls.

II. Study Period

Aim—To bring our juniors to a fuller realization that just to say "Thank you" is not enough, but that we must live out our thankfulness.

1. Story: "A Boy who Forgot to be Thankful" Luke 15: 11-32 by a Junior boy.
2. "How Jesus Showed His Thankfulness to His Parents" Luke 2:51, 52 discussed by a Junior girl.
3. "Jesus Showed His Thankfulness to His Heavenly Father by Helping Others" Acts 10: 38 (using illustrations from the Gospels) discussed by a Junior boy.
4. Song: "I Would Be True" in unison
5. Discussion: "How we as Juniors can show our Thankfulness:"
   a. At home
   b. At school
   c. At church
   d. At play
   e. To God
6. Bible Verses telling us what we can do—Bible Reference Drill. Eph. 6:1; I Thess. 5:18; Psalm 136: 1; Phil. 2:5; Psalm 103:2; Eccl. 21:1; Psalm 122:1; John 5:39; Matt. 19:19; Luke 10:27; etc.
7. Leader's Heart Talk—Find a story which illustrates very vividly how other children have been helpful, thus showing their thankfulness.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Secure a large map of the world and also a globe, if possible.
2. Interest the Juniors in taking a trip around the world visiting all of our missionaries, both home and foreign, along the route.
3. Ask the Juniors to secure some preliminary information, such as the difference between home and foreign missionaries, from which ports they could sail, etc. for the following meeting.
4. Secure a Scrapbook for pictures and short biographies of the missionaries to be visited.
5. Pray for our missionaries on the field.
6. Bring a missionary offering.

(Leaders: Short biographies of most of our missionaries have appeared in the MISSIONARY NEWS AND NOTES under the heading "Meet Our Missionaries." These could be given by a junior and then pasted into the scrapbook, together with a picture if it is possible to secure one.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Memorize the verse of the month.
2. Pray the prayer of the month
3. Sing the song of the month

Thoughts for Christian Home Month

O happy home, where little ones are given
Early to Thee, in humble faith and prayer.

The Christian home is a happy home, according to the above couplet by Carl J. P. Spitta. But there is more involved than fleeting unhappiness in a home where "humble faith" is unknown and prayer untried. Whether or not lives are to be Christian or non-Christian, the fate of nations, the progress of civilization, the establishment of the Kingdom of God is irrevocably linked with life in the home, according to a pastor, a former ruler, and a group of Christians.

Writes the pastor: "The chances are that if real religion is not taught and caught in the home, it may never be caught."

Asked for his opinion of Chancellor Hitler, William II, former German Kaiser, replied (according to Burkhardt's report in "Ken": "He builds legions, but he does not build a nation. A nation is created by families, a religion, traditions; it is made up of the hearts of mothers, the wisdome of fathers, the joy and exuberance of children."

"The Manual of Church Members" of the Congregational and Christian Churches places the following evaluation on the home: "The strength of the church, the stability of civilization, the establishment of the Kingdom of God, all depend primarily on the spirit, the consecration, and the strength of the Christian family."

CORRESPONDENCE

BERGFELDER CHURCHES, DELFT, MINN.

10-8-40

Our Heavenly Father has brought us through another season of planting and harvesting and has supplied our material needs bountifully, for which we are indeed very grateful. He has not neglected our spiritual needs, for through the year we have had the privilege of worshipping our Lord each Sunday in our regular services as well at on special occasions.

A very special festival was observed Sunday afternoon, October 6. Our missionary, Miss Anna H. Quiring, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Quiring, has returned from her 4½ year service as missionary to Africa. She arrived on Friday, October 4, with her parents who had met her at the dock in Los Angeles, California. The program was opened by the mixed choirs from both the Mt. Lake and Delft churches when they sang "Praise Him, Praise Him." Then Miss Quiring greeted the congregation with the following verse from Psalm 40:5—"Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which thou has done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward; they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered." Rev. D. P. Eitzen was in charge and Rev. John Bartel spoke the welcome message reading the third epistle of John for the opening, and then basing his thoughts on prayer and work as the greatest essentials to a happy Christian life. He used several Scripture passages and stressed especially Luke 10:20, "Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven." Miss Quiring related an incident showing that Jesus is mighty to save. She also sang one verse of "Is my name written there?" in the native language of her field. The choirs of both churches furnished numbers in song during the service. Rev. H. H. Quiring made closing remarks using as his text Psalm 126:2-3.—"Then was our mouth filled with laughter, and our tongue with singing; then said they among the heathen, The Lord hath done great things for them. The Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad." After the service a lunch was served to all.

In the Delft church during the past few months we have adopted a constitution for the church and also had election of deacons and trustees. Mr. John Wall and Mr. D. J. Goertzen were elected as deacons and the ordination is to take place in the near future. We are thankful to God for the churches, servants, and the true Gospel that we have; may we all remain faithful to the end. —Mrs. Abram P. Baerg, Corr.

BETHESDA CHURCH, MARION, S. DAK.

Our congregation had baptismal services on August 18 and communion services on September 22 with large attendances for both events.—Five young men and one young lady were received into membership of our church through baptism and two ladies were accepted by letter. Rev. A. P. Waltner had led them in catechelical instruction throughout the summer months.

One of the baptismal candidates, Prof. Jacob H. Tschetter of Belgrade, Minnesota, has grown up in a nearby Mennonite community but failed to join church. At present, his work necessitates his living in a community where there is no Mennonite church. Mrs. Tschetter has been a member here for some time and we are glad to have her husband with us too, even though they cannot attend services with us regularly.

Interest for a women's mission society of our congregation has been growing and so Rev. Waltner helped organize one on October 6. Mrs. A. P. Waltner was elected president, Mrs. Abr. V. Tieszen vice-president; and Susan Deckert secretary-treasurer.

Plans have been made for a harvest festival this coming Sunday with Rev. J. B. Toews of Freeman College as our speaker. —Susan Deckert, Corr.

MARRIED

—WALTNER-JANTZ.—At the Mennonite parsonage, Lind, Wash., Rev. Edmund Miller united in marriage Miss Lillian Waltner, daughter of Mr. John Waltner of Odessa, Wash., with Mr. Joe Jantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Jantz, also of Odessa. After a trip to the east the couple will be at home in Odessa, Wash., where Mr. Jantz is a wheat farmer.

—MUELLER-STUCKY.—Sunday afternoon, Sept. 29, Miss Elfriede Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mueller of Halstead, Kans., and W. Robert Stucky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Stucky, were united in marriage by Rev. D. C. Wedel in the Halstead Menn. Church. The couple will make their home on a farm near McPherson, Kans.—Their address: Route No. 2, McPherson, Kansas.

—KREHBIEL-RAID.—At the Zion Menn. Church, Donnellson, Iowa, on Aug. 11, Rev. P. P. Hilty, uncle of the bridegroom, joined in marriage Miss Pauline Krehbiel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Krehbiel, with Mr. Howard Raid, son of Mrs. Clara Raid, all of Donnellson.

Emergency Relief

From the office of the Mennonite Central Committee at Ephrata, Penna., we have received the following notice which will interest our Sewing Societies:

Dear Friends:

When the new Relief office opened at Ephrata we found many boxes and parcels from all directions waiting to be opened and many that had not been acknowledged before. This part has been done up to date as nearly as possible. However, we found 23 boxes and parcels which we are unable to acknowledge because of the following:

1. Lack of name and address
2. Lack of name
3. Lack of address
4. Name only given and that not legible
5. Name of Sewing Circle given but no individual's name and address attached.

We are very sorry to be unable to acknowledge receipt of these and to thank you individually for the splendid contributions you have made. We appreciate all that is being done for war sufferers. In these were both new and used clothing such as comforters, blankets, quilts, shirts, knickers, dresses, boys' little suits, blouses, baby layettes, underwear, stockings, sweaters, dresses, slips, ladies' coats, shoes, socks, trousers, etc., etc.

If this comes to the notice of any who remember sending in unlabelled boxes; will you kindly accept the above thanks and acknowledgement of receipt?

May we solicit the favor from all who send boxes and parcels to this office to kindly note the following instructions:

1. Write plainly name and address of sender and number of packages. Note also if the sender is "Miss," or "Mrs."
2. Note inside the box the name of church, branch and sewing circle sending.
3. If parcel is from individuals and not from Sewing Circles, note the name of church represented.

Second hand clothing should be in good condition to justify the expense of sending.

Attention given to these little details will facilitate the work of the office here very much. We invite your hearty cooperation and sincere prayers in behalf of the Relief work.

For further information write to Mrs. Lydia Lehman, Ephrata, Penna., or Mr. John C. Miller, Secretary of the Emergency Relief Board, Freeman, South Dakota.

—Bluffton College.—Rapid progress has been made this past week in the preliminary work involved in the complete remodeling of the college chapel, made possible by a large gift from Mr. A. C. Ramseyer, Smithville, Ohio. Quite a number of local people and college students have donated their services in this work.—Advance reports indicate a large attendance at our approaching Homecoming Activities. Dr. Harold Alderfer of State College, Pa., a graduate of the class of 1922, will be the speaker at the Vesper Services Sunday afternoon in the First Menn. Church. —Final registration figures show that our enrollment stands at exactly the same number as that of last year. The present senior class is the largest in the history of the College.

—Rollin W. Moser, Field Secretary

—Woodland Menn. Church, Warroad, Minn.—"Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in Heaven. Matt. 10:32. That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. Rom. 10:9." On Sunday forenoon, September 22nd, the first baptismal services took place in our church, when five young people were baptized upon their confession of faith. In the afternoon was held the Lord's Supper.—The members of the sewing club are busy with preparations for the annual sale which is to be held the eighteenth of October. —Jake Quiring, Corr.

—Rev. John Lichti, reports that they have sold their home at Medford, Okla., where Bro. Lichti served the Mennonite church for many years, and are moving to Deer Creek, Okla. So his friends and acquaintances should remember his new address: DEER CREEK, OKLAHOMA.

—Freeman Junior College, Freeman, S. Dak.—In his report to the annual Corporation Meeting Pres. J. D. Unruh reported, among other things: Another two-year accreditment period has been granted to our Junior College Department by the State University.—The staff of teachers remains at 11 full time members for 1940-41. Miss Louise Schroeder (daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P. R. Schroeder) and Rev. John Toews being new members on the staff. Mrs. Lydia Kaufman continues as Librarian and Rudolf Preheim assumes the duties of Janitor. He concludes his report thus: "In these trying times it behooves us to keep ever in close communion with our Heavenly Father. We need to work hand in hand with our constituent churches in enabling our youth to catch a larger vision of what constitutes Christian living. Those who are not satisfied with our spiritual atmosphere on the campus can help us most by coming with helpful suggestions, prayers, and material contributions. They can help us least by merely pointing with critical fingers at our weaknesses."

—Dr. (Rev.) P. H. Richert honored by his church.—Bro. P. H. Richert, pastor of the Tabor Mennonite Church, near Newton, Kans., and long-term secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, was honored by the Church and friends with an anniversary festival, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 6. Following the introduction by Prof. (Rev.) J. J. Voth of Bethel College, Rev. A. E. Kreider, also of Bethel, preached the anniversary sermon. The Reverends P. P. Buller and C. C. Wedel, who were ordained to the ministry with Bro. Richert years ago, gave short addresses. His sister Margaret of the Bethesda Hospital read an interesting biography of her brother, and other ministers made remarks. At the close a fellowship supper was served in the church basement.

—Brother Joseph B. Bechtel, 4912 Knox St., Philadelphia, Pa., in reminding us of their diamond jubilee anniversary at the First Church, Philadelphia, writes: "Members from Mennonite churches anywhere, and friends of Mennonites everywhere are cordially invited to visit us in the Philadelphia area, for all of the services" (which were published in the last Mennonite).—This church has the distinction of being the first Mennonite Mission project in a large city and has continually rendered service to the congregation and community at N. E. corner of Reese and Diamond Streets.

—Zion Menn. Church, Donnellson, Iowa.—We will observe our annual Harvest Home Festival Oct. 13. There is an all day celebration, with basket dinner at noon. The emphasis during the day will be on the Advantages and Needs of the Rural Church. The Ladies' Mission Society has charge of the meeting in the afternoon, and in the evening Rev. Wm. Penner of Wayland, Iowa, will speak. —Adolf Friesen —Religious Emphasis Week at Bethel College October 6 to 11.—For some years Bethel College has featured a week of services with the aim of deepening the religious life of its students. Usually a minister who understands student life and problems is invited as speaker. This year it is Dr. D. D. Eitzen, member of the faculty of the Graduate School of Religion at the University of Southern California. Dr. Eitzen is a dynamic speaker, and his interesting, instructive addresses are drawing large audiences of students and others. His interests lie largely in the religious treatment of the problems of the human soul and human emotional life, "Seelsorge." "The Student Faces Life" is his theme for the week. His chapel topics: "Man born of woman . . . is full of trouble," "Three instructive adjustments to life," "Facing life according to the prophets," "Discovering Dale Carnegie," "Beneath the Cross of Jesus, I. . . . "

Subjects for the evening meetings: "Is that what ails me?" "Blessed are those who feel their spiritual needs," "An adequate philosophy of life," "A program of self-extension," "Now my soul is troubled," theme of the concluding program Friday evening in connection with a student communion service.

—Emmaus Church, near Whitewater, Kans.—On Sept. 29 our congregation had the privilege of hearing Rev. H. E. Ramseyer from Duluth, Minn. who is representing the Northern Bible Society. He revealed that many souls had been won to Christ through the Bibles that had been distributed in various communities. How true it is the Word of God is quick and powerful and sharper than a two-edged sword.—Heb. 4:12. —Corr.

Something the heart must have to cherish,
Must love, and joy, and sorrow learn;
Something with passion clasp, or perish,
And in itself to ashes burn. —Longfellow

Special Questionnaire For Conscientious Objectors

by E. L. Harshbarger

Each person desiring to be a conscientious objector under the Selective Service Act is required to fill an additional questionnaire in addition to the general questionnaire required of all Class I registrants. The C O should ask the local board for Form 47. The purpose of this special questionnaire is to give the local board sufficient information to pass on the sincerity of the registrant without a fromal hearing.

The following questions will be asked:—1. Describe the nature of your belief which is the basis for your claim to exemption; 2. Explain how, when, and from whom and from what sourse you received the training and acquired the belief which is the basis of your claim; 3. Give the name and present address of the individual upon whom you rely most for religious guidance; 4. Under what circumstances if any, do you believe in the use of force; 5. Describe the actions and behavior in your life which in your opinion most conspicuously demonstrate the consistency and depth of your religious convictions; 6. Have you ever given public expression, written or oral, to the views herein expressed as the basis for your claim. If so, specify when and where.

Another section deals with your education, occupation, former residences, employers, and your parents.

Section five deals with participation in various organizations, and asks:—1. Have you ever been a member of any military organization or establishment? If so, state the name and address of the same and give reasons why you became a member; 2. Are you a member of a religious sect or organization? If your answer is "yes," answer questions following: a. State the name of the sect, and the name and location of its governing body or head, if known to you. b. When, where, and how did you become a member of said sect? c. State the name and location of the church, congregation, or meeting where you customarily attend. d. Give the name and present address of the pastor or leader of such church or organization. e. Describe carefully the creed or official statements of said religious sect or organization as it relates to participation in war. 3. Describe your relationships with and activities in all organizations with which you are or have been affiliated other than religious or military.

The C O is then required to give suitable references and to sign an affidavit. If the registrant receives aid in filling out his questionnaire, which is permissible, the person aiding him must also sign an affidavit.

CONSCRIPTION INFORMATION

1. Combatant Training or service involves preparedness for actual bearing of arms and, in case of war, the shooting with intent to kill, under military command.

2. Noncombatant Training or service refers to those services under military supervision which do not involve actual fighting, such as clerical work, cooking, minesweeping, hospital work, etc.

3. Alternative Training or service is work of "national importance" (such as forestry, reconstruction, relief, farm work, to be "under civilian direction."

In Which Type Of Service Can I Best Prove Loyalty To Christ And My Country?

Combatant?

1. I must fight for my country in any way she may demand. Killing isn't murder in war time. The government is responsible for what she asks me to do. I must resist force with force (evil with evil).

Noncombatant?

2. I will not take the sword, for the Bible says, "Thou shalt not kill." I want to minister to human need even though under military control or do other work of military importance such as cooking, clerical work, etc.

Alternative?

3. I cannot share in using violence, not even against enemies. Jesus said, "Love your enemies." I choose not identify myself with anything which aids the carrying on of war. I am volunteering for any service, hard as it may be, which overcomes evil with good. Give me a chance to build! Don't force me to destroy! I want to translate my peace testimony into positive, constructive work which will minister vitally to the permanent well-being of my country and all mankind!

Selling Out Conscience

A vast army of 16 million men of our country has now registered with our government for military training for at least one year, with chances more pro than con that the largest percentage of these men will be required to do active military service at some time in the future. Certainly no one can at this early date forsee all the possible implications of this stupendous undertaking, but we wonder how many men in draft age at 21 to 35 realize some of the most immediate results such a subjection and admission to government regimentation may bring upon their lives and characters for years to come. Let us first of all remember that none of these men called to register have ever served in any war, are totally unacquainted with army life, have tasted nothing of the horrors of war, excepting what they may have seen in their fathres who have been in it. May that be a warning in itself. To some the thought of adventure and new experiences may have some appeal, but what the cost of these experiences may be must first be computed, not in terms of dollars and cents but in terms of morals and eternal soul values.

Young men, your God-given conscience does mean a lot to you. It has been your good counsellor, it has often sounded a warning note when danger was imminent, it has deterred you from pitfalls and has helped you to stay firm on the path of what is right and honorable. In other words, it is your much trusted, intimate friend—your indispensible companion. Will you part company with it? Will you put your conscience out on sale and sell out? Conscription implies that.

The words of Paul in I Timothy 1:18,19 are very pertinent: "This charge I commit unto thee, son Timothy, according to the prophecies which went before unto thee, that thou by them mightest war a good warfare; holding faith and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck". Shipwreck of body, mind, and soul is the ultimate outcome when the conscience that God has planted within us is sold out and put away. Let us strive to hold on to "the faith once delivered to the saints" and to us, and let us hold on to a "good conscience". Let us heed God's word and let us obey God rather than men. —L. H. Linscheid, in "The Bethany Messenger"

—Rev. P. P. Wedel, ex-president of the Gen. Conference and now for some years chairman of the Board of Foreign Missions, writes: "For just four weeks I have been on the sick list, and am slowly convalescing. It will be some time before I can begin work again. Would like very much to attend the Conference sessions this week; but I may have to forego that privilege."

What I Believe About War

By Ralph W. Sockman

Minister, Christ Methodist Church, New York, N. Y.

I believe that wars are not inevitable. War is a form of insanity or disease, and, like the physical plagues of olden times, can be purged from the earth. To say that human nature cannot be changed seems to me a damnable heresy, denying the divinity of our Lord, who died believing that, if He be lifted up, He could draw all men unto Him.

I believe that war cannot be ended by war, whether waged on other shores or on our own. To fight fire with fire may seem to put out the flames for a time, but it drives the heat underground to break out elsewhere.

I believe there is a distinction between the war system and police force. War is the use of violence by partisan bodies in a spirit of hatred for the purpose of killing. Police force is coercion exercised by a nonpartisan body in a judicial spirit for the purpose of redemption.

I believe that the United States should make known to the world the kind of international peace organization which we would be willing to join. Twenty years ago we joined in a war and then kept out of the peace. Maybe with God's help we could join now in some mighty peace move and keep out of the war.

I believe that the present battle of Britain is a struggle for democracy in which we cannot be morally neutral. But the European war is more than a fight between dictatorship and democracy. It is a part of a world-wide social revolution which cannot be stabilized merely by the defeat of the dictators. The basic causes are deeper and wider, and the United States will ultimately render larger service to democracy and social stability by refraining from the present struggle. The way to keep democracy safe for the world is to keep it out of war.

I believe that the Christian church as an institution must set for herself a standard higher than that which she can expect of a complex secular organization like the state. As a church we must ever keep God in Christ as the sovereign lord of our consciences, and stand by those who suffer for conscience' sake

I believe in preparedness for the preservation of the American way of life. But while I grant the advisibility of reasonable military force as our part in the world's policing, I believe the best preparedness for the nation is not in armies and navies, which are soon scrapped, but in the morale of people who know and serve God. —Christian Advocate

A Man After God's Heart

Both in sacred and secular history, few men can be found whose lives are more interesting than that of king David of Israel. In him we see a grossly sinful man and at the same time a genuinely godly man. Though he was "a man after God's heart," he had reason to confess with the apostle Paul, "For I know that in me, that is in my flesh, dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me, but to do that which is good is not." The Bible tells us that David committed some very grievous sins or even crimes. Living with a dozen or more wives, he was a confirmed polygamist. By having an innocent soldier servant killed, so as to be able to possess his beautiful wife, he committed a foul murder. Ordering a census of his subjects, induced by a sense of national pride, he so offended God that as punishment thousands of them fell by the sword of God's avenging angel. But his soul suffered grievously for these and other misdeeds, more so, because of the pain that he thus inflicted upon His God. In view of such dark spots in his life, what were some of the reasons for calling David "a man after God's own heart?"

In the first place, David dearly loved God, and let Him order his life. He and His God were, so to say inseparable companions and in steady communication with each other. No matter what came up in David's life, he told His God about it, in sorrow, in affliction, in joy, in sickness, when haunted by his enemies, when in want of anything, in prosperity, in defeat, he told Jehovah about it, just as though he were telling it to a very close friend. David was very humble. He lived meekly within the limits of God's commandments and never forgot that, though he was king, he was primarily God's servant, so different from the attitude of king Saul. And God honored him with this title "servant." "He chose David as his servant, and took him from the sheepfolds." "I have made a covenant with my chosen, I have sworn unto David my servant." "I have found David my servant. . . . " Psalms 78:70; 89:3,20. In his humbleness young David declined to meet the giant Goliath with sword and spear, but vanquished him with sling and stone. Though repeatedly faced with death at the hands of Saul, he humbly continued to honor him as king or father, and to respect him in spite of his perverted conduct. The greatness of David showed itself in the magnanimous and pious treatment of Saul and his family. Just as his great descendant, the Son of Man and of God, he returned good for evil and, instead of hating his would-be murderer, he loved him and positively declined to lay his hands on the Lord's annointed. He had his servants scour the country for descendents of his friend, prince Jonathan. And when Mephibosheth, his crippled son, was found, he returned all his father's possessions to him, took him into his own house and had him eat at his table. David was just and righteous in his dealings with men. His inbred fear of God enabled him to deal gently with friend and foe, the strong and the weak, the high and the low. How like Jesus! Even when smarting under the insults of his enemies, he deigned to hear the voice of God. When Shimei, a relative of Saul, cursed and abused him, he said, "He curseth, because Jehovah has said unto him, 'Curse David.' " Later when this man, with other relatives of Saul, appeared to do homage to the new king and Shimei humbly asked pardon for the insult, David gladly forgave him. He showed his splendid, forgiving spirit again in his attitude to his rebellious two sons, Absolom and Adonia, both of whom tried to wrest the kingdom from their father, by showing his concern for them and by forgiving them their really unpardonable revolts. For success in overcoming his and his country's enemies, for protection and finding his way through difficulties generally, David again and again gives God the praise and credit, as may be noted in the Psalms and other parts of the Scriptures. This characterizes David as an unselfish man whose trust is in God rather than in himself. "God is our refuge and strength;" "God will redeem me from the power of Sheol;" "In God will I put my trust, I will not be afraid;" "God is unto us a God of deliverances;" "It is good for me to draw near unto God, I have made the Lord God my refuge." Lastly, a chief reason for David's distinction as "a man after God's heart," lies in the little word MY. He dared attach this personal, possessive pronoun to the great God in his intimate relation to Him. David boldly cries, "O Lord, my Strength, my rock, my deliverer;" "The Lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear;" Blessed be the Lord. . . . my goodness and my fortress, my high tower. . . . my shield;" "O Lord my strength and my redeemer;" "Thou art my Father, my God, and the rock of my salvation." Would that more Christians might in a very real and true sense claim God and His Christ as their own!

—Deep Run Mennonite Church, Deep Run, Penna.— On Sunday morning Oct. 10, we commemorated the Lord's Supper. Preparatory services were held Saturday afternoon together with baptismal services, when we had the joy of receiving ten young people into the church, nine by baptism and one by the right hand of fellowship, after being instructed by Rev. A. M. Fretz, assisted by Rev. Russell Mast throughout the summer.—May God's richest blessing rest upon these young folk and we trust they may grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.—Much interest has been shown in the mid-week Bible study started several weeks ago and conducted by Rev. Mast. Attendance has been very good and these studies have proved a blessing to all attending. —Corr.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

SERMON AT FAREWELL SERVICE FOR THE BOEHRS, EAST SWAMP MENNONITE CHURCH,

by Rev. Howard G. Nyce, member of Foreign Mission Board

I have selected a double text for this afternoon, the first is found in Acts 28:31 which reads, "Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all confidence, no man forbidding him." We are going to change the wording a little bit for the occasion but not losing the strength of the text. We shall read it as follows: "Preach the kingdom of God, and teach those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all confidence." The second text is found in Phil. 4:7, "And the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds through Jesus Christ." If we read the two texts together it will read as follows: "Preach the kingdom of God, and teach those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ;—And the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds through Jesus Christ."

I believe that if there ever was a time that the words of the former King of England, "AT LONG LAST" could appropriately be said, it is this afternoon. Yes, after a period of long waiting, this day has finally come. May the way remain open that you may soon be on the field in China.

The message of the afternoon is not a Charge but a Farewell Service. I need not talk to you as new missionaries. You know the problems that lie ahead, as a new missionary cannot. You know what is required of you. Winning souls always should be the missionary's main objective, but there needs to be cooperation on the part of the workers as well as Chinese Christians. When you are doing your best in the service of the Lord, you will enjoy the peace of God which passeth all understanding and your hearts and minds will be kept through Christ Jesus.

Now I would like to remind us that we have an obligation. Paul said, "My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus." For this He depends on us. Not that He has to, for everything belongs to Him. The cattle on a thousand hills are His, but it is His method of working. Let me then give you some figures to show how great a work is entrusted to us.

The total Budget for 1940 is $74,993.60 and from Jan. 1st to Aug. 1st our receipts were $40,644.42. During August and September we received $9,421.03 making a total receipts of $50,065,45. Bills paid to August 1st amounted to $39,720.15 and the balance Aug. 1st was $924.15. This balance with what we received in Aug. and Sept. amounted to $10,345.30. Have we that much on hand? NO. A large amount has been paid for the China and India Budget as well as salaries for the last quarter, besides purchasing of steamship tickets for the Wutrichs and Miss Regier who sailed Sept. 7th, for China, as well as steamship tickets for P. W. Penners and the Ratzlaffs who sail a week from next Tuesday for India. The tickets for the Boehr's have not been paid for and on the bottom of Brother Regier's letter he wrote the words, "WE ARE SHORT."

Why this on the occasion of a Farewell Service? I'll tell you why. We are obligated to those whom we send from our shores, or who work amongst the American Indians. We need $24,928.15 to complete this year's Budget. At the rate of the Aug. and Sept. receipts, we can expect an average of $4,710.51 per month or $41,131.53 as a total. We would then fall short of our required amount $10,796.62 and yet I ebelieve we will come out all right.

Supposing we do fall short, what then? Our salaries would no doubt be paid, but how about the other projects, Hospitals, Schools, etc? But I hear someone say, "Does not the Sunday School Union and the Young Peoples' organization make up a certain amount?" My answer, Yes, it does, so do the conventions of the other Conferences as well as the Women's Organization of the General Conference, but the Board figures on that in making out the Budget or else it would be much higher.

Can something be done about it? Yes, I am sure it can. WHAT? If a missionary is not loyal to the Conference and the Board of which he is a part, he is notified and released or not returned to the field. The Board knows full well that our Conference would want loyalty on the part of missionaries. BUT that being true, there needs to be a CONFERENCE LOYALTY by our Conference Churches and and leaders, not only to missions but to all projects. Our Mission Board does depend on your support and loyalty, and the other Conference Boards have a right to expect the same thing, whether it be the Home Mission Board, the Publication Board, the Board of Education, or whatever it may be. As long as it is an adopted work or project of our Conference, we as Ministers and Churches are obligated to that Conference of which we are a peart.

If the minister is not loyal to the Conference, to be sure he will soon have a following, but NEVER WILL ALL FOLLOW for there are to be found in every church, those who see their duty to their Conference of which they are a part. This is a bold statement, I know, but nevertheless true. Our Churches should see to it that a man preaches the Word of God. This should be first, it is important, but the Church should also demand that the minister support the Conference from which he is making a living.

We can not whole-heartedly support this or that project say some. I agree but if something is not what it ought to be, let us stand together, so the wrong may be made right. I care not what project this may be. We think of institutions. Right now, the institutions are not in question, we are talking about monies that flow from our churches into other channels. I am thinking of missions or missionaries that are being supported by our Conference churches, of which our churches need have no part. I am not referring to the support of those who work elsewhere and are members of our Churches. To be sure there may be an obligation. Nor am I thinking of the support that may be given to outstanding work in the community of which we may feel we have a definite part. I am referring to Churches supporting outside mission work of which they know nothing. Yes, if the monies that flow out of our Conference to other causes would stay within our Conference all projects would be taken care of. Money flows out of our Conference in several ways, through Bible Conferences, so called, which often disrupt a congregation. Then I am also thinking of our giving as a result of pleas coming from over the air. We like the service, we enjoy the ministry and so we give, not knowing anything about the work. I want to cite one instance.

Sometime ago I heard a man refer to a mission fund they were raising to the amount of $15,000 and said, "We can report that we have to date $10,000 and we praise the Lord for it." Several weeks later when the Executive Committee of our Conference met at the home of Rev. Krehbiel and I referred to this, Brother Krehbiel said, "My wife heard him say just recently that they reached over $12,000." Now my objection certainly is not to the raising of money for missions. I do object to the fact that the individual said over the air "This is a work of faith." Beloved, I do not consider that a work of faith. When you must beg for something over the air it is no longer FAITH. The Bible teaches us that we should make our requests known unto God, and then He will supply the need. He will lay it on the hearts of people. What happens as the result of such a plea? People in our Conference who should be giving to the support of our own missions, have very little to give because they have sent it in as a contribution to other work of which they know nothing.

I believe our Mission work comes under Faith Mission. We do not beg. We make out our Budget, the Budget is printed in our church papers. We have mission articles in the papers, we send Missionaries to the Churches to tell of the work and the money comes in. Now then which is truly the work of faith? Ours where we take the matter to the Lord in prayer and hope that God will provide or others who through the medium of the radio plea for help thereby robbing the work of the respective Conferences that have an obligation to fulfill.

There were times when outsiders came through our churches, presented the need and carried away large offerings. Why? It can be explained in a few words. They realized there was 'easy-picking' in our General Conference. Not long ago a man spoke to me about a certain individual who referring to our Conventions in the Eeastern Conference said, "I understand you people pay liberally for an outside speaker, I just thought I'd tell you, I am available in case you need some one anytime." We have people in our General Conference that can be used as outside speakers and Bible Conference and thereby the money can stay where it belongs. Often times outside speakers are concerned only about what they will draw out of the Church.

We need Conference loyalty. Some Conference loyalty reminds me of the young man who claimed he was desperately in love with his girl. He wrote at follows: "Dear, I love you with all my heart, there isn't anything I wouldn't do for you. Yes, I would swim the widest ocean. I would travel the longest desert for you, I would be willing to go through the longest forest, taking chances of being lost. So great is my love for you. Signed ——————." Then he added the following postcript. "I'll see you on Saturday evening, if it doesn's rain."

Sixty-five years ago, November 26, 1875, our first missionary was ordained in the West Swamp Mennonite Church. Brother S. S. Haury was the candidate. And I would like to add, he was a product of our school. Yes, he was a Wadsworth School man. It was the idea of missions that bound us together. We need to stand together today because we are obligated to those whom we have sent into the field.

Brother and Sister Boehr, "preach the Word and teach those things that concern the Lord," we will do our part so that you need not worry, but "enjoy the peace of God which passeth all understanding, that your hearts and minds may be kept through Christ Jesus." Amen.

TEN BROTHERS AND SISTERS AVERAGE AGE OF SEVENTY-SIX—Ten sons and daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Hirschler, pioneer residents of Donnellson, Iowa, community have a total age of 760 years. Of a family of 13 children, all of whom grew past maturity, the ten living ones are: Mrs. Mary Benjamin of Fort Madison; Chris, August, Mrs. Katie Mattern, Mrs. Hulda Koller, and Otto M. of Donnellson; Jacob of Haywood, Calif., Mrs. Christina Krehbiel, Salem, Oregon; Gustav, Portland, Ore., and Oswald, Upland, Calif. Four of the couples have celebrated their golden weddings: Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hirschler, Mr. and Mrs. August Hirschler, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hirschler, and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Mattern.

SERMON SKETCH

by Benjamin Ewert, Winnipeg, Manitoba

TO BE DESIROUS FOR SALVATION

Text: Luke 19, 1-9.

1. INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

In this passage we have a report of a man who was desirous to see Jesus. To know who he was.

His name, physical appearance, occupation, place of residence, testimony, etc. is given.

There have been many others like him since. Desirous for salvation, to see Jesus.

2.THE WAY TO SALVATION:

Different ways taken to find salvaation:

The right way: To look, ask for Jesus. Seek to see Him. Learn to know Him. Hear His word. Obey, receive and accept Him. Follow Him. Through Him we receive salvation, blessed salvation, for time and eternity.

Christ says: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man cometh unto the father, but by me."

3. BY WHAT MEANS DO WE RECEIVE THIS SALVATION?

a. Through the holy scriptures. "Search ye the scriptures; for in them ye have eternal life; and they are they which testify of Jesus."

b. By praying. c. By faith. d. Through enlightment of the holy spirit. e. And other ways, as stated before.

4. HINDRANCES

Many, various ones. Zachaeus had them. He sought to see Jesus, who he was, and could not." "Because he was small of stature". And on account of the multitude. Likewise there are many hindrances to others. a. "Little of stature". i.e. In faith, love, knowledge, interest, in spiritual things. b. The multitude of people, associates. c. Opinions of people. Doctrines, beliefs, churches. d. Different other causes. Existing conditions, positions, relations, being poor or rich, cares, worries, sorrows, joys of life. Lusts of the flesh, deeds of unrighteousness, sins, social standing, business connections, political or governmental positions.

5. OVERCOMING OF HINDRANCES

a. Zacheaus gives us a good example. b. Take a position where you can see Jesus. c. Hear and obey the demands of Jesus.

6. OBTAINING OF SALVATION

a. By faith, b. By receiving Christ joyfully, c. Through the holy spirit.

7. ZACCHAEUS, AN EXAMPLE OF TRUE CONVERSION:

8. TESTIMONY OF JESUS TO SEEK AND FIND

9. THE ASSURANCE. "Blessed Assurance"

a. "For God so loveth the world," etc. b. "The-son of man is come to seek and to save that which is lost." c. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." d. "And I shall see Him face to face, "And tell the story: Saved by Grace!"

10. IN CONCLUSION

a. Is this also your desire? b. Are you desirous to see Jesus? c. Do you know Jesus? Who is he? d. Have you seen and found Him? e. Have you the true knowledge of Salvation? f. Do you have the testimony of Jesus, that you have received Salvation and that all is well with you, in time and eternity?

Christian Motives for Abstinence

Luke 1:13-16; 2:40; 4:4; 6:21,25, 43-45

Theme: Christian Motives for Clean Living

Introduction

There are motives which should cause everyone, even the most ungodly, to abtstain from using intoxicating drink. A purely selfish motive should cause one to avoid using that which will injure self and will lessen one's happiness. There are motives, higher than the purely selfish, which appeal especially to Christian people. Our habits reveal the decisions we make. Jesus urged people to decide wisely and thus form good habits of life.

Foundations of Godly Character. L. 1:13-16

Zacharias and Elizabeth, an old and childless couple (L. 1:15,7), were righteous before God. For many years they had prayed for a child. Now while Zacharias was in his priestly office, burning incense in the temple (1:9), an angel of the Lord appeared to him (v11) with the joyful announcement that God had heard their prayer, that a son was to be born to them. Through the years of waiting and earnest prayer they had become fitted to be parents of the forerunner of Jesus. This son was to become great in God's sight, great in inner qualities (v15). John was to be dedicated to the Lord from birth. He was to be raised as a Nazarite, so he could become truly great in all personal qualities. His lifework required clean living. True Christian living is hindered by the use of alcoholic drinks which stir up the carnal in man and unfit him to worship and serve God. John's inspiration for a good life was to come from the Holy Spirit and not from spirituous drinks.

Jesus' Training and Teaching 2:40; 4:4

As a child, Jesus lived the simple life of abstinence from all things harmful and dangerous. He grew strong in body, in spirit, in mind and in character. The powers of God dwelling in Him, unfolded as He grew in his child life. When Satan tempted Him to satisfy his hunger in Satan's way, He laid down the principle that man has also a spiritual nature which must be nurtured by the spiritual food of God's word. Those accustomed to use intoxicants so readily come to neglect the spiritual bread.

Blessings and Warnings: 6:21,25,43-45

Those living in earthly poverty often are more ready to accept the gospel which requires humility and self-denial. Their present tears shall be turned into joy. Those well supplied, even to intemperance, who neglect the spiritual, shall in time experience an unsatisfied soul hunger. Intemperance also brings many such to actual want. They who now laugh without God, will mourn later on. The inner character of the heart decides the fruits, habits of life and by these people judge us.

Christian Motives for Clean Living

A Christian, recognizing that he is intended by God to be the temple of the Holy Ghost, should do nothing which will dull his sense of responsibility to God. Even moderate drinking will do this, and much more does it weaken the spiritual senses. For the Christian total abstinence from alcoholic drink should be a definite religious conviction.

The character of alcoholic drink is known by its finished product, the habitual drinker. The fruit of any form of alcohol, is bad and only bad. The attitude of the Christian has a very special responsibility to so live that his example may not mislead others. Satan delights in seeing lax Christians. Our influence should count for holy living and for God. He expects us to shun evil; the world is disappointed if we do not.

A Meeting of the Eastern District Ministers

In view of the present world crisis it was thought very important at a meeting of ministers of the Eastern District Conference at Grace Mennonite Church, Landsdale, September 17th, that Dr. Henry A. Fast be engaged full time by our General Conference Peace Committee. Again at a Quarterly Conference at Deep Run, September 30th, the question was further discussed. It was then felt imperative that we have a well-qualified man spend much time in contacting the Churches of the various districts in our Conference, in order to aid in unifying the stand of the conscientious objectors, and also spend much time in Washington, where he may contact government and military officials in working out a plan of service with them in which the conscientious objector to military service may conscientiously engage in. A motion was passed to this effect, that our District Conference will do its share in supporting a man full time in this work, which reads as follows:

"Resolved that in view of the emergency before us relative to the Selective Service, we in all our Churches support by prayer and special offerings the work of the Executive Peace Secretary of the General Conference and the largr work that may be involved in caring for those who may be called into the service of our country. In this support we cooperate with the other District Conferences and the General Conference Peace Committee, and such other cooperative Committees that may have this particular work in hand."

Churches are requested to send offerings to Mr. Henry S. Detwiler, 228 E. Summit St., Souderton, Pa., Secretary-Treasurer of the Eastern District Conference Peace Committee. The resolution was offered by the Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, seconded by the Rev. Ernest J. Bohn and carried by a rising vote.

While we desire to cooperate with the Peace Committee and support our General Conference Executive Peace Secretary, so that our young men may receive the proper instruction, we must not overlook the more important matter of giving our young people the Word of God in its entirety so that they may enjoy that PEACE which Christ came to give to those who believe on Him, the result of which will be Eternal Life.

OUR HISTORICAL LIBRARY

The library has lately received some very valuable contributions. Among other books, two volumes of the first American edition of the Martyr's Mirror deserve special mention. This edition happens to be the largest book printed in America before the Civil War and is rather rare.

The book was translated from the Hollandish into German by a learned prior, Peter Miller, Ephrata, Penna., with the help of some others. It took three years to translate the volume and get it off the press in 1749. The printing was done by hand, page after page, by the then newly established printing press at Ephrata, Lancaster County, Pa. The Dunkards, who owned the press and believe in baptism by immerson, illustrated the volume with a beautiful frontispiece on which John the Baptist is represented immersing Christ. The copper plate had been engraved by M. Eben, a German artist of Frankfort a. M. and is very valuable; however, the Amish Mennonites do not believe in pictures, neither in immersion, so in some of the copies the frontispiece has been torn out. Our library has now two copies, one with and one without the illustration.

The Historical Committee invites friends to see the combined Historical Library of the General Conference and Bethel College at Bethel College, North Newton, and get acquainted with Mennonite literary achievements.

Meeting of the Missionary Societies of the Western District

The Women's Missionary Societies of the Western District will hold their business session in the First Mennonite Church of Newton, Wednesday morning, October 23. The meeting will open with a worship service at 9:30 sharp, hence all the ladies are urged to be there on time, so that a reverent atmosphere may prevail. This will help put us in the proper spirit for the discussion of our problems later on.

A luncheon will be served at noon by the ladies of the Newton Church in their basement, for 35c per plate. May we urge everyone to stay for the luncheon and for the hour of fellowship it affords. Send your reservations to Mrs. P. K. Regier, Moundridge, immediately, so that adequate preparations can be made.

The Women's Missionary Societies will also render a Mission Program, Wednesday evening , October 23 in the Newton City Auditorium, beginning at 7:30 to which everyone is invited. The following program has been prepared:

Song	Congregation
Devotionals	Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz
Music	Mennonite Church, Buhler
Mission Address	Dr. D. W. Bittinger
Offertory Music	First Mennonite Church, Newton
Reading	Miss Gladys Graber
Mission Play
Music	West Zion Church
Benediction	Rev. P. P. Wedel

CORRESPONDENCE

EMMANUEL MENN, CHURCH, DOLAND, S. D.

From Sept. 15 to Sept. 29, Rev. J. J. Esau of Bluffton, Ohio, conducted a series of evangelistic meetings in our church, of which Rev. Jacob A. Friesen is pastor. The meetings were well attended and a fine spirit prevailed throughout. On Saturday evening, Sept. 28, a group of Christians came over to surprise Rev. and Mrs. Friesen. As Mrs. Friesen is an invalid and cannot leave her bed a fine program was arranged. Rev. Esau gave a message on "The Precious Christ" which was enjoyed by all. Special songs were brought by Mrs. John Tschetter, Mrs. Harold Tschetter, and Miss Mabel Stahl. Here is the outline of Rev. Enau's message.

You are a Good Man.... But. —II Kings 5:1

1. You fail to commune with the Lord
   a. In Bible reading. b. Through Prayer
2. You neglect to participate in His services
   a. In church attendance. b. In church support.
3. You associate with questionable company
   a. In society. b. In business.
4. You continue to bear false witness
5. You indulge in filthy habits
   a. By using tobacco. b. By using liquor c. By using profanity.
6. You fail to control your temper
   a. Which results in malice. b. Which results in jealousy. c. Which results in covetousness
7. You refuse to forgive your fellowmen
   a. Which hardens your heart. b. Which hinders your testimony.

Conclusion I John 1:9

Mrs. Friesen, a shut-in, has completed a little booklet of poems, acrostics, readings, playlets, etc., suitable for Sunday School and Christmas programs. These booklets sell for 35 cents. Anyone desiring such material can get it from the author: Amanda Friesen, Doland, So. Dak.

EICHER EMMANUEL CHURCH, NOBLE. IA.

On October 6, 1940, the congregation of the Eicher Emmanuel Mennonite Church, near Noble, Iowa, held its annual Harvest Mission festival. The Rev. Delbert Welty, pastor of the church, used the theme, "In Everything Give Thanks," for his message in the morning based on I Sam. 20:6; I Thess. 5:18; and Gen. 12:2. At noon a fellowship dinner was enjoyed in the basement of the church.

In the afternoon the members of the Ladies' Mission Society presented a program on "Stewardship." The Stewardship ceremonials preceded a playlet entitled, "A Good Stewart." Here we were again reminded that the giving of money is not all of stewardship, for since stewardship is using a life, it is as varied as life itself.

Offerings were given at each meeting the total amounting to 110.50. We must indeed say with Paul, "In everything give thanks for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerningyou."

—Mrs D. E. Welty, Corr.

—Bethel College.—The Parent-student Day, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 13, drew a large crowd. At the program in chapel, Dean Goertz acted as chairman. Rev. J. B. Boehr led in devotion; Doris Kellenbarger, a senior, gave the address of welcome; Rev. P. K. Regier of Moundridge spoke for the parents; Rev. Arnold Funk and Pres. E. G. Kaufman spoke in behalf of Board and Faculty. A fine bass solo by Randolph Moser and other music was interspersed. Previous to the program, open house was kept for visitors. A reception on the campus after the program, gave parents a chance to meet faculty members. Refreshments were served.—On Oct. 24-25 Henry A. Wheeler of the American Friends' Service Committee will visit Bethel and tell about Quaker activities: Work camps, student peace service, institutes of international relations, etc.—

Y. P. U. FINANCIAL SUMMARY

October 5, 1940

Of the five districts and Canada, three districts have made contributions to the work of the Young People's Union of the General Conference at the close of the 9th month of the present fiscal year. Their contributions were as follows: Western District: $287.28; Pacific District: $180.98; Eastern District: $40.00.

The most urgent Y. P. U. financial needs at present are: $20 for the cost of prayer calendars and $20 for salary of editor of "Our Youth Says." Further contributions for the return of missionaries to foreign fields, for the Ernest Harder fund, for the Swift Current Dormitory project, and for Peace work are also needed.

—Submitted by William E. Juhnke, Sec-Treas. of the Young People's Union of the General Conf.

Why Peace Rallies?

The 1939 Western District Young People's Convention started a "Peace Rally" movement. The purpose of these rallies was to make the public peace conscious. These rallies educated Mennonite youth in regard to Mennonite doctrine and confessions of faith. They pointed to the Jesus way of life, to the founder of the way of peace, and to a method to solve problems. It was an attempt to make people TALK and WALK on the way of Peace, Love, and Goodwill in time of peace as well as in time of war.

A Peace Rally is a group of people who have gathered together to learn more about Peace. This movement may be a handful of people, a group of churches or an entire community. The program must consist of such numbers as will make the group more peace conscious. Programs usually start with an invocation consisting of group singing, reading of scripture and prayer by chairman. This is followed by one or more lectures or talks. Several numbers of special music are rendered and a question period or panel discussion follows the lecture. The program is closed with the benediction. The idea of the program is to arouse group enthusiasm for the central theme which is "Peace."

The obvious reason for continuing Peace Rallies is even greater today than it was yesterday, for with the passage of conscription the task and challenge of the rallies becomes greater. They must now consolidate the Peace efforts of the past, and draw together and weld our people into a unitary link. They are excellent means for realizing the building and re-building of a Mennonite Heritage Appreciation Program. These meetings will become common bonds of fellowship. They shall and they must be used to counsel those members of draft age who take the C. O. position. Peace Rallies today will continue to remind us that there is yet a better method than force—the Jesus method, the way of Peace.

—Harley Stucky, Sec. Peace Committee, Western District C. E. Conference

This and That

Ernest Roth from Salem, Oregon writes, "The Y. P. work of the state of Oregon has been progressing very nicely. The Pacifist Handbook has been studied in the C. E. meetings. The prayer calendars have been distributed; they are a great help in praying for those who are in hard places. On Oct. 5-6 the Pratum Church was host to a two-day Bible conference. Recently the Pratum and Portland C. E.'s had a union meeting at Portland. We were very happy to become better acquainted with Rev. and Mrs. Arnold Regier who invited us to their home for an hour of fellowship."

A large number of young people heard Dr. E. L. Harshbarger, Vice-chairman and Treasurer of the Mennonite Central Peace Committee, discuss the Selective Service Act in the West Zion church, Moundridge, Kansas, on Oct. 15.

Bluffton Bits

A panel discussion on the subject, "Youth's Attitude on War and Peace," was the main feature of a recent Bluffton College, joint Y. M. and Y. W. meeting.

On Oct. 2, Rev. Carl J. Landes addressed the Peace Club on "Absolute Pacifism." In another program several students pointed out actual, practical examples of non-violence and love overcoming evil and hate in the world today.

Dr. Harold Alderfer, a Bluffton graduate and now head of the political science department in Pennsylvania State College, gave the vesper address on Parent's Day, Oct. 6th.

II. Leader's Introduction

We often talk about the cost of war. We are here concerned with the cost of peace. For in our day a nation that is devoted to the ideal of peace will have to give up many enticing benefits that seem within reach by the use of force. The price of peace was exhibited at Munich in 1938. But even that price was not enough as events of the next year indicated. Instead of paying a higher price and exploring the way of peace the nations chose the frightful cost and the horrible way of war. If we want to prove the power of Christ to bring peace we too will have to be willing to go the second mile, to do good for evil, to love our enemy, to suffer and seemingly be defeated, to go the way of the cross, but as surely as he was victorious we too shall find this way the way of ultimate blessings and victorious living.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Peace restored by prayer 1 Sam. 7:7-14
2. Peace maintained by trust Isa. 26:1-7
3. Peacemaking and persecution Mt. 5:9-12
4. Practice peace 1 Thess. 5:5-15
5. Divine wisdom makes peace James 3, 13-18; Rom. 12:17-21

IV. For Discussion

1. What are the Friends doing to bring peace into this war-torn world?
2. What are the Mennonites doing for peace?
3. What more could we do? Is there a chance to work for peace-mindedness in your local group, or in the community?

V. Facts for Study

What type of personality is more attractive—those who love or those who hate, the kind, or the indifferent, the one who does things for others gladly, freely or the selfish person, the one who forgives or the one who retaliates evil with evil?

The question confronting the church today is whether it belives in the possibility of overcoming the ill will of men and nations by consistent friendliness and helpfulness. Our problem is how we can co-operate best in showing the world love and service. Our own relief work, the Friends Service work offers opportunity—but most of all our everyday living and thinking will be an influence for peace.

VI. Illustration

A Russian legend which tells of a poor serf who on a bitterly cold night passed a soldier on guard, was once related by Dr. D. J. Burrell. The teeth of the sentinel were chattering with cold, and the serf, observing this, said, "Man, you shiver—you are freezing; take my coat." Many years after this gracious deed the serf arrived at the gate of heaven. Seeing Christ, the new arrival said with surprise: "Master, you have on my coat." "Aye," said Jesus, "I have worn it ever since thou gavest it to me on that cold night."

VII. Prayer Thought—Silent Meditation—

Let us pray for strength to live daily as citizens of the Kingdom of Richteousness. Amen.

Scripture Reading Matt. 5:9; Jas. 3:18

Prayer by Superintendent

Leader's Talk "Peace"

"We have found that we cannot rest our hopes for peace on politicians, so peace-loving citizens must turn elsewhere. But where shall they turn? The late Earl Haig said, 'The churches should make war impossible.' David Lloyd George once said, 'If the churches were united in action against war, they could stop it.' Some say it is not the church's business, and others say it is.

"Many who actually took part in the last war, who were members of the church, now feel it was wrong, and they will have no part in future wars.

"The safest way to preserve peace is to teach it through the churches. Christians the world over must become peace conscious. Let us base our peace campaign on the story of the world's greatest sacrifice and the cross of Christ. That alone would be sufficient if we would work together.

"We all believe that Christ was the "Prince of Peace." If that is true, surely peace on earth cannot be brought about by such a murderous method as war.

"Our land is known as a Christian nation, so to be truly loyal to our nation and our God, let us ever strive and pray for peace in our hearts and in those of all men everywhere."

Song "The Star-Spangled Banner"

Reading "We are all making the Flag"

I am what you make me, nothing more.
I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color.
A symbol of yourself.
My stars are your dreams.
My stripes are your labors.
They are bright with cheer. They are brilliant with courage.
They are brilliant with faith.
You have made them so out of your hearts.
We are all making the flag.

Brief prayer for loyalty to the flag and to our country

Panel discussion:

1. What would you like to do for America now?
2. What would you like to do when you are older?
3. Endeavorers are first of all loyal to their God. Does loyalty to God ever conflict with loyalty to our Country?
4. Consider this statement—"I will be loyal to my country as long as my country permits me to be loyal to my God."

Song "God Bless Our Native Land"

Offering (We would suggest that the offering be sent to the Mennonite Central Relief Committee to be used to help children in war-stricken countries. Perhaps your Minister will be able to come and explain this work to you.)

"Thanks Be To God"

Program for November 10, 1940

GIVING THANKS FOR OUR COUNTRY AND PEACE

Setting: Place a globe on a table in the front of the room, against a background of dark velvet or satin drapery upon which the words "Peace on Earth" have been fastened. Throw a light on this center.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude — "Seliger Friede," Gesangbuch mit Noten, 267.
2. Call to Worship—"The Lord is in His holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before Him" (Hab. 2:20).
3. Worship in Song—"God of Our Fathers," M. H. B. 385
4. Worship in Scripture—Matt. 5:38-48
5. Leader's Opening Prayer
6. Leader's Introductory Remarks regarding the topic for the evening. (Never let this become a mere announcement. Keep the spirit of worship present throughout.)
7. Sentence Prayers by three or four juniors

II. Study Period

Aim — To lead our Juniors to a greater appreciation of God's grace in preserving peace in our country, and a greater concern for their "friends" who are suffering from the war, so that they will be prompted to pray for them.

1. Introduction — Tomorrow we will celebrate Armistice Day. Let us pray God to work out His will in the present war, and, if possible, bring about another Armistice Day soon. Let us also remember our newly-elected president in our prayers, that he may be guided by God in ruling our country.
2. "Why I am Thankful that I Live in the United States" by a Junior boy.
3. "How I Can Show my Thankfulness by Helping Those who Live in a Warring Country" by a Junior girl. (If we are thankful only because we enjoy privileges not enjoyed by others, we are selfish.)
4. Poem—"Song of Peace"—Junior boy

Children of one Father
Are the nations all;
'Children mine, beloved,'
Each one doth He call;
Be ye not divided,
All one family;
One in mind and spirit
And in charity.
Wealth and power shall perish,
Nations rise and wane;
Love of others only
Steadfast shall remain;
Hate and greed can never
'Gainst this Love prevail;
It shall stand triumphant
When all else shall fail."
—M. K. Schermerhorn

5. "Our Workers are Helping War Refugees" by a Junior girl. (This should be composed of excerpts from letters from our relief commissioners in Europe, Ted Claassen, Harry Bennett, etc.)
6. Prayers for these workers.
7. Song—"Lead on, O King Eternal" v. 2, M. H. B. 376.
8. Leader's Heart Talk.
9. Prayer of Dedication to a more peaceful life.

III. Mission Minutes

At our meeting last week we interested the Juniors in the project of visiting our missionaries. This project will extend over several months if we want to make it really worthwhile.

1. In general discussion the Juniors gave the information they were asked to bring: the difference between home and foreign missionaries, from which ports they could sail for India and China, etc.
2. Mention the fact that our General Conference has mission fields in India, China, and in America among the Indians. Locate these places.
3. Since we have fields among our American Indians in three of the states, we'll visit these first.

(We'll study these in chronological order, Oklahoma, Arizona, Montana, using one meeting for each. We'll then decide to sail from Seattle, Washington, for the Far East.)

4. Talk about preparations for the trip, and tell the Juniors to be ready to start next time, to be sure and know the name of at least one of our missionaries who is or has been working in Oklahoma, etc. (Since our Juniors will start from various points in the United States, we will not list the Home Missionaries, but be sure to visit them along the route.)
5. Bring the missionary offering.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat the verse of the month.
2. Pray the prayer of the month.
3. Sing the song of the month.

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes October 1940

1907 South Union Avenue, Chicago, Illinois; October 5, 1940, Executive Committee Meeting Minutes; "S. C. Yoder who visited the colonies in Paraguay in latter July presented a clear and comprehensive report of his findings. 1940 crops were fair. Health conditions were again about normal. The outstanding problems noted, had to do with money exchange difficulties as they affect debt repayments to the U. S. and the need of a permanently located doctor. The committeee acted on a number of specific recommendations presented by Bro. Yoder.

"It was decided to accept action taken by the Mennonite Peace Committee, urging that Mennonite concerns and interests in the Burke-Wadsworth Conscription Act Provisions for alternate service to our draftees be provided through the offices and agencies of the M. C. C.

"English Hutterite delegate, Hans Meier explained the circumstances that led to the decision of this English group to go to Paraguay, and statd that one-half the group were already apparently enroute. It seems that the majority of the 300 adults and children in this group are looking to Chaco, Paraguay, as their new home. The M. C. C. is offering this asylum and their help to arrange the details of the migration and establishment there."

Ted Claassen, London, England, September 16th letter. "In the matter of clothing I suggest that you send as much and whatever there may be available." The letter further outlines a number of specific needs of Evacuee groups whose appeals came to Claassen's attention. He states further, "All kinds of clothing and shoes needed." In response to this the committee was happy to be able to release a shipment of 2373 pounds valued at $3,201.42, this being mostly new clothing, which shipment will go forward from New York within a few weeks. A second shipment weighing 2540 pounds worth $3,000.00 has been forwarded from Winnepeg, Canada—all new clothing and will be delivered to our English workers via the agency of Canadian Red Cross.

John E. Coffman, Akron, Pa. (Sailing from New York to England about October 11th) "I am happy in the consciousness of a call to carry the testimony of the faith for which the Mennonite Church has stood and suffered for four hundred years. I praise the Lord for opening the doors for this testimony, and for the response of the whole church in support of this work by prayer and by generous contributions."

In response to numerous requests from the workers in our general field units, and from others, that the Mennonite Central Committee investigate the needs for such service as could be given to war prisoners and internees; its Executive Committee has given this consideration and is going to further study the matter. Inasmuch as the American Friends Service Committee and the Brethern Service Committee have similar interests the study has gone forward cooperatively. In connection with contacts so far made it has become clear that one urgent need is for books. The appeal has come to us for German Bibles, song books, and German and English religious books and grammars; all kinds of technical books are also desired. Any one of our U. S. constituency having good books of these and other types which could be used in these prison and internee camps can do a great service in this field. All donations should be sent prepaid to Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pa.

Brethern Lehman, Bender and Horsch when in conference recently in Berlin developed a plan for sending food packages to known needy individuals in Poland and to whom access could not be obtained in the regular relief distributions. Brethern Lehman and Horsch are now experimenting with the effectiveness of this method. The first forwarding of such packages is taking place from Hellmansberg, South Germany. The M. C. C. is watching this experiment with much interest, feeling that probably by this method a way may develop for economical and efficient help to needy folks in Poland by friends outside, as well as from Germany. —Compiled by A. Warkentin and O. O. Miller. (Released October 9, 1940)

IN MEMORIAM

INEZ LUCILLE HUXMAN, DAUGHTER OF JACOB AND IDA DECKER, was born July 1, 1910, near Tyron, Oklahoma, and passed away Aug. 1, 1940, near her home at Walton, Kansas. She had reached the age of thirty years, and one month. Death came instantly and tragically in an automobile accident.

She came to Kansas with her parents when only seven months old. Her family located on a farm near Moundridge. Here Inez received her early Christian training and education. She was baptized and became a member of the West Zion Mennonite church in Moundridge, on April 10, 1924. She graduated from the Moundridge High School in 1929.

The following fall on October 10, 1929, she was united in marriage to Henry Huxman. Four children were born to this union. They are Delia, now ten years old, Marion, 8 years old, Joan 6 years old, and Wiley, 5 years old. Two years ago the family moved to Walton, Kansas, where they quickly took their places in the community. Mrs. Huxman helped organize a Sunday School in Walton and was teaching a class at the time of her death.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, August 4, in Walton, at 3 o'clock, and in the West Zion church at 5 o'clock. Rev. J. D. Schmidt officiated at Walton and Rev. P. K. Regier at Moundridge. Interment was made in the Mennonite cemetery at Moundridge.

MRS. ELLEN JARRETT, DAUGHTER OF LEWIS AND CATHARINE BRIGHT BEIDLER, was born in Richland Township, Pa., August 10, 1873.

As a young woman she was baptized by Rev. A. B. Shelly, on confession of faith, and received into the East Swamp Church, November 2, 1889. In the year 1906 she transferred her membership and joined Bethany Mennonite Church, and has ever been a faithful and active member.

Her marriage to Oliver Jarrett, was an event of February 14, 1895. On child was born into this union. Mrs. Jarrett was interested in many causes outside of her home and Church, but no doubt the Quakertown Hospital Auxiliary stood first on this list.

A kind Heavenly Father permitted her to be about her regular duties until her very end, which came on Friday night, September 20, near midnight, thus bringing her age to 67 years, 1 month and 10 days. She leaves to mourn her sudden departure, her life companion, Oliver Jarrett, one daughter, Mirian B. Yost, one granddaughter and one brother, John, in Allentown.

Sermon text, John 14:18, Bethany Church, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander. Entombment, Perkasie Mausoleum.

MISS THERESIA GALLE, DAUGHTER OF PETER AND CHRISTINA KREHBIEL GALLE, was born in Lee County, Iowa, August 2, 1865, and passed away September 26, 1940, at her home north of Moundridge, thus reaching the age of 75 years, 1 month, and 24 days.

At the age of twelve she came with her parents to Kansas and settled in McPherson County. With the exception of a few years, she lived most of her life in a farm community.

In 1880 she became a member of the First Mennonite Church of Christian. When the West Zion church was organized, she transferred her membership and was one of the few remaining charter members. Aunt Theresia, as she was affectionately known, having no children of her own, was especially devoted to her nieces and nephews.

She had been failing in health the past six weeks, but was confined to her bed only the last three days before her death. She leaves to mourn her departure her brother, Jacob Galle of Donnellson, Iowa, her twin brothers, Dave and Will, with the latter of which she shared a home these many years, and many other friends and relatives.

Funeral services were held Sunday, Sept. 27, in the West Zion church, with Rev. P. K. Regier officiating.

MRS. JACOB (RUTH) HAURY, DAUGHTER OF MICHAL GERBER, was born in Wells county a little west of Berne, Indiana, on March 8, 1867, and died suddenly at their home north Pratum on Sunday, Sept. 15, at the age of 73 years, 6 months and 7 days.

When she was 17 years old she confessed her faith in Jesus Christ as her Savior, was baptized by Rev. Moser and united with the Swiss Mennonite Church at Bluffton, Ohio. She has always been a very devoted Christian and faithful member of the church. In the year 1936 they moved to Oregon and established their church home by uniting with the Emmanuel Mennonite Church at Pratum. With very few exceptions sister Haury was always present at the services.

She was united in marriage with Jacob A. Haury, on Feb. 16, 1892, at Moundridge, Kansas. This union was blessed with 8 children.

She leaves to mourn her departure her husband and seven children: Gilbert of Salem, Mrs. Amos Amstutz and Augusta of Silverton, Orgeon; Herbert and Edgar of Visalia, Mrs. Homer Fussler of San Diego, and Jacob of Woodlake, California; nineteen grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Martha Ben Habegger of Berne and Mrs. Elizabeth Gerber of Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Funeral services were held on Sept. 18, from the Emmanuel Mennonite Church at Pratum, with J. M. Franz in charge, assisted by Rev. S. S. Baumgartner.

HENRY WIEBE was born July 11, 1861, in South Russia, and there received a limited education. In 1875, when he was fourteen years of age, his parents came to America and settled on a farm southwest of Lehigh, Kansas. In 1884 he was baptized upon confession of his faith by Elder Jacob Buller and received into the Alexanderwohl Church. On April 8, 1888, he was married to Susanna Schmidt. This union was blessed with five daughters and three sons, all of whom are living and were privileged to attend the funeral. Children are: Bertha, Mrs. J. A. Ewert; Sarah, Mrs. D. D. Ewert; Theresa, Mrs. H. H. Lehrman; Henry; Susie, Mrs. P. I. Schroeder; Jacob; Lydia, Mrs. J. D. Pankratz, and Herbert. In 1908 they transferred their church membership to the Tabor Church and, because of circumstances, they left the farm in 1918 and moved to Hillsboro where they joined the First Mennonite Church.

In April 1838 they had the privilege of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary with the immediate relatives. Since last March father's health and strength gradually failed, due to heart ailment. They decided to move to Newton, to establish residence nearer their children. On September 26 this was done, and on September 30 at 4:10 A. M. father passed away, quietly and unexpectedly. He attained the age of 79 years, 2 months and 19 days. They lived in happy matrimony a little over 52 years. He leaves to mourn his departure, his beloved wife, 8 children, 5 sons-in-law, 3 daughters-in-law, and 33 grandchildren, five having passed away. Father constantly had the spiritual and temporal welfare of the members of his family at heart and often expressed his concern in word and deed. Lately he wrote his life history and outlined his funeral services. "The memory of the just is blessed." Prov. 10:9.

Funeral services were held October 2 at the Newton Mennonite Church. At the home Rev. J. M. Regier read Ps. 12 and lead in prayer. At the funeral home, Rev. P. H. Unruh used Gen. 49:33 for his text, and Theo Klassen sang, "My Home, Sweet Home." In church Rev. J. E. Entz read John 14:1-6, led in prayer, and then spoke comfortingly on Rev. 21:3, 4. A quartet from the Hillsboro Menn. Church sang, "Sunset Hour." Rev. J. M. Regier based his sermon on II Cor. 5:1. This text and also the song that followed by Theo. Klassen, "Es geht nach Haus," were selected by father for the service. At the Greenwood Cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest, Rev. Entz made the close and the quartet sang, "Resting Now." —Mother and Children

MRS. MARIA STOESZ, WIFE OF PETER STOESZ, SR, passed away. "Funeral services for Mrs. Maria (Peter, Sr.) Stoesz, were held from the Bethel Church, September 25, in the afternoon. Mrs. Stoesz, who reached the age of 62 died at her home here Sunday, about noon.

She was born on the Watonwan county farm of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Falk on May 9, 1878, and lived all of her life in this community. She married Peter Stoesz on June 4, 1899, and the couple raised their family on their own farm about eight miles northeast of Mountain Lake. They lived there until 1915, when they moved to Mountain Lake.

Mr. Stoesz died December 25, 1939. Surviving their mother are the five children: Peter, Mrs. N. J.

MRS. J. MEHL, 80, passed away at her home in Upland, Calif., after several years illness. She and her husband celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary September 29. She was very active in the church, especially in the Children's department of the Sunday School and the Women's Missionary Society. Two sons, three daughters, and her husband Rev. J. C. Mehl, nearly 91, and the oldest member of the First Mennonite Church, survive her. Funeral services were held Saturday, October 5, the pastor, Rev. Lester Hostetler, officiating, assisted by Rev. M. M. Horsch. Internment in Bellevue Cemetery.

WHAT I OWE MY MINISTER

I owe him respect as the ambassador of God, sent to teach me a better way of living than the selfish, sordid existence I might be guilty of, but for his guidance.

I owe him trust that he may be free to serve the church unhampered by faultfinding and criticism.

I owe my minister prayer that God may make his services a blessing to every one with whom he comes in contact.

I owe him enough of my time to help him in his work whenever he may need me.

I owe him encouragement when vexations and annoyances make his work difficult.

I owe my minister consideration not to interrupt and hinder his work by financial worry.

I owe my minister my attention when I go to church that he may not be annoyed by seeing my carless inattentive actions indicating that I am not intrested in what he is saying. —Selected

MARRIED

VOTH-CLAASSEN.— VOTH-PENNER. — At the Emmaus Church, near Whitewater, Kans., on Thursday evening, Oct. 10, Helen Voth was married to Herbert Claassen and Anna Voth to Rudolph Penner. The pastor of the church, Rev. J. C. Kaufman performed the ceremony and Rev. P. H. Unruh gave a short address. The brides are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Voth, Mr. Claassen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Claassen (both deceased), and Mr. Penner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Penner. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Claassen will live on a farm near Potwin, Kans., and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Penner on a farm near Whitewater, Kansas.

—Mennonite Church, Halstead, Kansas—Dr. E. L. Harshbarger of Bethel College, North Newton, Kan., spoke at a combined meeting of the men of the Garden, Burrton, and Halstead churches on Tuesday evening, Oct. 8. Dr. Harshbarger has been in Washington, D. C. recently and spoke principally on the conscription act and implications. The Ministerial Conference, preceeding the West. Dist. Conference, will be held at the Halstead Mennonite Church, Oct. 22. The wedding of Miss Elfrieda Mueller and Robert Stucky was solemnized at the Halstead Church, Sunday, Sept. 29, Rev. D. C. Wedel officiating. —Correspondent

—Los Angeles, California—"Last Friday, October 11, we accompanied Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Penner and Rev. and Mrs. Harold Ratzlaff to the Los Angeles Harbor to see them embark on the President Taft. The ship was delayed several hours in loading cargo, so we had extra time for fellowship. At one time 45 friends were counted, and some were still coming while others had to leave before the ship sailed. At 5:30 the passengers went on board, and we stood on the warehouse balcony opposite the deck. Then began the lovely practice of tossing the many-colored paper streamers across from deck to balcony, and many hands caught at the ends. These represented the last ties which would be broken when the ship sailed. At 6:30 the gangplank was taken away, the ship began to move slowly, and one by one the pretty paper ties broke. Our hearts felt the tug of leave-taking, but we had just sung, "God be with you 'till we meet again," and remembered that He Who was sending them forth, said, "Lo, I am with you alwoys," so we were conforted. May we all be faithful in praying for them and their work." —Anna G. Stauffer, Corr.

—Mr. and Mrs. Russell Latshaw whose marriage was recently reported in The Mennonite, without address, which was not conveyed, are making their home at Barto, Pa., while Mr. and Mrs. Howard Raid, reported at same time, will reside at Sharon Center, Iowa.

BETHEL MENNONITE CH., MT. LAKE, MINN.

On the 27th of October this church will observe the 50th anniversary of its founding. A general invitation is extended for this observance, which will be held in conjunction with the annual harvest festival. —Mrs. D. A. Fast, Corr.

—Mennonite Church, Richfield, Pa. Rev. A. J, Neuenschwander is conducting Evangelistic Meetings at this church, of which Benj. S. Graybill is pastor, October 15-25. This church has 170 members. In the same report it is also stated that the three churches of Bro. Neuenschwander's charge, Flatland, West Swamp, and Bethany, have engaged Rev. John W. Langley of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League to lecture at each place Sunday, Oct. 20. A joined choir of these churches will render The Messiah in December under the direction of Mr. Robert Rudolph.

—Lorraine Avenue Menn. Church, Wichita, Kansas— This church has again as other churches in the city taken up Week Day Bible School work. There are 103 pupils enrolled. They are instructed in three groups, one group coming each hour in the morning, from 9 to 12 on Wednesday. Mrs. Gertrude Bargen is the principal, and Mrs. Ella Schmidt and Mrs, Esther Rempel are the other teachers. For the new Sunday School year the main officers are: Supt. Anton Richert; Asst. Supt., Waldo Rempel; Sec., Mrs. Waldo Rempel; Asst. Sec., Mrs. Fred Vogt; Pianists, Minnie Regier and Marie Dyck; Song Leader, John Vogt. The school has about 20 teachers and assistant teachers.

—Mennonite Church, Wadsworth, Ohio.—About 90 members of our Sunday School enjoyed a social together on Sept. 13 in the evening. The program consisted of group singing and an address, and refreshments. Rally day was observed by our S. S. Sept. 15. A large crowd enjoyed a very interesting program, and our S. S. has continued to improve since then. On Tuesday evening, Sept. 24, Rev. Karl Landis addressed our church. Harvest Home service was held on Sept. 29, and the regular quarterly communion was observed Oct. 6. The produce brought for display at the Harvest Home service was donated to the Wadsworth Hospital.

—Missionary G. A. Linschied sends in his financial report as treasurer of the Western District Home Mission Committee and writes: "I was thinking the other day of how very indispensible a church paper like the Mennonite is for our group, especially at this time, with its valuable counsel to those who must register for the selective service draft. May the Lord grant to you and all who contributeto the make up of the paper wisdom and strength to encourage and counsel in such a way that His name may be glorified thereby, and may He grant unto the young men drawn sagacity and prudence so that they may be enabled to bear true witness to the Prince of Peace."

—Bluffton College.—The Homecoming festivities, Oct. 5, were largely attended. The crowning of Miss Frances Jones as Homecoming Queen in chapel, in the morning, opened the program. A concert by the college orchestra in the afternoon, a banquet and a football game with Defiance College in the evening completed the program. At the first Vesper Service of the year, at the Mennonite Church, Dr. Harold Alderfer, Professor at Penn College, Pa., addressed a capacity audience. The speaker stressed the contributions of Mennonites to this country, their desire to serve mankind, and their loyalty to the government. He predicted that democracy and tolerance as seen in the provisions of the draft law toward C. O. may meet severe tests in the future. The Peace Action club, with Prof. Russell Lantz as advisor, is holding weekly meetings to discuss problems of peace, the most prominent at present being the C. O. and the draft.

—From "Notes" by I. W. Bauman

—Rev. J. J. Esau of Bluffton, Ohio, evangelist, in company with Rev. Walter Goering of Moundridge, paid us a brief visit recently, while Bro. Esau was conducting services of the large Eden congregation. We always appreciate this blind brother's visits. About 23 years ago, when we were out soliciting funds for Bluffton College in the Mennonite settlements of Minnesota, we lodged at the Esau home. J. J., then a schoolboy used to get the horse-buggy conveyanse ready for father and solicitor to drive about. Sometime after that, accidentally, a splinter of wood punctured one of the boy's eyes. Later, by infection, he also lost his other eye. We had not met again until a couple of years ago, when he called us by name, as he heard us speak in a crowd.

To the Regions Beyond

In yonder darkness souls are dying,
With no hope in Him above;
Having never heard the message
Of Jesus and His Love.

The days are passing, the time is short
The blessed Gospel to proclaim;
Will He find us faithful,
Or their souls on us He'll blame?

His servants there are toiling,
Amid the heat of sun;
Keeping true to His Commission,
Working 'til the last one's won.

We too can share with those who go
To distant lands in sin and gloom;
We can pray and send them,
Ere lost souls pass to their doom.

Oh ye saints of God, awaken!
And in their labors share
By your loyal, cheerful gifts,
And intercessory prayer.

Oh Church of Christ, arise!
Let us pray, our offerings send,
And go, that these benighted souls
Eternity with Him may spend.

Quakertown, Pa.

HIS HELP IS NIGH

A pensive soul in search of peace,
And longing for some sure release,
Wails out its bitter cry:
From things terrestrial it turns,
The paltry help of man it spurns,
And toward the sky, lifts up its eye.

A loving Lord from heaven above,
With heart all-radiating love
Speaks from the sky:
He rests the soul all rent and torn,
Gives joy to one of comfort shorn,
Cease now thy sigh, His help is nigh.

R. E. Neighbour, D. D.

My Creed for Today

I believe that God is a person of infinite power, knowledge and love, and that in a universe so large the telescope cannot discover its outer fringe and so perfectly formed that the telescope reveals a miniature universe in its smallest visible portion, I am yet the object of His tender consideration, and "He knoweth the way that I take," and goes with me in that way to see that I am properly cared for.

I believe that God will see that all things work together for my good because I love Him, and, as it is given me to know His will, obey Him in things both great and small. Both the good and the evil are forced into my service by the power and love of God, and at the end I shall see that it is so.

I believe that I myself am an immortal spirit come from God, and that I shall live with Him forever. My body is but the house in which for the present I live. Death cannot touch my spirit.

I believe all men are my fellow creatures, and my fellow heirs of redemption, so that I am obligated to serve them as I serve myself, and by all means bring them to know God through Christ that they with me may feel and know the life which is eternal.

I believe that to live a good life I must think as little as possible of myself that I may think of God, my friends and those I can help. My work is a sacrament, not a slavery. I am not working for men or for money, but for God, and with Him recompense is sure. "I am not bound to succeed, but I am bound to be true." And by being true I shall win, even though the outer circumstances of my life are loath to admit my victory. I am going to live honestly, bravely, patiently, lovingly, trustfully. I am going to rise above the world of time and sense and live a spiritual life. Then some day I shall see His face and all will be well. This is my creed for today.

—Rev. J. B. Chapman, in "Herald of Holiness"

What do we know about the world unseen? What reasonings, what curiosity, what misgivings there have been concerning that impenetrable mystery! Out of this mystery and vagueness comes the human form of the Divine Redeemer. He assures us that there is an endless life, to secure which we need only to trust ourselves to Him. —William Adams

There Must Be No Blackout of the Bible In 1941

By Gilbert Darlington

The four largest agencies for the worldwide supply of God's Holy Word are the British and Foreign Bible Society, the American Bible Society, the National Bible Society of Scotland, and the Scripture Gift Mission. These societies stated in their reports for their last completed year that they had issued approximately 23,000,000 volumes of Scripture. An analysis of their figures reveals that of this total approximately 16,500,000 of the volumes were supplied to foreign mission fields, and that approximately 12,800,000 volumes—or more than three fourths of these—were sent out or paid for by the people of England and Scotland.

Three of these great Christian agencies are in the very center of the present war. Even if the decision goes to Britain, the war will be devastating and prolonged. Income taxes and other taxes abroad are higher than ever before. Severe exchange restrictions hamper the production and circulation of the Scriptures. The shortages of labor, of material, and of transportation facilities, when added to reduced incomes and the losses incident to the ravages of war, have created a crisis greater than any ever before faced by the Bible Societies in their long history.

Woodrow Wilson once said that America was "born of the Bible." Our first settlers brought it with them in their earliest ships. Our ancestors incorporated it into our social, political, and legal history. On September 10, 1782, the Continental Congress, by formal resolution, recommended Robert Aitken's King James Version of the English Bible to the inhabitants of the United States. The Bible has been the constant guide and inspiration of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, and all of our greatest men; but, in spite of all this, we are doing very little to continue the life-giving influence of the Bible in our present war-torn and disillusioned world. The Bible-loving people of England, Scotland, and Wales in 1939 gave over five times per capita what the peace-blessed and prosperous population of the United States of America gave for a similar purpose.

If we divide the income from living donors received by the British and Foreign Bible Society during the year ending March 31, 1939, by the total population of all England, Scotland, and Wales, we find that the average gift of each member of the population was 1.09 cents to this Society alone. Our American people, during the calendar year 1939, gave only 0.19 cent per capita when prosperity was returning, and the nation was not at war. American interest in the distribution of God's Holy Word last year was therefore just 17 percent of England's. If the people of the United States had contributed as much per capita in 1939 as the British did, the American Bible Society would have received almost six times as much as it did from living donors.

The need is urgent and great. In such a crisis we must not let the light of the gospel burn low or flicker out. Only if we give six times as much ourselves, or find five additional persons to match our present gifts, shall we be able to keep the light of the gospel shining brightly before men, and so insure that there shall be no blackout of the Bible in 1941. —Bible Society Record

Resolutions of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of N. A. on Peace and Non-Resistance

The position of the General Conference on Peace and Non-Resistance has repeatedly been reaffirmed at sessions of the Conference and is contained in Article 10 of its Constitution.

More recently the following reaffirmations were adopted:

In 1929: 113. RESOLVED: The General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America in session at Hutchinson, Kansas, August 20-28, 1929 reaffirms the position taken by the founders of our denomination that war is unchristian and contrary to the life and teaching of Jesus Christ and that no Christian should participate therein.

In 1935: 85. (5) RESOLVED: That we reassert our Biblical stand on Non-resistance and opposition to war, which position we have held for more than 400 years, and that in our private lives we live such peaceable lives that our testimony will be untainted, and have power to convince many others of the virtue of our position. Having striven to practice the peace principle, let us cultivate the spirit of active goodwill towards others at all times, and utilize opportnities whenever and wherever these offer themselves to present and interpret our peace principles to others.—Be it further Resolved, That we encourage our members to maintain this position in colleges and universities where military training is required, or where a similar situation presents itself, and that when occasion requires, this position of non-resistance be made known to our Government.

On February 12, 1937 a committee composed of Mennonites, Friends and Brethren was received by the President of the United States and submitted a document setting forth our position on Peace and Non-resistance.

And again on January 10, 1940 the President of the United States kindly received a committee com-

—Friends, Brethren and Mennonites, and this composed of members of the three historic peace churches mittee also submitted a document expressing the historic and unbroken conviction of these groups against war and their devotion to peace and goodwill, growing out of deep Christian convictions, based on the spirit and teachings and life of Jesus

Constitution of the General Conference

In Article 10 — Our Common Confession

The Conference recognizes and acknowledges the Sacred Scriptures of the Old and New Testament as the Word of God and as the only and infallible rule of faith and life: for "other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." 1 Cor. 3:11.

In the matter of faith it is therefore required of the congregations which unite with the Conference that, accepting the above confession, they hold fast to the doctrine of salvation by grace through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, baptism on confession of faith, the avoidance of oaths, the Biblical doctrine of non-resistance, and the practice of the Scriptural church discipline.

STATEMENT SUBMITTED TO THE WAR DEPARTMENT JULY 2, 1917

"We desire respectfully to place before you a list of the various services which, in our judgment, conscripted Mennonites can render, without violating the conscience or offending against their confession of faith:

Government irrigation projects

Cultivation of government lands in the great wheat raising districts

Government draining projects

Bridge building, river and harbor work

Under the American Red Cross within the United States

Overseas family relief by such as are qualified to be leaders in social service

Executives, employees and visitors with Local Service Committees

Executives and employees in warehouses, for the handling of civilian Relief Supplies

Foreign service under the American Red Cross in reconstruction work

Foreign service under the American Red Cross in caring for the sick and wounded

In short, we can render any service, outside of the military organization, which has for its purpose to save and to maintain life, and by which the national benefits are promoted, but we cannot participate in any work whatsoever which results in the physical injury of others or deprives them of life.

Respectfully submitted,

Bible Lectures at Bluffton College

An experimental departure from an old established custom is taken this year when the annual Bible Lestures of the College will be held, November 10 to 15. This change has been made in an effort to see whether conditions of the weather, conflicting programs, etc. might be more favorable to a wider participation in these lectures. The benefits of the lectures to the student body if held earlier in the school year was another consideration. All ministers, and friends of the College are especially invited to attend.

This year the lectures will be delivered by Dr. R. Ames Montgomery, Professor of homeletics at the Presbyterian Seminary, Chicago, Illinois. He comes highly recommended, being a capable teacher and author of several books on preaching. He has recently published PREPARING PREACHERS TO PREACH and EXPOSITORY PREACHING. The general subject of his lectures will be "Reality in Religion."

The Annual Ministerial Conference will again be held in connection with these lectures on November 13-14. An interesting and helpful program is being arranged in conjunction with the ministers of our conferences. More details about the lectures and program will appear later. —I. W. Bauman

ANNOUNCEMENT AND INVITATION

The Immanuel Mennonite Church of Los Angeles, of which Brother Christian Ummel is a member, hereby extends a cordial invitation to all friends to attend the Ordination Services Sunday morning, Nov. 10th, at which time Brother Ummel will be set apart for the Gospel Ministry. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ummel are now serving in the Migrant Field at Shafter, California. —W. A. Regier, Pastor

The Bible, as a revelation from God, was not designed to give us all the information we might desire, nor to solve all the questions about which the human soul is perplexed, but to impart enough to be a safe guide to the heaven of eternal rest.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

Flaws in Our Educational System

By C. H. Munson

"It may be easy and glamorous to die for democracy, but it is difficult to live for it." Perhaps school administrators should include in their well-worded statments of educational philosophies something about "learning to live for democracy if we are to make dying for it worth while." Perhaps a little Christian philosophy should seep into our educational philosophy.

The last few years many subjects have been coming into the curriculum. We say this is because of the demand. Maybe it is because of a shiftlessness that has been creeping into our educational situation, even as it has been creeping into our political situation. Like shifting from one form of government to another, trying to find the line of least resistance, some students in high school have been shifting from one subject to another along the line of least resistance.

We must search for "new lights" in the teaching of all subjects. We need to know more about the false ideals of the past in order to build true ideals for the future.

Events emphasized in any subject should be those which will show the way to freedom and the uplift of human beings. Who are the enemies of mankind? Are they not those who teach that wealth and power or anything short of general welfare is the chief thing to work for?

We have heard so much about separation of church and state that the average school administrator refuses to co-operate in a program of religious education to any effective degree. Such education is being given in many schools without indoctrination, through co-operation of schools and churches.

Does anyone challenge the fact that our type of democracy grew out of a Christian philosophy? Then, if we are going to teach true democracy, there must be closer co-operation between all forces of education, religious and academic. Thus it will be more nearly possible to show the moral baseness of exploitation and oppression, and the creativeness of co-operation.

Education is a preparation for life! It should bring about productive participation for democracy. "It creates a future based upon the past. Loyalty to humanity means loyalty to the future, thus it should prepare us for a greater unification of man, for a world peace, and a tolerant peace, 'with malice toward none, with charity for all!' "

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

Tung Ming, Chang Yuan Yuan & K'ai Chow Country Evangelistic Report, First Quarter, 1940

To the Foreign Mission Board:

Dear Brethren: Praise God for His faithfulness and many blessings.—It was possible for Mrs. Ewert and children to come into the interior March 5. Mrs. Ewert is at present the teacher for the foreign children.

The evangelistic work has been carried on undisturbed in this part of the field in spite of political changes, and some fighting. The fall instruction classes which ran into January were brought to a successful close. The fall instruction classes were held in 18 places and over 500 had enrolled to study the Bible. Out of the 500, sixty-five were baptised.—This spring beginning immediately after Chinese New Year instruction classes were again opened and are now nearing the close. We had instruction classes in 23 places and in most places the interest was very good. Baptismal services have been held in 12 places and 7 places are still waiting for the service. It is quite a task for one person to get around to so many widely scattered places. During Jan., Feb., and Mar. I have traveled only 750 English miles to get around to the different places.

The tent has been out since the first part of February. During the Chinese New Year season a group of Bible School students took over the preaching at the tent while the regular workers had a vacation. The attendance at the tent has not always been as good as it might have been due to the movements of troops which made people stay at home. But lately attendance has been very good and many have made a start in the right direction.

We had hoped to move back to Ch'ang yuan this fall but since no one is coming out this fall to take over part of the work at this end of the field our moving is doubtful but we have not given up hope. The field is simply too large to do effective work as one would like to, but nevertheless I am enjoying the work very much and the Lord is blessing. One thing I particularly noticed in the examination of candidates for baptism and that was the large number that came from homes where there was already a baptised church member, which means that Christians are at work and bringing other members of the family to Christ.

Continue to pray for the work and for God's protection as we move about this unsettled country.

Respectfully submitted,
August Ewert, Evan. Com. Chairman
Wilhelmina Kuyf, Evan. Com. Member

The Funeral Service

By Edmund Miller, Lind, Washington

Paper Read at the Pacific District Conference

The program committee in assigning this topic suggested several items for consideration, namely, brevity or length of service; appropriate Scripture; purpose and content of sermon; type of music; religious potery; should ministers be offended if not all are asked to participate; and the cost of the funeral.

Before discussing these it is necessary to consider a few things as an introduction. We are all aware of the fact that funeral customs and forms of service vary greatly, being influenced by tradition, social status, and religious views. This variation exists among religious denominations, groups within a denomination, and in individual churches. Also non-Christians and Christians react differently to the funeral service. To the non-Christian death is largely something to be feared. It is the end of life, with no assured hope for the future. To the Christian, in the light of Scripture, it is the returning of the physical body to the earth from which God created it; the soul living on in Christ with the assurance of living with Him and of meeting loved ones again.

Death may come as relief from prolonged illness and suffering, or very suddenly in the prime of life. No matter in what form it comes or how it comes, even in the Christian home it brings grief and sorrow. In that moment the bereaved need the assurance and comfort of the promises of Christ, and the sympathy of others. The funeral service then should express the hope in Christ and His promise of future life with Him as is written in John 14:2. "In my Father's house are many mansions. If it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you." And I John 5:11. "And this is the record that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son."

When death comes to a home in a pastor's parish he must be ready to offer his personal service as pastor, friend, and comforter. It is generally understood that the pastor call at the home quite soon after death has occurred, if not present at the time of death. The funeral arrangements are usually made by the immediate family and relatives, and the pastor should comply with their wishes. However, sometimes the pastor is asked to help with the arrangements and in this he should offer his service in the interest of those concerned.

Taking up then the items suggested:

First: Brevity or Length of Service

Customs and circumstances to a certain extent decide the length or brevity of the service. Every pastor will have to use his own judgement in deciding this matter. However, it is well to remember that at nearly every funeral there are some whose nerves are near the breaking point. To many it is a great emotional strain. Thus the pastor should not unnecessarily prolong the service, taking care, however, not to give the appearance of hurrying.

A. H. DeLong in his book, "Pastor's Ideal Funeral Book," suggests that the sermon should be brief, ten or fifteen minutes being sufficient. And that the entire service should not exceed one-half hour or forty-five minutes at the most.

The pastor, at least in his own parish, is responsible for the entire religious part of the service. Everything should be arranged beforehand, so that no word of explanation or direction will be necessary during the service.

Second: Appropriate Scripture

The family concerned may desire to have certain portions read at the home and also at the church service. If not, to the pastor falls the task of choosing appropriate Scripture and he should choose such which expresses the nearness of God, and the assurances of Christ. In this matter, as in all phases of the service, prayer and meditation for divine guidance is very essential. Very often, if the pastor is well acquainted with the bereaved, he may know the favorite passages which may be of special comfort to them at such a time.

Third: Content of the Sermon

The content of the sermon should express such truths from Scripture which tell of God's guiding hand in the experiences of life; of God's great love for man; of the redemptive work of Jesus Christ on the Cross; and of Christ's promise that those who die in Him shall some day live and reign with him. No matter how bright the Christian's hope may be, there is and ought to be a sense of loss and grief in giving up loved ones, however, there must be no thought of final loss, or that death has conquered the soul, or that the grave can hold our loved ones who have died in Christ.

In the funeral sermon the pastor has an execllent opportunity to point out the proper relationship between life and death. Death does not end all, it is merely the end of our physical existence. The Spirit lives on either in eternal salvation or condemnation, and this is in accordance with whether or not a person has accepted God's plan of salvation.

Of course every pastor exercises his own judgment as to the content of his sermon. Usually personal references are made to the past life of the departed one. Concerning this L. O. Dawson in his book, "After Fifty Years" writes, "Such eulogies, often deserved and entirely appropriate, are unnecessary so far as the friends and family are concerned. They know all about it before the pastor speaks. To strangers such words may be uninteresting. And at times when no eulogy can be wisely spoken, such a custom may save everybody embarrassment. I have said eulogies are not necessary and are sometimes downright harmful. I do not mean that nothing at all should be said by the pastor. True, the dead need no word from anybody, but some things may be said to help the living."

There is also the opportunity to speak of the Gospel of Jesus Christ to those who never go to hear God's word except at the time of a funeral. Hearts that are usually closed to the word of God may become quite receptive at a time of grief and sorrow. Therefore the pastor, as a messenger of God, has a great responsibility in speaking a message of the living Christ.

Fourth: Type of Music

In most all cases the immediate family selects the hymns to be sung, and that privilege should be theirs as they may have favorite selections which mean most to them. If the pastor is asked for suggestions he should suggest songs that present triumph and hope.

Again quoting L. O. Dawson, concerning hymns he writes, "There are some songs with noble sentiments and beautiful music often sung at funerals which I would prefer to hear at other times. It may be they fit the occasion too well. For the beautiful and touching hymn, 'Lead, Kindly Light,' I would substitute some other soft melody with a more cheerful thought. For 'Twilight and Evening Bell, and after that the Dark,' I would prefer a song suggesting light and life. But I would not go beyond a mere suggestion in such matters, and would always let the loved ones know that their preferences would be my pleasure."

The processional and recessional should be played softly and should be simple selections, not such that attract undue attention or that detract from the solemnness of the occasion. Often musical selections embodying the melody of well known hymns are much appreciated.

Fifth: Religious Poetry

Many people love poetry and a fitting selection at a funeral service is much appreciated. Poetry that is too involved in meaning or that expresses gloom and hopeless sorrow is of little comfort to the mourners and others present. Familiar verses, or poems, the words of songs, often convey the greatest message. The value of reading poetry also depends upon how it is read. Sometimes the departed one may have had a favorite poem which the family would like to have read at the service. Here as in the content of the sermon the sentiment expressed in the selection should be of a cheerful nature.

Sixth: Should ministers be offended if they are not all asked to participate?

This refers, I suppose, to such times when a pastor feels he should have been asked to have a part in the service. Ministers being human, are no doubt subject to being a bit offended at times, but surely this feeling should only be a personal matter and never expressed in attitude or words. If in this question pride and self glorification are inferred, it should certainly be remembered that Christ is to be exalted in all things and not man. The Apostle Paul writes in Romans 12:3, "For I say through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, but to think soberly according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith."

It is customary that the local pastor have charge of a funeral in his own parish, but sometimes a family wishes to have outside pastors or former pastors to participate. So certainly a minister can serve the Lord best by being meek and lowly and considering himself as being a servant.

Seventh: Cost of the funeral, or the pastor's fees

It may be customary in some churches to pay the pastor an extra fee for conducting the funeral service. Generally, however, this service is included as part of the pastor's work. It is considered proper for the family served to pay the pastor's expenses when the expense has been of unusual amount. But as a whole, even to people outside of the church who care little for a pastor or the church, but desire his service when death comes, a greater impression of Christian service may be left in declining a fee. A pastor once remarked that several times after having conducted a funeral the family sent him a fee, and he always gave it to some sort of benevolence. This might be a good suggestion to carry out.

One more thing might well be mentioned in this topic and that is the work of the undertaker who renders a very necessary and helpful service. For the greatest comfort to the family involved and to the benefit of all, close co-operation between the pastor and undertaker is much to be desired.

In conclusion, in a funeral service a pastor stands in a special way as a shepherd of his people, going with them through sorrow and grief. They place a great confidenc in him and look to him for spiritual comfort and guidance. At such a time they want a message from God's Word, and how thankful we should be that in Christ God has given us a message.

I Corinthians 15:55-57. O death where is thy sting? O grave thy victory? The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

The future is lighted for us with the radiant colors of hope. Strife and sorrow shall disappear. Peace and love shall reign supreme. The dreams of poets, the lesson of priest and prophet, the inspiration of the great musician, is confirmed in the light of divine interpretation. —John Fiske

SERMON SKETCH

THE DIMENSIONS OF GOD'S LOVE

Scripture Reading: Ephesians 3:14-21
Text: John 3:16 with Ephesians 3:18

Among the immeasurable things of our universe we may well include the unfathomable love of God. It would thus seem futile to attempt to speak on the dimensions of God's love. However, our failure to measure the love of God and to express the dimensions in words, will impress upon us the immensity of it.

I. The Breadth. "For God so loved the world." The whole wide world was the object of God's love. No race, nationality, color or creed was excluded. God's love circuled the globe. All have sinned and all may be justified by His grace, Rom. 3:23, 24. "As far as the east is from the west," Ps. 103:12. An immeasurable distance and an immeasurable wideness of love.

II. The Length. "That He gave His only begotten Son." God's love went to such length that He was willing to give His own Son to redeem those whom He loved. He spared not His best, Rom. 8:32. (Use also Rom. 5:8; Jer. 31:3 and Jno. 15:13).

III. The Depth. "That whosoever believeth in Him." God's love reaches down below the very depths of sin. It saves "whosoever believeth," from the vilest up. There is no one so sinful that the love of God will not save him, Isa. 1:18. Paul, the chief among sinners, could testify to this fact, 1 Tim. 1:15.

IV. The Height. "Should not perish, but have everlasting life." God's love is as high as it is deep. Jesus saves from the uttermost to the uttermost. From spiritual death he has quickened us and raised us up to sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus, Eph. 2:4-6. "Behold, what manner of love!" I Jno. 3:1.

Wide, wide as the ocean;
High as the heavens above;
Deep, deep as the deepest sea
Is my Savior's love.

I, though so unworthy,
Still am a child of His care;
For His Word teaches me
That His love reaches me
Everywhere.

Jesus Declares His Mission

Luke 4:16-30 Read 4, 5

Introduction

Until the time of Jesus' baptism, He was known only by the people of his home community. They knew Him as a good neighbor, an industrious worker, a dutiful son and a devout member of the synagogue. When He left home and entered upon his life work, He soon won the attention of the people wherever He went preaching, teaching in the synagogues, helping and healing people.

Jesus Proclaims His Mission in Nazareth vs 16-27

Jesus loved the people of Nazareth. He longed to bring the gospel message tnd to make known the way of life to his townspeople. He wanted them to know his life-mission. He had now won a reputation away from home. He came back home and scrupuously observed the sabbath day. He went to the synagogue regularly. In His ministery, He used it as one of his chief opportunities to reach the people. "He stood up for to read," ready to take a part in the worship service.

Jesus, thoroughly familiar with the book of Isaiah, selected the great passage, chapter 61 and verses 1 and 2, the wonderful vision Isaiah had more than seven hundred years before, of the anointed Messiah who was to come. Jesus then sat down and explained this passage to the wondering worshippers (v20). He definitely applied this to himself as being the liberal fulfilling of this prophecy (v21). He came to them anointed with the Holy Ghost and in the power of the Spirit of the Lord.

A five-fold ministry was His as the anointed of God and in this we have the heart of the gospel. He came to bring the gospel to the poor who are His heart concern. He was sent to heal, to bring joy to hearts broken by sorrow, bereavement and loss; to give the oil of joy for mourning. He was sent to proclaim the gospel of release to sin's captives, bond-servants of Satan, whom Jesus alone can free. He came to give sight to the physically blind and much more to the spiritually blind; to set free those bruised by Satan's cruel bondage. He proclaimed that God would establish his kingdom among men (v19), and that God is now ready to accept them if they will recognize Him as being sent from God.

Jesus' hearers realized that the reports they had heard of Him were true. They wondered (v22) at the attractive and wonderful words spoken by Him. Yet they could not see how He, who grew up in their midst, could speak with authority as a prophet, or how Isaiah's prophecy could be fulfilled in Him. They did not believe his claim. They showed that a prophet is seldom honored by his own people. Jesus called attention to well-known Old Testament facts (vs 25-27) which showed that faith, and not birth or natural claims, will win God's blessings. This rebuking of their unbelief touched their pride and filled them with wrath (v28). They were near the kingdom and yet so far away.

Jesus Rejected by His Own People vs 29, 30

Their wrath was murderous. They drove Him out of the city with intent to kill. They closed the doors of their hearts and shut out of their lives the blessings which Jesus alone could give to them. They shut themselves out from salvation through Jesus, from the benefits of His mission. People who reject Christ as the Savior of men today, make it impossible for themselves to be saved.

CORRESPONDENCE

EAST SWAMP MENNONITE CHURCH, PA.

October 11 preparatory service was held, at which time Mary Ellen and Anna Lou Boehr were baptized and accepted into the membership of this church.- Oct. 13th fall communion was celebrated with 124 mem- and friends partaking. This was another occasion when old friends meet. With some it would not be necessary. The distance to travel is not very great. We pray that such members seriously consider the value of the church and the gospel, not only two times a year when the Lord's supper is observed, but every Sunday. May we remember these words, "O come let us worship, let us bow down before the Lord our maker." "Jesus as a child went to the temple to learn.

Approximately 400 people from Mennonite churches in this section attended the Eastern District farewell service tendered the Rev. P. J. Boehr family in our church. Rev. and Mrs. Boehr and three children will leave shortly for China. Farewell wishes were offered by the following ministers: S. J. Graybill, Deep Run; George Gregor, Coopersburg; Freeman Richfield; Ernest Bohn, Souderton; Russel Mast, Swartz, Schwenksville; Olin Krehbiel, Lansdale; H. G. Nyce, Allentown; A. J. Neuenschwander and H. D. Burkholder, Quakertown, and Mr. Cassel, Hatfield. Telegrams were received from Richard Boehr, Burwell Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Abr. Unruh, students at the Moody Institute, Chicago. Responses were made by Rev. and Mrs. Boehr, and a gift was presented to them from the Pipersville Chapel. The offering which totaled $106.00 was donated to the Boehr family toward the ship's passage to China.

FRIEDENSFELD MENN. CH., TURPIN, OKLA.

The Friedensfeld Mennonite Church of Turpin, Oklahoma held their church dedication and Harvest Festial on October 6 through the 13th inclusive. The first Sunday a short farewell service was held at the old church, which had served as a worshipping place for more than thirty years. At 10 a. m. the ministers, deacon, and choir gathered on the porch of the new church. After reading of scripture and prayer by our pastor , Rev. Rudolph Schmidt, the church doors were opened for the services. Rev. A. J. Dyck of Inman, Kansas, was the main speaker for the day. Short sermons were given by a number of neighboring pastors.

In the evening the Balko men's choir gave an inspiring musical program, after which Rev. A. J. Dyck gave a short sermon. The following churches were invited: M. B. Church, Balko, Okla.; Pleasant Valley Church, Kismet, Kansas; Baptist Church, Floris, Okla.; Bethel Church of God, Union M. E. and Turpin M. E. churches. During the week Rev. Gerbrand of Mead, Kansas, K. M. B. Church held evangelistic meetings which were well atended, strong interest was manifested and worshippers were richly blessed.

On the second Sunday, Rev. J. R. Barkman, Bible instructor in the Oklahoma Bible Academy, at Meno, was the main speaker, with Rev. Gerbrand officiating. In the evening Rev. Barkman showed slides of the Grace Children's Home, Henderson, Neb., and gave a sermon. The Buller sisters, Perryton, Texas, rendered musical selections. On this Sunday the Hooker M. B. Church, Meade K. M. B. Church and the Perryton Bethel Mennonite Church were invited. The Home Talent rendered music for the Dedication, through the week, and Harvest Festival. Receptions were given in the church basement at 12 noon and 4 p. m. on the two Sundays.—Correspondent.

—Congregations at Sugar Creek and Dalton, Ohio, enjoyed a day of joint worship and fellowship on Sunday, Oct. 6. At the invitation of the Sugar Creek congregation, members of the Salem Church at Dalton, joined the Sugar Creek group in the annual Harvest Home service at that place, Rev. Rosenberger preached the Harvest Home Sermon on "The Goodness of God," and at the Sunday School following, Rev. William H. Stauffer taught the lesson to the adult group, and the Salem choir furnished special music. The entertaining congregation served a sumptuous meal at noon, and afterward their young people very ablely presented a pageant. The program of Harvest Home service and the congregational meal is a regular feature of the Sugar Creek Church, and the Salem group greatly enjoyed sharing the fellowship and the program of the day.

A Day in a Mennonite Hospital

By a Sister of the Staff

Every day has its beginning and we, the hospital personnel or hospital family, are the ones to begin this day. So we will ask you, the young people of our various churches, to come and see what it is like.

We are quite certain that it would please you first of all to come with us to our dining room where every day has its real beginning. Here you will find the table spread before you with wholesome food and what a blessing to gather here with a cheerful heart and a healthy body. But you see something else in this dining room—among the few pictures that decorate the walls, you see a motto which reads, "Begin the day with God" and our morning devotion in which every one takes part, gives the day this beginning.

Every Sunday and Wednesday morning after we leave the dining room, we gather on the first floor and sing one hymn. This not only serves as our testimony for our Master but often touches the hearts of the sick and frequently we get requests to sing this or that song.

Here is a wonderful opportunity for all the young people in this Youth Department—sing for the sick wherever you have an opportunity. A song will often melt a heart where words do not seem to take hold. "Take my voice and let it be consecrated, Lord, to Thee."

The day which has had its beginning with feeding to sustain us physically as well as spiritually, must now go on in active service. All the wheels of the Institution are now set in motion for the work of another day. It is 7:00 A. M. and time for the night nurses to go off duty; but before they leave they give the night report on each respective floor. The list of names are read and to most of the names is added . . . slept well, or has no complaints, or feels much better this morning and so on. What a wonderful feeling for everyone concerned—it almost gives us the assurance that everyone is going to get well. But the story often sounds different and is different when, for instance, remarks like the following are given in the report . . . Slept about one hour or seemed nervous or complained of being hungry at 2:00 A. M. (when the patient as well as the nurse knows that he may have nothing more than a drink of water, not too cold.)

What is there to do about all this and how can these problems be solved. There is much to do but it takes patience and love and it is easy if we only remember this is service for the Master and it is He who called us here. Our heart has to be educated much more than the mind for it is the heart that dominates and gives character and meaning to the whole of life. And God alone can educate our hearts.

The forenoon hours are with few exceptions the busiest hours of the day. There are various treatments to be given, patients' bells to be answered, the doctors make their rounds and have to be assisted and their orders taken, and most of the operations are performed at this time.

At 12:00 dinner is served to the sick and at 12:20 to the nurses in our dining room. How good it feels to again partake of strengthening food and to enjoy the fellowship. During mealtime one or two nurses stay on the floor to answer patient's bells and the telephone.

One noon, not long ago, a youngster of about nine, whose appendix had been removed, refused to eat. His mother and our nurses coaxed him with no result. He demanded cherries. His mother brought Marachino and the nurses brought Queen Anne cherries but he would taste neither kind. Said the young man, "I want Mennonite cherries, the kind you ate in the hospital when you were sick, Mother." We discovered these to be the purple Oregon cherries which we promptly served to our obstreporous patient.

Not all our patients choose this hospital in order to eat "Mennonite cherries," but a large number are drawn by the spirit of devoted service found only in a Deaconess Hospital.

For example, there are children who have never heard of Jesus. They enjoy listening to Bible stories and the life story of our Savior.

Then there is the crippled young man or woman who faces a future of hardships. A complete readjustment to life must be made and here again the reassurance and help of a guiding hand can be given.

The afternoon hours are open for friends and relatives to visit the sick. Supper is served at 5:00. A light diet might consist of hot soup or cereal, egg omelet, fruit sauce or salad, and tea with toast. In our dining room supper is served at 5:20 and after hours of active service we close the day with quiet meditation and songs of praise before conducting our evening devotionals for the patients.

In the Christian Hospital, the patients are not only given physical care but spiritual care as well. After being made comfortable for the night, a portion of Scripture is read and bedside prayer is spoken in behalf of the individual patient. Beside this service our ministers pay frequent visits to buoy up the spirits of the faint hearted and encourage the others.

On Sundays our young people generously give a message in song and this is greatly appreciated by the sick and by the well. On special occasions such as Christmas and Easter, the churches of the different denominations also join in this part of the Christian work.

By this time you will wonder if we, of the nursing staff, ever get time off duty and time for recreation and we are happy to tell you, Yes." For instance, this year the writer was privileged to spend six weeks in California and enjoy the grand scenery of the High Sierras as well as the breakers of the sea. To experinece the revelation of God in nature is truly a recreation and brings us nearer to our Master.

"Now the day is over,
Night is drawing nigh;
Shadows of the evening
Steal across the sky.

Jesus give the weary
Calm and sweet repose
With thy tenderest blessing
May our eyelids close."

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Main Topic: OUR COUNTRY FOR CHRIST

Deut. 7:6; Ps. 33:12; Ps. 144:15

Program for November 17, 1940

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "America, the Beautiful;" "This is My Father's World;" and "Now Thank We all Our God."
2. Reading of Main topic and prayer.
3. Special talk on "Men Who have Helped to Make Our Country Christian" e. g., the great preachers of our country, and Christian civic leaders.
4. Offering for cause of peace.

II. Leader's Illustration

Millions of people in our country today are religiously illiterate. They have no interest in connection with the church of Christ. They are out of touch with the resources of religion. The unchurched millions in our country constitute about one half of the population. Making our country Christian means primarily bringing Christianity to these people who are outside the church.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Pledged to Obedience.	Exod. 19:3-8
2. "Righteousness Exalteth."	Prov. 14:3-4
3. A Desirable Condition.	Isa. 2:1-5
4. A Worthy Accusation.	John 11:47-53
5. Honoring Authority.	Rom. 13:1-7
6. God's Chosen People.	IPet. 2:9-16

IV. For Discussion

1. Discuss the work of the vacation Bible schools, aid the weekday church schools in relation to making our country Christian.
2. What influence the Christian denominational colleges have on our country.
3. Should we encourage personal work with friends and neighbors and acquaintances? How should this be done?

V. Facts for Study

Making our country Christian also means applying Christianity to our national problems. Poverty-ridden areas bring a challenge for Christian action. The plight of the share-croppers in the South, of large groups of factory workers in the North, miners in many mountain sections, of farmers in drouth areas and in the "dust bowl" call for help. Ministering to these groups spiritually but also materially should be a major enterprise of Christians. In securing for them a larger degree of economic freedom and independence through civic regulations is a job worthy of Christian citizens!

Has the church a message in this time of chaos and change, when the unemployed clamor for a chance to earn a living, when men everywhere long to be delivered from the threat of war, when men need Christ to give meaning and content to their lives?

Is Christ and His way of living adequate to solve the problems of our country today?

VI. Illustrations

UNUSED POWER

The following instance was frequently cited by Rev. A. J. Gordon: "An American with an English acquaintance was viewing the Niagara whirlpool rapids, when he said to his friend: 'Come and I'll show you the greatest unused power in the world;' and taking him to the foot of the Niagara Falls, exclaimed, 'There it is!' 'Ah, no, my brother, not so,' was the reply. 'The greatest unused power in the world is the Holy Spirit of the living God.' "

* * * *

In his seventy-third year, Robert Raikes, the founderof Sunday Schools, in company with Joseph Lancaster, his fellow laborer, returned to the spot in Gloucester where his first school was held. "Pause here," said the venerable man, uncovering his head and closing his eyes. He stood for a moment in silent prayer. After that, he said, "Here I stood when I saw the destitution of the children, and the desecration of the Sabbath by the inhabitants of the city. As I asked, 'Can anything be done?' a voice answered, 'Try.' I did try, and see what God hath wrought."

VII. Food for Thought

Christ and His way of life are still the solution to the problems of our country.

YOUR OWN VERSION

You are writing a gospel,
A chapter each day,
By deeds that you do,
By words that you say.
Men read what you write,
Whether faithless or true;
Say, what is the gospel
According to you?

Song, "Follow the Gleam."

Talk, "Why is Profanity Harmful?"

For Discussion

1. In Matt. 5:33-37, Who is giving these commands and to whom are they given?
2. By what, other than God's name, are we commanded not to swear? Why? Matt. 5:34.
3. In James 5:12, is there a further thought about swearing not mentioned in Matt. 5:33-37?
4. Is it possible to tell whether one is a Christian or not by the language he uses?
5. Is it true, as some people say, that one can get relief by using profane language?
6. Can we harm others by our disrespectful words?
7. What can be done to correct profanity and the use of abusive language?
    a. Can we start by trying to help our friends overcome the habit? Or should we start with ourselves first of all?
    b. Can we help trying to teach children and young people reverence?
    c. Does it help us to read good books aloud?
    d. Is there any book that can be more helpful than the Bible?

Prayer Song, "If I have Wounded any Soul Today"

Poem

AN EVENING PRAYER

If aught I may have said or done
Hath from the wrong a wanderer won,
I thank thee, Lord.

If aught I may have said today,
Hath caused one soul to go astray,
Forgive me, Lord.

So let me live for thee, each day
That some lone traveler on life's way
May know thee, Lord.

And when at last I see thy face,
And come unto thee, saved by grace,
Receive me, Lord.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

THANKS BE TO GOD

Program for November 17, 1940

GIVING THANKE BY SHARING:
THE GOOD NEWS

Setting:

Have a worship center which suggests missions

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—Soft music.
2. Call to worship—"I have heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I, send me. And He said, Go." (Isaiah 6:8, 9a)
3. Worship in Song—"We've a Story to Tell to the Nations," M. H. B. 332. Read the words to the music before singing the song.
4. Worship in Scripture—Romans 10:13-15, Matthew 9:37b, 38.
5. Leader's Introductory Remarks. Arouse in the Juniors the desire to show their gratefulness to their heavenly Father for the blessings which they enjoy because of Christianity by doing what they can to share the Good News with others.
6. Worship in Prayer—by the Leader.

II. Study Period

Aim—To acquaint the Juniors with the life of children who do not know Jesus, impressing them with the stupendous task the missionaries have to reach them, because they are so many millions and only a few missionaries.

I. Introduction—Use the story "The Bread Line" taken from CHINA CHATS and published in MISSIONARY NEWS AND NOTES, October 1938.

2. "If I were a Girl in India" by a Junior girl.

3. "If I were a Child in Africa" by a Junior boy.

4. "If I were a Boy in China" by a Junior boy.

5. Song—"Bring Them In" by a group of the smaller Juniors

6. "If I were a Child of the Slums" by a Junior girl.

7. "How We Can Share the Good News"—Open discussion lead by the Leader.

8. Poem—"Pray, Give, Go" by Annie Johnson Flint, read by a Junior boy.

Three things the Master hath to do,
And we who serve Him here below
And long to see His Kingdom come
May Pray or Give or Go.
He needs them all,—the Open Hand,
The Willing Feet, the Praying Heart—
To work together and to weave
A three-fold cord that shall not part.
Nor shall the giver count his gift
As greater than the worker's deed,
Nor he in turn his service boast
Above the prayers that voice the need.
Not all can Go; not all can Give
To speed the message on its way,
But young or old, or rich or poor,
Or strong or weak—we all can pray—

Pray that the gold-filled hands may Give
To arm the others for the fray;
That those who hear the call may Go,
And pray that other hearts may Pray!"

9. Sentence Prayers by four or five Juniors who volunteer.

10. Song—"The Whole Wide World for Jesus" M. H. B. 330, v. 1.

(For talks Nos. 2, 3, 4, and 6 use material published in the JUNIOR MESSENGER and the MISSIONARY NEWS AND NOTES as well as from other sources. Have the Juniors imagine themselves into the place of these children and tell what their life might be like.)

III. Mission Minutes

Tonight we are visiting our mission stations in Oklahoma. Have your map of the world, as well as a map showing the stations in Oklahoma, at hand. (The Literature Committee of the Women's Missionary Association of the General Conference has mimeographed copies of the maps of the various fields of our Conference, size 8½x11, for 3 cents each, or 1½ cents each in lots of 20 or more.)

1. The leader or someone well acquainted with this mission work should give a short and interesting history of our stations in Oklahoma.
2. Have several Juniors give short biographical sketches of our missionaries who have labored or are laboring in Oklahoma, using the accounts published in MISSIONARY NEWS AND NOTES. The Juniors paste these into their Scrapbook together with pictures if possible.
3. Decide to write letters to the missionaries now on the field.
4. Pray for these missionaries.
5. Bring the missionary offering. (This should be made a vital part of every meeting. Never call it a collection.)
6. Pray the prayer of the month—I Cor. 29:13, 14b.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Have several volunteers repeat the verse of the month. Then in unison.
2. Use the song of the month as the closing prayer. (M. H. B. 381.)

The Boyhood of Jesus

By the Rev. David Deforest Burrell, D.D.

At the very outset, there is one fact about our Savior's childhood which must always be kept in mind: He was without spot or blemish. The Roman Church, to protect the doctrine of the sinlessness of Jesus, felt it necessary to invent the doctrine of the immaculate or sinless conception of His mother Mary. But that is, simply, not true. Mary was a sinful woman, like any other woman. Her child, "conceived by the Holy Ghost," was and is the eternal Son of God; and He Himself challenged the world: "which of you convinceth me of sin?" Thus from the moment of His incarnation there was a vital difference between Him and all of us. For we are like David, who confessed, "Behold, I was brought forth in inquity; and in sin did my mother conceive me." We belong to a fallen race; but He never fell.

There is a certain significance in the fact that the Gospels give us only one incident in the twenty-nine years Jesus spent in Nazareth. That one is our Sabbath School lesson for October 13. But why this silence? The spurious gospels are full of alleged miracles and remarkable sayings by the child Jesus; but the true Gospels give us no miracles, and only one single sentence that He spoke. Why this silence? Because there were no miracles wrought by Him before His baptism, because, in the wisdom of the Father, He was meant to grow up in the common way, among common people. His neighbors, without doubt, remarked that He was a "good boy," but they were too blind spiritually to detect the perfection of His nature, the perfect beauty of His life.

Our lesson tells us enough. Back of it lies the picture of a boy growing up in a godly household, taught to know the Old Testament, attending the synagogue school, playing around the shop and learning the carpenter's trade. Then, when He had reached the proper age, He had a man's robe thrown over His shoulders, and He went to Jerusalem for His first Passover. There is no hint in the lesson that He, who was to fulfill in His own broken body the meaning of all Passovers, was at this time conscious of what the future held. But there is a very clear and definite indication of one great thing that literally filled His mind: He must be about His Father's business, about His Father's house,—literally, "about the things of my Father."

That means that at the age of twelve Jesus was fully conscious of His unique relationship to God. Joseph stood, legally, in the place of an earthly father, but here in the Temple, debating great truths with the theologians, Jesus had no thought of earthly relationships, but only of His eternal relationship to God the Father.

It was at this time that He first used that great word "must." The moral imperative rested upon Him. He had been born into the world out of the eternal counsels of God, and was in the world to fulfill the eternal will of the Father. "I must!" He was deeply conscious of His relationship and of His errand. And this consciousness, undoubtedly, was not a momentary flash. We must think of Him as, from this day on, growing to manhood with this burden resting on His soul. He knew that He was the Son of God, and knew that His heart's whole satisfaction was to be found in the Father's holy will.

There is a very practical lesson here for Christian parents. The idea that a child must be far in his teens before he is ready to be taught the great essential truths of the Christian faith is based on a false psychology. The years that count most in preparing a youngster for life are those from birth to the edge of the teens. Habits of thought and action are formed then. The mind is open and receptive. And the father and mother who neglect to take advantage of these opportunities—which will never come again—had best remember what Jesus said about those who cause one of these little ones to stumble. What a glorious thing it is for parents to see their child, with all the future before him, lay heart and life on the alter of God!

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, PAWNEE ROCK, KAN.

Greetings from the Bergtal Missionworkers! Our heavenly Father has brought us through another season of harvesting and planting, and has supplied our material needs bountifully, for which we are very grateful. The country is beautiful with its green wheat fields and bountiful supplies of feed on every farm.—The sixth day of June we had our yearly business meeting. All new officers were elected. Mrs. Effie Schultz, who had served as president for 27 years, was succeeded by Mrs. Chester Hiebert. Sisters Lena Mae Smith and Sarah Dirks of Bethel Hospital were our guests. Sister Lena Mae gave a very inspiring talk on "Our Attitude Toward God." At present we have an enrollment of 56 members. We meet once a month. A short program is given and the rest of the time is spent in quilting. This year we also intend to have Bible study. Some of the work we did the past year is: We supported a widow and an evangelist in India; sent boxes of clothing to different mission stations in the U. S.; Christmas greeting cards and gifts were sent to missionaries. Contributions were given to the Mission Pension fund. Total income the past year, $166.46; expense, $125.95. We enjoy reading "Missionary News and Notes", which we receive regularly, very much.

A Young People's Rally

That the young people of Frazer, Lustre, and Wolf Point, Montana, are interested in spiritual things and in the problems of Christian youth was evidenced by the large attendance at the Young People's Rally held at the Bethel Wolf Point, Church, August 25. The theme for the rally was—The Second Coming of Christ: the motto, "Looking unto Jesus". Rev. Mr. Albert Schultz of Butterfield, Minnesota, the former pastor of our church, was invited to be the main speaker of the day. In his morning message he urged the young people to "Look unto Jesus" for Salvation, as seen in the life of Moses, Heb. 11:23-29; for Dedication, as seen in the life of Daniel, Dan. 1:8; for Ministration, as seen in the life of Timothy, Phil. 2:20.

Jessie Toavs, one of our local young men, was in charge of the afternoon program which was carried out by the young people of these communities. In this program we were reminded to "Look unto Jesus" for the "blessed hope", by musical numbers and by three topics. The first of these—Why must Christ Come Again— was discussed by Miss Susie Schmidt of the E. M. B. Church of Lustre, Montana. She pointed out that Christ must come, to fulfill Old Testament prophecies; to keep His promise to Israel; to destroy the Anti Christ and judge the nations; to reign as king. John Ediger of Henderson, Neb., now a student at Tabor College, discussed the second topic—When and How will Christ come. He differentiated between Chrit's coming "for" the church and His coming "with" the saints. In rapture He comes in the air "for" His saints to reward them; in the revelation He comes to Mt. Olivet to judge the world. Dan Goertzen of Colby, Kansas, alos a student at Tabor College, discussed The Effect of the Hope of Christ's Coming Again. He emphasized the fact that the "blessed hope", the return of our Lord, has a profound influence upon the Christian: it keeps us from living in the world and in sin, I John 3:2; it guarantees the meeting of the loved ones who have gone before.

Following a very delicious lunch served by the ladies of the church, the young people again gathered—this time for the Round Table Discussion which was led by Rev. Mr. Albert Schultz, a man of God who loves young people and is deeply interested in helping them in and with their problems. He has been instrumental in leading many young people into a closer relationship with their Lord.

The following three topics were discussed: The Christian and his amusements, the Christian as a conscientious objector, and the Christian and his education.—Considering the first one. A list of amusements was placed on the black board, including baseball, basketball, football, horse-shoe, croquet, cards, checkers, dominoes, shows, dances, bowling, swimming, reading of questionable literature, listening to the radio etc. The question "What can Christians do and what can they not do" was answered from God's Word—Cor. 10:31; Col. 3:17; 1 John 2:15, 16. The following questions were used as a guide in the discussion: Do amusements tend to hinder the Christian's character and his appetite for things of God? Do they hinder his testimony? Do amusements ever lead anyone to Christ?

As a Mennonite people the question of taking up arms was discussed. It was concluded that we must obey our government—Romans 13:1. 2 and 1 Pet. 2:13-15, until requirements conflict with the teaching of God's Word. However, we could not find scriptural support for Peace movements and Peace conferences,* for Jesus Christ said that there shall be wars and rumors of war until the Prince of Peace comes to reign in righteousness. *(Search some more—Editor)

One of the very important problems and necessarily so, is that of selecting the right schools. Again questions were asked. Why are such great efforts put forth to have a good education? Replies: "That I might win men to the Lord who are educated." "That I might hold the position of a teacher in a public school." In the choice of a school one should carefully consider the doctrinal and scriptural foundation of the school. Does this school present Christ as Savior of man? Will this school help my spiritual life? Will it create in me a passion for the lost?

It was emphasized that the most valuable knowledge is gained in the study of the Bible; therefore schools must be selected in which the Bible receives the most prominent place in the curriculum. A school in which the Bible has only a secondary place, and that tends to create doubt in the minds of its attendants should be shunned! God has raised up Bible Schools in these days that are loyal to the Word of God to combat atheism and moderism; therefore, young people ought to seriously consider the attendance of institutions that will give them a knowledge in the Bible.

The evening message directed us to "Look Unto Jesus" to remove mountains in our lives such as the Mountain of Unbelief, Heb. 12:1, 2; the Mountain of Unyieldedness, Rom. 12:1, 2; and the Mountain of Unwillingness to Serve Him, Matt. 28:19.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Rev. Albert Schultz, pastor of the Butterfield, Minn., Menn. Church writes: Sometime ago The Mennonite had some articles about beautified church yards. I feel that our lawn, too, deserves mention. The outdoor bulletin informs people of the services in the church. The entire front of the church facing the street has the word WELCOME formed of Moss Roses. Between this bed of roses and the side walk are three flower beds in the shape of a circle, with red geraniums, petunias, gladiolas, lillies, and moonflowers. On the east end of the church is a bed of lillies the entire width of the building. The back of the yard is decorated with morning glories and vines on a woven wire fance. Thus the yard presents a beautiful scene, but the inside is also inviting, orderly, and neat. Our Mr. Miller spends much time keeping everything in order.

—Rev. Edmund Miller of the Menno Church, Lind, Wash. writes that Mrs. Miller had a major operation in her home town while she was visiting her folks. Telegram, Rochester, N. Y. reads, "Operation successful, getting along fine." Let us pray for her speedy recovery, so that she once more can carry on her many duties.

MARRIAGES

—JANTZ—PRECHT. On Oct. 17, 1940, near Lind, Wash., Marie Jantz of the Menno Church and Henry Precht of Lind, Wash., were married by Rev. Edmund Miller. The couple will live in Lind, Wash., where Mr. Precht is an undertaker. Address: Henry Precht, Lind, Washington.

—FRIESEN—BINGHAM. At the Butterfield Menn. church, Minn., by pastor Rev. Albert Schultz, on October 10, Miriam Gertrude Friesen was married to Lloyd Donald Bingham. They have left for San Diego, Calif., where they will make their home. Street address to be reported as soon as known.

—WEDEL—GRABER. On Saturday, Oct. 12, at the Eden Menn. Church, occured the wedding of Miss Edythe Wedel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wedel, and Mr. Harvey Graber, son of Mrs. P. P. O. Graber. Rev. Walter Gering performed the ceremony and Rev. Sam J. Goering, uncle of the groom, made a short address.

—CHAMBERS—BULLER. On Saturday, Oct. 12, at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. John E. Kaufman, Miss Maurine Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Chambers, was united in marriage with Mr. Edward Buller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Buller of Inman, Kansas. Both had been students at Bethel College. The couple live at Bucklin, Kan., where the groom is teacher and coach in the high school.

—Bluffton College.—The Director of Publicity, Dr. I. W. Bauman, writes: "Regular weekly items concerning Bluffton College will be submitted to your paper (The Mennonite). We hope you can use some or all of them. . . . Thank you!" We are glad for these items and shall try to use what is valuable and interesting as far as space permits. Sunday, Oct. 13, the Men's Gospel Team participated in the service of the Wadsworth (Ohio) Church. Miss Dorrit Weil, an Austrian Christian refugee student took part in the program. Her stay in Bluffton is sponsored by the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s and the Gospel Teams.—Eighty students and some faculty members at Bluffton joined the many peace lovers throughout the nation who fasted on Registration Day for the relief of European war sufers. Meditation at noon and evening were sponsosed by the Peace Action Club. The Christian organizations on the campus observe half hour periods Tuesday and Friday evenings.

—Rev. Phil. A. Wedel of Aberdeen, Idaho, writes: The Ordination of Rev. Peter Becker took place Sept. 29, 1940, as announced in the paper. Mrs. Becker is Gertrude Schroeder, formerly of Paso Robles, Calif. They are competent young people and, for the present, they will work with the Sunday School Union.

—Ideal Fall Weather Brings Record-Breaking Crowds to the MINISTERIAL CONFERENCE and the SESSION OF THE WESTERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE. The Minister's Conference, held at the Halstead Mennonite Church, with Rev. J. N. Smucker as chairman, had a very interesting and profitable meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 22. The host church served a splendid meal at noon.—The audiences that attended the W. D. Conference, at the Newton City Auditorium, Wednesday and Thursday of last week, were undoubtedly the largest ever present at such meetings. The hall, with seating capacity of about 1300, was packed at each session, with a good many standing at times. The programs were interesting and profitable and proceeded smoothly under the tactful direction of Rev. J. M. Regier, the chairman. The addresses of Dr. Harold Bender of Goshen, Indiana, recently returned from a visit with refugees in Europe, and Dr. H. A. Fast, who has spent some weeks in Washington, D. C., in the interests of Alternative Service for the youths of peace churches, gave valuable information anxiously waited for. Here is hope that some of it may be brought in our church papers.

—Bethel College.—The Work Camp project is progressing nicely. The students enrolled for this have been constructing their permanent camp out of boxcars, including the digging of trenches for water and gas, and laying the foundation for a bath room. The young men enrolled for the first unit are: Edwin Dirks, Erwin Krehbiel, Dan Kaufman, Alvin Goertz and Wilbert Reimer. Mr. Erwin Goering, a student doing graduate work, is director of the camp.—The brick work on Memorial Hall having been finished, workmen are now busy putting on the frame for the roof in preparation for laying the composition covering. It is estimated that, with favorable weather, the building should be under roof in 5-6 weeks.—The Homecoming festivities are scheduled for November 2. At two in the afternoon, the queen will be crowned. This act will be followed by a foot-ball game, and the homecoming supper at the college dining hall in the evening.

—Freeman Junior College.—On Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, Nov. 1-3, a YOUNG PEOPLE'S BIBLE CONFERENCE will be held at the College. Rev. A. Jonathan Bard of Seattle, Washington, traveler, broadcaster and evangelist will speak three times each day. The young people of the Mennonite churches will furnish suitable music. A WINTER BIBLE INSTITUTE, under the direction of Rev. John Toews, Bible teacher in the College, is being planned for the Winter Quarter beginning November 25th. Tentative plans are to offer a number of evening courses for those not being able to come for the entire 12 weeks of the winter term. The evening courses would meet three times a week for a four weeks period. More detailed announcements will follow in local papers and in the next issue of the Bulletin.

—Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota CELEBRATES ITS FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY, Sunday, Oct. 27, with programs afternoon and evening. In several respects this church has a unique history. There is its growth. In these fifty years its membership has grown to 500.—Long time service of its leaders, practically only three: H. H. Regier, J. J. Balzer and John Bartel, P. R. Schroeder just beginning his service.—A goodly number of missionaries in the foreign field: H. J. Brown and Aganetha Fast in China; P. A. Penner, the first Mrs. Penner and Mrs. Ferdinand Isaac in India. Jointly with sister churches it has maintained, through all these years, a live Bible school which has been a blessing to many. It has worshipped in the same building, though enlarged, all these years. The congregation is spiritually wide awake and aggressive, the Sunday school ranks high.

—Hospital Sunday at Mt. Lake, Minn.—Sunday, Oct. 20, was set aside for the benefit of the Bethel Hospital. Afternoon and evening services were held at the high school auditorium, and the offerings received were intended to go to a building fund for the Home of the Aged. The main address of the afternoon was given by Rev. P. R. Schroeder in German. In the evening there was rendered a musical program by a mass choir, directed by Mr. Otto Richert, music instructor, and Rev. Schroeder gave an Richert, misic instructor, and Rev. Schroeder gave an address in English. The choir sang such selections as: America the Beautiful, God Save America, God of Our Fathers Whose Almighty Hand (with trumpets), Awakening Chorus, Hallelujah for the Cross, It is Well with My Soul.

—"Western District Tidings" reports that the C. E. Executive Committee of the district has re-appointed Mr. William Juhnke as editor of the paper. That in the Eastern District each C. E. society is to give a Bible to some one needing it. That Mr. John Fretz of Philadelphia suggests the appointment of a committee in each C. E. district to prepare and assemble the 1941 Y. P. conference exhibit. That Ann Flickinger of Elyria, Kansas, writes: "Christian Mennonite workers must use tact . . . . More souls are won by tact than by talent. Jesus used tact in speaking to the Samaritan women at the well. He knew in what manner to tell her of her wrong. She took it graciously and went back telling others about Him."

—Women's Missionary Societies of Indiana meet—On Oct. 17 women's mission societies of Mennonite churches met in the Menn. church at Nappenee, Ind., for an all day program. Large representations from different parts of the state attended. From Berne, Ind., came a group of about fifty on two buses chartered for the trip. Dr. Harold Bender of Goshen College spoke on European relief from observations on his recent trip. Mrs. H. R. Clarke talked on work among migrants.

—Rev. Henry Fast, Gen. Conf. Peace Secretary, who is in Washington assisting in the formulation of plans for alternative service for pacifist churches, is finding it possible to visit some of the Eastern District churches on Sundays. On Sunday, Oct. 13, he was with the Eden Church at Schwenksville and First Church, Philadelphia, and on October 20 at the First Church, Allentown.

—An Old Settler passes away— At Wayland, Iowa, on Oct. 12, passed away P. E. Wittmer, at the age of 91 years. Funeral services were held at the Eicher Emmanual Church, conducted by his pastor, Rev. Delbert Welty. The deceased came from Altkirch, Alsace, having been a member of the Mennonite church from his youth.

—Bethel Church, Langdon, North Dak. Oct. 19, '40
Greetings to all! Another fall has come. This year there was a fairly good crop around here, though in some places hail has damaged part of some fields. The Lord has given abundantly for our needs. He also provides for our spiritual needs. Every Tuesday night is Bible study and prayer meeting, and on Nov. 6 Rev. J. Bartel of Minnesota (?) will start a series of meetings in our church, which we hope will be a blessing to all. Please, pray that through them many souls may be won for the Master before it is too late. —Mrs. I. Veer, Corr.

Our Alien Neighbors

Citizens of the United States, especially those who have become such by the process of naturalization, have every reason to be grateful and happy for the privileges and the protection they enjoy in their adopted country, in these times of turmoil. For even now when some things go considerably wrong and when we are so uncertain as to what the future may bring, there is no better place in the world to live in than the United States of America. There are approximately 3,500,000 non-citizens in our land. Some of them have merely neglected to apply and to strive for citizenship. Others have been barred because of ignorance, undemocratic ideals or beliefs, or their is hesitancy to break away from their native land and, no doubt, for many other reasons. Some, though comparatively few, have been refused citizenship, because they could not conscientiously endorse the demand set up by our courts, generally, that they affirm their willingness to fight with arms, in case the country should become involved in war. Thus, otherwise staunchly loyal and obedient people have been denied membership in our commonwealth. One heartily sympathizes with such people, but one can never fully know the feeling of dejection and injustice that they experience in being merely tolerated among us or liable to be looked upon as undesirable or "personae non gratae." In times of fear or war the alien is always made to feel this, here or there, and sometimes almost everywhere. The Statue of Liberty symbolizes the spirit of toleration and equality, which is so sorely needed today to defeat the spreading of alien-baiting. But this is being hushed or suppressed, and non-citizens are again facing precarious developments. It is therefore very fortunate and timely that an organization has been formed which has for its aim the perpetuation of the democratic rights of the American people, "the American Committee for the Protection of the Foreign Born" that has inaugurated a campaign, beginning October 28, which has for its objectives: 1. The elimination of existing difficulties which hinder and prevent many of the 3,500,000 non-citizens from becoming naturalized citizens. 2. To insure the right of naturalized Americans to participate fully in the social, political and economic life of our country. May God grant that our beloved America might become the place where we may all live together as good neighbors, regardless of place of birth, color or other impediments! —T

Fertile and Unfertile Soil

In the Parable of "The Sower" Christ shows that the good seed sown falls on four different kinds of soil, only one of which is productive of yields, hundred-, sixty-, and thirty- fold. The parable is entirely in line with the accounts of the Scriptures where the great majority of people are represented as being disobedient, obstinate, going the way of destruction. How sad it is that Jesus has to tell us that so many hear God's Word, the only plan of salvation and road to happiness, and decline to receive it into their hearts. How significant that he adds that those who bring fruit UNDERSTAND the Word. And only as they understand it can they become fruitful. But it is not only understanding, intelligent grasping of the word, but an inner, a heart reception, feeding upon it, digesting it, appropriating it, until it becomes a part of the recipient, that counts. It must go the same way, figuratively speaking, as food taken into the body, it must be digested and assimilated to nourish. We will understand God's Word to just the extent that we open our hearts to it, so that our soul's need and that which God's Word offers clench hands, as it were. What does this Word do when thus received? First it lays bare our sins; it causes disgust with or opposition to sin; it reaches out for the mercy of God in Christ Jesus; it seeks the foregiveness of God, finds peace with God, joy to go the way of God, and the desire to serve Him and our fellowmen. What an apt and true picture of the experiences of a Christian. How simple the story, how plain its meaning, how significant its application, which shows that bearing of fruit in the Christian life depends on a person's attitude to the Word of God. —T

Swaying and Swerving

by Mrs. Edna R. Brown, Spokane, Washington

Many a driver has found to his woe that a single sudden swerve in the wrong direction is disastrous. It may demolish a car; but what is far worse, it may bring injury or death to himself or others. Certainly it is dangerous for any driver to defiantly develop the reckless habit of swerving, even though he goes unscathed for a time.

Along the highway of life, the risk from spiritual swerving is immeasurably greater. Many a soul has been wrecked and condemned because it insisted upon swerving from the course it should have taken.

Sad indeed are the disasters that have resulted because once-redeemed souls have departed from their God, their Savior, their wholly-holy Bible, their faith!

Many of them, it is true, may have been travelling "the strait and narrow way," so long that they felt immune from disaster. But not so! "Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip" (Heb. 2:1); "Let us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it" (Heb. 4:1); "Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure" (2 Pet. 1:10); "Ye therefore, beloved, seeing ye know these things before, beware lest ye also, being led away with the error of the wicked, fall from your own stedfastness" (2 Pet. 3:17).

No soul is exempt from danger from without. The enemy provides every possible inducement for every Christian to take a sidetrack. Often he exercises keen hunting and deceit. His delight and work is to cause Christians to swerve—to swerve away from the whole Bible, to swerve away from the promises of God, to swerve away from complete consecration, to swerve away from the sound faith in Christ the Savior. Satan cunningly tries to implant doubt in the soul. His major task is to get people to doubt God's Word! He tries to get them to twist it around, to confuse it, to detract from or add to it!

But God knows this! Therefore He sees that we are warned abundantly. Danger signals are profusely given throughout His Holy Word. A few only are here cited: "Be not carried about with divers and strange doctrines" (Heb. 13:9). "But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived. But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou has learned them; And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus" (2 Tim. 3:13-15). "Neither give heed to fables and endless genealogies, which minister questions, rather than godly edifying which is in faith" (1 Tim. 1:4).

When we get back to the Whole Bible and are willing to accept it as God's Word, then there will be less swerving from the only road that leads Home. The whole Bible—no mere man's (or woman's) "reasoning" or "ideas" or "philosophy" subtracting from or adding thereto—is the only safe set or directions. It is the only "road map" that can keep us from departing from the "highway of the upright" and from causing "many to stumble at the law." When we come to rest in the Scriptures, we will not wrest them to our own—and others'—destruction!

"So now who shall part us, my Bible and I?
Shall isms or schisms, or new-light who try?
Shall shadow or substance, or stone for good bread
Supplant thy sound wisdom, give folly instead?

"Ah no! my dear Bible, exponent of light!
Thou sword of the Spirit, put error to flight;
And still through life's journey, until life's last sigh,
We've travelled together, my Bible and I."

Too often precious souls have been turned aside into a false and erring path because they have listened to another person's doctrine and have exchanged it for God's Word. Deliberately or unsuspectingly they have departed from the faith. "From which" (the doctrine of Jesus Christ) "some having swerved have turned aside unto vain jangling; Desiring to be teachers of the law; understanding neither what they say, nor whereof they affirm" (1 Tim. 1:6, 7). How much wiser to go on "holding faith and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck" (1 Tim. 1:19).

Ceaseless prayer and watchfulness, unwavering faith, and a spirit of willing obedience will "fix" and "establish" the heart and prevent swaying and swerving! Our Guide can direct us safely amid all clamoring distractions, and all sidetracking attractions, however cunningly camouflaged they may be.

Eternal happiness and security await all who adhere to the teachings of the doctrine of saving faith in Christ Jesus. May nothing separate us from Him or cause us to sway and swerve from the truth HE gave us.

Scripture tells us that we, having been reconciled to God through the blood of Christ, will be presented "holy and unblameable and unreprovable in his sight: If ye continue in the faith grounded and settled, and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel" (Col. 1:22, 23).

As down in the sunless retreats of the ocean
Sweet flowers are springing no mortal can see,
So deep in my soul the still PRAYER of devotion
Unheard by the world, rises silent to THEE.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

PICTURES! PICTURES!!

When our call goes out for evangelism, and for funds and equipment to carry on this work, we are well aware that this may not describe the work of Christ in its entirety.

Christ taught. — Christ trained leaders. — Christ acted as Soul Surgeon. — Christ did a good deal of Counselling. — Christ healed the sick, including lepers.

But when Christ taught, he taught things concerning God and the way to come to God's riches. When He trained leaders they were trained in service and to be leaders of the flock. Whatever he said about things and neighbors (and He said a good deal) the taproots were in God. His teaching and life had primacy of value in spiritual things.

If we follow Jesus Christ, we will not be put to shame, for He is precious. I Peter 2:6. Christ is the Chief Cornerstone. Since the tap roots of relationships are in God, evangelism must be the mainspring of our work. The entrance into the richer life must be by faith in Christ.

As much interested as I am in the complete program of Christ, I still plead for evangelism on this basis. How can I do otherwise, when we have 359 different villages here, and in only one of them is there a Church. 358 villages! And no ecclesia! No little colony of heaven in their midst!! Oh that the yearning heart of God for His wayward children would rest completely on me,—and on my Indian co-workers! Would that Paul's power to change men as he, through God's power, changed Onisimus, be mine,—and my Indian co-workers. Please pray for me, and for my Indian co-workers, that we may receive these gifts as an endudement from the throne of Grace. Philemon v. 10, 11.

We still believe that pictures are a tremendous help in teaching the Word of God to illiterates. I plead, therefore, that a few select pictures be sent, and sent just as soon as possible through the mails. I thought that this was almost impossible during the war, until a friend in Allentown, Penna., Mrs. Solt, recently sent me a batch which I appreciated very much. Please send all on the Crucifixion of Christ, from the entrance of Judas into the garden on to the burial. Also send all on the Conversion of Saul to Paul, also all in Genesis 1, 2, and 3. Carefully detatch these from their rollers, and wrap all around one roller and cutting out the excess weight as maps, etc., send by mail. Then save the rest until they can be sent (boxed) with some missionary, or until the war is over. We still want these large pictures. For the sake of those sitting in darkness in these 358 villages I plead. India is calling. Christ is calling On behalf of Christ we call.

Education for the Common Defense

By Charles F. Wishart, President, of the College of Wooster

The tragic fires which are now burning up European civilization illustrate, with terrible clarity, the great fact that humanism without God and without immortality leads straight down into the abyss. The Darwinian evolution of the last century, often misunderstood and misapplied by its own teachers, was unfortunately, distorted into a philosophy which made man the master of his own fate, standing in an empty universe without God.

The fading out of these great sustaining beliefs among the intelligentsia in the field of science, art, and literature is one of the most pathetic pages in the story of human thinking. Condemned to a range and quality of existenec little above the level of the animal world, men felt, first, deep despair, and then wild revolt. Hard and cruel philosophies, like that of Nietzsche, were proclaimed by scholars and then popularized down to the level of the man on the street. These philosophies were readily picked up by politicians avid for power. The sense of the worthlessness of human life lent itself perfectly to that bitter sadism which was a direct psychological outcome of the materialistic psychology of despair.

The debacle of Europe today came because there was no vision and the people were perishing. It begins to look as though America is the sole hope for the rebuilding of world civilization. But that hope can only be attained as we undergird humanism with the concept of a personal, loving God to whom we are responsible, and an eternal destiny to which this life is the only threshold. When you stop to think of it, the Gospel "good news" which thrilled the world in the First Century of the Christian era was simply the announcement to men that God was good, that Jesus was a Savior, and above all that life lived on through new and thrilling experiences of splendor and service. The "good news" was the resurrection message. Give back to men the sense that life has an eternal significance and outcome, and they will rediscover the worth of personality. They will rediscover, too, honor and good faith, mercy and friendship.

I do not know any better service for the common defense of this last stronghold in which democracy is making its stand than a return to a sane spiritual faith which accepts science, but outsteps it; which follows the track of reason, but outtracks it; which trains youth not only in hard logics, but in the deep, warm intuitions, and which sends them out with a fresh vision and a new sense of responsibility.

PRAYER CHANGES THINGS

By Cecil Frederick

The characters of this story are real, although fictious names are supplied.

"Jim, will you come into my study please? I would like very much to talk with you." The voice was that of a godly man, an elderly circuit pastor of the horse and buggy days.

Jim followed the minister into the study reluctantly, thinking to himself, "More heavenly talk," although he loved the old minister very much.

But he was unsaved and his conscience hurt him, and he always became more miserable when in the kindly minister's company for he had been under conviction ever since he became a friend of Ruth, the minister's only child, whom Jim loved and hoped to marry.

Jim seated himself near the old pastor saying, "What is it you want, Mr. Clarke? I haven't much time but I couldn't refuse you anything. Only please be brief."

The aged man leaned back in his chair and fixed his eyes on Jim's face. "Jim," he began, "you know I love you very much, don't you? In fact as much as I could love a son if God had given me one. But there has been something I wanted to talk to you about ever since I learned that you and Ruth have been contemplating marriage. Jim, please don't misunderstand, but I have always prayed that my daughter would never consider marriage with any man who was not a Christian. Not that I don't admire you. I do, and nothing would make me happier than to have you for a son. But, Jim, I want you to think seriously about giving your heart to God. I pray that you may soon see the light and surrender your life to Christian service. Then some day when I am called out of this world my mantle may fall on you, that you might become a shining example for good."

While the old minister was speaking Jim sat staring at the floor—he could never look into the minister's eyes when he talked to him on the subject of salvation. But now he raised his head and reached for his hat, and with a sullen look on his face, he said, "Is that just a nice way of telling me I am not good enough for your daughter?" and he started to leave the room.

The minister arose and, putting his arm around Jim, walked to the door with him saying, "Jim, don't take that attitude, but promise me that you will pray and come back soon and see us, and think about where you will spend eternity. You know, Jim, your soul will live forever somewhere, and your salvation has been my chief concern for months.

"Of course, I am concerned for Ruth's happiness, because I know she could not be happy married to a man who did not uphold righteousness, for she has always been a firm believer in that which is good. So now see why I am concerned for you both, my boy."

Jim left the older man, after promising him he would think about this, and as he slowly descended the steps Ruth, a lovely girl of twenty, called to him. She was smiling as she said, "I was waiting in the hall while you and Father were in the study. What were you talking about, and why do you look so gloomy, dear?"

Jim, taking her hand, said in a hurt tone, "Ruth, your father has made it quite plain that he thinks I am not worthy of you, and he is right. I am not your type, and I am not a Christian. But if you will only give me a chance I will try hard to make you happy, and through your influence I know I will be a better man. Just being near you and knowing you love me makes me feel less hopeless."

As time went on Jim's visits to the parsonage became more and more frequent, and each time he begged Ruth to consider marriage.

Jim was a very attractive man, with dark eyes that always looked straight into yours, and dark wavy hair. He was about twenty-five years of age, tall and powerfully built. He possessed determination and a lot of good traits which denote strong character, and if directed in the right channels would make him a blessing to the world and with those with whom he came in contact.

Ruth knew her parents adored Jim, and she felt she could not live without him. Tears started in her yes as she thought of giving him up. She pitied him because of his lack of spiritual training, for his parents were not Christians but very worldly people. And she vowed she would spend the rest of her life, if necessary, helping Jim to see the way, and she would pray for him that he might give his heart to God.

Ruth had been reared in a Christian home, sheltered and loved by her parents, and she in turn loved them devotedly. But she loved Jim, too, and wanted desperately to marry him. She tried to believe marriage would be the one way to save Jim, thinking if she were to give him up he would grow bitter and drift farther and farther away from the truth. On the other hand, she felt if she were with him she could influence him and help him to find the way. So in spite of the fact that her parents begged her to reconsider because they were concerned for her happiness in the future, and because to her it seemed the only way, on Ruth's twenty-first birthday she and Jim were married.

For months they were delightfully happy. Jim was an engineer on a railroad. He received a large salary and provided for Ruth a very lovely home, with everything she could wish for, excepting that as yet he had not given his heart to God. His life was not changed. Ruth kept praying that soon he would see the light, but she little knew what discouragements lay ahead, so she went about humming as she prepared dinner.

It was Saturday evening, and Jim had been out on the road for two days. She knew his train was due at seven o'clock, and after she had carefully set the table and finished cooking, she sat down to wait for Jim, but hours passed and still he did not come. Ruth wondered what could be keeping him, and she became uneasy. But after a while she heard scuffling steps on the sidewalk and then on the porch. The door opened, and Jim entered.

"Did you think I wasn't ever coming home, dear? I'm sorry but I met a few of the fellows I used to work with and they asked me to be a pal and have a drink with them, just for old times' sake. I know I promised you I would never touch the stuff, and I won't ever again.

Ruth saw that his eyes were bleared and detected the odor of liquor on his breath as he kissed her. Tears started in her eyes and her breath came in little gasps. Her hands trembled as she went about serving dinner.

She knew it would do no good to talk to Jim in this condition, so she went upstairs, and, kneeling in her bedroom, she tried to pray. But her father's kind old face was before her and she remembered how he had pleaded with her not to marry Jim before he was a Christian. The thought of Jim in this condition almost drove her mad, but growing calmer she prayed that God would undertake for her and change Jim's heart.

Weeks passed and Jim grew steadily worse. He drank until he was seldom sober, and when he was drinking he was angry and sullen and even used frofane language in Ruth's presence, a thing Ruth thought would kill her father if he should hear Jim.

Ruth's heart was broken. He refused to give her money, and bills were steadily piling up. She knew Jim's job was in the balance because of his drinking. What she would do she did not know. Soon she became ill, very near a nervous collapse, and after two and one-half years of married life her friends were astonished at the change in her. She was no longer the beautiful, sheltered, lighthearted girl, but a desperate heartbroken woman. And so there came a day when she told Jim he was no longer her husband but just a boarder in their home. She told him she intended leaving him, but she remembered her vow she had made to spend her life helping him to find the way. So, although they remained under the same roof, they drifted farther apart with each day, and each day Jim grew worse. When he was sober, which was seldom, he would cry and beg Ruth to forgive him and give him another chance. But she no longer had faith in his promises. She had lost confidence in Jim, and his promises came to mean nothing, because she knew in his own strength he could never change.

Jim was miserable in the days that followed. He realized that he was fast losing both Ruth and his home; even his job was threatened. He would sit for hours and stare into space, and after each drunken spree he would continue to cry and beg Ruth to forgive him, and then repeat the same old promises which he never kept. Ruth often thought, "Can this be the man I married, the Jim Travers, the man I loved?" But this thought came to her one night as seh knelt in prayer, that perhaps she did not have enough faith in God. Oh, why did God seem so far away? She prayed for more faith, because even if Jim had failed her, surely God had not. Even though she was desperate, she kept on praying that God would undertake for her and save Jim, and that they might be happy again.

They had been married three years now, and life to Jim never seemed more hopeless than on this day, their wedding anniversary. Jim wandered wet and tired into a little boarding house at the end of his run. It was on a back street in a small town, and it had been raining all day. He entered the room which was only half lighted, threw his cap on the mantel, and sank wearily into a chair. This truly was the darkest day in his life. It seemed everybody and everything had turned against him, and he felt he had come to the end of himself. He sat there gazing around the room. His eyes finally rested in a little wall motto. Inscribed were these words, "Prayer Changes Things."

The words seemed to burn themselves into his brain. He stared at them so long that they became stereotyped, and then in desperation he fell on his knees and began to pray, "O God, save me. I know I'm a sinner of the blackest type and a failure in my own strength." And the verse that Ruth had taught him came to his mind: "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out."

"I'll take you at your word, I'm coming now. Although I'm a dreadful fool, I know Christ can make a new man of me, change my sinful heart, and make me whole."

At last Jim felt a great joy surge through him and he arose from his knees a saved and happy man, with the joy that comes with full and complete surrender in his heart. He knew Ruth's prayers had been in vain, and he felt he could scarcely wait to tell Ruth.

When Jim arrieved home that evening Ruth noticed the change in his manner. The old love tone was in his voice as he greeted her instead of the usual sarcasm and anger. She had invited the minister of the church she attended for dinner, as he was an old friend of her father, Mr. Clarke. And instead of being angry, as he formerly was whenever she asked any of her Christian friends to their home, Jim greeted the minister in a kindly manner and asked them to kneel with him in prayer. Together they thanked God for the change that had come into their home and into Jim's heart. When they rose Ruth knew her prayers had not been in vain.

Jim's friends noticed the change in Jim, but they scoffed and said it would last only until payday, when he would be drunk again. But many paydays have come and gone and Jim still holds out, and he and Ruth are again delightfully happy.

One year ago the superintendent called Jim to his office. He said, "Jim, I have noticed a great change in you. Your hand no longer shakes when you sign the pay roll, and you don't use profane language any more. Your work the past year has been excellent. I am offering you a better job with a larger salary."

But Jim has gone into mission work and is now superintendent of a rescue mission in a large city and is a great power for good.

Ruth's father, the kindly old minister, has passed out of this life, but truly his mantle has fallen on Jim, whose life has become a great power for good. He is still telling others of the Christ who can cleanse the leper's spots and lift men out of themselves, out of sin, anr hopelessness. He has led many to know and believe that "Prayer Changes Things."

The Golden Rule

Luke 6:27-38

Topic: THE GOLDEN RULE IN LIFE TODAY

Introduction

Jesus and His followers were together in the mountain side. He had just chosen the Twelve and now delivered the memorable Sermon on the Mount which reveals the true nature of dicipleship. The heart of it is the law of love in human conduct and relationships. This is summed up in the Golden Rule (v. 31). There has never been another principle as great as this, pronounced as a guide to human conduct. It is a fundamental principle of conduct, a general principle capable of application in every phase of life. In today's lesson we study its application to practical love and good-will. It enables us to understand the law of love more easily.

Love Your Enemies vs. 27-30

"Love your enemies," came from Jesus' lips with a new meaning. It seemed contrary to all human wisdom. It had a wonderful illustration in His own life. Jesus means that we shall maintain a spirit of good-will towards our enemies. Love alone can win an enemy, can make a friend out of a foe. Love is the doing of good to enemies. It is active good-will (v 27). When love dwells in the heart, the Christian can and will pray for those who curse, insult and treat him rudely (v 28). He will not seek to retaliate, even though he may feel the wrong keenly. Love will not forcibly resist personal injuries. Such offenses are to be borne in the spirit of loving forgiveness (v29). Such love will win in the end. Jesus states a general principle of unselfish and liberal giving, safely left to the common sense of man v 30). He does not say that we should give to every one just what he asks. God, Himself, does not do that.

Love, Do Good, Be Merciful vs. 31-38

Verse 31 sums up the law of love, sums up all that Jesus said in verses 27 to 30. This, the Christian "Golden Rule", is a simple rule of action, but it is infinite in its applications. It is a vital part of the Christian religion, but it is really and truly kept by only a small minority. The standard of Christian conduct must be higher than that of sinners (vs 32-35). Jesus asks of His followers that they do more than sinners. In these verses He sets forth the inner characteristics of the children of God. He is kind to the unthankful and to the evil, so His Children shall unfailingly manifest love and goodwill. God, our Father is merciful and forgiving in heart and soul. His children should be like Him (v36). This spirit of mercy should always temper the Christian's thinking of others. The applying of the "Golden Rule" in life will be well rewarded by God and fellow-men (v38).

The "Golden Rule" applied in private life serves as an antidote to selfish living. Love prompts us to think of other persons' interests as on an equality with our own. The "Golden Rule" applied in business life will remove the causes leading up to disagreements, selffishness and injustice. An honest and sincere attempt by ALL the leading nations to apply the "Golden Rule" would change the whole international situation almost immediately and would insure world peace. Armaments could be scrapped and the race for armaments be abandoned. Our own "Defense program" —in reality a rearmament program—could at once be repealed and the staggering tax burdens greatly reduced. But this can scarcely take place until such time as the rulers of ALL nations will become truly Christian in practice. Clearly the world needs most of all, more real Christianity.

—A Pastoral Message: Jesus said to His disciples, "Ye are the light of the world." (Matt. 5:14) Thus He assigned to them a place of "leadership" in the world, which presupposes that they are themselves the followers of the true LIGHT OF THE WORLD. In a day when the world is being misled by those who are opposed to the true LIGHT, there is a crying need for new Christian Leadership which is first rooted in Jesus Christ but which branches out to serve humanity in its every problem." SERMON SKETCH

OUR RELIGION TOMORROW

(I John 5:4)

I. The Meaning of Religion

So far as we know Jesus never used the term "religion;" He spoke of "The Way." John calls it "Our Faith." If we may take Jesus as final, and we should, then religion is not primarily a matter of "rescue," but a matter of prevention. Certainly, the only hope for a man in sin is the Christian faith, the Jesus Way. But the first work of the Jesus Way is to prevent men from going into sin.

Nor is religion, the Jesus Way, an opiate of consolation; it is essentially a technique of mastery. For the Priest and the Levite religion was on opiate of consolation; they passed by undisturbed. For the Samaritan religion was a technique, a way, to master evil.

Nor is religion, the Christian religion, a deposit of doctrines and ordinances; it is essentially a system of values. "What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his soul?"

Religion, from the Christian point of view, is a relationship of love; love toward God and man; it is the deed of the moment done in the light of eternity; it is out-reaching, the upward-reaching of the soul of man for God in the satisfaction of felt need; it means: "Give us this day our daily bread."

II. The World Tomorrow

No man knows just what sort of world we will have tomorrow. Several things, however, are evident. (1) It will be a hard world, but one of opportunity. (2) It will be a world after the pattern of the totalitarian philosophy. (3) It will be a world in which people must be strong or perish. (4) It will be a world in which religious authority must be internal rather than external, and approved knowledge must take the place of tradition. (5) It will be a world in which we must quest for meanings, not only facts.

III. Our Religion Tomorrow

If our religion is to endure, three things are essential: (1) There must be Creed; that is, conviction. Men must believe something with all their heart. (2) There must be Code; that is, conduct. Men must act in accordance with their faith. (3) There must be a Cultus; that is, communion. Between man and God, and between man and man, there must be spiritual reciprocity. Conviction, Conduct, and Communion we must have if our faith is to overcome the world.

IV. How Choose Our Religion

In the perplexing tomorrow men will be required to make choice of their religion; it can not be inherited. In this choice three things are imperative. (1) The mind must be given an intelligent vote. (2) The heart must be given a pure vote. And (3), The will must be given the deciding vote. In a word, there must be intelligence, sincerity and purpose.

The religion which will conquer in the great tomorrow must clarify the mind; it must purify the heart, and it must motivate the will. In other words, there must be Revelation, Regeneration, and Consecration. Percisely in this, and because of this, the Christian faith is destined to overcome the ways of the world.

AN EDITORIAL

EVALUATING OUR MENNONITE COLLEGES

From "The Herald", Rev. L. Hostetler, Editor
Upland, California

Bethel College is an accredited institution, growing and progressive, and doing an indispensable work in our church. No denomination can survive long without a school to train its youth and perpetuate its ideals. The teaching staff at Bethel is composed of men and women of excellent scholastic training. But what is more important, they are men and women of Christian character and their lives are dedicated to Christian service. They aim to train our youths to understand the deep things of Christ and to apply the light of His teachings to the darkness of a world submerged in paganism. With a world at war, they continue unafraid and undaunted to present Christ as the Prince of Peace who died for ALL mankind. Christian denominational schools where the simple precepts of the Bible are honored and where Christ is lifted up as the only Sovior of Mankind are indeed the salt of the educational world. Right thinking people are devoutly grateful for their existence and will pray for them and support them to the point of sacrifice.

The Mennonite Church is confronted with no greater danger to its institutional life than those schools, whether secular or religious, that are not grounded in our history and traditions and have not the slightest interest in our survival. The Christian doctrine of non-risistance, so long held by our church, and confirmed by a noble line of martyrs, is scoffed at and, strangely enough, branded by some as a piece of modernism or communism. For four hundred years we have held to the doctrine of peace while wars have come and gone. We have been upheld by the Quakers and the Dunkards, and more recently by scores in other denominations. Will we be able to continue our witness? The answer depends upon whether we can resist the secularism of the state schools and the militaristic doctrines of some of the Bible Schools.

Annual Bible Lectures at Bluffton College

Dr. R. Ames Montgomery, professor of Homiletics of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Chicago, Illinois, will give the annual series of Bible Lectures November 10-15 at Bluffton College. The evening lectures will be given in the First Mennonite Church at 7:30 and the morning lectures at 10:00 in the college gymnasium.

Dr. Montgomery comes well-recommanded as an author and teacher. He has also been president of several colleges. As already announced these lectures take the place of the spring lectures of former years. The change is made for the convenience of attending ministers and visitors. Anyone able to attend is invited to share the benefits of these lectures. The college is providing accomodations for visiting ministers.

The annual Ministers' Retreat will again be held in conjunction with these lectures on Wednesday and Thursday, November 13 and 14. Dr. Montgomery, Rev. E. Troyer, Dr. Henry Fast, Rev. W. C. Voth, Rev. Olin Krehbiel, Rev. Harold F. Stoddard, and Prof. H. W. Berky will appear on the program. Dr. Montgomery will discuss the meaning of the church and leadership. Rev. Voth, returned missionary from China, will discuss the church and missions. Dr. Fast will discuss the practical problems of non-resistance in our day; Rev. Stoddard, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Lima, Ohio, will discuss "A Faith Sufficient for Our Day" in three lectures. New developments in science will be discussed by Prof. Berky. Devotions will be conducted by Rev. Troyer and Rev. Krehbiel. A registration fee for the Ministers' Conference of $1.00 will be used to defray the expenses of the conference.

Dr. Montgomery's topics for his lectures are as follows:

Sunday, November 10

The Magnitude of the Cross

10:00—Its Solution of the Problem of Human Suffering.
3:00—Its Solution of the Problem of Sin
7:30—Its Solution of the Problem of God

Peace Negotiations or War to the Death

In public, the leaders of the warring nations remain adamant in their determination to fight on to complete victory. Hitler never allows the German public to suspect that his confidence in a smashing triumph has been shaken by the failure of the attack on England. While Winston Churchill tells the French that "we shall never stop, never weary, never give in" until the British have "beat the life and soul out of Hitler and Hitlerism." But in wartime things often happen behind the scenes that are not in full accord with the pronunciamentoes of the fighting governments. It was so during the First World War. And it is so, the Nofrontier News Service informs us, now. Under date of October 22 this news agency reports that it has finally received confirmation of reports that peace negotiations, with Spain acting as intermediary, were in full tide during September. The terms, it declares, included these seven points: (1) Cessation of hostilities. (2) Germany to remain in control of all conquered territory in Europe and take over whatever further territory might be necessary to create a powerful continental bloc. (3) England to take over French colonies. (4) A common military move against Soviet Russia. (5) Franco and Mussolini to become lesser satellites. (6) Hitler to have economic control of South America. (7) England to have control of North America in its economic sphere. "What brought (the negotiations) to a halt," says the N. N. S., "was the understanding arrived at between England and the United States, including the destroyer-naval bases swap and permission for the U. S. fleet to use the Singapore naval base. But from the fact that after this understanding England decided to carry on the war, it seems clear that it was much more far-reaching than has yet been disclosed officially." If it is true that the United States thus took the responsibility of inducing Great Britain to reject a negotiated peace, what will its further responsibility appear to be if, sometime during the coming winter, the war again approaches a deadlock and peace feelers are renewed? —The Christian Century October 30, 1940

GO ON WID DAT PRAYER

A poor, ignorant old colored man who had been a slave came to Miss M. Waterbury, a lady missionary among the freedmen and asked to be taught to pray. She began to teach him the Lord's prayer, sentence by sentence, explaining it to his entire satisfaction until she came to the one on forgiveness.

"What dat mean?" said he.

"That you must forgive everybody or God will not forgive you."

"Stop, teacher, can't do dat," and he went away.

After vacation he appeared again, saying: "Now go on wid dat prayer; I dun forgive him. Ole massa once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me with a crowbar, an' t'row me out for dead, and I meet him an' said: 'How'd ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer."

It might be well for many another besides the colored man to think very seriously of those whom they refuse to forgive before they go on "wid dat prayer."

Y. P. MEETING

A large number of young people attended the Y. P. session of the Western District Conference on Thursday night, Oct. 24. The conference convened in the city auditorium, Newton, Kansas. The audience packed the auditorium and overflowed into the lobby.

The Bethel College A Cappella Choir thrilled and inspired the gathering with four numbers. Harry Martens, director of student office and student employment at Bethel College, gave an inspirational address on the subject, "I'll Be A Christian". William E. Juhnke, sec-treas. of the Y. P. Union of the General Conference and editor of the Tidings, outlined the General Conference and Western District Y. P. projects. His outline of the General Conference Y. P. work will soon appear in these pages.

Dr. H. A. Fast, executive peace secretary of the General Conference who has represented the Mennonite Cetnral Committee in Washington for the past month, clarified the status of the C. O. under the Selective Service Act in his talk. Erwin Goering, director of the Bethel College, Mennonite work camp, explained the set-up of the camp and urged that additional young men enroll. Harry Graber, who served in the American Friends Reconstruction Unit in the Near East after the World War and who has been very active in the Wichita low-cost housing project, told how young people are helping and can help in the project.

In the lobby there was posted an exhibit of "work camp", retreat, and mission project pictures, papers, project articles, peace literature, etc. The offering amounted to $95.13. It will be used for mission projects and for printing the Tidings.

This and That

EAST SWAMP, PA., C. E.—Sept. 12-15 we enjoyed a spiritual treat through our annual week-end Bible Conference, with Rev. L. Sale Harrison, D. D., as speaker. He dealt with subjects in reference to Palestine, Russia, Germany, the revival of the Roman Empire, the coming of Christ, and the great tribulation. The attendance was very good at each of the five services. Recently we spent a Sunday afternoon in giving short services for shut-ins of our congregation. Two groups were formed and five homes were visited. For the services we had hymns, scripture, prayer, and a testimony in the form of a scripture passage by each one. We believe that those who took part in these services were strengthened and encouraged in their faith as much as those who were visited.

FIRST CHURCH, PHILA., C. E.—Dr. H. A. Fast addressed members of the local and second Church C. E. on the timely subject of "Non-resistance". In his talk he discussed the background of our Peace principles. A short but interesting general discussion followed.

GENERAL CONFERENCE Y. P. EXHIBIT—John Fretz, rep. of the Eastern District writes, "Our district has started to select a definite committee to head up the work (exhibit) and carefully study all angels of the project, in order that the exhibit might prove as helpful and comprehensive as it is possible to arrange it. We will eagerly welcome any and all material from anyone, in any ditsrict.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Main Topic: GRATEFUL FOR BLESSINGS

Col. 3:17; Eph. 5:20; Isa. 63:7

Program for November 24, 1940

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Praise Him! Praise Him!" "There is Wideness in God's Mercy;" "When Morning Gilds the Skies."
3. Thanksgiving Pageant.
4. Thank offering for relief work.

II. Leader's Introduction

A Sunday School Superintendent held his hands wide apart and said, "I guess I would need a space that long to write down all the things for which I am thankful." A child piped up with, "I guess you would need a telephone pole." The length of our list may be an indication of our ability to see the many blessings God has given to us. Among those the everyday blessings should have a large place. Those things that we take for granted—fresh air, sunshine, sunrise, sunset, the beauty of autumn foliage, the cheerful greeting of a friend, daily work, a cozy corner to read evenings, the companionship of fine minds by way of the radio, the good bed to sleep in, the security of a nation at peace.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks.

1. Rehearsal of God's Providence,	Josh. 24:1-14
2. A Psalm of Thanksgiving	I Chron. 16:23-36
3. A Psalm of Praise	Ps. 100
4. Thank God for Care	Mt. 6:25-34
5. Thank God for Prayer	Mk. 11:22-26

IV. For Discussion

1. What things were the children of Israel thankful for?
2. What things was Paul thankful for?
3. What are we thankful for?
4. How do we express our thankfulness?

V. Facts for Ttudy

One place where Jesus always gave thanks was when he partook of food. People who were present tell us of the praise that went up from his lips as He was breaking or had broken the bread. It was so at the feeding of the 5,000, in the upper room, just previous to His entering into Gethsemane, it was still the same when he sat down with the pilgrims of Emmaus. This custom must have made a deep impression on the disciples. They recognized Him as He broke the bread with them and gave thanks. May we suggest that with this simple custom we extend Thanksgiving Day into our lives.

Another thought is contained in the following words by Janie Alford:

I do not thank thee, Lord, that I have bread to eat
while others starve;
Nor yet for work to do while empty hands solicit heaven;
Nor for body strong while other bodies flatten beds of pain
No, not for these do I give thanks!

But I am grateful, Lord, because my meager loaf
I may divide;
And that my busy hands may move to meet another's need;
Because my doubled strength I may expend to steady
one who faints.
Yea, for all these do I give thanks.

—Janie Alford

Not Saved Far Enough

A Brahman at a Christian evangelistic meeting stood up and said, "You people say you are saved. So am I. As Christ has saved you, so Krishna has saved me." The wise leader of the meeting said to him, "I am very glad to hear that you are saved, very glad indeed. Now we are going down to the outcaste quarters to see what we can do for those poor, neglected people. We shall sit with them in their homes and share their lives and help them. Will you join us, brother?" The honest Brahman thought for a moment, and then replied, "Well, sahib, I am saved; but I guess I am not saved that far!"

Have You Had a Kindness Shown

"Have you had a kindness shown?
Pass it on;
'Twas not meant for you alone— pass it on;
Let it traved down the years,
Let it dry another's tears,
Till in heaven the deed appears—pass it on.

"Have you found the heavenly light?
Pass it on;
Souls are groping in the night, daylight gone;
Hold thy lighted lamp on high,
Be a star in some one's sky;
He may live who else may die—pass it on!"

—Ethel Wendell Trout

AM I GRATEFUL?

November 24, 1940

Call to Worship

Enter into His gates with thanksgiving,
And into His courts with praise:
Give thanks unto Him, and bless His name.
Psalm 11:4, Am. Stand. Ver.

Song "Come, Ye Faithful People, Come."
Scripture Reading, Dan. 6:10; Luke 17:12-17.
Prayer Song, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."
Sentence Prayers (Ask each person to thank God for one of His gifts.)

Blackboard Talk:

Have a list made on the blackboard of all the things the members have for which they should be grateful. Also make a list of those things which we most often forget as blessings for which to thank God.

Questions

1. Why do we have a Thanksgiving Day?
2. Do you think that God likes for us to thank Him for His gifts?
3. How may we express our thanks?
4. Can we show by our lives that we are thankful?
5. Does God care for "lip praise" if we do nothing else?
6. How often should we thank God for His goodness?
7. How much gratitude have our hearts a right to expect?
8. How can we express our gratitude for the rights of citizenship?
9. How can we show our gratefulness for the system of Education?

THANKSGIVING DAY

"Thank and praise your God this day;
Honor Him in joyful lay,
And with tongue and heart of love
Name each gift sent from above.
Kindle in your breast anew
Songs of praise the whole day through.
Give unto the Lord your voice;
In His wondrous love rejoice.
Vow your lips have uttered pay;
Insense on His alter lay.
New, sweet blessings crown your days;
Give Him honor, love and praise.

Daily let your love increase,
And your homage never cease;
Years will then abound in peace."

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

"Thanks be to God"

Program for November 24, 1940

GIVING THANKE BY SHARING: GIFTS

(Make this your "Thanks Giving" meeting. It will depend upon the locality to some extent as to what the gifts will consist of, but suggestions are: food articles for needy families in the community which should be delivered by the Juniors themselves, a soap offering for the war-sufferers in England, a toy offering for the Christmas of the children at one of our mission stations among the Indians or in England. etc.)

Let this be a special program given by the Juniors. Have them invite their parents and others.

Setting:

Decorate the room to promote the Thanksgiving feeling. In the center have an appropriately decorated receptacle for the articles the children will bring during the offering.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—"Now Thank We All Our God"—M.H.B. 383.

2. Call to Worship—

"Now thank we all our God
With heart and hands and voices,
Who wonderous things hath done,
In whom His world rejoices."

3. Worship in Song—"Now Thank We All Our God."

4. Worship in Scripture—Have about 5 or 6 Juniors learn verses dealing with thanksgiving. Call for these by giving the Scripture reference. (A suggestive list: Phil. 4:6, Psalm 100:4, Psalm 104:33, Psalm 105:1, Col. 3:15, II Cor. 9:15.) Repeat in unison the verse of the month. Eph. 5:20.

5. Worship in Prayer—Leader's Opening Prayer, followed by the,

6. Song of the Month—"For All the Blessings of the Year"—M.H.B. 381 while heads are still bowed.

7. A Thanksgiving Poem by a Junior boy.

. A Thanksgiving Story by one of the older Junior girls.

9. A Thanksgiving Song by four Junior boys.

10. Exercise—"Thank You, Father"—by three of the smaller Junior girls.

(Mount three pictures, one for each of the three verses, and have the girls hold them up as they give the verse.)

Picture 1

"In the morning when I wake,
I run to the window straight,
One look at the day I take
And say, 'Thank you, Father.' "

Picture 2

"At the table in my seat
When my breakfast I begin
For the food so good to eat
I say, 'Thank you, Father.' "

Picture 3

"When the sun sleeps in the west
Mother tucks me in my bed
Then I say, 'For play and rest,
Thank you, thank, you, Father.' "

—Frederick A. J. Herney.

11. "How the Israelites celebrated their Thanksgiving"—Lev. 23:34, 39-43—by a junior boy.

12. "The First Thanksgiving in America,,—by a Junior girl.

13. Song—"Come, Ye Faithful People, Come"—M.H.B. 380.

14. Acrostic—"Give Thanks"—by 10 small Juniors. (Use letters)

G stands for God Who giveth all things.
I am to whom salvation He brings
V stands for Virtue to do what is right.
E tells us Everything was made by His might.
T stands for Tongue, kind words to speak,
H stands for Heart His will to seek.
A stands for Arms to help great and small.
N stands for Nature, God made it all.
K stands for Kindness, to be willing to give
Self and our all and for Jesus live.

15. Poem—"When Thy Heart With Joy O'erflowing"—Words of M.H.B. 285.
16. Offering—Bringing our gifts.
17. Pray the Prayer of the Month.
18. Leader's Heart Talk and Prayer.

II. Mission Minutes

(The suggestions will of necessity have to be worked out by the individual leaders according to time allotted and local circumstances. Some may want to take more time others less for the visits.)

1. Continue the trip from Oklahoma to Arizona by bus, car or whatever means of travel you are using. (Have a small picture of the vehicle you are using which you can fasten to your map as you make your stops. As you leave a field, leave a Bible seal there to show that our missionaries have brought the Bible to this place.)
2. Follow the same procedure as last Sunday in regard to the history, the biographical sketches, asking for volunteers to write letters to these missionaries, and praying for them, as well as the natives.

III. Closing Moments

1. Closing Thoughts and Prayer by a visitor who has been notified previously to the meeting.
2. Song—"Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," while heads are bowed.

THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY TO RAISE A FAMILY.—Nurture them in the chastening and admonition of the Lord.—Dwight Hillis conducted the funeral of a beautiful girl who had been killed in an automobile accident on the Sabbath, while out for pleasure. As the father bade goodby to the loved form, he turned to his friends and said in a choking voice: "We have spent our Sabbath playing golf or automobiling. Our children have followed our example and have outstripped us. My son has disgraced me, my daughter is dead. I tell you there is only one way to raise a family, and that is in the Sabbath School and church. I know what I'm talking about."
The United Presbyterian

—From Church Messenger, Eden Church, Schwenksville, Pa.—The attendance at the Retreat Grounds Outing, Saturday, September 21 was more than a surprise. There must have been at least a hundred. A number of games were played simultaneously. The excitement was heightened by two unscheduled events—the stirring up of two Yellow-jackets nests and the breaking of a shower. The group left for Finland where they ate their lunch in the Auditorium and held the scheduled camp-fire services without any campfire. Andrew Shelly was in charge.—

DIAMOND JUBILEE CELEBRATION

Philadelphia, Pa., October 29, 1940

In the First Church of Philadelphia we have been enjoying a very unusual festivity, October 20 to 27 inclusive, in celebrating our 75th Anniversary of the beginning of our Church. The speaker was Dr. J. E. Hartzler, who has indeed given messages that strike home upon such an occasion. During the eight days he delivered ten messages, each one a masterpiece in itself. Our attendance was good and undivided attention prevailed.

On Saturday evening, October 26, the Anniversary dinner was served in the main dining room of the Strawbridge & Clothier Store in Philadelphia, whose service was very pleasing and satisfactory. There were 252 people that sat down to dinner and it was not only a good dinner but the Dinner Committee and Program Committee deserve a great deal of credit for the program that was arranged for the occasion. The musical unmbers were of high order and the main speaker, Dr. Hartzler, had a forceful message. Dr. Harry E. Paisley for many years Treasurer of the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroads, now retired and who had all through his life been unusually active in church work and service had charge of the devotional exercises.

More than a hundred of the Historical books have been sold but there are still quite a number of them left so that all members and friends everywhere can get a copy if they so desire, at least for the present. The price is $.75.

Our celebration will continue until December 15 with special emphasis on different subjects every Sunday. November 10 is Conference Day and Rev. Olin Krehbiel will speak; November 17 Community Day and the pastor, Rev. J. J. Plenert, will speak; November 24 Thanksgiving Service by the pastor; December 1, Music Day, service by the pastor; December 8 Church Council Day, service by the pastor. The above schedule applies to morning services at 10:15.

November 10 Vesper Service at 4:00 p. m. by Conference Workers; November 17 Evening Service 8 p. m. special speaker; November 24 8 p. m. message by Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander; December 1 Vesper Service at 4 p. m. music by the Schwenkfelder Ladies Chorus; December 8 8 p. m. Panel Discussion ond Message; December 15 Vesper Service 4 p. m. Friedly Hymn Sing (Reception of new members.)

One of our young ladies, a member of the Church, Miss Louise Khunkle composed an appropriate poem for the occasion , which is appreciated very much by everybody. (The Mennonite will publish this poem soon.)

BETHEL MENNONITE CHURCH, MOUNTAIN LAKE, MINNESOTA

October 29, 1940

Sunday, October 27, was an outstanding day for our congregation. It was a beautiful, mild fall day. The church was decorated with fruits, vegetables, and flowers fresh from the gardens. In the forenoon the annual Harvest Festival was observed. Rev. P. R. Schroeder and Rev. John C. Peters spoke heart-searching words converning our faithfulness as stewards, stressing both the material and the spiritual side.

In the afternoon and evening the 50th anniversary of the founding of the church was observed. The history of the events that led to the organizing of the church were related by H. J. Fast, and the events during the past fifty years, by Rev. J. J. Balzer, both charter members. Reports were given, which illustrated how the church has branched out into smaller organizations. The Sunday school, the Junior and Senior Christian Endeavor Societies, Nachverein, Mission Society, and the Junior Mission Society were represented. The treasurer's report showed how the church has developed financially.

Personal greetings in the form of letters from the following missionaries were read: Rev. P. A. Penner and Mrs. Ferdinand Isaac from India; Rev. and Aganetha Fast from China. A telegram was received from Marie Peters in northern Minnesota.

Five different choirs sang during the three meetings. A fellowship dinner was served in the church dining hall during the noon hour.

May all that has been said and done at this anniversary glorify our Heavenly Father. We are deeply aware of the fact that if our church has been a blessing to anyone at any time and in any way during these 50 years, it is only through the merits of our crucified Savior, working in and through His children. Our prayer is that He will continue to bless, clense, sanctify, strenghten, and comfort us and keep us working, watching, and praying till He comes.

—Mrs. D. H. Fast, Corr.

IN MEMORIAM

PETER EICHER WITTMER, SON OF JOHN AND EICHER WITTMER, was born May 10, 1849, at Asaph near Altkirch, Alsace, France. In 1864, he with his parents emigrated to America to avoid compulsory military training. On October, 1876, he was united in marriage to Magdelena Tschantz. To this union were born 13 children.

When a young man he was baptized upon confession of faith by Joseph Hershey and united with the Mennonite church at Altkirch. After coming to America his membership was transferred to the Eicher Emmanuel Mennonite Church near Noble, Iowa, which at that time was under the pastoral charge of his admired uncle, Rev. Benjamin Eicher. He remained a faithful member uneil his transition beyond.

Realizing the fraility of age and the rest beyond, he longed to go to His Heavenly Home. On October 12, 1940, his wish was granted and he passed in, at the age of 91 years, 5 months and 2 daye.

Surviving him are his sister, Mrs. Mary Wittrig, and 8 children, 5 sons and 3 daughters. Funeral services were held at the Eicher Emmanuel Church and conducted by his pastor, the Rev. D. E. Welty.

THE REAL FIFTH COLUMN.—Every one in these critical days wants to have confidence in our leaders. But how can we believe in the sincerity of preparedness for the protection of our land when it is openly charged, and the charge has not been refuted, that there are enemies of our form of government, communists, in key positions all over the land? The Dies Committee once gave out the list of 563 government employees who were members of a communist "front" organization. It is also reliably reported that there are hundreds of known communists at work on American ships. The official of a company manufacturing war planes has stated that there are known communists at work on these planes, but the company can do nothing about it because of the unions. With such and similar dangers right at our own door or in our nation's set up, does it not appear that the government should act to give us the protection we need?

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—During the months of October and November this church observes a crusade, and the pastor, Erland Waltner, preaches a sermon each Sunday in the "Ships of the Christian Life" as follows: WorSHIP, fellowSHIP, discipleSHIP, leaderSHIP, stewardSHIP, kinSHIP, and LordSHIP.

MARRIED

VOTH—BULLER—At the Alexanderwohl Church, Goessel, Kansas, on August 7, 1940, Miss Hilda Voth was married to Mr. Alvin Buller. Rev. P. G Unruh was in charge of the ceremony, in English, and Rev. C. C. Wedel gave a sermonette in German. The young couple will make their home at Route No. 2, Galva, Kansas, where the groom has a good teaching position.

GOERTZ—COWGER.—On October 20, at the home of the brides's mother, Mrs. Anne Goertz in Medford, Oklahoma, Miss Hilda Goertz was married to Mr. Frank R. Cowger of Jefferson City, Okla., by Rev. John Lichti, formerly of Medford, now of Deer Creek, Oklahoma. The couple will live at Jefferson City, Oklahoma.

On Monday, September 30, the second Quarterly Ministerial Meeting was held in the Deep Run Meeting House. There were afternoon and evening sessions. The afternoon featured a Panel Discussion on the subject: "Our Christian College in the Face of the World Crisis." Those in the Panel were: Mr. Wm. Mohr, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Rev J. J. Plennert and Rev. Freeman H. Swartz. The evening program brought us two General Conference men:—Mr. Henry Fast, Field Secretary and Missionary W. C. Voth, of China. The congregation served a bounteous supper.

—From the "Bethany Messenger," Freeman, So. Dak. In making a simple comparison we find that our children in their academic schooling, which takes them through the grades and high school, by compulsory school laws, receive 11,520 hours of instruction, whereas in Sunday School for their religious training only 624 hours are offered through the same period of time. The ratio is nearly 20 to 1. This seems to be entirely out of proportion. Besides the religious instruction is left to the children almost as optional. So we ought at least be conscientious and take advantage of what little religious education is given.—About 35 young people gathered at the parsonage the other evening for an informal social, sponsored by the Y. P. Society. After several choruses and a prayer each one present introduced himself. Games were then played and a delicious lunch was served.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—The Diamond Jubilee Book is ready for you. It will cost 75 cents. It will make a nice gift to some of your friends, so why not get more than one?—Seven Jubilee poems were turned in and we thank everyone who had a part. Really good talent was manifested. The reward went to Miss Louise Kuhnle. Her poem was entitled "OUR CHURCH." The Diamond Jubilee Chorus" was written by Mr. John Wieand. Come to the Anniversary Dinner and you will sing it.

—Church Bulletin

—From the Mennonite Church, Upland, Calif.—: Friendly Solicitation from Bethel—Dr. Guy Cutshall and Rev. Felix Schrag are working on the Pacific Coast in the interest of our college, looking up prospective students and securing gifts for the completion of Memorial Hall. . . Our Church Council has authorized them to see our members, to present the needs of the school, to enlist our sympathy and good will, and such financial support as we are able to give. . . On leaving the two visitors have given this farewell message in the Church Bulletin: "We have been kindly treated in your community. Thanks to you all for many pleasant memories. . . We hope and pray that those who were not seen will send in their gifts to the College. Bethel appreciates all you have done. Your pastor and family have given us every cooperation. Blessings to all.

Fraternally yours,
E. Guy Cutshall, and Felix Schrag

—Eastern District S. S. Convention at Lansdale, Pa. was well attended and a good program was rendered. The new offiecers are: Lloyd Yoder, Pres.; Robert Landis, Vice Pres.; Emma Vansworth, Sec.; Stanley Fretz, Treas. The projects for this year are: $500 for Boys' school in India, $150 for Rev. Harder of South America, and $100 for Mennolan retreat grounds.—The churches of the Lansdale community recently featured a Church Attendance Crusade. The pastor of Grace Church preached on the following subjects: The Church Aglow, Christ Present, Measuring Worshippers, and The Message of the Church.

—Grace Church Messenger

—From the Bulletin of First Church, Reedley, Calif., Sunday, Oct. 27: We have several visitors with us today. Two of them represent Bethel College. One is Dr. Guy Cuttshall, who will preach for us this morning. The other is Rev. Felix Schrag who will serve this evening. These men are here in the interest of our College at North Newton, Kansas. Our Church has had students at Bethel each year for some time. This makes us all the more interested in our school.

—Berne, Indiana.—A Rare Anniversary! Golden wedding anniversaries are not unusual, but 60th anniversaries are rather rare. This privilege recently came to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Welty, who celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their married life at the A. N. Sprunger home. The guests of honor received a large bouquet of flowers from Carl Welty of Wisconsin and another bouquet of 60 roses from their children, Mrs. A. N. Sprunger and Mrs. Harry Kohler of Fresno, Cali.

—Prof. Walter H. Hohmann of Bethel College had to submit to a major operation at the Bethel Clinic, Newton, Kansas, Wednesday morning of last week. He is getting along quite well, but will probably be at the Hospital for a couple of weeks.

—Corn Husking Contests are again in vogue.—At Davenport, Iowa, Irving Bauman from Illinois won in a contest over 20 other aspirants for the national championship title, picking 46.71 bushels in 80 minutes. His prize was $1-00.00 in cash and a goldcup. Marion Link of Iowa ranked second with 46.36 bushels; Ivyl Carlson, also of Iowa was third, with 44.97 bushels; and Lawrence House, a Kansan, ranked fourth, with 42.03 bushels. "The Mountain Lake (Minn.) Observer" reports that in a contest in that part of the country, Maurice Van Norman won a contest by shucking 28 bushels in 80 minutes, and Freddie Paplow took second place with 27½ bushels. There must have been a good deal of difference in the yield that enabled the Iowa contestants to pick so much more. How grateful we should be to be able to feature such contests with the bounties God has given us, as we still enjoy peace.

—First Menn. Church, Berne, Ind.—A three-day Prophetic Conference was held during the week of Oct. 17 at this church. The speakers were a Jewish Christian, Dr. J. Hoffman of Brooklyn, N. Y. who was formerly a rabbi in Hungary, and Evangelist H. B. Centz of Philadelphia, Pa.

—Second Church, Beatrice, Nebraska.—In recognition of the 25th anniversary of their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Goertz will be at home to their many friends this afternoon and evening, Sun. Oct. 27. In connection with the celebration a vesper service will be held in our church at 5:15 p. m.

—Rev. J. D. Jantzen of Hillsboro, Kansas, on October 20, was married to Mrs. Agatha Froese in the home of the bride at Inola, Okla.

A Conscientious C. O.

By Harold D. Burkholder, Quakertown. Pa.

Recently the young men of America between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-five were asked to register for selective service. No doubt every pastor in the General Conference informed his men that to do so would not be inconsistent with our past and present convictions concerning war.

In listening over the radio, and in reading the daily papers, we have heard and read of some who would not even register. Among these were students of an eastern Theological Seminary, whose school affiliation identifies them with the liberal and modernistic teachings of that school. When hearing this, I could not help but think of the inconsistency practiced among many C. O.'s throughout the country, who are so conscientious in regard to war, but when it comes to preaching the Word of God as God's infallible inerrant revelation to man, and in proclaiming Jesus Christ as the only Sovior for a lost and degenerate humanity, they have very little conscience.

The true servant of God cannot preach or believe one thing at the sacrifice of another. We must remember that our God is a God of LOVE, and also a God of HATE. A God of Love—the sinner, and a God of HATE—his sin. Let us be truly CONSCIENTIOUS in our stand. Since we do not believe in taking up carnal weapons, let us be busy wielding the spiritual, namely the Word of God, which is the Sword of the Spirit. We do not believe in destroying lives, so let us be busy winning souls to Christ. To be unconcerned about the spiritual welfare of souls is to be inconsistent in our desire to follow Christ's teachings in all things. What we need today is not merely a "Jesus way of Life," but Jesus Christ who is the WAY, the TRUTH and the LIFE. Jesus not only said, "Love your enemies," He also said, "Ye must be born again." Paul who said, " Overcome evil with good," also said, All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." To emphasize the former over the latter is to be inconsistent and not very conscientious before God, and man.

Let us be CONSISTENT and CONSCIENTIOUS by lip and by life, in proclaiming God's Word in its entirety. For "ALL scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for DOCTRINE, for REPROOF, for CORRECTION, for INSTRUCTION IN RIGHTEOUSNESS: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." (II Tim. 3:16,17.)

WHEN RIDING A CAMEL

If you were riding a camel across the desert—a dreary, wearisome, monotonous experience — how would you beguile the hours? Like the Arabs, I sing, and recite poetry aloud, as I would not dare to do were neighbors near. Many times I have been grateful for the stately hymns, stored in memory by a life-time of church-going.

Most of us were lulled in infancy by the hymns of the church, sung by loving mothers. What do modern mothers do who do not attend church and who know only the jazz melodies which perish in the using? Do they blow smoke-rings for their amusement?

To know the great hymns is to provide one's self with a mental refuge in idle hours, as of sleeplessness. They also elevate and stimulate thought and language. To have written a great hymn seems to me the highest form of literary distinction. —W.T.E.

Regarding the Day of Thanksgiving

A PASTOR'S CHAT

By Lester Hostetler

Thanksgiving Day has largely lost its religious signifance, and like Christmas, is being shamefully commercialized. Instead of using it as a day of prayer and thanksgiving to Almighty God for the blessings of the year, it has become the great day of the year for football games and turkey dinners.

The Pilgrim Fathers landed on a bare rock-ribbed New England coast in 1620. It was winter. They were poor. They suffered unspeakably from hunger and cold and disease. But they had brought with them their Bibles and their religious faith and courage. By dint of hard work, a minority of them managed to survive the following fall, and, seeing that they had enough to provide them through the winter, they proclaimed a day of Thanksgiving to God. Having suffered many unexpected adversities, they were nevertheless lost in wonder, love, and praise. Their little was enough and they were satisfied. If they ate turkey it was because it was cheap, for it grew wild and could be had for the price of a little powder and shot.

It is a long cry from the Pilgrims on Cape Cod to the spirit of modern America. President Roosevelt, following a long tradition begun by Lincoln, has proclaimed a day of Thanksgiving. Instead however of making it the last Thursday in the month, he moved it forward a week so that the stores could have a longer period of Christmas business. A howl of protest was raised promptly by the calendar makers who had to spend millions of dollars to reprint their 1940 editions; and from college presidents and football managers whose schedules were now dislocated.

All of which is proof again of the extent to which the day has been commercialized. Originating as a religious holiday, it has become a day for games and feasts. Once a day of gratitude to God for the necessaties, it is now a day for riotous fun and gorging with expensive food. Sports are legitimate and football is rightly a favorite game; but it cannot possibly express the real purpose of Thanksgiving, no more than the wasteful shooting of firecrackers can have anything to do with fredom and liberty. Noise is not a substitute for prayer.

One would think that the proper way of observing the day would include spending at least one hour in the house of God in worship and praise. But watch the crowds November 21, church members and non-church members alike, and only a handful will stop at the church. The bleachers will be crowded, the pews comparatively empty. Money will flow like a river for sports and fun; there will be a small trickle for missions and relief of the suffering, as an expression of gratitude for the blessings of the year.

Our city has a population of approximately 6,000. Last year at an early union Thanksgiving service, we had between 200 and 250 people in attendance. Where were the 5, 750? We are so accustomed to this situation, that even we ministers congratulated ourselves upon the "good attendance".

The day of Thanksgiving had its origin with people who believed in God and the Bible and the church; who took life seriously, worked hard, were satisfied with enough, and who, above all, were glad for the opportunity to worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences. The day is a religious holiday and the church is losing whenever it follows the leading of those who would secularize it.

It should be a day when we call to our minds the sacrifices which our fathers made as pioneers; of penitence because the blessings which God has bestowed are abused, and witheld by human selfishness from so many. It should be a day of thanksgiving for peace, and prayer that our great nation may remain at peace, and that her leaders may stand more and more for that justice and neighborliness which makes for peace among nations. Every church should be filled with worshippers at the appointed hour; every home should be a shrine where blessings are counted and thanks returned for the same.

TRUE THANKSGIVING.—True thankfulness involves more than a mere passive attitude. It becomes genuine thankfulness only as it becomes the outward expression of the attitude within us. Such thankfulness is not turned toward ourselves, but reaches out to those with whom we come in contact, and only when this is true is our thankfulness of the kind that will be of benefit to others as well as to ourselves.

HOMEWARD BOUND!

Since our previous report the movements went onward to California, viz., Fresno, Reedley, Visalia, Los Angeles. Everywhere welcomes were extended and doors open. In Reedley it became our exceptional privilege to contact for a few minutes the suffering Bro. H. J. Krehbiel. Much amazed we were to find him looking so well, and so talkative. However, the somewhat paralyzed tongue impeded speech considerably. Only a few days afterwards on Saturday morning, Oct. 5th, his spirit was summoned to join that innumerable host up yonder, to continue the activities begun here on earth. His remains were laid aside Oct. 8th. Our expression of comfort is found in John 14:1-6. Thus, one by one pass on the saints to be with the Lord forever. Those portals must see daily many passing through. Oh would each family circle be found unbroken there!

Several days and a Sunday were spent in and around Reedley. These days stood out high in various ways, both physically and spiritually, in contacting many whom we loved. It became our lot to assemble and pack accumulated articles for India. Soon various persons noticed this, and also that transportation to Los Angeles was necessary. Just how, one hardly imagines, someone took the matter up, and deposited the cases in Los Angeles gratis. Upon our arrival in Los Angeles considerable more packing awaited us. A god-fearing widow whose husband just recently was claimed by death, knew very definitely that some container was urgently needed. So she offered one of her strongly crated trunks gratis. Then sisters assembled to help sort and pack. It was noticed that this trunk proved too small. Before giving this a second thought, a sister hinted that her garage had another trunk ready for the balance of the things yet outside. The folks got ahead of us contiually. Two men were in an auto and fetched the trunk before we really knew it was ours. Another brother approached us with this petition, not to contact anyone else regarding the transport to the pier. God had everything in perfect readiness, and made the people willing to respond. What a wonderful God we have! These days in Los Angeles, among numerous evidences of well-wishes, slipped by so rapidly. Each contact and every meeting, convinced us, was led by His spirit, which helped us to praise and glorify the Almighty still more. This must likewise be said about the Upland vicinity.

When the sailing date approached it was noticed that groups from various quarters discontinued their secondary obligations, gathered at pier No. 155, Wilmington, for the farewell. Instead of 12 noon, Oct. 11th, as was announced, 4 o'clock was set. However, another two and one half hours passed before the moorings were loosened. Some who had not been aware of this postponement, had come to the pier by 9:30 a. m. The officers were signally accommodating to clear our baggage and adjust the freight proposition. The meantime was profitably spent conversing, bidding farewell, conducting an uplifting service in the spacious waiting room. Finally the time came, in company with the endeared new workers, Harold Ratzlaffs, to embark. The separation must come some time. Visitors on board by order of government were positively dissallowed. The anchors were lifted, slowly the liner President Taft separated from the pier, the streamers stretched and snapped, the sound of voices in song gradually died away, the waving of handkerchiefs could not longer be recognized, then the shores vanished in the lowering darkness. Good-bye, many we shall never behold on this side of the Jordan of life. That is not the main issue, but to be found worthy to enter His blessed presence or be numbered among those raptured.

One's prayers, while remembering the numerous dearly beloved friends who have showered deeds of choicest kindness of manifold types upon us to encourage us for the tasks awaiting, are thus, "Lord, make us worthy to receive these bounties, appreciate them properly, aid us to become more efficient in Thy service of the vineyard!"

The next day Saturday, toward evening, we reached San Fransisco. There stood unexpected friends on the pier awaiting us. On Sunday, both morning and evening, uplifting services were attended. Monday the steamer was entrusted with heavy cargo, but on Tuesday morning unexpectedly the crew laid down their jobs and went on strike. The entrance to the wharf became picketted, no accommodation could be rendered the passengers, the company ordered them all to evacuate the boat, remain in the hotel until further notice. Tomorrow, Oct. 17th is our sailing date, yet it looks rather doubtful. The strikers waxed unruly, beating began, bloody faces appeared, the police however, dominated the situation, but were unable to end the strike. This much we have been told: instead of Nov. 21st being our landing date in Bombay, it will not occur before Dec. 4th. Some further changes may take place before consummation of the voyage.

On the wayside some various experiences may be enumeratd here and not counted amiss. A person kindly expects a nicely dressed man or woman to respect other people's efforts to help serve the public. In one of the attractive union depots we lingered for eight hours. Everything was clean and garnished. During our brief stay the attendant had to sweep at least three times, because bits of paper of chewing gum wrappings, tops of cigaret boxes, ashes of cigars, etc. weee dropped so-to-say everywhere, inspite of containers within easy reach, also in bold letters the notices stated, "Help keep the premises clean!" The same disrespect is found in elegant railway coaches. The use of tobacco among women has reached an alarming stage. One day suddenly a lady (?) boisterously approached the coach attendant in the train to help find her hat, look for the shoes, spot the valices, etc. She then landed on the seat rather unsettled, fully intoxicated, and fell asleep. The train officials battled to sustain their equilibrium. Where is this going to lead to, Any one who has voted for the withdrawal of the ammendment, intended to prevent such, is guilty of an occurrence of this type. Deplorable! Certain family members who were waiting for another party of the household began to sing, "Make me fishers of men". The wide-awake daughter asked inquiringly, "Why do we not sing 'make us fishers of mammas' ". Herein lies a great truth for this age when the family circles are broken up frequently on account of trifle circumstances.

The almost 300 steamer letters and packages found in the cabin contained numerous questions regarding the whereabouts of our darling Nellie. Several weeks had elapsed when nothing reliable could be ascertained, this caused a feeling of unpleasant suspence. We knew well her course in school was ended, the results of the examination were favorable, a return to India lay under consideration. This suspence was broken when a cable reported that reservations on a steamer were effected, a card also informed us about the route to be around the southern cape of Africa, and that she had left England Sept. 16th. The name of the steamer and its destination were deleted by the censor. Our hearts rejoiced knowing her on the way on the high seas away from the bomb-effected areas in London. She wrote that on the station road in London, both sides were strewn with wreckage of houses, etc., These bits of news make our hearts to resound with joy, anticipating a happy reunion on India's soil. What infinitely more awaits the saints when beholding the negro spiritual pictures, "When the saints are coming home!"

With grateful greetings from your happy travellers,
Hotel Steward, San Fransisco, Calif., Oct. 17, 1940.
P. W. and Mathilde Penner

THANKSGIVING

Lord I thank Thee that with lavish hand
Thou dost spread plenty o'er this smiling land;
I thank Thee for the harvests which we reap,
And for each trust Thou givest us to keep,
For homes and loved ones placed within our care,
For health and strength we have in generous share.
Lord, I thank Thee for all that Thou dost send,
But most of all, for every faithful friend.
Help me to serve; and let me ever see
By serving others, I am serving Thee.
Teach me to love; Thy law to thus fulfill;
In love and service, let me do Thy will.

"LAYMAN REPORTS OF HOME MISSION WORK TO LAYMAN"

In the near future you will again get the Fall issue of the "Mission Number" of The Mennonite. This issue is put out jointly by the Foreign and Home Mission Boards. We trust that each article is read and studied carefully.

The Home Mission Board, has planned this to be a Layman's Report to his fellow layman. At other times the Minister is the one who usually reports. These reports are from laymembers.

To C. E. and Y. P. Groups

Why not arrange for and prepare for a new and unique way to become acquainted with Home Mission work? Let the Mission Committee arrange for an "Auto Caravan Tour. Locate each Home Mission church when the particular article is read in the meeting. Note the vast extent of our work which is largely rural work. Secure auto maps from Canada and also from states where our missions are located. This is an easy matter if you simply go to one of your neighborhood gas dealers in good time and ask him for state maps of Penn, Kansas, California, and Oregon, where we have churches located in small towns or in the rural districts. For Canadian maps, write to either one of three gasoline companies for auto road maps of the Canadian Provinces—Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

Write to any of these three companies: Imperial Oil Ltd., McColl-Frontenac Oil Co. Ltd., The British American Oil Co., Ltd., all at Winnipeg, Manitoba. The last named is perhaps the best. At least it has been most useful to me as secretary of the Home Mission Board, to locate churches and communities in Canada. I brought these maps along from the General Conference Convention in Saskatoon, Sask. in 1938.

May Christ be glorified and many souls saved.

A. J. Neuenschwander, Sec.

The First Mennonite Mission Church

73rd and Laflin Streets, Chicago, Illinois

We are happy to report that the vacancy, which came when Rev. A. H. Leaman turned in his resignation as pastor, has been filled. With the help of the General Conference Home Mission Board the change was made, and the work is now going forward under the leadership of our new pastor, Rev. Erwin Albrecht of Cleveland, Kansas.

Rev. Albrecht came to us as a graduate of Bethel College and of the Hartford Theological Seminary, where he completed his training for the ministry last May. Early in the summer the Mission Board sent us his name as a possible candidate for this church, and on August 18, Rev. Albrecht was invited to come to Chicago as a candidate. The following week the congregation voted to give him a call, which he accepted, arriving here September 13.

The fall program of work was begun with a special Rally Day program and installation of the new pastor on October 6. In the morning there was a special program rendered by the Sunday School, under the able leadership of Peter Anderson, our superintendent. As a basis of the morning sermon Rev. Albrecht used the challenging words of Joshua, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve. . . . as for me and my house we will serve the Lord." Josh 24:15. In the evening came the formal installation of our pastor. Mr. Paul McElfresh was chairman of the meeting. He led with a Scripture lesson and prayer. There was also special music by Mrs. White and Mrs. Mitchell, and by the Men's chorus.

The speakers of the evening were Rev. John Neufeld, pastor of the 42nd Street Mission, and Rev. A. H. Leaman, our former pastor. Rev. Neufeld spoke of the Church as being the gatekeeper, holding the keys of the Community. If God is to enter in and work in a community the Church and its leaders must open the way. He used Luke 4:14-44 as his text and compared the reception that Jesus received at Nazareth and Capernaum. Following this Rev. Leaman gave the charge to the congregation and to the new pastor. He used Exodus 17:9-16 as a text to show that victory can come only through the combined efforts of the leader and the congregation. The congregation responded with a unanimous vote of acceptance and support of the new pastor. Rev. Albrecht accepted the charge using as a basis for his response the words of Paul in I Cor. 2:1-9; 3:10-11.

We covet the prayers of our many friends who have helped to make this work possible,and we truly hope that the Lord may bless His work here and that this mission may serve in the building of His Kingdom.

Paul R. McElfresh,
1500 W. 72nd Place, Chicago, Ill.
Chairman of Church Council.

—In one of the Church Bulletins Rev. D. J. Unruh says: From the writings of Menno Simons we culled the following statement: "Christ gave the same command and word to all the apostles and teachers when he said: 'Preach the gospel.' He does not say: Preach the doctrines and commandments of men, preach the counsels and traditions of men, preach the glossaries and opinions of the learned teachers, but He says: Preach the gospel, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you."

OUR CHURCH

The House of God, it firmly stands,
And sends first fruits to foreign lands,
To teach the world that God is Love,
To have staunch faith in One above.

Seventy-five years it's stood the test,
Service for others has been the best,
The Church of those who strive for Peace.
Of burdened Souls that seek release.

In a world where greed and hate abound,
There still is a refuge to be found,
First Mennonite Church is a beacon light,
To keep wayward feet on the path of Right.

Father in Heaven hear this plea,
"Bless our Diamond Jubilee,
Bless our Church; our efforts too,
As we praise and glorify you." Amen.

—Miss Louise Kuhnle

Note: The above is the poem that won the prize out of seven submitted to commemmorate the Diamond Jubilee of the First Church, Philadelphia.

CHRIST AND WAR

The world is topsy-turvy,
A madhouse rampant, wild,
Its decencies lie shattered,
Its worships are defiled;
And men in their deep anguish,
Their hearts all bleeding-sore,
Baffled, hopeless, query,
"Would Christ go forth to War?"

Would He take up the banner
To lead men forth to kill?
He, Lamb and Resurrection,
Who said, "Peace! Peace! Be still!"
Would He delight in maiming,
In bloodshed and in gore,
In stabbing some poor fellow?
Would Christ go forth to War?

Christ came to save the sinners,
The wayward and the lost;
The tempted and tormented,
On life's dark ocean tossed.
And light He came to bring us
Where darkness was before.
If Christian lands would heed Him
They'd have His Peace, not War.

Fourth Indiana All-Mennonite Convention of Missionary Societies

The fourth Indiana All-Mennonite convention of missionary societies was held at Nappanee on Thursday, October 17. The different societies were well represented and the small church was filled with interested women and girls, desirous of learning more about the kingdom of God and how to accomplish more. Two motor buses were required to transport the delegation from Berne. As at the three preceding conventions God gave us a fine day with lovely fall weather.

Since the matter of registering the visitors retarded the morning session, Mrs. Harry Yoder of Silver Street society who presided, said she was not sorry that the registration had taken so much time, as that was a good sign, that she was very glad that so many had come. She explained her position in the chair as follows: "Most of you have probably heard of the arrival, on September 5 or 6, of little Ruth Ellen in the home of our president, Mrs. Earl Salzman. Since the little lady and this world are still comparative strangers to each other, her mother thought it better to stay at home with her today."

The general theme for the worship services of all three sessions was, "Pray ye the Lord of the harvest." A challenge to pray for our representatives in the home and foreign fields was presented to us through the missionary exhibit. On one table was the Charlesville station in Congo Belge in miniature, with buildings and missionaries arranged in the order in which they are placed on the field in Africa. A second table held likenesses of the General Conference missionaries, almost a hundred of them, who are laboring in home and foreign mission fields. The local Intermediate Mission Band leaders and members were responsible for this part of the exhibit and are deserving of much praise, for they put much time and labor into it. Our Junior Mission Band was asked to furnish "atmosphere", which was done through Indian tepees, a Chinese pagoda, pictures of lepers, etc. Large posters containing hand-drawn pictures of several of the churches of our home mission and other posters and articles completed the exhibit. It all made a deep impression on the spectators, according to the many comments one heard concerning it.

The greater part of the morning session was taken up with the reports from various societies, discussions concerning them, and answering of questions, though the time was too limited to permit as much discussion as might have been desired. Silver Street reported the organization of a new society within the past year. After a sumptuous pot-luck dinner in the basement of the church, there was a little time for viewing the exhibits and missionary literature which was displayed, renewing old acquaintances and forming new friendships.

The afternoon session opened with a devotional service on the theme of the day, followed by a short business session. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Harry Yoder, Silver Street, Goshen; Vice-president, Mrs. Howard Gilliom, Berne; recording secretary, Mrs. Melvin Plank, Middlebury; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Jerry Sauder, Grabill; treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Hartzler, Goshen. It was decided to divide the offering of the afternoon between relief work in Europe and migrant work in this country. The offering which was received at the evening service was given for leper work and for the Congo Inland Mission in Africa.

Dr. Harold Bender gave a report on relief work in Europe. Since our church papers are presenting reports of this work from time to time, I will not say much about it here;—not that his address was not interesting or important or impressive—it was all that, and I hope Dr. Bender will be able to give his touching story in person in many different places. One thing grieved us deeply, namely the fact that America is not only indifferent regarding relief work in Europe but is actually opposed to it. Ex-president Hoover is ready and anxious to help in this work but is receiving no support. Europe has a material "Blackout". We must take heed lest America experience a spiritual "Blackout". There is at present in Europe a panorama of destruction, hatred and inhumanity as never before.

Mrs. Weaver, substituting for Mrs. H. R. Clarke, told briefly of the necessity of laboring among the "uprooted Americans". The conditions among these migrants are very sad, both physically and spiritually. There are two and a half million young people among them who need help. Conditions of health and morals are bad. These people constitute fertile soil for undemocratic and communistic teaching. Several million roam about by families and work on cotton and sugar beet plantations, and the like. Considerable missionary work is being done among migrants, and the importance of education and spiritual help for them is recognized, but in reality only a beginning has been made. The church is too ignorant, or else too indifferent, about these needs. The Bible tells us that Jesus went about doing good; too many of us are satisfied to just go about.

Between the afternoons and evening sessions a short, but very interesting, sight-seeing tour was arranged by the host society, and the visitors greatly enjoyed seeing the Coppes custom built model kitchens and the Mutchler electrical shop. After seeing all these household conveniences, one sister remarked that no doubt many of us would be returning to our homes dissatisfied. However, I do not think that was really the case.

The evening service was fraught with blessings for all who were present. Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Toews who have just come home on furlough from the Belgian Congo Inland Mission, were the speakers. Rev. C. E. Rediger, president of the Congo Inland Mission, introduced them and made some remarks concerning the origin of the mission.

Mrs. Toews has four sisters engaged in General Conference missions; one in India, one in China, and two in city mission work. She based her address of the evening on Ps. 118:23, "This is the Lord's doing; it is marvelous in our eyes." She related: "We lived through disquieting days in Africa before leaving our station to go on furlough. One day we were told that we could go, the next that we could not. The Congo franc had become worthless and we did not know what to do. Finally we were permitted to go, and it was truly marvelous in our eyes how the Lord opened the way before us." The entire journey was attended with almost miraculous happenings. They had to take a roundabout course, sailing from South Africa, and were on the water thirty-nine days. They had been given the promise from Isa. 42:16, and the Lord fulfilled it to them throughout the long journey.

Rev. Toews told about their work in Africa. He read Ps. 115:4-8, which describes the idols among the heathen, and said that this was a true picture of Africa. The Africans have idols in their houses, in front and in the back of them. Why so many idols? Fear is the answer. There are those who ask, "Why not leave the heathen undisturbed in their innocent and happy condition?" But they are not happy. Bro. Toews mentioned many things that the heathen do to drive away the evil spirits. This belief in evil spirits makes it hard for the Africans, especially the older people, to come to the true faith. Even Christians are often tempted to drift back to their old beliefs and customs. He told of some, however, who have accepted the Lord Jesus and who put us to shame by their consistent Christian walk.

The fith annual meeting will probably be held at Grabill. These conferences have proved a real blessing to those who were privileged to attend them.

Women's Missionary Meeting at the Recent Western District Conference

It is gratifying to note that missionary interest among our women is growing, as was evidenced by the splendid attendance at the eleventh annual business meeting of the Western District Conference Women's Missionary Societies. The meeting was held on the morning of Oct. 23, at the First Mennonite Church of Newton, Kansas. Approximately 550 ladies attended and the attention and interest was of the best.

Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz, the president, conducted an inspiring worship service. This and the beautiful musical numbers given by the ladies' chorus from the Emmaus and the Hoffnungsau churches did much to prepare the hearts and minds for the rather full business program. The arrangement of having the business meeting in the morning gave much more time for planning and discussion. The ladies by a showing of hands expressed the desire to continue this arrangement for the next year.

Some very interesting reports were given. Mrs. A. E. Kreider in her report of the Literature Committee said the societies are increasingly making use of the services of this committee. She urged an inspection of the display of the materials at the City Auditorium during the conference. She has since reported the sales were very gratifying. She pointed out some of the expenditures entailed in this work. The meeting voted $25.00 for the Literature Committee and recommended a special collection for this work in each society during the coming year.

The committee on the project for a Home for missionaries on furlough, recommended that, since there seems to be no immediate need for such a home, and since the needs on our mission fields are so many and urgent, the project be dropped for the present. The meeting voted instead to make a special effort toward raising money for the missionary retirement fund, over and above that which is raised by the two cents a week plan.

Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz gave directions and evplanations in regard to the Refugee Relief Work and Mrs. Ted Claassen spoke a few words of encouragement to keep up this good work.

Mrs. J. E. Entz was elected president and Mrs. W. E. Regier treasurer for the next two years. About 350 ladies remained for the luncheon served by the women of the host church.

On Wednesday evening, the Missionary Societies presented an interesting missionary program in the City Auditorium to a full house. The collection that evening amounted to $194.00. After the deduction of $25 for the Literature Committee, two-thirds of the remainder was turned over to the Foreign Mission and one-third to the Home Mission Board of the General Conference. May the messages we have heard through the music, readings, plays, and addresses bring forth bountiful fruit for the year ahead and may we through God's blessings achieve much for Him.

The following was the program given in the City Auditorium Oct. 23, 7:30 p. m.

SERMON SKETCH

"SECURITY ACTIVITY SUSTENANCE"

Arnold C. Schultz, Bluffton College

"By Me if any man enter, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture." John 10:9.

Jesus Christ here declares Himself able to deal completely with the needs of every individual. "If any man"—no matter who, where, when.

For the happiest and noblest living there are needed three things—security, service, sustenance. All human effort has as its purpose the supplying of these things. Christ here says that He can supply all of these to every one.

1. Salvation in and through Christ is for any man. The word "saved" in the text might perhaps be better translated as "safe," so the statement means that because step by step in passing one danger after another, Jesus Christ, because we are one with Him, will keep us safe so that eternal salvation is assured us. In our union with Jesus Christ, by simple faith in Him, we do receive an impregnable defense against all danger. The gift of power from Christ, His strength made perfect in our weakness—this promise is abundantly fulfilled to all men who trust Him when their hour of temptation comes. The things that tempt us most, that appeal to our ambition, our sense, our self-will, our pride, will lose their power upon us when He is realized in our lives.

2. In Jesus Christ one may find a field for the fullest service. The common expression to "go out and in" is a designation of the two-sided activity of human life. On the one side is the life of meditation or union with God by faith. On the other side is the life of service, active obedience in the field of work God has for us. Both of these can be raised to their highest power in an unrestricted and joyous activity.

You must go into the depths of God through Christ. Only the ones who consistently live this hidden life of solitary and secret communion will ever do much in the field of outward service. If we carry with us into the field of service, no matter how commonplace and tedious, the thought of His presence and His love and of the smile that may come to His face as the reward of faithful service, our labor will draw its motive, pattern, and power from communion with Him.

3. In Jesus Christ any man may receive sustenance. "They shall find pasture." In Him all the true needs of humanity are met and satisfied. He is the Bread of Life. The Gospel satisfies the demands of the intellect. It satisfies the social desires. It breaks down the barriers sin has raised and in time will banish discord from the earth. In the spiritual life it realizes and meets the cravings of the soul for communion with God. Nothing else nourishes the whole man at once, but in Him is everything for sustenance and growth. If we are knit to Him by simple faith, love and obedience, then what is otherwise barren becomes full of nourishment.

Jesus' Concern for Life and Health

Luke 7:2-15

Introduction

Jesus, though pre-eminently interested in the life eternal, was vitally interested in the condition of people's health and life in this world. While He was mostly concerned about the moral and spiritual condition of people, He however gave a very considerable part of His time to ministering to temporal needs. Jesus' concern for human life and health has powerfully moved people to be much concerned about these things. The body as well as the soul, is a part of God's handiwork. Jesus did not teach the mortifying of the body through ascetic practices, so that the soul might prosper. The normal condition is both bodily and spiritual health, and Jesus gave both time and strength to the promotion of such health. Surely this is worthy of our efforts.

Human Faith Wins its Plea vs 2-10

The first part of our lesson reveals the remarkable faith of the centurion—a Gentile—whose servant Jesus healed. He held a much higher social position than Jesus did, yet he recognized His superiority over himself (vs 6, 7). The centurion was humane and loved his servant (slave) who was very sick and beyond human help (v2). He had heard of Jesus and believed that He could and would heal the sick servant. He knew also that a Jew would scarcely come to a Gentile, so he sent Jewish elders to plead his case (v3). They told Jesus of his worthiness (vs 4, 5), making an unusual plea for him—a Gentile. Possibly he had embraced some of the main Jewish teaching. Jesus went with them (v6). He did not refuse the call of human need. The centurion felt himself unworthy of having Jesus come to his house and had faith to believe that Jesus could heal by saying the word of healing without coming to the sick person (v7). He was familiar with having authority over men and believed that Jesus had equal authority over diseases. The centurion was right. Jesus did and does possess power and authority over disease. Jesus' heart rejoiced in the whole-souled faith and trust of the centurion (v9) and commended it highly. His plea was answered, the servant was healed because his master had believing faith.

Jesus is not with us bodily today, but His word of command when spoken, is as effective as ever. A faith in His healing power is reasonable and God expects us to have such faith.

Jesus' Compassion in Action vs 11-15

This part of our lesson records one of Jesus' miracles or raising the dead to life. He found a mother in deep grief and need (v12) and it aroused his heart's compassion. The poor widow was seeing the body of her only son being carried out for burial. Her tears of grief flowed freely. He bids her "weep not," an assurance that He would help her. He touched the bier and spoke the word of power which brought the dead back to life. He bids us not to weep and gives us abundant reasons for not weeping. Jesus turned the widow's tears into joy. He cares for each one of us.

Concern for life and health is a Christian characteristic. Christians sense the essential value of life and health. Christ reveals to us the worth of the body as well as of the soul. He dignified the human body by living in human flesh. His teachings and deeds of mercy reveal his spirit of compassion toward the needy and suffering.

How does the centurion's faith compare with the faith we need?

Why did Jesus perform so few miracles of raising the dead?

Why are Christians more concerned for the life and health of others than non-Christians are?

MENNONITE REGISTRANTS, DRAFTEES BE SURE TO READ THIS ARTICLE

At Such a Time As This

By I. S. Long, Baltimore, Maryland

Perhaps a few words as to procedure this winter may be helpful to some of our boys in facing their conscription problems.

In due time a detailed questionnaire will be sent you, and you will be given five days to fill in appropriate answers. About two pages of this are alloted for you to state fully your convictions as to peace and war. You will answer how and when you arrived at the convictions you have regarding peace. Necessarily it will be greatly to your credit if you can honestly say you have had genuine convictions on this subject ever since you accepted Christ years ago.

Being a member of an historic peace church does not exempt one from going to war, unless the member of such a church has the convictions of the church of which he is a member. Having genuine convictions of the wrongness of the war method and the rightness of the methods promulgated by our Lord Jesus, the being a member of such an historic peace church is much to your credit.

Later on, each conscientious objector will be called before a draft board. He may fare well or ill before such a board, depending on the attitude of the board on his own presentation of his convictions. If he does not fare well, he may appeal to the department of Justice, or finally may appeal to the President of the U. S. A. It is generally admitted one's case will depend more on his genuine sincerity than upon his cleverness and skill in argument. In the pamphlet, The London Tribunal Questions the C. O., who can answer all the questions? I think some of them would have baffled even Solomon, for some of the questions are irrevelant, while others by wrong analogies would entrap the candidate. If one cannot answer a question, it is horse sense to say, "I do not know." We know how the Lord Jesus acted under hard questions and under great provocations, and we know quite well that we, too, should be like him as far as possible. This is our task, and our goal—being Christlike. It is grand to be courteous and polite as he, and equally unwise to lose one's head!

Each youth will be given an opportunity to sign, saying what he will do, whether he will be a soldier, noncombatant , or whether he will do service under civil control only. Useful service, under civil government or church control is recommended for our boys.

We say as pacifists. Such a person is not only good and peaceful, but one who is actively building human relationships that will last. Have you sacrificed to do any such service? By all means, each of our boys should be willing to do any good service not contributing to the war machine, doing it too with equal sacrifice as the boys training as soldiers. Any individual can build human relationships that will last. The U. S. A. also can do so. And what a pity our country today is not building these permanent relationships with other nations rather than with all speed preparing for a terrific war?

Should not each of us be far more loyal to our Savior and Lord in these trying days ahead, than are the boys in Europe to the dictators over them? Can high heaven forgive if we prove less loyal than they? —Gospel Messenger of the Church of the Brethren.

The California S. S. and C. E. Executive Committee met at Shafter on Armistice Day. It was decided: That the annual meeting of the S. S. and C. E. Convention be held at Paso Robles, April 14-16.—That the churches be asked to contribute, jointly, a total sum of $5 per month toward the support of the religious work among the migratory workers' camps in and around Shafter.—That $100 from the savings account of the Retreat be given to the Swift Current Academy dormitory fund, in addition to the money (approximately $100) raised specially by the young people for that purpose.—That another Retreat be held at Lake Sequoia early in August if the ground was available.. —"The Herald "Upland

Echoes from the All-Mennonite Retreat Quaker Haven, Syracuse, Ind.

August 5-11, 1940

In a previous report from the All-Mennonite Retreat, we gave some retreater reactions to the courses. In this second report, we shall give some of the instructor's viewpoints on the entire set-up of the Retreat.

Miss Emma Detweiler (now Mrs. Harold Schultz), recreational director and instructor of the course in recreational leadership, writes as follows: "We have all heard of the fine spirit of service which Quakers everywhere demonstrate. The Quakers in charge of Quaker Haven were no exception to this standard. The management was generous with our use of their facilities and was always willing to help us with any problems that arose. I am very much in favor of continuing our Young People's Retreats at Quaker Haven. The advantages of closer fellowship outshone any disadvantages. Now that we have tried the arrangement, we can profit from the experience by making some adjustments in our program. Accordingly, I would suggest the addition of handicraft to the recreation program, so that our Retreaters may have the joy of creating, as well as of playing together."

Rev. John Thiessen, who made our young people develop an interest in missions, writes of the retreat: "As a sort of visiting helper in the retreat, I am leaving with the impression in mind that we had a fine group of young people at this retreat; young people who are, as a whole, willing to face also the serious side of life, and are willing to recognize spiritual realities. In my own classes I had very fine cooperation, and I am sure missions will mean more to these young people than before this retreat. I do believe that most of them are convinced that mission work is carrying on the work that Jesus started here on earth; and that every follower of Christ must of necessity take part in that carrying on. One phase of the retreat that is not such a pleasant memory to me is the question whether every retreater is really in living fellowship with the Master. We need a new and workable technique for finding out from individuals whether or not they are really dedicated to Him. We as leaders can believe that all is O. K. with our young people's spiritual lives, yet it would be better if we could know facts a little closer. Personally, I feel a sense of failure on my part in not having succeeded in getting into the inner chambers of more of the young lives in behalf of Christ."

Rev. E. J. Bohn, pastor of the Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa., chairman of the Eastern District Retreat, conducted our morning devotion periods and our sunset services. After having worked with several different retreats, he is qualified to give a good analysis of the retreat. His impressions are very comprehensively set down for us: "There were five things that were particularly brought to my attention while spending the week at the All-Mennonite Retreat this year, on the shores of Dewart Lake.

First, there were the physical factors, which, although not the most important, nevertheless help to make the retreat in quite a large measure. There were the surroundings of the camp, made possible by the beautiful, stately trees along the shore of the lake. The view from the rising shore on the east side of the lake was a beautiful and an ideal one for the sunset services. The food at the meals should be mentioned; it tasted like good home cooking, and it seemed to be provided in unlimited quantities. It was prepared by a friendly group of Quaker ladies who know how to cook.

Second, I was impressed by the program set-up of the retreat. All of the courses were led by capable and consecrated Christian leaders, whose spirit was in harmony with a Mennonite retreat. In Dr. C. H. Smith we had one of the most capable authorities on Mennonite History in America. Miss Cecilia Sheppard, in her course of the New Testament teaching on non-violence, made a splendid contribution in strengthening the minds of our young people on the pacifist viewpoint. Rev. John Thiessen, returned missionary from India, with his broad experience and understanding of young people, of course was an ideal leader on the mission topic. Miss Eleanor Niswander who has experience as a teacher of music did a fine piece of work with our young people, in bringing to them a higher appreciation of church music. In the leisure moments of the retreat, a good wholesome recreation was provided and directed by Miss Emma Detweiler. I liked the atmosphere of the retreat which was a definitely wholesome and Christian one, providing a well-balanced combination of the intellectual, physical, and spiritual elements of life.

Third, as a member of the faculty, I enjoyed the fellowship with the retreaters who, on the whole, appeared to be an earnest group of young people of high school age, with a few exceptions.

Fourth, there was the fellowship with the other instructors which was a congenial one.

Fifth, I was impressed with the high Christian standards of conduct which the Friends, as owners of the camp, expected to be observed by all the retreaters. As a parent, I was glad to have one of my children in the fine Christian atmosphere of this retreat."

We hope that all who attended the retreat this year will become active boosters for a bigger and better All-Mennonite Retreat in 1941.

Main Topic: How Our Bible Came to Us

Isa. 34:16; 2 Pet. 1:20, 21; December 1, 1940

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Thy word is a lamp to my feet," "Break Thou the bread of life," "Lamp of our feet, whereby we trace."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Roll call—answered by choice Bible verses
4. Offering for missions

II. Leader's Introduction

The word Bible means book, or books. It is one book, but also a library consisting of many books, written by different authors, at different times, in different places. The two great divisions in the Bible are called the Old Testament and the New Testament, the former contains 39 books, the latter 27, making a total of 66.

In the O. T. five kinds of literature may be distinguished: the prophetic, the wisdom, the devotional, the legal or priestly, and the historical. The prophets, the priests, the wise men, and the singers of Israel—the psalmists were active in its production.

In the N. T. all writings center around Jesus Christ. The gospels are historical or biographical records of this life to a large extent, the epistles give advice and counsel on church life, and personal conduct, as well as emphasis and interpretation of Christ's life and teaching. The Acts are a record of Paul's travels and early church history. Revelations is a book "to make known what is hidden", emphasizing the ultimate triumph of the kingdom of God.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

Nov. 19. A psalm of thanksgiving
Nov. 20. A psalm of praise
Nov. 21. Thank God for care
Nov. 22. Thank God for prayer
Nov. 23. Rejoice and give thanks

IV.. For Discussion

1. Why is the Bible a book both human and divine?
2. How does Jesus Christ fulfill the Scriptures?
3. In what ways has God revealed himself to man?

V. Study of Facts

The original manuscripts of the Bible were written over a period of from one thousand to fifteen hundred years. They reflect the culture of the generations in which they were written. None of the original manuscripts is known to be in existence. The oldest manuscripts we have are at best copies of the originals.

The Old Testament writings were selected and put in their present order sometime in the pre-Gospel or inter-Testamental period. The New Testament writings were arranged and accepted in their present form probably in the third century.

Before the invention of printing in the fifteenth century, copies of the Bible were made by hand. They were rare, expensive, and often full of copyists' mistakes. The earliest printed Bibles were, for the most part, based on poor manuscripts. It was not until after the Reformation in the sixteenth century that the Bible came into the hands of the common people.

VI. Illustration

"Without Price"

Up to the yar 1881, near a railway station, in a Southern state, there stood a little cabin in which lived an old Negro gentleman. In his field was a well, the water of which he believed to have some curative properties. It was the old man's delight, when the train stopped once a day to go through it with a tray of clean cups filled with the cool, refreshing drink. "Try it, sir. Give a drink to the child. Best water on earth!" he would say. When offered money, his reply was, "Couldn't sell this water, sir. It's my pleasure to give it to you."

This beautiful incident reminds one of that infinitely better water of which all may partake "without money and without price."

VII. Food for Thought

"Put off thy shoes from thy feet; for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground."

Song, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee"

Talk JOSEPH—MAN OF VIRTUE
(Ps. 105:16-23)

"Joseph, the favorite son of Jacob, was sold as a slave by his jealous brothers. He was taken to Egypt and placed in the slave market to be sold. Potiphar, the captain of Pharaoh's guard, saw this fine looking young man, and realizing he was an exceptional slave, bought him for his own household.

"When Potiphar's wife fell in love with him he refused to have anything to do with her. Many slaves would have felt honored over the attention of a superior. Potiphar's wife was so angry to be repulsed that she had him thrown into prison.

"Many would have felt it did not pay to be virtuous, but not Joseph. He kept on doing his best, even in the prison, until he was made a keeper over the other prisoners. It was during this time that Joseph interpreted the dreams of the baker and the cupbearer. These he interpreted so well that two years later he was called on to interpret Pharaoh's dreams. This won him the place of second ruler to Pharoah in the land of Egypt.

"During all his years of trial, as an innocent victim, Joseph kept his heart right toward God. Each obstacle which he overcame helped him overcome the next one." —N. M. Whitwell

Song, "Yield Not to Temptation."

Talk MOSES

(Heb. 11:24-29)

"He was in a sense peculiar to himself, the founer and representative of his people; and in accordance with this complete identification of himself with his nation is the only strong personal trait which we are able to gather from his history. Num. 12:3. The word 'Meek' should be rather 'much enduring.' All that is told of him indicates a withdrawal, a preference of the cause of his nation to his own interests, which makes him the most complete example of Jewish patriotism. He was especially a man of prayer and of faith, of wisdom, courage, and patience."

Talk JEREMIAH

(Jer. 20:7-11)

"Canon Cook says of Jeremiah, 'His character is most interesting. We find him sensative to a most painful degree, timid, shy, hopeless, desponding, constantly complaining and dissatisfied with the course of events, but never flinching from duty. Timid in resolve, he was unflinching in execution: as fearless when he had to face the whole world as he was dispirited and prone to murmuring when alone with God. Judged by his own estimate of himself, he was feeble, and his mission a failure; really in the hour of action and when duty called him, he was in very truth, a defended city, an iron pillar, and brazen walls of the moral over the physical nature."

Song, "I Would be True."

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

Outline for December, 1940

THE GREATEST... IS LOVE

December 1—The Greatest Commandments.
December 8—Examples of Children Who Loved
December 15—Examples of Love Toward Enemies
December 22—"God so loved the World"
December 29—"Lovest Thou Me?"

Verse of the Month—I John 3:18, "My little Children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth."

Song of the Month—"My Jesus I Love Thee," M. H. B. 215.

Prayer of the Month—"Savior, Teach Me, Day by Day," M. H. B. 195, v 1

Leaders: We are entering the Christmas month. Let our aim during this month be to lead our Juniors to a deeper understanding that "the greatest.... is Love." As we approach the holidays let us bring them to a fuller realization that the most important thing in Christmas is love, and as they look forward to the giving and receiving of gifts make them see that the love which prompts them, is the important thing and not their value in terms of money.

JUNIOR CORNER

THE GREATEST . . . IS LOVE

Program for December 1, 1940

THE GREATEST COMMANDMENTS

Setting: Place a large copy of the picture "The Boy Samuel in the Temple" or "The Good Samaritan" for the worship center in the front of the room, with a large open Bible directly in front of it.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—"My Jesus I Love Thee," M. H. B. 215.
2. Call to Worship—"I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord" Psalm 122:1.
3. Worship in Song—"My Jesus I Love Thee"
4. Worship in Prayer—Leader's Opening Prayer
5. Worship in Scripture—Matthew 22:35-40.
6. Leader's Talk introducing the theme of the month and of the evening.

II Study Period

Aim—To impress the Juniors with the fact that LOVE is the greatest law.

1. Song—"Come, We that Love the Lord," M. H. B. 27 (in unison.)
2. Talk—"The First Thing a Hebrew Child Learned'—Deut. 6:4-9. by a Junior girl.
3. Story—"Ruth Showed Her Love to God"—by a Junior girl.
4. Story—"Samuel Showed His Love to God"—I Sam. 3:1-19, by a Junior boy.

10. Discussion—"Who Are Our Neighbors?" and "How can We Show Our Love to God and to our Neighbors?"
11. Leader's Heart Talk and Prayer.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Continue the trip from Arizona to our mission field in Montana. If you have time, have a Junior boy be your bus driver; let him describe a few of the interesting places along the route.
2. Follow the same procedure as was outlined for the two previous meetings.
3. Bring the missionary offering.

IV Closing Moments

1. Memorize the song of the month.
2. Memorize the verse of the month.
3. Memorize and pray the prayer of the month.
4. Leader's Closing Thoughts and Prayer followed by the
5. Chorus "Into My Heart" in unison.

Why I Urge All Young People To Be Christians

Lillian McMillan, Twin Falls, Idaho

Young people, you are standing on the threshhold of life. Before you are two paths. One is fair and glittering with a scintilating beauty, and the other seems rough and rugged. One runs along a valley, the other climbs the mountain. Young people, will you run with the multitude or will you set your will and climb the moutnain with determination?

Boys, you are bewailing your faith that the days of chivalry, of the crusades, of pioneering, are over. "There are no new frontiers," you say, But wait a minute, I would show you a way to adventure. Only those who have courage may pass this way.

Girls, never before in the history of mankind, have you had the chance that is placed before you today. War is beating at our very boundries. Terror and want stalk unchecked across all Europe. Girls, are you going to be weak and cowardly? Will you let Barbarism creep into the world; will you go back to the slavery that was woman's sphere before Christ came?

Young people, will you stand for right when all the world goes wrong? God is callling you today. The devil has flung his challenge in your faces. Will you accept the dare or will you turn tail and flee? Nineteen hundred years ago, truth was nailed to the cross. Nineteen hundred years ago eleven men accepted the challenge. Down through the centuries young people have stood straight and true, following in the footsteps of the eleven. Today the challenge comes again; more vital to each one of you, because it concrns you each and every one.

"Wait", you say, "until I've had a little more time. Tomorrow will be soon enough. Wait!" Yes, young people, wait and tomorrow may never come, tomorrow may be eternity, tomorrow God may not need you.

Today is the day for action. Today while you are able, step over the threshhold into the path that leads up the mountain. Join in the vast, mighty army of the angels. Lift high the royal banner of Jesus. "'Tis a call to arms." Catch the torch as the older generation pass by. Fan the blaze, keep it burning in the surrounding darkness. Lift up your voices in the glad victory song. Young people, Forward! March!

CORRESPONDENCE

EDEN CHURCH, NEAR MOUNDRIDGE, KS.

We are again in the Thanksgiving season. Have we counted our blessings? Are we thanking Him for them? Yes, we have been blessed in many ways. The national election should induce us to give thanks. How many of our brothers and sisters in foreign countries are yearning for a government of the people, such as we are enjoying to this day.

Since our last report we have ommitted one church service. Sept. 8, by order of health officers, no church services were held, because of the Infantile Paralysis scare which swept a few states. We have had quite a number of special services in our church. Since our last report there have been fourteen weddings announced in church. Not all, however, have taken place in our church. We have had two special meetings because of the late conscription bill and we are to have another this week.

We have welcomed four visiting ministers since the beginning of October. On October 6, Rev. J. J. Esau began a series of meetings which lasted a week. The Lord used him mightily to bring us some soul-stirring messages. On Sunday, October 20, we had two visitors from Oklahoma, Rev. Henry Harder and Rev. Mouttet. They spoke about Home Mission work in Enid and the Oklahoma Bibly Academy respectively. Through their messages we were again reminded of two very worthy causes for which to give of our prayers and money. In the absence of our pastor Rev. Gering, who was conducting meetings at Kismet, Kansas, Rev. C. E. Krehbiel brought the message on October 27. He gave a very timely sermon on the subject of "Peace."

Our annual business meeting is to be held on November 12. May the correspondent for the coming year succeed where I have failed.

Wishing all a blessed Thanksgiving season,

—Richard Schrag, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, HANSTON, KANSAS

Greetings! We are having beautiful fall weather, a little frosty. On October 17 about twenty-five men and women met at the Church to give it a housecleaning, and since we felt we could not finance redecorating the interior at this time, we washed the walls, and it really was sparkling when we were all through.

Sunday the twentieth opened with Church Services and S. S. to a crowded house, many coming from a distance to worship and spend the day with us. Following the services, we had a dinner in the basement of the church. Then a group went to the home of Mrs. Barbara Ewy who was ill, to sing and bring her a bit of cheer, this being the first time Grandmother Ewy missed this annual affair. At 2:30 we had a hymn sing and social hour.

Our Women's Mission Society meets once a month at each others homes. We have interesting programs using the material our Literature Committee has provided for our use, also the News and Notes, which always provides fresh news. We will start on ou sewing list soon. We sent a lot of clothing for relief recently and are planning more of this relie sewing. We also make regular contributions to th Ministers' pension fund. —Mrs. A. S. Bechtel, Corr

IN MEMORIAM

JOHN P. DECKERT, was born June 11, 1882, near Marion, S. Dak. He was baptized in his youth and became a member of the Bethesda Church to which he proved true and faithful until his death. He was married to Aganeta Deckert with whom he shared joys and sorrows for thirty-four years. His health began to fail in June 1939 and in February his case was diagnosed as cancer. He was bedfast since May 31, and relief came to him when his Master ctlled him home on October 20, 1940. He leaves to mourn his departure, his beloved wife, two sons and two daughters.

JACOB C. BERG was born Feb. 20, 1897, at Marion, So. Dak. He was baptized upon his confession of faith and became a member of the Bethesda Church. He entered the holy bonds of matrimony with Tina Dick in 1924 and they shared joys and griefs for sixteen years. His health began to fail in 1938 and he was quite sick for several weeks in the winter months of 1939. He slowly regained his strength so that he was able to do his farm work again. On October 22 an ailment of the spine paralyzed his lower limbs and an internal hemorrhage set in. He passed away October 28, leaving to mourn his departure his beloved wife and four sons who are of grade school age.

MRS. EMMA SCHROEDER, widow of the late David Schroeder, was born near Moundridge, Kansas, July 9, 1887, and died at her home in the Alameda community, Kansas, October 12, 1940, after an illness of about three weeks. While a child she moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Flickner near Pretty Prarie. In 1906 the family located in the Alameda community. She was married to David Schroeder, July 13, 1912, who died in Nov. 1929. Mrs. Schroeder first joined the Pretty Prairie Mennonite Church, but later transferred her membership to the Bethany Church, near Kingman, at which she was a faithful attendant.

Surviving are her father, John Flickner, Sr., eight children, Mrs. Alvin Schmidt of Walton, Raymond at Murdock, Kans.; Hulda, Ralph, Viola, Lester, Pheobe and Esther at home. Three sisters, Mrs. E. C. Voran of Kingman, Mrs. E. P. Schroeder of Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. P. M. Ratzlaff of Murdock; three brothers, Joe of Walton, and John and Dave of Almeda.

Funeral services were held at the Bethany Mennonite church, with Rev. E. J. Neuenschwander and Rev. P. P. Tschetter officiating. Burial was in the Mennonite cemetery.

Dreams cannot picture a world so fair: sorrow and eath may not enter there—Heaven. —Mrs. Hemans

CORRECTION AND APOLOGY

—In number 43 of THE MENNONITE, October 29, pp. 5 and 6, we brought a splendid article on The Funeral Service and we are very sorry to have erroneusly credited it to Rev. Edmund Miller, Lind, Washington, instead of Rev. Herbert E. Miller, Deer Creek, Okla. The paper was read before the spring session of the West Dist. Ministerial Conference and sent me likely by Bro. Miller, but without signature. As the article was rather long we preserved it until we could spare the space for it. By that time the only memory we had of it was the name Miller. To go sure we should have referred to the programs of the Pacific and West. Dist. Conference, but an editor is not infallible.—Bro. Edmund Miller writes in reference to this: For the splendid article, "The Funeral Service," in the last issue of The Mennonite, I must truthfully say someone else deserves recognition. I sincerely approve and appreciate these helpful thoughts and suggestions." We humbly beg the true author's forgiveness for the error.

—First Mennonite Church, Nappanee, Ind., The Ladies' Missionary Convention, held here last Thursday, was a great day in the program of the organization. The house was filled at all three sessions. The churches represented were: Berne, Goshen, Middleburry, Topeka, Silver Street, Nappenee, besides several of the Defenseless Mennonites at Berne, Grabill, also a few from the M. B. C. Church.—Our Church voted to continue the unified services for another year, church services beginning at 9:30, with Sunday School following. October 6 was our Rally Day, and the beginning of our S. S. year. Among good attendance records the best were held by two brothers, Jimmy and Joe Stillson. Jimmy received a camera for perfect attendance in 6 years.—At a recent meeting in the Community Building, Congressmen Martin Dies in his address made the following significant statement:

> "There can be no democracy and no freedom in this country without the Christian religion. If democracy falls in our land it will be because the people turned their back on God. The only thing that will save democracy in the U. S. is an old-fashioned revival. There is much that a government can't do. It can't take the place of God-fearing Christians."

> —Church Bulletin

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio,—Remember that the Bluffton College Bible Lectures will begin next Sunday evening, November 10th.—Make that a week of meditation and quiet prayer, and a deepening of our faith in God and His cause.

—Why Dissension about Thanksgiving Day?—For years and years it was the custom in this country to observe the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day and the President proclaimed the day some weeks ahead. People planned for the day, all was peace and good feeling. Last year the President moved the day a week ahead and this year again to November 21, while the governors of many states adhere to the old date and churches and schools are debating whether to follow the President's or the Governor's lead. Why this confusion pertaining to a day when the nation should unitedly bow before God in gratitude for our blessings and in humility for our sins?

—Dr. J. D. Unruh, President of Freeman Junior College, sends the following note and correction: "Just glanced through The Mennonite and noted with interest the paragraph on Freeman Junior College in the Jottings. I would like to correct the reference to the Young People's Bible Conference to be held on November 1-3, with Rev. A. J. Bard of Seattle, Washington, as speaker. Unfortunately the Freeman Courier had gotten our weekly news items confused with those for Sunny Side Bible school. The above conference is theirs, not ours. We generally aim to get people to serve us who are more familiar with our background than some of these traveling evangelists. Our Winter Bible Institute apparently will receive quite a response. No doubt you have seen by our Bulletin that for the evening courses Rev. J. M. Regier and Rev. Erland Waltner are to serve us.—Have had a very fine rain and things look much better for it. —Very Sincerely, J. D. Unruh —Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—By Congregational decision, a series of evangelistic services have been arranged for November 10 to 15, with meetings every evening at 8:00 P. M. We are delighted that Rev. Willard K. Claassen of Roaring Springs will be our speaker.... No objectionable "high Pressure" methods of evangelism will be used, but the gospel will be presented to strengthen saints and draw us all closer to God. Pray that He may bless these services. Special nights and subjects are as follows: Family night, Nov. 10—"Why Did Jesus Come?" Ladies' night, Nov. 1—"Stop the Chariot." Young People, Nov. 12—"The Difference Prayer Makes." Children, Nov 13—"What to Do with Life's Limitations." Men's night, Nov. 14—"The Test of Faith." Friends's night, Nov. 15—"Why Be a Christian?"

Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa.—There was a fine display of food for the Harvest Home service. Some of the ladies even did some canning on Saturday afternoon. Osmund Fretz and Will Smith did the arranging in an artistic manner. The things were taken up to the Home by a Hendrick's truck.

—St. John Mennonite Church, Pandora, Ohio. Plans are under way for the seventh annual Y. P. Bible Conference, to be held Nov. 14 to 17. Dr. A. D. Helser, Missionary to Africa, is to be the speaker, and the devotions are to be in charge of Miss Mary Haas.—Word was received this week that Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Boehr were notified by the U. S. Secretary of State that their sailing to China would have to be indefinitely postponed, because of war clouds over the Pacific. They had already sold all their household goods and packed their baggage when this word came. Let us remember them in our prayers.—Our sympathy goes out to Mrs. Frank Rafoth whose husband has just passed away at the age of over 71 years. Bro. Rafoth was a regular attendant at our church when health permitted. —Church Bulletin

—Mrs. A. S. Bechtel, Huston, Kansas, has the following to say in reference to the complaint made at the recent West. Dist. Conference, that the programs published under the heading, "Our Youth Says," in The Mennonite are not used as they should be: "We formerly used the C. E. quarterly but we have discontinued it and are using The Mennonite for our programs altogether, because we like them so much better. We think they have much worthwhile material to make a good meeting. Then, too, we ought to induce our children to use the material provided by our Conference."

—First Church, Reedly, California.—Three new members were received. Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Kroeker transferred their membership from First Church, Madrid, Nebr., and Arthur Siemens from the Methodist Church at Madrid. Two other members, Mr. John D. and Mrs. Nina Thiessen were received on October 20th. They were formerly members of the Bergfelder Menn. Church near Mountain Lake, Minn.

—Friedensberg Menn. Church, Avon, South Dakota.—Our pastor, Rev. A. D. Schaltz, who lost his dear wife some months ago, has been failing in health and has announced the possibility of a vacancy in the pastorate in the near future. The Church is praying for the guidance of the Almighty in this matter. Representatives of Freeman College had charge of our morning service on October 27.

—J. E. Unruh, Corr

—From a letter by Mr. and Mrs. Waldo E. Harde whose home is Newton, Kansas, and who are attending a Theological Seminary at Columbia, So Carolina, we cull the following: "We are happy in Him and praise His name for leading our lives as He has. Yes, we are receiving The Mennonite and we thank you and the Publication Board. We are happy to be able to keep in touch with our Conference and its work through our church papers

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

Mission in a Time Like This

Quite often one hears people, even in our churches, talking against foreign missions in the light of present conditions. They argue that mission work in foreign lands is too dangerous, or that we have more than enough to do here at home, where spiritual life is at such a low ebb. Or they point out that foreign missions are so expensive and that in their opinion more good could be done if the money invested in missions abroad would be used to evangelize lost souls at home.

Without trying to refute these arguments, we merely set up over against them the words of Christ, the Christ who paid the price of His shed blood on the cross that whosoever will, in all the world might have life and salvation. His words are, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation." Mark 16, 15.

Yes, in a time like this mission work is dangerous and difficult. Nation after nation is curtailing the preaching of the gospel. In some nations it is forbidden, in some, difficulties and dangers face the mission workers. Our government has advised all its citizens to leave China. That very likely includes our missionaries. Together with other Mission Boards our board has advised our mission workers that they should use their own judgment, and that they may leave the field at any time they feel the danger becomes too great to remain.

However, in a time like this mission work is especially necessary. Very recently a bishop of one of the largest denominations of our country spoke to a conference session. He raised the question: Shall we forsake China spiritually and leave it to its plight? He was of course not speaking from a militaristic point of view, but of China's need of Jesus Christ. He answered his own questions about as follows, No, no,—now is the time to bring the people of China spiritual comfort, truth and hope in their hour of need.

In fact the whole world today is desperately in need of Jesus Christ; and the day of missions may fast be drawing to a close. Soon the Lord may take up His true church in the rapture to be with Him in the air. What an incentive this should be to missionary work; how necessary it makes also foreign missions!

Thank God, that in a time like this foreign missions are also possible. While it becomes impossible in some sections, others are still open. Our Mission Board had this in mind in its latest instructions to our China missionaries. It suggested that, if evacuation becomes a necessity, the younger missionaries might go to India, provided they can gain permission and they desire to do so. We were heartened to learn later that other Boards had given their workers similar advice by suggesting not only India but also the interior of China.

We also praise God that in a time like this mission work is still crowned with results. Reports from our China and India and American Indian fields speak of a good number of precious souls that have been saved this year. You will hear about it in their report.

Let us continue to pray fervently and to sacrifice with devotion for our foreign mission work in a time like this.

"IF CHRIST HAD NOT COME"

A pneumonia patient was brought to us from Basna. The man was a middle aged store keeper. He seemed to be in a weak condition, and as the crisis neared, he was very ill, so that we did not expect him to live. When the patient was irrational his wife entreated, "Please help us, I am so worried,,.

To our surprise the patient got well, and though it was a slow process the man did not become impatient. The patient stayed on and on till he had been with us a whole month, though he had been told before that he could go home with a bottle of tonic. Finally one day this man said, "I really must go home tomorrow. If I did not have a store, and land and children, I would never go home, because I like it so well here."

He had thanked us for the service he received many times, saying, "When I had become like earth, then you served me and saved me from death."

He had been told this service was offered in the name of Christ, and if Christ had not come—neither this hospital, nor the helpers would be here to serve the sick. He brought a cow and a calf one day and said, "You are not saying I should give this, but I want to offer it in the name of Christ as a thank-offering." His two little boys, eight and ten years old could read and he bought gospel readers and tracts. He attended the Bible instruction class with his wife and children as soon as he was able to be up and around. Pray that the service done in Christ's name and God's Word may bring fruit unto eternal life.

Summary of Educational Work, 1939

I herewith present a summary of the reports of 1939. We begin with the reports of the most northern part of our field. Mr. and Mrs. Voth reported in spring that the enrollment was 90 in the city and 60 in the south suburbs, a total of 150 students. Mr. Brown reports that the educational work in this end of the field differs from that of the Kaichow district. It is not as far advanced as at Kaichow and the war skirmishes continued throughout the last two years which interfered with the school work.

Taming city. All grades are taught. Three pupils graduated from Higher Primary this spring. 43% of the enrollment are from Christian homes with another 20% given as inquirers. The school buildings are far from satisfactory. It is really pathetic to note under what conditions the school in Taming city has to function. Schoolrooms and yard are inadequate. There are four rooms for six grades and only one can pass as satisfactory, it is most inconveniently located in regards to church services. Two rooms are located in the upper story of the church on two different tiers and insufficiently lighted. The other room is in the basement absolutely too dark and damp for the good of teachers and students. Seventy-seven students, of whom seventeen are higher primary students and 36 are in the South Suburb schools. A total of 113 students, with a total of 6 rooms and 5½ teachers.

Kindergarten was re-opened in fall of 1938 with an enrollment of 28. The average attendance was 21. One-third of the pupils were children whose mothers had availed themselves of the hygienic methods (the child welfare sterile packages of dressings and boric acid for the umbilical cord). The Kindergarten therefore has its first fruits of this work in these youngsters. At present the school has 18 youngsters.

Young Women's Home and Bible Training Course

In the fall of 1938 a need was felt to open some kind of a Training Course for young girls and women, a sort of a Home and Bible Training Course. It was opened October 10 with an enrollment of 25 students. Then the Catholics came around and offered $1.00 a month to just such students and we had a drop of 15 students. The empty barn in the mission residential yard was used as classrooms. This fall the school opened with 13 students in the vacated homes of our evangelistic workers who had moved into the city. Besides the three R's we teach Phonetics, some Home Training Courses, Home Management, Industrial work, Bible, singing, Sunday School Normal Training, a bit of Kindergarten training, Church history, Hygiene, etc.

Lung Wang Miao. Most parents had vacated the city, and so we had no school. A school was carried on at Chang Chuar and continued. A movement was on to open another school in our mission premises, but after friendly negotiations they moved out and a school could be opened with an enrollment of 20 pupils. In the fall of 1938 thirty pupils were enrolled.

Nanlo. The school opened with enrollment of 40 last fall, but after a few days the city was bombed, the people scattered and the school was discontinued, but it was re-opened in the country. In the fall term no school could be opened, because the mission premises were occuppied by the military.

Tsingfeng. Had an enrollment of 40 students enrolled in fall 1938. In March due to repeated bombings the people here too scattered and with them the children, but they returned and were able to re-open after a few days. The fall term had an enrollment of 23 pupils.

The Hua Mei Junior High School. January 15 opened with a limited number of classes. The school work has gone well. Especially glad are we for the fine spirit that prevails in the school. Students are moslty from nearby places, though there are students from 5 provinces and 23 counties, and over half are from Christian homes. Hua Mei, too, is overcrowded and feels great need for more classrooms, dormitories and teacher's quarters, library and laboratory rooms.

Final enrollment Primary department 152 boys, 65 girls, total 217. Junior Middle school, 154 boys, 35 girls, total 198. Senior Middle school, 21 boys. Totals, 327 boys, 110 girls. Combined total 427.

There are many student organizations, but the one most helpful is the "Ai Chu Tuan" (Love the Lord Society) having over 100 members, both boys and girls. They conduct daily evening prayers, Bible study classes each Sunday, weekly devotional services, evangelistic groups for outside work and many other activities.

The Ch'ing Chieh Hui Bible School. This school has suffered no interruption. During the first term a printing press was added. The lithograph outfit as well as the press have been busy printing supplies for the needs of the hospital, schools, churches, and the evangelistic work in general, supplying also the needs of other stations of our mission, as well as those of the Nazarene Mission, like tracts, evangelistic and educational booklets, form letters, "China-Home Bond". 20,000 tracts were printed during the first three months, 21,428 during the first quarter, 2000 copies of a catechism booklet, 2000 copies of a 4 page Prayer Cycle, and 2000 fifty page booklets for the Nazarene folks.

May 29th twenty-two students were graduated from the Bible School. Eleven of these were from the Regular Course and eleven from the Elementary Course, men and women about equal in number. The year's work has gone very well and we are especially thankful that there was no interruption due to war. The enrollment was: Elementary Course, 27 boys, 29 girls, total 56. Regular Course, 14 boys, 16 girls, total 30. Combined total, 41 boys, 45 girls, boys and girls 86.

The students have been active in religious work beside their regular school work. They have shown a deepening of their spiritual lives. Daily morning devotions are held by the school and each evening a students' prayer meeting. Besides this they have their own personal devotions. Each Sunday they have gone out in groups to neighboring villages, some carried on work with patients in the hospital or in Sunday School. Many testified to a deeper appreciation of the value of prayer and a closer fellowship with God.

A Home Training class was started among the women by Mrs. S. F. Pannabecker. Work Program: Every student puts in two hours daily except Saturday and Sunday, a total of nine hours a week. This credit replaces the mission grant toward board, which formerly was free. The work program includes sweeping, cleaning, tending fires, heating water for bath, painting, dishwashing at the hospital, odd jobs, soap making, bean milk making, book-binding, and printing. Excess funds in the budget have been used to purchase equipment for the work, a couple of looms, stocking knitting machines, a stone printing outfit, shovels and numerous other tools for masons and carpenter shop. The school is overcrowded and is in need of more housing facilities.

Kai Chow City Day School. Last fall they had 130 pupils, in spring, 160, and 80 in a sort of Kindergarten, which now all have entered the regular school. This school too is overcrowded, up to 260 pupils in school, so that the double seats are now holding three students.

Tung Ming School. Fall 1938 enrollment about 38 pupils. In spring 139. In fall 1939 it was interesting to note that the Japanese commander incidentally urged to start school at a time when there was some question of opening the school. It is now going well and the school has between 90-100 pupils.

Ch'ang Yuan. School work has been much interrupted due to disturbed conditions. The city filks scattered in villages. They eventually started with 25 pupils in 1938 with one teacher. It needs a good teacher . Ch'ang Yuan is occupied and the attendance is small.

Respectfully submitted, Aganetha Fast,
Chmn. of Educational Committee.

FIRST QUARTER REPORT, 1940

Tamingfu Evangelistic

Dear Brethren:

We are happy to say, that the gracious Lord has again provided many opportunities of service. In fact with some care and persuasion all our evangelistic work could be continued. Even at Lung Wang Miao, where through all last year there was almost daily fighting, the situation permitted us to open an instruction class of fifty-one people, of these later ten were baptized. Since Rev. Sun Ch'ung Sheng is now a fully ordained man, he had full charge of the baptism and communion services on April seventh. In all of the seven churches we held baptism and communion, ofter two weeks of careful Bible instruction. The total number of inquirers under our supervision was 390, and of these 49 were baptized.

In Shuang Ching and P'ien Ts'un revival meetings were held. Mr. Liu Ming Shun is the leader of the group working there. We noticed good results. The Shuang Ching group is now determined to go right ahead, even in face of great difficulties. Praise God for the power that manifests itself in the preaching of the Word.

The relief work takes a good deal of our time. But we are glad to be able to lessen, even though in a small measure, the suffering of the many poor round about. To them, too, we explain the way of salvation. They are getting everything for nothing. Where we can give work, we do so. Even now we have about 150 men at work in building and dirt work. Daily we have a meeting with them, pointing them to Christ. Please press it upon the minds of the dear people at home, that we covet their earnest prayers for ourselves and the work.

Very faithfully yours,
H. J. and Maria Brown

"Of Such Is the Kingdom of Heaven"

Our Savior Jesus Christ took a welcoming attitude toward all men. Nobody was pushed back by Him. This holds true also of the children, the boys and the girls. He would purposely let the grown-ups stand for a while and turn to the children. The systematical disciples did not like this so well. When they reproached Him because He did not spend time better, He uttered the above word. He does not say that the Kingdom of God would be the children's sometime when they were grown up, no, it is theirs now while they are children.

We present disciples of Jesus are often minded like the disciples of Jesus in Palestine. In our deeds and in our plans we prove so very often, that we really believe that it does not pay to spend much time and means on the children, especially when they aren't just our own children. What happens to the children of India or China, who influences them, how they grow up, etc., so often we do not think about that. But Jesus says, "Let them come unto me, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Again and again we are thankful anew, that the Spirit of God has led us, so that also in the Mission field the children, whose the Kingdom of God is, are not forgotten. In India we still have quite a few orphan children and children of poor parents in our boarding schools. Here they are taught to walk as followers of Christ. The boys are also taught trades and farming, so that they may stand there as men when they come to be of age. The girls are taught to keep a good Christian home, and learn various handicrafts. In all things Christ is the center. And around this center we try to prepare the children for their whole life, bodily and spiritually.

Most brethren and sisters are acquainted with the fact, that on August 4, 1937, a great misfortune befell our boys' boarding school in Mauhadih, India, namely that a devasting flood tore over the station. Many homes caved in, others sank so that walls broke, also the large, beautiful church building, and all foundations of the buildings were loosened. Through school buildings and boarding school the waters tore five to six feet deep. On the school and mission compound the water tore out ditches as if with a big ditcher. One such crevice pointed directly at our house, where the writer of this was with nearly a hundred children. It was midnight. We did not know, thank God, just what was happening. Humanly speaking, if the raging flood had been digging at that crevice ten hours longer, then the house full of children would have perished. The whole position of the Mauhadih mission station is such that it was considered definitely unwise to keep on lodging so many children on the station, for a new flood may come any time. So it was decided to transfer the whole school from the Mauhadih station to the Basna station. But how is that possible? It is a distance of twenty-four miles, very poor road. And right at the start the Mauhadih River, which is a mile wide, has to be crossed and there is no bridge. The old buildings on the Mauhadih station had been built of burnt tiles, and tiles can't be transported 24 miles on nearly impassable roads. The roofs are nearly all of roof tiles. They break on such poor roads. Only the wood of the roofs, windows and doors can be transmitted to the new station successfully. But the building for shelter for the children and for the school must be done anew. Where should we get the money for this? For the mission treasury always has all it can do to keep the work going. So we were really worried about this; but still our trust was always in our heavenly father. He had permitted the flood to come, He would also incline hearts so that the children of India would again have shelter and school. God be heartily thanked; such hearts full of love for the cause of God and love for the children which comprise His Kingdom have reported. Sister Herman Janzen and her children from near Elbing, Kansas, are willing to give two thousand dollars for the cause. This gift is offered in memory of father Janzen, who went to his heavenly home a little over two years ago. This shelter and school building for the children of India shall stand on the Basna station in India as "Janzen Memorial." Hearty thanks to God and the dear givers. It will increase the joy in heaven if souls come and say, "You made it possible for me, that in childhood and youth I could enjoy a Christian training in a Christian school;—I now rejoice forever with you before the throne of God." The Lord loveth a cheerful giver; and it was with pure joy, yes tears of joy, that the widow, Sister Janzen and children, did this deed of love.

In the name of the children of India and of the mission cause in general, and with hearty gratitude toward God and the dear givers. —John Thiessen

A WORD OF THANKS.—Herewith I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to one and all who in any way remembered me during my illness of the past eight weeks. Especially would I express thanks also to the Western Dist. Conference and the Minister's Conference for their greetings and their wishes for recovery. May the Lord reward your kindness.

NOT BY MIGHT NOR BY POWER BUT BY MY SPIRIT. —Zechariah 4:6.

A very successful headmaster of a neighboring mission had been invited to give some model lessons at the Janjgir Teachers' retreat last summer. While there he gave a striking testimony, namely, that he had realized his responsibility to God—that he was working for God—not for the Mission—that thereupon he had fully surrendered his life to God and was trusting Him for guidance and wisdom. It was true that he had been trained in the best modern methods in the newer Normal schools, but he attributed his success more to his spiritual awakening and the definite help of God than to his training.

J. is an Oriya Christian woman who is an earnest soul winner. She lives at Mauhadih. Her husband is a weaver. She comes from a relatively refined and well-to-do family, though of a low caste. Even in her youth she had read and studied eagerly whatever she could lay hands on. By bitter experience she lost all faith in the Hindoo gods. The message of Jesus brought new hope and light. Since becoming a Christian she has gotten a conprehensive Bible knowledge and she speaks the Hindi language as fluently as her native Oriya. What makes her a successful personality? Is it her early background of certain educational, social, and economic advantages, and her natural abilities? Rather, those who know her best would say, It is the power of the Spirit of God which burns as a fire within her, as we read in Jeremiah 20:9, "and if I say I will not make mention of him, nor speak anymore in His name, then there is in my heart, as it were a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I am weary with forbearing, and I cannot."

There is a Brother with whom it has been my privilege to work many years. He has been well trained as an evangelist and church worker. That was in the Gospel Mission. But he came to us at a lower salary in answer to what he believed was a call from God. When in the depression our Mission had to cut salaries he did not resign. When in small prayer groups we sought greater things from God he was heart and soul in the effort. I well remember his testimony of a former experience of the Spirit of God which had grown somewhat dim. Now he earnestly desired every gift God offered. He is a leader in his community and is always cheerful and undaunted. He is a great shock absorber and takes knocks innumerable without telling the world about it. Victory is written all over his daily work.

The above examples show that, though natural advantages are valuable the essence of a successful life of service is the Power of His Spirit. F. J. Isaac

Dr. P. H. Richert
Secy. of Mennonite Foreign Mission Board

Dear Mr. Richert:

I am writing you regarding the splendid cooperation this school has received this past year from the Mennonite workers in this community, namely, Reverend John P. Suderman and his associates. We have capitalized time and again on the unusual musical ability of the Sudermans and I want them and his Board to know that it has not been unappreciated on the part of the Government people in this vicinity.

Our high school, as you probably know, is in its infancy. We had over one hundred high school boys and girls who had never done any part singing. Mr. Suderman undertook to train these youngsters for an Easter Cantata using four parts. They were not ready on Easter for the cantata, but gave it at the close of the school year. It was a real accomplishment on the part of the director. Since the majority of these children are not Christians, I think it will prove a real blessing and at least some small understanding of Christianity.

It is not the policy of the schools to either promote or hinder the spread of Christianity among the Indians, but it is the policy of the schools to develop character, promote cultural influences from whatever source is available and give to the children the best influences that are possible for us to put in their path.

The Sudermans have made our task easy in our many school projects this past year, and we are proud to have them work with our school children in their many capacities, since they have so much to give that is worthwhile, and I know will be a blessing to the Hopis.

Sincerely yours, Wayne T. Pratt,
Principal of the Hopi Schools

Oraibi, Arizona

"Therefore, if thine enemy hunger, feed him, if he thirst, give him to drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head." Rom. 12:20.

It was on a Wednesday evening when the older Hopi Christians gathered in the main room of the church for prayer meeting, and the children in one of the class rooms for their Bible class. For our meditation I had selected the above verse. As I was explaining the meaning of that verse, K. T. Johnson interpreted the message into the Hopi. He took great pains in conveying the thoughts of the message, so that every one would be sure to understand it. After he was through he asked the audience whether they had understood the meaning and Qooyawayma, an old time friend of Missionary H. R. Voth answered, "Years ago a Navajo Indian used to come to my house and to my orchard to steal. Whenever I could catch him I would hit him on the head. I was not a Christian then. Now I am a Christian, and when that same Navajo comes to my house, I invite him to sit down at the table with me and we eat together."

At another time this same man, Qooyawayma brought to the church two dollars. As he handed them to me, I asked him what he did that for. In his broken English he said, "Last week I worked. I got ten and ten. I give the Lord two." He has caught the meaning of giving a part of his earnings back unto the Lord. —John P. Suderman

OKLAHOMA

Experiences of A Beginner

Dear Mission Friends:

Rev. Ediger asked me to send in an article from the Oklahoma field for the mission number of The Mennonite. This affords me pleasure and it is my purpose to give a few of my first impressions of the work here and what seem to be the main phases of the work. Of course in all these the end in view is the spiritual uplifting of the Indians.

One evening in a conference with Rev. Ediger, in which we discussed the native help difficulties, he referred to the Indians as having passed through childhood and now being in high school age are harder to handle. I think that well describes the situation. Will they be willing, ready, and trained to start out for themselves when they come of age?

I believe the work will resolve itself more and more into training of the native helpers. This phase of the work has been one of the greatest trials during our three months work. Mrs. Friesen and I are in charge of four churches and we do need some helpers. Especially on the Sundays in which we cannot be at the various churches. We are continuing the policy of the former workers of meeting with the native helpers during the week, either on Friday or Saturday, to discuss the Sunday School lesson with them and to study together a portion of Scripture with the one who is to lead the service on Sunday. Our aim is to get the helpers to the point where they can take over more of the work, however, I believe the time is far from ripe for them to do so completely. How some try to get every thing they possibly can out of us, and this is especially true of the oldest helper on the field. Just within the last few days the tests were very severe so that the very foundation of the work seemed to shake. However, others of the helpers have shown themselves very commendable. Just two weeks ago we were greatly encouraged at our campmeeting in the way the native helpers took hold and handled the meetings for the two days. The proved themselves willing and capable in leading and substituting for other speakers.

Another phase of the work on which I would like to comment is the language problem. Most Mennonite churches are well familiar with such a problem. There are the older people who cannot understand the English and so we continue to use an interpreter when such are present. As I write this one of the helpers just came for his instruction and remarked about the difference between Montana and Oklahoma with respect to the language. Here, he said, there are very few who do not understand the English as it is presented in church. However, many prefer the Cheyenne. Then, as we also work with the Arapahoes, having one church for them and one in which we have a mixed group of the two tribes, we cannot use only one or the other language. In most of the Arapahoe homes the children are taught the English but among the Cheyennes the Indian is still favored.

Such difficulties, together with outside influences, such as the old peyote-worship, make the work difficult. The Pentecostals, another outside influence causing confusion, have been extremely active during the last few weeks, offering clothing for attendance and using trucks to get them to their meetings. What of the future?

MONTANA

Glimpses into Camp Visitation Work Among North Cheyenne Indians, Southeastern Mont.

In our Mission work, we find it interesting and worthwhile to visit the Indians in their homes. This gives us an opportunity to talk over matters of mutual interest, and also to do evangelistic work in private or in groups. It gives opportunity for personal testimonials, and a recounting of problems and difficulties that confront the Indians, and how to solve and meet them.

In order to gain the affection of the Indians one must be their friend in many ways. In ministering to their needs when they are not well, and in comforting them in times of sorrow and distress. To visit those who are shut in because of old age, or blindness or infirmities, and to give them something for their hearts and minds from God's Word, that is often a great blessing to them. Again there are encouragements to be given, to such who face odds that seem very great. A dying person may want a will written, another wants us to deliver a message, or do a favor for them.

There is a great contrast in the homes of the Cheyennes. There are homes that are sadly neglected, with doors made of rough lumber, and fitting very poorly. Some need repairs very badly; some should be condemned, as being unfit for human habitation. In these neglected homes there is incredible carelessness, and hence much filth, foul odors, flies, and the inhabitants are scratching scalp and body because of lice. Then again we visit homes that are very neatly kept, nice clean clothes are on the line to dry, and the homes are in order, and attractively arranged; the floors are scrubbed, and the place is inviting in its appearance.

In some homes the Cheyenne language is spoken almost exclusively, while in others, both English and Cheyenne, and in some only the English. Some have no education, cannot write their own names, or read anything, while others have as much as a Common Schol education, a few a little more. At some homes the men are lying about, doing nothing, except smoking cigarrettes. At other places the men are working in the fields, or caring for their cattle and horses.

Now and then we find some groups engaged in playing cards, gambling over something that they have staked, maybe money, or a shawl, any article they might own. A few have radios. Former football players from Non-Reservation Indian Schools, get much pleasure listening to the World's Series, or intercollegiate football games. Indians are always interested in things that have action in them.

As a rule we are well received at their homes. Now and then some of them are not ready for company, but they are friendly and respectful, in their own way. Sometimes we are offered chairs to sit on, more often we must find our own place to sit, if we do not wish to stand while talking to them. This means at times to squat down on the floor, or sit on a mat, or mattress, that may be on the floor.

When we invite them to come to the church services some respond gladly, others give excuses. This excuse may be a planned visit to relatives, or hindrance to work, such as getting in a load of wood, or putting up hay, or threshing grain. But again it may be a quarrel they have had with some neighbor, and so they do not want to meet that neighbor at the

ROSEMARY MENNONITE CHURCH

The Rosemary Mennonite Church is located in the Eastern Irrigation District, approximately 120 miles North of the international border line, and about 100 miles east of the Rocky Mountains. The Church was founded in 1929 by the then newly immigrated Mennonites. During the first years meetings were held wherever space was sufficient to accommodate the members of the congregation, mostly, however, in school buildings. But since 1935 our Mennonites here hold their meetings in their own church in the town of Rosemary. In 1929 the church had less than 100 members; today the membership has increased to more than 300. The average attendance in the four Sunday School classes is over 120. On every Sunday the church services are attended by an average of about 100-150 members. Our church building measuring 48x32, has become too small, yet five years ago it was considered to be too large.

During the last few years the number of settlers, Mennonites and other denominations, has increased considerably, especially when drought and other adverse conditions compelled many farmers to find new homes. This increase in the number of settlers also accounts for the increase in church membership.

Apart from our Sunday services and regular S. S. meetings, the young people give their regular monthly programs predominantly of a religious character. A mixed choir does its share to beautify our church services. Mention must also be made of the local Bible school which has been in operation for the last nine years. A large number of our young people have graduated from this school and have thus obtained the necessary rudiments of religious concepts for their own welfare. True to the concepts and ideals of our forefathers, it has been and still is the aim of our leaders to provide primarily for the spiritual needs of the members of our church.

This report would be incomplete if mention were not made of the Rosemary hospital built last March. It is a private hospital, built and maintained by a group of our Mennonite farmers.

God's blessing, coupled with sincerity and diligence on the part of our farmers, has brought about a success undreamed of ten or twelve years ago. Soli Deo Gloria! (Glory to God).

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH, DALLAS, ORE.

October 21, 1940

Greetings to all Mission Friends:

We are grateful to our Heavenly Father for the many blessings we have enjoyed during the past year in this land of peace, undimmed by the noise of cannon, shells and bombs.

We were privileged to celebrate our first church anniversary last night, October 15. A chicken dinner banquet was served at 7:15 to about two hundred members and friends. Then we had a very interesting and blessed program that was enjoyed by all. Rev. S. S. Baumgartner of the Portland Mennonite church spoke on, "Our Christian Heritage," and was followed by a musical and voice number, stump speeches, choruses, and a poem entitled, "Our Church," written by Jake Ediger. Rev. Arnold Regier of Portland Mennonite church concluded the message, "Our Church Heritage." Our pastor, Rev. Homer Leisy, gave the closing remarks and benediction.

Since dedication last October 15, 1939, ninety-five members have been received into our church. We now have a membership of 149. At the time of the dedication our pastor, Rev. Homer Leisy, was ordained and, with his family, received into our church. They have served faithfully and have been a great blessing to us.

Our Sunday School has increased to an average attendance of 135. Some of the classes have doubled, and one class has tripled its attendance. Our worship services have been well attended, with an average of 196 the last quarter. In our services our good shepherd, Rev. Leisy, has brought out the spirit of revival. In these days of apostasy and tribulations we realize the fact that the Gentile Age is drawing fast to a close, therefore, the spirit of a continuous revival should be uppermost on our hearts and minds, and then we can say as the apostle Paul said, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." II Tim. 4:7.

April 14, 1940, we organized a young people's C. E. The young people have taken great interest and have had very interesting programs. On October 5 and 6 the Oregon General Conference churches assembled at Pratum, Ore., for a Bible Conference. Saturday afternoon and evening was devoted to a Prophetic Bible Conference. Sunday afternoon a Young People's program was given, and in the evening an old fashioned Song Festival. We came home with our hearts filled to overflowing. Last Sunday night, October 13, we were privileged to have Rev. Stanley Smith of Vancouver, B. C., with us, who is touring the country in the interest of Japan Rescue Mission. Its Mission is the emancipation and salvation of many unfortunate girls of Japan. He also showed us some slides of the work they are doing there. May we ever remember them in prayer. —Helen Thiessen

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH AT ALBANY, ORE.

Greetings: In June Rev. and Mrs. Franz and family have moved to Albany from Pratum, Oregon, and Rev. Franz took up his work as pastor of this church. We feel wonderfully blessed in having him, as we receive a wonderful message every Sunday; also Wednesday evenings at Prayer Services. Our choir is made up of middle-aged and young people at present, but we hope that soon we can have a young people's choir. Recently, the choir got some new song books.

Our pastor, has been passing out invitations and programs in the vicinity of the church. As a result quite a number of new faces have appeared in the congregation the past month. We hope that many more will take advantage of this wonderful opportunity and come out to hear these timely messages during the months of October and November.

Our Sunday school is growing, and the children take a great deal of interest in their classes. We have three different Christian Endeavors, Junior, Young People, and the married folks. Our Missionary Society has been very active; there are twenty-four members. We meet regularly every month for devotions and sewing. At present we are quilting, and have been meeting for an all day sewing every Wednesday the past month. We are planning on having our annual Missionary food sale the first Friday and Saturday in December. Our Society is supporting three Bible Women, two in China and one in India.

On Sunday, October 20, we will have Communion Services. New members will also be taken into the church. We pray that our church will continue to grow and be a blessing to many.

Sincerely yours, Mrs. J. N. Widmer

THE BLUMENORT MENNONITE CHURCH

Gretna, Manitoba, Canada

The above mentioned church is located in the villages west and northwest of Gretna. The bishop of our church is Rev. J. P. Bueckert. The number of baptized members is around 200, with six places of worship. One bishop and nine preachers are leading and serving our church. About 99 per cent of the congregation are immigrants that left Russia in 1923 and later. All of them are thankful that God has found a safe haven for them in the New World, where they are permitted to worship God according to their convictions.

Our church is earnestly trying to keep up the religious traditions of our fathers which is quite hard in the critical years that mankind is passing through at present.

Our church is endeavoring to give her children and youths a thorough religious education. At our public schools they get religious instruction for half an hour daily. On Sundays the children are being sent to our local Sunday Schools. After school age (14) a number of them attend, or have attended, the M. C. I. at Gretna and the Bible Schols at Gretna and Winkler. Where possible a Christian choir and a Young People's Christian Society, Jugendverein, have been organized. Our church is a member of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of Canada and of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America.

In war time we try to do our part in supporting the relief work of the Mennonite Church and are upholding the Christian doctrine of non-resistence.

ACTIVITIES OF THE GNADENTHAL SUNDAY SCHOOL

In the Blumenort Mennonite Church, in Southern Manitoba

At the request of our bishop, Rev. J. P. Bueckert, we submit this report about the work of the Gnadenthal Sunday School. Our Sunday School has its session regularly every Sunday morning from 8:45 until 9:45. It is being opened on the main floor, with all divisions teachers and pupils present, by the superintendent or one of his assistants. After a spiritual song and prayer the school is divided into four groups, each with its own instructor.

The attendance at the school is very satisfactory; usually around sixty-five pupils ranging from five to sixteen years. According to the age of the pupils, the Sunday School is divided into the following four divisions: I Division—5 to 8 years, II Division—9 to 11 years, III Division—12 to 13 years, and IV Division—14 to 16 years.

The subject matter has been arranged so that each child covers all the important Bible stories during the time it attends the Sunday School. In the last division the Bible serves as text. Besides the Biblical subject matter, attention is being paid to spiritual songs and to the missionary work of the Mennonite Churches. Several Sundays are devoted to the study of Mennonite missionary activities in America, Africa and Asia. In connection with this our Sunday School conducts yearly an auction sale of goods donated by the pupils. The proceeds from this are distributed among various branches of the Mennonite missionaries in Africa and Asia. The pupils of our school come from families of three different Mennonite churches. The Sunday School staff feels obligated towards parents for the cordial support and attention they give this important branch of the educational efforts of our church.

In conclusion, we must state that Sunday Schools similar to the one described are maintained by the Blumenort Mennonite Church at four other villages in our neighborhood. Much attention is also given to our young people who do not attend Sunday School. They are organized into Young People's Christian Societies, who have their programs every two weeks from November to June. Besides, the Young People's Societies of the various villages meet three times a year at some centrally situated church.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE MENNONITE GIRLS' HOME

412 Bannatyne Avenue, Winnipeg

This our home, established in 1926, is situated on a very convenient spot. It is less than a mile north of the main stores on Portage avenue, and three blocks south of our church on Alexander avenue. It is an old and ordinary boarding house, very simply furnished, yet very attractive to us girls. We gladly give one and one-half percent of our wages to keep it up.

Since 1933 this home is under the supervision of Miss Helen Epp. Having worked out herself prior to that time, she very well understands a servant's life and therefore extends hearty sympathy to all. She has made the home very pleasant and home-like to us by not being too strict in the routine. For instance, if we don't get through with our business down town until shortly before our Bible hour begins, we get hot coffee afterwards. Miss Epp also ardently endeavors to place every girl on reasonable terms and see to it that these are being kept, on both sides, the girls' as well as the mistress'.

There are not as many girls coming to the home as used to several years ago. A good many have married, fifteen this year; some have taken up professional work, as teaching and nursing; others have grown out of financial difficulties and therfore don't come to work. During last summer there were about fifty girls; ten or twelve new ones have come in this fall and a few more are expected.

It might be of interest to some readers to know what we do in the home on our Thursdays off. Some read, some play, we have a few games as "Biblisches Lotto Spiel", "Chinese checkers" and "Tricky Sticks." Many girls bring some work along; their own or missionary. We have knitted over fifty pairs of socks for the soldiers. From 6 to 7 o'clock we have the "Bible Hour", I mentioned before. Rev. John Enns is leading it. He preaches Jesus Christ and aims to impress upon our hearts the fact that to love and serve Him day after day and at whatever task given, brings more contentment and real pleasure than worldly amusements.

The money raised from the missionary work done in the home has so far been placed into the home's own fund. It was used to buy furniture and bedding for the home. In recent years, however, it has been necessary to buy fuel. But we are not as selfish as it may appear from this account of our mission work. Now and then we take a special collection which we turn over to the minister for home or outside mission work, lately for those distressed through the war. Our last collection in September was $31.00.

On October 31st the Evening Bible School (Thursdays 7:30-9:30 p. m.) will open. I hope that many of our young girls will again attend. To attend a Bible school and a weekly Bible hour is a privilege many of us would not have if we did not work in the city. I believe that this spiritual work done in the home will be a great blessing to the future generation. The Word of God sown into the hearts of young girls will grow quietly into a large and widely branched tree, bearing fruits of truth, faith, contentment and love. May the Lord bless all that aid in keeping up our home.

With hearty greetings to all readers,
Emmy Janz, 65 Westgate, Winnipeg, Manitoba

REPORT OF THE MENNONITE BIBLE MISSION

4221 South Rockwell St., Chicago

Our church is located on the southwest side of Chicago, in a community where God's word is greatly needed. We are endeavoring to spread the Gospel in various ways.

Our congregation averages about one hundred regularly and in this number we have about twenty young people. We, as young people, enjoy spreading God's word by praising His name in song. From time to time we gather at homes of sick members and sing. In this way unsaved members of the household hear the message of praise to God. We also have a group of girls, from the ages of twelve and over who meet each Wednesday evening for one hour of choir practice. We are called the "Gospel Girls' Choir". Opportunities are given to us to sing at various Mennonite churches in Chicago.

The Sunday School offers another way of serving Christ. As many of the boys and girls have no Christian training in their homes, we as teachers earnestly strive to bring God's word to them in a way that will win them for God's Kingdom while they are young. Sunday evening holds our interest with variety programs which are made by a program committee elected by the members of the church semi-annually. At least once a month a Missionary program is given, either using Home Missions or Foreign Missions as the theme. In this way many young people turn their thoughts to Missionary work and are led into a wider field of service for God.

Summer is a happy time at our church. At least one month during vacation time we hold vacation Bible School for children. They have a devotional period, a time of recess, hand work and also outings. Because of the daily vacation Bible School the boys and girls develop mentally, spiritually, and physically.

As the name of our Church is "Mennonite Bible Mission", the Bible is our guide at all times. Scripture is memorized, verses are underlined in Bibles given to new members and frequently we are given time in our services for quoting Bible verses and for the giving of testimonies of God's grace to us.

Your prayers for us as we labor in this section of Chicago will be greatly appreciated, that God might add His blessing to all that is done for His name and for His glory.

MENNONITE CHURCH, HUTCHINSON, KANSAS

Still Partly a Mission Church

As a lay member in our Mission churches, our pastor, C. H. Dirks, has asked me to contribute something to this mission number. We have 119 members listed, some of these, because of distance from church, are not regular attendants, others miss services for various reasons. Several of our married young men are in charge of gas service stations, where they are needed on Sundays, but they assist their families to attend Sunday School and preaching. Our attendance averages 125-150. On October 20 some new members have been received, and there is promise of more later this fall. Nine denominations are represented in our constituency, three branches of Mennonites, also Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Christian Alliance, Lutherans, and Quakers.

This membership with different backgrounds has so far tended to deepen our spiritual convictions, by learning to respect good points and disregarding many smaller prejudices. In the melting pot of good-will-fellowship, much dross is discarded by loyal, discreet, Christian companionship. Do we not all pray to the same Father in heaven? If we have anybody we would hate meeting in heaven, we had better search our own heart. Love is the only force to overcome hate. Good is the only power stronger than evil. Our Pastor, without neglecting to "keep the home fire burning", has a large non-member calling list, of whom a number are very good prospects for membership. It is important for all Mission churches to cultivate a strong nucleus of loyal, consecrated, broad minded Mennonites around whom to gather new converts. The tendency of our pleasure seeking age is toward shallowness, instead of spiritual depth.

A young people catechism class is receiving instruction by our Pastor in Christian fundamentals. Our Sunday School enrollment of 172, with average attendance of about 130, 12 classes, 33 officers, including teachers and assistants is going well. A young people's C. E. of about 20 members, between ages of 12 to 35, meet every Sunday night at 6:30 p. m. They have held first place in the efficiency program of County C. E. work. They support a native missionary in India.

Continually Mennonites of various shades locate in Hutchinson. We appreciate any assistance their home church pastors and members will give us in contacting and assisting such members in the often so difficult task of assimilation. We desire to help them. But the introduction toward such help should originate in the home church. Too often we have neglected to properly cultivate our Mennonite heritage, especially our doctrine on PEACE. Even yesterday a prominent Methodist approached me, saying: "We are looking to you Mennonites, Brethren, and Quakers for leadership in Christian behavior in WAR. Many of our leaders and youths are not condoning war. They find war inconsistent with Christ's conduct and teaching." Are we the faithful servants that Christ wants us to be? We pray, "Thy Kingdom Come." But are we helping to establish it?

In cooperation with the Irwin Memorial Presbyterian Church, a neighbor church, we maintained a vacation Bible School, with an attendance of 105 children. Thirteen denominations were represented, a number not affiliated with any church. Expenses were $24.00, 19 teachers and helpers.

Hoping that our endeavors in various directions may be in keeping with the Lord's will, and soliciting your prayers,

Cordially, C. C. Epp.

ALBERTA COMMUNITY CHURCH

Portland, Oregon

Dear Home Mission Friends:

In reviewing the past year here at Alberta Community Church, Portland, we must say, "Certainly the Lord has been with us mightily."

In February our first pastor, Rev. Edmund Miller and wife, received a call from the Mennonite Church at Lind, Washington, which they accepted. We were thus without a regular minister until June. During this time we were ably supplied by ministers of our conference and local ministers, through arrangements made by our Rev. S. S. Baumgartner, who also brought us the "Words of Life" at different occasions.

After searching around for a minister for this place and consulting with the Home Mission Board, we felt the hand of the Lord directing us to a couple who had just graduated from Bethel College, and were ready to go into His field of service, namely Rev. and Mrs. Arnold Regier. A call was given them and they accepted, arriving here about the middle of June. They, at once, plunged into the work and through their consistent Christian lives and ministry have endeared themselves to everyone, and the work has been going forward steadily and progressively. Our church membership is at present 41. The worship attendance averages about 55, while our Sunday School attendance averages about 75, with 11 classes, all taught by our own members.

We have been privileged to share several activities with other Oregon Mennonite churches, namely Pratum, Albany and Dallas during the past year. First in May our annual Sunday School and C. E. Convention, and in October a two-day Bible Conference and Song Festival. These activities most certainly tend towards a closer fellowship with one another and a more consecrated Christian service for our Lord and Master Jesus Christ.

Recently our minister organized some of the lay members into teams with a captain for each team, to call on some of the people in this community who either had at one time attended here or who might be interested in attending either church or Sunday School. The teams were sent out by two's even as Jesus had sent out his disciples, and the results were indeed gratifying. We feel the hand of the Lord is definitely in the work at Portland and if "He is for us who can be against us." We would ask our friends to remember the work at this place in their prayers.

In His Service, Edw. A. Leisy.

WINTON, CALIFORNIA, MISSION CHURCH

Dear Home Mission Board:

I am glad to give a short report from this Mission church, which is a union of the General Conference group and the Presbyterian group of this community, under the leadership of Rev. D. B. Hess, he being a minister of the General Conference.

Services are held each Sunday morning in the Presbyterian Church and evening services are held in the Bethel Mennonite Church under his direction. During the last quarter there was an average church attendance of 31 adults and 13 children, and for the Sunday School there was an average of 50 with 5 classes to care for them. I am sure this record will be improved the coming quarter.

During early June a Daily Vacation Bible school was conducted by Rev. D. B. Hess, with other ministers in the community assisting; all urged their children to attend. It closed with a fine program, given in the school auditorium (community hall). The young people have a very interesting service in the evening, consisting of a song service, Bible readings, and short talks on the given subject. Both young and old are welcomed to this service. We are very thankful that Rev. D. B. Hess has been with us during the last two years, for we have been in need of just such a worship service as he gives. We pray that those of this community who are indifferent to their soul's need may be awakened before it is too late. And may we all "watch" for we know not the hour in which our Lord will return. May we have our lamps trimmed and burning, ready to meet Him should it be morning, noon or midnight. For He has said, "I will come again," John 14:3; Acts 1:11.

We are looking forward to an evangelistic meeting some time in November.

Yours truly,
"In the service of the King," Ethel Hogancamp

MEMORIAL MENNONITE CHURCH

Altoona, Pennsylvania

Greetings in the name of our Redeemer:

The attendance at our Worship Services is increasing. The average is about 30 for morning and evening services. In the Sabbath School the attendance is approximately 75 per Sunday.

We held a series of special evangelistic meetings. Our regular Sunday evening services are evangelistic and our Pastor, Rev. E. F. Slotterback, gives regular invitations for decisions for Christ.

We have no rich members. Quite a number work in the railroad shops. A few are farmers, living about three miles from the church. We have many children that attend from the nearby community.

The spirit of God is working in our Sabbath School. We ask an interest in your prayers.

Sincerely, H. A. Sharpless, Deacon.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A. S. BECHTEL

November 24, 1940

ATTITUDES TOWARD THE GOSPEL MESSAGE

Luke 8:4-15

Introduction

Our lesson portrays four attitudes taken by four different classes of people toward the Gospel message. These were about the same in Christ's day as they are now. Much good seed sown then did not bear fruit, even as it does not now, because not all hearers responded heartily, nor did the seed take root in the soil of their hearts. The message of Jesus' parable is quite instructive for us today. He was confronted with some of the same problems that we are today, because of people's attitudes toward His message. Many came to hear Jesus (v4), some doubtless out of curiosity, but surely many with open minds and hearts. Jesus' heart warmed toward them. He saw His opportunity to give to them the message of salvation.

The Indifferent Hearers, vs. 5, 12

Jesus tells a very familiar story of a farmer sewing his seed by hand, broadcast over his field. This sower represents Christ Himself and all preachers and teachers of the Word. Some seed fell on the hard footpath that went across the field. There are four classes of hearers or kinds of soil. The first is like the hard trodden path in which the seed can not take root at all. Such hearers will hear the Word but it is snatched away by the devil (v 12), and they fail to believe. The seed finds no responsive soil in their hearts. Many of these indifferent people of today never hear the Word preached nor do they read it. Some go to the house of God, but with an indifferent spirit and the Word proclaimed and read, makes no impression on them. Their mind is closed and their conscience is deadened.

Shallow Hearted Hearers, vs 6, 13.

These are like the thin soil covering the underlying rock—so common in Palestine. They hear the Word, receive it joyfully (v 13), but without serious thought about its real meaning and the cost of acceptance. The truth takes hold of the emotions, but not of the depths of the will. These souls are shallow. The roots of the Gospel plants can not reach down and they wilt in times of temptation. Some people are impulsive and changeable, lacking depth of character and deep-rooted convictions. Serious forethought will prevent much of the wilting after the sun is up.

Half-Hearted Hearers, vs. 7, 14

These are like the rich and promising but preoccupied soil. Thorn seeds are in the soil and the good seeds fall among them. The thorn plants grow rapidly and abundantly, choking the grain. These hearers give some real attention to the Word. It takes some root and hold upon the will, but there is not an entire consecration of the heart. The cares of the world, its riches and pleasures occupy so large a place that the religious life receives scant or no attention. The minds are so much occupied with the things of the world that the soul nurture is neglected. No true servant of God puts the things of the world first.

Whole-Hearted Hearers, vs 8, 15

These are like the good soil, bringing forth fruit. They hear the Word, appreciate its values, accept it with an honest and good heart and hold fast to it. It takes good root and becomes abundantly fruitful Fruit-bearing is the one and only real evidence of our hearing the Word. The whole-hearted hearers treasure the Word in their hearts and conform their lives to it.

How do parables help to fasten the Word in our minds? What is the remedy for rather shallow emotion taking the place of serious thinking in our religion? Why is there special danger in our days that the Word may be choked by thorns?

MONTANA MISSION

place of meeting. Sometimes grudges, or strife between relatives and neighbors, keep them away from services for several months. It is our privilege to help bring peace and harmony into such situations, but sometimes we fail, if they are unwillnig to forgive and begin a new life of good-will.

In some homes the children are bashful, a few may even be afraid of us, but in most homes the children are friendly and like to talk to us and come close to us. Those living in the neglected homes have dirty faces and greasy clothes, often in rags. Again, at other homes the children are clean and well cared for.

Nearly every home has a car, some more than one, mostly antiquated models, that need repairing. There are a few more recent models, one or two 1940 models, owned by those who have quite a few cattle. Wagons and farm machinery are mostly old and neglected.

From the above it is evident that, although rather few in number, there is a great difference in the way the Indians live. This difference is due in part to family habits, and training, as well as to education, and Christian teaching and faith. We would entreat you all to remember the Cheyennes and the Missionaries before the throne of Grace in your prayers, that they all might respond to the message of salvation, whether ignorant or educated, old or young, poor or otherwise. Christ and His Word, must become precious to them, then it will transform them, and bring salvation to their lives and homes.

McPherson, Kans.

Youth A-Building

Encouraging progress toward a united Mennonite youth is being made.

The Northern District is beginning a youth's organization and the young people are planning to engage in common mission projects. The executive committee consists of Carl Friesen, Henderson, Nebr., chairman; Stella Waltner, Freeman, S. D., and Jake Friesen, Mt. Lake, Minn. Miss Waltner writes hopefully: "I am confident that with a Higher help we can overcome difficulties and really become a United Mennonite Youth even if we are hundreds of miles apart."

A constitution is being prepared for a youth organization in Saskatchewan by J. C. Schmidt, Chm.; Henry Friesen, Rosthern, Sask.; and Paul Schroeder, sec., Guernsy, Sask. J. C. Schmidt is the representative of Canada on the young people's union of the General Conference. He is teaching in the Bible school at Rosthern.

The executive committee of the Western District consisting of Rev. Reynold Weinbrenner, Beatrice, Nebr., pres.; Florene Krehbiel, Hutchinson, Kans., sec.-treas.; and Hans Regier, Whitewater, Kans., vice-pres., met on Oct. 21 to discuss plans and projects. Edwin Stucky, Moundridge, Kans., was reappointed as peace secretary. He will be in charge of the oratory contest. As secretary of the peace committee Harley Stucky, North Newton, Kans., will continue peace rallies. It is planned to hold some in Nebraska and Oklahoma.

Louise Richert, Pacific District representative on the young people's committee of the General Conference, has three assistants in other states who foster Union activities locally. They are: Oregon, Ernest Roth, Salem; Washington, Harry Albrecht, Monroe; Idaho, Alice Lehman, Aberdeen.

Projects

Eastern District

Adopted for May 1940-May 1941: $75.00 Support of Ernst Harder, Freeman, S. D.; $125.00 Support of a Spanish War Orphan in France under the Mennonite Central Committee; $100.00 Support of Rev. and Mrs. Boehr, Missionaries returning to China this Fall; $100.00 for Retreat Ground Fund—Camp Mennolan.

Western District

Adopted for July 1940-July 1941: $50.00 Support of Ernst Harder, Freeman, S. C. E. Rally

The annual Fall C. E. Rally of the Eastern District was held at the Springfield Mennonite Church at 2:30 P. M. on Sunday, October 13.

Although Mr. Orrie Miller had been announced as the speaker, he sent in his place Dr. Harold S. Bender, dean of Goshen College, Goshen, Indiana, and member of the Mennonite Central Committee. Mr. Bender had just returned from Europe in September, where he visited the various relief stations.

In a simple, straight-forward manner he presented a graphic picture of the need among civilians in Spain, France, and Germany. The theme of his talk was "Coals of Fire," and he used as his text Romans 12:20.

"Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head."

As a part of the year's mission project, each Society brought to the Rally a Bible or money to purchase a Bible to be given to some missionary. We recognize man's need for spiritual food; we pray that by the spreading of His Word, some soul may find Christ. Rev. Boehr had charge of this service. The response was indeed heartening, and we know the Holy Spirit will richly bless the Word as it goes forth.

The following is a list of the gifts presented—Allentown - 20 New Testaments to Rev. George Held to be used in that vicinity in Jewish Mission work. Bowmansville - A Bible to Rev. S. T. Moyer; Deep Run - $5.00 Chinese mission field; East Swamp - $5.00 for Chinese Bibles through Rev. Boehr; Flatland - 10 New Testaments for rewards for Hopi Indians to be sent to Mary Schirmer; First Philadelphia - $5.00 Wilhelmina Kuyf and $2.00 Rev. Boehr to China; Lansdale - New Testament in Cheyenne Language to Rev. Habegger, Busby, Mont. Volume of Four Gospels in Hopi language to Daniel Schirmer; Hereford - $2.50 for Bibles in China, $2.50 for Bibles in India; Quakertown - $5.00 for Chinese Bibles through Rev. Boehr; Schwenksville - $5.00 for Chinese Bibles through Rev. Boehr, $5.00 for Bibles in India through Rev. S. T. Moyer; Springfield - $1.00 for Chinese Bibles through Rev. Boehr; West Swamp - Bible for Kenneth Bauman, son of Dr. Bauman, India; Zionsville - $2.50 for Bibles in India through Rev. S. T. Moyer; Souderton - $5.00 for Chinese Bibles.

BETHEL BITS

F. O. R.—Preliminary plans are being made for the Fellowship of Reconciliation conference to be held on the Bethel College campus during the week-end of November 28-30.

This conference is sponsored by F. O. R. members in this community and is held for the purpose of bringing together members of this organization from all over the state.

Mr. Don Smucker, Mid-west secretary of the F. O. R., and other peace leaders in the organization are being secured as speakers and chairmen of round table discussions.

This conference is being held primarily for members of the F. O. R., but anyone interested in peace work is especially invited to attend.

Work Camp—The second session of the Bethel College work camp started Monday morning, November 4, with six members attending. The new personnel of the work camp includes Harry Funk, Hillsboro; Winferd Reimer, Newton; Sam Ediger, Inman; Alfred Voth, Newton; Harvey Flickner, Pretty Prairie; and Sam Guhr, Newton.

One new course has been added to the academic schedule for this session. Miss Ella M. Wiebe is to teach a class in hygiene. Other classes will continue as in the former session. At the present time, the new campers will continue with the project started at the first session, that of remodeling the box cars for living quarters for the work campers.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Program for Dec. 8, 1940

Main Topic: Using The Bible When It Counts

Heb. 4, 12; 2 Tim. 3, 16

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "More like the Master," "Lead on, O King Eternal," "Open my eyes, that I may see."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Special music, or pageant
4. Offering for missions

II. Leader's Introduction

The Bible may be used as a devotional book in early morning worship at the family altar—to give to all a fresh sense of the nearness and the power of God, to strengthen for the daily task, to give a new vision of the great task God has given us in the upbuilding of His kingdom far and near. It is fitting to read in it at the evening hour to guage the day's work by its principles, and to find for self and loved ones the loving care of the heavenly Father expressed so often and so beautifully in the Book of Books.

It may be used in time of personal need to give courage and strength and re-assurance of God's care in time of trial and sickness, in time of temptation, to find comfort in the stress and strain when problems loom big, or daily life is especially difficult.

It may be used as a source of information about God and Jesus Christ, and the Way of Life. It sheds light on the bringing in of the Kingdom of God, on the way the Christian Church is to function. It speaks of the ultimate victory of Christ and of things to come. It serves as a source of inspiration, of the true value of things spiritual, and of the abundant life which may be ours through Christ Jesus.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Profitable Usage. Deut. 6:1-9
2. Source of Understanding. Ps. 119:97-104
3. Infallibly efficacious. Isa. 55:10, 11
4. Study for God's approval. 2 Tim. 2, 15
5. Enduring quality. 1 Pet. 1:24, 25

IV. For Discussion

1. Is memorizing choice Bible passages a practice which all C. E. members should share?
2. What practical use can we make of the Psalms? Of the Prophets in the O. T? Of Paul's letters?
3. Which part of the Bible, if any, should be read most often ?

V. Facts for Study

If the Sermon on the Mount were adopted as a standard of living by the Christian nations there would be quite a few changes necessary in the way each country would take care of its own needy citizens, of the ways of industry and trade, and in the way the problems regards relations with other countries would be solved. If it is to furnish the principles for conduct, war must go, and peace and good will and true helpfulness and neighborliness which does not shirk sacrifice must take its place.

If Paul's ideal of the Christian church is to be realized our church must increase in love, and purity and the faithful use of the various talents of the members.

If we want to use the Bible in ways that count we will have to know it well and make it our own in content and in principle.

VI. Illustration

In Time of Testing

"The coward," said Harry. "After being with Jesus for three years, and then to desert him cruelly at the time when he most needed his friends! I know I should have been faithful at any cost."

Several weeks passed; and one Sunday Mr. West noticed that Harry seemed depressed, and he did not appear as interested in the lesson as usual. After Sunday-school was dismissed, Mr. West asked Harry to walk home with him.

"Well, Harry, what is it?" he asked.

Harry looked very serious as he said, "Do you remember, Mr. West, what I said about Judas and Peter a few weeks ago?"

Mr. West nodded his head.

"I am worse than Peter ever was. Yesterday some fellows from our school went boating. You know Mr. Warren; the boys called him a hypocrite, and said his profession of Christianity was only a cloak to hide his meanness. The boys said that Christians were no better than other people, and they quoted irreverently, saying things to which no Christian should have listened and remained silent! And I never said a word!"

VII. Food for Thought

"We are the only Bible
The careless world will read."

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

IT'S SMART TO STAY SOBER

Dec. 1, 1940

Worship Service

Instrumental Prelude: "America the Beautiful"
Hymn "Fling Out the Banner"
Prayer: "O God Father, that I might rightly represent thee and draw other to thee,
Be thou this day
In my head and in my understanding,
In my eyes and in my looking,
In my mouth and in my speaking. Amen."
(Old English Prayer)
Close with the Lord's Prayer in unison.
Scripture Reading: Isa. 28:1-7
Hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name"
Vocal Solo "Be Strong"

Reading and discussion of Daily References:

1. The course of wisdom. Prov. 23:19-21.
2. Drink perverts judgment. Prov. 31:4, 5.
3. Association with drinkers. Matt. 24:45-51.
4. Those doomed to woe. Isa. 5:18-23.
5. Consider the brother. Rom. 14:13-23.
6. Be filled with the spirit. Eph. 5:18, 19.

Discussion of topic:

1. What is it that gives value to the human body? It is the life that quickens it.
2. What gives value to that life? Is it not the mind?
3. What gives value to the mind? Is it not the spirit that governs its action?
4. What gives value to the spirit? Is it not the spirit's nearness with which it comes to God?
5. Should the fact that God created man in his own image lead us to a self-respect which will convince us that it is smart to stay sober?
6. Should the fact that "now are we the sons of God" help us to develop self-control when we are tempted?
7. What is temperance?
8. On what organ of the body does alcohol have the greatest effect as a poison?
9. Is there such a thing as "harmless drinking?"
10. How does drinking affect people other than those who indulge?

Silent Meditation: (Let us quietly resolve to seek God's guidance so that we may refrain from that which is harmful and definitely not smart.)

Hymn: "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee"

Closing thought: "The real test of Christian Character and the evidence of Christian growth are seen in the use which we make of that which God has given us."

Mizpah Benediction.

6. Scripture Reading
7. Sentence Prayers by several Juniors

II. Study Period

Aim: Through the study of other children who have been helpful and loving, and not through preaching to them, to instill in our Juniors the desire to become more lovable and loving themselves.

1. Song: "Somebody Did A Golden Deed"—(Service Hymnal No. 370).
2. Story: "The Boy Who Loved God and His People More than He Feared a Giant". I Samuel 17:17-50—by a Junior boy.
3. Story: "The Little Slave-girl Who Loved Her Master"—II Kings 5:1-16—by a Junior girl.
4. Poem: "The House by the Side of the Road", by Sam Walter Foss—by an older Junior who can read well and impressively.
5. Story: "The Boy Who Was Willing to Give Up His Lunch"—John 6:1-15.
6. Story: "The Boy Who Loved His Uncle Enough to Risk His Life for Him"—Acts 23:12-24—by a Junior boy.
7. Special Music: "Dare to Do Right, Dare to Be True"—by some Junior girls. (If you do not have the melody for this song, use the tune found in the Service Hymnal No. 334, using the first two lines of the first verse for the refrain.)
8. Poem: "Which Loved the Best"? (Beginning "I love you, mother" said little John, etc.)—by a Junior girl.

9. Story: "The Stone in the Road"—by a Junior who can tell stories well or by the leader. (This Eastern fable is familiar to most I believe. If it isn't, use another story which brings out the point of loving helpfulness.)

9. Prayer

III. Mission Minutes

1. Continue the trip from our mission field in Montana to Seattle, Washington, where we decided to take a ship to our fields in the Far East. Use this period to review the things learned about the mission work among the Indians, making a game or contest out of it.
2. Pray for the missionaries about whom we have studied, as well as for the Indians.
3. Bring the missionary offering.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat the verse of the month
2. Pray the Prayer of the month
3. Sing the song of the month

THANK GOD FOR HOME

I cannot thank Thee, God enough
For this small plot of ground, this roof
These lifted walls that close me in
And hold me tenderly; this proof
Of Thy kind care for my great need
Of shelter and of daily bread;
But Oh, there are no written words,
There are no words that have been said
That express my gratitude
For the companionship of Love
That shares my simple fare—dear God,
A gift I would be worthy of!
And I would thank Thee for the tasks;
A fire to tend, a loaf to bake,
A floor to sweep, a seam to sew,
A clean, white-sheeted bed to make,
A lamp to light at evening time—
I thank Thee, God, for all of these:
For home, my home—for every home—
I thank Thee God upon my knees.

A Helpful Experience

Our government is certainly most kind and considerate in granting believers in the Mennonite faith, as well as other conscientious objectors, exemption from service under the military regime and extending to them the opportunity of serving the country in peaceful pursuits under civilian boards. And, this being the case, there was no real reason for any objector in the draft age, to decline registration as a number of theological students are reported to have done. In one instance, in Colorado, four such students refused to register on the ground of the sixth commandment, "Thou shalt not kill." With good reason the paper reporting this, commends: "What sort of theology do these young men learn that causes them openly to disobey the laws of their country, when the same law provided recourse to them to protect their full rights as citizens." We owe everlasting gratitude to our government for providing an orderly and reasonable way for obtaining the exemption granted in the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940. The experience of filling out Special Form 47 for Conscientious Objectors is proving interesting and educational to many of our young men, as they are getting next to information which they must have and in the possession of which they should have been before this. May it be that we older men have neglected our duty and that, instead of passing resolution after resolution to express our stand on peace and opposition to war, we should have spent more time in instructing our youth in the things that they now want to know. And isn't it to be regretted that some of our choice young men in their overzeal to avoid being drafted into service that might not be congenial to them, or for other reasons, enrolled in aviation and other training courses that connected them with the military organization, whereas now, benefitted by a law of the land, they could remain true to the faith of their fathers and their church and the great teachings of Christ, the Savior of us all. —T

THANKSGIVING

For all things beautiful, and good and true;
For things that seemed no good yet turned to good;
For all the sweet compulsions of Thy will
For things unnumbered that we take of right,
And value first when they are withheld;
For light and air; sweet sense of sound and smell;
For ears to hear the heavenly harmonies;
For eyes to see the unseen and the seen;
For vision of the Worker in the work;
For hearts to apprehend Thee everywhere;—
WE THANK THEE LORD.

—John Oxenham

"WHO WENT ABOUT DOING GOOD."— The Lord Jesus will ever stand before us as the supreme example of good will to men. He went about doing good. His life was laid down as a willing sacrifice for those among whom He lived and moved. He never sought His own, but another's welfare. May the spirit who guided our Savior, guide us. May we serve others, not merely for their earthly welfare, but for their soul's eternal good. We may well feed and clothe the body, but we may better clothe the soul. To help a life down here is good; to lead a soul into that eternal life of Christ, is better.

PUBLICATION

THE MENNONITE HYMNARY

Many who read this have been anxiously waiting for news about the forthcoming new hymn book. But, since we are now largely dependent on the manufacturers for the progress that the book makes, we have been slow to make any definite predictions. We believe, however, that the book will be available by Christmas.

Make-up of the Book—It will have 600 pages, 500 of which are taken up by 623 hymns and songs, and 100 pages by worship material, such as responsive readings, also tables of content and indexes. The new book thus contains one-and-one half as many hymns as the old book (with only 412) which makes for greater variety and a larger choice. It has 185 more pages and yet won't appear much larger. It is printed on strong, opaque, white paper; the printed matter, notes and words, are very clear, making reading and singing easy. The books intended to be used in churches are to be bound in best quality dark-blue cloth, those intended for home use may had bound in cloth of dark red or maroon color.

The Price—This problem has puzzled the Board of publication for some time. On the one hand we are facing the actual cost of $1.50 a copy of a first edition of 5,000; on the other hand we realized that we could not afford to ignore the low-priced hymnals intended for popular use and sold by the carloads. So, with the desire to do everything possible to get our Mennonite people to use the book, we have finally agreed on the flat rate of $1.15 for twelve or more copies, not postpaid, and on $1.40 for copies up to a dozen, postpaid.

This price arrangement does not discriminate against small churches with small orders. This, however, will mean a loss of 35 cents per copy at the $1.15 price. But it was felt that if this price would help sell out the first edition and lead to a second edition, where the cost would be only that for printing and binding, the plates already paid for, the loss on the first edition might in due time be recovered.

It is sincerely hoped that the churches will duly appreciate this sacrifice made by the Board and order the book in large numbers. We are also considering a plan whereby churches that may be unable to pay cash, can do so in installments, with a reasonable down payment.

Why Should Mennonite People Use This Book, in preference to any other that may be sold?

1. The book has been planned and prepared with much prayer, meditation and devotion, for people of our faith, hence cannot be matched in this purpose by other books, even the best, on the market.

2. The large variety of singable tunes set to meaningful words express, to a remarkable degree, the spiritual and devotional life, and the thinking of our people.

3. With emphasis on the aim of unifying congregational singing, a large array of different kinds of hymns has been assembled in the book, which thus lends itself admirably to use in all kinds of services carried on by the church, congregational worship, Sunday School, Christian Endeavor, as well as family worship, and festive occasions. For this reason the book has a right to claim, alone, the place of two-three other books now used in some of our churches. This Hymnary is an all-purpose book. Its division into different sections indicates that, as may be seen from the following:

Book I comprises 402 standard hymns, selected from ancient and modern sources, many of them not found in any other Mennonite hymnal.

Book II provides 36 hymns and songs for children giving the young singers the recognition and encouragement they have long deserved, but unfortunately rarely granted in ours ong worship. In addition there is found, in the hymn section, quite a number of songs adapted to young people.

Book III features 68 gospel hymns and songs, the best of the loved old ones, with newer ones added. These hymns are necessary as they lend themselves particularly to evangelistic gatherings, revivals, and times of spiritual refreshing.

Book IV embraces 70 chorales, selections that have come down to us from reformation times and were greatly cherished by our forefathers in their worship. They are, indeed, one of our heritages. Many of them are found in the still popular "Gesangbuch mit Noten." About twenty of these chorales are supplied with a few stanzas in German, added below the English, with the idea of bringing them a little nearer to the heart of our dear old folks.

Book V has 26 metrical psalms, resembling chorales except for their brevity. They originated in Europe during reformation days, and are melodious, stately, tender.

Book VI embodies a variety of responses, chants, doxologies and amens to the number of 23.

Book VII contains worship material, some prayers, the Apostle's Creed, etc., and a revised section of responsive readings from the Bible, carefully indexed.

4. The Christian Church Year is recognized in the arrangement of the chorales section, an idea which the protestant churches have come to emphasize more and more. Beginning with the Advent, on through Christmas, Lent and so forth, these great events are fittingly memorialized by the singing church, as an important and invaluably educative part of worship.

Besides the above there should be mentioned:

The first lines of hymns are printed in bold type at the top. Their absence was one of the objections to the old hymn book.

Practically all the stanzas appear between the staffs, which makes singing easier and more pleasant.

More information, also direstions how and where to order the books, will be given in the church papers and letters addressed to the churches.

"Alas and Did My Savior Bleed."

About two weeks ago, after the street meeting in the old village of Oraibi, we took Tawamonsi, one of the older Christians down with us in our car. We had closed the street meeting with the song "Alas and Did My Savior Bleed." Tawamonsi then began to tell us that this song always reminded her of her oldest daughter who died many years ago. She had been to school at Keams Canyon, which is the place of the Hopi Agency. At that time many of the government teachers were Christians and thus were interested in Christian work. In fact it was but natural for them to conduct Sunday Schools and hold religious meetings, where they taught Bible verses and the Christian hymns to the Indian children and students. So, when Tawamonsi's daughter came home from school, she would always sing: "At the Cross, at the Cross, Where I first saw the light." Tawamonsi was not a Christian then. Today she can also sing that song with a true meaning, for she has been faithful in her attendance in the church and in her Christian life for many years. She serves the Lord Jesus, because she accepted Him as her Savior and in her feeble way tries to encourage other Hopis to come and hear the gospel that they, too, may accept Him. Let us continue to sing the old Gospel Hymns which speak of Christ and His shed blood, that some seeking sinner may find the seeking Savior. —John P. Suderman

CHANG YUAN AND TUNG MING

Members of the Mission Board,
Newton, Kansas

Dear Brethren:

Mission schools are again filling the great need since there are very few other schools running at this time of up-heaval. Inspite of restless conditions the schools at Ch'ang Yuan and Tung Ming have carried on almost undisturbed and have greatly progressed.

At Tung Ming we have 150 pupils with four teachers on the teaching staff. The school being outside the city in the north suburb the children are not hindered much by the constant political changes that take place in the city.

At Ch'ang Yuan the school has made great progress. The number of students has increased from less than 30 the first term to over 100 this second term. The reason being that there is only one other school which is run by the Japanese and also that the people are slowly over-coming their fear of the Japanese and dare to come back into the city. With the great increase of students another teacher was added. They really need another teacher but with conditions as they are we thought it best to go slow and see whether the number of students will continue to be large. They have three teachers at present.

Respectfully submitted, August Ewert

First Quarter Report, 1940

YU JEN SCHOOL OF NURSING, CHINA

Dear Members of the Mission Board:

We report the following happenings and progress for the first term of 1940.

1. Full-time teacher arrives. For over one year we have tried to invite a Chinese graduate nurse with teaching qualifications to help take care of the theoretical and practical work of the students. Mr. Kuan Yu En, a graduate of the London Mission School of nursing of Tsangchow, near Tientsin, came to us on January 12. The next day we had a reception for him and we all said, "It is good that you have come!" Mr. Kuan teaches ten hours a week and also supervises the practical work of the students in all departments.

2. Capping Ceremony. We have a new class of eleven students (7 boys and 4 girls) who finished their probation of six months on January 15. They were given caps and uniforms during a very impressive service which was held in our local Chinese church, on Monday night, January 15. The text of the talk by the Superintendent of Nurses was "Whatso ever He saith unto you, do it." Three things are always stressed in the work of our school and they are (1) Be on time, (2) Take orders, and (3) Do your duty.

3. Term Examinations. Our first term for 1939-40 closed the middle of January. We had our examination at that time and the students all showed that they had done consistent work, in class and in the wards.

4. Chinese New Year Vacation. This comes in mid-winter. Our students all get three weeks of vacation a year. For 26 students we need to arrange for 78 weeks of vacation. One third of this we get in at Chinese New Year's time and two-thirds during the summer months. We are seven nurses on the staff and some of us took part of our vacation too.

5. Work Heavy in Spring. Always during this time of the year, we have our greatest number of patients. In the wards our beds are filled to capacity (68). And in the O. P. D. (afternoon clinic) we have reached the 170 mark in one day. Besides we did 600 vaccinations for small-pox on last Wednesday morning. They were the students of our Mission High School. Other children and babies are coming in at the rate of 30 in one day.

Very sincerely,
James C. Lin

—Grandfather Abram Penner of Mountain Lake, Minn. has passed away, was a message that reached us from different sources at a time, when we preparing the "Mission Number" of The Mennonite, and were crowded for space. This aged brother was the father of Missionary Dr. P. A. Penner at Champa, C. P. India, and of Mrs. Ferdinand Isaac of Maudahi, India, also of A. A. Penner, Mt. Lake. He died after a very brief illness of two days, a weak heart and pleurisy hastening his passing. Funeral services were held at the Bethel Church Nov. 9, with Rev. P. R. Schroeder in charge. Bro. Penner's life will be reviewed in his obituary which is forthcoming.

HOME MISSION WORKER VISITS MIDDLE DISTRICT CHURCHES

During the summer months plans were made that Rev. J. H. Janzen, Waterloo, Ontario, was to visit the Churches of the Middle District Conference, in order to inform the members of the Churches of the many kinds of Home Mission work that is being carried on.

Sickness, however, made it impossible for Brother Janzen to make the trip, and therefore the Home Mission Board asked Rev. Sylvan S. Lehman, Quarryville, Pa., Pastor of Calvary Mennonite Church at Mechanics Grove, whether he would be willing to fill the schedule. He hesitated but under the circumstances agreed to go if this were agreeable to the Conference Officers.

Rev. A. S. Rosenberger, Dalton, Ohio, President of the Middle District, expressed a readiness to help work out the details. For such cooperation, the Board is truly grateful.

Rev. Lehman started on his work, in Nappanee, Indiana, November 5, and has since been speaking in the different Churches of the Middle District. He will also attend the Ministers' Retreat at Bluffton College, in connection with the Annual Bible Lectures.

With the personal touch of a worker and with more intimate information about the many places where work is being carried on and also of the encouraging reports that can be made we hope to awaken a deeper and more intelligent interest in Home Mission Work.

GREETINGS FROM CALVARY MENNONITE CHURCH AT MECHANICS GROVE

Although our church is located on the edge of the little town of Mechanics Grove, this town does not give the majority of our worshippers. They come from the surrounding country and from Lancaster, Pa., which is about 20 miles distant.

Our Sunday School enrollment is 66 and I believe the attendance would average about 50 or 55. The church service averages about 40 for morning services and somewhat less than that for evening services.

We have a Women's Missionary Society of a dozen members which holds monthly meetings in the various homes, and one meeting annually in the church. This year it is to be held on Thanksgiving evening and we plan to have missionaries from French Indo-China to speak and show pictures. Sunday, September 22, was a day of real blessing when Missionary Voth of China was with us for two services.

We have a Young People's Society which meets twice a month, having a half hour program preceding the church service one evening, and a service which takes the place of preaching service on the last Sunday evening of each month. Once in a while a special speaker is presented for this service.

The appearance of our church building was greatly improved this past summer by having the outside painted. The cost of this was taken care of by free will gifts. We look forward to a series of special services in late fall, but plans are not yet definite.

We have many blessings for which to praise the Lord and especially do we thank Him, because we are permitted the freedom of worship and Bible study. We pray that impending war may be averted, but, how precious to know under every circumstance that THE LORD REIGNETH and, is ABLE to do abundantly above all we can ask or think.

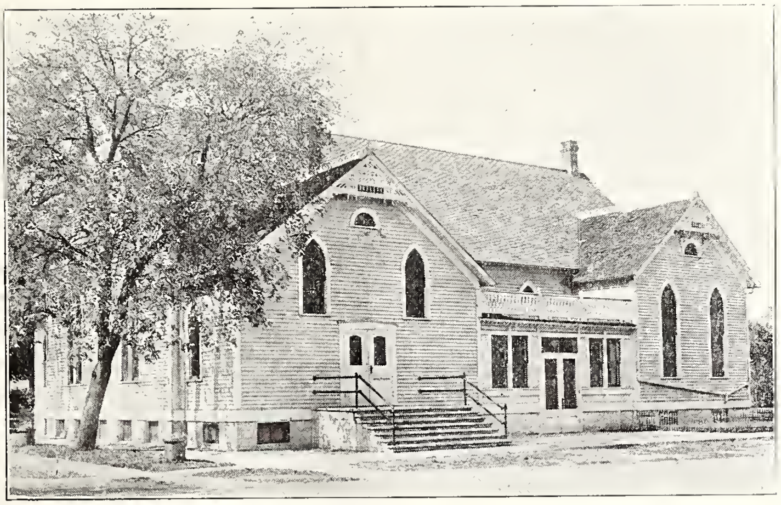
A Brief Address on the History and Development of Bethel Church

Mountain Lake, Minn., during 50 years, 1889-1940

by J. J. Balzer

"Days should speak, and multitude of years should teach wisdom," said Elihu the younger friend of Job, (Chap. 32:7) pointing thereby at the elderly friends, who could not satisfy Job in their debates with him.



Bethel Mennonite Church, Mountain Lake, Minn.

As a member of our beloved church I ,too, belong to the elderly group, who since its founding was, as a co-worker, so intimately united with it, and for that reason was asked to deliver a short historical address at this Jubilee-festival. Using more or less biographical and personal expressions in my sketch, I am confident that this will not seem odd to my audience and readers. You have heard the prehistoric address and know the cause and purpose of the organization of the church; so I shall briefly speak of its development as touching especially the spiritual side of it, because I must not refer to statistical and financial facts, as other brethren will speak of the same.

The spiritual- and church-conditions during the pioneer years were lacking considerably in this community, as many of the early immigrants came from different localities in Russia with differing views of church affairs. The mission spirit lived in a small group only and there was very little desire for higher education, but a few young men attended the normal school at Mankato and the Methodist College at Mount Pleasant, Iowa. The sermons on Sunday were copies from Luthern preachers like Hoffaker, Zieth, and others and were read like a lecture. Only in the church of Elder Aaron Wall a Sunday school of 5 classes was being held in the Summer of 1888.

In the Village of Mountain Lake a Union Sunday School was organized on October 4, 1886. It began with 12 girls and 2 boys but on the fifth Sunday over 100 were entered, and a mission spirit prevailed that set a record. On Sunday, June 29th, the first Children's day was celebrated and the offering ammounted to $96.63. Its first year superintendent was Brother I. I. Bargen.

In the church of Elder A. Wall disputes arose, which caused divisions and the final organizations of three congregations, of which our dear Bethel was the smallest in number. At its organization meeting on the 23rd of March, 1889, it consisted of 22 male and 24 female members. A deeply felt desire for spiritual life, singing, devotional study of Scriptures, prayer meetings characterized this small group, and a hearty mission spirit prevailed among them, which assured continuous growth, so that after ten years the membership numbered 260.

On the 15th of April my humble self was chosen as Evangelist for one year; but after six months the members unanimously wished my ordination to the full ministery. which took place on the 8th of November, and Elder Christian Kaufman, Marion South Dakota, performed the act. After this Brother H. H. Regier was elected Elder which office he held until his resignation 37 years later, and our co-operation in the work was greatly blessed by our gracious Lord.

During the first years after the organization, our beloved church received much spiritual help, inspiration, encouragement and advise through Rev. J. B. Baer, traveling minister of the General Conference, and also from Elder Christian Kaufman, These brethren were generally invited for our mission and other festivals, after which they served with evangelistic sermons, making deep impressions on young and old, and leading many to Christ.

During the summer of 1889, this chapel of 32 x 52 was built at the expense of $1695.00, including about $200.00 worth of work done gratis. After four years this building proved to be too small, and Brother N. F. Toews and Carpenter A. C. Dick were asked to make a blue print of the present addition and gave an estimate of the cost of building. In 1895 it was built and on July 7th dedicated to the Lord for service. It was filled to the last corner, Professor C. H. Wedel of Bethel College delivered the dedication sermon, after the introductory welcome address of Elder Regier. During the following week we had blessed evening meetings. The cost of the building was $2465.00.

In 1890 Bethel Church joined the General Conference at its sessions in the Salem Church, in South Dakota. Elder Regier, the brethren Henry Schroeder, T. H. Goossen and myself being the delegates. At that time I was elected a member of the Board of Home Missions and served as such for 24 years, 18 of which I was acting Secretary and traveled thousands of miles in its interests. Later I served 9 years as President of the Business Committee. Brother N. F. Toews, who had been chosen Evangelist, being Sunday School Missionary in our county, received a call by the Board of Home Missions to promote the General Conference work in Manitoba, and served there several years.

Some Immigration from Manitoba and the States into Sask. began and it became necessary to represent the General Conference there, too, and organize Sunday Schools and Churches in that territory. He was very successful and gathered groups at and near Langham, Waldheim, Aberdeen, Drake, and built churches which were all paid for when dedicated.

At the dedication of the Church at Langham I was present and felt sorry that the inside woodwork was not polished for lack of means. So at night I made the remark, "I wish I had my overalls and here and I would polish it." Two brethren said, "You shall have them," and the next morning they came over to Brother Toews, one bringing a pair of overalls and the other two brushes. So we bought the materials, and during the week days I finished the polishing and preached every night to a filled house. It was December 22, when I came home and preached the Christmas sermon on the 25th.

In 1914 Sister Toews died, so the brother was urged to leave Saskatchewan and come home to Bethel. After a year or two, he found another helpmate in Sister Jacob J. Friesen. Soon he received a call from the church at Alsen, North Dakota, to serve them as pastor, where he worked very successfully and also built a beautiful church fully paid for when dedicated. In 1918 he was prompted to resign on account of a light stroke, and they came home, but he kept on serving as much as possible. Now he rests in peace and his works do follow him. We are glad at this festival that we are permitted to recall the untiring services of these two resting brethren and workers in God's vinyard, Brother Regier and Brother Toews.

But we must not forget our Brother P. J. Friessen who, after graduating from Bethel College, was elected to the ministery and served in the position 35 years as our faithful co-worker. Much of his services were to help in our filial-church at Butterfield where he devoted much time. An other co-worker we had for five years in Brother John C. Peters who was teaching in the Bible School. After that he received a call by a Presbyterian Church at Wallnut Grove north of here, and now he is serving as pastor of a People's Church at St. Paul.

Fourteen years ago Brother H. H. Regier was prompted to resign because of failing health, and the congregation elected me to act as elder, in which position I was active for six years, when the congregation was about to elect me for three more years. But I felt that I needed rest and chose to offer my services for just one more year, during which the Church Board was to look for a younger man. They elected Brother John Bartel of Madrid, Nebraska, who then served us as pastor for six and one half years, and since June has been pastor of the Bergfelder Church in Delft.

Recently our dear Bethel extended a call to one of its own sons, Brother P. R. Schroeder. We sincerely hope and pray that the Lord will prosper his health and by His grace and power enable him to enliven our church and lead us into deeper knowledge of our Lord and His purpose in the Church.

My last work, which I was permitted to do, was to visit the conference churches in the interest of the publication work. I traveled over 17,500 miles and preached 122 sermons, helping to defray the debts resting upon that part of our work.

Before closing, I refer to one more kind of work in which our beloved church has been so active—singing and instrumental music. O, how it sings and sounds! What a difference compared with fifty years ago. A mass-choir of 100 to 150 voices sings the best Gospel songs to the praise and glory of God and His Church into the hearts of thousands. Besides these there are male and female choirs, and a choir of younger boys and girls that furnish much inspiration at our devotional services. For thirty-five years I was permitted to lead the choir singing when Brother H. P. Goertz and D. G. Hiebert, the latter still at his post, and others, P. J. Voth and John J. Friesen, Jr. proceded with the work.

At this Jubilee-festival we all are heartily thankful that the Lord has permitted us to be progressive during all these fifty years and that in many respects we stood as models in promoting the work of salvation of our blesses Lord in Sunday school, Y. P. C., music, mission work, Ladies' Aid, and the preaching of the full Gospel of Christ. Looking into the bright and intelligent foces of these young people before me, my hope and trust in God rises sky-high, because I believe that after another fifty years—the Lord not returning before that time—our church will not number some 540 or 550, but many hundreds more, filled with the inspiration of the Holy Spirit and bring helpers of the Grace of God for the promotion of His kingdom. May God grant it!

It's good to have money and the things that money can buy, but it's good, too, to check up once in a while and make sure you haven't lost the things that money can't buy. —George Horace Lorimer

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AN EXACTING DICIPLESHIP

Luke 9:49-63 L*Read Chap. 9*

Introduction

A fitting theme for Luke 9 is "What Jesus Expects of Men." What constitutes fitness for His Kingdom? Christian decipleship does demand much, yet the demands which God makes of men are but in keeping with the exacting demands He made of Christ. He declared that His Father commanded Him to lay down His life for others (J. 10:11, 18). Now in our lesson He sets His face to go to Jerusalem where the consummation of His work would take place. It is very fitting that He who willingly made the supreme sacrifice for us, should expect much from us. His demands of his disciples are dictated by love.

Disciples' Intolerant View vs. 49-56

The disciples saw a man doing a very good work and in Jesus' name. The man honored Christ, though he was not one of His followers. The disciples, in their mistaken zeal to uphold Jesus' honor, forbade this man to continue his work. This spirit is only too common today. Many are unwilling to look with favor upon the good work of those who do not belong to their party, sect or denomination; or of those who do not do the good work just like they would do it. All that the true disciple of Jesus asks is that the work be done in the name of Jesus and for His glory.

Jesus' attitude (v 50) was quite different. He was convinced about the sincerity of the man and wished him to continue. Jesus' answer was a definite rebuke of John's narrowness and intolerance and indeed to the too frequent intolerance and unsympathetic and narrow view of some disciples of Jesus today.

The time when Jesus "should be received up" (v 51) was rapidly drawing near. The cross, however, must come before the ascention. Jesus is determined to go to Jerusalem and fulfill His mission. He sent some of His disciples into a Samaritan village to make arrangements for the night's lodging (v. 52) The Samaritan dislike for the Jews asserted itself when they refused to receive Jesus. This greatly angered James and John "sons of thunder," and they were quite ready to destroy the entire village (v 54). Jesus had been teaching them to show love, good will, even toward enemies. James and John had not learned to practice this. His attitude was emphatic. He took no offense at the Samaritans' action. He came to offer salvation, not to bring destruction. Our standard as Christians is what Jesus did, not what Elijah or some other great and good one did.

Discipleship Involves Cost. vs. 57, 58.

A certain man (Matt. 8:19) offered to follow Jesus without reservation (v 57), a commendable, indeed remarkable, offer. Jesus saw that the man hardly realized the cost involved. Possibly he had scarcely considered the matter. Jesus let him know the possible sacrifice involved (v 58). Jesus' words came as a challenge to us. Are we willing to make any needed sacrifice to follow Jesus? Jesus wants us to be sure.

Discipleship Involves our Supreme Allegiance vs 59-62

Jesus asked another man to follow Him. He wanted to follow, but not right away. He wished to wait until his father's death and burial. Jesus demanded prompt service from him. The second man wished to be a disciple but he also had an excuse for delay. Jesus' answer is very suggestive. There must be no looking back at the world. He teaches the urgency of his work. Nothing must stand in the way of obedience to Him.

What does it mean in pracitcal living to be a disciple of Christ? What lesson is there for us in Christ's reply to John v. 50?

Bethel Hospital Honors Worthy Sister

On Saturday evening, November 9, the Sisters of the Bethel Deaconess Home and Hospital observed the 25th anniversary of service of Sister Amalia Lehman. Guests who joined the Deaconess family at the supper table were Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Entz, Newton, Mrs. H. J. Dyck, Elbing, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Haury, Mrs. J. J. Schmidt and daughter, Miss Minnie, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Penner and daughter, Miss Helen, Mrs. Paul Kliewer, Mrs. Lydia Claassen, and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Andres.

Baby rambler roses and tiny white ponpom chrysanthemums intermingled with silvered sprays were used for decorations in the dining room. The sitting room and chapel in the Deaconess Home were beautiful with garden flowers and large baskets of silvered autumn grasses, and sprays of snowberries.

At 8 p. m. the guests and the family of Sisters, students in training, and the household helpers assembled in the chapel for the observance of a service of praise and thanksgiving for the grace of God which has blest and kept Sister Amelia through the twenty-five years of her association with the Sisterhood. Songs by the assembly, the Sisters group, and a quartette of students, instrumental music by the Sisters, addresses by the Revs. Entz and Dyck, and a few remarks by Sister Frieda, the Deaconess Mother, who presented the gift and greetings of the Sisterhood, made the occasion a most happy and enjoyable one.

Sister Amelia Lehman grew to womanhood in her home community of Berne, India. She entered the Deaconess Home in Newton on September 9, 1915, and soon became a valued member of the Deaconess family. In 1919 she was sent to American Falls, Idaho, to substitute in hospital service for the young women who came to Newton from that community to complete their training course in the Bethel Deaconess Hospital. She returned to Newton in 1921. From 1923-1929 she served in the Bethel Deaconess Hospital in Mountain Lake, Minnesota, and then returned to the home institution in Newton where she has served faithfully since.

A woman of high Christian ideals and great devotion to her calling, she has been blest with good health and has not grown weary in well-doing as this commemoration of 25 years of service testifies.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA ON PEACE AND NON-RESISTANCE

More copies of the following may be had from Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, or Menn. Publ. Office, Newton, Kan.

CONSTITUTION OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE (1929)

Article 10. Our Common Confession

The Conference recognizes and acknowledges the Sacred Scriptures of the Old and New Testament as the Word of God and as the only and infallable rule of faith and life; for "other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." (1 Cor. 3:11)

In the matter of faith it is therefore required of the congregations which unite with the Conference that, accepting the above confession, they hold fast to the doctrine of salvation by grace through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, baptism on confession of faith, the avoidance of oaths, the Biblical doctrine of non-resistance, and the practice of the Scriptural church discipline.

More recently the following reaffirmations were adopted:

STATEMENTS OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE

In 1929:—113. RESOLVED: The General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America in session at Hutchinson, Kansas, August 20-28, 1929 reaffirms the position taken by the founders of our denomination that war is unchristian and contrary to the life and teachings of Jesus Christ and that no Christian should participate therein.

In 1935:—85. (5) RESOLVED, That we reassert our Biblical stand on non-resistance and opposition to war, which position we have held for more than 400 years, and that in our private lives we live such peaceable lives that our testimony will be untainted, and have power to convince many others of the virtue of our position. Having striven to practice the peace principle, let us cultivate the spirit of active goodwill towards others at all times, and utilize opportunities whenever and wherever these offer themselves to present and interpret our peace principles to others. Be it further Resolved, That we encourage our members to maintain this position in colleges and universities where military training is required, or where a similar situation presents itself, and that when occasion requires, this position of non-resistance be made known to our Government.

On February 12, 1937 a committee composed of Mennonites, Friends and Brethren was received by the President of the United States and submitted a document setting forth our position on Peace and Non-resistance.

And again on January 10, 1940 the President of the United States kindly received a committee composed of members of the three historic peace churches—Friends, Brethren, and Mennonites, and this committee also submitted a document expressing the historic and unbroken conviction of these groups against war and their devotion to peace and goodwill, growing out of deep Christian convictions, based on the spirit and teachings and life of Jesus.

Union Projects After Two Years

by William E. Juhnke

After nearly two and one-half years some projects of the Young People's Union have been completed, others are well on the way to completion, and yet others have barely gotten under way or are just beginning. The following review is given to inspire further support of the projects and to give account of the stewardship of the Y. P. Committee of those activities which are endorsed in the Saskatoon Y. P. resolutions of 1938.

In an effort to raise the standards of worship, instruction, organization, service, and fellowship of Mennonite C. E. societies, a program of standards was placed on a sheet and distributed in each district. A representative in the district was assigned the task of urging the adoption of the standard and of rating the societies. This was financed by the committee and has been paid for.

Young people's retreats were made a matter of special study with headquarters for this at 121 Towamencin Ave., Lansdale, Penna., where Rev. Olin Krehbiel, president of the Union, was chairman of a committee in whose charge this was done. Rev. Walter H. Dyck, a member of this committee, participated in implementing retreats in Oklahoma and also in South Dakota.

Fellowship prayer calendars have been distributed in each district. Each calendar consists of a handy one-page form giving days of the month and a list of mission workers or activities to pray for. Sam Richert of Newton, Kansas, collected the data and prepared the form under the auspices of the Y. P. Committee. Additional copies may be secured by writing to William Juhnke, Secretary of the Y. P. Committee, McPherson, Kansas.

The origional draft of the constitution has been revised and will be submitted for adoption at the next meeting.

In addition to the foregoing, projects have been sponsored and the results have been increasingly gratifying.

The debt of $50.00 for field secretary inherited from the former committee has been erased.

The support of the Swift Current Bible School met the enthusiastic reception of the young people when the need presented itself. The Pacific, Western, and Eastern districts each pledged $100.00. The Pacific district exceeded its quota; the Eastern came within five dollars of meeting it, while the Western district sent in $67.62 of its share.

The return of missionaries to foreign fields received attention when the need was announced. $231.90 was sent in earmarked for this purpose. In addition $151.29 was sent for the general treasury of the foreign mission board. This money has helped to send nine missionaries back to the foreign mission field during the last year according to the secretary of the foreign mission board. He informs us that there are two on the waiting list and that the general treasury is low. Thus it is clear that the need continues to exist. The above figures are taken as of Oct. 28, 1940.

A newer project is the support of Ernest Harder from Fernheim Colony, Paraguay, who now is going to school in Freeman, S. D. At the present young Harder is working for part of his school expense and is staying with John C. Mueller of Freeman, a member of the emergency relief board. Mr. Mueller writes that "He proved himself to be a real fine young man, a credit to the school and to the community, and takes well with the people."

The standards of a Y. P. society adopted at Saskatoon provide that each C. E. society hold one collection every six months to help defray the expenses of the Young People's Committee. Not all societies have been following that rule and as a result not enough money has come in for this purpose. So far the mailing expenses have been carried by the members of the committee altogether. The committee pays four dollars per month to the editors of the "Our Youth Says." In this it is $24.00 in arrears. The bill of $20.00 for the prayer calendars is overdue.

The work needs the prayerful support of a widening number of young people, who keep centrally in mind the common aim of a UNITED MENNONITE YOUTH IN CHRIST.

The possibilities of a separate young people's paper have been studied with the view of publishing such a paper in place of the "Our Youth Says." A questionnaire was worked out to find out what form the proposed paper should take. This is being used as a basis to work out a proposal to be made to the publication board of the conference.

One of the most far-reaching services to the conference is being made possible through the follow-up system that is being put into operation in the Western and Pacific districts for young people between the ages of 15-30. At a cost of five cents per name each C. E. receives double post cards with the names and addresses of all young people on file in the Mennonite Youth Follow-Up Office, North Newton, Kansas. When a member withdraws or moves to a new area, the C. E. president goes through his file of cards, selects the card with the name of the person in question, and sends one-half of it to the new pastor calling his attention to the person now moved into his community and urging that the newcomer be invited to church, C. E. meetings, rallies, etc. The lower half of the card is sent back to the Mennonite Youth Follow-Up Office where new double cards are prepared and sent to the new pastor for his file of young people.

The First Mennonite C. E. society at Christian in Moundridge, Kansas, was the first to receive its follow-up cards. Thirteen societies of the Eastern District have received their cards. The Western District will soon have 2,000 cards on file.

A leaflet entitled, "Mennonite Youth Follow-Up Service," giving the purpose of the service has been prepared by the Young People's Committee. A form explaining the use of the cards accompanies each set to the C. E.

Eventually the name list of all people of the church will be on file, since all plates are retained. New names are to be added periodically.

The peace aims of Mennonite youth have been translated into action as far as possible through rallies in the various districts and through close collaboration with the various conference peace committees. Permission to use the addresses on file in our follow-up office was granted to the peace committee in an effort to distribute peace literature.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

THE LORD'S PRAYER: A BIBLE GEM Mt. 6:9-15

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Sing them over again to me," "Come Thou Almighty King," "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Roll call answered by favorite Bible verses
4. Offering for mission work while a quartet sings: "Send the light."

II. Leader's Introduction

This is the prayer that Jesus taught his disciples. It is especially valuable for that reason. It contains only a few petitions, but these cover universal needs—he taught us to say "OUR Father." The first petitions teach us to pray for the coming of God's kingdom in us, and in the world about us. There is the request for our daily bread and for protection from temptation and deliverance from evil. We need all these things, both material and spiritual. Then there is the difficult part "as we forgive those who trespass against us" added to the one we all need to pray again and again "Forgive us our trespasses." And for the close the most beautiful confidence expressed, "For Thine is the kingdom, the power, and the glory, forever." It not only covers universal needs, but also our personal needs. It has been used through the centuries by the Christian church everywhere. It is a most precious heritage, and has lost none of its value to this day.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

"Our Father" Rom. 8:14-17
"Thy kingdom come" Matt. 13:36-43
"Give us this day" Phil. 4:19
"Forgive us" 1 John 2:1, 2
"Thine is the kingdom" 1 Cor. 15:24-26
A parallel of the Lord's Prayer" Luke 11:1-10

IV. For Discussion

1. What does the Lord's Prayer teach about God?
2. What petitions emphasize our relations to our fellowmen?
3. How often, and where should we use this prayer?

V. Facts for Study

The disciples had come to Jesus and asked Him to teach them to pray. Prayer has always been essential for Christians. It brings them close to the heart of God. It puts them into the right relation with their fellow-men. It helps them to see things in their right perspective, to put the emphasis on the spiritual and on the abiding. It helps them to trust God also for their material needs. We need to pray at all times. We need to come in the attitude of children. We will then go to our work feeling that God is with us, and that blessing and power will be on what we are doing for Him and His kingdom.

VI. THE PRAYER TRYST

When thou wakest in the morning,
Ere thou tread the untried way
Of the lot that lies before thee
Through the coming busy day:
Whether sunbeams promise brightness,
Whether dim forebodings fall,
Be thy dawning glad or gloomy,
Go to Jesus,—tell Him all.

Come and join us in the morning,
Who would not our privilege share?
Bringing to the feet of Jesus
This poor needy world in prayer.
Soon our privilege will be ended,
Soon we'll hear his advent blast!
He is coming, oh, be earnest—
While our praying time shall last.

VII. Food for Thought

Daily use of the Lord's prayer will have an influence on our daily life.

—East Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pa.—The Pastor, Rev. Harold Burkholder gave a Thanksgiving address before the Kiwanis club last Thursday. On Thanksgiving Sunday he will preach on "True Thankfulness."—Mrs. Widemore, former Missionary to Africa gave a very interesting address before the Ladies' Missionary Society.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

WHAT IS THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT ?

December 15, 1940
(Sharing With Others)

Song: "O Come, All Ye Faithful"

Poem: "A Christmas Wish"
God bless all givers and their gifts,
And all the giftless, too;
And help them by whatever shifts
Their kindly will to do.
When seasons which our hearts expand
Our purses fail to fill,
A word, a smile, a clasp of hand,
Shall carry our good-will.

Let him who hath his plenty share,
And him who lacks his lack.
Give each one, what he may, nor care
What recompense comes back.
If only love his heart shall swell
And kindness guide his hand,
His Christmas he shall keep as well
As any in the land.
Edwin L. Martin

Scripture Reading: Luke 6:35-38

Vocal Solo: "Give of Your Best to the Master"

Study of 1 Cor. 8:1-9:

Read verses 1-5. Paul tells the people that the reason they gave so much in spite of their poverty was because they had first of all given themselves to the Lord.

Read verses 6-8. Paul calls giving a grace, and urges that since they abound in faith, utterance, knowledge, they continue to abound in the grace of sharing.

Read verse 9. Paul cites the greatest gift of all. Jesus shared His life that we might become rich like Himself.

Discussion: If we have the true Christmas spirit we will share and let us now discuss with whom we can share.

1. Old people and Children. Make a survey of your community and see whether there are any that might be forgotten or neglected if you do not care for them.
2. People in foreign lands. A recent survey shows that our brethren in foreign lands which we ordinarily think of as "heathen" pay fifty-two cents of every missionary dollar, while we give only forty-eight cents. We ought to be ashamed. Our homes are mansions compared to theirs; our luxuries make us kings and queens in comparison to their meager living, and yet they give more than we. Is it because they have more truly "given themselves" than we? In reality, then, they are helping us with our church work. We are all sharing with each other.
3. Sharing with our families.
4. Sharing with our friends.

Prayer Song (duet) : "Others"

Poem: "The Heavenly Stranger"
No warm, downy pillow His sweet head pressed;
No soft silken garments His fair form dressed;
He lay in a manger,
This heavenly stranger,
The precious Lord Jesus, the wonderful child.
No jubilant clang of rejoicing bell
The glorious news to the world did tell;
But angels from glory
Sang sweetly the story
Of Bethlehem's Stranger, the Savior of men.

Thou heavenly stranger, so gentle and mild,
Though born in a manger, the Father's own child,
We'll worship before Thee
And praise and adore Thee,
And sing the glad story again and again.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

"THE GREATEST . . . IS LOVE"

Program for December 15, 1940

EXAMPLES OF LOVE TOWARD ENEMIES

Setting: Let your worship center be suggestive of the Advent season. Make use of candles and evergreen twigs to bring about a spirit of the approaching holidays.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude - "Love Divine, All Love Excelling," M. H. B., 236.
2. Call to Worship - "Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised," Psalm 48:1a.
3. Worship in Song - "Love Divine, All Love Excelling."
4. Worship in Prayer - Leader's Opening Prayer
5. Worship in Scripture - 1 Cor. 13. (Through the use of this chapter the children should be brought to a deeper realization of what love is and what it is not.)
6. Prayer Poem, "Others" by a Junior boy

"Lord, help me live from day to day
In such a self-forgetful way
That even when I kneel to pray,
My prayer may be for Others.

"Help me in everything I do,
To ever be sincere and true,
And know that what I'd do for you,
Must needs be done for Others.

"Let 'self' be crucified and slain,
And buried deep nor rise again;
And may all efforts be in vain
Unless they be for Others.

"And when my work on earth is done,
And my new work in Heav'n begun,
May I forget the crown I've won,
While thinking still of Others.

"Yes, Others, Lord, yes, Others,
May this my motto be;
Help me to live for Others
That I may live like Thee."

II. Study Period

Aim — To impress upon the minds of our Juniors, in a small and simple way, the great truth that Love, to be worthy of that name, can never have a low motive, such as the desire to be loved in return or to be praised of men, behind it. To love those who love us is only human, to love those who hate us is Christlike.

1. Introduction - During the introduction ask the Juniors to quote or give the essence of verses they remember in which Jesus says how we should treat our enemies. Have a list of references ready, and as a verse is mentioned give the reference to be looked up in their Bibles.

2. Short Talks by several Juniors on the following topics:

a. Why Isaac is called "the Well-Digger," Gen. 26:12-22.

b. How Joseph Returned Good for Evil, Gen. 45.

c. What David did when his Enemy was Sleeping, 1 Sam. 24:1-11 and 26:1-22.

d. What Stephen did when his Enemies Stoned Him, Acts 7:54-60.

e. The Greatest Example of Love toward Enemies, Jesus, Luke 23:24-34.

3. Song: "Something For Jesus," M. H. B. 242, 1 & 3.

4. Leader's Heart Talk.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Embark on the steamer at Seattle, Washington, for our Mission Field in China. Through the biographical sketches which have appeared in the "Missionary News and Notes," get acquainted with our workers in China. Leave the map study of the stations in China and Chinese customs, conditions, etc. for the next meeting.

2. Decide to write to the missionaries out in the field.

3. Pray for the missionaries and the natives.

4. Bring the missionary offering.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat the verse of the month

2. Sing the song of the month

3. Pray the prayer of the month, following it with

4. "Into My Heart" sung in unison

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes

Newton, Kansas; October 26, 1940, Mennonite Central and Mennonite Central Peace Executive Committee Meeting. The group considered the developments and plans on the Alternate Service problem—looking forward to handling the Mennonite draftees in our own camps and under our own management. An organization was set up to carry forward this program to handle our boys.

"It was decided to ask Paul French to prepare a brief statement of the C. O. viewpoint in connection with the present Conscription Act, which could be used as a press release in any communities desired. This statement should be approved by the National Council Executive Committee and should cover C. O. appeal case policies and outline policies of an alternate service program. Such release or releases should be made available to our ministry through our M. C. P. C. channels."

It was approved to appropriate $100.00 to furnish literature for Canadian internees. Bro. Alvin Burkholder, Upland, California, of the Brethren in Christ Church was appointed for service in France—his services to be available by January 1st.

Cablegram received from John Coffman who sailed for England, "Arrived."

Ernest Bennett, Toulouse, France, October 4th letter: "I am writing you after having just finished my regular month end visits to our work both at Cerbere, Banyuls, and Marseille. I am glad to report that our projects are operating in good order at present and especially I feel our canteen at Cerbere is proving itself to be a wonderful help at present—it being located, as you know, on the French frontier has proven a great help there to the French authorities in taking care of passing refugees who have no means of obtaining food. I think I would feel pleased even if we had no other work in France than this alone. I have lately arranged to extend our work there a little more by giving milk to small babies of the town who were able before to get fresh milk but the supply now being practically cut off are not able to obtain it. The need for help like this is increasing in many places.—My visit to Marseille has also proved rather successful. I have arranged to continue the colony there with full support for the next three months under the same arrangement that the Quakers have made for their three colonies there. As arranged now we will carry full support regardless of the number of children."

Ted Claassen, London, England, Oct. 4th letter: Oct. 1st. cable, "Office bombed. Staff all safe. Bruderhof well continuing support. Polish boys in College building again distributing clothing among East end children." "The office is still torn up badly but we are able to be back here again and doing the best we can under the circumstances. Have just cleaned up after throwing myself in the dirt along side brick wall, when one of those whistling bombs came whizzing over my head."

M. C. Lehman, Berlin, Germany, Oct. 7th letter: "I bought condensed milk, lard, and cocoa and placed sufficient to the disposal of A. P. Fast to send 100 test relief packets to Poland. Some Mennonite women from Berlin have helped in the packing and expenses have been kept at a rock bottom minimum. The M. C. C. only furnishes the goods and other associations furnish all other incidental expenses. Fast reduced his prices materially over quotations when Bender was here. I now have $2,508 worth of condensed milk on the way to Warsaw and in a few days will go there to distribute. I received news through the Swedish legation here in Berlin that 100 Dutch prisoners and internees at Weissenberg were in desperate need of shoes. Among them was one Dutch Mennonite. We are having air raids nearly every night but with very little damage in Berlin. I do not feel myself to be in any particular danger."

October 12th letter: "A. P. Fast phones me this morning that receipts are beginning to return from Poland for the one hundred test packets we have sent. I now have an arrangement whereby Fast is to pack and send for us free of all expense to us to addresses Horsch, Unruh and I furnish him. The indigenous German organizations furnish all expenses and some more."

My convictions are very strong with reference to the plan of God that the Mennonite Church should give herself to careful and prayerful consideration for entry of a great door and effectual that the relief work of the past has opened for her here. The moment seems to be here in a series of developments when we need to ask guidance and act.

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, DEER CREEK, OKLA.

November 11, 1940

Dear Readers: That it may not interfere with Christmas activities, our annual Sunday school business meeting was held on November 3. Elmer J. Lichti, who was our superintendent last year, was again elected. Some class promotions and the usual changes were made. Our reports showed some increase in attendance and offerings. It was decided that we wire our church for electricity, an improvement we will all appreciate.

This year we have seven young men attending college. In times such as these, when young people need all the preparation available this is very encouraging. We also have several young women teaching. —We are again beginning a six weeks Bible study class, meeting every Wednesday evening. We are studying the relationship between God and man as taken from the early life of Israel. While the adults meet at the church, the children meet in the Otto Reusser home for work suitable to them. We are grateful for all efforts made to instill God's word into the hearts of children, also that we as adults can meet and learn more fully our relationship with God. Work on the cantata, "The World's Redeemer," will also begin soon, with our pastor, Rev. Herbert E. Miller as leader.

On the evening of November 3, we were privileged to hear a program of songs, a reading and comments by a group from the Grace Mennonite Church at Enid. All numbers were well rendered and Rev. and Mrs. Harder and their group are to be commended for preparing such a program.

SALEM ZION CHURCH, MARION, S. D., 11-11-40

This community is experiencing its first snow storm of the season this Armistice Day. The temperatures have dropped to almost zero and snow is drifting. A good rain preceded the snow. Up until now we have enjoyed very fair weather.

We celebrated a Harvest Thanksgiving Festival late this summer. Crops and gardens yielded good returns, which prompted a service of thanksgiving with an offering.—The Ladies' Aid Society rendered a very fine program in our church lately. Recent visitors to our congregation were, Rev. John Toews and Prof. John Congdon of our college, each being a guest speaker in regular Sunday morning worship—Communion services were held in the month of October. Bible study and prayer meetings have been conducted on Thursday evenings.—Two pretty weddings took place this fall. Both brides were active in choir and Sunday school work.

A heating system has been installed in the church building this fall and is a welcome improvement now, with cold weather here. Members of the Ladies' Aid took it upon themselves to raise funds for the construction of an annex to the hall of the church, which is to be used for a Mothers' room. Labor on this project has been donated by the menfolk. The new arrangement will give us needed convenience. The holiday season is soon here, and again we are reminded of the privileges and opportunities which are still ours. Peace and tranquility still surround us and we are permitted to make plans for the joyous occasion of Christmas time. Every new day we are brought to realize that our kind heavenly Father deals mercifully with us. May we prove worthy of His love. Mrs. J. J. Senner, Corr.

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, MADRID, NEB.

November 14, 1940

Dear Editor and Readers:

Just now we are in the grip of the first cold spell of this winter. The change was very sudden from a warm summer day on Saturday to a real snow storm with near zero temperature on Sunday morning. Today it turned warmer. The thermometer rose as high as 31 degrees above.

On November 3 we had our Harvest Thanks and Mission Festival. Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Linscheid were with us for the day. We had services in the forenoon, afternoon, and evening. Linscheids stayed two more days and served us Wednesday and Tuesday nights. We had blessed times, and have received a better picture of our Indian Missions than we had before. We are thankful to the General Conference Mission Board and to Rev. and Mrs. Linscheid for cooperating with us and serving us so kindly and faithfully. Judging from the offerings the mission spirit is growing in our group.

The grain harvest was very good this year. The corn crop is fair in places. Some fields yielding as high as 30 bushels. In other places where the hail hit or the corn was burnt in t dry spell, the yield hit or the corn was burned in the dry spell, the yield vested. With the exceptions of some colds health conditions are good. The work in the church is going on in all branches. Sunday school services and Endeavor programs are held regularly. Special efforts to be made in the future will be decided upon at the yearly meeting which is to be held in the near future.

With kind greetings to all, —J. T. Sawatsky

WEST SIDE MISSION, WICHITA, KANSAS,

11-14-40

Perhaps you readers of The Mennonite would like to hear something about our Mission in the Southwest part of Wichita, Kansas. We have organized a sewing circle there. It meets every Wednesday afternoon and we make comforts for them. The materials for the tops are donated. It is old clothing which cannot be mended, that we use. The cotton and outing we buy. Each person is charged 30 cents for a comfort and donates 30 hours of time, if possible, to help make the comfort. We also make and give comforts to those that cannot pay their 30 cents. And we help those that have their material for a comfort knot them at our Mission.

Wednesday, Nov. 7, Mrs. E. D. Schmidt and myself who are in charge of the work there, gave out eleven comforts, and what a happy occasion it was! Wednesday the 13th two more were made and given to needy families. We also had some visitors from Garden Church. They brought some comforts and some rags for our rug class. Some very nice rag rugs are woven here by the members of the class. I enjoy very much to work with them, as they try so hard to learn and be of use to others. One lady of our sewing circle made a child's coat from a large coat we gave her; it looked very nice.

SARON MENN. CHURCH, ORIENTA, OKLA.

November 9, 1940

Since my last writing sadness came to our midst. H. C. Schroeder, age 72, died very suddenly on July 23, suffering a heart attack while doing a bit of work in the field after supper. Rev. P. E. Frantz, Geary, Okla., nephew of the deceased, was guest speaker at the funeral services.

On August 18, three young people were received and baptized and added to the fellowship. Rev. G. A. Lincheid was the elder called for these services who also conducted communion services on the same day. Later another sister joined here by the right hand of fellowship.

We are happy to meet our new missionaries, Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Friesen, Canton, Okla. We had asked them to come and fellowship with us on a Sunday night. It was interesting to us to learn that Rev. Friesen is a cousin to our local pastor, Rev. August Schmidt. —For two weeks during October we had most blessed meetings with Rev. John Barkman of the O. B. A. Meno, Okla., who ministered to us. He gave a thirty minute teaching in I Cor. 13, which was followed by another evangelistic message.

Bro. Adam Ratzlaff seems to be improving slowly. He can again join us in church services. Another of the older brethren, Carl Mittelstett, has undergone a serious operation and is in a hospital in Enid, Okla.

—Rev. P. P. Wedel, ex-president of the General Conference and chairman of the Foreign Mission Board for several years, has been quite ill for some weeks. He writes, "My recovery is slow, but I am gaining strength. As yet I can do no work, but hope to be active again in a few weeks." Many will have read "A Word of Thanks" in the "Mission Number," where he expresses his appreciation for being remembered in prayer and with greetings and wishes for his recovery.

—Mr. Edwin C. Graber of Freeman, S. D., a poet of considerable note whose fine poem "Christ and War" appeared in The Mennonite of Nov. 12, wrote "I still come under the draft, and plan to file as a conscientious objector. The very thought of war and war preparation is loathsome to me. I wonder where the twentieth century has left its civilization, about which it boasted so blatantly but yesterday! To me these times look more like a chapter brought up from medieval times than anything else. The present crisis has impelled me to explain my inward revolt in several new poems. I send out these heart-prison breaking verses all over the country, and I am surprised at the warm reception they receive among sensitive souls. I truly believe that we have more comrades in our hatred of war than the politicians of Washington would dare to admit."

—Bro. J. J. Balzer, Veteran Minister at Mt. Lake, Minn. writes among other things: "Was permitted to celebrate my 80th birthday, on Oct. 14, with 72 guests, and a dozen could not come. Am in fairly good health but am nursing a lame back which I contracted in lifting a heavy commode. This makes walking rather difficult. But I thank God for my condition as it is. My memory remains unimpaired.—October was ideal with temperatures of 60-85 degrees in the shade. But the other day we had a snow-storm that beggars all description. There has been nothing like it in 63 years. The velocity of the gale was 56-70 miles per hour."

—Bluffton College.—Mr. Wm. H. Mohr of Bethlehem, Pa., member of the Board of Trustees and enthusiastic supporter of the school, has given $1000, to be used for chapel seating or some other college improvement.—During Thanksgiving vacation the quartet of the Men's Gospel Team will make a trip to Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, appearing before churches as follows: Goodland, Ind., Nov. 20, Meadows, Ind., Nov. 21; Wayland, Iowa, Nov. 22; Butterfield and Mt. Lake, Minn., Nov. 23 and 24; Sterling, Ill., Nov. 25; Chicago, Nov. 25.—The Bible Lectures given by Dr. R. A. Montgomery, Nov. 10 to 15, were well attended. Dr. Montgomery is thoroughly Biblical in his presentation and speaks with conviction on the problems facing the Christian today. A goodly number of the pastors of the Eastern, Middle and Central conferences attended the Ministers' Conference, Nov. 13 and 14.

—Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, Reedley, California, in their Church Bulletin: "Someone has said that 'growing pains are blessings.' Perhaps no one aught to realize that more fully than a Christian Church. The growing pains of a Christian Church are found in the realm of the Spiritual more than the physical. No church can grow spiritually as it should if it emphasizes the calendar and the statistical tables more than it does the development of Christian character."

—Bethel College.—Members of the S.C.M. (Student Christian Movement) recently gave the one-act temperance play, "Why Should I?" This play won fifth plcae in a temperance play contest.—The Annual Corporation Meeting will be held as usual the Friday after old fashioned Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 29, beginning at 9:30 A. M.—For the Winter Quarter which begins Nov. 20 the following new courses are being offered: Introduction to Bible, Philosophy of Education, Mennonite History Seminar, Psalms and Wisdom Literature, Interpretative Reading, Household Physics, Architectural Drawing, Elementary Analysis, and Theory and Practice of Basketball.

—From the Bulletin of the First Church, Bluffton, O., Rev. H. T. Unruh, pastor, we glean the following: "Allegiance to the King of kings is the best patriotism.—The narrow way is wide enough to the person who is not given to wobbling.—The trouble with this fast age is that it is more concerned about speed than about direction.—The church stands for the best things—line up. Going to church may be a habit, but it's a good habit. Staying away from church may be a habit, too, but it's a bad habit.—Keep your Sunday for the great things of the soul."

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—"Today, Nov. 5, is YOUTH DAY in our Jubilee Celebration. We wish to assure our young people that we are with them in all their problems, and that we as a church, are with them in the furtherance of the Kingdom of God. Next Sunday will be CONFERENCE DAY, and Rev. Olin Krehbiel, president of our District Conference, will preach the sermon.—252 attended the anniversary dinner, Oct. 26. About 400 people attended our Home Coming service last Sunday."

—J. J. Plenert

—Dr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Harms, M. D., members of the Bethel College Church, have moved with their family to Blackwell, Okla. While in Newton, Kans. Dr. Harms was associated with Dr. J. H. Enns. He now announces his association with "Osler Clinic" at Blackwell—Practice limited to Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat. We shall miss this family.

—The States to the North of Kansas experienced perhaps the worst blizzard ever, on Monday, Nov. 11. It was especially fierce and destructive in Minnesota as some of our brethren report. There was much destruction in buildings, but the loss most keenly felt was in live stock. From Mt. Lake one brother reports: "H. J. Pankratz lost 2000 sheep, his father 32 head of cattle, G. Rohn 1000 turkeys, a Mr. Voss 100 cattle." Rev. A. A. Penner reports: "Some lost as many as 300 head of cattle, others smaller numbers. My son-in-law lost 2500 turkeys."—Yes, nature yields her increase, but it often destroys it. Bro. Penner is right in saying: "But what is more important is, that we do not lose our soul which has a bigger value." Those who have lost so heavily have our sympathy.

TO THE WOMEN'S MISSION SOCIETIES OF THE MIDDLE DISTRICT CONFERENCE

Societies having contributions to send to the work of the organization, such as the 5-cent per-member assessment for missionary literature and other needs that may arise, are asked to send them to Mrs. Howard Gilliom, Berne, Ind., Secretary, Woman's Work.

—Mrs. Gilliom

—Mennonite Church, Summerfield, Ill.—On Oct. 23 Carl J. Landes who is with the Fellowship of Reconciliation brought us a very timely message on some of the questions a pacifist is facing today. He emphasized the fact that we dare not deny our Lord, no matter what the consequences may be.

The next morning he spoke at McKendree College, at Lebanon on, "College Student's Must Choose," and in the evening before a Union Service at Trenton, on the great need of relief in the war-stricken countries of Europe.—Rev. Sylvan Lehman from Pennsylvania who is visiting the Middle District churches in the interest of Home Missions has also been with us and pointed out the needs and the results of our work in those fields. On Armistice Day, our group joined in a Union Service at Trenton. Bishop Broomfield of the M. E. Church of Missouri brought the message on peace.

—Mennonite Church, Wayland, Iowa.—Oct. 13, Rev. Henry Ramseyer of Duluth, Minn., brought the evening message, while Rev. Penner assisted with the Harvest Festival at Donnellson. On Nov. 6 the Eicher mission society entertained the Dorcas group, including a playlet on stewardship. Recently we had the privilege of the use of a lantern at the Dorcas meeting, children's S. S. session and the C. E. program. Mrs. Penner very ably described the missionaries and their work as she showed mission pictures.—Nov. 10th Rev. Sylvan Lehman brought the message concerning our Home Missions.

—Mrs. C. K. S., Corr.

—What Attention Ministers May give Registrants: As pastors of other churches, Rev. Lester Hostetter of Upland, California, is giving his attention to the men who have registered. He calls for their address, call number, classification, indication of choice of service, and says, "Any who desire counsel as to the Selective Training and Service Act as it applies to Conscientious Objectors should feel free to call on the pastor for such assistance. The law in no way abridges the right of our churches or ministers to testify to our non-resistant faith or to help our young men to understand and fill out the questionnaire."

NEVER GIVE UP

Jeremiah wanted to quit; Elijah ran away; Asaph said, "my feet had well nigh slipped." Perhaps you, too, have been almost ready to give up your God-commanded task. The Galatians ran well for a season; who did hinder them? Paul urged them not to give up, "for," said he, "in due season we shall reap if we faint not."—Our Lord never gave up. Oppressed and afflicted He opened not His mouth. He ever pressed on.

A Real Bible School for Our Conference?

Apropos a jotting in THE MENNONITE a few weeks ago, expressing regret that many of our young people go to Bible Institutes instead of taking the splendid Bible courses and kindred subjects offered in our own colleges by thoroughly consecrated teachers, the editor has had some interesting reactions. One of our ministers writes: "May it not be time that we Mennonites look into the Why of this condition? Our young people would rather go to our own schools, but why do they not? I know of a large Bible Institute with over 500 students where Mennonites rank second in enrollment. Why? Let us find out the reason." Another brother, a young minister, says: "Might it be fair sometime to run an article, stating why the young people attend there (Bible Institute) instead of attending our own college. I am quite confident that they would attend if they were offered a similar course of study and an evangelist environment." Thus we are honestly told that the young people go elsewhere for Bible training because we do not give them what they want. But here is a brother who complained to us that young people from Bible schools have brought a troublesome influence to his church by spreading strange ideas and causing disruption. From another source we learn that students with a Bible school background, in discussing the Christian's attitude toward war, decided that we must obey the government until there is conflict with God's Word (which is very true), but that they could not find scriptural support for Peace, for Christ said that there would always be war. By staying with our own schools our young people would be spared such erroneous conceptions which are positively opposed to our Mennonite dostrine and Christ's teaching.

This brings us squarely to the issue: If the Bible institutes have some things that are desirable which our schools do not feature, and some things that do not agree with our views, would it then not be well to establish our own full-fledged Bible school? Another brother who has had a great deal of contact with our churches and has made many valuable observations writes in a letter: "Unless we as a Mennonite denomination wake up and put up a real good and big and well-financed Bible school, very soon we can be sure that our churches will continue to disintegrate at an increasing pace. It is true that denominationalism does not make for salvation, but we human beings need denominational loyalty as well as family loyalty." In resolution 58 of the last conference session the Board of Education together with the Executive Committee are "authorized to work toward the organization and the opening of a Bible school and Seminary. . . . in the light of continued careful study of Evangelical Bible school and Seminary needs of our people, and that in the meantime our colleges be encouraged to do what they can to meet our needs along that line." Notice that the Bible School is mentioned first. Might it not be that it would be easier to get a united Mennonite church to establish a Bible school, as a starter, than a Seminary. And once we had the School the Seminary would follow in natural order. A united Mennonite youth would bring a good-sized Bible school. Besides it would seem best to establish it in a larger city, wrere certain necessary conditions are found.

What are some of these conditions and the advantages offered by a Bible school? Only persons who are converted are accepted. This being true, a deep desire to bring others, yes, the whole world to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ is injected into the students. "Go . . . and make disciples of all nations," is the absorbing thought and driving motive. Through street meetings, visits to houses of detention and many other opportunities, contacts with lost souls are made, and great good for Christ's cause results. To win sinners for Christ, a rather thorough knowledge of the Bible is necessary. Young minds acquire that readily and are greatly benefitted. Then there is something of the adventurous, of the heroic, something vitally challenging about this life and work, which is fascinating to young people. But in their zeal for the salvation of souls—a large number of them—the idea of the organized church is slighted and there lies a danger. Saved souls must be brought into a fold where the inner life is nurtured and built up. Thus the need of the church, which is overlooked. Paul went about preaching salvation everywhere, but he also made provisions that the saved souls were gathered into churches. Thus, if there is this and that weakness in Bible school training, let's have our own Bible school, and save our young people for the church. —T

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

We have word now that THE MENNONITE HYMNARY will begin to come out December 12th if nothing unforseen happens. The books will be distributed mostly from our main office, MENNONITE BOOK CONCERN, BERNE, INDIANA. Arrangements are also being made that churches near enough to Newton, Kansas, can get their quota at the MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS. Reply cards will soon be sent to churches upon which they can make a request for a free sample copy of the book. Watch the church papers for further information.

Volunteers Wanted for Relief Workers in Europe

The Emergency Relief Board of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America is in need of volunteers to do Relief Work in Europe, and also to give Spiritual help and comfort to those in distress.

Necessary qualifications for the applicant: good health, a consecrated Christian, true to the scriptural Mennonite principles, and true to the teaching of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Give also name of church and pastor. Any one who is willing should present this in writing to one of the members of the executive Committee of the Board:

Rev. John Lichti, Chm., Deer Creek, Okla.
Mr. John C. Mueller, Sec., Freeman, South Dakota
Rev. P. H. Unruh, Treas., Goessel, Kansas.

A Plea For Help

Rosthern, Sask.
Nov. 18, 1940

Again the cold Saskatchewan winter has set in and again we are forced to plead for help on behalf of our poverty-stricken people. It is not only the crop failures in parts of Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta, but also to a great extent the war and everything that results from the war. Our people in Canada have become poor through the prevailing conditions, and suffering through the winter will in many cases be very intense.

The war regulations of the Government increase the difficulties of the people. People even if they have a fair crop are not permitted to sell more than 8 bushes per acre and this money is needed to pay the expenses of harvesting and threshing. In very many cases there is nothing left to buy clothing.

I would not wonder at all if many brethren in the United States would have grown weary again and again. I must say that I have grown weary asking for help, but it is very hard to turn away people whom everybody can see that they are in need. And so I hope you will pardon me for again asking our brethren to come to our aid.

Thanking all our kind brethren for everything that the good Lord will put into your hearts to do, I am,

Yours sincerely,
David Toews

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. NEUENSCHWANDER, Secretary

57 Kate St., Winnipeg, Oct. 18, 1940

Dear Mission Workers in the Home Mission Fields of our Conference: Greetings to you all from the "Schoenwiese Mennonite Church" in and around Winnipeg, Manitoba.

A few remarks from us may be of interest to you. Our Church has a membership of about 630 and with children a congregation of about 1200. We are scattered over a wide area covering a large part of the province of Manitoba. About one-half of our members live in and around Winnipeg. The rest are farmers, living in groups of various sizes in different parts of the province, some as far as 200 miles away from Winnipeg. Most of the larger groups have their own church or school as a place of worship, and their own elected preachers. Others meet on Sundays in a private home for a sermon read by one of the lay members. There are, however, several Sundays in a month when they are regularly visited by a preacher of one of the larger groups. This is a red Sunday in their calendar. These visits are arranged according to a definite schedule and all preachers of our church are participating in this service. The heaviest burden naturally rests upon the shoulders of our beloved elder, J. H. Enns, whom everybody would like to hear much more often.

Thus, by virtue of its city and country membership, our church has its twofold problems. While the problem of country service is being solved by means of the "Visiting Preacher," the problems of a city mission requires more work than can be accomplished by the people now actively engaged in the field. Much has to be done. In order to be sure to reach every member of the congregation, a monthly circular is being sent out. With the help of the General Conference Home Mission Board a "Girls Home" has been established, a home for those girls, who, in order to help to support their families on the farm, are forced to look for employment in the city. There are also subsidies for two of our preachers.

We have a "Bible School" which was started several years ago and which is now offering a 4-year course. Its attendance is still small, because most of our members cannot afford to pay board and room for their children away from home and often cannot even spare the help of their children at home. A "Young Man's Home" and a small fund available for subsidies for poor Bible students would be of great value and help to produce spiritual leaders for our community. More intensive work among our young people in the city is also urgently needed. This is a full time job which cannot be done properly after working hours. This problem still awaits a solution. May God be with you all !

Yours, E. Hausknecht-Lange

HOMEWARD BOUND

After completing the second portion of our voyage from San Francisco to Honolulu, 2,352, our ship, President Taft, was moored at pier No. 8 in Honolulu on the evening of Oct. 24th. Honolulu lies in the Torrid Zone. It has just about the same latitude as our mission stations Janjgir and Champa in India. However, the climate is very different, in Honolulu the extreme records in temperature show 56 to 88, whereas in our India mission field it is 51 to 120 Fahrenheit.

Hawaii, also called the Sandwich Islands, because Captain James Cook, the Earl of Sandwich then the first Lord of the British Admiralty, discovered these islands in 1778. After the Captain's visit, King Kamehamelia I conquered one of the islands Oahu, in 1795, when some 10,000 people were hurled down the Nuuanu Pali, only six miles away from the present Honolulu, over the nearly 2,00 foot high precipice. This very spot has been hemmed in by the present government with a wall to avoid the numerous suicides. Just very recently a U. S. army officer hurled himself to death. The king Kamehamelia I through his shrewd activities and astute statesmanship rose to be the "Napoleon of the Pacific." It was he who ultimately united the islands to a great kingdom.

The rebellion of 1893 overthrew the last monarch, Queen Liliuokloni and set up an independent republic. In 1898, the people on their own accord asked the U. S. to annex this group of islands which two years later became a territory. Since then Hawaii has its integral part in the U. S. government. The governor is appointed by the president of the U. S. from among the citizens of the islands. On Nov. 5th the public has an issue to vote on, viz., to become a state. Citizens of the U. S. visiting the islands do not have to hold a pasport to permit them to step on land there.

The Hawaiin group has scores of small islands, however, eight of them stand out, covering 6,435 sq. miles. Hawaii Island is the largest, 4,030 sq. miles. It has the greatest single mass mountains in the world, as well as being the highest. Mauna Kea commands a height of 32,000 feet, 14, 000 feet up from the tropical surf line, 18,000 feet to the darkness of the ocean's bottom. Mt. Everest in Asia has the highest peak of 29,002 feet above sea level. This group of islands forms a diagonal across the Pacific, from tiny Kure island on the northwest to Hawaii in the southeast, some 1,500 miles in length. There are some 400,000 people residing on them, more than one-third live in the city of Honolulu. They speak many different tongues, many races mingle in the course of time.

Two National Parks are open: one on the largest island Hawaii with the Kilanea and Mohuawoweo craters. The islands are of volcanic formation. The other park is found on the island Maui, 728 sq. miles, called Haleakala. This is actually a volcano crater 10,000 feet high, with a circumfrence of 21 miles. From the western approach the visitor can go on horse-back down to the floor of the pit and explore volcanic formations at the bottomless pit, bubble caves, cinder cone hills, see specimens of the rare silversword plant.

Honolulu, situated on the southern shore of the island Oahu, 604 sq. miles, has more than 100,000 inhabitants. It is the transportation and commercial center of the entire Hawaiin group. It offers the visitor numerous sight-seeing trips in and around its environs. There still exists an old custom (superstition) when the ship slips into the harbor, to throw a lei upon the water. If it floats back to shore, it constitutes a symbol that the one who threw it will return to the romantic islands once more. Are we smiling at such an omen? What about it, if a black cat crosses a person's path, does this rumor forcast undesirable experiences?

At Honolulu is the Hawaiin Pineapple company plant, the largest fruit establishment and cannery of the world known at present. The company was incorporated in 1901 with a capital of $20,000. Now they employ, in the peak-season, 14,000 persons. The farmed pineapple area stretches over 25,000 acres. In a day during the season 4,850 tons of this fruit were delivered to the cannery. The cannery itself covers 42 acres ground, the floor itself represents 33 acres. The warehouse furnishes room for 6,000,000 cases with 24 cans each. The maximum output in a single day amounted to 4,335,726 cans. It has been mentioned that in two and one half minutes a freight car of ten tons can be filled. Everything of the pineapple is turned into some useful channel. The guide intimated that "absolutely nothing goes to waste" here. That which cannot be utilized for human beings, has something to serve among beasts. Such economy in every phase would certainly help to feed the nearby 50,000,000 of India's population retiring each night hungry.

The first missionaries arrived from Boston after a 224-day voyage around Cape Horn at Honolulu in 1820. Those coming subsequently likewise spent almost 200 days coming. These missionaries brought permanence to the civilization. They, as is the case in all mission lands, introduced printing, schools, churches, improved homes and diversified crops. The Hawaiin soon led all Polynesia in culture advances. These people were quick to embrace Christianity and became ardent church-goers. These Christians melted the different factions together, brought the wonderful unity about which is still perceptibly felt. The original missionary homes still stand intact with so-to-say all furniture, etc., pointing out how the daily routine of life slipped along. The missionaries had to put up with indescribible difficulties and privations of which the present generation has no conception. How primitive everything appears, but the inscriptions testify for their happiness and ardor for the Master. An ordinary writing stand bears evidence that more than a thousand letters found completion thereon, likewise this great number of sermons passing from the pens of the writers. This typewriter and multigraph age almost wants to upset the corroboration of such tasks with pen and ink. In one of the rooms stands a rocker wherein one of the pioneer missionaries sat to her end in 1937 at the age of 105 years. Missionary life nowadays very rarely has to combat with similar adventures. If so, would we show the zeal of those bearers of the cross to a lost manhood? Questionable?

Before noon Oct. 25th the Honolulu band, consisting of natives, played numerous inspiring airs, two ladies stepped out, letting their voices ring out the farewell and the plea to return again. It was marvelous what they rendered. One feels like spending the closing days of life here in this "Paradise of the Pacific." At 12 noon the mooring was loosened. Off into the sea in a northwesterly direction toward Yokohama, Japan, we steered over the briny deep for another goal 3,818 miles away. There we are due on Nov. 4th, the day before our nation shall decide who shall be our next president. Each 24 hours the time pieces are retarded 30 minutes, suddenly we noticed when crossing the 180th meridian that Tuesday, Oct. 29th, dropped out.

The missionaries on board have organized under a committee. Each morning both sexes separately hold their specific prayer meetings in cabins, devoting the time specially to intercession. During the week meetings are held to discuss situations in the various mission lands, like China, Persia, Syria, India. On Sunday at 11 o'clock an interdenominational service is observed. The Catholic portion of passengers seemingly have little to share in these events. The crew and other passengers partake of these services. The Russian ambassador from San Francisco travels to Moscow with his wife and child. This is a congenial family, honoring with their presence the meetings, and is interested in mingling with the passengers readily. May they carry the Gospel in their hearts to atheistic Russia, bearing seed to show How the One in the Gospels stands ready to serve all who call on Him. May this influence from others help them see the light.

Your happy travellers in Him and for His cause,
P. W. & Mathilde Penner

NOTICE

Next week, December 10, we will bring the PROGRAM FOR THE "WEEK OF PRAYER." We would prefer to bring it now, but we are obliged to run some left-over material first.

A WORD FROM NEW MISSIONARIES IN CHINA

Oct. 16, 1940, Peking, China

Dear Brother Richert:

We thought that the Mission Board would like to hear from us in regard to our trip, and so forth. We had a very fine trip. It was nice sailing most of the way and we were seasick only part of one day. We just praise the Lord for His protection across the deep sea, and we were ever conscious that underneath were His Everlasting Arms. We arrived here at Peiping on October 2, as you have probably heard.

The Language College is located in beautiful surroundings. They tell us that it isn't really like the rest of China. We hope that we won't be spoiled here. The teachers here are very good in helping anyone acquire the language. In the class room they speak nothing but Chinese to us. I believe it is the best way to learn a language.

We praise the Lord that He and you and the many mission friends have made it possible for us to come. It is our heart's deepest desire to glorify our blessed Lord and Savior.

Yours in His service, Lester & Agnes Wuethrich

—From Bulletin, Second Church, Beatrice, Nebr., Rev. R. Weinbrenner, pastor: THE MENNONITE brings many interesting and important facts of our District and General Conference work. This week's issue is devoted to missions and gives much material that is new and hard to get otherwise. Read The Mennonite and be enriched spiritually.

Jesus Declares His Mission

By the Rev. E. E. Eells

Jesus was a young man who had decided on His life work and started His career with great success before He made a visit to the town where He was brought up. Nazareth knew Him as the son of the carpenter Joseph, and now Jesus was ready to announce that He was the Messiah, the Son of God, the Savior of the world.

On the Sabbath day journey from His humble home to the synagogue He passed the familiar houses on the old familiar streets. He looked over the old landscape and saw in the distance the peak of Hermon on the horizon. Toward the east was beautiful Lake Galilee with its fishermen, their nets, and their boats. These places familiar to His boyhood would have bounded the life of the carpenter's son. To Jesus they became pictures for His parables. His life He knew had no limiting horizons.

In the synagogue He was invited to read the second lesson. Someone had already read the first lesson from the Law. Now the synagogue elders honored this young man from Nazareth who had been preaching with success in other places by asking Him to read from the Prophets. He chose a passage from Isaiah which Jews scattered all over the world regarded as the promise of a National Deliverer, the Messiah. They loved that prophecy, and when Jesus sat down to preach upon it, they expected Him to enlarge on their racial and national future.

His first sentence was a declaration of the Christian Gospel, the greatest announcement the world has ever heard. "The 'Good Tidings' of the Prophets," said Jesus, "are fulflled today in me. The Spirit of the Lord is upon me. I am the Anointed and my mission is to preach good tidings to the poor, release to the captives, sight to the blind, liberty to the bruised, and to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord."

By the way they fixed their eyes on Him He knew they were astounded at His declaration. He knew they were thinking, "Is not this the carpenter's son?" His answer to their thoughts shows how absolutely sure Jesus was that His claim was true, and that He was indeed the Messiah, the Anointed, the Son of God. In reply to their expectation that He would give them a miraculous sign He asserted that God had chosen Him as directly as He chose the widow of Zarephath or Naaman the leper, both of them Gentiles. In this way Jesus rebuked their feeling of racial superiority.

Maddened by Christ's claim and blinded by race hatred a mob carried Him by force out of the city to a precipice intending to hurl Him to death. It is an evidence of His bravery and courage, the power of His masterful spirit, and the superior manhood of His physical presence, that Jesus could face that mob and walk unmolested through them and escape.

He never returned to Nazareth. What He declared in Nazareth is now the gospel of the Christian Church. What they would not believe today is the hope of all races. Our Savior is the One they rejected. —East Hampton, N. Y., The Presbyterian

THE GRUBB LIBRARY

In 1938 Bluffton College received as a gift, the library of the late Silas M. Grubb, for many years pastor of the First Mennonite Church in Philadelphia. Rev. Grubb will also be remembered as editor of The Mennonite for many years. While editor, he gave a good deal of space in the paper to Mennonite History in which he was deeply interested.

The collection of books given to the College also includes those of Rev. Grubb's father, Rev. N. B. Grubb. Many years were spent in the collection of this material, which is especially voluminous on the history of the Eastern Conference. There are quite a number of geneologies of Pennsylvanian families included.

Among the interesting items in the collection are: several unpublished manuscripts of the Rev. J. H. Oberholzer, one of the founders of the General Conference; a 1743 edition of the Sauer Bible; and Ephrata edition, 1748, of the Martyr's Mirror; one of the Dutch source books for the Martyr's Mirror, namely, "Het Offer Des Herrn" by Hans de Rees, printed in Holland in 1617.

Attractive book plates have been placed in all the material, which at present is being catalogued. A special room has been given to this collection in the Musselman Library. The Bluffton College Library is anxious to add other historical materials as such become available from time to time. A fire proof vault is used for storing valuable books and manuscripts.

OUR HISTORICAL LIBRARY

Recently our Historical Library added some valuable material to its collection. One of the rarest publications of the Mennonites in this country is the Martyr's Mirror. Eleven different editions of this marvelous book are in existence. The library now has ten of them. Come and see them. The only one missing is the first English edition of 1837. Who can help us get one?

A number of friends have contributed old issues of periodicals, almanacs, pictures, and books. The Historical Committee appreciates such gifts greatly, but there is yet much valuable material hidden in book cases and attics which has become a burden in the household and is in danger of being destroyed some day. We urge all friends to send such material to the Historical Library, North Newton, Kansas, or write us about it.

For the Historical Committee, A. Warwentin, Sec.

SERMON SKETCH

"THE CHRISTIAN'S CALL TO A PRAYER LIFE"

Col. 4:2-6

by M. M. Lehmann, Monroe, Washington

The words of the text, aside from several personal greetings, are the final words of the most remarkable epistle. One readily perceives that Christ, the head of the church, is to have the preeminent place in all things in the believer. For in Him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily and the believer is complete in him. There are, however, some very explicit admonitions given to the one in Christ, if the words of the text are to be fully realized.

In the third chapter of this letter, Paul suggests to the Colossians two definite steps to attain unto a fruitful, powerful prayer life. The first step is, to put to death the members which are upon the earth, such as fornication, uncleanness, lustfulness, covetousness, etc. Or, in other words, the whole catalog of sins pertaining to the flesh must be put to death. When that is accomplished, something needs to be put in their place, or else the believer remains unclothed. Therefore, as elect of God, put on Christ, for He is the complete fulfillment of no less than nine different graces mentioned in this third chapter. Having then been clothed over, the believer is now equipped to fulfill these specific exhortations as given in the text. Continue in prayer. Paul realized such a need in his day. Surely the need is no less today, yes even greater.

In a conversation with an acquaintance recently he made the statement, that there are too many who profess to be what they are not, as a reason for not being a Christian. That he could not see the difference between himself and those who make a profession. We are forced to the implication that such assertions are only too true. Since the unbeliever gives such and other excuses, it behooves the Christian in all sincerity to continue steadfastly in prayer that he may give no offence.

Unfortunately many so-called Christians are lifeless, because they are unwilling to live this kind of a prayer life, which requires absolute separation from the desires of the flesh and the world. One utterly fails to see how dance-hall frequenting, card playing, cinema loving, tobacco using, beer drinking, powder and paint wearing Christians can attend to prayer and fellowship with God.

Again, there is a great need to be constantly in an attitude of prayer, because there are all kinds of opportunities for giving counsel to such who need Christ. A few days ago a seventy-four year old man came to the writer, saying, "I am beyond redemption, there is no hope for me, I'm the black sheep of the family." True, the poor fellow appeared hopeless, for he was very drunk. It was suggested to him that his case was not hopeless, for Christ had indeed died for such as he. Called upon a few days later, he was sober and seemed desirous of becoming a Christian, but he was afraid of backsliding. We will continue to pray for and labor with him, to lead him to the One who came to save to the uppermost.

This prayer life is to be continued with wakeful thanksgiving. That implies the joyfulness in praying, and the one who thus prays needs to be thoroughly awake. Every believer is therefoe urged to pray for himself, first, and, secondly, for those who have the responsibility of preaching the Gospel that God would open a door of utterance to speak the mystery of Christ that it may be made known how they ought to speak.

This kind of prayer life enables the believer to walk in wisdom toward them that are without, making use of every opportunity to lead them to the Lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world.

The final exhortation deals with our daily conversations. In these hectic days the Christian needs to doubly guard his speech that it may always be with grace and seasoned with salt, that it may be palatable.

May we, therefore, as laymen and ministers wait much upon God in prayer for fresh annointings that we may prove to be the kind of Christians our preeminent Lord desires us to be.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A. S. BECHTEL

December 8, 1940

A GOOD NEIGHBOR

Luke 10:25-37. Read Chap. 10

Introduction

Jesus teaches us that our life is not to be chiefly an unrestrained effort to get all possible for self, but the rather a constant effort to do all the good possible to, for, and with others. We are to watch for opportunities to show good neighborliness. Jesus' words of the parable of our lesson are among the most influential ever spoken. The story appeals strongly to the hearts of people wherever it is made known. It teaches compassion for the needy in the name of humanity. We are to help our fellowmen because they are our fellowmen, God's creatures. Charity was but little known in Jesus' day and there was much cruelty and indifference to human suffering.

The Lawyer's Questions vs 25-29

Lawyers were the interpreters and teachers of the Mosaic law. The lawyer (v25) was probably more eager to test Jesus' skill in answering questions than he was to gain information. He possibly hoped that Jesus would say something unorthodox. He believed that eternal life was to be obtained by DOING. He evidently did not have any real sense of his need of eternal life. Jesus referred him to the law which he knew thoroughly and quoted correctly (Deut. 6:5, Lev. 19:18). He had read it rightly, but failed to apply it in his life. God has given us his Word which reveals his will to us.

Jesus answers the lawyer's question by showing that love for God includes love for fellowman—the practicing of the Golden Rule. The lawyer knew that he had failed in this and sought to dodge the issue by asking the question (v29), "Who is my neighbor?"

Unneighborly Indifference vs 30-32

Jesus' story carried conviction. The lawyer would rather have argued the matter. A man was lying by the roadside, in desperate need (v30). "By chance" a priest came along, saw him and passed by. A Levite too, came along, looked at him and passed by. The religious leaders, just coming from their sacred temple duties, failed to show compassion to a fellow Jew. Their religion was not vital enough to constrain them to help the needy man in his helplessness. They were not concerned about his welfare. They did not have any neighbor love in their hearts. What do we DO under similar circumstances? We can readily find excuse for showing indifference.

Neighborliness in Action vs 33-37

The Samaritan (v33) held no high office and probably was quite busy. He too saw the man and had real compassion, and helped him all he could, giving him "first aid," and took him to an inn and arranged for his further care. He took pity on a human being in distress because he was a human being. He showed real Christian neighborliness in action. He answered the lawyer's question (v29) and he was convinced (v37). He sees now what it means to love his neighbor and to BE a good neighbor. True neighborliness is not merely doing certain good deeds. It has its source in a quality of the heart, in a spirit of love and mercy. It will shape our thoughts and words, and will rule our attitudes and judgments. Ways of expressing this heart quality in being and acting neighborly, are manifold. Jesus' climax to his parable is noteworthy, "Go and do thou likewise."

What am I doing that makes me a good neighbor? How may we best show the good neighbor spirit to the non-Christians? How can our Churches effectively show the good neighbor spirit to the Churches of other denominations?

Let the Sunday School for children teach Christ first, Christ last, Christ in the middle, Christ all the time. —Tyng

IN MEMORIAM

FATHER ABRAHAM PENNER has transferred his citizenship and has become a citizen of heaven. Father was born February 26, 1849, in Schoenfeld, Bergtal, Russia. There he attended the village school. In his twelfth year his father, Peter Penner, took him to Gnadenfeld to the Central school, where he studied several years under the tutelage of Henry Franz and Johannes and Friedrich Lange. Since the 4th of June, 1868, our mother (Marie Buhler) was to him a faithful helpmate. In the year 1847 they left their beloved home to find a new home in America. The first winter our parents lived in Ontario, Canada, and in the year 1875 they came with their parents and with father's sister, Marie, (Mrs. John Reimer) and his sister and brother-in-law, Jacob Friesen, to Mountain Lake where he soon established a business in which he was active for about twenty-eight years. To our parents nine children were born, three sons and six daughters of which one son and two daughters died in infancy. Of the six surviving children, the oldest, Peter A. and the youngest, Anna, Mrs. F. J. Isaac, are missionaries in India. Justina, Mrs. H. H. Klein, with her family, lives in St. Paul. Abram, Marie (Mrs. J. J. Thiessen) and Helen in Mountain Lake. Also there are twenty-four grandchildren, of whom five have died, and eighteen great grandchildren, of whom one has died. On the 4th of April, 1911, our mother passed away, the cause of her death being pneumonia. He was privileged until his death to live in his own house where he was faithfully cared for by his daughter, Helen. Nevertheless, since mother's death his life has been very lonely. Now since our father in his latter years had no definite work he has done much writing which records are extremely interesting and valuable to his children. He has kept an accurate record of all his decendants, even of those who came into our family through marriage, of births, marriages, illnesses and deaths, and other interesting events, to which he added his own comment. Father died the 7th of November at 2:15 A. M. after an illness of forty-eight hours which his physician pronounced heart failure, at the age of 91 years, 8 months and 9 days.

The funeral service was held at Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minn. November 9, 1940. Bro. P. J. Friesen spoke at the house, and Bros. J. J. Balzer and P. R. Schroeder at the church. The funeral text chosen by the departed, was Genesis 19:22.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"Come unto me and rest;
Lay down, thou weary one, lay down
Thy head upon my breast."

FRENI S. SCHWARTZ NEE STUCKY, daughter of Peter C. and Maria Kaufman Stucky, was born August 6, 1867. She, together with her parents, brothers, and sisters, came to the United States from Russia in 1874 and settled in Kansas, where she attended school. At the age of 15, upon confession of faith, she was baptized by Rev. Jacob Stucky and taken into the membership of the Hoffnungsfeld Congregation. In the year 1893 she was married to Jacob S. Schwartz. In this union she lived 47 years. They resided for a time in Kansas. Later they lived a few years in Oklahoma. Finally, in 1920, they moved to Monroe, Washington, on a little farm where they resided until 7 months ago, when she became helplessly ill. Since they had no children and her own husband was not well, her brother, A. A. Stucky, took her into their home where sher remained until her departure for her heavenly home. In her youth she had memorized many Bible verses and hymns, which became a great blessing to her since her eyesight was very poor. Never an hour went by when she did not recite hymns or Bible verses or prayed. She had a great desire to be absent from the body but present with the Lord until He called her hence, November 2. Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, M. M. Lehmann, Monday, November 4. Texts used were Psalm 23:4 and Phil. 1:23.

She left behind to mourn her departure her husband, two brothers, A. P. Stucky, Pretty Prairie, Kansas; A. A. Stucky of Monroe, and three sisters-in-law, Mrs. A. P. Stucky, Mrs. C. P. Stucky, Reedley, California, and Mrs. A. A. Stucky of Monroe, besides many relatives and friends.

PETER P. NICKEL, son of Peter H. Nickel and Anna Harms, was born east of Newton, Kansas, Sept. 18, 1876. May 25, 1896 he was received into the Gnadenberg Church by baptism. Here he remained a faithful member till his death. On the 13th of Nov., 1902, he was joined in marriage with Susanna Schmidt. To them four children were born, of whom the second, Amalia, died in infancy.—In his teens Peter was in poor health for some time. But after several years he improved, enjoyed good health and became a quite successful farmer.

About three weeks ago he suddenly suffered a severe heart attack. He was taken to the Bethel Hospital. Here he seemed to improve and was to be dismissed Sunday afternoon. But shortly before noon he had another attack and died fater several minutes, Nov. 10, 1940. His age was 64 years, 1 month and 23 days. Surviving him are his wife with whom he lived 38 years, one son, Louis O., two daughters, Leona, Mrs. Ted Unruh, and Lea Rose, three grandchildren, one brother and three sisters.

FRANK G. SHELLY, son of Aaron B. and Sarah (Nee Groff) Shelly, was born in Milford Twp. Bucks Co. Pa., on Feb. 21, 1881. On Oct. 27, 1900, upon his confession of faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, he was baptized and received into the East Swamp Mennonite Church. During the past 40 years he has evinced a constant interest in the work of the church, serving in several capacities, including the church council. On Dec. 21, 1901 he was united in marriage to Anna M. Hallman, who preceeded him in death, March 31, 1934. To this union were born 10 children, five sons and five daughters, three sons having preceeded father and mother in death.

The community was greatly shocked at the sudden death of Mr. Shelly. He died on Friday night, Nov. 15th at 11:30 P. M., death being due to a heart attack. This brought his age to 59 years, 8 months and 24 days. He leaves to mourn, seven children, fifteen grandchildren, three sisters, two brothers and a host of friends.

Funeral services were conducted at the East Swamp church. Interment was made at the East Swamp Cemetery. The pastor, Rev. Harold Burkholder officiating, with the Rev. Howard G. Nyce, a former pastor, assisting.

PETER TSCHANTZ died Monday morning, November 18, 1940, at the age of 75 years and 16 days. He was the son of Peter and Margaret Tschantz who lived in Grove Township near Stiles. As a young man, at the age of about 21, he confessed Christ as his Lord and Savior and was baptized by the Reverend Eicher of Noble, Iowa, who at the time was conducting meetings in the church. On December 17, 1895 he was united in marriage to Marie Ramseyer. They were blessed together in a happy home for nearly 45 years. Two children were born to them, Esther, now Mrs. George R. Kircher of Woodbury, N. J., and Eloise of Kansas University, Lawrence, Kansas. They have a grandson, William Kircher.

His health has been failing rapidly the last year, so that for a number of months he has been bedfast. He was always a great lover of his home and family. He was a very patient sufferer, and appreciative of everything done for him by his family and friends. To the end he kept an unwavering faith and trust in the Lord Jesus Christ Whom he loved, and fell asleep resting in Him. Peter Tschantz leaves one brother, Joe S. Tschantz. Two sisters and one brother have preceeded him in death, namely, Mrs. David Lantz, Mr. Chris Tschantz of Tiskilwa, Ill., and Mrs. Julius Jeahde of Ransom, Kansas. The funeral service was held in the Pulaski Mennonite Church on November 20th, with the Reverends W. W. Miller and W. F. Unruh officiating. The body was buried in the Pulaski cemetery west of town.

LENA BRANDT STREUN was born May 21, 1897 in Marion County, Kansas and reached the age of 43 years, 4 months and 21 days at the time of her death.

She was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Brandt. She moved with her parents to Gotebo, Oklahoma, in 1902. There she was baptised and joined the Ebenezer Church where she was an active member until her death.

Lena Brandt was married to Fred W. Streun, November 23, 1919. She had been in bad health for the past two years. Having become seriously ill she was taken to the Bethel Hospital at Newton, Kansas, on September 14, and on the 28th was operated on and was doing fairly well until Friday, October 11, when she grew worse and died Saturday morning.

The funeral was held at the Ebenezer church east of Gotebo, Tuesday, October 15, with Rev. Henry Hege of Corn officiating, assisted by Reverends Gerhard Friesen and A. W. Froese. Burial was in the Ebenezer cemetery.

She leaves her husband Fred Streun, four brothers and three sisters, J. J. Brandt of Mountain View, A. J. Brandt of Reedley, California, H. J. Brandt, Newton, Kansas, Mrs. P. H. Reimer, Newton, Kansas, Mrs. J. J. Flemming, Hillsboro, Kansas, Mrs. A. H. Goertz, John Brandt of Mountain View, and other relatives and a host of friends.

MARIA STOESZ, DAUGHTER OF PETER AND MARIA FALK, was born May 9, 1878, near Butterfield, Minnesota. Already in tender youth she dedicated her heart and life to the Lord; so on May 30, 1898, she was baptized by Elder Gerhard Neufeld and was received into the First Mennonite Church. On June 4, 1899, she was joined in holy wedlock to Peter Stoesz, who was so suddenly called December 26, 1939. In 1920 the family joined the Bethel Church and remained faithful members of this church till the time of death. In the fall of 1939 rheumatic pains set in. In spite of medical aid her condition became steadily more critical. In July a major operation was resorted to. Three weeks later she was permitted to leave the hospital. Her weak heart and severe pains delayed recovery. Strength began to fail her when a new complication, bronchial pneumonia, set in. Suffering was intense until she was relieved of her pain on Sunday, September 22, at 1:00 P. M. Quietly and peacefully she went to the eternal rest. Death came at the age of 62 years, 4 months, and 13 days.

Besides many relatives and friends there remain to mourn her departure three daughters with their families, Marie—Mrs. N. J. Toews; Anna—Mrs. C. B. Friesen; Kaete—Mrs. D. G. Schroeder; daughter Helen; son Peter, with his family; her foster-daughter, Mrs. Abram Wiens and family; seven grandchildren; and three sisters, Mrs. Jacob Heppner, Mrs. J. P. Eitzen, and Mrs. Peter Pankratz.

Mother's faith in God never faltered. When yet in comparatively good health, she completed all preparations for her departure. She called the children to her bedside and kissed everyone goodbye. Her last admonitions were, "Children, be peaceable and make sure that we shall meet over there." Just before going to the rest out of which she never awoke, mother uttered these lastwords, "Then we shall have finished the fight. Then I will be at home." We mourn, yet we have the blessed hope that our mourning shall be turned into joy, for "God shall wipe away all tears, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain."

MRS. BARBARA GRATZ AUGSBURGER, 73, widow of Dr. John Augsburger, former well known Bluffton veterinarian, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edgar Chamberlain, on Cherry street, at 9:40 a. m. last Friday. Mrs. Augsburger was the daughter of Christian and Catherine (Steiner) Gratz. Her death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. Harvey Moser and Mrs. Sylvanus Welty; a son, William, a brother Peter Gratz, all of Bluffton; a sister, Mrs. D. B. Basinger, of Pandora; 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Augsburger was a member of the First Mennonite Church and the Missionary society of the church.—Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the church, with Rev. H. T. Unruh, pastor, officiating. Burial was in the Ebenezer cemetery, west of town. — Correspondent —"Worker's Exchange" of the Pacific District now appears in a smaller format and beautifully executed by the artistic hand of Mrs. Edmund Miller of Lind, Wash. Of the many interesting items in the November number we select this item pertaining to the Migrant Camp near Shafter, Calif. Chris and Rheba Ummel, the workers there say, "We have now been in the migrant field a month. God has given us much cause for rejoicing. When the migrants recognize in us a friend, they share their joys and heart aches. Then we can tell them of the best friend of all. . . . For the most part they are willing to work, longing to have a home, and good neighbors, with a willingness to help each other. . . . One's first impulse is to clean them up, give them sufficient clothing and nourishing food. But the results would be fruitless, for true reformation can come only by way of regeneration. Christ is the only answer, the Gospel the only solution. . . . God has given us 25 co-workers. We have fifteen regular meetings each week.

THE QUIET HOUR

Pauline A. Lindley

Early in the morning
  Unhurried and alone,
Keep a daily quiet time
  Before Jehovah's throne.
What thou dost need today
  To further thy progress
Is found in that brief hour
  And leaves thee strong, refreshed.
Accept the living Word,
  Let it in thee abide;
When heavy mists confound thee
  'Twill be thy certain guide.
A threefold needed vision
  Is given in that hour:
To see thyself—thy brother's need—
  And glimpse thy Father's power.

Victorious Living

by Amelia Mueller

(Miss Mueller conducted the Quiet Hour at the Western Dist. Retreat this year)

Commit thy way unto the Lord, trust also in Him, and He will bring it to pass. Psalm 37:5

Trouble, loss, and disappointment might well be called common denominators of manhood. They come to all of us in greater or lesser degree. For those of us who feel we are getting more than our share, this thought, though crudely expressed, may be of help: "There's one nice thing about having a lot of disappointments. After a while you get so used to them that you aren't really disappointed any more."

There is a certain amount of truth to that statement. It is only as we meet trouble and disappointments that they lose their power over us. It is only as we meet trouble that we learn to rise above it. It is only when we come to the place where our own resources fail, that we learn to trust completely in God and to discover the unlimited strength from which we may draw.

Think back to the time when you were faced with a loss or disappointment which seemed too great for you. Life seemed utterly useless, the way completely dark. You prayed for help; nothing miraculous happened. But one day you came to the realization that the disappointment, though not forgotten, was not so keen. You could go on. There were other things to live for; life was still good. You were happy again. With God's help you had overcome.

Think back to that time. Does it not give you a feeling of confidence and strength? Do you not feel that no matter how dark the present, how uncertain the future, there is no reason to be afraid.

It is a wonderful feeling to have. And you many have it if you are willing to pay the price of complete faith and trust in God.

THOUGHT NUGGETS

Some time ago I attended a Sunday School convention representing a number of different denominations. From my notes I chose the following thoughts which I would like to pass on to you:

"A bit of he splendor of God rests on each one of us so it is not a question of "Is it right for me to do this thing or is it wrong but will it tend to tarnish the splendor of God in me?"

"Faith is not the anchor but the hoisting of a sail."

"Working side-by-side is not necessarily working together. We need more "togetherness in our churches. We can achieve together. To make a fire—sticks burn together. This is a cold, cold world and need a fire. Jesus said a most wonderful thing about John the Baptist when He said, "He was a burning and a shining light," (burning; then shining).

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Senior C. E. Program for Dec. 22, 1940

Main Topic: CHRISTMAS THEN AND NOW
Luke 2:1-19

I. Worship Service

1. "Hark, the heald angels sing," "O little town of Bethlehem," "Joy to the world, the Lord has come."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Singing of Christmas carols
4. Offering for peace

II. Leader's Introduction

No Bible story is more familiar to us than the story of the birth of the Christ Child in Bethlehem. We love to think of the quiet night, the silent, lustrous stars overhead, the sleeping town, the watching shepherds, the singing angels, and Mary and Joseph for whom "there was no room in the inn."

That was Christmas THEN—is there room for the Christ in our homes and hearts, and our busy lives, NOW? There were a few who found time to welcome him, the shepherds, the wise men, his mother and Joseph, Simeon and Hannah. If we today want to bid him welcome we must have time for him, time to think on His coming and its meaning, time and room for Him in our hearts, give Him of our love and devotion, gifts for Him in serving the "least of these."

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Early prophecies Gen. 49:10; Num. 24:17
2. Other prophecies Isa. 9:1-7; 11:1-5
3. The Coming of the King Matt. 2:1-6
4. The fulness of time Gal. 4:3-5

IV. For Discussion

1. How did the coming of Christ affect the world in the days when Jesus lived here on earth?
2. What differences has his coming made in the world through the centuries since his birth?
3. What difference does his coming into our hearts make in our lives?

V. Facts for Study

Christ came indeed "in the fulness of time." The world at that time was socially, politically, morally and religiously in a peculiar way ready for His coming.

The Roman Empire ruled all the world with an iron hand. There was comparative peace after many years of war, order prevailed, and good roads were built, the Greek language was used everywhere—and so the way was open for the travel of the gospel of love and peace.

The hearts and minds of men were hungry and filled with longing for a Savior. There were millions of slaves and down-trodden people who needed the message of love and redemption Christ came to bring. Many were searching for salvation; they had tried the various heathen gods and cults and had found no peace for their hearts.

There was luxury, and vice, and sin. Many newborn children were killed, especially the girls. The condition of the slaves was often most pitiful. The rich used their wealth for amusements and other ways of self-gratification. The world was morally in need of the coming of a Savior.

The Jewish nation too, now under Roman rule was in need of the coming of the promised Messiah, who was the Light of the World, and who came when their existence as a nation was all but gone. They too needed His coming to put new light and new life into their hearts which looked for a coming Messiah.

The Changed Picture

A picture of a wintry twilight was once made by an artist. The trees were heavily laden with snow, and a dreary, dark house stood lonely and desolate in the midst of the beating storm. It was a sad picture. Then, with a quick stroke of yellow crayon, the artist put a light in one window. The effect was magical. The entire scene was transformed into a vision of comfort and cheer.

The world was dark until the coming of Christ, who is the Light of the world. His presence changed everything. The Wise Men recognized this, and lovingly they paid homage to the infant Christ. They gave costly gifts to the young child; but they did vastly more than that—they "fell down, and worshipped him."

The difference between a bit of black carbon and a luminous lamp, it has been pointed out, is the electricity which passes through the carbon. "This is religion—a divine current making luminous a common life." The current has been furnished by the birth of Jesus into the world.

VII. Food for Thought

The glory of Christmas is love—God's love to men. It is to kindle love in the hearts of men—love to God and love to men.

HOW TO CELEBRATE CHRIST'S BIRTHDAY

Program for December 22, 1940

Poem "Ring, Christmas Bells"

Ring, Christmas bells, this is the morn
The mighty Prince of Peace was born,
And angels, coming to the earth,
In joyous tones announced His birth.

Shine, brightly shine, O star of light,
As thou didst shine that holy night,
When o'er the world the sweet refrain
Was echoed, "Peace, good will to men."

Sing, Christian children, sing with glee;
Sing of the glad nativity,
Until your songs of praise and love
Shall reach the heavenly courts above.

"Bells of Giving"

Jesus said, "Freely ye have received, freely give." At this season of the year we can ring the Christmas bells by freely giving of our substance to help those whose lives are dreary. We have many needy in our community who need food and clothing, and many little hearts will be anxiously beating, wondering if Santa Claus will remember them.

(Sing prayerfully, unaccompanied:)

"Take my lips and let them be Filled with messages from Thee;
Take my silver and my gold,
Not a mite would I withhold."

"Bells of Serving"

Jesus said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

As long as there are people who are not Christians none of us can ever say "There is no work for me to do." Each of us can do some one thing better than any one else. So let us ring the Christmas bells of service and say, "Here am I, O Lord, send me."

"Take our lives and let them be Consecrated, Lord, to Thee;
Take our hands and let them move
At the impulse of the love."

"Bells of Loving"

God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

The greatest Christmas gift which we can give our Master at this season of the year is the gift of self. In giving that, we can give our love. Love is the greatest, most lasting thing in the world.

Let us ring the most beautiful bells of all by giving our hearts and lives to Him.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

"THE GREATEST . . . IS LOVE"

Program for December 22, 1940

Dear Leaders: May the following poem by Grace Noll Crowell serve to suggest our preparation for the Christmas season and our work with the Juniors.

Leisure

I shall attend to my little errands of love
Early this year,
So that the brief days before Christmas may be Unhampered and clear
Of the fever of hurry. The breathless rushing that I
Have known in the past
Shall not possess me. I shall be calm in my soul
And ready at last
For Christmas: "The Mass of Christ." I shall kneel
And call out His name;
I shall take time to watch the beautiful light
Of a candle's flame;
I shall have leisure—I shall go out alone
From my roof and my door;
I shall not miss the silver silence of stars
As I have before;
And, oh, perhaps—If I stand there very still,
And very long—
I shall hear what the clamor of living has kept from me.

The Angel's Song

Since this is the Sunday just preceding the Christmas holidays, it is felt that, instead of following the usual routine, the Juniors should have a "different" program. It should be different from their ordinary weekly program, it should be different from the manifold Christmas programs which they hear at this time. This "Corner" will try to give merely a few suggestions, but not a worked out program. Too often, in the rush and hurry of shopping, preparing and attending Christmas cantatas and programs, we fail to take time to meditate quietly upon the real, deep meaning of the coming of the King. Could we make this a quiet, worshipful period?

Many churches have their church calendar too full of other Christmas activities to have a regular meeting of the Junior C. E. Do not just cancel this meeting from the calendar. A suggestion: Arrange to have a vesper service at about 3:30. Have a short and impressively beautiful worship service with candle light, placing the emphasis upon the theme "God so Loved the World." Be sure that the atmosphere is reverent and worshipful or your purpose is defeated. At the end of this period sing favorite Christmas carols, choose several of these and go out caroling for a short time, if local circumstances permit.

If the meeting of your Junior C. E. is not crowded out by other Christmas activities, plan a candle light service for the regular time. Have the room beautifully decorated in keeping with the Christmas season, using transparencies, a Christmas tree, holly, etc.

A suggestive program:

1. Song "Silent Night, Holy Night"
2. Scripture "The Christmas Story" Luke 2:1-20
3. Prayer
4. Leader's Heart Talk on "God so Loved the World," bringing in the fact that Christ brought light into the world, thus leading up to a short consecration service. (The children may not understand all we mean by consecration, but often we credit them with less understanding than they actually possess.)

A suggested consecration service: (Throughout the service Christmas carols should be played softly.) Have a large lit candle in front and enough small candles for all the children.

Leader's Suggested Approach: It is impossible for the small candles to light themselves, they must come in contact with the source of light before they can shine. So we cannot shine for Christ unless we let Him come into our lives, let Him give us light. As long as the candles do not shine, they do not fulfill the purpose for which they were made. As long as we do not give our hearts to Jesus and live for Him, we fail to do that for which God made us. To show that we want to shine for Him, let us come forward quietly, take a candle, and light it from the big light, while we sing "Jesus Bids Us Shine." (If this song is unfamiliar use a consecration hymn that is familiar.) As long as these candles are not burning the room is dark, but let us see what will happen when we form a circle around the room with our lit candles. (Be sure that all of this is well planned and proceeds in an orderly fashion.)

Just like these small candles have brightened the room which was first dark, so we can brighten the world around us by doing kind deeds, loving others, being happy and cheerful, telling others about Jesus, and acting the way Jesus would have acted. Let us try to learn a lesson from our candles.

5. Short Consecration Prayer
6. "Come Into My Heart" while heads are bowed

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes

November 21, 1940

Ted E. Claassen, London, England, October 22nd letter: "Another project we have been thinking about is the caring for one or two of the homes in which some of the East End children have been put into. These are now run by the Save the Children's Fund at about 250 pounds per year. These are children under five and many will be taken under their adoption scheme of which I mentioned to Brother Bender. Am wondering how such a plan would be accepted by our people?

"Then too, we are planning to get several 'Milk-Bar Cars' or canteens to be used wherever there may be a temporary need, at least until a more permanent work can be set up and in this way render immediate help when and where needed. I want to ask the American Red Cross for one of their cars to be given over to us for that purpose.

"I am still waiting for a report or information about the Basque Spanish children. Miss Edith Pye is preparing one for me and then I will see what help we might render to them. I take it the committee is interested in supporting them at least in part.

"I met with one of the members of the Hutterites two days ago and he told me of their going to Paraguay, S. America. 140 of them are leaving a week from today and that many more next month sometime. They have requested me to come to a farewell service over the week-end. The government is allowing them to take along 10,000 pounds besides the regular 10 pounds per head. Whatever they will have left over after the liquidation of their goods might be handed over to our work here and applied to their debt, should the committee approve of this and providing it is possible to work that way."

Cablegram received from Ted Claassen and John Coffman in London: "Orie O. Miller, Akron, Penna. Recommend appropriations $500 additional monthly beginning November assistance Basque children and own Nursery School Bender cable received proceeding accordingly." Claassen Coffman

Dr. C. B. French, Mentone, Indiana, November 12th card: "I have recently returned from France, and spent several days at the Mennonite canteen at Cerbere. I was very happy to see this work being carried on by your organization, and have nothing but praise and good words for it. I wish this work could be made known to our entire United States, for it is worthy of staunch support. I talked with the workers, and the director, Mr. Barrutia, and saw the children at school and at play. It is a wonderful work. Some of the children expect to be taken to Mexico. I am very much interested in one of the Spanish children, and have offered to give him a home and education. Can you tell me if you have had news from Cerbere and the work lately?"

A PASTORAL MESSAGE from the Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—So we haven't anything to be thankful for this year ! If that is the way we feel, one of two things must be wrong. It may be that God's packages of blessing to us have been intercepted on the way. This can happen when there is sin in our lives. Or on the other hand, it may be that the packages have arrived but we haven't taken time to open and enjoy the spiritual gifts they contain. God continues in His faithfulness to send us abundant blessings but we need to RECEIVE them in faith and to APPRECIATE them in thanksgiving.

—Erland Waltner, Pastor

—Bluffton College.—The College Board met on Friday, Nov. 15, in the Musselman Library. President Ramseyer was able to give an encouraging report of progress towards solving the problems of the College.—The Peace Action Group recently presented the peace play, "Let My People Go," in the First Congregational Church at Gomer, Ohio. It depicts the struggle of Mennonites in Russia to live true to their tenets of peace, and when that seemed no longer possible their efforts to leave the country.—Two Bluffton ministerial students, Robert Sommer and John Elwood are assisting I. W. Bauman in the services at the Federated Church in New Stork, Ohio.

—Freeman College.—Friday, December 13, has been designated as Founder's Day this year. The morning program begins at 10:30 in the College Auditorium, Rev. Erland Waltner will give an addreess. During the noon hour the Home Economics Dept. will serve the customary free lunch to all guests. Following this, the museum, the print shop and exhibits may be viewed. The afternoon program will feature a sound film, "The Living Story of the Bible." The picture shows, Building of the Ark, The Flood, Sodom and Gomorrah, and many other Old Testament events as well as the salient events in the life of Christ. In the evening the Music department under the direction of Prof. G. Toews will present an impressive pageant.

—Mennonite Church, Pulaski, Iowa, Nov. 22.—A number of things keep us busy at this time. During the week we have a Religious Emphasis Week in the high school. Different ministers addressed the students, and their work was followed by personal interviews, to check up on church affiliations and church preferences of all the students. This gives us a line-up whom to invite to accept Christ and come into His Church. Next Sunday there is to be a Community Harvest Festival in our Church. The State Farm Bureau asks the country churches to invite the town and city churches for a harvest festival on the 24th. We have invited as our guests the Methodist folk of Bloomfield and Pulaski.

—Rev. P. J. Boehr, formerly of Richlandtown, Pa., who with his family had taken temporary quarters at Berne, Indiana, while they were awaiting the time when they might be permitted to return to our China mission field, has temporarily accepted the pastorate of the St. John Church near Pandora, Ohio. Rev. D. J. Unruh who has served this church several years, has accepted a call to the Grace Mennonite Church at Pratum, Oregon, where the family is now moving.

—Mrs. A. J. Richert, wife of a member of the Board of Publication, of Los Angeles, Calif. recently came to Kansas to attend the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dr. W. E. Regier of Whitewater, Kansas, who died rather suddenly at the Bethel Hospital, after a brief but serious illness. Funeral services for Mrs. Regier were held at the Emmaus Church near Whitewater, in the presence of a large gathering. Her sorely bereaved husband, Dr. Regier, two adopted daughters, other relatives and many friends mourn her seemingly untimely passing.

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, pastor of the Menn. Church at Hanston, Kans. out in the Dust Bowl region, writes, Nov. 26: We have had much cloudy, damp and rainy weather in the past week. Yesterday it rained almost the entire day, mostly slowly, almost 1½ inches. During the night we had two inches of snow. That is fine for this country.

—First Mennonite Church, Mt. Lake, Minn.—Some interesting items presented at the annual business meeting, November 19, were: Income in the church treasury, $1889; expenses of the church household, $1752; income for missions and relief, $1216; disbursements for home and foreign missions, evangelism and immigrants, $1208. The trustees presented three recommendations: To keep the church dues at $5.50; to begin using individual communion cups, and to plan for a week of special services coming spring. Brother John M. Harder was elected to the Church Board. —M. B.

—The Peace Committee of the General Conference, E. L. Harshbarger, North Newton, Kans., Chm.; E. J. Bohn, Souderton, Pa., Sec; L. J. Horsch, Upland, Calif., Treas; H. T. Unruh, Bluffton, Ohio; J. J. Gering, Freeman, So. Dak; and J. G. Rempel, Rosthern, Sask. were scheduled to hold a meeting on the Bethel College Campus, Nov. 29-30. H. A. Fast is Executive Secretary of the Committee.

—Prof. Arnold Schultz, Instructor in Bible at Bluffton College, recently held a series of evangelistic meetings at the Bethel Menn. Church, Fortuna, Mo. Prof. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College, served the First Menn. Church of Newton, Kansas, in a like manner during the Thanksgiving week (Nov. 28), and Rev. J. N. Smucker of the Bethel College Church, the Mennonite Church of Hillsboro, Kansas.—Rev. H. Albert Claassen, Pastor of the Salem-Zion Church, near Freeman, South Dak., is serving in a series of meetings at the Zion Menn. Church, Elbing, Kansas, this week.

—Grace Menn. Church, Enid, Oklahoma.—Rev. C. H. Dirks of Hutchinson, Kansas, like last year, was the guest speaker in an evangelistic campaign in this church, the week of Nov. 25 to Dec. 1st. At the same time the Grace Church, through its pastor, Rev. H. N. Harder, who was assisted by Bro. Dirks, had charge of the morning devotions over radio station K C R C. This church will also join other Enid churches in Thanksgiving services.—We are sorry that the above items, intended as announcements, did not reach us in time for that purpose.

—First Menn. Church, Madrid, Nebr.—Last week we brought a correspondence from this church. Then came one from a different source. Here are some items: At the Harvest festival, Missionary Linscheid, the main speaker, emphasized three things: Look back into the past; dedicate thyself to the present; face the future with determination. He very vividly pictured conditions in home and foreign lands, with all their needs, sorrows, and suffering. He and Mrs. Linscheid told us many things of interest in their experience among three tribes of Indians. In the evening of Harvest Sunday, Rev. Linscheid and Rev. N. P. Janzen ministered in an evangelistic service. The total collection of the day, both for home and foreign missions, amounted to $149.82.

—Bethel College.—Induced by fair weather and interest in the welfare of the school, a large number of the constituency attended the Annual Corporation meeting of Bethel College last Friday. The churches and individuals control a total of about 6800 votes, and of these 4,900 were represented, the remainder mostly those located at a distance. The reports presented to the assembly in printed form, showed the condition and the progress of the school up so well that the day became practically a Day of Thanksgiving for the blessings that God has bestowed on the College and, through it, on the constituency. But, as remarked by President Kaufman, quiet comes before the storm, this is no time to sit still, much hard work and real sacrifice are still ahead to make the school safe. For lack of space we must defer further information to another issue. Last year Bethel reached its largest enrollment, 527 students.

Home Then and Now

Much has been written and said about the relative importance of the home, the school and the church in the bringing up of children. But, after all has been said and done, it still remains a fact that the home is the main factor in moulding the character and habits of oncoming generations. It is the function of the home to inculcate into the hearts and minds of the young those qualities of heart and mind, and those habits that are needed to make them an asset and not a liability to their fellowmen and to Him who rightfully claims our allegiance.—What were, generally speaking, the characteristics of the home in which most of us older folks grew up, and also the homes of our parents. The home then was noted for habits of regularity, none of the excitements and of the excesses to which many homes are now exposed. The family, parents and children arose at a seasonable hour, went through the routine of daily tasks, and retired at a seasonable hour. Late hours and late risings, due to late hours out at exciting school games or demoralizing movies, and the like, were unknown. And how happy were the times when father and son, mother and daughter could spend a good deal in each other's company! Among the observances that had their regular place in the daily family program were the hours of devotion, morning and evening. In some families devotion was held before breakfast, in others after that meal, and the Bible was commonly used as the source of meditation No matter how urgent the duties or circumstances of the day, the period of morning devotion was not infringed upon. The evening devotion was noted for the same punctuality, in the presence of all members. The home then was pervaded by an atmosphere of work, of industry. The schools claimed the children for only a few months, and even during that time it was found possible for children to assist in household duties, in doing chores, and help in garden and field. Now our children spend the time from six to eighteen at school and play, and extra-curricular activities connected therewith, while their parents on the farm, for instance, are obliged to shift along the best way they can. Then the home was known for its frugality and economy. Debts were shunned. The children were given little if any spending money, and were taught that a penny saved is a penny earned. Now the temptation to buy things even unecessary is so great that the children could hardly get along without money, and thus they are trained in a way that later in life they do not act on the good economic principle, pay as you go, but on credit, which is one of the sources of ruined homes. In the old home the children somehow imbibed the impression that the parents were drawing upon a source of strength and wisdom that demanded their respect. It was their contact with a greater power, God. That enabled the parents to live and practice what they taught their children, all of which helped to imbue them with a sense of obedience. And when a child was naughty, and possibly persisted in being so, the parents after having first used an appeal to the child's emotions or moral suasion, were not afraid to resort, as a final measure of correction, an appeal to the skin. For they were sure that the Bible speaks truly (even at the risk of implanting a troublesome complex as some fear), when it says: "He that spareth the rod, hateth his son; but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes." Equally true in this connection are the words in Prov. 1:8 and 10:1: "My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother . . . . A wise son maketh a glad father: but a foolish one is the heaviness of his mother."

Do we imagine that the world will move back to the old home as we have known it. No! but is still possible for parents, especially Christian parents and should be their sacred duty, to inculcate and train their children in those characteristics that the home once had and which are so sadly needed today. —T.

* * * *

"And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace." Jas. 3:18.—Jesus' formula for peace is so simple and comprehensive that it cannot be misunderstood. A stable and peaceful society can be produced if all men treat all other men on the basis of sympathetic understanding, mutual respect, and constructive helpfulness. Though we believe in this, we fail to profit by it, because we do not put into practice what we believe. Peace goes deeper than the establishment of a League of Nations, a World Court, or codified international laws. The spirit of Jesus, expressed in love and brotherhood in the hearts of men, is the only foundation for peace. We can have peace when a generation arises that has the high courage to take Jesus seriously. Dare we venture with Christ to bring peace here and now.

SMITH CORNER MENN. CH., E. FREEDOM, PA.

Greetings to all! This church is located about three-and-a-half miles from the town of East Freedom, Pa. It is situated at the foot of the mountains in a small farming community, hence most of our members are farmers, while a few of the younger ones are employed at public works. Most of the members live within two-and-a-half miles of the church, though a few families live farther away, the farthest twelve miles.—We have just finished (Oct. 31) a week of evangelistic services. Our pastor, Rev. J. S. Raugh, preached every evening, execept Monday, when Bro. Willard Claassen, pastor of the Roaring Springs church, preached. One young man gave his heart to Christ, and many souls were stirred.—Our church organization consists of the pastor, two deacons and a deaconess, three trustees, a secretary, and a treasurer. The church now has a membership of seventy-one. We have gained twelve during the year. Our service schedule for the week is: Sunday morning, Sunday School at 9:30, church service at 10:30; Sunday evening, Y. P. meeting at 7:00, worship service at 7:30; Wednesday evening at 7:30, prayer service led by the pastor.—The Sunday School is growing, which is shown by the fact that a while back a new class had to be organized, making five classes in all. Now the time has come when there should be one or two more classes. The Sunday School has an enrollment of about eighty. The average attendance is about 50, the highest for the year, on Oct. 6, was 70. For the last quarter the average offering was $2.76. The Y. P. S. S. class and the young married men and womne's class have organized and hold a joint meeting the first Monday evening of the month. They meet in the church basement or in the homes. First we have devotions, then the business part. Next we have a talk or reading by one of the two teachers or another person. Then good clean games are played and refreshments are served. At each meeting an offering is taken and applied to some need in the church. From 15-20 attend these monthly meetings.—At the Sunday evening Y. P. meeting, devotions and a talk by one make up the program, though sometimes Bible questions are asked by the patsor. At each meeting an offering is taken and used by the group to help the church. At present $1.00 a month is applied on the pastor's salary.—The Brotherhood and the Ladies' Aid have a joint meeting once a month. After a period of devotion, the groups meet separately for business, then refreshments are served by the ladies.

Yours in service, Melvin Smith.

A WORD FROM ONE OUR NEW MISSIONARIES IN INDIA

It was almost midnight as the Delhi Express, which was taking us home after our first year's language study at Landour, stopped at one of the many small Indian railroad stations. In a moment the station was alive. The pani walla (water boy) pushed his little tank cart up and down the length of the platform and handed out water to the many thirsty travelers who asked for it. Fruit wallas called out their wares—bananas, oranges, peaches and grapes. Travelers stepped off from the cars and elbowed, pushed and shouted their way through the crowd which was trying to get on the train. Baggage was thrown into the cars through the windows and occasionally a would-be-traveler, having become impatient, made his entrance into the car through the same avenue.

A sweeper, small in stature, was sweeping the empty cigaret packages and banana leaves that were strewn on the platform into a woven basket. He worked fast and seriously. Nearby stood a cigaret vendor shouting out the names of the cigarets he had for sale. The sweeper turned, approached the vendor and asked for cigarets and matches. Assuming an air of superiority, the vendor tossed the matches on the ground and the sweeper stooped to pick them up. Again the sweeper stooped—this time to pick up the cigarets which the vendor also had deliberately tossed on the graveled platform.

The whistle blew and as the train started to move there flashed to my mind the picture of Christ as He stooped to wash the feet of His disciples. Again I thought of Christ as He stooped to write in the sand; this time Christ stooped to write in defence of a woman who was accused of adultery.

Do we as the cigaret vendor demand honor, respect, and recognition for our social, intellectual and economical superiority from those who are inferior to us in these respects or have we really caught the spirit of our humble King who came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many?

ALONE GOD SUFFICETH

Let nothing disturb thee,
Nothing affright thee;
All things are passing;
God never changeth;
Patient endurance
Attaineth to all things;
Who God possesseth
In nothing is wanting;
Alone God sufficeth. H. W. Longfellow

Week of Prayer for Churches

January 5-12, 1941

GENERAL THEME:

Christ the Answer to the world's Needs

"Men ought always to pray,"—and never so earnettly as when they face such confusion and perplexity as now prevails throughout the world.

Through prayer we come consciously into the presence of God in whom we find our confidence and our peace.

Through prayer our lives are lifted up into the light of God's will as revealed in Christ.

Through prayer we open our lives to inexhaustible resources of creative power which will make us adequate to meet the strain and responsibility of these days.

The following outline with suggestions has been prepared by Dr. Robert E. Speer and published by the Department of Evangelism of the Federal Council. Copies in leaflet form, with Bible verses printed in full, may be obtained in quantities at 3 cents each. Room 71, 297 4th Ave., New York, N. Rom 8:19

TH9 WORLD AND ITS NEED OF CHRIST

TEXTS: I John 5:19,20.—Isaiah 45:21b,22:There is no God, etc.,—Eph. 2:12,13.—Psalm 86:9.—Isaiah 66:18: It shall come, etc.,—Micah 4:1.—Haggai 2:7. . . Matt. 28:19.—John 14:6.

Let us not for one moment fail to include ourselves in the whole world's need of Christ and His saving grace and power.

"Lord have mercy on me, a sinner."

"Lord, I believe, help Thou my unbelief."

Let us confess with all men our blindness to the Right in which we ought to walk,—the way of Right in our economic, our social, our political, our international life. And not our blindness only, but our wilfulness and disobedience in failing to walk by the light we already have.

Let us share the shame of mankind in making a habitation of cruelty out of God's fair world.

Let us humbly and honestly seek God's guidance out of the jungle of history into His will, which is peace.

Let us rejoice that we have in our Lord Jesus Christ a perfect ideal of character, normative as an example for us, and that in His Gospel we have an adequate conception of social brotherliness, full resources of moral power and the glory and secret of a perfect Spiritual Fellowship with Christ and in Christ.

Let us look at sin and need in something of the light in which God saw them, when in love He sent His Son to be the propitiation for our sins; and not for ours only, but also for the whole world. (I John II,2.)

Let us penitently lay bare before God our thoughts and deeds, our selfishness and pride.

Let us do this first as individuals, saying in sincerity and shame: "Father I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight and am no more worthy to be called thy Son:" and then corporately as members of one another and of the Church of Christ and of the whole body of humanity, let us bow down and ask the forgiveness of God.

Let us ask for ourselves and for all the world strength to be and to do what we ought, for pity instead of cruelty, for the love of giving instead of the love of gain, for Godliness instead of greatness.

Let us pray for the areas of Christ's church and God's world, which have their special problems and perils, for the Christians of Germany and the Continent and for their foreign missions cut off from home support; for mission work in Abyssinia and Chosen and the Japanese-controlled areas of China—now sorely hampered or even extinguished; for the effort of the Chinese to defend themselves against the opium traffic fostered by Japan; for the native churches in many lands deprived of accustomed help, that the deprivation may only lead to the speedier development of self-reliance; for churches and missions whose freedom has been abridged and for all peoples whose rights of religious liberty are in peril; for missionaries and the grave disocuragements of their work and of travel and to and from their fields; for the uniting efficacy of Christian across all gulfs of division.

THE SUFFERINGS OF THE NATIONS

Isa 13:6-1
21:1-1

TEXTS: Matt. 24:6, 7.—Romans 1:18.—I Peter 3:14, 17.—Jer. 18:7, 8.—Rev. 22:2b: The leaves . . . nations —Matt. 25:40.

Let us humbly and penitently acknowledge that the sufferings of the nations are less than the just judgment for their sins.

Let us leave to the wisdom and righteousness of God the mystery of His endurance of the iniquity of the forces of aggression which are the agents of these sufferings.

Let us confess our own share of guilt and turn from our own unrighteous ways and ask God to spare us the judgment which we so fully deserve.

Let us bewail and repent "man's inhumanity to man."

Let us pray for China that it may have strength to endure, and to recover its territory, and to be purified by its suffering, and to fulfill its true destiny as a Christian nation.

Let us pray for Japan that it may desist from aggression in China and persecution in Chosen, lift the crushing burden of militarism from its own people and lead the Far East in peace and freedom.

Let us pray for Italy that it may inspire not to illusory imperial power but to a world ministry of service.

Let us pray for Germany that it may turn back from Hitler to Luther and from the discipline of Nazism to the discipleship of Jesus of Nazareth.

Let us pray for the lands that have been invaded, whose neutrality has been outraged, whose independence has been destroyed; for their refugees; for their women and children and peaceful citizens who have not been able to flee and must bear and suffer at home or are homeless; for all who hunger and are in want.

Let us pray that wars may end, that cooperation may take the place of conflict, and friendship the place of enmity; that the colossal expenditures on armaments may cease and that resources may be used to provide for all men a clean and comfortable life.

Let us see in the sufferings of the world our opportunity to minister to Him who suffered for us, lest at the Judgement we hear His words: "I was hungry and ye did not give me to eat; I was thirsty and ye gave me no drink; I was a stranger and ye took me not in; naked and ye clothed me not. Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of these least ye did it not to me."

Let us bear one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ.

THE SUFFICIENCY OF GOD

Rev. 21:5

TEXTS: Deut. 32: 3, 4.—Isaiah 2:4.—Isaiah 45:21b,22: There is no God, etc.—Psalms 22:28.—Psalms 46: 8-11.—Psalms 95:3.— II Cor. 3:5.

Let us be grateful that we can have "such confidence through Christ to Godward; not that we are sufficient of ourselves to account anything as from ourselves; but our sufficiency is from God."

Let us be thankful for the sufficiency of motive that is in Him, for the wisdom and guidance, for the strength and power, for the companionship, for the pledge of victory. God is able.

Let us rejoice in God.—Let us be thankful in God.—We have God. Thanks be to God for God.—For, saith He, "who so offereth praise glorifieth me: and prepareth a way that I may show him the salvation of God." (Psalm L, 23)

Let us lay aside all fear.—Let us trust and obey.

"Sin and want we come confessing,
Thou canst cleanse and Thou canst heal."

What doth Jehovah require of us but to do justly, and love kindness and walk humbly with our God? (Micah VI,8)

Let us repent for the years of folly when we worshipped man and imagined that it was in man to direct his steps and to be his own redeemer; when we had thought to banish God by losing Him in human processes and had taken over our life into our own hands. Let us look upon the havoc which man has wrought and bow down in contrition, bringing to the gracious and healing hand of God our broken and contrite hearts.

Let us pray that, according to His promises, God may speedily subdue all His enemies and "all that opposeth and exhaulteth himself against all that is called God or that is worshipped so that he sitteth in the temple of God, setting himself forth as God." (II Thess. II, 4)

Let us kneel down and repeat with joyful hearts the sixty-seventh Psalm.

Wednesday, January Eighth

JESUS CHRIST IS THE ANSWER

TEXTS: John 8:12.—John 14:4.—John 7:37: If any . . . . drink.—John 12:32.—Matt. 11:28.—John 2:2.—Psalm 72:11-19.

Let us ask ourselves:

How fully have we appropriated the fullness of life available in Christ?

How fully is Jesus Christ the Lord of our own lives?

Do we really obey Him as Master and Lord?

Are we bringing our homes, our business our communities under the law of Christ?

How constantly do we hold the story of the life of Christ and His words in our minds?

Is Christ really living in us?

Let us think what the result would be if men obeyed the Golden Rule and the New Commandment of Christ.

And if Christ were allowed to do in our world, torn by the chasms of class and race and nation, His uniting work? (Gal. III, 28. Col. III, 11.)

Let us ask Christ to forgive us for annulling His sacrifice (I John IV, 3 Margin ARV)

Let us ask God to forgive us for crucifying afresh His Son, who came to bless the earth, which by our disobedience "beareth thorns and thistles, is rejected and is nigh unto a curse: whose end is to be burned." (Heb. VI, 7, 8)

Let us remember the words addressed to a Christian Church by Jesus Christ who was outside knocking on the door and hoping to be let in. (Rev. III, 20)

Let us pray Him to come into His Church and our hearts, casting out all evil, all selfishness, all trust in ourselves, and helping us to walk even as He walked (I John II, 6) Who left us an example that we should follow in His steps. (I Peter II, 21)

Let us ask Him to demonstrate in us what would happen if He were accepted as Lord of all the life of the world.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF AMERICA

TEXTS: Psalm 147:20: He. . . . Nation.—I Cor. 4: 7.—1 Cor. 4:2.—Luke 12:48b: For unto. . . more.—Job 31:16, 17, 19, 20, 24, 25, 28.

Let us thank God for His great goodness, for the unmeasured blessings which as a nation we have received at His hand.

Let us thank Him for guiding our fathers to write in the foundation law of the land the declaration, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free excercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

Let us acknowledge our debt to those who went before us, whose pilgrim feet beat the thoroughfares through the wilderness, who subdued forest and prairie, whose industry and thrift accumulated our heritage, whose faith in God and integrity and truth built all the good of our national character.

Let us see in our wealth and power and resources only a solumn trust from God to be used for human good.

Let us interpret aright the circumstances of our position and security, that we are set where we are not for our own selfish isolation but for service of all mankind.

Let us realize that the idea of separation from the life of the world, from the anguish of the nations is an illusion. There is no separability of national interest in a real world in which we live. We are members one of another and if one member suffers all members suffer with it.

Let us not fall int othe falsehood of Cain, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Let us remember that we are all one body (Eph. IV, 25) one family (Eph. III, 15), that we are, under the one God and Father of all, entangled inseparably in the alliance of human unity and brotherhood.

Let us thank God for such opportunity as He has given us to share in the burden of humanity.

Let us pray not for escape from this burden but for strength and purpose to bear is.

Let us ask God to defend us from all our enemies without, and from those most perilous enemies within the national soul which blind us to our duty and weaken our will to do the will of God.

THE CHURCH AND ITS BUSINESS

TEXTS: Matt. 16:16, 18.—Jer. 1:5b: I ordained.... nations.—Mark 16:15.—John8:34-35.—John 17:21: (I pray) that etc.—Eph. 5:25-27: Christ also, etc.—I Tim. 3:5.

Let us put together the first and the last of these words: "The Son of the living God" and "The Church of the living God" and the charge of our Lord: "As the Father hath sent me, even so send I you."

Let us solemnly remember that what Christ came to begin, the Church is sent to continue, that the Church is the Body of Christ (Col. I, 24) continuing in the world and charged with His mission.

Let us ask whether the Church and we as members of the Church are accomplishing our task,—our threefold task of witness, of worship and of work. (Acts I, 8; John IV, 23; John IX, 4. "We must work.")

Let us seek to discover and remove the hindrances in ourselves, in our thoughts and our spirit, that stand in the way of full Christian fellowship and of that unity for which our Lord prayed which is to convince the world.

Let us review ourselves and the denomination and the local church to which we belong and be sure that we wear the whole armor of God and that each piece is in its right place. (Eph. VI, 13-17) Are our loins girded with truth? Can we wield our sword?

Let us understand that the attainments of the Church are corporate. Note "All" in II Cor. III, 18, Eph. III, 18: IV, 13.

Let us pray that we may be enabled to love as Christ loved.

Let us pray that we may fulfill our mission as those to whom God has committed the work of reconciliation.

Let us pray that the Church may put its trust in God alone.

Let us pray that it may heal its own shisms and so bear a new witness of unity to mankind.

Let us pray that it may comfort the broken hearted and bring deliverance to the captive and set at liberty them that are bruised.

Let us pray that it may be faithful unto life whereever it is free and faithful unto death in the lands which are seeking to destroy it.

Let us pray that its "soldiers faithful, true and bold may fight as the saints who nobly fought of old and win with them the victor's crown of gold. Alleleuia."

THE GOSPEL FOR TODAY

TEXTS: Mark 1:14b, 15: Jesus came, etc.—Matt. 23:8b: From etc.—Rom. 1:16a: For.... believeth.—Eph. 2:13, 14.—Acts 17:26.—Psalm 85:4-13.

Let us thank God that the message which Jesus came preaching is an everlasting gospel, that Jesus Christ, who is the gospel, is the same yesterday, today, and forever.

Let us thank God for the message which Jesus brought and for the message which Jesus is.

Let us call ourselves and all men to humiliation and repentance, proclaiming thereupon the goodness of a salvation wrought for us, a deliverance from sin unto righteousness.

Let us speak the truth of Christ, which is the present world's sorest need; love instead of hate, peace instead of war, unity instead of division, joy instead of sorrow, right instead of might.

Let us rejoice that human nature can be changed; that our Lord took it upon Himself that He might change it, that He who knew no sin was made sin for us that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him.

Let us steadfastly acknowledge and declare the supremacy of God over the conscience and above all human life and institutions, refusing to subordinate His authority and claim to the State or any organization of man.

Let us ask God for the fidelity and courage of His servant Paul (Acts XX, 27) (Eph. VI, 20)

THE COMING KINGDOM

TEXTS: Matt. 6:10.—Psalm 86:9.—Psalm 2:8.—Zeph. 3:9.—Micah 4:2-4.—I Cor. 15:25.—II Peter 3:13.

Let us keep this look, "earnestly desiring the coming of the day of God," (II Peter III, 18) "watching in all perseverance." (Eph. VI, 18)

Let us look for something better than any earthly kingdom, but nevertheless for a Kingdom that is to be upon the earth, a Kingdom of souls, a Kingdom of righteousness, peace and joy. (Rom. XIV, 17) Jesus Christ Himself being the King thereof.

Let us never doubt the certainty of the coming of this Kingdom and of the universal reign of Christ even though the black waters of time seen today to be sweeping us back into night?

Let us pray God to save our own country from the tide of paganism, pouring through its life and pressing back the coming of the Kingdom.

Let us confess and ask forgiveness for all that hinders Christ's reign in us and in our country and in the world,—moral blindness, love of falsehood, all prejudice and passion of class or race or of any fragment of humanity which exhalts itself above the whole, all selfishness, every personal and social sin.

Let us hasten the day of God by proclaiming the gospel to every nation and claiming every nation and all life for Christ's Lordship.

Let us pray that each of us may be such a Christian that out of the world of such a true Kingdom of God might grow.

Let us live now as we would live if the Kingdom of God were already fully come.

Let us rejoice that while we are fellow-laborers with God, it is not we who build up the Kingdom from below, but God who sends down the Holy City from above, (Rev. XXI, 2) and that its coming is more than time.

"For He shall not fail nor be discouraged till He have set justice in the earth; and the isles shall wait for His law." (Isaiah XLII, 4)

—The Kai Chow (China) Hospital clinic visits last quarter numbered 9126 as follows: Men, 5342, women, 1911, children, 1873. The patients came from varying distances, 13 to 23 miles, some have come 50 miles. They have also admitted 337 patients for hospital care, making a total of 573 for the first half of this year. During the qurater 179 operations were performed.

PUBLICATION

As announced in this paper last week, THE MENNONITE HYMNARY, our new hymn book, will begin to come out toward the end of this week. Examination copies will then be mailed to individuals or to churches upon request, if made by their leader or other responsible officer. The requests may be addressed to MENNONITE BOOK CONCERN, BERNE, INDIANA, or MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS. These sample books may be kept upon payment of the price, $1.40, or returned postpaid to the office of issue, within two weeks in unsoiled condition. For convenience, people or churches near Newton may place their orders with that office, others at Berne. Prices for the books are: $1.40 postpaid up to a dozen; $1.15 for any number above twelve, transportation not paid.

NOTE WELL:—The statement, "a request for a free copy of the book" in last week's papers, was intended to mean that examination copies would be mailed postpaid but not that the book would be sent out free.

General Conference Peace Committee Meeting

The peace committee of the General Conference held its regular annual meeting, November 29-30, on the Bethel College campus. All districts, except the northern and Canadian, were represented.

Most of the time was spent discussing problems growing out of the peace-time conscription act, and the civilian service program under that act. In this connection it was agreed to release Dr. H. A. Fast, who has been serving the peace committee in the field, so that he might serve as director of the Mennonite civilian service camps under the Mennonite Central Committee.

Mennonite camp No. 1 is now being organized near Grottoes, Va., where one hundred or more men will be engaged in soil conservation work. The peace committee is in full sympathy with this program and is willing to cooperate in its operation.

The following recommendations were accepted by the committee:

1. That increased publicity be given through our church papers to the operation of the conscription act and the civilian service program, and that ministers and youth leaders be encouraged to study the same with the young men.
2. That in view of the growing responsibility and greater challenge for service which now confronts the peace committee, we urge increased and regular contributions to L. J. Horsch, Treas., Upland, Calif.
3. That suitable literature be publicized and distributed.
4. That the Mennonite Civilian Service Program be approved, and that at least $75 per month be sent to the central committee for the maintenance of the Washington office and further publicity.

JESUS TEACHES HIS DISCIPLES TO PRAY

Luke 11:1-13—Read Chapter 11

Introduction

The practice of prayer is most essential to the Christian life. The soul that truly loves God will find much joy in communion with Him. Without such communion the soul will become dry and even our forms of prayer will become mechanical and lifeless. The vitality of our prayers, which depend upon the faith which accompanies them, is a right good test of our religious condition. It is possible to live in so spiritual a condition that prayer arises from the heart easily, naturally and frequently. Fellowship with Christ then becomes a blessed and practical reality in our lives,

Jesus' Pattern for Prayer vs. 1-4

We need much teaching regarding praying (Rom. 8:26) and Jesus can best teach us how to pray. He prayed much. It was as the breath of life to Him, indispensible. The disciples saw and heard Him pray and saw that His praying was so different in spirit and essence from theirs. They wished to learn to pray as He prayed. When we learn to pray as He did, we shall have mastered the secret of prevailing prayer. He is just as ready to teach us today. Jesus did not try to urge or compel his disciples to pray. He was deeply interested in how and why they prayed. It is well to use this pattern frequently (see Matt. 6:9-13), but far more important that we understand its spirit and contents so that we may be guided aright in all our praying.

The prayer begins with adoration of God, "Our Father", the Father of all believers in Christ. This adoration is the heart of true worship. True prayer desires that God's name be "hallowed", be acknowledged as holy, be honored and venerated. Next to the glory of God's name comes the petition that God's kingdom and reign be established in the hearts of the people and that His will be done by men. Prayer for the necessities of life is quite proper (v3). God wants us to trust Him day by day. Note the pronouns used in verses 3 and 4. We, the children of God, are to pray for the forgiveness of our sins (v4). This is personal, for all sinners. We can scarcely expect forgiveness unless we are willing to forgive others. God permits temptations, but with the temptation provides a way of escape (1 Cor. 10:13).

Persistence in Prayer vs. 5-10

Jesus used a short parable to teach the lesson of persistence, importunity in prayer. We are not to think of God as being like the friend who did not wish to be disturbed at night. God does delight in our persistent faith, a holy boldness in our praying, and especially so if our praying is for spiriutal good. Jesus teaches the need of earnestness and much persistence in prayer (v9), "ask, seek, knock". These are characteristics of true and sincere prayer. Prayer for spiritual good will always be answered when we fill the necessary spiritual conditions. God may not always answer our prayers, but He answers us.

God's Willingness to Give vs. 11-13

Human parents, sinful in heart, know what is good for their children. Much more so does God know and is eager to give to those who ask in sincere faith. He opens the door to spiritual blessings. The seeking soul will find peace of heart when he yields fully. God is anxious to give the Holy Spirit—that which is most valuable in all the world, to those who ask sincerely. The privilege of prayer invites us to enter the throne-room of the King.

When is praying real and when is it mere form?

When is prayer in secret often more vital than public prayer?

What value do we derive from memorizing prayers?

Why did Jesus need to pray?

Rev. H. P. KREHBIEL GONE HOME

Saturday, December 2nd, just as the form for The Mennonite was being put in the press, the sad news reached us that Rev. H. P. Krehbiel of Newton, Kansas, minister, conference worker, and writer had passed away suddenly—probably due to apoplexy of the heart. Funeral services were held at the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 5, with Reverends J. E. Entz, A. J. Dyck, J. N. Smucker, and J. J. Regier, Jr. taking part in the program. The remains were laid away in the mansoleum near Halstead, Kansas.

Mennonite Central Com. Relief Notes

(Concluded from last week)

November 13th, 1940, at 7:00 a. m. found about forty people at the Ephrata Clothing Depot, ready with three balers to bale the fine lot of clothing which had collected here since September 25th, from all parts, and from different branches of the Mennonite Church in the U. S. Among this group of helpers were some of our faithful, experienced balers from Mellingers Church in Pa., as well as friends from the Ephrata, Pa., congregation.

In four and a half hours, 3860 pounds of clothing evaluated at $4,707.95 were practically ready for shipment.

The Sewing Circles in different branches of the Mennonite Church have responded most liberally. The heads of these organizations deserve much credit for the excellent work they have done and the fine condition in which clothing has reached us. The Lord will not overlook the reward for any such service done in His name. In these forty-three bales, as well as in all previous bales is found more than clothing. Love, socrifice,consecration, devotion, cheer, sympathy, prayers, labor, and money are such outstanding items; they can not help but bring comfort, hope and cheer to all recipients.

The Ephrata clothing Depot workers are most grateful for your interest and cooperation.

On November 20th various representatives of the government, together with Paul Comly French, Orie Miller and various leaders of Eastern Mennonites and myself visited the proposed site for the first camp for Civilian Service under Mennonite administration.

The camp site is located in the historic, beautiful Shenandoah Valley about three miles from the nearest railroad station, Grottoes, and about 25 miles from Harrisonburg—the center of a large Mennonite settlement. The camp is composed of some ten to twelve buildings in fair condition, but in need of some inside repair work. Those present agreed that the site is advantageously located. At a joint meeting of various Peace groups in Washington on November 26th and 27th, final details for setting up and running the camp will be decided upon, and then energetic measures are to be taken to have the camp ready to receive the boys as they are assigned to us.

CORRESPONDENCE

SALEM MENN. CHURCH, FREEMAN, SO. DAK.

Dec. 1, 1940

The present year, now nearly over, has brought many material and spiritual blessings to all of us. Especially in the fall of the year, during and after the harvesting of crops, we very definitely feel and see how bountifully God provides in innumerable ways. A very apt expression of thankfulness was that of the Woman's Missionary Society when they made several comforters and collected clothing for war sufferers in Europe.

On Thanksgiving day our church again worshipped together with the Salem Zion Church, our neighbor church. Rev. J. M. Regier of Hillsboro, Kans., who was in this community at the time, brought the Thanksgiving message.

In October we were very happy to have Rev. P. R. Schroeder of Mountain Lake, Minn., come back to take charge of baptismal service. Nine boys and girls were baptized upon their confession of faith and became members of the church. On that Sunday evening a farewell service was held for Rev. and Mrs. Schroeder.

Beside those already mentioned we had several other guest speakers this fall. Dr. H. A. Fast of Newton, Kansas, was here recently and gave several inspiring messages. At present one of our own group, Rev. Erland Waltner of Philadelphia, Penn. is here, in connection with the work of the winter Bible Course at Freeman College, as was also Rev. J. M. Regier.

The Sunday before Thanksgiving Day the Swiss Choral Society presented "The Messiah," in the College Auditorium. This was the eleventh annual presentation. The above mentioned society is composed of young people of this and surrounding churches.

GRACE CHURCH, PANDORA, OHIO, 12-2-40

Among the fall activities of the church were the sacred concert given by the young people of the church, on the evening of Oct. 27. The offering to be a Christmas gift to the Ezra Steiner family. The Mother-Daughter dinner was held the evening of Oct. 28, Miss Anna Kline of Lima, O., a public school teacher of forty-two years experience, was the guest speaker. The Men's Fellowship Dinner was held the evening of Nov. 20. Dr. C. H. Smith of Bluffton was the speaker.

The Thanksgiving Mission sale was held Nov. 16. Special Thanksgiving services were observed at ten o'clock on Thanksgiving morning, Communion services the Sunday following.

Recent pulpit visitors were Rev. Sylvan Lehman, representing the Home Mission Board, and Rev. W. C. Voth, missionary on furlough from China gave an illustrated address of the work in the China field.

Mr. Lawrence Burkholder, assisted by William Holtkamp and the Thiessen brothers, all of Bluffton, gave a sacred concert of violin music last evening to an appreciative audience.—The annual presentation of "The Messiah," by the church choir will be Sunday evening Dec. 22. The choir is under the direction of Mr. Lorin McNeal, music teacher in our public schools. —Corr.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBR.

Our state and church celebrated Thanksgiving, Nov. 21st. The senior choir rendered a song service of thanksgiving unto God, and our pastor delivered the message.—The senior C. E. had a very fitting theme for the previous Sunday: "Thanksgiving by thanksliving." Only one day of the year has been set aside for Thanksgiving Day. We can be thankful everyday and praise our God by thanksliving.

We enjoyed the privilege of having the C. E. from the Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebr., here in our church, to give a program. It was a real encouragement to our C. E. and a blessing to fellowship with Co-workers in His Kingdom.

Our pastor has held several meetings with our young men, of conscription age, to strengthen them in their faith. May we all remember them in our prayers that they may stand fast and be true to their God.

Winter has set in. Our fields have been refreshed by frequent showers, only too bad that the muddy roads decrease S. S. and church attendance. Plans are underway for the annual Christmas program by the S. S. Christmas and New Year Greetings to all Readers. —Corr.

LORRAINE AVENUE MENN. CHURCH, WICHITA, KANSAS

On November 17, the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church of Wichita had its Annual Business meeting at which the new officers for the coming year were elected and plans were made for the work of the church. In view of the fact that our present building is much too small for the work of our Sunday School and Church a Committee of three was elected to make plans for a new church building.

A committee of five wes elected to take the leadership in and promote a four point program. First to strive for a greater and deeper spiritual life among our members and those who worship with us. We hope thereby to get a greater unity and cooperation among the members in the building of the Kingdom of God among men. Second, to strive to contact and draw into our church all Mennonites who come to Wichita. We are hoping that the leaders and Pastors of the various Mennonite Churches will cooperate with us, when members of their church come to Wichita by sending us their names, their occupation and address if possible. Third, to strive to draw more of the non-Mennonite members of our own community into the church. While several families already have become members and others are attending, we are hoping to be able to draw more. Fourth, to take the leadership in raising funds for the new church building which we need badly.

We are praying that God may lead and direct us in all of our church work the coming year. Yours in His Service.

—O. K. Galle, Sec. of Expansion Committee

Christians should live in the world, but not be filled with it. A ship lives in the water, but if the water gets into the ship, she goes to the bottom. So Christians may live int he world, but if the world gets into them, they sink. —D. L. Moody

NO ROOM

The sky is clear tonight; the stars look down
As once they must have looked on Bethlehem town.
And as I stand here, quietly, within
My heart it seems I hear
A knock; and in my ear
A soft voice whispers, "May I come in?"

I turn to go inside; there is so much to be done
I must help to prepare for our Christmas fun.
There are gifts to wrap and the tree to trim
With shining lights and gay
Toys for the children's play.
I have no time to make room for Him.
No, Lord Jesus, you must go away.
The inn of my heart is full today.

The Christian Association On a College Campus

By Jacob D. Goering

(Mr. Goering is president of the Student Christian Movement of Bethel College.)

One could find many arguments in favor of Christian students forming an association on state or municipal college or university campuses. In such cases the value is obvious. But some people are prone, on first thought to question the worthwhileness of such an organization on a college campus that is already essentially Christian. After all, aren't the religious needs of the student well met in such an institution without the aid of this extra organization. This and other similar questions are often honestly and quite justifiably asked. It is well for us to keep such questions in mind constantly in order to see more clearly our purpose, and to find our right relationship to other organizations and the school itself. However, when one probes deeper into the purpose and function of such an organization, its indispensable value becomes quite evident.

The Student Christian Movement of Bethel College claims as its purpose "To promote growth in faith, character, and fellowship, and to apply the principles of Christ to campus life". The natural outgrowth of such a purpose is the assuming of various obligations and functions by the organizations.

A voluntary student and faculty group can very often present to the student body the experience of the Christian religion in a more acceptable way than a similar program administered by the college itself. This group is in a good position to put into practice new ethical insights gained anywhere through classroom, dormitory, or extra-curricular activities. This association also pioneers into unexplored areas. Creativity plays no small part in its activity. Spurred by the insight and dynamic of the Christian faith, this group explores new areas of thought, and the abiding values are then referred to other college, church, and community groups.

Many students literally "find themselves" in association work. The free, voluntary pioneering religious atmosphere of the Christian Association is needed to develop their latent abilities. What seems to be one of the most significant functions of the College Christian Association is to attract less responsive students to religion. Many students who either had discarded conventional religion or else dogmaticcally accepted it on an authoritive basis have become interested in some phase of the association's activtities, and as a result have eventually discovered their own need for a vital, rational, religious faith.

Thus the activity and participation in such a Christian association helps the individual grow in faith, character and fellowship. But not only that, the experience of non-denominational activity with ecumenical emphasis help fit one for interdenominational work in the church and society in general. The Student Christian Movement is world-wide in scope having organizations in some thirty different countries all over the globe. Membership in a local association gives one a sense of brotherhood with all peoples of the world. In such an atmosphere, the activity is both inspirational and functional, and thus is a tool in the building of the Kingdom of God.

The Church of the Living God

The Church of the Living God! What thought could more completely thrill the Christian heart! What wealth of meaning is contained in those words! God, His Son Jesus Christ, salvation through Him, prayer, worship, service—and a countless multitude of spiritual blessings to enrich our Christian experience.

A thrill! Yes and also a marvelous privilege to serve the Living God in our small way as Mennonites. Our forefathers lived heroic, sacrificial lives. They lived well. They were devoted to the cause of Jesus Christ. We have a glorious heritage! Our appreciation is to be expressed through the wonderful avenues of service God has granted us:

(1) Missions—with all that the word implies. India Calling, The China-Home Bond, and the many articles in our various church papers reveal the work done on our various fields—home and foreign. What a challenge is presented in the thought of a population of about 3,000,000 in our India and China fields alone! Yes, and what a privilege to do all we can to meet that challenge!

(2) Education—with schools that are Christian! Being a graduate of Bluffton College I feel strongly on this point. A short article like this cannot begin to even suggest the value of our schools; nor can we fully appreciate their importance at this time. We can but offer our wholehearted allegiance.

(3) World service for Christ—with a vital relief work in areas of suffering and a peace testimony in a world of strife. We do have a "message to tell to the nations"; it is the demonstration of the Savior's love.

These are avenues of service—and a host of others—are ours. If it is important that the Nations unite for the sake of national unity, how much more important it is for us to unitedly dedicate our full devotion and support to these ways of extending His Kingdom through our Church!

There is but one conclusion to all of this: "Lord what wilt thou have me to do?" Then follows the prayer: "Lord give me the grace and the courage to do it."

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Program for Dec. 29, 1940

Main Topic: WE FINISH TO BEGIN Phil. 3:13-16

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Faith of our Fathers," "One more day's work for Jesus," "Guide me, Thou great Jehovah."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Candle light consecration service

Leader lights tall white candle, then says: "Jesus says: I am the light of the world—If you love me you will keep my commands and I will ask the Father to give you another Helper to be with you forever, even the Spirit of truth." While we sing the song, "More love to Thee" let us one by one file by to light our candles, as a symbol that we reconsecrate ourselves to Christ, our Lord and Master."

4. Offering for Mission work

II. Leader's Introduction

The first three of the suggested topics for short talks are each taken from the last chapter of one of the gospels. They have one thing in common—the emphasis on the need of spiritual equipment. We need to put a high value on the things that are spiritual, eternal, of abiding values as we finish the old year and begin the new. "Forgetting what is behind," as Paul says—and "following after what is before." If there have been failures and sin, and things left undone in the old year, forget them after you have found forgiveness, and then follow after." Follow after what? "The high calling of God in Christ Jesus." May we sing together, "O Master let me walk with Thee."

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

A commission and fulfillment Mark 16:15-20
A new outlook Luke 24:27-35
A test and prediction John 21:15-19
Continue to grow 2 Peter 3:13-18
A worthy finish 2 Tim. 3:6-8
Jesus, the author and finisher Heb. 12:1, 2

IV. New Year's Thoughts in Poetry

"A pause amid the busy whirl,
A milestone on the way,
A place to rest and think and hope,—
Another New Year's Day.

So pray we eyes to see the grace
Of higher duties still,
Of grateful hearts unmurmuring,
To do a Father's will."

If I could feel my hand, dear Lord, in Thine
And surely know
That I was walking in the light divine
Through weal or woe,

If I could hear Thy voice in accents sweet
But plainly say
To guide my trembling, wandering feet,
"This is the way."

I would so gladly walk therein, but now
I cannot see.
Oh, give me, Lord, the faith to humbly bow
And trust in Thee!

There is no faith in seeing. Were we led
Like children here
And lifted over rock and river-bed
No care, no fear,

We should be useless in the busy throng,
Life's work be left undone;
Lord, make us brave earnest, true and strong
Till heaven is won."

V. Illustration

A man driving slowly along a country road, in the Aridondak Mountains, on New Year's Day, came to a barn by the side of the road. He heard the sound of milking in the barn. He called: "Is this the road to Chestertown?"

Receiving no answer, he called again: "Is this the road to Chestertown?"

"Yes, it's the right road, but I don't know which way you're headed."

Much depends on which way we are headed this New Year's Day.

VI. Food for Thought

"Search me, O God, and know my heart:
Try me and know my thoughts;
And see if there be any wicked way in me,
And lead me in the way everlasting."

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

WHAT'S DONE IS DONE—NOW WHAT?

December 29, 1940

Advertisment

Hand out small calendars or cheap New Year Cards with the time and place of meeting written on the back.

Program

Have Father Time in charge of the first half of the meeting. A cardboard sickle can be easily made and a long robe and cotton whiskers will complete the make-up. If possible, bring a striking clock and conceal it. At the close of the first part of the program let is strike twelve.

Part I

Song, "O Worship the King"

Discussion, "Things on which I fell short during the old year." (By each one present)

Prayer Song, "I Would be True"

Sentence Prayers (Asking for forgiveness for past shortcomings and for strength to do better during the new year.)

Scripture Reading: Phil: 3:13-16.

Father Time takes his leave.

Poem

Good-By, Old Year!

Good-by, Old Year! Along with you goes a world of lost opportunities for helpful service to my fellow man,
Deeds of kindness I did not perform;
Words of cheer I did not utter;
Contact with youth that I did not grasp;
A handshake of encouragement I failed to give;
A tear of sympathy I refused to share;
A pledge I did not keep;
Age I failed to reverence;
Selfishness I did not hide;
A song of praise I did not sing;
A listening ear I did not lend;
God's great gifts of free beauty I did not see.

Part II

The New Year enters from the opposite direction as she sings "More Love to Thee." She has charge of the second part of the program.

Talk "How shall we make the New Year new?"

1. Forget your past failures.
2. Make each failure a new starting point.
3. Have confidence in yourself.
4. Remember the Lord Jesus Christ.

Hymn, "Lord, Speak to Me that I May Speak"

Discussion, "Things I resolve to do during the New year."

Prayer Song, "I'll Live For Him"

Sentence Prayers (Asking for guidance to do His will more perfectly.)

Response, "Into My Heart"

A Motto for the New Year,

Go Forward

With steadfast heart and true
Go forward on your way;
God give you strength to do
The duties of each day,
So daily may this thought
Your heart with courage fill,
"I can, because I ought,
And, by God's help, I will."

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

"The Greatest . . . Is Love"

Program for December 29, 1940

LOVEST THOU ME?

Setting:

On the blackboard make a drawing of two books, one closed, the other open. Label the closed book, "Daily Record 1940". The open book should be labeled "Daily Record 1941" on the inside cover, and "January 1" on the first page. Over these two books print the words: THE OLD BOOK IS CLOSED. Below them print the words: THE NEW BOOK IS OPENED.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude: "Another Year is Dawning", M. H. B., 389
2. Worship in Song: "Another Year is Dawning"
3. Worship in Scripture: Psalm 121—read by a Junior girl
4. Worship in Prayer: Leader's opening prayer
5. Leader's Introduction: The old book is closed. The pages are filled.

As the year ends we naturally look backward over what happened in the last twelve months. As we look at different days in the year, we are satisfied with some of them, but of some days we do not like to think, because we did something wrong and we have not corrected it. All of us, as we look backward, are sorry for things we have done or left undone. We would like to erase some of the things from the pages of the old year. Since we cannot do this, we look ahead into the new year, making up our minds that on every page we will write a deed of kindness done, love shown to some one, so that we need not be ashamed to look back at any day next year when we close the book for1941. The year 1941 is before us. We can make it one that we will be proud to look back on, or we can make it one that we will not like to think of. Which shall it be?

II. Study Period

Aim: To lead our Juniors to realize that each new day and each new year is given to them as a gift of God, and that they are responsible to God for what they do with it. Compare it with a piece of white, clean paper. There are three things they can do with paper: leave it blank and clean; spoil it with ugly writing, blots, ugly pictures; or use it for some good purpose, whether for wrapping or writing or painting. Paper is of most value when it is used for some helpful purpose. So, the important thing is not to return each day to God like a blank sheet of paper, just try to do no evil, but to put each day to some good purpose.

1. Discussion: Looking Backward
   a. How much have I grown in—
      Kindness, Eph. 4:32

Service to Others, Gal. 6:9
Bible Knowledge, John 5:39
Prayer, Luke 18:1
Friends, Proverbs 18:24
Sympathy, Gal. 6:2
Personal Habits, I Cor. 3:16, 17
Love toward Men, Luke 10:27c, Matt. 5:44
Love toward God, Luke 10:27b

2. Story: "Lovest Thou Me? John 21:15-17, with an application to our lives
3. Discussion: Looking Forward
   a. Making resolutions
      1. What is a resolution?
      2. Naming of resolutions by various Juniors
   b. A Good Resolution:
      3. "Each day I'll do some little deed
      Of kindness as I see the need,
      And show that LOVE for big and small
      Is quite THE GREATEST thing of all."
      4. A New Year's Poem, by a Junior boy
      5. Special Music: "More Love to Thee, O Christ," by some Juniors

III. Mission Minutes

1. Your group will arrive in China today. The first things the children will notice are the strange customs of the people. Have various Juniors bring some information on Chinese customs, such as their manner of living, mode of travel, system of education, holidays, religions, etc.
2. Discuss the danger to which our missionaries are subjected because of the war.
3. On the map of China point out the location of the various mission stations, visit the different missionaries at their respective stations, and note the work that they do.
4. Proceed as in previous meetings with the offering, prayer, etc.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat the verse of the month
2. Sing the song of the month
3. Pray the prayer of the month

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. CHRISTENA KOHLI, pioneer resident of Bluffton, Ohio, died Tuesday night at her home on Spring Street, and her funeral was held Friday afternoon at the First Mennonite Church. Mrs. Kohli was the daughter of Christian and Kathryn (Luginbill) Amstutz. She died after a three months' illness from heart trouble. Surviving are two sons, Maurice Kohli, of Bluffton; Armin C. Kohli, Decatur, Ill.; three daughters, Mrs. Florence Burkholder, Nampa, Idaho; Mrs. Eulalia Bixel, Eugene, Oregon; Mrs. Verna Patterson, Caldwell, Idaho.—Also surviving are four sisters, Mrs. H. J. Hoover, San Dimas, Calif.; Mrs. J. E. Amstutz, Trenton; Mrs. Susanna Lugibill, and Mrs. Bruce Byran, Findlay, and two brothers, Ed Amstutz, Kansas City, Mo.; and Chris Amstutz of Florida.—Mrs. Kohli was a member of the First Mennonite Church and of the missionary society of the church. Rev. H. T. Unruh officiated at the services and burial will be made at the Ebenezer cemetery.

JOHN P. DECKERT, son of Peter B. and Susana Unruh Deckert, was born June 11, 1882 at Marion, So. Dak., and died Oct. 20, 1940, at the age of 58 years, 4 months and 9 days. He was baptized while a youth and became a member of the Bethesda Church near Marion, S. D., in which he proved himself faithful to his end. He was united in holy wedlock with Aganetha Deckert May 23, 1906, and shared the joys and griefs of their wedded life with her over 34 years. Three sons and two daughters were born to this union. One son died in infancy. Bro. Deckert chose farming as a vocation for his livelihood. Last year his health began to fail. In February he was operated on in Yankton for cancer on his intestines. After he felt stronger he was taken home, but suffered until he finally was relieved by death. He had submitted himself into God's will and bore all suffering patiently. He is mourned by his grief-stricken wife, 2 sons, 2 daughters, 1 son-in-law, 1 daughter-in-law, 5 brothers, 2 sisters, and a large number of relatives and friends. Funeral services were held in the Bethesda Church. Words of comfort were spoken by the brethren Albert Claassen, Jacob A. Tieszen and Alfred P. Waltner. Rev. Reeder had charge of the service in the home.

JACOB C. BERG, son of Cornelius H. and Anna Wiens Berg, was born at Marion, So. Dak., Feb. 20, 1887. He was baptized June 25, 1906, and was admitted into the fellowship of the Bethesda Church. He entered the holy bonds of matrimony April 6, 1924 with Tina Dick. They chose farming as their life's vocation, and together they shared the joys and disappointments for over 16 years. This union was blessed with 5 sons, the second oldest of whom died at the age of 2 years. In Jan. 1939, be became ill, and since that time he had been more or less sickly. His sickness was a case of Anemia. A few days before his death he became worse and on Oct. 27, he was taken to Yankton Hospital where he died the next morning as the result of an internal hemorage. He is mourned by his beloved wife, 4 sons, his father, 5 brothers, 1 sister, and many relatives and friends. He had reached the age of 43 years, 8 months and 8days. The funeral service was held in the Bethesda Church. The Revs. M. A. Kroeker, J. A. Tieszen and A. P. Waltner spoke words of admonition and comfort.

JENNINGS PAUL WIENS, son of Mr. Gerhard P. and Frieda (Enns) Wiens was born October 27, 1934, in Beatrice, Nebraska. Apparently he was a healthy child, but when two days old it became evident that he was stricken with a severe case of jaundice. However, with good care by the nurses he cleared up from that malady. But the doctors declared he had a hemorrhage at that time, the result of which caused him to remain an invalid, for which seemed to be no cure. In spite of his helplessness he was a happy and contented child and often shared in the joy of other children. His last sickness was first noticed on Saturday the 12th day of October. His condition became serious and, as acute pneumonia set in, he passed away in the hospital on October 22nd at 8:15 P. M. He reached the age of 6 years less five days.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Mary Ann Lois and Delores Jane, both grandmothers and one grandfather and other relatives and friends.

There's a home for little children
Above the bright blue sky,
Where Jesus reigns in glory,
A home of peace and joy.
No home on earth is like it,
Nor can with it compare,
For everyone is happy,
Nor could be happier, there.

JOSHUA SUTTER, the son of Christ and Barbara Sutter, was born near Columbus Grove, Ohio, and died on Sunday, November 17, 1940, at the age of 79 years. In the year 1880 he accepted the Christian faith and united with the Mennonite Church near his home. After coming to Oregon he united with the Emmanuel Mennonite Church at Pratum in 1914, where he has been a faithful member until his departure. He was married with Magdalena Biery in the year 1885. This union was blessed with four children.

He leaves to mourn his departure his wife Magdalena; two daughters, Mrs. Leo N. Childs and Miss Etta Sutter, both of Salem; two sons, Leo of Salem and A. I. Sutter of Breitenbush Springs, Oregon; three grandchildren, James and Mayetta Sutter, and Betty Louise Childs; three brothers, David, Jacob and Emil, all of Lafayette, Indiana; and four sisters, Mrs. Anna Treida, Mrs. Minnie Baxter, and Mrs. Kate Schultz, all of Lafayette, Indiana; and Mrs. Alice Mitchel of Los Angeles, California.

Funeral services were held on November 20 from the Emmanuel Mennonite Church at Pratum with J. M. Franz officiating.

Internment was made in the church cemetery near Pratum.

GRANDMA ANNA FRIESEN FUNK died Nov. 8th at the ripe old age of over 84 years. Her husband died 18 years ago. Most of her children live in this community. They were blessed with 14 children of which four died previously. Mr. Peter Funk the oldest son is Mayor of Aberdeen, Idaho, Mr. H. C. Wiebe her son-in-law has been the faithful Sunday School Superintendent in the Mennonite Church for 24 years. All of the children play a prominent role in their respective communities and no doubt much of it is due to the fine training received through Christian parents. Mrs. Funk was buried Nov. 10, 1940, from the 1st Mennonite Church of Aberdeen. Rev. Wedel had charge of the funeral.

JACOB HAURY was born October 31, 1866, at Franklin, Iowa, and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Amos Amstutz, in Silverton, Oregon, at the age of 74 years and 18 days. He had sereval strokes which after 19 days of suffering brought on his departure.—He accepted the Christian faith and united with the Christian Mennonite Church in Kansas. He moved to Reedley, California, where he united with the First Mennonite Church. In the year 1936 they moved to Oregon and at once they established their church home by uniting with the Emmanuel Mennonite Church at Pratum, Oregon.—He was united in marriage with Ruth Gerber on February 16, 1892, at Moundridge, Kansas. His wife preceeded him in death 63 days before. This union was blessed with eight children.

He leaves to mourn his departure his seven children: Gilbert of Salem, Mrs. Amos Amstutz and Agusta, of Silverton, Ore., Hubert and Edgar of Visalia, Jacob of Woodlake, and Mrs. Homer Fussler of San Diego, California; nine grandchildren, four brothers: Henry of Newton, Kansas, Albert of Woodlake, Edward and Adolph of Upland, California; and three sisters; Mary Haury and Anna Galle of Reedley, and Emma Beutler of Upland, California.

Funeral services were held on November 22 from the Emmanual Mennonite Church at Pratum with J. M. Franz officiating. Internment was made in the church cemetery near Pratum. —J. M. Franz

MRS. MALINDA KOEHN, the daughter of Benjamin J. and Gertrude (Penner) Johnson, was born south of Lahoma, Okla., on Nov. 13, 1919. On June 9th, 1935 she was baptized upon her Faith and then also joined the New Hopedale Mennonite Church, of which she remained a true and loyal member until she was called to her reward. November 13, 1938 she married with Leonard Koehn to whom she was a faithful and loving wife, always meeting the problems of life with a smile. She lived a true and consistent Christian life and was beloved by all who came in touch with her. On October 31, she took sick, and on November 1, by the aid of a ceaserian operation she gave birth to a baby boy, named Merley Linton. Infection set in from which she suffered untold pain and agony. Four blood transfusions were given her, but of no avail, for God saw fit to take her home. During her sickness she was very patient and fearless, for she trusted in her Savior and gave evidence of being much in prayer for strength and comfort. At 9:52 P. M. Saturday evening, November 16, 1940, she breathed her last to go to be with her Savior. She attained the age of 21 years and 3 days.

She leaves to mourn her loss and too early departure: her husband, the infant son, her parents, parents-in-law, one brother Arthur, two sisters, Mrs. Frieda Eck, Eleanor of the home, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Johnson, and grandma Penner, her husband's sister and brothers and many other friends and relatives. A fitting verse chosen by the bereaved husband was Romans 8, 28: And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to his purpose.

The funeral took place Tuesday the 19th, led by the pastor, and assisted by Rev. August Schmidt, Rev. H. N. Harder and Rev. J. R. Barkman.

EDWARD H. SCHROEDER, son of Henry H. and Julia Frantz Schroeder, was born near Hillsboro, Kansas, on January 18, 1902. He attended Bethel College where he was graduated from the Academy in 1922 and from the College with the class of 1926. Soon after his graduation he started farming near Chugwater, Wyoming, and continued in this work until the end of his life.

Eddie was baptized by Rev. John Plenert in the Johannestal church on June 3, 1917, and has always remained a member of that church.

By his cheerfulness and pleasing personality he made many friends who were deeply shocked when the news of his untimely death reached them. His death was due to an accident which occured in Fort Collins, Colo. His car was struck by a fast passenger train and Miss Margaret Peterson, his fiancee, who was with him, was instantly killed. Eddie was taken to the Fort Collins Hospital, unconscious and in a very serious condition. He was called to his heavenly home November 11 at 3:45 p. m. Attained the age of 38 years, 9 months and 21 days.

He leaves to mourn his departure his widowed mother, two adopted sisters, relatives and many friends.

MRS. ABRAHAM M. DICK, NEE THIESSEN, was born near Inman, Kansas, April 10, 1881. She was baptized upon her confession of faith and received into the Hoffnungsau Mennonite Church, June 6, 1909. She was a charter member of the Buhler Mennonite Church. On June 15, 1904, she was united in marriage with A. M. Dick. Eight children were born to this union. Of late years she was failing rapidly and on Monday, Nov. 18, she was taken to Bethel Hospital, where she passed away Tuesday evening, Nov. 19, at the age of 59 years, 7 months and 9 days. She leaves to mourn her departure, her husband, A. M. Dick, six children, Sarah (Mrs. Henry Classen) of Meade, Kans.; Katharine (Mrs. Menno Schroeder) of Inman; Edward, George, Helen and Martha of the home; nine grandchildren, two brothers, George and Isaac Thiessen of Inman, and two sisters, Marie of Inman and Helen (Mrs. Pete Ediger) of Halstead and many friends. She was laid to rest, Sunday, Nov. 24 in the Hoffnungsau cemetery.

Sow the seeds of life—humbleness, pure-heartedness, love; and in the long eternity which lies before the soul, every minutest grain will come up with an increase of thirty, sixty or a hundred fold.

—First Mennonite Church, Reedly, Calif.—Their Bulletin makes these suggestions for White Christmas gifts: India: Dr. Dester, Basna, Dressings and bandages, $20.00.—S. T. Moyer, Janjgir, Bibles and Tracts, $20.00; A. E. Jantzen, Korba, Medicine for poor, $5.00; Repairs for worker's houses, $15.00; China: Cash for medicines, tracts, kerosene, etc. Oklahoma: Arthur Friesen, Chairs for meetings, $50.00; California Migratory Work, Bible fund, toys. Pac. Dist. Conference, Portland Mission and church extension fund.

—Rev. J. J. Plenert, First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., writes "Our church is ready for the new hymnals and we have $195.00 towards new books. I have been praying and asking our people to wait until this new hymnal would be ready, to see what it is like, and in the hope that we would buy our books from our Conference. Some have asked if they could see one of the new books before we buy."—Yes, good people of the First Church! Sample copies will be sent for examination to all churches or indivdiuals requesting them. These may be kept and paid for, or returned if in saleable condition.—Editor and Chm. Publ. Bd.

—Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas.—The Pastor reports: The ministers of the general area, including Halstead, Moundridge, Inman, Buhler and Hutchinson meet informally once every month to discuss problems and exchange ideas. On Dec. 2 they met at the home of Rev. A. J. Dyck and discussed pastoral calling.—Rev. J. J. Esau is to conduct meetings in this church, beginning Dec. 8 and continuing through Dec. 15.—Mr. Ben Kim, superintendent of our S. S. has been meeting with the teachers and officers every two months to discuss problems of teaching and work plans.—A group of students of the S C Movement of Bethel College gave a program in our Buhler Church, Sun. Dec. 1. The program consisted of a panel discussion on the topic, "The Uniqueness of Mennonites in the World Today."

—Bluffton College.—Prof. Russell Lantz will again conduct the Berne chorus in its annual rendition of "The Messiah," as he has done for several years. —"The Messiah" will also be given in Bluffton, on Dec. 15, at the High School. Prof. Lantz will conduct, while Prof. Hauenstein and Mrs. Mann will assist with the orchestra.—Josephine Mohr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mohr of Bethlehem, Pa., and Dale Francis of Troy, Ohio, were chosen by the student body as Bluffton's ideal college students. Miss Mohr has been very active in many campus organizations, and Mr. Francis, besides his campus activities, has charge of two rural Methodist churches, speaks over the radio and writes for newspapers.

—Rev. Phil. A. Wedel, Pastor of Menn. Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, writes among other things: This is the first time in a number of years that I did not come to Newton for some Executive meeting of the Conference and in connection attended the Bethel College Corporation meeting.—Though disappointed in the national election my prayer is that the Divine may lead the nation righteously and not reward her according to her transgressions.—The war monger is crying, the propagandist is lying, and the multitudes are deceived, for they have not the light of life. May God speed the light also in the dark places.—We have very mild weather in Aberdeen. The crops were good, but the prices are wanting. The Lord has blessed us most graciously.

—First Church, Allentown, Pa.—This church recently observed the Ninth Annual Bluffton College Day with a special message on "Christian Education" at the morning service. Hearty congratulations to this congregation for observing such a day! Would that all of our churches might remember our colleges in such a special way once a year, and make it a day, also, of prayer and gifts for these worthy institutions that mean vastly more to our Mennonite Church than many think! —Editor

—Hebron Church, Buhler, Kansas.—The Ladies Sewing Society held their annual mission sale Nov. 23. It netted $510. This money will go for missions. May God bless these gifts!—The Sunday School held its annual election Nov. 27. Mr. P. T. Franz was reelected Superintendent and Mr. Dave Enns Treasurer.—The High School students of the church organized an Intermediate C. E. with Walter Lohrentz as chairman. December 1, the Y. M. C. A. secretary of McPherson gave them a fine address on "Being Thankful," stressing character. Rev. T. A. van der Smissen conducted a series of meetings at the Bethel Church, Inman, Kansas, Nov. 17-22. The meetings were well attended in spite of rain and muddy roads. —Corr.

MARRIAGES

—JANTZ-ROBINSON.—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Precht, Lind, Wash. on Nov. 7, 1940 Miss Martha Jantz of Ritzville, Wash., was married to Mr. Donald Robinson of Belton, Mont., Rev. Edmund Miller performed the ceremony. The couple will make their home at Glacier Nat'l. Park, where Mr. Robinson is one of the Park officials.

—FUNK-PERMAN.—At the Menn. Church of Aberdeen, Idaho, Miss Euleda Funk of Aberdeen was married to Mr. Ernest Perman of American Falls, on Nov. 14, 1940.

GOD'S UNSPEAKABLE GIFT

Text: "For unto you a child is born . . . a Savior",

(For Christmas)

By J. W. Kleinsasser, Doland, S. D.

1. God is Love.
2. God's love found supreme expression in the unspeakable gift of a Savior.
3. All other good gifts are included in this one.
4. We should accept this gift with glad gratitiude.

Bethlehem! Why, this is the beginning of everything! This is the dawn of history, the fountainhead of learning, the germ of all faith and hope and trust.

We thought Egypt was the oldest country on earth. But we didn't really know anything about it. We had to take somebody's word for all that. But Bethlehem we know. This little city we can remember, from childhood. Canaan and Egypt came later. Jacob and Joseph, Moses and Joshua and David, we learned of them afterwards.

Yes, the story of Bethlehem was the first and it will be all-sufficient for saved ones at the end. Yes, it preceded all history and parable. It was the cornerstone of all teaching. No matter who says Bethlehem in tones ever so harsh and strident, a man can always hear his mother's voice repeating the story of that wonderful night, the crowded inn, and the manger, the watching shepherds and the glorious voices of the resplendent hosts, and "the little babe" in the manger.

Christmas all the year. Beloved, Christmas is a day of joy, but the joy should not be allowed to die out the next morning. It should stay with us ever after. We should sing the Christmas songs all through the new year. We should carry the peace of God in our hearts continually hereafter. We should learn from this time to find the beauty and the good in all things, and show the world that we believe what we say we believe—that, since God loves us, Jesus Christ is our friend, "all's well with the world."

Giving Self. I quote from Phillip Brooks, "Lift up yourselves to the great meaning of the day, and dare to think of your humanity as something so sublimely precious that it is worthy of being an offering to God. Count it a privilege to make that offering as complete as possible, keeping nothing back, and then go out to the pleasures and duty of life, having been truly born anew, as he was born into our humanity on Christmas day."

"Giving is God-like", the most God-like thing a soul can do, is to give. Giving is the constant activity of God. The whole material fabric is an expression of His delight in giving. The crowning manifestation of it is the gift of Jesus Christ our Savior. Dear readers, were God to cease to give, he would cease to be what he is. God is love, and love is the constant outpouring of itself for others. The chiefest among the gifts of God to us is the gift of himself.

This is "the most unspeakable gift."

The truth of our title receives large endorsement at this season, marked by generosity. Our gifts bring harvests of pleasure just in proportion as we put ourselves into them. When they have called forth thought and care and sacrifice, they are not only more welcome to the receiver, but reflect a deeper joy in the heart of the giver.

Beloved, the greatest of all gifts that the soul can make, is the consecration of one's all. But this consecration has its outward manifestation, and in deeds, as well as in words, and emotions finds its delight. Oh! that it could do something for Him that loves. It can. Jesus is here in the presence of the sick, the prisoner, the hungry, the thirsty, and the naked. Deeds done for such are done for Him. In them He is sick, and in prison, hungry, thirsty, and naked. Thus shall we keep the feast: Doing Jesus' Work.

> "For we know the Christmas spirit
> Urges all the deeds of love:
> So once sang the Bethlehem angels
> Coming down from realms above.
> Gathered 'round the Bethlehem cradle,
> And while we are singing there
> Make a worthy resolution,
> In this blessed work to share.

Peace on earth, "Joy to the world! the Lord is come," is the triumphant strain that echoes through church aisles and lifts its choral harmony from home altars. There is a pulse of gladness in the world. Every one feels it, even the most desolate and most forlorn acknowledge it, and are cheered. For unto us is born a Savior, and His name is Jesus, and He shall save his people from their sins. Time may yet pass before His reign of peace shall everywhere be established; but the day of his full ascending over every island and continent is speeding on, and the Christmastide shall finally come, when the star shall shine over an earth swept clean and white, and from shore to shore, under the complete sway of Him who bore our sins in his own body on the tree, and who now sits at the right hand of God forevermore.—Amen.

What United-Spirit Guided Prayer Might Do

God's Word chronicles many instances of prayers that brought definite results, often miraculous. We need mention only such persons as Abraham, Moses, Samuel, David, Elisha, Isaiah, Paul and Peter. There are also recorded effectual group prayers. In Acts 1:14 we read, "They all (apostles) continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, with the women and Mary, the mother of Jesus, and with the brethren." Incessant praying like this, brought about the conversion of 3000 souls on the Day of Pentecost. When Peter was cast into prison by Herod, "Prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him," and as a result an angel led him, past guards and opening gates, to freedom. Acts 12:5. When Paul and Silas had been placed in stocks in the inner prison at Philippi, they prayed so effectually that an earthquake so shook the prison that they and all the other prisoners were freed. Acts 16:25, 26. The prayers of Cornelius and his household brought Peter from Joppa to Caesaria to make them valued disciples of the Savior, Jesus Christ. Is it assuming too much to say that if we had a church that was imbued and enthused with the possibilities of effectual, united prayer, some real things might be accomplished in and for this suffering, yes bleeding and bewildered generation. Bishop Thoburn, the famous missionary in India once gave utterance to the following meaningful statement: "If added power attends the power of two or three, what transcendent power may we not expect to attend the prayer of a hundred, a thousand, a million believers." The world has seen what God and one man can do; what God and Martin Luther have done, what God and John Wesley have done, what God and D. L. Moody have done, and what God and many other devout believers have done. What might we not expect to result from the coming Week of Prayer for Churches, if the bodies of Christians the world over, guided by the Holy Spirit, would fervently intercede with God for an early and just peace, and for a cessation of military propaganda and activity! —T.

"In everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be known unto God."
—Phil. 4:6

The Faith of the Bethlehem Shepherds

by Charles G. Trumbull, Editor S. S. Times

(Given here in an abbreviated form)

Never before in our lifetime, probably never before in the nineteen centuries of the Christian era, has there been a Christmas season so filled with darkness, discouragement, suffering, tragedy, and heartbreak throughout the world as this present Christmastide in the Year of Our Lord, 1940. Many unbelievers see no hope ahead. Even many professing Christians confess that their faith is sorely shaken, well-nigh gone, as they hear of the sufferings of millions in the Far East and in Great Britain and Europe. What comfort can we find in days like these?

We can find all the comfort we need, infinitely more comfort than we need, if only we are willing to have and to use the faith of the Bethlehem shepherds.

They had only slight knowledge of God, and almost no knowledge at all of his Son, as compared with the knowledge that God has given so abundantly to Christian people today; yet those shepherds exercised a faith that is a glorious example to the most mature Christians of today, and to God's people of every degree of faith, little or much.

We all know the story well, almost by heart. These shepherds were in a field near Bethlehem, keeping watch over their flock by night, when the angel of the Lord came to them. They were sore afraid because of the glory of the Lord that shone round about them in the midst of the darkness of the night. But the angel said it was no time to fear. For "I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord." He told them how they might identify this Savior, for they should "find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger." The angel's message was confirmed by the sudden appearance of a "multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

The heavenly light faded out. The angels disappeared. The shepherds were left alone in the field, in the darkness of the night with their flock. What did it all mean? Was it a hallucination? Even if it had really happened, might they be mistaken in understanding what the angel had said?

What did the shepherds do after their minds were calmed? What do we read? "The shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us."

My good pastor of years ago in a Christmas sermon said something that taught me the deep meaning of this passage. He said, "I am afraid that, if some of us had been there that night, and had talked the matter over after the angels had gone away, we might have said something just a little different from what the shepherds said. I am afraid we might have put it this way: 'Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see if this thing is come to pass.' "

You notice there is only a very slight change in that sentence from the sentence the shepherds actually spoke.

We would be tempted to say, "Let us see IF this thing is come to pass."

The shepherds said: "Let us see this thing which IS come to pass."

Now the shepherds had not been to Bethlehem since the good news had been delivered to them. Yet they dared to say that the thing was true, that the Savior Child was born, that the facts had all happened—and they had not seen any of it! What reason had they to say that this thing IS come to pass? Well, they did not have much of a reason—only that God had said it was so! They gave their reason to one another when they said they would go and "see this thing which IS come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us." God had said it was so—that was all! "Yea, let God be true, but every man a liar" (Rom. 3:4).

The faith of the Bethlehem shepherds was simply this: they had received the Word of God; the Lord had made known certain facts unto them by the angel; this Word from God declared that the Savior, Christ the Lord, had come to earth and was lying in a manger in Bethlehem, the city of David. Because God had declared these facts to them through the mouthpiece of the angel, the shepherds knew that the facts were true, and they knew it just as confidently before they saw the babe Jesus, wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger in Bethlehem, as they did after they had seen him. They did not need to go and see him in order to "see IF this thing is come to pass." They said confidently, joyously to one another that because this thing IS come to pass, they would go and see it.

The faith of the Bethlehem shepherds was simply that they took God at his word. They believed God. And when God says IS, let us never substitute the word IF. Satan tried to get the Lord Jesus to do this, and Christ's victory over Satan, three times, was because Christ refused to accept Satan's substitute IF for God's IS.

REPORT OF THE GREAT DEER, SASKATCHEWAN, CHURCH

(NOTE:—As far as we know, this church is located farther north than any other one.)

Herewith I like to report about my work in the Home Mission field at Great Deer, Saskatchewan. In spring the beginning of the work was slow and with some difficulty, first, because the young people had to go far away from home to get work, and also because the roads were in bad condition. They worked on the roads, but this did not seem to help very much.

Five young people made application for Baptism. These were prepared for this important step by the Brethren N. J. Kroeker and I. Nickel. Later on I gave them a course of instruction in the Bible and in the Catechism. Baptismal service was in spring.

During the summer months the attendance at worship was very good and the Lord gave us great courage and joy in the work. We did not hold to the old order of services every second Sunday, but every Sunday for some time. Both of the local leaders assisted greatly in the work.

As a result the members of the Church grew in their understanding and grasp of the Plan of Salvation. We also emphasized the need of systematic giving. Each first Sunday of the month we received offerings for the War Refugees. Harvest Home and Mission Festival could be observed and on these occasions we received offerings for Relief and Mission work.

Later on three additional persons expressed their desire to be baptized. These were instructed and later on examined, then duly baptized and added to the Church. Thus the increase this year was eight new members. One wedding was solomnized and there were no deaths. We were privileged to observe the Holy Communion twice this summer. We can raise our voice in thanksgiving with the writer of the 106th Psalm, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless His Holy name."

For the support from the Board, I wish to express my gratitude, without it this work would hardly have been possible. The Lord has added His blessing to the work.

—With Brotherly Greetings, C. F. Sawatsky

—At the Annual Eastern District Brotherhood Meeting in the West Swamp Church, Pa., Rev. Olin Krehbiel gave an address on the Sixty-fifth Anniversary of the General Conference which was indeed worthwhile.

Dear Friends:

This big letter is not a "two-in-one" nor "three-in-one thing as you buy articles at home, but a "many-in-one letter," serving to answer all your letters, for which I thank you heartily. In Mr. Thiessen's absence with extra school duties, I cannot write many personal letters.

We are anxiously looking for the Thiessens to come and help us. Mr. Duerksen is very busy, looking after all the little churches and groups of Christians scattered in the villages. He has a motor-cycle and where this does not work a bicycle, and when their use is impossible because of poor or muddy roads he walks. But in traveling several days each week, Mr. Duerksen becomes a record traveler. There are new Christians or children of Christians to baptize, the Lord's supper to give, babies to bless, quarrels or difficulties to settle and the work is never finished. Mrs. Duerksen helps her husband and goes out with him sometimes, too, to the villages. She visits the homes in our large community, holds women's meetings, has charge of our Junior Church, and is busy correcting people who do not live up to Christ's standards. A single snapshot of her at work does not show all her activities, for she does many big and little things here and there.

Dr. Dester is busy in the hospital besides looking after general station and building work. He seems to be a Jack of all trades and a cracker Jack in each. Last year we had 504 out-patients, 887 in-patients, 13,000 return visits of patients, 152 major and 315 minor operations. This work kept us and ten Indian helpers very busy most of the year. We have added one more part-time worker to our staff, a trained Indian nurse who helps us in nursing women patients.

Then there is the school work, 135 primary and 102 middle school pupils, besides five village schools to look after. Of the pupils here, 130 are boarders and Mrs. Dester has to see that this big family gets fed three times a day. They are a hungry bunch. There is rice, cooked porridge style, with salt for breakfast, and milk that our boarding cows give; then comes a menu of dried split peas and rice cooked in water for the noon meal; and for the evening meal green vegetables curried with rice cooked in water. Some week ends there is whole wheat bread cooked in oil, other times a meat curry as a special treat, also a few peanuts which are cheap in India. Mrs. Dester also has charge of the primary school and helps supervise the industrial work for the middle school. That is plenty of work to fill her time, so that she does not suffer from unemployment.

I have been dividing my time between the hospital and middle school. Some days I spend most of my time at the hospital, other days in school. The industrial work of the middle school takes two hours, four days each week. Thus if I get tired of school work, I can go to the hospital and visa versa.

Shall I relate some difficulties and discouragements? Recently several thefts were committed in our Christian community and the police had to investigate, scold and threat our Christians. There is adultry, there are quarrels, disobedience, and occasionally court cases to dishoner the name of Christ. One of our leaders in a village nearby was literally robbed of all his land by a non-Christian village owner, the court decided against Patiram. The case has been taken to a higher authority now for advice, as we fear more Christians will be persecuted thus if this passes and "might makes right."

But when we see new converts coming from all directions; when we hear calls to teach them how to become Christians; when we really see a change of life in many; when we see patients recover physically who come here in desperate condition; when some are asking for gospels and tracts to take home, anxious to learn more and to tell their relatives; when the little children in school have learned Bible verses, Bible stories and gospel songs and go home to witness and cause non-Christian neighbors to say, "we, too, want to become Christians;" when older middle school pupils overcome bad habits and learn to be more useful workers in the Church; when we see many Christians grow spiritually—then our cup runs over with joy, and we forget that we sometimes get tired of several duties calling at the same time; of many people coming to our doors, day by day, to beg, to loan money, to ask for work, to tell of their troubles, to satisfy curiosity, and to satisfy spiritual hunger.

Bible Lectures at Bluffton College

by Dr. Amos Montgomery of the Presbyterian Seminary at Chicago were numerously attended and frought with blessings. The speaker stressed mostly the fact of man's sin and the gospel of his redemption through Christ. His message carried the ring of convictions that came to him out of personal religious experiences. He spoke on "Reality in Religion" and stressed over and over again the reality of sin, of the Bible, of miracles, of the cross, and of man's redemption through the cross, and other fundamental facts of the religious life. He also emphasized the seriousness of our times and challenged the church to meet the needs of our times by a new consecration to its tasks. "Be rightly positioned towards God" was one of his favorite phrases as he addressed the young people. In this connection he emphasized that the three cardinal principles of right living are:
(1) Get in the right position with God through Christ
(2) Have the right attitude towards your environment.
(3) Obtain mastery of self through Christian discipline.
He also gave much practical advice on how to be a successful minister. The minister must be the servant of God in whom the Holy Spirit dwells. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that Dr. Montgomery made a real contribution to the religious experiences of all who heard him.— The Ministers' Conference held during Bible week was one of the best in attendance and program. Twenty-eight ministers from the Eastern, Middle and Central conferences were present. The talks by Dr. Harold Stoddard of Lima, Rev. W. C. Voth, missionary from China, Dr. H. A. Fast and Prof. H. W. Berky were exceptionally well received. —I. W. Bauman

Is God a Director as Well as a Stockholder?

That God is the main factor in the guidance and growth of His business is the firm belief of Mr. R. G. LeTourneau. His factory in Peoria, Illinois, has been making earth-moving machinery for the past ten years or more and it has expanded through the depression. The fact that the expenditure of billions of public funds for roads, dams and canals has created an immensely enlarged demand for earth-moving machinery may have something to do with it, but of coures, God could be credited with singling out Mr. LeTourneau to be the beneficiary of this advantage in view of the fact that much of the profit is used for the support of missionary and evangelistic work. "God is the chief stockholder," says the president of the concern, because 67 percent of the shares are held by a foundation that was established five years ago to spread the gospel. It is therefore somewhat disturbing to learn, through the latest issue of the Newsweek, that R. G. LeTourneau, Inc., is now enlarging its plant to enter a new and still more profitable field—the manufacture of shells, for which it has received a $4,500,000 contract from the war department. This is in line with the "national defense" policy and does not, in itself, call for any special criticism. But one does not need to be either the seventh son of a seventh son or the recipient of a special revelation from on high to know that the munitions industry is going to be very profitable in the near future. One is, however, entitled to query whether the "chief stockholder" is also a member of the board of directors and whether he was recorded as voting affirmatively in the board meeting at which it was decided to embark on the new enterprise of manufacturing the instruments of sudden and wholesale destruction. If we have to make shells, it seems that it would be only decent not to drag God into it.

REPORT of the 53rd ANNUAL MEETING
OF THE BETHEL COLLEGE CORPORATION
Held November 29, 1940, in the College Chapel

Favorable weather conditions made Friday, November 29, an unusually pleasant day for the annual meeting of the Bethel College Corporation. A large crowd atended both the morning and afternoon sessions. Out of approximately 6500 votes, 4938 were represented. This is an increase of 560 votes over those cast last year.

The meeting was called to order by the president of the Corporation, Rev. P. K. Regier of Moundridge. Rev. A. E. Funk of Hillsboro, the secretary, read the Scripture, using 9:33-50, and led in prayer. Rev. Regier then addressed the meeting on the topic, "Building a Future for Our Youth or Building Our Youth for the Future."

After the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, the report of the President of the College was taken up and discussed. Various members of the staff were called upon to supplement the printed report, as their respective fields were touched upon.

It was especially gratifying to note from the Treasurer's report that the School was able to make progress financially during the last fiscal year. Enough gifts were received, not only to balance the budget, but also to reduce the debt by $4,976.05; increase the endowment by $8,259.72; and the Plant value by $24,634.87.

By special resolution, gratitude was expressed to all donors of large and small gifts; but, at the same time, it was pointed out that $8,000.00 is still needed to claim the Jolliffe gift of $5,000.00 for Memorial Hall, and that a College mortgage amounting to $33,000.00 will come due in February, 1941.

Someone has said that war should make people everywhere, and especially Mennonites, more generous and more willing to give for good and benevolent causes. May it, therefore, cause them to pray, work, and give for God's cause as expressed in the work at Bethel College.

The election resulted as follows: Conference nominees were Rev. A. J. Dyck, Inman, Mr. C. H. Goering, Moundridge, Rev. Henry Hege, Corn, Oklahoma; Mr. W. C. Andreas, Beatrice, Nebraska, The first two listed were elected. Corporation nominees were Mr. K. A. Richert, Newton; Rev. B. W. Harder, Whitewater; Rev. Jacob J. Regier, Jr., Burrton. Mr. K. A. Richert was elected.

A friend who attended the meeting sent the President the following poem, which expresses the sentiment of the Corporation in its prayer for the College.

Oh Jesus, Lord and Savior,
I give myself to Thee,
For Thou in Thy atonement
Didst give Thyself for me;
I own no other Master,
My heart shall be Thy Throne,
My life I give, henceforth to live
Oh Christ, for Thee alone.

SHARING THE SHEPHERDS' JOY

Luke 2:8-20

Introduction

The charm of the story of Christ's birth and the supernatural events which accompanied it, will always attract both the young and older people. The story of the shepherds of Bethlehem continues to be the world's favorite, and that of the wise men the next. The fact that God's Son came into the world as a helpless babe, as dependent upon the care of a loving mother as any other babe, is especially attractive. The fact that the Lord Jesus began His life in a stable, because there was no room in the inn for His mother, invests the Christmas story with added charm.

Shepherds Receive Good Tidings vs 8-14

The humble shepherds gathered their flocks together at nightfall and took turns watching them against the attacks of wild beasts prowling about in the darkness. They were men of simple faith and humility of heart who were awaiting the coming of the Messiah. Their quiet watchfulness was broken by a most unusual and glorious light which shone all about them, literally enveloped them. Fear filled their thoughts. This experience was so utterly unknown to them. The first words from the angel's lips helped to quiet their fears. The angel brought good tidings of great joy, for all people. Christ came to bring joy into the hearts of great multitudes of people. The angel announced the good tidings of the birth of the long-awaited Messiah (v11), the best news ever heard by man. The shepherds were given the privilege and honor to be the first ones to know this and to go and find the babe. Suddenly the angel chorus sang the first Christmas anthem (v14). The Savior's birth manifested the glory of God in revealing His wonderous love to man. He came to bring peace and good will on earth. There can not be peace on earth without good will in people's hearts.

Shepherds Welcome the Christ vs 15, 16

The shepherds believed the angel's words as the message of God, and at once decided to go to Bethleham to see the Christ child. They came in haste, in great eagerness, and found the babe. When God makes any great fact or truth known to us, we should at once believe it. Many today refuse to come to find the Christ. The shepherds were rare souls.

Shepherds Witness for Christ vs 17-20

The shepherds told the good tidings to others. They praised God as they went back to their flocks. The good news of salvation is given to us that we may tell others. Those hearing the shepherd's message "wondered," but Mary pondered deeply over all these things. Our joy may be as great as was the shepherds' and indeed be based on a much clearer understanding of what God has done. Accepting the "good tidings" always gives joy. The world needs Christ because man needs a Sovior from sin. We must make Him known.

God came to earth in the person of His Son. Jesus was one of us. He was the Son of God in a true human nature. Wherever He dwells there is a heavenly atmosphere. He brings light, love, joy and peace to human hearts. Unless we make Him known to others, they will not be saved and they will never share our joy. Jesus makes a different world in which we live.

What opportunities do we have in our home community for sharing the joy which comes to us through Christ?

How do you believe Christmas day can be observed most helpfully?

What wholesome value is there in giving Christmas presents?

CORRESPONDENCE

TABOR CHURCH, NEWTON, KANSAS 12-1-40

Dear Readers: On October 6 the Tabor Church celebrated a jubilee. Rev. P. H. Richert has served it 20 years as elder. The church was organized on Feb. 2, 1908. On Oct. 2, 1910, Rev. Richert took over the eldership. And, as he has served also 30 years on the Foreign Mission Board, this made it a double jubilee. The gathering was in the afternoon and with the many guests the church was filled, though the basement, where a loud speaker system had been installed, was not filled, Deacon H. B. Schmidt was chairman. There were many speakers and, if I should write of each one, this report would be too long. Asked were all those that had gone out from the church as evangelists, preachers and missionaries. Rev. J. J. Voth of North Newton was the first speaker. He read Psalm 1 and led in prayer. Rev. J. M. Janzen and Rev. Karl Friesen each spoke 3 minutes. Rev. Gustav Frey, Rev. W. F. Unruh and Mrs. Johanna Schmidt Frank had sent in their short addresses and they were read. Miss Augusta Schmidt in India and Dr. Rudolph T. Unruh, Halstead, Kansas, completes the list.

Rev. A. E. Kreider was the main speaker. He represented the Foreign Mission Board. Text 1 Cor. 4, 2, . . ." it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful." He emphasized especially faithfulness. God is faithful. He keeps his promises and prophecies. To be a preacher is a high calling of God. The Pastor is like a shepherd. A faithful Pastor has concern for all people in his congregation, the children, the young, the middle aged and the old. The children must have nurture. The young in their developing years need counsel. The middle-aged must receive help, when they are tempted and fall. The pastor must raise them up and bring them back into the fold. The aged need much comfort at times. The finest thing is that a pastor can preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Three other brethren were chosen with Rev. Richert for evangelistic service. They were: Rev. Peter Buller, Rev. C. C. Wedel and Rev. P. R. Voth. That was on Feb. 15, 1898. Buller and Wedel spoke briefly; Voth could not be present.

Sister Margaretha Richert read a biography of her brother. She related a number of important incidents of his early life. In brief she said: He has done church work for 44 years, 2 years as evangelist in Alexanderwohl, 12 years as preacher and 30 years as elder. He was elected to the Foreign Mission Board, when Prof. C. H. Wedel died, in 1910; served on the Bethesda Hospital Board for 6 years; on the Bethel College Board of Directors 21 years. As a member of the Peace Committee he went to Washington in 1917 to secure freedom from military duty for our young men. When the bill was about to pass, he succeeded in getting it to read "service" instead of "military service." This was the first step for the new law in which conscientious objectors are recognized.

Rev. Richert said: "Hallelujah! Praise the Lord, and His mercy endureth forever. We shall live for the Glory of God." —H. B. Schmidt added: He has always been willing to go the second mile."—The church presented him with these gifts: a chair, a picture of Jesus at prayer, and a leather brief case. Music was furnished by the local Ladies' Choir and two Men's Quartets. Rev. C. Frey led in closing prayer. All were served with a meal in the basement.

On Oct. 5, Alfador Frey was elected deacon and on Nov. 10, he was ordained. Rev. C. C. Wedel was the official speaker on this occasion. Nov. 11 and 12, the blind evangelist, Rev. J. J. Esau was with us. On Nov. 19, Rev. Jacob Pelz visited with us. — With best wishes, D. S. Thiesen, Corr.

EMMAUS MENN. CH., Near WHITEWATER, KS.

Greetings: In the darkness and uncertainties of these days, we need fear no one, if we will but use the faith of the Bethlehem shepherds and rest confidently on God, and let us not cease to give thanks for the blessings that God has granted us.—In November we were blessed with a series of evangelistic meetings, conducted by Dr. A. Warkentin. On Nov. 29, Rev. Esau, blind evangelist gave an inspiring message. He had conducted evangelistic meetings in our church a year ago. Because of the absence of our pastor on Sunday, Dec. 1, Rev. C. E. Krehbiel had charge of the morning worship service, and the following Sunday Rev. J. R. Barkman of the Oklahoma Bible Academy brought a message representing that school.—As we are approaching Christmas season, let us be mindful that the purpose of Christ's coming on earth was to save the lost and not to abolish war, so the aims of the church should always be to win the lost to Christ. —E. E. Entz

NEW HOPEDALE CHURCH, MENO, OKLA.

December 3, 1940

Our Weekly Bible Class has again reorganized with Levi Koehn as president and Rev. John R. Barkman as teacher. It meets every Monday evening at the Oklahoma Bible Academy school house. Wednesday, November 27, the Mission Circle held its Annual Sale. Preceding the sale, a mission play, "The Harvest is White" was presented.—Thanksgiving services were opened by Frank Thomas. Paul Barkman of Bethel College was the guest speaker. The messages were impressive, reminding us of the many things we have to be thankful for.—Sunday morning, December 1, Rev. Henry Thiessen of Whitewater, Kansas, was our guest speaker. That same evening Sister Justina Schmidt, missionary from Nigeria, Africa, showed lantern slides and gave reports, also told about her home voyage.—Frank Thomas and Wilbert Unruh from our church and Marvin Eck from the Goltry Church have gone to Chicago to attend The Moody Bible Institute. May God bless these young men and fit them for His service is our prayer.—As Christmas is drawing near, our Sunday School is preparing a Christmas program.

—Alvin I. Ratzlaff, Corr.

BETHEL MENN. CHURCH OF WINTON, CALIF.

As I have not given any report from our Congregation for some time, I feel it is high time to do so. We are still worshipping Sunday mornings in the Presbyterian Church, Sunday evenings in our own church. Every two weeks we have a fine C. E. program with good attendance, the other evenings our Pastor, Rev. D. B. Hess, delivers a sermon. In our last congregational business meeting it was decided that we have our Sunday morning worship in our own Bethel Church, after New Year.

A Christmas program is also underway at this time. Two weeks ago Rev. Hess exchanged pulpits with Rev. J. P. Glanzer of Shafter. Ours was the pleasure to listen to a wonderful message every evening, lasting from Nov. 10th, to the 15th.—Thanksgiving evening Rev. Hess delivered a very appropriate sermon in the Bethel Church, and an offering was held which is to be sent to the Home Mission Board. Monday night, Nov. 25th, Rev. and Mrs. Chris Ummel, who are mission workers in the Migratory Camps at Shafter, showed us pictures of the Camps, and told many interesting experiences of their work there. The harvest field is indeed plenteous but the workers are few, let us pray therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth laborers into his harvest.

—Mrs. A. E. Heppner, Corr.

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, DALLAS, OREGON

Greetings! October 15th was the first Anniversary of our Church, and we celebrated in real fashion. At 7 P. M. about 150 members and friends enjoyed a bountiful supper in the Church parlors. After the supper a nice program was enjoyed by all. Bro. S. S. Baumgartner of Portland and Bro. Regier, pastor of the Portland Mission, gave very inspiring talks. A few musical numbers were rendered, and in closing Rev. Homer Leisy gave a few short remarks. Everyone was well satisfied with the progress we have made in the last year.

The men got to work shortly after that great day and built a kitchen for the ladies. A room was partitioned off for the furnace. Two class rooms were made too. This work was all finished by the 8th of November when we had our Thanksgiving supper. Bro. Isaac Hill, a member of our Church, furnished the turkeys. The charge for the adult plate was fifty cents and for children twenty-five cents. Approximately 300 people partook of the supper. The proceeds amounted to $139.00. We all felt we had much to be thankful for.

On November 24, we observed the Lord's Supper after the morning services. In the afternoon Rev. E. S. Gerig of Portland spoke, also in the evening. Rev. Gerig preaches over the radio four days of the week. His messages were very inspiring.—All the children and the choir members are busy practicing for the Christmas program.—With the Seasons' greetings to all. —Mrs. Leonard Schmidt, Corr.

THE FIRST MENN. CHURCH, BERNE, IND.

Our Pastor, Dr. C. H. Suckau, was in the pulpit again on Sunday morning, December 8, after an absence of two Sundays when he was in meetings at the Bethel Church in Mountain Lake, Minn. During his absence the pulpit here was supplied by Gilead, son of Rev. D. C. Stucky of the Detroit City Rescue Mission, and by Rev. F. D. Whitesell of Chicago.

Another splendid rendition of the great oratorio, "The Messiah," was much enjoyed and appreciated on Sunday evening, December 8. The church was filled to capacity long before the time for the singing of this masterpiece had arrived, which was another evidence of the eagerness to hear the rendition of this great work, and the ever-growing appreciation of it. As usual, people came from all the surrounding towns and vicinities for miles around and listened with rapt attention to the end. The guest director was Prof. Russell A. Lantz from Bluffton College, Freeman Burkhalter having conducted most of the rehearsals during the weeks previous to the rendition. Soloists were: Miss Christine Habegger, Berne, Soprano; Mrs. Virgil Moser, New York, Contralto; Freeman Burkhalter, Berne, Tenor; Wilson Jones, Lima, Ohio, Basso. Mrs. Evangeline Embler, accompanied on the organ and Mrs. Rebecca Stucky on the piano, both from Berne.

All is again astir in preparation for the Christmas celebrations. In the various organizations of the church elections are being held at present for new officers, as well as committees being appointed, which is always necessary in the transition of the old year into the new. This community has enjoyed a beautiful fall, with very little real cold thus far. We have had only a few days of near-zero weather, and Old Man Winter has not made a very cruel appearance at yet. One can hardly realize that the year is so near at its close.

—Martha Gilliom, Corr.

MEADOW MENN. CH. (MINGO), COLBY, KS.

The summer has rolled into the past once more and another winter has begun again. On the 10th of November Rev. P. K. Regier of Moundridge was in our midst for which blessing we are very grateful. We only regret that the wind turned north at noon, with a falling temperature, later accompanied with rain, then snow, which was rather unpleasant for the evening services, but nevertheless, the Lord blessed us. The 17th of November we had the privilege af having Rev. Abr. Albrecht of Ransom with us. He came for the Sunday evening services and remained for Monday. In the morning we discussed the 2nd and the 3rd chapter of Revelation. In the evening we had services again. For Thanksgiving day, two students of Tabor College, John Ediger and Irvin Adrian spoke to us. Their service has indeed been a blessing to us. May God give them strength and bestow His richest blessing on them.

Some of our young men have already received their questionnaires under the conscription law. We praise God for a nation that permits Christians who are conscientiously opposed to military training to be deferred into constructive civil service. We also thank The Mennonite and its editor for the counsel that has been published in this respect.

—Pete Franz, Corr.

SWISS MENNONITE CHURCH, ALSEN, N. D.

Greetings in Jesus' name! On October 1st we had our annual business meeting and election of officers. Many important matters had to be voted upon. We believe the Lord led as was His will, and we trust that He will lead on, so that we as a group may be able to win souls for His kingdom. Although there are two churches in our little village, one Mennonite and one Lutheran, and three more Mennonite churches in the community, there are many families coming from Mennonite homes who attend few if any church services. For these we must pray especially and not forget others.—Since all Mennonite churches here consist of small groups, each church invites the others to the Harvest, Home and Mission festival. The Rosehill M. B. church had their festival on October 1, but, to our regret, we could not participate on account of our annual meeting. Then on October 20 the Salen Church at Munich had theirs and we were blessed to be with them. On November 10 we had the festival in our church. Rev. John Bartel of Delft, Minn., spoke in German on Gen. 8:22. Main thoughts: The greatness of God. What would our reward be if God treated us according to our deeds. Though we may be living in the lean years, they are a greater blessing to us than the fat years. Then Rev. Walter spoke in English on Psalm 100. The many things to be thankful for—To give thanks as the Lord gave thanks. Instead of giving thanks men and women turn their backs on God.— After a lunch for all present, Rev. Guenther opened the afternoon meeting with devotions. Rev. Walter then spoke on Mal. 3:8-12 and Rev. Fadenrecht in a very good sermon admonished us to be earnest in mission work, to be steadfast in faith and in the love for the Lord's work. The good Samaritan was shown to be a good example of love for the needy. Our aim in all the good we try to do should be to glorify God. Rev. Bartel spoke again. Christ alone can save souls. We must have a hunger and thirst for righteousness. Christ created such a hunger and thirst in the woman at the well. We have a great commission. Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel. No one cares for our souls as Christ does.—On November 10 the festival was at the Bethel Church near Langdon, where we were also blessed. Rev. Bartel stayed for meetings there, but cold, stormy weather made it difficult to attend them. —Minnie Kunkel, Corr.

GNADENBERG CH., near WHITEWATER, KS.

The Gnadenberg Church sends Christmas greetings to all the readers of The Mennonite. As a fellow-church member remarked, we feel acquainted with many people whom we have never seen, because we read of them in THE MENNONITE. It is a good way by which those whom circumstances have forced to lead a more or less secluded life, may feel the bond of fellowship. I was especially heartened to read the optimistic account from the correspondent of the group at Fredonia, Kansas. Anyone who knows anything of the conditions there, might well have read something akin to the pioneer spirit between the lines.—Aside from the usual church activities we have a Young Women's Bible Study Club which meets once a month. The members constitute perhaps the busiest group in our congregation. It is an opportunity by which we may for a brief afternoon be less like Martha and learn to be more like Mary.—Recently, we were privileged to have a group of Student Volunteers from Bethel College conduct the evening worship service. Eternity will reveal how much this organization has done to keep our often lagging interest in Missions alive.

During this year, two of our members, J. J. Harms and P. P. Nickel were called to their reward. Our little friend, Victor Klassen, is slowly recovering from a very serious illness.

Soon many of the churches will have their annual meetings. If there are items of business regulations that any of the congregations have found helpful, could we not have them reported to the editor? It would be interesting to have a survey made on how the various churches raise the money for church maintenance.

Yours for a Greater Kingdom year,
—Mrs. Herbert A. Schmidt, R. 3, Newton, Kans.

—The Choir of the Lorraine Avenue Church, Wichita, under the direction of Floyd Craft, will present the Cantata, "When Jesus Was Born," at the church Sunday evening, December 15, at eight o-clock. The text of the cantata was written by Von Berge and the music by E. S. Lorenz. After introductory numbers the story of the cantata goes back to the prophecy. We hear the wail of the prophets and the prophecy of the Prince of Peace. Then the shepherds' story is portrayed with Angel choirs proclaiming the glad tidings. The story continues with a lullaby and Luther's Cradle Hymn; then Simon's prayer of praise. The final chorus reminds us that "What so oft has been foretold, again with all heaven and earth we sing." The soloists: Soprano, Mrs. Gus Pankratz, Mrs. Waldo Rempel; Alto, The Misses Vella Schroeder and Selma Vogt; Tenor, Gus Prankratz; Pianist, Mrs. E. D. Schmidt; Narrator, Anton Richert.

THAT HOLY THING

They all were looking for a king
To slay their foes and lift them high;
Thou cam'st, a little baby thing
That made a woman cry.

O Son of Man, to right my lot
Naught but thy presence can avail;
Yet on the road thy wheels are not,
Nor on the sea thy sail!

My how or why thou wilt not heed,
But come down thine own secret stair,
That thou mayst answer all my need—
Yea, every bygone prayer.

—George MacDonald

An F. O. R. Experience

Into the darkened Bethel Chapel stepped my friend and I. My attention became focused upon the lighted picture of Christ kneeling in the Garden of Gethsemene. Light gleamed from candles burning here and there. It was a time of meditation and prayer. The selections, "Thou Be Near" and "Prayer and Dream" drifted from the pipe-organ and settled upon our feverished hearts and minds. "Finlandia" spoke from the organ and violin. Someone read familiar words of scripture and prayed a prayer that bespoke spiritual receptivity.

Then spoke John Nevin Sayre, national secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation. "I am afraid that it is going to get much darker,"—"If we give ourselves wholly and completely unto God." Having described how Jesus foresaw the destruction of Jerusalem and having mentioned the Dark Ages, he predicted a possible "stream-lined variety of dark ages" for the future. Then I heard of the plight of millions who may suffer from starvation this winter and of "the darkening conscience" in regard to their need. "Take heed that the light which is in you be not darkness." "God will not be defeated." "I look for the coming of God's supernatural answer." Continuing Dr. Sayre mentioned how in the World War one could have counted the pacifist ministers in New York City on the fingers of two hands and how now, however, 125 pacifist ministers in Chicago meet one afternoon every month. An F. O. R. member in France was quoted as having said, "I do not complain about our defeat.... God grant that our defeat mean victory to us and others.... we are in the hands of God always." Much more information and inspiration were imparted.

Much more helped to make up the program of this Fellowship Conference which convened at Bethel College, November 29-31. John Warren Day of Topeka was chosen as the new president of the Kansas F. O. R. The vice-presidents are, Mrs. E. L. Harshbarger of North Newton and Herman Newman of Topeka. Mrs. Mano Stucky of Stafford will serve as executive secretary.

If you would like to know more about the Fellowship of Reconciliation, write to the above individuals or to The Fellowship of Reconciliation, 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois. R. W.

Student Co-op Tour

By Esko Loewen

(This tour was made during Christmas vacation time last year. Due to lack of space it was not printed earlier. The material is of permanent interest. May you enjoy reading the series.—R. W.)

A group of Bethelites—students and former students of Bethel College—went on a Christmas tour visiting the Delta Cooperative farm, Rochdale, Miss., and the Shannondale community, Gladden, Missouri. The group was interested in seeing these poverty stricken areas of the U. S. and to see what was being done about them by the two above-mentioned projects which are concerned with the religious and material betterment of the southern sharecropper and the Ozark mountaineer.

Those who made this trip were Esther Ratzlaff, Hillsboro; Evelyn Wiebe, Turon; Inez Lawellin, Attica; Ethel Richert, North Newton; Hilda Beth Goertz, Beatrice, Nebr.; Roland Bartel, Buhler; Erwin Goering, Newton; Orlando Wiebe, Aberdeen, Idaho; Delmar Wedel, Aberdeen, Idaho; and Esko Loewen, Newton.

While at Rochdale, Miss., the travelers were the guests of Arthur Landes and his wife Margret. Art is a member of the class of '35 of Bethel and at present is operating the cooperative store on the Delta Cooperative farm.

While driving from Rochdale, Miss., north to Memphis, Tenn., we saw a typical southern sight. The country was dotted with sharecropper shanties built in the midst of vast cotton fields. Often the cotton was planted to the door of these clapboard, unpainted, two- or three-room shanties. No room was left for gardens, flowers, or trees around the dingy hut. Sights similar to this greeted our eyes mile upon mile.

It made all the more impressive the project being carried out at the Delta Cooperative farm at Rothdale, Miss. This farm, 90 miles south of Memphis and one mile east of the Missippi river, has grouped its workers in two rows of cabins. The cabins have been painted brown and white (an unusual sight in the South, we saw.) Between these two rows is the community house in which there is a library and an auditorium. On Sundays church services are held here and during the week educational meetings and socials. Even motion pictures can be shown in this hall.

The sharecropper has for many years existed on a bare subsistence income. The sharecropper group consists of the poor white and the majority of the southern negroes who farm cotton on shares with plantation owners. The plantation owner provides a mule, the tools, seed, and ten to fifteen acres of land. The sharecropper provides the labor and gets half of the crop. On that basis his income is no more than subsistence.

Living on a subsistence level has made a strong imprint on the character of the sharecropper. He is deeply prejudiced, superstitious, and suspicious. He is not very ambitious but is jealous of his meagre possessions. He is suspicious of benevolence of any type because he is not used to it. His religion is of the ecstatic type. He is very poorly educated.

The religion and educational program on the Delta farm is designed to enlighten these people and to bring out their latent capacities. The educational program is bringing slow results. The folk on the farm are learning how to cooperate and what it means to cooperate. Also they are learning how to improve their farming and their living conditions.

The religious program is slow to bring fruit. These folk like to stomp their feet and shout "Hallelujah" and "Glory be to God." They like to hear their minister holler "Wake up church." They like to roll on the floor of their church when they "feel the spirit." That is their religion. The religious leaders on the Delta farm are trying to make the religious feeling these people so intensely exhibit something that can be lived every day. Progress is being made but the sharecroppers still love to indulge in wild shouting and stomping.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Church Loyalty

A Meditation for January 5, 1941

What happens when we worship? Boys and girls, young folks, and older folks would like to know why they should stay for church services. There is a very definite plan and purpose back of our service worship. It's not just a meeting with a program arranged to fill the alloted time, a sermon expressed with hymns around it. The church service is based on experience of centuries, each part having a purpose.

There is the worshipful atmosphere.—"Who shall ascend unto the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in His holy place? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart." We are to feel and realize that God is in His church. God said to Moses, 'Take off your shoes; this is holy ground." With song and prayer we approach God.—"Draw nigh unto God and He will draw nigh unto you." We ask pardon and forgiveness for sins in a spirit of humility. We get right with God and men. Then we look to God to speak to us and give us light. This comes through the reading of the Bible. "May God bless the reading of His Word."

And then comes the sermon. It has been given a high place in the service of worship. The preacher is to take the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament, the experience of mankind and of his own life, and build them into messages of help, of vision, and inspiration. The Minister's message is to call forth something more than perhaps the statement, "That was a good sermon."

Your love and loyalty to Christ and to His church have been stirred, and to give an opportunity to express this—the collection, or better, "the offering", is taken. The offering expresses your personal dedication. It is truly a part of the worship. Thankful givers give their gifts as a token of the gift of themselves. These gifts will be consecrated to a holy purpose. The offering is a most important part of the service and should never be considered as just a way of raising money.—Every loyal church member not only fails to do his duty, but to meet his responsibilities and misses a blessing if he fails to pay his church dues and is not generous in giving for the church, missions, and conference purposes. Let no one say, I cannot pay my church dues or I cannot give for missions and other purposes. If you think you need all your money for necessities: for those things that you must or should have, then go tell it to God and He will bless the willingness of your heart to give and help you to give by way of service or in some other way.

And, after the offering, comes the closing song of praise, of thanksgiving, or dedication. There is something of that feeling of oneness which all Christians of today and all ages free in the singing of the hymns that have been sung through the centuries and are being sung the world over. Something also of the feeling that must have stirred the people of Israel when they responded with their "Amen, Amen," to the reading of the law. And finally, comes the benediction. Wait for it. It is the closing of the hour of worship.

Your church should call out your devotion. "Give of your best to the Master; give of the best that you have." You should not miss the church services unless you have to. You should come in the right spirit and attitude; come to meet God and to get something for your souls. If we come in this way it is true that we cannot afford to miss church.

The church is Christ's institution here on earth. He has blessed it and worked through it during many centuries. It has been the training school for children, the character-building institution for young people, the guide and inspiration for men and women, the comfort and hope for old age. It is the channel through which God gives strength for daily duty, victory in the hour of temptation, comfort in time of sickness and death, fellowship for loneliness, inspiration for sacrificial service, and courage to fight evil in every form and to live righteously.

It is crippled not so much by outsiders, but by its own members who are careless, indifferent, irregular in attendance, faultfinding or unfriendly. It needs your prayers, your loyalty and devotion, your wholehearted support. It will help you to live victoriously and to be followers of the Christ and of His Cross.

Song "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow."

Leader's Talk:

FOLLOW ME

As Jesus walked beside the sea He gave the call, 'Follow Me.' Although the humble fishermen did not know Jesus, so great was His personality that they dropped their nets and followed Him. How wise they were! Because they followed the Savior they had the privilege of learning the wisdom of the world's greatest teacher, and their names will be remembered through eternity.

"Jesus said, 'Follow Me.' If we are following Him, then He is our leader and He knows the way. He has told us the way very plainly in the Sermon on the Mount. He does not ask us to do anything which He has not done Himself. He knows the hard paths of life, for He has traveled them Himself. In His book He tells us how to overcome every difficulty, so it is not hard to follow Him."

The early church, however, did not have His book to guide them and so we want to see today something of the difficulties of the early church. We also want to see the characteristics of that first church.

Scripture Reading Matt. 16:15-18; Acts 6:1-7

Prayer Song "Follow Me"

Sentence Prayers

Discussion of topic:

"And when they were come in, they went into an upper room." Acts 1:13.

1. They were separated from the world.

The early church soon felt the need of having a place in which they could draw apart from the world and its attractions and distractions. On many occasions early Christians have found it difficult to gather without suffering persecution. Call to mind the picture "Pilgrims going to Church" and recall that they felt it necessary to carry guns on their way to worship.

2. The great characteristic of the early church was unity.

a. They recognized one head. "And He is the head of the body, the church." Col. 1:18. In the church Christ is the great directing head; from Him the only binding commands come forth.

b. Had oneness of spirit. They all stood in the same relationship to Christ.

c. Were of one purpose. What do you think was the early purpose of the church?

3. Ask your Pastor or your Superintendent to tell you some of the difficulties our Mennonite church had.

4. Perhaps some of your members can relate experiences they have heard or read of people on Mission fields who joined the church in spite of persecution.

January 19—Stewardship
January 26—Friendship

Verse for the Month - Joshua 24:24b: "The Lord our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey."

Song for the Month - "Who is on the Lord's Side?" M. H. B., 264.

Prayer for the Month - Psalm 17:8 "Keep me as the apple of the eye, hide me under the shadow of thy wings."

"SHIPS TO SAIL IN THE NEW YEAR"

Program for January 5, 1941

DISCIPLESHIP

Setting: For a worship center place a large copy of one of the noted paintings portraying Jesus calling some of His disciples, like "Christ and the Fishermen." Throw a light on this center.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude - Invite some one who plays the violin well, to play the prelude, consisting of a number such as "Finlandia" or "Ave Maria."

2. Call to Worship - "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men."

3. Worship in Song - "Jesus Calls Us" - M. H. B., 213, verses 1 to 3.

4. Worship in Scripture - Matthew 4:18-22.

5. Worship in Prayer - Leader's Opening Prayer.

6. Leader's Introduction of the theme of the month and of the evening. "As we start our new year, let us think of it as starting out on a voyage. Some of the ships on which we are going to sail during this month are: Discipleship, Fellowship, Stewardship, and Friendship. Tonight we are going to take the ship called Discipleship. A disciple is one who learns, a student. A disciple of Christ is one who is willing to learn of Christ and do His will. Anyone who is willing to be a disciple of Christ can sail on this ship."

7. Special Music - "I Can Hear My Savior Calling" by several Juniors.

II. Study Period

1. Story - "How Matthew Became a Disciple of Jesus" - Mark 2:14, 15 - by a Junior girl.

2. Story - "How Paul Became a Disciple of Jesus" Acts 9:1-22 - by a Junior boy.

3. Find a poem on following Christ to be read by a Junior girl.

4. Story - "How an Ethiopian Eunuch Became a Disciple of Jesus" - Acts 8:26-39 - by a Junior boy.

5. Story - "How Lydia Became a Disciple of Jesus" - Acts 16:12-15 - by a Junior girl.

6. Story - "A Disciple of Jesus Wins Others" - John 1:35-51 - by a Junior boy.

7. Special Music - Violin Number by the guest.

8. Leader's Heart Talk on what it means to be a Disciple of Jesus and how we can become disciples.

9. Prayer.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Take your leave of China today and sail for India. On the journey, again get acquainted with the missionaries so you'll know their names when you get there. Use the biographical sketches from The Missionary News and Notes.

2. Have a Junior report on points of interest along the way.

3. Pray for the missionaries.

4. Bring the Missionary Offering.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Memorize the verse of the month and the first verse of the song.

2. Pray the Prayer of the Month.

CORRESPONDENCE

BETHEL MENN. CHURCH, PERKASIE, PA.

The Fall Rally of the Junior C. E. of the Eastern District was held in our church on Saturday afternoon Nov. 23rd. One hundred and sixty-five children, about a dozen adult leaders and some friends made an inspiring sight.

The church has been tastefully decorated with spruce boughs and an Indian tepee stood on the platform, because each junior brought a Christmas gift for an Indian child in one of the Indian Missions in the southwest. The program was in charge of Miss Catherine Niswander of the First Church, Philadelphia. Miss Grace Moyer, of the Allentown Church led the singing, with Mrs. Mildred Swartz of Perkasie at the piano.

The devotional service was given by Juniors from Allentown; followed by a playlet "A Miniature Sunday School," presented by the East Swamp Society. Mrs. Norma Wismer, Deep Run, accompanied four of her children who sang a selection. Mary Lou and Barbara Kramer of Perkasie rendered an instrumental duet. The outstanding part of the program was a story for childen of missionary work in Africa, told by Miss Ella Bolton of Grace Church, Lansdale. This talented, trained leader illustrated her story with a series of prepared pictures of the African field and Mission station. The scenes were built up and changed as the leader told the event. The juniors as well as their elders were fairly fascinated. Christmas carols were sung and played, and the children quickly marched to the platform and left their gift with a little Indian maiden who was seated at the door of her tepee. Nearly $10.00 was received as an offering. The leaders of this youth work are among our most talented and consecrated workers. Not having a program I have likely omitted some parts of this most interesting "Rally."

MENNONITE CHURCH, WISNER, NEBR.

December 8, 1940

Looking back on the past few years we thank God that we were able to keep up our Sunday School quite regularly, and also had devotional services on the second and fourth Sunday of the month following Sunday School. These were conducted by members of the church.—As to our church papers in our group, we were 100% this last year, since every family had either the Mennonite or "Bundesbote," and the families with children have the Junior Messenger also. Then in our Sewing Society we enjoy the Missionary News and Notes very much. These periodicals help to keep up interest in all Mennonite activities, and no doubt are a great blessing to our small group of about 30 in all.

Rev. H. Albert Claassen of Freeman, S. Dak., has been so kind as to serve our church with very blessed Communion Services whenever asked to do so. Then lately we enjoyed inspiring services by Dr. Unruh and Prof. Walter from Freeman College one Sunday morning. And just today we were richly blessed with the services of Rev. and Mrs. Erland Waltner, who came to spend the day with us, while in S. Dakota. It was a special treat for our church since Rev. Waltner was our minister for two summers, during which time, through faithful work, he has won a very warm spot in the hearts of our people.

Such blessed Sundays mean much to our small group. May the Lord bless all who are serving so faithfully.

—Correspondent

IN MEMORIAM

MARGARETE VON RIESEN, daughter of John von Riesen and Marie (nee Wiebe) von Riesen, was born October 29th, 1864, in the village of Tralau, near Marienburg, West Prussia. Her education began in the village school and later when her parents located at another place it was continued in the city of Danzig where she stayed with her uncle and aunt Louie Zimmerman. In August of 1876, the von Riesen family left Germany to make their home in the United States of America. Early in 1877 her parents settled on a farm about 9 miles northwest of Beatrice, Nebraska. Here she attended district school and grew into womanhood. On the 20th of February, 1881, she was baptized and joined the Mennonite Church of which she remained an active member. When her father died in January, 1891, she became the main stay of her mother. The ties of love and adoration between them became increasingly strong and fast. On January, 1904, the two came into Beatrice to make their home. The death of her mother in 1909 came as a severe shock, bringing her grief and sorrow. Having desired to be a nurse, she now began her preparation. After a period of training she specialized in helping tuberculosis sufferers wherever she could and was called. In 1930 she underwent a serious operation. The results were not as had been hoped for, but left her heart in a weakened condition. Though she was taken to the hospital in 1939 for special treatment, her condition did not seem to improve.

On the mornnig of Oct. 13, at 8:30, the dear Lord who had been her help and refuge through all the years of her life called her home to accept and occupy one of His mansions. He alone can and will provide for those who love him. Peace be to her soul! She attained the age of 75 years, 11 months and 14 days.

Funeral services were held from the First Mennonite church with Rev. C. Penner and Rev. Walter H. Dyck in charge. —By the Family

MARIA DIRKSEN NICKEL, daughter of Elizabeth Franz and Heinrich Dirksen, was born April 6, 1870, in Alexanderwohl, South Russia, and departed from this life in her home in Hillsboro, Kansas, on Nov. 12, 1940, thus reaching an age of 70 years, 7 months and 6 days. In 1874 she accompanied her parents, brothers and sisters to find a new home in America, settling on a farm in McPherson County, Kansas. Here she grew to womanhood. Here, also, she received her education under the tutelage of the able teacher, Peter Balzer. Throughout her life she cherished the memories of her school days. On June 10, 1889, she was baptized upon confession of faith by Elder Jacob Buller and received into the Alexanderwohl church. On Aug. 18, 1911, she was married to our father John J. Nickel and at that time also transferred her membership to the Brudertal church, where she remained a faithful member up to the time of her death. She lived in union with father, who preceeded her in death the 1st of January of this year, for a little more than 28 years. We and friends often visited with her during these days. She appreciated these visits very much and would often speak about this. During this last harvest she still showed a keen interest in the work and counseled with us children. She was of a quiet disposition but we know that her faith was anchored in her Savior who has now received her.

She leaves to mourn her departure, us whom she received into her heart as children, the grandchildren, 2 brothers and their families, the children of her sister and many relatives and friends. —The children

KATHERINE FUNK EWERT, daughter of Peter H. and Katherina Dueck Funk, was born Dec. 16, 1871, in South Russia, and passed away at the Salem Home on Sept. 4, 1940, at the age of 68 years, 8 months and 18 days. As a 5 year old child she accompanied her family to America in 1877. Here on the parental farm in the Brudertal community northeast of Hillsboro, she spent the days of her youth. On May 26, 1890, she was baptized upon her confession of faith by Rev. Benj. Unruh and received into the Brudertal Mennonite church, a faithful member of which she remained up to her death. On June 22, 1910, she married Gerhard W. Nickel and in faithfulness stood at his side for 19 years and 23 days, when he died on July 15, 1929, leaving her a widow. On Sept. 2, 1933, she married Henry D. Ewert. During the last year of her life her health and strength failed rapidly, bringing her to a point where she was completely bedfast. She received the best of care in the Salem Home. For a time we had hopes that she might recover. But God had planned it otherwise. Quietly and in a spirit of helpfulness she lived her life. She was much interested in the work of the Ladies' Mission Society and enjoyed the services of the church. Although her life was marked with many a dark day, she bore it all with patience. Her help was from the Lord whom she served.

She leaves to mourn, the Henry Ewert family, one sister, one brother and a host of relatives and friends. We mourn but with the comforting hope of a blessed reunion. —Henry D. Ewert and family

—A Joint Conference of Schwenkfelders, Brethren, Friends and Mennonites was held in the Germantown Mennonite Church on Monday, December 2. Sessions were held in the afternoon and evening.

« « JOTTINGS » »

A Word of Appreciation from Rev. J. J. Esau.—It has been our greatest delight and pleasure to visit many of the Mennonite Churches in our Conference, conducting inspirational and evangelistic services during the past year. The people everywhere have been so very kind and have shown us such a generous spirit of reception. We feel that the Lord has blessed our efforts in the ministry of His word, and we pray that He may continue to bless our people in furthering the cause of Christ. We're wishing all our friends a most joyous holiday season and a most prosperous New Year. The Lord willing we will continue the work of Evangelism in the coming year as the Lord leads.—The Esaus are residents of Bluffton, Ohio.

—CHRISTMAS GREETINGE.— Perhaps we are rushing the season but OUR CHURCH extends to all its readers a hearty wish for a truly joyous Christmas season. We trust that the din of the rumblings of war will not mar our Christmas music and that the shadows of fear and anxiety will not hide from us the bright Christmas "Star." We need to look up and not down in these days and if we do so we shall discover that the Prince of Peace is still waiting to help this groaning and mangled world.

—From Bulletin, Second Ch., Philadelphia

—Rev. P. P. Wedel, Moundridge, Kan., reports:—My health is not yet normal. The Doctor promises that I can begin to do some work by the end of the year.

—A Paper from India.—A very creditable six-page paper, entitled INDIA CALLING, Number 1, August, 1940, lies before us. Its motto is: "Other sheep I have, them also I must bring and they shall hear my voice." John 10:16. It identifies itself thus: "This news sheet, INDIA CALLING!" is published by the Missionaries of the General Conference Mennonite Mission of the Central Provinces in India. All matters of correspondence and requests for additional copies may be sent to the Editor. Our present plan is that this sheet shall appear three or four times per year. Editor, Rev. S. T. Moyer, Janjgir C. P. India." Printed at the Mission Press, Jubbulpore, India.—The content headings are: Jottings, Personals, Prayer Items, "In the Hymalya Mountains," by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Janzen; "Tuno is Dead," by S. T. Moyer; Bethesda Leper Home by P. A. Penner. The following are the prayer items: For the Language students, for the beginning of large ingatherings, for revival at all our stations, for all our institutions, for one of our leading young men against whom there is proof of immorality, for the Evangelistic workers at Mauhadihi, for an Indian doctor for Basna, for plans for Fortieth Anniversary, of founding of work in India, etc.

—"The Health Guild Messenger," Vol. I, No. 3, published by the Health Guild at Wichita, Kansas sponsored by Rev. E. D. Schmidt, lies before us. The following are items of interest on its pages: Be Strong, "Motors," To Break up a Cold, Alimentary Time Table, Our Health, A Personal Message, by Edward D. Schmidt.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—This means Business: A committee of fifty church members, men and women, has been appointed to solicit funds for the 1941 church budget. This appears to be a practical idea to have so many participate in getting the means for church support and other worthy needs. We hope and can almost predict that the effort will more than succeed.

—First Mennonite Church of Upland, California.—On December 1st the singers and musicians of this church again rendered "The Messiah" under the able direction of its pastor, Rev. Lester Hostetler. A chorus of fifty-five voices, accompanied by organ and piano and assisted by a string ensemble participated in the rendition of this great masterpiece. Henry Buller has been accepted by the Mennonite Central Committee for Relief work in England. His present address is Butterfield, Minn.

—Four Mennonite Young Women in a Terrible Auto Collision. Katie and Mary Andres, sisters, Augusta Unruh, all of Newton, Kansas, and Loise Boese of Goessel, Kansas, left Newton Monday morning, Dec. 9, on a vacation trip to Carlsbad, New Mexico. Tuesday morning they made a pre-daylight start from Clovis, N. M., to reach the Carlsbad caverns in time for the Tuesday exploring party. On the road to Roswell they drove into a disabled truck left standing on the road, while the driver was looking for help, though, as he claimed, with lights on. Two of the young ladies, Mary Andres and Loise Boese were killed instantly. The other two were taken to the hospital at Roswell in a critical condition. At this writing (Thursday p. m.) Katie Andres seems to be coming through, while Miss Unruh's condition is very serious. She is a sister of the Reverends P. H. and H. T. Unruh.

—Berne, Indiana.—A unique Father-Son Banquet was recently held at Berne. Two hundred men and boys took part. Mr. E. W. Baumgartner, leading townsman, acted as toastmaster. Mr. J. P. Habegger, revered father and grand father and long a leader in the community, was the oldest father there. Burkhart Lehman was present with his seven sons. A local minister responded to the toast, "The Kind of a Son I would Want to Have If I had one," and Kenneth Neuenschwander, "The Kind of a Dad I would Want to Have if I had one." The main speaker seems to have emphasized the thought that father and sons must get off the fence and jointly help solve the problems of life.

Closing the Year

Text: Jeremiah 14:7-8

by P. P. Wedel

In discussing this text, it is not the purpose to interpret these two verses, but to make a few applications from them concerning the closing of the year.

Jeremiah took stock of his people. A terrible drought was causing intense suffering. He knew that Israel's sins brought upon them such suffering. What could he do but plead with God for mercy and with Israel to leave their sins.

At the close of a year we too will do well to take stock of the past year. What has it brought us? How have we responded to the Lord's blessings? Have we been truly thankful? How have the problems, trials and afflictions affected us? May such a taking of stock drive us to do at least four things.

I. Recognize our shortcomings and sins

Jeremiah recognized Israel's sins. He was conscious of His own shortcomings. He spoke of, "our iniquities." Can anyone let the year now drawing to a close pass by his mind's eye, and not become conscious of the fact that only too often he fell far short of what he should have been and done? Sins in thought, word and deed, sins of commission and sins of ommission,—are we conscious of them?

II. Confess our sins

"Our backslidings are many, we have sinned against thee." Thus Jeremiah confessed his sins and his people's sins. How we need to confess our sins,—our personal sins, our national sins, the sins of the Church, the sins of our community. In all of them we are involved. If we were to enumerate in confession every sin of the year, what a list it would be! "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." I John 1:9.

III. Repent

The text does not mention repentance; but it breathes its spirit. Humanly speaking, Jeremiah seemed as a sojourner and wayfarer in the land, yes as one who had revealed His omnipotence in the past though now was unable to save. But why? Because Israel's iniquities separated them from God. They were experiencing His judgments as a result. Many things should drive us to repentence because of our sins. Two of them are God's judgments and God's grace. The year 1940 has been a year of judgments. Let us recognize this fact. But, generally speaking, we have been spared. We have experienced much grace. Who can enumerate the tokens of the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ received during the year? Whether judgment or grace: both should spur us on to repent, to turn away from sin unto Christ.

IV. Put our trust in the Lord

Notice the expressions of trust in Jeremiah's words. "Work thou for thy name's sake." "Thou hope of Israel, the Savior thereof in time of trouble." "Thou, O Jehovah, art in the midst of us, and we are called by thy name." "Leave us not." How Jeremiah thrusts himself and his people upon the grace of God!

We have just passed through the Christmas season which reminds us of the unspeakable grace of God. It is grace that Christ came into the world and on the cross gave His holy body as a sacrificial offering for our sins. "And the blood of Jesus His Son cleanseth us from all sin." I John 1, 7. He will forgive our sins of the past. He will give strength and courage for the future to be victors over sin and failure. This He will do if, in faith and loving trust in Jesus Christ, we thrust ourselves upon His grace.

To Jeremiah God revealed that it was too late to avert judgment over Israel—too late because Israel would not turn unto Him, but was bent on listening to the false prophets. May we recognize our sins, confess our sins, repent of our sins, and in faith look unto Christ our Redeemer, lest it become too late for us also. May the grace of Christ go with us out of the old and into the new year.

HE'LL GO WITH YOU

The Lord will direct all your pathway,
Go where He leads
He'll never forsake, never leave you,
He'll meet your needs.
He'll be with your thoughts, will teach you
What you shall say;
He'll crown all your labor with blessing,
Up, then away. —Neighbor

New Year's Thoughts

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, whence cometh my help." Psalm 121:1. Whither shall we look at the beginning of the new year? Look behind us? Some would prefer not. They would rather blot out the memory of the year just passing. We need only to think of the innumerable throngs of people who have experienced the horrors of wars that have been going on for over a year. Then there are those who go through life without Christ without whom no one can be truly happy. They would hardly want the last 365 days to pass in review before their mind's eyes. Others naturally worry about things that cannot be helped. And there is no habit more deadly than regretful brooding over days that are gone and deeds that are beyond control. The real Christian, however, will entertain thoughts of gratitude for all the blessings and mercies received at the hands of God. Look round about us? Many, yes countless numbers, would prefer to be spared the sight of the pictures of merciless destruction, of wholesale murder, of people made homeless, and many more reduced to want, poverty, and starvation amongst the warring nations, and the sight of a world steeped in sin and wickedness. If it were possible most of us would like to see such sights pass into oblivion, never to show up again. Look forward? Yes, but we do not know what a single day may bring, much less a year of 365 days. Our gracious heavenly Father's wisdom wisely veils the future from our eyes. However, as long as the world continues, many people will be full of hope for the future, while the natural heart worries and frets and wonders what will happen in the days to come. Yet, though the future is hidden, there are some things we do know. We know that in the coming year, if we live, we shall have to contend and fight against sin and evil; that the year will bring innumerable opportunities for doing good, for helping some one lighten his burden, and for furthering our growth in the Christian life. Look up, over us? Yes, that is it! The upward look to the hills whence our help comes, this is our great, God-given privilege. It seems that the Jewish pilgrims going up to Jerusalem for their festivals chanted this verse and the 121st Psalm. How much more should it be our concern to place our fate for the coming year in the hands of God, who in Christ has wrought our salvation. Yes, if we look up to Him every day, every hour, trusting Him to the uttermost, no matter what may befall us, we shall be able to go through the year undismayed. For our help comes from the Lord, maker of heaven and earth; he will not suffer our foot to stumble; he as our keeper will not slumber; under His care the sun shall not smite us by day, nor the moon by night; he shall preserve us from all evil; he shall preserve our going out and our coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore. —T.

PUBLICATION

THE MENNONITE HYMNARY

It will be welcome news to all who are interested in The Mennonite Hymnary that the shipments of the book reached our distributing offices just barely before Christmas. We had hoped that they would arrive a week or ten days earlier, but being boxed and shipped by freight as the safest way, they were rather slow coming. One thousand will be delivered from the Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kansas, which already has orders for more than 1200 copies, two thousand from the Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Indiana.

Those who have seen samples of the book are universally pleased with it. Prof. Russel A. Lantz of Bluffton College writes: "The book came this morning (December 20) and, when I saw what the package contained, I was so thrilled that I could hardly undo it. It is truly a fine looking book, both outside and in, and I am proud to have had a tiny share in its production."

With each book will go a copy of a program for dedicating the Church Hymn Book, which was prepared by a committee of Brethren that revised the "Minister's Handbook." A little later several copies of a very valuable booklet of about fifty pages will be mailed free to each church ordering the book and to interested individuals. The booklet was prepared with a good deal of painstaking study by Prof. W. H. Hohmann, head of the music department of Bethel College. It is titled, "Outlines in Hymnology with Emphasis on Mennonite Hymnology." The Foreword lists the following reasons for its preparation:

1. "To present in brief outline form the periods of hymnology and some of the leading men and hymns of each period."

2. "To present the Mennonite heritage of hymnology and to help create a greater interest in this heritage."

3. "To stimulate and revive a greater interest in church music and congregational singing in the churches."

"The booklet is intended to serve as a handbook to The Mennonite Hymnary for Ministers, Choir Leaders and others interested in church music."

Judged by present indications, the three thousand copies of the Hymnary now on the market will be sold before long, and the remaining two thousand of the first edition of 5000 will have to be called for. May God, whose divine Spirit greatly aided the production of this hymn book, now bless its reception and influence wherever it is used.

A. J. NEUENSCHWANDER, Secretary

EVANGELISM

Early in 1940 the Home Mission Board appointed a Committee on Evangelism, composed of Rev. W. F. Unruh, Rev. Erland Waltner and Rev. J. J. Plenert, of the Home Mission Board, as Chairman.

The Committee worked out a questionnaire which has been mailed out to all Churches with the request that it be filled out and returned. This investigation is to give them valuable information, to guide them in their future efforts. It is hoped that you who are pastors have answered and reurned these sheets.

In due time, we will have further suggestions from the Committee on methods of work for the winning of many who are still outside the fold of Christ to an acceptance of Him as their Lord and Savior.

It is the desire of the Committee that you bear them up in your intercession before the Lord.

Rev. John J. Esau, Bluffton, Ohio

Rev. John J. Esau, is an Evangelist, and for approximately two years has been doing extensive evangelistic work in other as well as in many of our General Conference Churches.

Some time ago Rev. Esau expressed a concern to the Home Mission Board. It is this, that while working alone, and not under the direction of the Home Mission or any other Board, he is constantly seeking to work in close cooperation with all the policies of the General Conference.

From reports that have come to the Home Mission Board, we feel that Rev. Esau is doing good work in the field that the Lord has opened to him.

W. D. C. LOAN LIBRARY

The Education Committee of the Western District Conference at its last meeting, passed the following resolution: "Moved to release books which have accumulated in connection with the Loan Library and are not in use to the Mennonite Central Committee for relief purposes."

On the basis of this resolution 210 pounds of books were sent in 20 packages to Akron, Penna., to be enclosed in a larger shipment to Canada. By far the largest percentage were religious books printed in German. But there were also some valuable English book added.

The Committee will be glad to continue the collection and distribution of good books, if the donors are willing to give the Committee full authority to use the books wherever they can be placed to the greatest advantage. Until now far over one thousand books have been distributed profitably.

Homeward Bound!

Hongkong was reached on November 9th p. m. There was much to be attended to by the authorities, consequently landing was considerably delayed. On Sunday morning the Methodist church administered through her worship, a timely sermon satisfactory to the inner desires; God's children find avenues of encouragement. "How sweet this fellowship proved!" After the more than 1300-feet incline railway was employed to get to the mountaintop path beholding nature's beauty around us, the ocean dotted with numerous islands declared God's wonderful handiwork (Ps. 19:1). The ferry transferred us again to the boatside. The boat was scheduled to leave at 4 p. m. On the way hoodles of children became our disciples, stretching out their pitiful hands for alms. A coin was dropped into quite needy hands, resulting in augmenting the number frightfully. The flock increased enormously; gifts were discontinued.

Hongkong is a small strategic British possession in south China, only 90 miles from Canton on an island 32 miles sq., since 100 years. Its latitude is even with that of Cuba, it has a population of some 500,000. The entire British possession with that on the mainland covers only 391 sq. miles. The harbor is numbered among the choicest of the world. Nowadays the waters are heavily mined, our boat was piloted through a narrow passage to its mooring, the mountainsides show cannon pointing toward the entrance. Battleships show their alertness. Isa. 2:4 has not as yet come to its fulfillment, there is displayed not the least tendency among nations at present.

One day the result of the presidential election was divulged through the daily boatpaper. The American citizens resented the outcome, bolstered their remarks with occasional harsh words. Our duty consistently remains to follow the admonition to think of our executives with intercessory prayer. Why did this reelection for a third consecutive term occur? Let our speculation be kept under control, not to limit God and our prayerful attitude. There must positively lie something in wake to fulfill God's Word.

Since November 12th we are waiting here in Manila to embark on the President Adams on the 18th, to arrive in Bombay December 6th. War conditions upset these days regularities seriously: the ships detour, schedules are cancelled, passengers meet disappointments, not being allowed to embark, or to disembark, go ashore at anchorages, the visas become uncertain. How infinitely happy will one feel when ultimately destinations are reached. Man tries to solve this uncertainity without letting God speak, ignoring utterly, "Not by might, not by power, but by MY Spirit (Zech. 4:6)!"

Now we are lingering on the emerald Philippine Islands or "The Islands of the South" as they were called as early as 525 B. C. This group consists of 7,083 separate islands, stretching from northwest to a little southeast more than 2000 miles not far from the southeastern shores of China. This group was discovered by the Portgeuse Ferdinand Magellan in 1521, who was killed the same year in a battle with the natives. Out of the five ships and 278 men, only one ship and 18 men returned, thus completing the first circum-navigation of the globe. At the place where Magellan discovered the islands stands a hollow wooden cross at Cebu. The Philippines were named after Philip II of Spain. Almost uninterrupted the Spanish government ruled this archipelago until 1898, when the U. S. A. brought them under their control. The walled city inside of Manila dates back to 1600 A. D., in it are several churches, as San Augustin with a silver altar. The University of San Tomas founded in 1611, is older than any educational institution in the U. S. A.

Manila, the capital, with more than 560,000 population, offers an interesting panorama. Chinese, Japanese, Philippinos rub elbows with Europeans and turbaned Hindus. The tapping of slippers, the clop-clop of wooden sandals on the pavement, the clatter of ponies' iron-shod hooves, the clanging of bells on the vehicles, and the shouts of the drivers, mingle with the horns of trucks and autos to produce a strident medley of sounds. Forget not the colorful picture of the bright-hued dresses of the women, with the huge starched sleeves and their long trains caught up and stuffed into the waistband, as well as brightly flowered, collar-less shirts of the men which dangle loosely and coolly outside the trousers.

The markets carry almost every commodity necessary. They are crowded during the morning and at about 5 p. m. The isles swarm with gesticulating, shouting, bickering purchasers. In some corners men will be squatting in groups with their favorite fighting cocks as we beheld in Bali Island two years ago. They talk quietly among themselves while they stroke and groom their birds, training them in attack and defence.—The churches, the older ones, are erected in the Gothic style. The Catholic churches, laid low by typhoons and earthquakes, and rebuilt several times, rear their spires and domes against the blue sky. The sunset offers a most delightful sight. Darkness hurriedly lowers, as everywhere in the tropics, hiding the spires of churches. Churches of all denominations provide for the church-goer ample room in various places among the most attractive parks, or in higher altitude overlooking nature's beauty.

The population of the islands soars to 16,000,000, the major portions are Chinese, next Japanese. Of these millions the Catholics claim more than 12,000,000, the Protestants around 378,000. There is a great mission field presenting itself on these islands of the East. They are jeopardized by Japan to be engulfed into their Empire. What does in the future loom up for this archipelago? Would that more Christ-Gospel be disseminated to direct the hearts to God alone!

The O.B.A. 5 Week Special Bible Course

We agree with the Chairman of the Fellowship of Reconciliation when he claims that the world is facing another Dark Ages. It is our privilege to live on this side of the Atlantic in a country of liberty where we may meet necessary preparations undisturbed. What are we doing about it? Let us definitely mobilize our youth without fail. Avail yourself of the Five Week Special Bible Course, beginning Jan. 20th, with the following ministers as special speakers for the first four weeks: Rev. P. P. Tschetter, Rev. H. N. Harder, Rev. J. C. Kaufman, Rev. Clyde Dirks. The speaker for the closing week will be announced later. For further information drop a card to

Our Historical Library

Recently Dr. A. P. Friesen, North Newton, and G. G. Wiens, Los Angeles, sent us some very interesting school books which were used in Mennonite Schools as far back as 1768.

The library also received two church song books (Gesangbücher) supplement to our collection of 110 editions. The first one is the Hollandish edition of "Veelderhande Schriftuurlyke Liedekens" of 1752, which was used in the Mennonite church at Amsterdam and the other is the "Gesangbuch" of the Mennonites in Hessen, the Palatinate, etc of 1859. The latter has the name of "P. Hochstettler zu Wolfring" printed on the cover. The donors of these two much appreciated books are Dr. A. P. Friesen, N. Newton, and Mrs. Wirkler, Pasadena, California.

The historical material does not only reveal the life of our people in the past, but also how they permitted themselves to be used by God to build His Kingdom. Therefore let us honor and preserve what God has entrusted to us from previous generations.

National Service Board for Religious Objectors

Washington, D. C., December 23 . . . Conscientious objectors, judged sincere by local draft boards, will do "work of national importance" under the direction of the Brethren, Mennonites, and Quakers, according to a plan approved by President Roosevelt on December 19th.

The work will be coordinated through the National Service Board for Religious Objectors, which maintains offices here in the National Press Building under the direction of Paul Comly French, and which represents the American Friends Service Committee, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, the Brethren Service Committee, and the Mennonite Central Committee. Recently the Methodist World Peace Committee voted to affiliate with the National Service Board, and other religious groups have been clearing their C. O. problems through the Service Board.

Under the approved plan, which was prepared by Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, Director of Selective Service, General Lewis B. Hershey, Colonel William H. Draper, and Major Guiton Morgan in consultation with French, the four groups have agreed to finance, tentatively and within the limits of their ability, "work of national importance" in conjunction with various governmental technical agencies such as Soil Conservation Service, the Forestry Service, and the Land Reclamation Service.

Dr. Henry A. Fast, of Newton, Kansas, will direct the Mennonite camps; Dr. M. R. Zigler, of Elgin, Illinois, will have charge of the Brethren camps; and Dr. Thomas E. Jones, President of Fisk University, will direct the camps for the American Friends Service Committee.

First units will be established by the American Friends Service Committee in the Patapsco State Forest, 20 miles southwest of Baltimore, Maryland; by the Brethren Service Committee in the Maniskee State Forest in northern Michigan; and the Mennonite Central Committee will establish a soil conservation unit in Rockingham County, near Grottoes, Virginia. The Friends will likely have some boys in camp at Cooperstown, N. Y., and the Brethren plan a unit at Daleville, Virginia.

Other camps are planned for southern California, the Pacific northwest, two in the Illinois-Indiana-Kentucky area; two in the Kansas-Colorado area; one in the Texas-Oklahoma section, and one in Florida. Other units will be established as rapidly as conscientious objectors are called to perform a year of national service by the local draft boards.

Several of the camps may be operated under the joint control of the four sponsoring agencies and the Methodist World Peace Commission, or by two or more organizations functioning together in territories in which neither group has a large membership.

A PRAYER FOR BRITAIN

BY Fitzhugh Thomson

Lord God of Battles hear the prayer
A myriad hearts and voices send,
For those who bitter burdens bear.—
For Britain, tried and faithful friend.

Fulfill Thine ancient promise, Lord,—
Who takes the sword not in Thy might
Shall perish by the selfsame sword,—
Save Britain battling for the Right.

Thine was the Red Sea rout of old,
Thy storms Armadas once dispersed;
Again Thy sovereign power unfold,
Save Britain from the foe accurst.

A PRAYER FOR CHRISTIANS

With Apologies to Fitzhugh Thomson,
by W. H. Dyck

"Lord God of Mercy, hear the prayer
A myriad hearts and voices send,
For those who bitter burdens share,—
For Christians, loving to the end.

"Fulfill Thine ancient promise, Lord,—
Who takes the sword in wilful might
Shall perish by the selfsame sword,—
Save Christians who demand their Right.

"Thy way is love, as Jesus told,
Thy calm all aching fear dispersed;
Again Thy sovereign power unfold,
Save Christians from a hate accurse."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus and Human Affliction

Luke 13:1-5, 10-17. Read Chap. 13

Introduction

The lessons of this quarter have been selected to help us see how Luke's Gospel reveals the warm human sympathy of Jesus and His regard for the present welfare and the eternal salvation of men. The lessons of the quarter show that He put a high regard and valuation upon human personality. Man's highest welfare was more important than rabinnical tradition. Jesus relieved human distress and made clear our obligation to do so. Affliction commonly means distress of body or mind, or anything which causes physical or mental suffering. Few people live very long without some taste of it. Some people still believe that serious afflictions are usually a punishment for sins.

Jesus Warns vs 1-5

Judas of Galilee led some Galileans in revolt against payment of the Roman taxes. Pilate ruthlessly slaughtered these rebels (v1). Josephus says 3000 Jews were killed during the sacrifices at one passover. The incident of the tower of Siloam falling and killing eighteen people (v4), is otherwise unknown. Such disasters were interpreted as a judgment from God. Jesus declared emphatically that those who perished in these disasters were not exceptional sinners (vs 3, 5). He does call attention to the impending doom of all who will not repent of their sins and seek God's grace and mercy.

Jesus, the Merciful Healer vs 10-13

Jesus went to the synagogue on the sabbath. Luke, in this brief narrative, centers our attention on three persons; Jesus, the greatly afflicted woman, and the cold-hearted ruler of the synagogue. Luke sketches the woman vividly (v11) and we see her utterly beyond human help. Then we see Jesus and hear Him (vs 12, 13) and immediately she is fully healed. Jesus is calling the unfortunates to Himself today (Matt. 11:28-30). His compassion is practical. There is power in His word and in His touch.

The Merciless Ruler of the Synagogue vs 14-17

He was filled with indignation because Jesus healed the woman on the sabbath day. He had neither love nor compassion in his heart for an afflicted person. He was religious, but his kind of religion cares only for observing regulations. It is cold, heartless, unmerciful and will save no one. Jesus reveals the ruler's hypocrisy to him. The woman's affliction was not God's will for her (v16), and she deserved to be healed on the sabbath day. Jesus put His adversaries to shame and filled the people with joy.

Christian Interpretation of Affliction

Much of suffering, affliction and disaster is the inevitable result of the outworking of God's laws in the natural and moral realm, when these laws are violated. God does not, as a rule, work miracles to set aside His laws. Much of the affliction in the world is the direct result of carelessness and of sin, either on the part of the sufferer or on the part of others. Think of the suffering from vice, strong drink and the horrors of war. God permits affliction to come upon the innocent. He also offers compensating rewards. He gives grace to endure where He does not remove afflictions. Suffering may beautify and enrich character. It may make God's presence more real. Christ is much concerned when people suffer. His grace fills the soul with an inner radiance which shines in triumph in the midst of suffering.

How does Christ help us in enduring afflictions?

What are some of the afflictions from which people suffer, that could be avoided?

Why do adversity and affliction arouse bitter complaints in some people?

CORRESPONDENCE

BERGFELDER CHURCH, DELFT, MINN.

Another year is nearing its close, and we have indeed many things to be thankful for; probably foremost is the fact that our nation is still at peace and we may carry on our worship services quietly.

Our state observed Thanksgiving the third Thursday, Nov. 21, so our churches likewise had a festival on that day. For morning and afternoon services the Mt. Lake Bergfelder Church invited our church to attend their program. Rev. John Bartel of our church and Dr. P. R. Schroeder, and Missionary Anna Quiring were the speakers, with Rev. H. H. Quiring in charge. For the evening service the Delft Church in return invited the Mt. Lake Church and our speakers were Dr. P. R. Schroeder of the Bethel Church and Rev. H. H. Quiring, while Rev. Bartel presided. Snow fell most of the day, but the Lord blessed all who came out through the messages and songs. On Sunday, Nov. 24, our newly elected deacons, Mr. John Wall and Mr. D. J. Goertzen, were installed by Rev. Bartel at a very impressive service. The business meeting of the church was conducted Friday evening, Dec. 6. Sunday School Superintendent and other officers were elected, and other business taken care of. We are thankful for a God of order who has distributed talents wisely to His children, and that there is a place for everyone, be it great or small.

We are having a harsh winter with much snow and many blizzards. May we at this blessed holiday season more than ever remember the Perfect Gift, Jesus Christ. —Mrs. Abram P. Baerg, Corr.

FRIEDENSBERG MENN. CHURCH, AVON, S. D.

Our church is nearing the close of another prosperous year. We have a good attendance that assembles for true worship. The membership, as well as the offerings of our S. S. have increased. We have enjoyed a special number every Sunday since the beginning of the year. This has been brought about by drawing the special number from a surprise box one week in advance for preparation. Our Ladies' Mission Society is active in Mission work. For Thanksgiving day they arranged a free community dinner with an exhibit and sale of their articles for the benefit of missions. Following the serving, which began at 5 o'clock, an inspiring mission program and a generous free-will offering was given. The members of our church have cooperated in painting and varnishing our church, which were the finishing touches it needed since it was moved on the new basement.

The hearts of a large number were saddened today because of the funeral of Bro. J. B. Becker.

He will be missed greatly, because he always had a kind and comforting word for every one. He was one of the strong pillars of our church and his home was always open for visitors.

Many are looking forward to conference time in June, with a slightly worried expression on their faces, because the Northern District Conference is to meet here, and our community is rather small, besides two valuable homes have been broken up this summer. But we are committing our plans to Him who has a plan for each one of us.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, COLFAX, WASH.

As the year is coming to a rapid close, you must get a few lines from here. How much we have to be thankful for, with all the sorrow, death, and destruction going on. How fortunate that we have our freedom to worship the true and living God, Father of all creation. Praise and glory unto Him! —We had our annual church meeting where business was transacted for the coming year. Progress is noted in the Church and Young People's Society. Twelve new members were added to the Church by baptism on confession of faith. There were no deaths this year.—We have also been visited with gospel messages from a number of ministers and missionaries.

We had the privilege of celebrating a silver wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schluneger celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on November 23, at the home of her sister. Approximately 65 guests were present.

We are planning a program for Christmas eve.—Wishing all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. —Correspondent

BETHEL CHURCH, VERSAILLES, MO. 12-16-40

We have enjoyed a year of blessings both materially and spiritually. We are reminded again and again that our Heavenly Father cares for His own. The Christian Endeavor retreat was held at Gravois Beach, August 28-29-30. Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Voth, missionaries from China, were the principal speakers. Sunday Aug. 31, they also spoke at Bethel Church. In the evening, Rev. Voth showed pictures on China Mission Work. On October 20th, a dedicatory service of the electric Lights was held at the Church. Nov. 3-10, Dr. Arnold Shultz, Bluffton, Ohio, held a series of Bible Lectures. These services were very instructive and inspirational. His slides on Palestine and Europe were much enjoyed. In the afternoon of Thanksgiving day members of the C. E. enjoyed a trip to Jacob's Cave.—Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Epp and sons of Lincoln, Nebraska, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Loganbill, during Thanksgiving holidays. Bro. Epp gave an interesting talk in Sunday School, which was greatly enjoyed.

The Missionary Society met at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Unruh. Most of the day was spent in quilting. An interesting program was given, with Mrs. Elmer Garber as leader.

On December 8th Rev. and Mrs. Unruh tendered their resignation to accept a call of a Mennonite Church at Kingman, Kansas. This resignation is effective January 26. The church wishes them God's richest blessings in their new place of work.

We wish the readers a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. —Mrs. O. E. Baumgartner, Corr.

WEST SWAMP, FLATLAND, BETHANY CHURCHES, PA.

We extract the following interesting items from their Church bulletin of December 8: All three churches have interesting Christmas programs. On Dec. 22, the choir of the Bethany church presents the cantata, "The Christ Child," by C. B. Hawley. This church observes Holy Communion Sunday evening Dec. 29. The members of the churches are reminded of their Christian duties as follows: "Inventory time comes with the New Year. Perhaps we might stop now and ask a few questions before the old year closes: a) Have we followed the plan and program we mapped out at the beginning of the year, for Bible study and Church attendance? b) Was that encouraging word given to that struggling neighbor? c) Have our Church and Missionary obligations been met? d) Did you recommend Jesus to anyone during the year? These Christian tasks can still be fulfilled. May the Lord bless you in these closing days of 1940."

"Why not subscribe to our Church paper, The Mennonite, now? New subscribers $1.00, Renewals $1.50. If paid in before the New Year, you get as a premium, "The Mennonite Year Book," ordinary price 25c. The Mennonite is a live church paper, official publication of the General Conference, and it will bring you fresh and inspiring news from every phase of our Conference work. Will you hand in your subscription or renewal? We shall be glad to send them in."

—Freeman Junior College.—The one-month evening courses aroused a great deal of interest and were well attended inspite of some inclement weather.—Fifty-three men have served the school on the Board of Directors during its forty years history. The following stand out with long terms of service: D. J. Mendel of Freeman and F. C. Ortman of Marion at least 25 years; J. J. Mendel of Freeman 23 years; Rev. D. A. Schultz of Avon 22 years; John C. Mueller, 19 years; Jacob P. Tieszen and Ben C. Graber 15 years, Ben Waltner, 12 years.

Learning From God

By Amelia Mueller

The Heavens declare the glory of God
And the firmament showeth his handiwork.
Day unto day uttereth speech,
And night unto night showeth knowledge.

I like to go to school to God
I hear such strange revealing things.
He speaks to me where rivers run
And where a skylark soars and sings.

He tells me of His love and care
In every leaf and blade of grass,
Upon the hill where I may sit
And listen while the soft winds pass.

We may not be able to express it in the beautiful language of the psalmist or the poet, but we, too, have all felt at times when we were alone in some lovely spot out-of-doors, that God was very near to us. It was there, away from the hurry and flurry of our work, and the noisy gayness of our pleasures, that we were able to hear the voice of God speak to us.

Whether it be the soft beauty of some small flower, the strong grandeur of a lofty tree, the quiet stillness of a summer evening, or the hushed silence of a landscape covered with snow, there is something about the beauty of nature that calls out the finest and best that is in us.

Surrounded as we are today with fear, doubt, and confusion, we more than ever have need for these quiet contacts with God. We need not seek far to find the beauty of God's creation. And yet, how few of us take time to "go to school to God."

Correction: Due to oversight the name of the young man who wrote the article entitled "The Church of the Living God" was omitted in the issue of December 10th. The article was written by Andrew R. Shelly who is at present a student at Hartford Theological Seminary.

EASTERN DISTRICT NOTES

John E. Fretz, representative of the Eastern Dist. writes, "I will be pleased to contact Miss Meta Wiebe, (girl from Western Dist.) just as soon as I have definite word that she will be in Hackensack, N. J. Since I am writing about this, I would appreciate the names of students or any young folks here in the East (that is, from other districts). This is the way that I came to know Linda Brown (Mrs. John Warkentin now), Erland Waltner and Edmund Miller. We entertained the latter two at our home in Lansdale, and I believe that they enjoyed the chance to visit Mennonite groups while in the Biblical Seminary. I was alwayse sorry that so few of the Hartford boys came to Pa. during their stay at Hartford."

SURVEY OF 1940 RETREATS AVAILABLE

A brief summary of general information regarding the GENERAL CONFERENCE YOUNG PEOPLE'S RETREATS for 1940 has been made by the Y. P. Committee.

Ten retreats have been surveyed as to purpose, leadership, program of instruction, retreat grounds, organizational set-up, recreational program, together with suggestions for improvement.

A limited supply of this ten page mimeographed report is available to members of retreat committees, ministers, young people's workers interested in furthering a progressive Christ-centered retreat program for 1940.

Order immediately (enclosing 10c in stamps or coin to help cover cost of mimeographing and mailing) to The Young People's Committee, Division for Retreat Study, 1408 North Ninth St., Beatrice, Nebr.

Student Co-op Tour

By Esko Loewen

(Concluded From Last Week)

At the Shannondale community religious problems are much the same. Shannondale is located in the Ozark mountains about 160 miles southwest of St. Louis. This community is in the most sparsely settled country in Missouri. It lies way back in the hills, ten miles from a tiny village, Gladden. So-called hill-billies populate the country. They have their own dialect and addressed us as "you 'uns."

The hills in this country are covered with woods—there are oak, hickory, walnut, pine, etc. Only the valleys or "hollows" are tillable. Along the hollows are the small farms and homes of these natives. The houses are unpainted and usually run-down. The people here also live on a subsistence level. Their farms produce barely enough. Their stock—cattle, horses, pigs—are turned loose to range the country, to rummage their own food, because the tiny farms do not produce enough. During the winter the mountaineers cut timber, make baskets, chairs, and novelties for travelers to buy.

These folk seem to find a great release in pentacostal religious services. But the pentacostal preachers only travel through, and therefore the people's religious zeal is also itinerant. They become terrifically "religious" during revivals and adamant to religion at other times.

The Reformed Evangelical church has taken up this problem and has established the Shannondale community as a home mission project. At the head of Shannondale is Rev. Vincent W. Bucher, a former resident of Tiffin, Ohio, and graduate of Heidelberg college. Rev. Bucher is carrying out the Shannondale program on four fronts—economic, social, religious, educational. This is done in order to make religion real in the lives of the mountaineers at all times—not only on Sundays.

In order to stretch the mountaineer's dollar as far as possible and to introduce the cooperative spirit in the lives of the people, a cooperative store has been established. Here general merchandise, groceries, gas and oil, feed and seed is sold, and cream and eggs are bought. Also novelties and furniture made by the native folk is sold at this store to passing tourists.

A program of improving farming is also being carried out. High breed stock is being introduced through cooperative cattle, pig, and goat clubs. The children and young folks are given a calf, pig, or kid to raise. Later they pay for the animal by returning one of the offsprings or by paying cash. These animals are carefully selected and thus a better grade of stock is introduced into the community.

The community house, a beautiful structure built of native stone, is used for socials where the old and young of the community can get together. Regular Wednesday night parties for the young folk are held. There are numerous other occasions when the facilities of the community house are used in this way. The house is furnished with a stage where plays can be given and there is also a kitchen where meals can be served.

Every Sunday the community house is used for church services. During the week Rev. Bucher visits the school-houses within his parish district for the purpose of religious education. In the summer theology students and religious workers help in Bible schools at the school houses and at Shannondale.

Twice a year folk school is held in the community house. This school is designed to meet the problems of the people. Folks gather around to discuss and to learn about better farming methods or better ways of marketing or other problems which perplex them. In the community house there is a library of 200 volumes which is available for the natives. Rev. Bucher is always connected with the teachers within his parish district in order to counsel and instruct the people.

We were very much impressed by Shannondale and the Delta project. It was particularly impressive if one thought how the lives of these mountain folk and sharecroppers would be if such facilities and such leadership as this simply were not available. It also was very impressive to see a project where the whole life of the folk is geared into a religious program, so that raising pigs, buying blue denim overalls and hoeing cotton constitutes a part of the religious program. That seemed to put the economic life into its correct category. It also seemed to put the right emphasis on the religious life.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

HOW BIG IS MY WORLD?

Rom. 1:14; 1 Cor. 4:7; Gal. 3:28; John 10:16

Program for Jan. 12, 1941

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "This is my Father's world," "O Master, let me walk with Thee," "Rise up, O men of God."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Question box on Paul - "The World Traveler"
4. Offering for Mission Work

II. Leader's Introduction

John Wesley once said: "The world is my parish." Jesus Christ was asked by two men: "Where dwellest Thou?" He invited them to "Come and see." They saw his abode for the night that day, but it took them a long time of being with Jesus to find out where Jesus lived. There was nothing narrow about his life, his interests were as wide as the life of man, his sympathy as broad as human need. He was keenly aware of nature and her beauty; he took part in the social life about him, shared in the joys and sorrows of the folks he knew; he knew about the political life of his day, but his great concern was about the relation between man and God. The needs of the human soul were paramount in his world. To them he gave his time and thought and energy.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

A man of the world Gen. 12:1-9.
An extensive, godly empire Ps. 72:1-14.
A small-world man Luke 12:16-21.
Peter's world enlarged Acts 10:34, 35.
Apostles' world delineated Acts 13:1-5.
A widespread harvest field Luke 10:1, 2.

IV. For Discussion

1. Do we make our own world? If so, how?
2. What helps us to increase the size of our world?
3. Can we help others enlarge their world?

V. Facts for Study

Some people live in a world which is very narrow and small. They eat and drink and sleep and go to their daily routine work without taking a deep interest in their families or their work seemingly. Others become so absorbed in their work that there is little time and interest for anything else. This need not be so. For an open mind and heart there is opportunity everywhere to enlarge one's world. Especially in our day with radio, daily papers, fine magazines, good books, telephone and car, no one need live to himself.

Friendship laughs at the oceans, prayer knows no geography, sympathy has no boundaries, human thought travels duty free, love cannot be censored.

VI. Illustration: How big was his world?

Mrs. Harriet Monroe told once of a visit she made at the Indian School in Albuquerque, New Mexico. At the table she was trying to find from each teacher his share in the great work they were doing. Opposite her sat a bright-faced German, looking by far the wisest person at the table. As she came to him, she said, "And you, professor?" "Madam, I am the cook." She was embarrassed at the answer, as the man was so evidently a student, and did not look at all as she supposed the cook of an institution like that would look. After a moment he said, "Madam, since I was a little boy I have desired to be a missionary to the Indians. I received a good education, graduated at Berlin University, took a course in theology at a seminary in Germany, then came here, where I found that my imperfect English was an insurmountable barrier to religious work among the Indians. We had no cook. Some of our best teachers were ill nearly all the time, so I became the cook, and I do it all unto God, believing that every soul saved by these devoted workers whose health I have improved is part of my wrok. Do you approve?" "Do I approve?" exclaimed Mrs. Monroe. "Why every pot and kettle becomes a Christian monument in your hands."

VII. Food for Thought

Who shares his life's pure pleasures,
And walks the honest road,
Who trades with heaping measures,
And lifts his brother's load,
Who turns the wrong down bluntly
And lends the right a hand;
He dwells in God's own country
He tills the Holy Land.

CHURCHES AROUND THE WORLD

January 12, 1941

Worship Service:

Call to Worship—"Jesus laid down His life for the church, and so we should cherish this blessing. We cannot worship by ourselves indefinitely. It is imperative that we worship with others, because we are so made that we must share our joys and sorrows with others, so Jesus provided His church that we might share our worship with our fellow men.

Prayer by Leader

Scripture Reading—John 17:18-23.

Song, "The Whole Wide World for Jesus."

Talks

1. China (Ask your pastor for copies of "China Home Bond.")
2. Japan
3. India
4. Our Neighbors in the Mountains
5. Negroes

(Have the talks about the foreign countries given by someone who is in costume, if possible.)

Song, "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations"

Discussion of the life and work of prominent missionaries such as, James Hudson Taylor, David Livingstone and others whom your superintendent might suggest.

Vocal Solo, "O Zion, Haste."

Sentence Prayers (Let us ask God to help us to be more loyal to His church and to support its missionary activities. Let us thank Him for our own church and for wisdom to achieve more in the future.

Closing Prayer by Leader

Japan

"In the sixth century Japanese began to go to China to study Buddhism. This religion came from India and taught self control and unselfishness. To this the Japanese added the idea that those who believed in Buddha would have immortal life.

"Another leading religion in Japan is that of Christ. Thousands of her own young people are now teaching about Jesus in hospitals, schools and churches. May the time soon come when the religion of Jesus Christ shall hold sway over the land of the Rising Sun, teaching the valuable lessons of peace, humility and respect for human life."

India

"The people of India love their country just as we love ours, even though they have so many evils and so much poverty.

"They, like we, think that they have the best color of skin. They have a legend that when God made all men they were made out of clay and baked. The first that came out of the oven were white. Since that was not the color that God wanted, He let the others bake a little longer, then He took some more out. They were yellow and that was still not the right color, so the rest were left in still longer. When they were taken out they were brown, and God said, 'These are just right.' So the brown skin is the best.

"We who live in America can see many faults in India. Tonight let us not sit in the critic's seat, but rather in humility, realizing that if we had done our best in offerings, prayers and service, Christ would have been taken to all of the people by this time. We Christians have not shouldered the task which Christ left for us, and this is the greatest reason for the sad state in India."

Our Neighbors in the Mountains

"More than 90 per cent of the people are rural, even though the land is very poor and not in the least adapted to farming. The few small tracts which can be cultivated are worked by hand. Even if the crops were large, they could not be taken to market over the narrow mountain trails.

"The people still live in log cabins and cook their food over an open fireplace.

"For many years church schools have been teaching the young people of the mountains. Not only are there regular accredited high school courses, but there is practical training as well. The girls are taught the art of good housekeeping, while the boys are taught how to farm. Most important of all, they are taught about Jesus. Credit for Bible study is required for graduation."

Negroes

(Let this poem express the philosophy of the negro)

Trus' an' Smile

Honey, trus' der Lawd a bit, an' doan fohgit to smile!
Ain' no use a-frettin' an' a-mou'nin all de while—
S'pose de rain does peppah down, an' s'pose de skies am gray;
Shuah de Good Lawd ain' gwine let it always be dat way!
He's jest' sendin' trials for to put yuh to de tes';
Dat's His way ob tryin' out de ones He lubs de bes'.
Doan' yuh 'member Daniel in de fierce ol' lion's den?
He jes' smile an' trus' de Lawd, an' out he come again?
When de Hebrew chillun in de fiery furnace lit
Dey jes' smile an' trus' de Lowd, an' didn' burn a bit!
When you'ah jes plum scared to def an' doan know what to do,
Dat's de time de helpin' han' reach down an' guide yuh froo!

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

"SHIPS TO SAIL IN THE NEW YEAR"

Program for January 12, 1941

FELLOWSHIP

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude - "Sweet Hour of Prayer," M.H.B., 201.
2. Call to Worship - "Let the words of my mouth, and the meditations of my heart, be acceptable in they sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer."
3. Worship in Song - "Sweet Hour of Prayer"
4. Worship in Prayer - Leader's Opening Prayer
5. Worship in Scripture - Scripture verses on Prayer by various Juniors. (A suggestive list: Psalm 95:6; Isaiah 65:24; Matthew 7:7, 8; Matthew 26:41; Luke 11:1b; 1 Thess. 5:17; James 5:16.)

II. Study Period

1. Introduction: This month we are discussing some of the ships we as Juniors want to sail in 1941. Last Sunday we talked about Discipleship and how we can get on that ship. If we are real disciples of Jesus we must also sail the ship called Fellowship, for we can not learn of Jesus unless we talk to Him and let Him talk to us. This is what we call Prayer. We must also have fellowship with other disciples of Jesus, that is why we have churches and Sunday Schools, so that we can help each other to learn more about Jesus.
2. Special Music - "In the Garden" - by some Junior boys
3. Talk - "Jesus' Example of Fellowshipping with the Father" - by a Junior girl. (Relate occasions on which Jesus prayed and how long He sometimes prayed.)
4. Poem - "Prayer is the Soul's Sincere Desire" - Words of M.H.B. 197.
5. Talk - "Some of the Prayers of Jesus" - by a Junior boy
6. Song Prayer - "Just For Today" - M.H.B. 198
7. Talk - "Fellowshipping with God in Prison," Acts 16:23-34 - by a Junior boy
8. Talk - "Some Things that Help Us to Come into Closer Fellowship with God" - by a Junior girl. (This list could include beautiful music, poetry, nature, hymns, etc.)
9. Talk - "Some Things that Help Us to Come into Closer Fellowship with One Another" - by a Junior boy. (Include Sunday School, Church, Junior C. E., etc.)
10. Leader's Heart Talk in the form of a story.
11. Prayer

III. Mission Minutes

1. Today you will arrive in India and again the children will notice the customs of the people. Have various Juniors report on customs, manner of living, mode of travel, language, religion, etc.
2. Have a map of our mission stations in India and visit the missionaries at their respective stations. Go about with the missionary as he goes about his daily duties.
3. Decide to write letters to the missionaries in India.
4. Pray for the missionaries in India and the native helpers.
5. Bring the Missionary Offering.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat the verse of the month.
2. Learn the second verse of the song of the month.
3. Pray the Prayer of the Month, following it with the Chorus of "Oh, Come to my Heart, Lord Jesus."

DO YOU KNOW WHAT "THE SON QUESTION" IS?

There are two great questions confronting the world and all men. One is the Sin Question. The other is the Son Question. While our Sunday schools are studying Luke's Gospel of the Son of God, it is highly important that teachers and classes should face both questions and understand both.

The Sin Question was dealt with by God nineteen centuries ago, when Christ died for men's sins on the cross, and was raised again. Calvary was the climax of God's love, and also the climax of human sin.

But God has not yet dealt with the Son Question. Some men seem to suppose that God is indifferent to the crime of the murder of his Son! The question is still before God; still before the world. For the world in general is still a Christ-rejecting world, and God will not, cannot, ignore this.

How God is going to deal with the Son question has been answered in a remarkable Bible study by a well-known British Bible teacher, F. W. Pitt, for many years Editor of The Advent Witness, which has borne such a true testimony to the old faith and to the blessed hope of our Lord's return. Mr. Pitt's study is a valuable sidelight on the current Sunday school lessons. —S. S. Times

IN MEMORIAM

HENRY PETER KREHBIEL was born April 13, 1862, in Summerfield, Illinois, the third son of Rev. Christian and Susanna Ruth Krehbiel. At the age of 13 he was baptized in the Mennonite faith as a member of the Summerfield church. At the age of 16 he came to Kansas with his older brother John and broke prairies around Halstead. He attended the State Normal and State University and taught school some, but soon engaged in the hardware business in Halstead, Kans. On Nov. 21, 1887, he married Miss Tillie Kruse, to which union two children were born, Elva, now Mrs. E. E. Leisy of Dallas, Texas, and Ariel who died in infancy.

In 1892 Mr. Krehbiel felt the call to the ministry, and with his family went to Oberlin Seminary, Ohio, where he graduated in 1897, serving in the meantime churches at Wadsworth and Canton, O., he also edited a paper, became active in the Middle District Conference and helped establish Bluffton College. By 1900 he returned to Kansas to organize and manage the Western Book and Publishing Company which published the "Volksblatt" and later "der Herold." Later his brother C. E. joined him in this enterprise, and in 1920 he founded the Herald Publishing Company which he served as president until 1935.

In 1906 he organized the Burrton Mennonite church and served as its pastor for thirty years. He held many posts of responsibility in the Mennonite church to which he gave his untiring devotion. He was secretary of the Middle District Conference and of the Home Mission Board of the General Conference; chairman of the Peace committee, a member of the Bethel College Board of directors, of the Mennonite Historical committee, and established the Mennonite Settlers Aid society. He completed volumes I and II of a History of the Mennonite General Conference.

The subject of peace was dear to his heart. In 1937 he published "War, Peace, Amity," a book in which he stressed his belief that the world would attain peace only through Christian love. His research for a study of the denominations historically espousing peace took him and his wife in 1927 on a journey around the world. He was instrumental in bringing about an organization of the historic peace churches, and at his death was a member of the Western District Peace committee.

Rev. Krehbiel delighted in helping others. He was a member of the Leisy Orphan and Children's Aid society and of the Mennonite Charite. He secured aid for Mennonite refugees in Harbin, China, and in Mexico. During the World War he worked unceasingly for liberty of conscience, making numerous trips to Washnigton, D. C. and to boys interned in camps. He helped organize missions in Chicago, in Los Angeles and in Hutchinson, Kansas. He had a wide vision and an unwavering Christian faith.

Five years after the death of his wife in 1931, Rev. Krehbiel on Nov. 26, 1936, married Miss Katie A. Friesen, who survives. He passed away on Dec. 2, 1940, having attained the age of 78 years, 7 months, and 19 days. Funeral services were conducted Thursday afternoon, Dec. 5, at the First Mennonite Church, with the Revs. J. N. Smucker, J. E. Entz, A. J. Dyck and J. J. Regier in charge.

REINHOLD W. SCHWARTZ was born December 31, 1862 near Marienburg, West Prussia, Germany. As an infant he was baptized, confirmed at the age of 14, and was a member of the Luthern Church. He left Bremen, Germany, March 18, 1886, for the United States of America. On November 22, 1914, he was baptized upon the confession of his faith by Elder Heinrich Banman and united with the Alexanderwohl Mennonite Church. On November 26, 1914, he married Helena Warkentin. This union was blessed with one son and one daughter. Since about the 15th of October of this year he became seriously sick and on November 15 had to be transferred to the Bethesda Hospital for care. After 5 weeks of intense suffering the Lord called him home to his rest. He reached the age of 77 years, 11 months and 19 days. In the last days of his suffering he remarked that he depended upon the Lord's grace and longed to be with the Savior. In Ohio there are three children of his sister with their families and in Newton, Kansas, he has a cousin Anton Kuhl, who called on him often during his sickness. These with his family, Mrs. Helena Schwartz, son Willard and daughter Frieda, mourn his passing. At the funeral Rev. C. C. Wedel spoke on Isaiah 26:19 and Rev. P. H. Unruh on Hebr. 2:14.

MRS. MINNIE HUBIN EWY, daughter of Henry Hubin and Margaret Rupp Hubin, was born near Lemberg in Austria on October 2, 1878. At the age of about two years she came with her parents to this country. The family first settled in the State of Minnesota where they lived for a number of years, and then moved to Hodgeman County in Kansas. In youth she accepted Jesus Christ as her Savior, received the holy rite of baptism June 11, 1893, and became a member of the Einsiedel Mennonite Church in Hodgeman County, Kansas. She united with the First Mennonite Church of Christian, Moundridge, Kansas, April 8, 1898, and remained a faithful member here till her departure. Christianity was a serious matter with her. Her Bible and her church were dear to her and she exerted herself to attend church services even when failing health made it difficult for her to do so. She was united in marriage to Jacob J. Ewy, April 17, 1898, and they made their home between Halstead and Moundridge, Kansas, until a few years ago, when they retired from the farm and became residents of the town of Moundridge. Two daughters and five sons came into their home. All of them have established their own homes and live in this vicinity. For over two years the deceased had been failing in health and for the last few months she was severely sick a number of times. Quite often she expressed her desire to depart and be with the Lord. Early in the morning of November 26, 1940 she became very sick and soon her soul took its flight. Her age was 62 years, one month and 24 days.

Those mourning her departure are her husband, two daughters and their husbands, five sons, and their wives, 13 grand children, three brothers, two sisters, her step-mother, one half sister and three half brothers, also many other relatives and a large circle of friends. Rev. G. A. Linscheid officiated at the funeral services and spoke on Luke 2:29-31.

HENRY K. PENNER, the son of Rev. J. K. and Helene Penner nee Jantzen, was born in Koepental, Russia, September 15, 1876. When he was four years old his parents moved to Central Asia, and in 1884 the family settled near Beatrice, Nebraska, where he finished his schooling mostly under his father. Due to the influence of his Christian home and the pleading of the Holy Spirit, he desired to unite more closely with the Savior, and through baptism he became a member of the Beatrice church in 1894. He chose farming for his life work, in which occupation he received instruction among neighbors, the John Andreas family and later from his uncle Aaron Claassen. Then the family bought a farm which he and his older sister tended until 1911, when the two moved on a farm of their own north of town, where they lived until 1935. In this year his sister died and Henry moved to a farm south of town. Here his health began to fail rapidly until he was obligated to move to the city. On November 4 he was taken to the hospital, where he was under the loving care of the Sisters, until His Lord called him home Friday evening, Nov. 29, '40. He leaves to mourn his departure three brothers, five sisters and many relatives and friends. "The blood of Jesus Christ . . . cleanses us from all sin." I John 1:7b. "Eyes have not seen, nor ears heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God has prepared for them that love him." I Cor. 2:9.

ELIZABETH CHRISTINA SCHMUTZ, daughter of Christian and Maria Schmutz, was born Jan. 17, near Halstead, Kansas. On December 1, 1895, she was baptized by Rev. S. S. Baumgartner and became a member of the Garden Township church.—In 1902 the family came to Bethel College, where for six years they operated the Boarding hall. There Elizabeth assumed her share of the work and attended school in alternate years, changing off with her sister.—On December 26, 1907, she was married to Dr. W. E. Regier and the couple made their home in Elbing, associating themselves with the Zion Menn. Church. On September 1, 1913, they established their residence in Whitewater, Kans., where they have since been located, and in due time transferred their church membership to the nearby Emmaus church, where she was active in several phases of church work. And at her departure she was Sec.-Treas. of the Women's Mission Society of the Western District Conference.

In the spring of 1919 the Home Mission Board of the General Conference brought a group of five orphans from Pennsylvania. Of these they took two into their home, became their loving parents and had in them a source of much joy and comfort.

On Tuesday, November 12, Mrs. Regier became ill with what seemed to be one of a more or less frequent attacks of Migraine headaches, and when this did not yield to the usual treatments, she was taken to Bethel Hospital where, in spite of everything that could be done for her, she quietly passed away two days later to her heavenly home. There her sun rose for her, never to set again.—She leaves to mourn her deeply bereaved husband, W. E. Regier, M. D.; the two adopted daughters, Elizabeth and Hester, Mrs. Edward L. Claassen, and husband; one sister, Miss Clara Schmutz; one brother, Prof. Albert Schmutz and family, besides many other relatives and friends.

At the funeral, words of comfort were spoken in the home by Rev. H. J. Dyck of Elbing, and in the church by her pastor, J. C. Kaufman and Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, an intimate friend of the family.

"We have lost our dear, good mother,
She no more on earth shall roam,
And there'll never be another,
Who can take her place at home.

Some day we shall go to meet her,
Where there'll be no more good byes,
We can think of nothing sweeter
Than our meeting in the skies.

MRS. ANNA FRIESEN FUNK was born March 4, 1856, at Klefeld, Russia. At the early age of nine years she lost her mother by death. On July 1, 1873, her family immigrated to America where her father became engaged in farming near Marion, Kansas. Upon confession of faith in Jesus Christ, her Redeemer, she was baptized in June 1876 by Rev. William Ewert, in the Bruderthal Church near Hillsboro, Kansas. On August 27, 1876 she was united in marriage to Mr. Peter Funk of Marion, Kansas. This union was blessed with 9 sons and 5 daughters. In the month of October 1902 the family moved to the state of Oklahoma where they settled on a homestead procured from the government. In October 16, 1909, the family, together with a group of friends, moved to the state of Idaho. Here they resided on a farm north of Aberdeen. In the month of March, 1922, her husband, after an illness of 4 days, passed away.

The latter portion of her life she spent at her home in Aberdeen. Her last happy days were spent by taking an active interest in the noble work of the Ladies' Mission Society, the work of the Sunday School and church. About two months ago she had the misfortune of losing her eyesight, and on Sunday morning, Nov. 3d 1940, she suffered a heart attack, which in the course of a few days proved fatal, and on Nov. 8, 1940, she passed to her blessed reward, having attained the ripe old age of 84 years, 8 months and 4 days.

She leaves to mourn her departure 7 sons, 3 daughters, 24 grandchildren, 4 great grandchildren, and a host of other relatives and friends. Funeral services were held Nov. 10th, 1940, at the First Mennonite Church in Aberdeen. All the living children were present. Six of the sons of the departed mother were pall bearers. The funeral was in charge of her pastor, Rev. Phil. A. Wedel, assisted by a men's quartet.

—From the Bulletin of First Church, Reedley, Calif., Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, pastor: "Dr. T. Z. Koo of China, the secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation, wrote recently: 'There must be no Bible blackout anywhere.' These are brave words from a man whose country has been at war for several years. And what a war that is! It has never been declared. It has been helped along in its inhuman course by the people of so-called Christian nations who have furnished the agressors with all kinds of war material. In spite of this the Chinese people arise at this Christmas season and tell us American Christians that there must be no Bible blackout! They might have said: "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." These people call for the Bible because they have used it and discovered its true value. They waste not a word telling that the Bible is still the best seller or that it has been translated into so and so many languages. That would sound like cheap propaganda to them now."

OUR CHILDREN'S MISSION

Grace Children's Home at Henderson, Nebr., sends Christmas Greetings to its many friends. Of the 28 children received in the HOME, during its brief history, half of this number are with their foster parents while the other half enjoyed the Christmas season in the HOME. The last child received a week ago, is a prize little baby boy. —Thanking you for your prayers and support, we wish all our donors and friends a VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS. Yours for the Child in Need, Grace Children's Home

—The "Church Messenger" of the Eden Mennonite Church, Rev. Freeman Swartz, editor, has the following important item: "We still believe that Sunday School and Morning service is not too heavy a diet for the modern child—who emotionally is exposed to shocks and strains far beyond anything that parent or grandparent had. Co-operate, bring your child and have the family stay for the meeting. Habits formed in youth are most persistent. Do not rob your child of the safe-guards that were yours. No parent would allow a child to go into the every day school world without inoculations. Can we, dare we do less for our children in warding off dangers lurking in social world through lack of spiritual inoculations?"

—The Choir of the Lorraine Avenue Church, Wichita, under the direction of Floyd Craft, presented the Cantata, "When Jesus Was Born," at the church Sunday evening, December 15, at eight o'clock. The text of the Cantata was written by Von Berge and the music by E. S. Lorenz. After introductory numbers the story of the cantata goes back to prophecy. We hear the wail of the phophets and the prophecy of the Prince of Peace. Then the shepherds' story is portrayed with Angel choirs proclaiming the glad tidings. The story continues with a lullaby and Luther's Cradle Hymn; then Simeon's prayer of praise. The final chorus reminds us that "What so oft has been foretold, again with all heaven and earth we sing." The soloists: Soprano, Mrs. Gus Pankratz, Mrs. Waldo Rempel; Alto, The Misses Vella Schroeder and Selma Vogt; Tenor, Gus Pankratz; Pianist, Mrs. E. D. Schmidt; Narrator, Anton Richert.

—Second Church, Philadelphia.—"The Special Evangelistic Services held Nov. 10-17 under the direction of Rev. Willard Claassen were a spiritual encouragement to our church. Although the weather was unfavorable, the attendance was amazingly steady. Many people spoke words of high appreciation for Bro. Claassen's instructive and inspiring messages."—It is reliably reported that Rev. Claassen, now pastor of the Menn. Church at Roaring Spring, Pa., has accepted a call to the St. John Church, near Pandora, Ohio, temporarily being served by Missionary P. J. Boehr.

—GOOD NEWS! The parents of Harold Ratzlaffs received the following cablegram from Bombay, India, on Dec. 17: "Arrival, well.—Ratzlaff." This means, of course, that the P. W. Penners are included.

—Missionary P. A. Penner, Supt. of the Lepers' Hospital at Champa, India, has notified our Publication Office not to send him The Mennonite any more until they are again settled, for he and Mrs. Penner are coming home to the United States, either for their last furlough or permanently. It is doubtful if any of our missionaries have worked harder and more consistently than has this worthy couple.

—It is reliably reported that Rev. P. E. Whitmer, pastor of the Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio, and Rev. P. A. Kliewer in charge of the Ebenezer Church near Bluffton, Ohio, are planning to relinquish their work, but we are not aware of the reasons.

—Bluffton College.—The Men's Gospel Team is regularly conducting services in the community church at Russel's Point. Various members take turns in rendering this much appreciated service.—The rededication of the renovated chapel will be held on Sunday afternoon, January 19. The work will be completed soon after the New Year.—A number of one-act Christmas plays were presented by various organizations before the students left for vacation.—The Messiah presented in the high school auditorium on Sunday evening, Dec. 15, was attended by more than a capacity crowd. Prof. Lantz conducted and Prof. Hauenstein directed the orchestra.

—Grace Menn. Church at Dallas, Oregon.—The Ladies' Aid Society held their yearly sale on the evening of Dec. 6. Proceeds amounted to $255.65. A large amount of this will go to help pay on the church. We have much to be thankful for in these times when the whole world is in turmoil. —Corr.

—Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa., Rev. Olin A. Krehbiel, pastor, had a series of meetings on "Prophetic Bible Study," Dec. 3-6, Rev. Merril T. McPherson of the "Church of the Open Door" in Philadelphia was the speaker.—For the Christmas program it was to be a "church at home night" and all members of the congregation and their families were expected to be out.

—Workers' Exchange, Y. P. paper of the Pacific District, Emma Ruth editor, says: "We are sorry to report that Mrs. Edmund Miller, wife of the pastor of the Menno Church, Lind, Washington, who mimeographs and decorates the paper, "has had to journey to her home state, New York, for a long postponed operation." But the spirit with which she said, "send the copy to me there and I will get it out," is an inspiration.—Our prayers will be appreciated.

—Second Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebraska.—On Sunday December 15, this church joined with the Brethren church near Holmesville, Nebr., in a noon-day meal at the latter place. After the luncheon Mr. Paul H. Bowman, Jr., of Virginia, reported on the European Relief work in Spain, as conducted by our three Historic Peace Churches. Mr. Bowman spent two years in this service and gave a very interesting and instructive report. He told us how some 250,000 children have been cared for in an effective and impartial manner.—Although there has been an exchange of pulpits in the past, this is the first time that the two churches have come together for a meal and many expressed the desire for a closer relationship between the two churches.

—W. C. Andreas, Corr.

—Bible Sunday.—A good many of our churches have observed "Universal Bible Sunday" on Sunday, Dec. 8, with suitable programs. The History of the Bible, The Value of the Bible, were some of the themes. It is to be hoped that soon all of our churches will observe this day. In 1941 the day will fall on Sunday, Dec. 14.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., observed Family Day, Sunday, Dec. 15, in their series of Jubilee celebrations. Families were to sit in groups, which is the way most pleasing to God in Church service, and the largest family was to be given special recognition.—At four in the afternoon the Vesper Service was a Family Hymn Sing Service.

—The Grace Mennonite Church, at Albany, Ore., has been carrying on an Invitation campaign. Rev. Franz printed several hundred sheets telling what is being carried on at the church services and giving the sermon topics for October and November. These were distributed in the neighborhood.

—Workers Exchange

—There lies before us the December number of THE HERALD edited by Rev. Lester Hostetler of the First Church, Upland, Calif. The paper is full of interesting, thought-provoking items and short articles, one or two of which we would want to reprint if we were not crowded for space—Special meetings are to be held in this church, April 20 to 27, with Dr. D. W. Kurtz, pastor of the church of the Brethren at La Ferne, as speaker. Many of us remember Dr. Kurtz, formerly of McPherson College, as a very versatile and inspiring speaker.

—Bethel College.—Probably never before did the College campus and the Newton people enjoy a more uplifting and inspirational musical treat than they did on Sunday evening of December 15, when The Messiah was rendered by the Newton Community Chorus of about 120 voices, accompanied by a string ensemble, organ and piano, under the direction of Prof. W. H. Hohmann. It gave the audience a taste of the still more wonderful chorus singing before Him who has won heaven for us.

—Western District Tidings.—The January number of this paper, a six page issue, is out, and is full of interesting and worthwhile contributions. Some of them are: Swift Current Project is Finished, Teaming with Christ, Jesus Put new Meaning into the Phrase, "We the People," by Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, My Work Camp Experience by Erwin Krehbiel, Ernst Harder, with a good cut of the young man, Announcement of a PEACE RALLY, to be held at the Hoffnungsau Church, on the evening of January 19, is made.
